German Foreign Office Denies the Rumored Return of Trouble.

Berlin, Nov. 17. - The foreign office authorizes the Associated Press to say that there is absolutely no truth in yesterday's rumor that Emperor William's throat trouble had returned. Persons who were present at Chancellor Von Buelow's dinner Saturday night say the Emperor took a most animated part in the conversation. Nobody noticed a trace of hoarseness of any other indication that his voice was affected. Furthermore, the foreign office assures the Associated Press that if the trouble recurs the news will immediately be given to the public officially.

IN POLITICAL CIRCLES

Argued on Monday.

Toronto, Nov. 17.-The appeal of Hon.

E. J. Davis against the judgment of Mr. Justice Teetzel declaring void his election in North York, will be heard before the court of appeals on Monday. The Minister of Crown Lands was unseated upon a technicality, it having been shown that W. J. Robinson, who had previously been reported by an election court for an illegal act, had been engaged in Mr. Davis' interests as a scrutineer.

Before the court of appeals this morning Mr. James Baird, for the petitioners, appeared, and asked that the proceedings be expedited. Mr. R. A. Grant appeared for Hon. Mr. Davis. New York Department Stores Lost Half a Million Last Year.

New York, Nov. 17. - Losses of half a million dolars through shoplifting have been suffered during the past year by 21 department stores in this city, whose proprietors, because of such losses, have formed an alliance to fight petty pilfering. The fact that such an illiance had been formed came out today when a woman was given a fifteen day sentence in the court of genera sessions, after having pleaded guilty to a charge of stealing goods valued at $50 54 from a department store. Hitherto the storekeepers have been willing to let offenders off, and the court as a tence was imposed today the attorney who had prosecuted the case said that his law firm had been retained by an alliance of 21 department stores

Is it going to be maintained under existing charge Against Editor of the circumstances? Some thoughtful observers contend that it is not, and suggest that means should be adopted to avert a state of things, which they claim to foresee, and which they argue will prove a serious detriment to the progress and prosperity of the great Northwest.

GOOSE WHEAT.

World's Fair in St. Louis is an exhibit of macaroni or goose wheat made by a North Dakota milling company. At this exhibit an effort is being made to demonstrate the superiority of this wheat, both for milling purposes and for the advantage of the farmer, in view of the rust conditions developing in the Dakotas, Minnesota and Manitoba. On examination the samples shown proved to be an old variety of more or less in the Province of Ontario for the last 50 years. It is claimed to be rust-proof a heavier violate of the last 50 years. be rust-proof, a heavier yielder than the Scotch Fife or Manitoba No. 1 hard, and more suitable for baking purposes. In order to demonstrate the latter claim, a bakery is attached to the exhibit, where various kinds of cakes are being baked from flour made from the wheat exhibited, and distributed among the crowds to sample. It is the introduction of a variety of wheat of this kind and others that of the Canadian Northwest growers and millers are fearing. While they do not question this goose wheat's freedom from rust, they hold that it will not fill the requirements of the baking trade, as it will not produce as strong a flour as the hard wheat now grown in Manitoba and the Canadian Northwest. Nor do they think that the rust scare is of so serious a nature as to warrant even the consideration of a change from the varie- that he had only been served with the ties or the one variety that has done summons at 8:50 o'clock in the mornfor the Dakotas. Minnesota and Western Canada.

HARD WHEAT THE STANDARD. An inquiry being made by the writer of the chief bakers in the city of St. Louis, it was found that they depended almost entirely on the mills of Minnepolis for their supply of flour, and that the grade used was that made from the hard wheat grown in Minnesota and the Dakotas. Asked what they thought about the introduction of the goose or so-called macaroni varieties, a substitute for the Scotch Fife, they every one deprecated the idea. Another argument made use of in favor of this goose or macaroni wheat is that the corn belt is crowding up into the State of Minnesota, thereby limiting the area and lessening the quantity of hard wheat grown in that owed it to himself and to the interest state. The area being thus limited, of justice to ascertain who had given the superior yielding qualities claimed the information to the press. The yet unused waters of the Lake of the Woods, and those of the rivers and streams that are soon to be brought within the track of civilization by the new railway enterprises now going on, or projected, will easily settle that matter. The important point is to produce the right raw material to supply these mills, and give their output a supremacy in the flour markets of the world. This can best be accomplished by safeguarding the high quality of the raw material now, and that by taking steps to head off or counteract the efforts of the hybrid fiend, or the experimentalist with a fad, who would undo what the management of the Canadian Pacific Railway has done in the past for the Canadian West.

Furthermore, the export trade in flour, already so large an item in the exports of Canada, will not only have to be maintained, but increased, and if the hard wheat areas in Minnesota and the Dakotas become limited by the moving up of the corn belt, and the hard wheat bulk lessened by the introduction of hybrid varieties, the United States bakers will have to look to the great milling centers of Canada, as they now look to Minneapolis, for Canadian Northwester said to the writer in St. Louis the other day, and all indications point to the belief that Canada will be supreme in the flour milling interests of the continent before the first quarter of the present century is passed, and if that prediction has any reasonable prospect of fulfillment some means should be adopted by the establishment of a number of seed farms or something of that standard of the product upon which the fulfillment must depend, and in like manner must depend the prosperity and the future of Western Canada. CANADIAN WHEAT WILL LEAD the supreme importance of this question is not a thing that affects the ommercial interests of Canada alone. At the Toronto fire, among the many noble warehouses burned, was that of Wyld & Darling. This firm had an enviable reputation in the wholesale drygoods world. It enjoyed the character of carrying the best class of goods that money could buy. Before the great fire they had purchased in the foreign and home markets great quantities of goods for fall delivery, but since the fire they have decided to discontinue business-consequently all the beautiful goods they bought will have to be disposed of at a great sacrifice. Our buyer heard of what was likely to happen, went to Toronto, and very fortunately got in early. The prices quoted were simply irresistible. So much for having a friend inside to give a friend outside a pointer. He bought quantities of Dress Goods, Linens, Ladies' and Children's Knit Underwear, Hosiery, Flannelettes, and many other lines of excellent merchandise needed in every home.

Nationalists Force a Way Into Conference.

POLICE ROUTED BY CROWD

Exclusion Order by the Senate of Institution Provokes Wild Disorder.

Dublin, Nov. 17.—The strained relations which have existed for some time between the senate of the Royal University of Ireland and the graduates and undergraduates culminated on Friday in an extraordinary riot in the university building and in the streets of the metropolis.

The graduates and undergraduates of the Royal University are mainly Nationalists; the senate is almost entirely unionist. At the annual conference of delegates last year an exciting scene occurred, owing to the exaction of the senate in drafting a large force of policemen into the hall, who, when the students, as was their custom, chorused "God Save Ireland" at the conclusion of the proceedings, fell upon the students and assaulted was anticipated that, owing to the indignation then aroused, the senate would not again bring policemen into the university building and would not again exclude the nationalist graduates and undergraduates, but action of the graduates a few days before the conferring of degrees in scouting a proposal to invite the British viceroy to be present at their conversazione apparently so incensed the senate that it lost its prudence. It issued orders to exclude the nationalist graduates and undergraduates from the building, and the latter replied by publishing a statement of the causes which induced the senate to thus insult them and emphatically declared that the senate had no legal or moral justification for its action.

The senate persisted in its exclusion order, and the Government placed the services of 70 picked policemen at its disposal. The victors celebrated their triumph by marching to the Catholic University, from the steps of which Mr. Kettie, M.A., and other graduates addressed the students and the people who had gathered in strong denunciation of the action of the senate. At the conclusion of the speeches, the students, accompanied by a great crowd of sympathizers, marched across the city into Dowe street, where they dispersed after giving three cheers for old Ireland. The Samhain festival opened Dublin on Friday. "Samhain" was the great winter festival in pagan Ireland. In recent years it has come to be celebrated in Dublin by concerts, plays and social gatherings. This year a number of players dealing with Irish subjects were produced and enthusiastically received by large audiences during the festival nights. Two of the plays were from the pen of Seumas MacManus, the well-known Irish writer, and one of them, "The Hard-Hearted Man," was intended to discountenance emigration to the United States.

It was received with extraordinary demonstrations of approval, and the Anti-Emigration Society has applied leave to have it enacted throughout the country. Another of the plays, "An International Exhibition," was a savage satire the pro-English party in Ireland and the Irish preachers of loyalty to England. It roused the audience to a frenzy of delight. Among the prize winners at the Samhain is Miss L. De

Under ordinary other Middle Western States have been circumstances these appeals to the received here, indicating that an organized and vigorous effort will be President and the Republican leaders to consider the advisability of holding spring, with a view to devising some form of reciprocity with Canada. This, If he concludes that it is the duty of at least, is the avowed purpose of the agitation that will be begun, though strong protectionists believe that tariff revisionists are behind the move-

All through the Middle West, and particularly along the northern border, the markets of Canada are proving a strong attraction. An Indiana concern, manufacturing threshing machines, has arrangeed to build a $1,000,-000 plant in Canada because it is unable to deliver its American made machines in that market. The managers of that concern are among the leaders of the new reciprocity propaganda, and have sent agents to stir up the sentiment in Iowa, Illinois, Minnesota and Michigan, besides getting into communication with the reciprocity advocates in Massachusetts. However strong the leaders of the Republican party in Congress, they realize that they must way. Their hope at present is to stem the current, knowing they cannot stop If they can postpone revision they will be satisfied. Some of them apprehend that President Roosevelt take it into his head to decide that the time has come for a revision of the tariff, and they know that if he does so decide, the "stand patters" will have to give way.

Such papers as the Indianapolis News, Chicago Tribune and Washington Post have already come out for early tariff revision, going to the extent of declaring that the good faith Congress campaign has naturally made of the Republican party is pledged to Mr. Babcock a very important factor a revision of the tariff. They argue that now is the time to consider a modification of tariff schedules, as the presidential election is over, the next campaign is as far off as any campaign will ever be, and the danger of disturbances as slight as can ever be expected. Out in Indiana the tariff revisionists are quoting an alleged message from the President to one of their number, in which he is reported as saying. "Tell them out there that I am with them." They quote his message of two years ago, in which he made as strong a plea for tariff revision as any Iowa idea advocate has

There is excellent reason for believing that he is opposed to Congress face a strong current setting the other attempting any tariff tinkering at the short session, which will be begun December and end in March. Whatever decision he will reach ultimately will depend upon the views of the Republican leaders of the Senate and House, with whom he will consult freely on the subject between now and the beginning of the new year. Newfoundlanders had to do their fishing where the cod was less plentiful, and so matters continued until France, in order to develop and encourage a class of men well fitted for her navy, put a bounty on cod, hoping thus to draw her sons into the fishing business. Spurting under this stimulus, the French cod trade expanded over Southern Europe, and gradually shut this market to the Newfoundlanders. The Ancient Colony protested to London and to Paris, but in vain. Then in 1886 came the retaliation in the shape of legislation forbidding the sale of bait to the French fishing fleet. The Imperial Government disallowed this measure, but sanctioned it in the preceding year. The French fishers were inconvenienced, but by no means baffled. They still sters were fish, whereas the colony maintained that they were insects, and promptly disputed the right of the exasperated Newfoundlanders to catch and can them. A French warship was sent to maintain the fish doctrine and to destroy the buildings along the coast where the natives were carrying on their canning industry. This was a most critical moment, but there was on the scene a British admiral, Sir Baldwin Walker, who had he been a different kind of man, might easily have driven off the French man-of-war, and forced the two countries into war. Fortunately for the cause of peace, he decided that the French were right, and assisted them in tearing down the factories. Later on, in a court of law, he was forced to admit that he had acted extra-legally, and was mulcted $5,000 by the owner of one factory, but his mistake is now regarded as an extremely fortunate one. After this incident the French erected factories of their own, which the colonials tore down when opportunity offered,. and so the sore was kept open on land and sea. Then, in 1898, Mr. Chamberlain took up the matter and had a royal commission appointed to investigate, with the result that the justice of Newfoundland's claims was acknowledged. By this time, however, a modus vivendi had been reached, and under this more or less unsatisfactory arrangement the colony has struggled | the ever since. By the new treaty France relinquishes every claim in consideration of West African concessions. She retains, however, the islands of St. Pierre and Miquelon, very nests of smugglers, but it is to be hoped that soon an opportunity may arise for these to revert to their original owner. At present they can only exist as a painful memory of the vast dominions France once held in the new world.

A TERRIFIC FIGHT

Fierce Battle With Robber.

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 17.-The body of Walter Suber, a Philadelphia and Reading watchman at the Doylestown yards, was found lying across two overturned seats in an empty passenger coach at that place. There was one bullet wound in his temple and another in his right hand. Above the head in the woodwork of a car a third bullet was found embedded. There must have been a terrific struggle before Suber was killed. Every seat in the car was overturned, windows were broken and blood was spattered about thickly. A pistol was picked up some yards from where the watchman's body lay.

Robbery was evidently the motive. A

The St. James' Gazette, referring to Lord Milner congratulating the Transvaal on the rapid strides made towards an adequate railway system, says of Col. Girouard: "That admirable expert is not to be blamed for the comparative failure up to present; running an ordinary line in peace time did not fall into his particular province, and his successor, doubtless a more practical, though a more prosaic business man, will work effectually upon the foundation al-ready laid to bring the railway to a pitch of perfection necessary to the proper opening up of the country.'

TRAIN ROBBERS CAUGHT

Men Who Held Up Rock Island Passenger Train Run to Earth.

Las Vegas, N. M., Nov. 17. - Special Officer W. O. McIntosh, of the Rock Island Railroad, and two deputy United States marshals from the Indian Territory, have arrived here with John and James Black, twin brothers, and John Murphy, who are charged with having committed the train robbery at Fort Logan, N. M., last July. In the latter part of July four men stopped the Rock Island passenger train and blew up the express car and the safes. The railroad officials say the robbers obtained little booty. The fourth man was supposed to be Thomas Boswell, who ten days ago was shot and killed while leading a break from the United States prison at Fort Leavenworth, where he was serving a sen tence for stealing.

THANKSGIVING AT LOCAL THEATERS

Large Audience at the London Vaudeville - An Excellent Attraction at the Grand.

"Standing Room Only" was the sign nung out at the London Vaudeville Theater shortly after 8 o'clock last night, and from that time on the management was compelled to turn away probably 200 persons. amply illustrated the hold vaudeville is taking upon the theatergoers of London, for it comprised representatives of all classes, and included many prominent Londoners, accompanied by their wives and daughters.

This week's bill is one which makes friends for the house, too, and all were greatly pleased with the performance. The bill will be repeated again tonight and Saturday night, and there will be a matinee at 2:30 Saturday af-

For the accommodation of the public the management is having a telephone placed in the box office. The number Somewhat of a surprise to local theatergoers was Isaac Henderson's "The Mummy and the Humming Bird," which was produced at the Grand Thanksgiving afternoon and evening. Despite its musical comedy name, it is a comedy of the legitimate type, more than cleverly written, and certainly more than ordinarily well In the story of "The Mummy and the Humming Bird," there is nothing new. In fact the theme is a hackneyed one and has been worked overtime for years, but Mr. Henderson manages to present it in an intensely interesting form, and though in one or two instances he falls into improbabilities in order to work out his plot, in the main he is natural and true to life. In the story, Lord Lumley is a nobleminded man, wrapped up in scientific research. He weds a young woman because he is tired of being a bachelor. but in his scientific experiments he neglects his wife, and she naturally ents this. Then a smooth Italian author, Signor D'Orelli, comes on the scene, and the wife, hungering for comebody's love, almost forgets herself, and goes far enough to hold clandestine meetings with the author. At this juncture Lumley has his eyes opened, and takes a hand in the game in time to save his wife's name. But he does not knock down the would-be spoiler of his home—he does not even all him names. Instead he sets on the interesting, and when portrayed by such a clever company as that wine held the boards yesterday, the effect is doubly pleasing. The role of Lord Lumley was taken by Mr. W. A. Whitecar, an actor of strength, who was seen here last as "Paul Tanqueray," supporting Sadie Martinot, in 'The Second Mrs. Tanqueray." He is the type of man capable of impressing an audience with his power to deal with any man who traduces his wife's honor, and be polished and refined. He is particularly good in moments of well-bred sarcasm, but his dramatic
