The Very Newest Dress Goods

Here are some suggestions for your fall gown. We particularly want you to come and see the goods and choose whatever your taste or fancy dictates. We know that we have just what you want.

THE NEW PANNE CLOTH
An elegant suiting, something like a rich camel hair. One of the most handsome of the new weaves. 54 in. wide, per yd. . . . . $1.75

HOMESPUN SUITINGS
Every wanted finish, fine weave and lasting colors, made of worsted yarns, specially adapted for tailor-made suits or separate skirts, at from 35c up to . . . $1.50

BLAIR ATHOLE SUITING
This is another one of the new weaves, extremely serviceable and very pretty. 54 in. wide, per yd. . . . . $1.25

LADIES' JACKETS
Of course you will not buy a jacket without seeing ours. It would not pay you. Here are all the very latest Berlin and New York jackets, so reasonably priced that a little money takes the best of them.

SILKS
English Blouse Silks 50c a Yard
The most wonderful Silks ever offered in Chatham. Plain or fancy heavy quality, equal to what you usually pay 75c for.

TAFFETA SILK at 50c Yd.

We were fortunate in securing this line, the like of it you cannot find elsewhere. A French silk jobber gave us a bargain, otherwise it would cost you 75c a yard, in black only.

FRENCH FLANNELS
All the dainty weaves, all the pretty colorings in best quality, per yd. . . . . 50c

ENGLISH DESIGNER WATSON GOT BETTER OF HERRESHOFF

Shamrock Will Allow Columbia Only Forty-three Seconds—Lipton Delighted—Ready for To-morrow's Race.

New York, Sept. 24.—The official measurements of the cup challenger Shamrock II. and the cup defender Columbia were made public to-night at the N. Y. Y. C. The result was in the nature of a surprise for it showed that the Shamrock, which is the larger boat, so far as sail area and displacement are concerned, allows only 43 seconds to the Columbia over the 30-mile course on which the contest for the America's cup are to be sailed.

The Shamrock has a shorter water line length. She has a longer spinnaker boom, a longer gaff, a longer topmast and carries more canvas. Mr. Watson, the designer of the Shamrock II., by keeping down the load water time length of his yacht has got the better of his rival, Mr. Herreshoff. The sail area of the Shamrock is larger and by judicious handling of his spars Mr. Watson is only penalized 43 seconds.

The measurements follow:
COLUMBIA.
Length of load water line, 89.77 feet.
Length from the after end of the main boom to the end of the point of measurement or the end of the bowsprit where the jib topsail halyard block is fastened, 182.87 feet.
The foremast to the end of point of measurement or end of bowsprit as above, 73.28 feet.
Length of spinnaker boom, 73.30 feet.
Length of main gaff, 64.94 feet.

Length of topmast, 64.64 feet, minus one-fifth, 51.71 feet.
Upper side of main boom to the topsail halyard block, 134.74 feet.
Square foot of the sail area, 114.94 square feet.
Sailing length as per rule, 102.355 feet.

SHAMROCK II.
Length of load water line, 89.25 feet.
Length from after end of the main boom to the end of the point of measurement or the end of the bowsprit where the jib topsail halyard block is fastened, 184.03 feet.
The foremast to the end of point of measurement or end of bowsprit as above, 78.28 feet.
Length of spinnaker boom, 78.28 feet.
Length of main gaff, 66.17 feet.
Length of topmast, 68.13 feet, minus one-fifth, 54.54 feet.

Upper side of main boom to the topsail halyard block, 143.39 feet.
Square foot of sail area, 118.33 square feet.
Sailing length as per rule, 103.79 feet.
Both boats were measured with 52 men on board.
The difference in the sailing length of the two boats is 1.435.
When the approximate results of the measurement of the Columbia and Shamrock II. were told to Sir Thomas Lipton in the Erie basin he could scarcely conceal his joy.
"We thought," he said, "that the Shamrock would have to concede far more time. All hands now believe that our chances are getting better all the time for lifting that cup."

ASSASSIN FOUND GUILTY OF MURDER OF M'KINLEY

Sentence Will be Passed Upon Him To-morrow Afternoon—There was no Attempt at Defense.

Buffalo, N. Y., September 24.—Leon F. Czolgosz, alias Neiman, was found guilty to-day of murder in the first degree by a jury in part 3 of the Supreme Court, in having the sixth day of September shot President William McKinley, the wounds inflicted afterwards resulting in the death of the President.

The wheels of justice moved swiftly. The trial of the assassin consumed eight hours and 26 minutes and covered a period of only two days. Practically all of this time was occupied by the prosecution in presenting a case so clear, so conclusive that even had the prisoner entered the plea of insanity it is doubtful if the jury would have returned a verdict different from the one rendered to-day. The announcement made this afternoon by the attorneys for Czolgosz that the eminent alienists summoned by the Erie county bar association and by the district attorney to examine Czolgosz and to determine his exact mental condition had declared him to be perfectly sane, destroyed the only stage of a defense that Judges Lewis and Titus could have put together.

Before adjournment Justice White announced he would pronounce sentence upon the defendant on Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock. The prisoner was taken through the tunnel under Delaware avenue, back to the jail. To all appearances he was in no way affected by the result of the trial.

The crowd gathered at city hall to-day was the largest which has been seen since his arraignment. People were lined up on both sides of the big rotunda on the second floor where court convened, and fringed the stairs leading from the floor above. There was no demonstration except that of curiosity. A large number of women witnessed to-day's proceedings.

At 2:44 this afternoon District Attorney Penney abruptly announced that the case of the prosecution was ended. Judge Lewis arose slowly and addressing the court said the sudden close of the case against Czolgosz was a surprise to him and his colleagues. They had no witness to call for the defense. He asked the court that he be allowed to address the jury at once. The court consented and the jurist began an address that will long be remembered by those who heard it.

SCENE IN COURT.

Buffalo, September 24.—After the jury had retired to consider the evidence the scene in the court room became dramatic in the extreme. Decorum was somewhat forgotten and the spectators stood up and many walked about the room and engaged in conversation. The guards about the assassin who still sat in his seat before the bench were doubled. Chief of Detectives Casack and two of his men taking positions just back of Czolgosz's chair. Others took seats to the left and right and many "plain clothes" men were seen mingling among the crowd surging about the room closely watching everyone whose face was not a familiar one to them. There was no disposition to crowd about the prisoner, although the one object seemed to get in a position to have a full view of his face. Czolgosz had been seated in his chair all afternoon, his hands clasped on the arms of the chair and his head bent forward and a little to the left. The room was not warm, but he frequently took his handkerchief from his pocket and mopped the perspiration from his forehead and cheeks. At no time during the absence of the jury did he raise his eyes or lift his head or seem to know that he was the object of interest of several hundred men and women.

THE JURY'S VERDICT.
Every time the door was opened all eyes were turned in that direction, the evident thought in every mind being that the jury would take only a few minutes to agree on a verdict. It was 4:25 when the jury rapped for order and the jury filed into the room. The clerk read their names, each juror responding "present" as his name was called.

At that time was wasted. The jurors did not sit down. Addressing them Justice White said: "Gentlemen, have you agreed upon a verdict?"
"We have," responded Foreman Wendt.
"What is your verdict?"
"That the defendant is guilty of murder in the first degree."
There was a moment of silence and then a murmur arose from the lips of the crowd. It ended there. There was no handclapping; no cheers. Justice White's voice could be clearly heard in every part of the room when he thanked the jurors for their work and allowed them to go until 11 o'clock to-morrow.

Court was at once adjourned. Czolgosz was immediately handcuffed to his guards and hurried from the court room down stairs to the basement and through the tunnel under Delaware avenue to the jail. He appeared to be in no way affected by the result of the trial.

PEACHES.

I will be prepared from the 18th to the 30th of September to fill all orders for Crosby peaches, the finest canned peach in the world. All orders left at Taylor & Williamson's, C. Wheeler's and with Thos. French will be filled. All peaches put up by us are guaranteed up to grade and honestly packed.

TORTURE DEFEATS ITS OWN ENDS.

Public sentiment forbids the punishment of the most inhuman criminal with torture, rightly comments the St. Thomas Times. The sentiment which protects the criminal from torture for his crime should also prevent the imposition of unlawful penalties for his refusal to implicate associates.

The crime of Leon Czolgosz is more terrible than his offense against the State in shielding possible confederates. If torture were justifiable at all, it would be the natural expiation for seeking the life of the President of the United States.

Human considerations are not the sole factors in the growth of the civilized spirit which makes the least painful form of death the punishment for offenses against man and against the State. The thumb screw and the rack forced many a poor wretch to confession, but more falsehood was told than truth. The tortured, in the war between anguish and fidelity to his cause, not infrequently implicated those upon whom not a shadow of guilt rested, and the blood of the innocent was the only reward of cruelty's exactions.

Inhuman as is Leon Czolgosz, it is to be regretted if torture has been used as a means of securing confession. The brutality of the crime is repeated in the name of justice, and the effect is not unlikely to be a confession of falsehood and a strengthening of the damnable faith which will represent Czolgosz as a tortured martyr.

MR. J. P. WHITNEY.

No man in public life in Canada has gained so largely in the esteem of the people during the last three years as Mr. J. P. Whitney, leader of the Opposition in the Ontario Legislature, comments the Toronto News. Since he was chosen to lead the party in the Province, his position has been no sinecure, but by his frankness and the fair and manly way in which he has fought his opponents he has gained the good will of the public, and his ability, his strength of character he has inspired his followers with new life and vigor.

Mr. Whitney's record in the House is one to be proud of. Not a few of the best measures adopted by the Legislature during the past and present terms originated with him, and the government owes to his suggestion many of the ideas which it now puts forth as important features of its policy. Mr. Whitney has been blamed for refusing to declare his platform, but unjustly, for no member of the house has been more generous of his time and labor on behalf of the Province than he. He has, moreover, an unclouded reputation. No suspicion rests on his sincerity or on his honesty, and his opponents are unable to put a finger on a single doubtful or inconsistent act in his career. He has a clean record, and, unlike the Hon. G. W. Ross and associates in the Cabinet, he has no entanglements with the great corporations, the weighing of whose claims on the public constitutes one of the most important functions of the Legislature. At the last Provincial elections the Province had not learned to know Mr. Whitney, or to value him as it knows and values him now. But even then he gave the government party a shaking up which forced them during the present term to pay more regard to public interests than had been their custom while they were yet confident that nothing could loosen their hold on the electorate. There is not in Canadian public life, either in Dominion or Provincial politics, a cleaner or broader-minded statesman. Gifted with unusual powers of eloquence, he has made already in the brief time in which he has led the party a deep impression on the country, and if we can judge by the expressions of opinion heard everywhere he has the confidence of a majority of the electors and will lead his party to victory at the coming elections.

A EUROPEAN ZOLLVEREIN.

A movement is on foot in Europe for a commercial alliance between Germany, Russia, and Austria, for the purpose of shutting out American manufactures and preventing the industries of those countries from being ruined through the competition of American goods in their home markets, says the Toronto News. The need of such protection is unquestionably pressing, but the question is whether an alliance such as that proposed would not be just as dangerous to some of the parties to it as the trade of the United States is now.

Suppose the three nations mentioned were to enter into a treaty to impose a prohibitive tariff on the goods of all nations entering their territory, but providing for reciprocity between themselves, would not the trade of one be unduly benefitted over that of the others? Germany is now a close competitor of England and the United States in every foreign market, and if Germany had free access into Russia and Austria, and had only to compete against the native manufactures, it would undoubtedly be a great thing for her trade, but would not be very beneficial to the industries of Austria and Russia. It seems to us that an European commercial alliance is scarcely possible under present circumstances. Each country has industries of its own to protect, and is as much in danger from its neighbors as from the United States. A treaty like that which has been proposed would greatly extend German trade, and we should not be surprised if the proposal were found to have originated from a German source. There is nothing in it for Russia and Austria, and if those countries fear the trade of the United States there is nothing to prevent them from increasing their tariff against American goods, and at the same time protecting their industries by a duty against the manufactures of the countries immediately round about them.

WHY MARRIAGE IS A FAILURE.

Hamilton Times.

Pity the poor bridal couples. Yesterday afternoon a couple of Hymen's victims tasted the sweets of twentieth century civilization at the Sturt street station of the Grand Trunk railway. A host of friends (?) gave them a good start. The bride's trunk bore a placard "I left my happy home for you." "We're married!" blazed on another piece of luggage.

QUEER VERDICTS.

Saginaw Courier-Herald.

A coroner's jury in Idaho returned a verdict that deceased came to his death through injuries received by a bull accidentally kneeling on his chest. And a Montana jury, not to be outdone, found that a man "died from the effects of injuries received after being run over by a railway train in motion, owing to a misunderstanding between deceased and an engine driver."

HER EXPERIENCE.

Bellefonte Intelligencer.

Some people are wondering what the abolition of the "ward" system has done for Belleville. Being extremely shortsighted, they can't discern any of the benefits which were supposed to follow on the heels of the change. In the old days, they say, the council was made up of many rings—now it is all one ring. There is a distinction, but the difference is not discernible with the naked eye.

DOG CATCHING DIPLOMACY.

Kansas City Journal.

Parson Twine, the Chesterfield sanitary officer, and a dog catcher of Aitchison, recently called at a house and asked the woman who appeared if she kept a dog. "No, I don't," responded the woman; "look for yourself." "Madam," said Parson Twine, "what sort of an administration would this be if the dog tax collector doubted the word of a lady?" The woman looked at him helplessly for a moment and then softly said:—"I—I-I have one little dog which I will pay on if you say so."

WHAT LIFE MEANS.

Buffalo Times.

The late Joseph Cook, not long before his death, wrote, at the request of the editor of the Christian Endeavor World, this characteristic message for Christian Endeavorers, which is certainly worthy a place in your memory or scrap book:

"Man's life means
Tender teens,
Teachable twenties,
Tireless thirties,
Fiery forties,
Forcible fifties,
Serious sixties,
Sacred seventies,
Aching eighties,
Shortening breaths,
Death,
The end,
God."

TOO USEFUL TO BE MERE SENATORS.

Bobcaygeon Independent.
The Ottawa Citizen suggests the names of a number of newspaper men for appointment to the senate. The gentlemen can do much better work on the press than in the senate. The fact is the press has more to do with the government of the country than either the senate or the commons, and it is not unlikely that the press may yet supersede both houses. Three commissioners, appointed by the President, with the city press government Washington, D. C., and do it admirably. There is no reason why half a dozen cabinet heads of departments, watched, guided and advised by the press, could not govern Canada equally as well.

BEDFELLOWS IN MEXICO.

Experience of a Traveler While Passing Through That Country.

"I had a rather unhappy experience once," said a traveler, "but it was at a time when my nerves could not stand a great deal, and the shock was no surprise to me. I was really happy when I found that my eyes had played me no trick and that the things about me were real things. I had journeyed down into Mexico for the purpose of spending some time. The trip was partly a business trip and partly for such pleasure as I could get out of an experience in a country that was new to me. I ought to say here that I had never been in a tropical country. My life had been spent in the north, and whatever I knew about many of the forms of life in tropical sections was altogether theoretical. I had merely read about many of the things, but I feared afterward that there were many things I had never dreamed of even in moments when my mind was inclined to conjure with the horrors of uneven sleep. Well, I found myself in Mexico. I was in the wilds of Mexico, and that where one could find but few of the comforts known to the more advanced ways of living. I stopped with an old Mexican one night, and he put me in a dumpy little room off to myself. I slept on the floor, or, rather, I started to sleep on the floor, and it was a dirt floor at that. I curled up on a mattress made of some light material. I had just closed my eyes when I felt something scurrying rapidly over my forehead. It started me, but I kept cool and still to see if it would happen again.

It happened in less time than it takes to tell. This thing kept up until the experiment was disorganizing my nerves and I could stand it no longer. I got up and started out, and I felt the same thing happening to my feet. Partly panic-stricken, I rushed into the room of the old Mexican. 'Something in yonder,' I said, pointing toward my room. He took the situation at once and assured me that it was all right. He struck a light and went to the room with me to assure me that there was no danger. When I got back to my room, I was paralyzed. Crawling over the walls of the hut and scampering over the floor, over the mattress on which I had lain and running here and there everywhere, was a perfect army of insects of all sizes, ages and varieties. I told the Mexican to leave me the light and that I would occupy the room for the night. And so I did. But I did not sleep, for I did not want the insects, however harmless and companionable they might be, to convert my face and forehead into a promenade. This wound up my experience in Mexico, and I scampered over the border as soon as possible, and never again did the wilder regions of the tropics have had no fascination for me."

The Water Beetle.

The great carnivorous water beetle, the dytiscus, after catching and eating other creatures all day, with two minute intervals to come up, poke the tips of its wings out of the water and jam some air against its spiracles before descending once more to its subaqueous hunting grounds, will rise by night from the surface of the Thames, lift again those horny wing cases, unfold a broad and beautiful pair of gauzy wings and whirl off on a visit of love and adventure to some distant pond, on to which it descends like a bullet from the air above, landing in a green-house at night with no lamp lighted, talking or smoking, they sometimes hear a smother, as if a pebble had been dropped on the glass from above. It is a dytiscus beetle, whose compound eyes have mistaken the shine of the glass in the moonlight for the gleam of a pond. At night some of the whirling beetles, the shiny, beetle-like creatures seen whirling in incessant circles in corners by the bank, make a quite audible and almost musical sound upon the water.

Drudgery That Made Genius.

Paderewski when told one time by her royal highness Princess Victoria, perhaps the most accomplished musician of all the members of the royal family, that he was "sincerely inspired" answered: "Your royal highness will, I dare say, be surprised when I tell you that I remember the day when I was quite an indifferent player. I was determined, however, to be what the world called a genius, and to be a genius I well knew that I must first be a drudge, for genius and drudgery always go hand in hand. Genius," and Paderewski spoke excitedly, "is three-quarters drudgery and one-quarter genius. I at one time practiced day after day, year after year, till I became almost insensible to sound—became a machine, as it were. So Paderewski is a genius," says the world. Yes, but Paderewski, your royal highness, was a drudge before he was a genius."

One Walnut Tree.

A man in North Carolina was selling standing timber—walnut trees. The man who was buying came to one very handsome tree. He told the owner he would pay as much as $50 for that tree. The owner did not sell, but sent for experts. He got $1,500 for the tree (curled walnut) as it stood. The man who cut it down realized $3,000 for it on the saw. It was shipped to New York and veneered one-sixth to half an inch. The sales were watched. The tree brought $30,000.

It Pays to Be Amiable.

"What do you do," asked the one who had been married only a few months, "when your husband comes home late at night?" "I pretend not to notice that he isn't on time, and pretty soon he asks me if I wouldn't like to go to the theater or somewhere tomorrow afternoon."

Quite a Number.

"Willie, whom did George Washington marry?" "The Widow Custis, ma'am."

Then He Takes His Chances.

"A millionaire can have things pretty much his own way in this world," said one philosopher. "He can," answered the other, "until he comes to make his will."

We should manage our fortune like our constitution—enjoy it when good, have patience when bad and never apply violent remedies but in case of necessity.

Young Girls

Are often engaged in doing the work of a home under the most trying conditions. Nature cries out against the stooping and lifting, the running up and down stairs at times when labor should be as light as possible. It is owing to overstrain or self-neglect under these conditions that the foundation is laid for serious womanly disease. Irregularity is the first step to impaired womanly health.

Perfect regularity may be established by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It will heal inflammation and ulceration and cure female weakness. It makes weak women strong and sick women well.

"It gives me much pleasure," writes Miss Ella Sapp, of Jacksonville, California, "to thank Dr. Pierce for the great good he has done for me by his 'Favorite Prescription' and 'Golden Medical Discovery.' I had suffered for three years or more at monthly periods. It seemed as though I would die with pains in my back and stomach. I could not stand at all without fainting. Had given up all hope of ever being cured, when one of my friends insisted upon my trying Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. With but little faith I tried it, and before I had taken half a bottle I felt better. Now I have taken two bottles of 'Favorite Prescription' and one of 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and I am entirely cured and in two months' time when all other medicines had failed."

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, paper covers, sent free on receipt of 31 one-cent stamps, to pay expense of customs and mailing only. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Unpaid Accounts Drove Her to Suicide. Not so very long ago a woman threw herself before a New York elevated train, and was instantly killed. Her sister testified after that she was a "fashionable" dressmaker, and had over $15,000 worth of outstanding accounts which she could not collect. The people from whom she bought her goods were persistently asking for their money, but she could not pay them because her customers did not pay her for her work. It so preyed upon her mind that after weeks of sleepless nights she determined to kill herself. And she did.—Ladies' Home Journal.

He Was Tender.

"Miss Goldby flattered me very much yesterday," said Freddie Hayrebrane. "Indeed?" "Ya-as. She told me that when I came out on the stage in our private theatricals, I looked good enough to eat."

"Well, that is substantially what she remarked to me. She said your face was like a boiled lobster."

Then the Earth Yawned.

Mr. Le Jecks—Well, Miss Coldcash, I supposed you received a good many birthday cards? Miss Coldcash (sweetly)—Oh, yes; and there was one particularly dainty and artistic. I am sure it came from you.

Mr. Le Jecks (delighted)—What makes you think so? Miss Coldcash—Because I sent it to you, on your last birthday.

The Meek.

Those who can be meek will inherit the best things in the world. What are those things? One is peace of mind. Those who can be meek in the sense of attending to their own affairs, and not opposing the world to their own detriment, are the people who get peace of mind.

Great Faiths.

There are certain great faiths in which the soul can rest and be strong and happy and self-sufficient. These are what I am seeking. Out of them grow the temper of our life and our motions and our impulses.

DEAD LOVE.

Two loves had I. Now both are dead, And both are marked by tombstones near. The one stands in the churchyard near, The other hid from mortal sight. The name on one all men may read And learn who live beneath the stone; The other name is written where No eyes can read it but my own. On one I plant a living flower And cherish it with loving hands; I shun the single withered leaf That tells me where the other stands. To that white tombstone on the hill In summer days I often go; From this white stone that nearer lies I turn me with unuttered woe. O God, I pray, if love must die And make no more of life a part, Let witness be where all can see And send within a living heart.

—Mary Matthews Adams.

WAYS OF THE NIGHT HAWK.

The Habits of This Bird Are Strangely Belied by Its Name.

The night hawk is a bird often seen and yet a bird of which little is commonly known. Its name would lead one to think that it is a night bird, but this is wrong, as it does not roam about during the night at all. Like the familiar song birds of the woods, it rests at night. It received its name on account of its habit of appearing only during the later afternoon or on cloudy days. A proper name for this bird would be "twilight bird," as it cannot be said to belong either to night or day.

If you have ever lived on a farm, you will recall hearing on some still, hot evening a whirring, long drawn out note high above your head, and on looking up you will remember how surprised you were to behold a small bird with big wings falling straight toward the earth, and then how much more surprised you were when the bird suddenly turned in a graceful upward curve and went straight back again into the darkness above. That was the night hawk on a hunt for its supper. After that first meeting you will remember how familiar it grew to you and yet how little you ever learned of its habits of living.

These birds winter just south of the Hudson bay and winter as far south as Brazil. They travel from one place to another as a rule in scattering flocks. To see these birds traveling is a sight not soon forgotten. They will follow a river or stream for miles and seem to use these natural highways as their guide from one home to another.

A hunt for the nest of this bird is a hopeless task in some localities of our state, as they do not always breed. They live in the field, and it is there you may expect to find the nest if one is to be found. It will be built on the ground, and there will not be a straw or stick or cord in the home. It will be just a hole in the ground, for this bird is, above all things, lazy, and if there is any material other than the bare earth near the home it will be because the wind blew it there or because it grew there. You will find two eggs of a dirty color in the nest, providing some snake or gopher has not made away with them. As these eggs are, it is a wonder the bird does not disappear from the face of the earth. Nearly every animal that lives-eats eggs. The night hawk lives almost entirely on bugs, bees and insects. They are so swift in their action that they have little difficulty in securing a square meal every hour they hunt. They are so marksmen that they can easily secure their prey. They are dark-colored with a greenish-brown tinge, and the real distance they are from you is a matter of doubt. They have a wishbone shaped white mark on the throat by which they can always be known.

The noise made by this bird when descending is caused by its wings in contact with the air. Its throat cry is a squeak and unpleasant to the ear. The bird is very attractive when it flies about in the air, as its curvings are as smooth and graceful as if they had been planned and rehearsed for weeks. Such perfect control does it have over the power of flight that it can descend to the ground with lightning rapidity and when scarcely two feet above the surface reverse its action and sail again in graceful circles toward the sky.

His Own Name. If you think a foreigner's ways are queer, ask yourself whether their seeming queerness may not be due mostly to your want of familiarity with them.

"I have such strange names for your towns over here," said a titled English importation to one of his new American friends; "Weehawken, Hoboken, Poughkeepsie and ever so many others, don't you know?"

"I suppose they do sound queer to English ears," said the American thoughtfully. "Do you live in London all the time?"

"Oh, no," said the unsuspicious Briton. "I spend part of my time at Chipping Norton, and then I've a place at Fokestogg-on-the-Hike."

Both Willing. "He said he'd rather go to jail than pay his divorced wife alimony."

"Yes; she said she'd rather see him save his money behind the bars than spend it over them."

Like and Unlike. Browne—Whenever a woman becomes unreasonable, it's attributed to her nerves. Isn't that singular?

Towne—Yes, but the unreasonableness of a man is attributed to his nerves, and that's still more singular.—Exchange.

The Favorite. McCort—You know something about horse racing. What is meant by "the favorite?"

Sport—A favorite is a horse that would surely win if people only wouldn't bet on him.

His Favorite. "What is your favorite play?" asked the friend.

"Ordinarily," answered Mr. Stormington Barnes, "it is 'Hamlet,' but when I need the money it is 'Uncle Tom's Cabin.'"

TOM'S TEMPER SPOILS SPORT

Unappreciative Police Officer Breaks up the Revelry By Night.

He Was an Uninvited Guest, But Nevertheless He Figured Heavily in the Demonstration.

Of all the unappreciative mortals in the arts of Euterpe and Terpsichore, Officer Tom Groves takes the cake.

If you don't believe this don't earmuffs, wear goggles and take a stroll down to the little frame dwelling on Queen street near the G. T. R. track—which enjoys a reputation characteristic of gay "Paree" or the giddy Bowery, and ask the pleasure-loving inmates all about it.

A dance held the bords the other evening, and fun and folly are said to have romped high and cast impertinent goo-gooes at prim Mrs. Gundy.

While the gaiety was at its height and the fiddler had let out a couple of extra links the officer—an uninvited visitor, by the way,—dropped in.

Discomfort was mutual. The merry-makers acted as though his arrival had dampened their amusement, while the policeman's face spoke eloquently the sentiments his tongue refused to express.

He called a halt. Perhaps some of the male participants misunderstood him and only realized their mistake after they had demonstrated the "double-quick" for a couple of blocks.

But they were apparently too near home to make amends. The damsel meanwhile, were sorely discomfited, and their plaints were—scarcely complimentary to the officer.

In fact it is said they claimed him to be "an awful mean man"—and a few other things not found in the scriptures.

RELICS

Supt. Jones Comes on Many of them while Making Repairs.

Supt. Jones, of the waterworks department, is to-day fixing the water pipe at the Adelaide street bridge by means of a dredge.

The dredge is of the hand order and works perfectly, being designed by Mr. Jones himself for that purpose.

Mr. Jones is amused by the many relics he has dug up in the rubbish.

Among others is a self-cocking .32 calibre revolver, the same size as was used in President McKinley's assassination. It was fully loaded and well oiled. Mr. Jones has got it in shape so that it works fairly well, but has not yet tried to fire it off. It has evidently been lying where it was found, for considerable time.

Mr. Jones says that he has also found almost a complete toilet set, including curling tongs, looking glass, etc., and is now looking for the girl. Amongst other rubbish is found scissors, coupling pins, crowbars, iron bars, etc. Mr. Jones is contemplating the advisability of starting up a second hand store.

JUMPED TRACK

Lake Erie Engine Left the Rails on Head St. This Afternoon.

About 2.40 this afternoon the yard engine on the L. E. & D. R. R. ran off the track, on Head street, at Taylor avenue. The cause of the engine running off was the fact that the track is a little wide near there, causing one of the wheels to run off and crowd the opposite one to the rail. The engine then took shot off the track, breaking the coupling and almost precipitating the first car down the small hill.

The brakeman, Bert McDonald, was walking on top of the first car and when he noticed the engine's jump leaped onto the next car in time to save himself from being thrown off and probably killed.

The crew of the train is conductor H. Wingard, Engineer Chas. Pink, Fireman Robert Wanless, and Brakeman Bert McDonald. They were in no way to blame. The auxiliary was called and is working on the scene.

LEFT OTTAWA

The Duke and Duchess start for Their Western Trip.

Ottawa, Sept. 24.—The royal train pulled out of the Elgin street depot about twenty-eight minutes to one to-day. The departure of the Duke and Duchess was rather a quiet ceremony. Several thousand people surrounded the station. The military kept a space free for the guests and those who had business on the station, and officers of the guards with drawn swords lined the platform, while drawn up on the outside were the guards of the 43rd Regiment. The Ottawa Field Battery was stationed some distance to the right and fired a salute of twenty-one guns.

COUNSEL DEAD

Sudden Death of Judge Jeremiah Wilson—Schley Enquiry adjourned.

Washington, Sept. 24.—The Schley court of inquiry was brought to a sudden termination for the day eighteen minutes after convening this morning, by the announcement of the sudden death of Judge Jeremiah Wilson, senior counsel for Admiral Schley.

The announcement was made to the court by Hon. Isidor Rayner, assistant counsel, in the following language: "I have a very sad announcement to make to the court. I have just heard of the death of Judge Wilson. I left him at 10 o'clock this morning, slightly indisposed. We have confirmed the rumor through the telephone that he has just died at the Shoreham Hotel, and I would respectfully ask the court to adjourn for to-day."

Admiral Dewey said: "I have to announce that owing to the death of Judge Wilson, the court will adjourn for to-day until to-morrow morning."

The announcement of Judge Wilson's death created consternation not only among members of the court, but among the spectators, and some minutes elapsed before people generally would accept the report. The Judge had been present in the court all day yesterday.

KILLED ON HIS FARM.

Thorold, Ont., Sept. 23.—Atkinson Stephenson, a farmer of Thorold township, was killed on his farm this afternoon. He was employed rolling his land, when the horses took fright and ran away, throwing the old gentleman to the ground. The land roller passed over him, killing him instantly.

TOWN DESTROYED BY FIRE.

Copenhagen, Sept. 24.—A large portion of the town of Kalundborg has been destroyed by fire. The damage will probably amount to £500,000. Kalundborg is on the west coast of Zealand, 58 miles west of Copenhagen. Its population is about 3,000.

SPANISH IRON COMBINE.

London, Sept. 24.—The Westminster Gazette to-day, says it understands that the three great iron-producing companies of Bilbao, Spain, have agreed to amalgamate on the lines of the United States Steel Corporation, with a capital of 75,000,000 pesetas, and an annual output of half a million tons. This trust will be by far the biggest thing of the kind in Spain.

THE COBRA'S COLLAPSE.

London, Sept. 24.—The Globe understands that soundings show that the torpedo boat destroyer Cobra, which was lost a few days ago, sank in seven fathoms of water. There is no rock nor any submarine danger near the spot. The Globe suggests that a sudden collapse caused the disaster. It points out the fact that the 12-foot dingy of the Cobra kept afloat for hours, which proves the weather was not rough at the time, as had previously been stated.

SMALL-POX EPIDEMIC IN LONDON.

London, Sept. 24.—Londoners are frightened by the spread of the small-pox epidemic. The disease has gained quite an unusual hold on one or two metropolitan districts. The London School board was asked by the Local Government Board to allow the children in its schools to be examined, to see if they had been vaccinated, but permission was only granted on condition that parents saw no objection to the examination.

THE IRISH MISSION TO THE U. S.

London, Sept. 24.—The plans of the Irish delegation which is to sail for the United States have been completed. John Redmond, the Irish parliamentary leader, will be accompanied by Messrs. McHugh and Thomas O'Donnell, members of parliament. They will sail on the White Star liner Majestic, from Queenstown (October 24). Michael Davitt will join them at New York. Mr. McHugh is at present undergoing six months' imprisonment in Kilmainham jail. He will be released October 21. Mr. O'Donnell will make addresses in Celtic.

fields of grain with the straw nearly six feet long, and the heads so close together that you can't see anything but the tops of the ears. The fields will thresh from 30 to 60bu. to the acre, you can well believe it. The crops are so good that they are massive. The oat fields, too, are a revelation and I don't suppose you could see anything like them anywhere else. I have seen a few farmers who hear farmers grumbling if their oat fields didn't turn out 80 bushels to the acre. Yet you do hear once in a while, when something looks good, that some farmer has managed to be satisfied with 70 bushels to the acre while his neighbor harvests 90 or a hundred bushels per acre. The farmer I saw today has a fine view of the country. He sees the oat fields of northern Alberta. The farmers from the south, especially from Iowa, have been coming in much interested with the

The land is very undulating and hilly around here, and there are a number of small lakes. Owing to the past two years of drought, the water in the hills has been filled with water. As an instance, I may say that the hay field of this community some 35 miles distant, now is now water. There is no necessity for the water to be there, as there is a splendid fall, and a little ditching is all that is necessary. But here the farmers do not dig ditches. They are afraid to dig, because the value of ditching. In one case they spent about 80 days putting a piece of corduroy along a low place in the road, and the result was that in digging a ditch would have made a permanent improvement. Of course the country is young, and as yet the farmers do not need the land. The land is so good that it is easier to burn than to dig. The farmers first burn the land and kill the bushes. The

The pasture was the best in the world and farming was the only occupation. The Government should have enough land to pasture a; good herd of cattle.

There is considerable feeling in the West that the Government should give the Ontario young men the same independence as have the Okukaboors and Gallatinians. They say that had this been done the whole of the Northwest would have been settled now. It would surprise you to find that the Ontario people are scattered over the West and that one is from Ontario is a passport for a good time all through the to imagine the picture made when I was mounted on my gallant steed. I was on a Mexican saddle, just enough of the animal showing to prove that I was a cowboy, and riding a dog. In addition, my ponies are peculiar, like horses, but more you heat them the better they are, and the alleged horse that best rode was no exception, only more so. I felt sorry for the Cayuse, thinking it had been a good horse, and I managed to reach the Fort about 5 o'clock p. m. and beat out a thunderstorm by about half a second. My rapid steed had covered the distance of about four miles in three minutes.

He says: Ozone cured me of the disease which was a burden to me.

Mr. Chas. F. Lecky, 45 St. Maurice St., Montreal, engineer for the Whitham Shoe Co., has had a remarkable recovery from kidney disease through Powley's Liquefied Ozone. His story is an interesting one; it indicates the extreme value of Ozone in chronic cases of kidney disorders. Here is his personal statement:

With the greatest of gratitude I send you my testimonial for publication, regarding the wonderful curative power of Ozone. For the last seven years I have been troubled with kidney disease, liver complaint, neuralgia of the hip and severe headaches. I have been treated by several of the doctors of Montreal, and have been an out-door patient of the General Hospital there. I have had injections of morphine, 87 blisters, porous plasters and liniments for external use, but all these had fail to cure. Very often I was subjected to severe pains in my back, and when I stooped to work, I was unable to stand. My greatest trouble was my back, and I am happy to say that on the 30th of May, 1901, I saw Fowler's Liquefied Ozone advertised in the Montreal Star, and started taking it on the 31st. I have used nearly three bottles of Ozone and feel quite a different man, and am thankful to testify that I am cured of the disease which was a burden to me.

I have recommended your remedy to a great number of friends and acquaintances, and I cannot speak too highly of the preparation.

I enclose a paper in which you will find what you will kindly publish this in any paper you wish, for the benefit of suffering humanity.

Any one doubting this statement can interview me personally or by letter and I will gladly furnish them with any information they may require.

(Signed) CHAS. F. LUCKY, Engineer, 45 St. Maurice St., Montreal, P.Q.

Powley's Liquidified Ozone is Oxygen in stable form. I have cured many cases, equally, if not more extraordinary than the one cited. We publish this case in order that you may investigate, if you feel interested enough; we court an investigation of any case we give publicity. Any information you require we'll gladly send you.

is the aim of everybody. Some are much quicker in getting up higher than others. No matter whether you are slow or fast in the ascent we can in some measure assist you if you purchase your goods from us. We have just put in a very fine assortment of the best Stoves made in the Dominion, which we have bought for cash, and you know that to get up in the world means success, and success unaccompanied by the necessary wherewithal to make success successful seems a valueless commodity. So aim to succeed by buying good goods at low prices, and if you come to us with this intention, we will certainly help you to succeed.

WORK CALLED FOR AND DELIVERED

Some Hints For the Bride to Be.

NOW that the season of summer weddings is over, brides all over the country have leisure in which to contemplate those which pertain to the acknowledgment of wedding gifts. To acknowledge the receipt of one hundred and fifty presents, to thank the donor of each in a way that carries proof of life-long gratitude with it, and to find one hundred and fifty different styles of expressing the same sentiment can not be classed with the easy tasks of earth. Unless she was party to an elopement, no bride ever lived in modern times who did not experience during the last quarter of her honeymoon the difficulties of polite correspondence. Those who were married last June have passed through the trying ordeal, but by those of next June, or next October, a few suggestions of timely character will doubtless be appreciated.

Although at the outset it appears difficult, the job of acknowledging wedding gifts is really one of the simplest known. It does not require even penmanship or originality, all that is indispensable being a box of note-paper, a pen and a bottle of ink. When the young bride sits down to contemplate her array of presents, her first thought is what she shall say to the donor of each. Nothing easier! Uncle Peter, for instance, has sent a heavily upholstered chair with a spring seat. What could be more fitting than this as a reply to Uncle Peter?

My Darling Uncle:—

I can not thank you half enough for your beautiful chair. It was awfully like you, so soft and easy. Every time we sit in it—Charley and I—we think of you. You must come around soon and sit in it yourself.

Your loving niece, Clara.

P.S.—Charley and I had a perfectly lovely trip. It didn't rain a day while we were away.

That, dear girl, is the idea in crude shape. Your feminine tact can doubtless improve the quality of expression. The principle, however, will soon become apparent to you. No matter what the gift is, always effectively intimate the giver to come around and try it. "Dear Kate, drop in any time and have a sip from your darling tea-cups."

"Dear Aunt Carrie, be sure and stop whenever you are out this way and let us pour you a drink from your charming decanter."

"Dear Cousin Tom, your cuckoo clock is a dream; don't forget to set your watch by it whenever you're in our neighborhood."

And so forth. No trouble. Sips from tea-cups and vinegar cruets; seats in chairs and divans; catnaps on lounges at all hours and food from forks. If a rich uncle gives you a new hat, let it come down and live in it whenever he feels like it. Follow this plan and rest easily. Your temper will keep sweet and no one outside will be offended.

Carrying the idea a step further, it will remain for some enterprising bride-to-be to send out supplementary notes with all her wedding invitations. Well known is it that the gift feature of a modern ceremony is far from being perfect. Duplicates continue to come in, despite the most judicious hints thrown out beforehand by the bride-to-be and her near relatives. Finally, when seven water-bottles and six ice-cream sets arrive in one day, the limit is reached and the pretty-soon-bride realizes it. Still, what can she do? It is too late to remedy the matter, so the duplicates hold the fort.

With what ease, however, could such annoyances be averted by the adoption of the Surprise Party system; the method which involves with each invitation a request to please furnish cake or to please bring lemonade. Applied to a wedding, this method would work like a charm. Duplicates among the presents would be impossible, and a bride would find her new home well-nigh furnished with gifts, if proper discrimination was observed and enough cards sent out. Uncle Paul, who carries the market once, should be asked to please furnish a set of bronzes. He can afford them, and the note relieves him of the necessity of thinking. Consideration, of course, should always be observed, and the value of the present asked for should be measured by the pocket-book of the relative to whom the invitation is sent.

If next June's crop of brides, whether they adopt the blushing class or not, will adopt these well-meant suggestions, they will save off many an attack of Ameriticitis.

Harry Hamilton in "Puck."

Baseball in France.

Now that baseball has been introduced officially in France the scenes we may expect to mark every game have been described as follows:

The Umpire—I say so man is out-out-out! Now do you understand?

Alphonse—Sure, you are no zentleman.

Henri—Par-don me, but you are of ze cannelle!

The Umpire—Accept ze assurance of my most respectful consideration, zentlemen, but you are a pair of cr-r-r-azy monkeys!

Alphonse—Oh, did you hear zat, my poor fr-r-iend?

Henri—Alphonse, my brozairre, he has insulted you.

The Umpire—Oh, go and sit on ze bench and let ze game pr-r-ceed.

Alphonse—You will hear fr-r-om me!

Henri—You will hear fr-r-om us!

The Umpire—Certainly, sarees. I will geeve you satisfaction whenever you weesh. Only you must put eet off for a least tree weeks—I haf so many oxzairre duels of ze same sort zat all my time is taken up day af-r-day. Is it agreed? Tray bong, mezzieurs!

They all bow extravagantly, and Alphonse and Henri kiss each other on the cheek as they retire to the bench. The game then proceeds.

Katie and Willie are twins, aged five. During a recent visit to their grandparents, who live in the country and keep chickens, the twins were cautioned in their strile to see which could find the most eggs, never to take away the nest eggs. One morning Katie reached a nest first, and, seizing the forbidden egg, started for the house. Willie hurried after her, shouting: "Grandma! Grandma! Katie's got the egg the old hen measures by."

Lincoln knew of an educational advertisement which read: "Smith and Huggs, Classical School for boys and girls. Smith teaches the boys and Huggs the girls."—"Schoolmaster."

CAUSE TO REJOICE.

The earth was not made in a day, neither is rheumatism cured in a day. Mrs. Jacob Dairmaid, Black River Bridge, Prince Edward County, Ont., suffered intense pain in both limbs for a year and a half, and two physicians were unable to give her relief. Half a bottle of Dr. Hall's Rheumatic Cure gave her ease and five bottles, with the Climax Iron Tonic Pills, affected a permanent cure. Her many friends are rejoiced at her recovery. This great blood purifier is put up in bottles containing ten days' treatment. Price 50 cents at all drug stores or The Dr. Hall Medicine Co., Kingston, Ont.

First Citizen—I wish I was a great scientist.

Second Citizen—Why?

First Citizen—I would like to devise some cooling drink that wouldn't make you hot afterwards.

Take care of the stomach and the health will take care of itself. If people really realized the soundness of that statement the majority might live to a good old age like Moses, "the eye undimmed, the natural force unabated." It is in the stomach that the blood is made. It is from the stomach that nourishment is dispensed to nerve and muscle. If the stomach is "weak" it can't do its whole work for each part of the body. If it is diseased the disease will taint the nourishment which is distributed, and so it was the realization of the importance of the stomach as the very center of health and the common source of disease, which led Dr. Pierce to discover his "Golden Medical Discovery." "Diseases which originate in the stomach must be cured through the stomach." The soundness of this theory is proved every day by cures of Polio, Nervitis, heart, liver, lungs, blood, by the use of the "Discovery," which is solely and singly a medicine for the blood and organs of digestion and nutrition. It is a temperance medicine, containing no alcohol, whiskey or other intoxicant.

First automobile girl—You do not seem much put out by your automobile breaking down.

Second automobile girl—No! I am always as nervous expecting it to break down that I am actually relieved when it does.

The Cause of Nervous Headache

This most distressing and common malady doubtless has its origin in some unbalanced condition of the nervous system. Probably the simplest, safest and most efficient remedy is sweetened water gives immediate relief, and this treatment should be supplemented by bathing the region of pain with Nervine. To say it acts quickly fails to express the result. Sold everywhere in large 25c. bottles.

Farmer—Yes? I work from daylight to dark.

City Man—You are not much troubled with colds, are you?

Farmer—No, I've heard of the blamed thing, and sometimes I feel as if I would like to have a little of it for a change.

What Catarrhoze is and is Not

Catarrhoze is not a wash. You cannot force liquids into the lungs. It is not an ointment to be sniffed up the nostrils. Ointments are useless and disgusting. Nor is it a powder to be blown up the nostrils. Catarrhoze is a medicine which penetrates the already congested and irritated membrane. It is simply balsamic and healing substances breathed into the lungs and throat. Cures of course. That is nature's way of curing, and nature's way is the only true way. If you suffer from disease of the throat, lungs, nasal passages, do not neglect to test Catarrhoze. It cures all kinds of catarrhs, 25c. and $1. Guaranteed to cure Catarrh, Asthma, Bronchitis and Hay Fever, or your money back.

Every married woman knows at least one other woman that she believes would flirt with her husband if he wasn't so good and honorable.

Nervous Dyspepsia

How it shakes one up, invades sleep, destroys strength, adds a real misery to life. Not the stomach but the nerves are affected. Starved nerves make the whole trouble. You need Ferrozone because it's a nerve food. It supplies the elements that are needed to make rich red blood. The rich red blood in red cells, the richer you're sure to be in health. Ferrozone quickly makes blood, strengthens the digestive organs, and presto! the nervous disturbance disappears. Sold by McCall & Co.

What do we live for if not to make life less difficult to each other?

Where there is no hope, there can be no endeavor.

Mistakes of Reporters.

The mistakes of shorthand reporters, laughable and serious, on various important occasions would fill volumes, but a decidedly curious error of the kind is pointed out in a letter which Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman was at the trouble to write to The London Times, under date of July 31:—

"I do not often correct errors in the debate, and what your report represents me as saying is this:—There is often a power behind the throne. We have known in history of a great Cardinal who wielded the power of a mighty Monarch, but it was known that, after all it was not he in his gorgeous raiment who truly wielded the power, but a soberly-dressed ecclesiastic in his retinue. In this case we have not to look for some Ventr St. Gris who sits below the gangway. We cannot help thinking that on the present occasion the power behind the throne is the noble Lord, the member for Greenwich. The words I used were these:—'In this case we have not to look for some Eminence Grise.' 'Son Eminence Grise' sits below the gangway and is member for the borough of Greenwich."

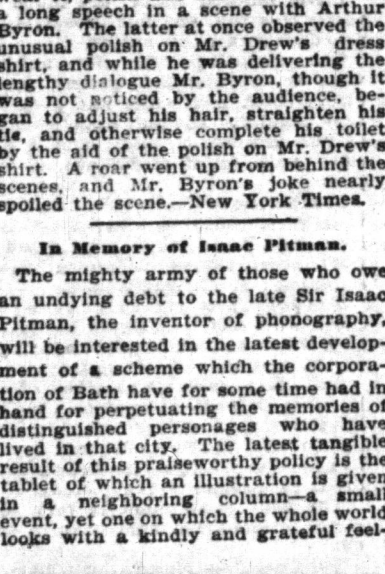

It may be allowed to point out to you that Ventr St. Gris is not the name of a person; it is a meaningless collocation of words invented by King Henry IV., who, finding himself barred from the use of an oath by the rules of both the religions which he in turn professed, employed this innocent but atrocious expedient for the purpose of relieving his feelings. Similarly, for the same object, Thackeray suggested 'Eminence de Rigore'; others have thought of 'Santa Fe de Bogota.' "But Ventr St. Gris was never, so far as I know, the appellation of a person. It appears as pseudo-oath in 'Quentin Durward,' the scene of which is in the reign of Louis XI, but this is one of Sir Walter's occasional anachronisms."

John Drew's Dress Shirt.

John Drew, it is well known, is most particular regarding his dress, both on and off the stage. He was playing in "The Liar" two seasons ago on the road, and his itinerary included nearly two weeks of successive one-night stands. His man attendant always looked after the clothing he wore at the theatre, bringing it to the actor's dressing-room shortly before Mr. Drew appeared to dress. In one of the smaller cities the valet had sent Mr. Drew's linen to a laundry, and the actor found when about to don it that the bottom of his dress shirt contained a polish which disgusted him. He said things. But there was no time to be lost. A new shirt and all. Mr. Drew had a long speech in a scene with Arthur Byron. The latter at once observed the unusual polish on Mr. Drew's dress shirt, and while he was delivering the lengthy dialogue Mr. Byron, though it was not noticed by the audience, began to adjust his hair, straighten his tie, and otherwise complete his toilet by the aid of the polish on Mr. Drew's shirt. A row went up from behind the scenes, and Mr. Byron's joke nearly spoiled the scene.—New York Times.

In Memory of Isaac Pitman.

The mighty army of those who owe an undying debt to the late Sir Isaac Pitman, the inventor of phonography, will be interested in the latest development of a scheme which the corporation of Bath have for some time had in hand for perpetuating the memories of distinguished personages who have lived in that city. The latest tangible result of this praiseworthy policy is the tablet of which an illustration is given in a neighborly column—a small event yet one on which the whole world looks with a kindly and grateful feeling.

ing. Lady Pitman still lives in the house whose walls the stone informs.

Maud Muller's Setting Hen.

"Maud Muller" still goes on being parodied. Here is the latest from an American source, though the usual "might have been" stanza appears to be missing:—

Maud Muller, on a summer's day,
Set a hen in a brand-new way;
(Maud, you see, was a city girl,
Trying the rural life a whirl.)

She covered a box with tinsel gay,
Lined it snugly with new-mown hay,
Filled it nicely with eggs, and then
Started to look for a likely hen—

Out of the flock selected one;
And then she thought that her work was done;

It would have been; but this stubborn hen
Stood up and cackled "Ka-doot!" and then

Maud Muller came, and in hurt surprise
Looked oddly into the creature's eyes.

Then tied its legs to the box, "You bet,"
Said she, "I know how to make you set."

But still it stood, and worse and worse
Shrieked forth its wrongs to the universe,
Kicked over the box with its tinsel gay,
And ignominiously flapped away—

Then a bad boy, over the barnyard fence,
Tee-hee'd:—"Say, Maud, there's a difference."

"Tween hens, you know, an' it is that
One says 'Ka-doot!' an' one 'Ka-dat!'"

Then Maud recalled that the ugly brute
She tried to set had said "Ka-doot!"

And ever since that historic day,
She blushes in an embarrassed way,
To think of the hobble she made once,
When she tried to set a gentleman hen.

AN ALLURING EXHIBITION

Magnificent Millinery Display in the Establishment of Thos. Stone & Son.

Captivating Novelties for the New Season—Immense Patronage—Other Departments of the Big Business.

Considering the high reputation the firm of Thomas Stone & Son holds as an up-to-date and first-class in every respect dry-goods, millinery and housefurnishing store, it is not to be wondered at that the hundreds of ladies who thronged the store yesterday and to-day, expected to see something not found in other stores. And they were not disappointed. Every department has been stocked with new century creations and many of the fair sex spent their whole afternoon in the one store.

With a determination to be right in the front rank, this enterprising firm has prepared an exhibition for the ladies of Chatham, this fall, which will call forth great praise from those who see it. The millinery this season, is worthy of great commendation, for this is one of the departments in which this firm excels. The beauty bewilders, the superb showing is inspiring, indescribable, magnificence is everywhere seen. The grace, charm, and splendor created by minds that have given thought to elegance for the fall of 1901, are here seen wherever the eye rests a glance. It shows Paris, London, Berlin, and New York productions in profusion. Smart, irresistible elegance that shows artistic character in every detail. Every taste has been studied to meet the demand of the immense trade done annually by this very popular establishment.

Among the choicest models seen in the great collection may be mentioned charming hats made of turquoise blue, ermine and Rhinestone ornaments. It is a very handsome creation and called forth many complimentary remarks from the ladies who were so fortunate in seeing it.

Little tailored hats are much in vogue this fall, and felt broadcloth is also used to a great extent. The prevailing tints for autumn wear are browns and greens, while black, black and white and gray are very popular. The suit hats are made of felt broadcloth and camel's hair cloth, with smart trimmings, of pom-poms.

Feather novelties are leading more than ever, and everything in feathers from a quill to a long plume, including the feather toques are shown. Much stitching and shirring is used.

The beauty of the hats are beyond description and they would have to be seen before one could make an estimate of the exquisite showing they make. The dress goods section has all the latest in Oxford, homespuns, chevrons, broadcloths, Venetians—all in black and color. In the black goods department are seen serges, armors and hundreds of designs in fancy weaves.

The silk department is very complete, taffetas, Louisines, peau de soie, etc.

The linen department, for which this firm is famous, is stocked with all the best in Scotch and Irish damasks, also table covers, napkins, tea cloths and a full assortment of table napery.

The dress trimming department has goods from the cheapest braid to the most expensive trimmings, and the showings in fancy collars, ruffs, lace and other effects make a pretty picture.

The ribbon department makes a full display of plain and fancy effects and this showing is very complete.

The fancy goods section in home decorations is always ahead of any former season.

Special mention should be made of the exceedingly fine showing of carpets, Brussels, Linoleums, etc., on the second floor. On this floor, also is Madam Skirving's dress making department.

Intending patrons would do well to call at Stone's before they make their purchases.

McKAY'S CORNERS.

Chas. Parsons has returned from a ten days' visit to his brother in London.

Rev. D. M. and Mrs. Robertson are taking a two weeks' visit at his home in Shakespeare, Ont.

Rev. Mr. Drumm, of Thamesville, took the service in St. James' Church Sunday evening.

George McCann, Jr., who has been out in the country for a few days, returned to the Cadillac on Saturday evening.

Duncan Ditch, who has been visiting in the village for the past two months, expects to leave for the lumber woods shortly.

Walter Tuck, of Harwich, was so unfortunate as to fall and fracture several of his ribs. Dr. McRitchie was called and the patient is now progressing nicely.

CAUTION: Avoid the weak watery which is often sold under the name of "Pond's Extract," which easily separates and often contains "acid alcohol" an irritant externally and, taken internally, a poison.

GORDON STORE IS EN FETE

Big Autumn Opening is Now in Full Swing With Scores of Patrons.

The Planet Visits the Establishment and Views the Many Magnificent Attractions Displayed.

The clerks in the various departments of the Gordon store are a happy lot of people to-day for the reason that they are surrounded by a wealth of newness in every line of goods and are kept busy showing and describing the new things to the store's many patrons and visitors who are crowding in in great numbers. There has been no up-to-date novelty that has been missed in any line in laces, ribbons, fancy goods, and gloves, the stock being displayed in simply bewildering. The big store has been tastefully prepared for the opening day, the drapery, etc., being most artistically done, and the general effect is most pleasing to the eye. The window dresser has been most artistic in his arrangement and designing and the passerby can get a very good idea of the general elegance of the store's stock, particularly in millinery, by a glance at the windows. These silent salesmen are not only attractive, but are found to greatly increase the sales, in dress goods, millinery and furs.

The gents' furnishings department is now in full swing; at lowest prices. This year they bought direct from the manufacturers with unusual advantages. The gents' department is up-to-date in every particular. They also deal in a fine line of American cottons as well as Canadian and English. Their wrapperies and outing gowns are the cream of the market. Their hosiery are very fine, including table damasks with matched napkins. The western section of the store is one of the finest show-rooms in the city, and will be found crowded with furs of all descriptions, capes, jackets, coats, caperines, and the latest materials and weaves in dress goods and silks. They carry the largest fur stock in the city and their showing this year is pastidious.

In the millinery department, the only thing that is troubling the ladies is the fact that they will have all their pattern hats and bonnets sold before the rush of the opening is over, so well have the styles taken with the firm's patrons. The millinery room is very tastefully decorated and the hats are shown off to such great advantage that they cannot help but be admired. One very attractive hat is a pretty autumn hat made of rough braid and three discs, one dark blue, one dark green and one green and white. It is also trimmed with fancy quills. Another which received a good share of attention was one made on a large Tuxedo shape, with a large rolling black velvet bow, gun metal and vespere ornaments are also used in its decorations.

There is also a large variety of turbans, children's hats and wicow's mourning hats. This firm makes a specialty of mourning hats. They have an exceedingly choice variety of outing hats, such as fedoras, crucifers, draped walking hats, dress shapes covered with velvet, silk, and open flame walking hats, ready-to-wear, etc. The popular shades this year are parrot-green, red, black and white. Blue is also much worn. The main trimmings are Wilhelmina—a combination of black and white velvet—oxidized silver ornaments, flitter edgings, with flitter bands, metallic velvet and velvetine, Paillette silk and an assortment of colors, chenille and silk quills—in fact everything posh and up-to-date can be found in this store. The ladies of Chatham should not miss seeing their grand free display.

Caps for Boy Wearers

Now then!

Here's a line of goods that are not costly, but are none the less important for that. You'll not catch us napping in any sort of wear that brings mothers to the store.

Speaking of mothers, the boy often comes himself, and that's a sign of confidence that we value very highly. The store where children are sent alone to buy has a right to feel a little pleased with itself.

But that's a digression. Let us tell you about these little caps:—

Boy's golf caps of navy and serge, 12 1/2c, 15c, 20c.
Boy's golf caps of dark and medium tweeds, 15c, 20c and 25c.
Boys' chiffrons, tweed or navy blue serge, with self or glazed peaks, 25c.
Small boys' fancy caps, blue and red jockeys, chieftains, in plain blue serge with white or red and white trimmings, 25c.
Boys' swell little military caps, with glazed peaks and heavy black silk trimmings, 40c.
