WIRES CUT

And 21 Miles of Railway Torn up

BETWEEN LORD ROBERTS AND HIS BASE OF SUPPLIES—NO ALARM FELT IN BRITAIN ABOUT THE SITUATION, HOWEVER.

London, Monday, June 11, 3.30 a. m.—The Boers have torn up 21 miles of Lord Roberts' vital line of railway between America, Siding and Roodeval. It is a bold raid and vexatious, but it does not disquiet the military authorities as yet, for they expect Gen. Kelly-Kenny to drive off the marauders and to reopen the line. The rapidity of the advance of Lord Roberts cannot have permitted him to accumulate very large reserves of stores. Therefore an interruption of the railway, even for a week, must embarrass the army, and may bring the forward operations to a standstill. Nothing has been heard from Lord Roberts for three days owing to his communications being cut at Roodeval Station. This raid on the railway, the strenuous opposition to Gen. Rundle and the mobile escape of Commandant-General Botha's division, forced the war office observers to the reluctant conclusion that the war is not yet over, although even the occasional civilian Boer sympathizer cannot see how the Boers will be able to do anything to change the result.

Gen. Rundle and Gen. Brabant's divisions are still at Hammonton, in the Ficksburg district. The latest intelligence from their headquarters is that the Boers are determined to fight to the bitter end. They are concentrating 4,000 men around Bethlehem. The country between them and Gen. Rundle is mountainous and resembles Northern Natal in being extremely difficult for military operations. Gen. Rundle's present care is to prevent the Boers getting past him southward. Maj. Wood, of Rundle's staff, rode to a Boer outpost on June 8 and announced that Pretoria had been occupied by the British. How the Boers received this news is not recorded. A Boer force of 600 men have surrendered to Gen. Rundle.

Gen. Hunter's advance has occupied Venterdorp, one hundred miles southwest of Pretoria. This took place on June 7. Gen. Plumer's column is on the Elands river, northwest of Pretoria. The British are sending detachments right and left to accept the surrender of commandos, horses, cattle, and forage, and to overawe the sparsely settled country. Thus far only one small commando has been heard of, a commando at Tail Basch. Gen. Hunter's immediate objective is Potchefstroom. This town and Rustenburg are the largest towns west of Johannesburg. It is reported that Potchefstroom is ready to submit. Gen. Hunter has warned all burghers that if the telegraph is cut behind him he will send back and burn the houses near the line.

OTTER IS PLEASED

That the Services of the Canadians are Appreciated.

He Writes Major Rankin an Interesting Letter—The Contribution to the Chatham Boys Acknowledged.

Major Rankin has received a letter from Lieut.-Colonel Otter, announcing that the money from the patriotic concert had been received and forwarded as directed. Major Rankin is an old military associate of Colonel Otter. When Otter was major of the Queen's Own, at Toronto, Major Rankin was right hand man in the first company one year at camp, and in the following year sergeant. High School Inspector Hodson and George Casey, M. P., were corporals at the same time. The letter from Lieut.-Colonel Otter reads as follows: Bloemfontein, May 8, '00.

WAR NOTES

Gen. Hunter's advance column occupied Venterdorp to-day, the Boers quietly surrendering in small bodies. Considerable looting has been done. Gen. Mahon's column has rejoined Hunter.

SETON FIRE

At 5.20 a. m. Sunday, Watchman Robt. Coyle sighted a large heavy ordnance fire to the westward of the town. The fire was seen by the firemen who were on duty at the time. The fire was seen by the firemen who were on duty at the time. The fire was seen by the firemen who were on duty at the time.

SUNDAY AT THE EAU

About 20 from Chatham went down to the Eau for Sunday. The sailing yacht, "The Eau", ran into the Eau yesterday with a party of 15 aboard. Judge Brown, of Cleveland, is residing at the Bungalow. The private crew of the "Beatrix" were out yesterday, getting their spurs in readiness to pursue their nefarious calling. A busy time was spent by these marauders in firing their guns and painting their black flags. Commodore Fred. Guttridge says that Capt. Heath was never in better trim and able pirate Riddle, says that he expects a busy season.

 MOLESWORTH—On Sunday, June 9, Minnie, beloved wife of Wm. Molesworth, of Dover, aged 28 years. The funeral will take place Tuesday, from her late residence, Dover, at 9 o'clock to Maple Leaf Cemetery.

LOCAL BRIEFS

Jos. Durocher, of Dover, passed away this morning in his 63rd year. The funeral will take place on Tuesday morning to Big Point cemetery.

The Young People's Society of Christ Church will hold a special meeting to-night in the Sunday school hall, at which a full attendance is specially requested.

Mrs. Molesworth, of the 15th Cong. Dover, passed away this morning in her 27th year. The funeral will take place to-morrow at 9 o'clock to Maple Leaf Cemetery.

Prophet Joe Smith, of the Latter Day Saints, is in the city and will lecture to-night. The prophet is a son of Joe Smith the founder of Mormonism, who was murdered at Nauvoo by a mob over half a century ago.

Peter French, of Chatham township, passed away on Saturday, in his 75th year. The deceased was a prominent resident of Chatham township where he has resided for a long time. James French, the well-known employee of George Stephens & Co., is a son. The funeral will take place this afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Gas Ranges are being installed in all parts of the city. People realize that gas is the cheapest and most convenient fuel.

Mrs. S. H. Marshall, Park St., returned on Saturday evening, after finishing the course in the Fletcher Music Method Simplex and Kindergarten. Mrs. Marshall extends a cordial invitation to her friends and those interested to call on her at her residence on Thursday afternoon and evening, when the method will be explained and material used shown. m-v-24

At a meeting of the Chatham District Epworth League, Friday afternoon, it was decided to hold the fall convention at Benheim on Oct. 12 and 13. It was arranged that Miss Galloway, the president, should pay an official visit to the leagues at Wallaceburg, Dresden, Benheim, Meritt and Chatham, the surrounding leagues being invited to attend these meetings. A musical program followed the business meeting.

REVERSE IS SERIOUS.

British Lose Over 500 Men Killed, Wounded and Captured.

London, June 11.—Lieut.-Gen. Sir Frederick Forestier-Walker, in command of the lines of communication in South Africa, reports as follows on the disaster to the British troops, June 7, at Rooval, where the Boers cut Lord Roberts' line of communications:

Cape Town, June 10.—(Sunday)—The following telegram has been received from Charles Knox: "Kroonstadt.—The following casualties, reported from Rooval, June 7, received from the Imperial yeomanry hospital, dated Rooval, June 8, received here by flag of truce, June 10: The Fourth Battalion of the Derbyshire Regiment (the Sherwood Foresters), killed—Lieut.-Col. Baird-Douglas and Lieut. Hawley and 25 of the rank and file. Wounded—Col. Wilkinson, Capt. Bailey, Lieuts. Hall, Lawder and Blamhards and 59 of the rank and file; the Shropshire Light Infantry, 1; Cape Pioneer Railway regiment, 7; Ammunition Park, Royal Marines and Imperial telegraphists 1 each; postoffice corps, 1.

"Stonham reports that many were severely wounded and the remaining of the Fourth Derbyshire and details of prisoners, except six of the rank and file, are in this camp. All the wounded are in this camp, lately occupied by the Fourth Derbyshire. Inquiries are being made as to the names."

It is inferred that the Boers captured over 500 men, and as late as June 10, held positions cutting off the British forces north of Kroonstadt from re-inforcements.

PRESSING FORWARD.

Another despatch from Gen. Forestier-Walker says Gen. Methuen was fighting within 10 miles of Heilbron June 6, as follows:

Cape Town, June 10.—(Sunday)—Kelly-Kenny reports from Bloemfontein this morning that Methuen with the greater part of his division was fighting early in the morning of June 8, 10 miles south of Heilbron, where Colville was reported to be with the Highland brigade. Methuen left Lindley with a sufficient force and supplies.

Kelly-Kenny has ordered Knox to press in the enemy's outposts, believing the enemy's strength to be exaggerated.

All is quiet, and there is no anxiety as regards the district to the south.

Communications north of Kroonstadt have been cut since June 6.

BULLER'S ADVANCE.

London, June 11.—The following report from Gen. Buller has been issued by the war office:

"Headquarters in Natal, June 11.—The force concentrated on the Klip river at its junction with the Gansvlei last night. We anticipated at that defile a force of the enemy about 3,000 strong, who had, I think, intended to occupy it, but retired as soon as our heavy guns opened, which were very smartly brought into action by Maj. May, of the Royal artillery, and Capt. Jones, of the Royal navy. The South African Light Horse and the second cavalry brigade were smartly engaged while covering our left front. Our casualties were about six killed and seven wounded."

SOLDIERS WILL COME.

About thirty of the citizens interested in the Dominion Day celebration met in the old town hall on Saturday evening. As there was no word from London concerning the visit of the Seventh Fusiliers the meeting was adjourned until to-night at 8 o'clock sharp.

Word was received this morning to the effect that the London regiment would likely come and that the Collegiate Institute cadets of London were also anxious to make the trip. The Fusiliers will, if they come, bring their famous lion as well as the bugle corps enabling them to make a good showing. In spite of the arrangements already made the committee is much disappointed at the lack of interest shown in the work by the citizens. The meeting by the celebration, and unless to-night's meeting is a large and representative one, the idea of a demonstration will be abandoned entirely.

A good day's sport has been outlined but the committee does not feel that the whole responsibility should be placed upon their shoulders. The meeting in the town hall to-night at 8 o'clock will definitely settle the question of the Dominion Day celebration.

"Your best friend can give you no better advice than this: 'For impure blood, bad stomach and weak nerves take Hood's Sarsaparilla.'"

READY TO QUIT IF NOT WANTED.

To the "Planet"—At a late meeting of the water commissioners, the chairman, Dr. J. L. Bray, and Mr. T. A. Smith, the Mayor, were kind enough to say that if they had their way the whole lot of the city firemen would be discharged. Now, I want to say that for my part, if my services don't suit the Mayor or the council all they have to do is to say so. I am ready to stop any minute. There are more ways of getting a living than working as a city fireman. Respectfully, THOS. TAYLOR.

CLOTHING DEPARTMENT | CLOTHING DEPARTMENT

Clothing Chat As We Know It

The merits of the cloth in a suit of cloth is a perplexing problem to most people. New goods are a pretty hard thing to size up with accuracy. A MAN may look and examine again and again, but in the end he generally has to take the clothiers word for it, so it is easy to see the importance of picking a reliable place to trade. YOU can come to this store and make your own selection. What you buy will be what we tell you it is. If it's only part wool we'll say so. If we say it's all wool it'll prove to be all wool.

This Week will be Special Displaying of Boys Wash Suits

MOTHERS bring the boys to us and we will dress them comfortable for the hot days. Boys' natty wash suits, in all the neat things shown this season in linen effects, crash ducks, in neat stripes and plain white mercerized sateen, big sailor collars, prettily trimmed, best fitters, made for ages 3 to 15 years, prices range from 50c to $2.00 per suit.

Big Snap in Boys' Dress Straw Hats

In the nobby rustic hats, plain white and black silk bands, and pretty serge shadings and green effects, with fancy bands, we bought 2 big cases this week, they are regular value all over at 50c and worth it, your choice here while they last for 25c.

Boys' Brownie Overalls,

Made from reliable blue denim, bib and braces attached, lots of pockets, just the right thing for boys to play in, sizes for ages 4 to 13 years, special 35c and 40c.

"Pitcher Sievers, who has been pitching for the London club of the Canadian League, joined the Detroiters here yesterday afternoon. He is a South-paw, and from his work in practice looks like a good man."—Milwaukee Evening Wisconsin.

Detroit Free Press:—"The efforts of Cleveland to secure Pitcher George Cooper, of the London team of the International League, will probably be successful, and the Londoner may be with the club within two weeks if the necessary cash is forthcoming. Cooper has a wonderful record so far this season, having pitched nine championship games, winning all of them."

AN EASY VICTORY.

Hamilton was never really a circumstance in Saturday's ball game. They could not hit Hale to any effect, while the Reds slaughtered Freeland's delivery. To make matters worse, the visitors rolled up an appalling collection of errors and helped the Chatham score along.

Despite the crippled condition of the local aggregation they are playing fast and snappy ball, one of the features of the contest being the clever way in which Conklin covered short. The score:

MR. LARKIN'S LAST SUNDAY

As Pastor of the First Presbyterian Church Here.

Two large congregations crowded the First Presbyterian church yesterday on the occasion of the close of an earnest and successful pastorate by Rev. F. H. Larkin, B. A., extending over the last decade, during which the church and congregation has made such substantial progress.

Mr. Larkin did not preach a formal farewell sermon. In his impressive prayer he supplicated God's guidance to the congregation and petitioned increased spirituality, and congregational prosperity.

In the morning the reverend gentleman selected as his text Mark 15, 34; and preached an earnest and eloquent evangelical discourse on the death of our Lord. In the evening the theme was based upon the words, "The last Adam was made a quickening spirit," and the address was an impressive appeal to greater earnestness and consecration in Christian life.

This evening a congregational gathering will be held in the church, to afford opportunity for bidding personal farewell to Mr. and Mrs. Larkin. The Ladies' Aid Society and the choir will assist in making the evening as pleasant as the parting circumstances will permit.

DR. BRAY EXPLAINS HIS REMARKS

To The Planet—Your reporter must either have misunderstood or misconstrued my remarks in reference to the question of salaries at the meeting of the water commissioners Friday night. It was only by comparison I spoke and I intended in no way to reflect on the fire brigade or individual firemen. Any one who has watched my course either on the school board, council or water commissioners must give me credit for one thing, and that is that I have always contended that every man should be paid well so long as his work was satisfactory. I do not believe the firemen are paid one dollar more than they are entitled to, and should be sorry if their salaries were reduced. I am yours, JOHN L. BRAY.

MARTIN'S BEATEN

Only Carries Eight Seats in a House of Thirty-Eight

In the British Columbia Elections—How the Factions Stand.

Vancouver, B. C., June 10.—The British Columbia general election was held yesterday, and there was a hot time throughout the province. The polling places in cities were kept open until 7:30 p. m. to accommodate the workmen's vote, and the returns were then coming in. Returns received up to 2 a. m. indicate that the Martin Government is badly defeated—ten Government and twenty-three mixed Opposition are elected. Martin himself is elected and headed the poll in Vancouver City. Three Cabinet Ministers—Martin, Brown and Curtis—are elected. The latter defeated Hon. C. H. Mackintosh in Rossland, by 30 majority. Hon. G. W. Beebe, Cabinet Minister, is defeated in West Yale.

Following are the returns received thus far:—

North Nanaimo—McFinnes, Ind., probably elected.

Delta—Oliver, Government, elected.

West Yale—Murphy, Opposition, elected.

South East Kootenay—Ferne, Opposition, 12 majority, with four places to hear from.

Richmond—Kidd, Oppn., elected.

West Kootenay, Rossland District—Curtis, Government, elected by 30 majority.

New Westminster City—Brown, Government, elected, 34 majority.

Nanaimo City—Smith, Oppn., elected by about 650 majority.

East Yale—Ellison, Oppn., elected.

West Lillooet—Smith, Oppn., elected.

West Kootenay, Nelson District—Houston, Oppn., elected.

Vancouver City—Premier Martin elected, heads the poll; Gilmore, Government, elected; Tatlow and Garden, Oppn., elected. Four members of Vancouver City.

Archie Yale—Eaton, Oppn., elected.

Albert—Neill, Oppn., elected.

Comox—Mounce, Oppn., elected.

East Kootenay, North District—Hall, Ind., elected.

Victoria City—McPhillips, Hall, Turner and Helmsaker, all Oppn., elected.

Victoria South—Elberts, Oppn., elected.

Cariboo—Rogers, Oppn., elected.

Esquimalt—Hayward and Higgins, two Oppn., elected.

Later—Returns of yesterday's election so far as received give Government 8 seats; Opposition, including 9 Independents, 26 seats.

ONLY EIGHT MARTINITES

Ottawa, June 11.—Senator Templeman received the following message last night, summarizing the results of the British Columbia elections:—

Government, 8; Opposition, 17; Conservatives, 7; Provincial, 14; Independent, 1; Labor, 1—total 38. This summary includes Cassiar, the returns for which will not be received for some days, but in this constituency there was no Government candidate.

Astounded the Editor.

Editor S. A. Brown, of Bennettville, S. C., was once immensely surprised.

"Through long suffering from dyspepsia," he writes, "my wife was greatly run down. She had no strength or vigor and suffered great distress from her stomach, but she tried Electric Bitters, which helped her at once, and after using four bottles, she is entirely well, can eat anything. It's a grand tonic, and its gentle laxative qualities are splendid for torpid liver."

For Indigestion, Loss of Appetite, Stomach and Liver Troubles it's a positive, guaranteed cure. Only 50c at A. I. McCall & Co.'s Drug Store.

A. O. F. CHURCH PARADE.

The Chatham Lodge, A. O. F., paraded to church last evening some 200 strong. They made a pretty sight as they marched along to the music of the Excelsior Band. William H. Benson and Chas. Cape marshalled the parade while Fred Chaplin in the uniform of the Knights of Sherwood Forest guided the line of march.

Arrived at the church the Rev. Dr. Battisby welcomed the lodge and preached a splendid sermon on the storms of life. At the conclusion of his remarks, Dr. Battisby made a patriotic reference to the war and asked the members present to pray that the war would soon be wound up and peace take its place.

Deputations were present from Court Euclid, of Tibbury, Court Northwood, of Northwood, and Court Pride of Dover.

The representatives from Rillbury were George La Mire, Jean B. La Mire, James Sanders, John Thomas, Sec'y, John Fordman, H. Gregory, Charles Powell, Bruce Richardson, Jas. Brusseau, Dr. Milligan, Herbert Mortimer, of the Tibbury Times, Will. Connibest and William Gerry.

There were about twenty present from Court Pride of Dover, including Wesley Wright, Andrew Brown and George Kreiger. Northwood furnished several representatives, amongst whom were John Osterhout and Mr. Bennett.

During the service Mr. and Mrs. Marshall sang an excellent duet, the male quartette rendered a splendid number and the choir contributed several fine anthems.

A Poor Millionaire

HAIR RAISING.

A Year Ago no One Would Believe What Thousands Now Know to be a Fact—Hair Can be Grown on Bald Heads.

The hardest to convince that baldness can be replaced by a new growth of hair, are the bald.

Why? Because hundreds of things have been used with no effect. Nothing that has ever been prepared would produce a permanent growth of hair on bald heads until the discovery of The Rose Hair Grower.

This preparation is the first to successfully demonstrate the hitherto impossible, growing hair on bald heads.

The originator, after perfecting the formula, found himself face to face with an incredulous public, who said: "No, no, too good to be true."

"Would like to believe it, but can't," "Nothing will cure my baldness."

"Good man, if true, you could not supply demand."

"Useless talk, been fooled to often."

Now these same people, who know what they are talking about, express themselves as follows:—

Robert Ross, plumber, Parkdale, says:—"I have been bald for over 22 years, but after using The Rose Hair Grower for two months, I have a good growth of hair all over my head, and it is filling in at the sides nicely. I have much pleasure in sending you this reference, and will continue using your treatment."

W. Livingstone, druggist, 25 Howard St., Toronto, says:—"This is to certify that I have seen the results of the use of The Rose Hair Grower. As a druggist with many years' experience in the city of Toronto, I have seen a multitude of hair tonics tried with varying results, but have never sold a hair grower that has been such a pronounced success at The Rose. Ladies and gentlemen amongst our best people in the city, to whom I recommend it, many of whom were bald, now have beautiful heads of hair. I have used it myself and now have a head of hair as thick as anyone could wish for."

The Rose Hair Grower stops falling of the hair with a few applications. It absolutely removes dandruff. Makes the hair soft and pliable. It is a perfect hair dressing, and the only preparation in the world that overcomes baldness.

Price, $1.00 per bottle of dealers, or forwarded on receipt of price by addressing Rose & Co., 48 Adelaide St., East, Toronto, Ont.

LOVE'S TRIUMPH.

A STORY OF LOVE AND WAR.

BY MARY J. HOLMES,

Author of "Lena Rivers," "Edna Browning,"
"Tempest and Sunshine," Etc., Etc.

It was the first interest she had evinced in the matter, and she had written with any one upon the subject which was beginning to occupy so much of his own thoughts. Mr. Mather drew her into his lap, and endeavored, as far as possible, to explain to her what it was all for. Much of what he said, however, was Greek to Rose, who only gained a vague idea that the North was contending for a bit of cloth, such as she had often seen floating over the dome of the old State House in Boston, and with the remark, that men's lives were far more valuable than all the Stars and Stripes in the world, she fell away to sleep, leaving her husband in the midst of an argument not quite clear to himself, for, like his wife, he could not then see exactly what the war was for. Still, inasmuch as there was war, he would not play the coward's part, nor shrink from the post of duty if his country should need his services. But this Rose did not know, and he knew not, either, that she would never go. She never heard her husband's cheerfulness, and she never saw anything of the war.

was sure to startle her hearers with some remark quite unworthy of a New England daughter. She did wish they would stop having so many meetings, she said, or, if they must have them, she wished they'd get Brother Tom to come and set them right. He had lived in Charleston. He could tell them how kind the people were to Mary, his sick wife, and were it not that it lay beneath him to lecture, she'd surely write for him to come. Rose Mather was growing unpopular by her foolish speeches, and when at last she was asked to join with other ladies of the town in making articles of clothing for the volunteers, she added the last drop to the brimming bucket, by tossing back her chestnut tresses, and "guessing she shouldn't bluster her hands over that coarse stuff. She couldn't sew much any way, and as for making bandages and lint, the very idea was sickening. She'd give them fifty cents, if they wanted, but she positively couldn't do more than that, for she must have a new pair of lavender kids. She had worn the old ones three or four times, and will preach every day."

With a frown of impatience, the matron who had been called the eyes from Rose, took the fifty cents, and with feelings anything but complimentary to the silly little lady, went back to the hall where scores of women were busily employed in behalf of the country, some of whom would never return to tell how much good even the homely housewife, with her pins and needles and thread had done them when far away where no mother or sister hand could reach them, not yet how they thought that perhaps a dear one's fingers had torn the soft linen band, or scraped the tender skin applied to some gaping wound, had helped to ease the pain, and cheer the homesick heart. It was surely a work of mercy in which our noble women were thus engaged, and if from the group collected in Rockland Hall, there was much loud murmuring at Rose Mather's want of sense or heart, it arose not so much from ill-nature as from astonishment that she could be so callous and indifferent to an object of so much importance.

"Wait till her husband goes, and she won't mince along so daintily, taking all that pains to show her Balmoral, when it isn't one bit muddy," muttered the Widow Simms, pointing out to those near the window, the lady in question, tripping down the street in quest of lavender kids, perhaps, or more likely bound for her husband's office, where, now that everybody worked all day long at the hall, she spent much of her time, it was so lonely at home with nobody to call. "I hope he'll be drafted, and have to go, upon my word!" continued the widow, whose heart was very sore with thinking of the three seats at her fireside, so soon to be vacated by her darling boys—Ell John and Isaac. "Yes, I do hope he'll be drafted, don't you, Mrs. Graham?" and she turned toward Annie, who was rolling up bandages of linen, and weaving in with every coil a prayer that the poor soldier, whose lot it should be to need the band, might return again to the loved ones at home, or else be fitted for that better home, where war is unknown.

Annie shook her head, but made no answer. There was no bitterness now in her heart against Rose Mather. She had prayed that all away, and only hoped the anguish which had come to her, making her brain giddy, and her heart faint might never be borne by another, if that could be. George had volunteered,—was to be second lieutenant, and Annie, who shall tell of the gloom which had fallen so darkly around the cottage she had called hers for one brief year. It was a neat, cosy dwelling, and to Anne it never seemed so cheerful as on that memorable night of the war-meeting, when she had lighted the lamp and sat down with George upon the chintz-covered lounge he had helped her make when first she was a bride. It is true the carpet was not of velvet, like that Rose Mather trod upon; neither was there in all the house one inch of rosewood or of marble, but there was domestic love, pure and deep as any Rose ever experienced, and there was something better far than that, a patient, trusting faith in One who can shed light upon the dreariest home, and make the heaviest trial seem like naught. It was this trusting faith which made Anne Graham the sweet, gentle being she was, shedding its influence over her whole life, and softening down a disposition which otherwise might have been haughty and resentful. Anne was naturally high-spirited and proud, and Rose's remarks concerning volunteers in general, and George in particular, had stung her to the quick, but with the indignant mood there came another impulse, and ere the cottage had been reached, the bitter feeling had gone, leaving nothing but sorrow that it had ever been there. Like Rose she wished there would be no war, but wishing was of no avail, and long after George Graham was asleep and dreaming, it may be, of glories won on battle-fields, Annie lay awake, questioning within herself whether she ought, by word or deed, to prevent her husband's going. If he felt, as he seemed to feel, that it was as much his duty as that of others to join in his country's defence, Annie was no great reasoner, logically; all her decisions were made to turn upon the simple question of right and wrong, and on this occasion she found it hard to tell, so evenly the balance seemed adjusted. More than once she stole from her pillow, and going out into the fresh night air, knelt in the moonlight, and asked for guidance to choose the right, even though that right should take her husband from her.

"If I knew he would not die, it would not be so hard to give him up," she murmured, as sleepless visions of white streamers with the dead, and hospitals filled with the dying, came over her, and for an instant her brain reeled with the thought of George dying thus, and leaving her no hope of meeting him again, for George's faith was not like hers.

Annie, however, something whispered to her that the God she loved was on the field of carnage and in the camp, and in the hospital, and everywhere as much as there in Rockland, that prayers incessantly would follow the brave volunteers, and that the evil she so much feared might be the means of working the great good she so desired. And thus it was that Annie came to a decision. Stealing back to her husband's side, she lay above him as he lay sleeping, and with a heart which throbbled to its very core, though the lit uttered no sound, she gave him to his country, asking, if it could be, that he might come back again, but if it were ordered otherwise—"God's will be done." There was no shrinking after that sacrifice was made, though when the morning came, the death-white face and the dark circles beneath the eyes told of a weary vigil, such as many and many a woman kept, both North and South, during the dark hours of the Rebellion. But save the death-white face and heavy eyes, there was no token of the inner struggle, as with a desperate effort at self-command, Annie would her arms around her husband's neck, and whispered to him, "You may go, I give my free consent," and George, who cared far more to go than he had dared express, kissed her which tried so hard to smile, little dreaming what it cost his brave young wife to tell him what she had. To one of his temperament, there was no danger to be feared for himself. The bullet which might strike down a brother, he would be turned away from him. Others would, of course, be killed, but he should escape unharmed. In the language of one speaker, whose eloquent appeal had done much to fire his youthful enthusiasm, "He was not going to be shot, but to shoot somebody."

This was his idea, and ere the clinging arms had unclasped themselves from his neck, his imagination had leaped forward to the future, and in fancy George Graham wore, like a colonel's, the least a captain's uniform, and the cottage on the hill, which Annie so much admired, and for the purchase of which a few hundreds were already saved, was his, bought with the money he would earn. The deed should be drawn in his name, too, he said, and he pictured her coming down the walk to meet him, with the rose-bush on her cheek, just as she looked the first time he ever saw her. Something of this he told her, and Annie tried to smile, and think it might be so. But her heart, that morning was far too heavy to be lightened by a picture of what seemed so improbable. Still, George's hopeful confidence did much to reassure her, and when, a few days after, she started for the hall, she pursued a loiterer, walk for the sake of passing the cottage on the hill, thinking, as she leaned over the low iron fence, how she would arrange the flower-beds more tastefully than they were now arranged, and teach the drooping vines to twine more gracefully around the slender columns supporting the piazza in front. She would have seats, too, willow-twisted chairs beneath the trees, where she and George could sit at twilight, and watch the shadows creeping across the hollow where the hill cottage was, and up the opposite hill, where the cupola of Rose Mather's home was plainly visible, blazing in the April sunshine. It was a very pleasant castle which Annie built, and for a time the lead of pain which, because she heart, was gone; but it returned again when, as she passed a turn in the road, her eye wandered down to the hollow, and that other cottage standing there so brown and cold, and looking already so desolate, small, and lonely, and so far away, were over, she would wait in vain for the loved footsteps coming down the road, should miss the pleasant, cheery laugh, the teasing joke, and words of love which made the hill cottage become a worthless thing as poor Annie forced back her tears, and with quickened steps hurried on to join the group of ladies busy at the hall.

Taking her seat by the window, she could save the night over her shoulder her, that of tearing and winding bandages for those who might be wounded. "Maybe there'll never be no fight, but it's well enough to be prepared," was the soothing remark of the kind-hearted old woman who gave the work to Annie, noting, as she did so, how the lip quivered and the cheek paled at the very idea.

"What if George should need them?" kept suggesting itself to her as she worked industriously on, hoping that, if he did, some one of the rolls she was winding might come to him, or, better yet, if he could only have the bit of soft linen she had brought herself—a piece of her own clothing, and bearing on it her maiden name, Annie Howard. He would be sure to know it, she said, it was written so plainly with indelible ink, and it would make him feel so glad. But there might be other Annie Howards, it was not an uncommon name, was suggested next to her, as she tore the linen in strips, and quick as thought her hand sought the pocket of her dress for the pencil which she knew was there. Glancing around to see that no one observed her, she touched the pencil to her lips and wrote after the name: "It's your Annie, George. Try to believe I'm there."

There were big tear-drops on the end of lines, but Annie brushed them away and went on with her rolling, just as Widow Simms called her attention to Rose Mather, as mentioned several pages back.

Annie could not account for it to herself, but ever since Rose's arrival at Rockland, she had felt a strange, inexplicable interest in the fashionable belle; an interest prompted by something more than mere curiosity, and now that there was an opportunity of seeing her without being herself seen, she straightened up and smoothing the soft folds of her pale brown hair, waited for the entrance of the little lady, who, with her pink hat set jauntily on her chestnut curls, and her rich fur collar buttoned gracefully over her handsome cloth coat, tripped into the room, doing much by her sunny smile and pleasant manner to disarm the ladies of their recent prejudice against her. She was nothing but a child, they reflected; a spoiled, petted child; she would improve as she grew older and came more in contact with the sharp corners of the world, so those who had the honor of her acquaintance received her with the familiar deference, if we may be allowed the expression, which had always marked their manner toward William Mather's bride. Rose was too much accustomed to society to be at all disconcerted by the hundred pair of eyes turned scrutinizingly toward her. Indeed, she rather enjoyed being looked at, and she tossed the coarse garments about with a pretty playfulness, saying that "since the ladies had called upon her she had thought better of it, and made up her mind to murder herself one afternoon at least, and benefit the soldiers. To be sure there wasn't much she could do. She might hold yarn for some, body to wind, she supposed, but she couldn't knit, and she didn't want to sew on such ugly, scratchy stuff as those flannel shirts, but if somebody would thread her needle, and fix it all right, she'd try what she could do on a pair of drawers."

For a time no one seemed inclined to volunteer her services, and Widow Simms's cheeks clicked spitefully loud as they cut through the cotton flannel. At last, however, Mrs. Baker, who had more than once officiated as washerwoman at the Mather mansion, came forward and arranged some work for Rose, who, untrusting the string of her pink hat, and adjusting her tiny gold thimble, labored on until she had succeeded in sewing up and joining together a long leg with one some inches shorter, which had happened to be lying near. It was then that she saw a discovery of this mistake called forth, nor was it at all abated when Rose demurely asked if it would not answer for some soldier who should chance to have a limb shot off just below the knee.

"The little simpton!" muttered the widow, while Mrs. Baker pointed out to the discomfited lady that one division of the drawers was right side out and the other wrong!

There was no alternative save to rip the entire thing, and with glowing cheeks Rose began the task of undoing what she had done, incidentally letting out, as she worked, that Will might have known better than to send her there—she shouldn't have come at all, she would call her a secessionist unless she did something to benefit the soldiers. She didn't care what they called her; she knew she was a Democrat, or used to be before she was married; but now that Will was a Republican, she hardly knew what she was; any way, she was not a secessionist, and she wasn't particularly interested in the war either; why should she be?—Will was not going, nor Brother Tom, nor any of her friends.

"But somebody's friends are going—somebody's Will, somebody's Tom; as dear to them as yours are to you," came in a rebuking tone from a straightforward, outspoken woman, who knew from sad experience that "somebody's Tom" was going."

"Yes, I know," said Rose, a shadow for an instant crossing her bright face, "and it is dreadful, too. Will says everything will be so much higher, and it will be so dull at Saratoga and Newport next summer, without the Southern people. One might as well stay at home. The war might have been avoided, too, by a little mutual forbearance from both parties, until matters could be amicably adjusted, for Brother Tom said so in his letter last night, and a heap more which I can't remember."

Here Rose paused quite exhausted, with the effort she had made to repeat the opinion of Brother Tom. She had read all his letter, fully indorsing as much of it as she understood, and after a little she went on:

"To be continued."

The Best

The Canada Business College,
Chatham, Ont.

Has undoubted claim to this distinction in Canada.

This is Canada's greatest year.
This is our BANNER YEAR, both as to attendance and the success of our pupils.

Six calls have been made upon us during the past six weeks to supply leading Canadian and American Business Colleges with our graduates, to fill positions as teachers in their schools next fall.

Over 150 of our pupils have secured positions with first-class business houses since Sept. 1st, 1959. What do you think of this record?

parallel with the M. C. R. as already surveyed. The work of construction will be commenced at once.

A certain individual with a certain glass and a certain nose may run, jump, ride, sneeze, stoop, laugh—still his glasses cling as though a part of his physiognomy; while another with the same identical glass cannot move without them slipping. In eye glass fitting the many different noses require as a great variety of guards as well as a fund of practical ophthalmological knowledge.

BURNED TO DEATH.

Fire destroyed the grocery and residence of James Ward, Simcoe street, London, Sunday morning. One child, aged three, was killed by the flames. The family were all in bed but Mrs. Ward.
She sat reading at a table after midnight, but fell asleep, and woke up to find the lamp broken and the room on fire. Mr. Ward's New Discovery cured the family, overlooked the lost boy.

DOVER CENTRE.

We were pleased to see J. W. Kenny, Chatham, driving through our village
one day this week.

The Methodist picnic on the 6th, under the auspices of Grace Church was a very successful affair considering the disagreeable day.

Miss Frances Rankin has returned from an extended visit at Coneseon.

Norman Wemp has again returned from the mineral springs, fully recovered.

The late rains have been the means of making the spring crops look their finest, although they have for a time destroyed our good roads.

Sacrament was administered in the Presbyterian Church on Sunday, 3rd inst. Many from Chatham township and Richmond appointment attended. Very eloquent sermons were delivered by Rev. J. W. McIntock, morning and evening.

A. H. White, insurance agent, Chamthon, drove through our village last Wednesday.

Many farmers of this vicinity sold their hogs to O'Keefe and Drew for shipment last Thursday. The price paid was from $5.75 to $6.00.

Rev. J. J. Haylock, our neighboring minister, is attending conference.

YOUR PHYSICIAN'S PRE-SCRIPTION.

You should be deeply interested in the correct and honest filling of your physician's prescriptions. In every case our dispensing is scientifically and accurately done with a view to best results for the sick.

A Great Medical Discovery.

Paine's Celery Compound is the crowning medical discovery of the century. This popular medicine is our great leader. It gives the best results in nervous diseases, neuralgia, dyspepsia, Bright's disease and liver complaint.

OUNGAE

Mrs. Dymond, who has been visiting in this vicinity recently, was taken seriously ill at Wm. Graham's Monday evening, and her recovery is doubtful.

Mr. and Mrs. George McKernall spent Sunday at Mrs. Hugh Cummings.

Stanley Strain is wearing a smile—
a daughter, the first born, arrived at his home on Wednesday.

Our baseball boys journeyed to Grace Church picnic to try conclusions with Dover Centre, but were prevented playing by the rain.

Quite a number of Foresters attended service in Chatham Sunday.

BY COMMON CONSENT.

It is admitted by common consent that our long experience in the drug business, our perfect system in dispensing, and our efforts to keep in touch with modern ideas, entitle us to a large measure of confidence from every class of people.

We are headquarters for that best of all medicines, Paine's Celery Compound, "the kind that cures."

Every bottle is fresh, and every drop of the potent medicine is full of virtue and healing power. If you are weak, nervous or sleepless, try a bottle.

A SAMPLE OF WHAT SATISFAC-TION A GAS RANGE GIVES.

P. S. Conte, Esq.,
Mgr. Chatham Gas Co.

Dear Sir—

Having used a gas range for the past two years, I am in a position to state that for economy, speed either one, or the whole of the above, and cleanliness, it exceeds all other means of cooking. Anyone desiring very essential features of housekeeping, should not hesitate in the use of one without delay.

Yours,

(Sgd.) WILLIAM BLIGHT

Harmony All over our Store

There are a great many men who don't have the collars they ought to have.

There are a great many men who don't have the shirts they ought to have.

Half the time it's because the shirts and collars are of no kin to each other.

Our shirts fit our collars and our collars fit our shirts. Our price fits our general policy of giving you things at factory prices.

So in all things in men's furnishings throughout the store,—there is harmony of selection and harmony of price.

No ups and downs here
