U OF OTTAWA FIRES LA ROTONDE'S EDITOR

OTTAWA (CUP) — Three more student editors have been fired from the University of Ottawa's La Rotonde — bringing to five the number of La Rotonde editors fired within the last five months.

A public notice distributed on the campus Thursday announced the dismissals of Louis Cliche, Pierre Trudel and Roger Roy. The mimeographed letter was signed by Rev. Leonard Ducharme, dean of students.

Only last Monday the three editors had been unanimously approved by the Students' Federation as editors for this year.

Caused Dismissals

Cause of the firing was publication three weeks ago of the opening issue of La Rotonde. The issue contained a report on the campus newspaper written by Normand Lacharite, one of the two editors fired last summer.

Lacharite and Jean David lost their jobs for a special anniversary issue in which they charged the university with "paternalism".

Father Ducharme's letter said the university "regrets to be obliged to forbid the present members of the editorial board (that is, Cliche, Trudel and Roy) any participation in any way in the activities of La Rotonde".

The action has been taken "to ensure the maintenance of good relations between the student body and the university" and "to ensure also that in the interest of the student body the journalistic process used by La Rotonde be consistent with professional ethics."

Criticizing the issue published three weeks ago, the letter said the editors made "no distinction between editorial matters and news."

The editors had not been "limited to facts while speaking of student activities," Father Ducharme said.

Prior to publication of Lacharite's story, the editors had presented it to the elected students' council. The council did not act and without waiting for a decision, editors published the article in full.

In the story, Lacharite gave his views on the issue which led to his and David's dismissal.

Criticized Report

In accepting the applications of Cliche, Trudel and Roy last Monday, the students' council had criticized publication of the report but unanimously elected the three to the editorial board. The three had been filling in for David and Lacharite.

It was reported Friday that the students' council was considering taking action on the dismissals.

All firings have been through the senior administrative officers of the university, not by the student's council which appoints the editors.

Somerville House Donated to UNB

Accommodations for female students at UNB was substantially increased when it was announced last Thursday that Lord Beaverbrook had donated his Fredericton Residence to the University.

Arts Nominate Queen Candidates

The Arts Society nominated eight candidates for the Arts Queen at their meeting in the new lounge of the Student Centre on October 23.

The co-ed chosen by vote of the Arts students will compete in the UNB Winter Carnival for the position of Campus Queen.

The following co-eds were nominated by the society:

Cathy Davis, second year Arts, from Mount Royal, P.Q.

Joan Kitchen, third year Arts, from Fredericton.

Carol Ann Brewer, second year Science, from Fredericton.

Joan McPherson, first year Arts, from Kingston, Jamaica.

Ursula Rodsewicz, first year Physical Education, from Newfoundland.

Christine Lloyd, first year Arts, from Newmarket, Ont.

Elaine Lutes, first year Arts, from Moncton.

Betty Rooke, first year Arts, from Moncton.

Other business included the ratification of the new Arts Society constitution. The constitution was presented by Dick Steeves, chairman of the constitutional committee.

Mary Jean McNichol was elected Freshman Representative to the executive.

After the business meeting, Prof. Fred Cogswell of the English department entertained the society by reading his favorite poetry and speaking on the writing of poetry.

The meeting was chaired by Carl Wallace, society president. The speaker was introduced by John Stockdale, and thanked by Anneke Deichmann.

RING REMINDER

Seniors are once again reminded that the deadline for placing orders for UNB class rings is October 31.

A record number of students are eligible to go to the polls tomorrow in the SRC Fall elections. In all, six positions are being balloted for in this year's contest. The polls will open tomorrow at 9:15. They will close at 12:30 for an hour and then be reopened from 1:30 - 4:30.

One of the biggest battles shaping up is that for Secretary of the SRC. It is being contested between two second year co-eds, Carol Ann Brewer and Margaret MacLelland.

Janet Hunter and Brian Kempster oppose each other in the voting for Chairman of WUSC. Both Miss Hunter and Mr. Kempster are third year arts students.

Four students are running for the three positions of sophomore representatives to the SRC. The very close race expected is between John MacLean, Carl Redstone, Finn Rimmer and Bob Soward.

For Freshman Posts

One Freshette and five Freshmen are in the contest for first-year representatives to the SRC. They are Jane Trimble, Toby Rankin, Hugh Moore, Donald Hammond, Douglas Bassett and George Albers. From these six, Freshmen students will pick two representatives.

SCM Plans Discussions On Human Attitudes

Do you understand how your religion differs from any other and why?

A good way to find out is to attend the SCM group study entitled "What's the difference?" at 1.15 p.m. this Thursday, October 30, in the Music Room at the Student Centre. Led by Alan McLay, this session will initiate a series of same-day-time-place group discussions on this interesting theme.

A second series, also at 1.15, but slated to be held in the Arts Building (Room 206), will begin on Wednesday, November 5. The

It's all between the boys in the contests for Freshman Class seats.

In the race for President of the class, Peter MacNutt and Fred Eaton oppose each other. Two more fellows, Toby Rankin and James Williams are in the running for Secretary-Treasurer. A third male, Tom Sifton has already been elected by acclamation as Vice-President of the class.

Poll Locations

Freshman polls for tomorrow's elections are situated in the Chemistry Building and the Forestry Building. For students other than Freshmen, Poll #1 is in the Forestry Building; Poll #2 is in the Art's Building and Poll #3 is in the Civil Engineering Building.

All students are eligible to cast ballots for the election of Secretary of the SRC and the Chairman of WUSC. Sophomores only vote for their SRC representatives and Freshmen only vote for their SRC members, and the positions of President and Secretary-Treasurer of the Freshman Class.

SRC President Comments

In commenting on the importance of tomorrow's elections, President of the SRC, Ron Manzer said: "We certainly urge all students to cast their ballots in tomorrow's elections and we particularly hope that a large number of Freshmen will vote. The two SRC representatives they will choose will represent some 500 students or one-third of the campus."

The Returning Officer for the elections is Earle Carpenter.

Two other campus positions have already been decided. Joan Young was elected by acclamation as Chairman of NFCUS and Jim MacNutt has been appointed by the SRC as Secretary of the AAA replacing the resigning Ann Vickery.

At a meeting of the Arts Society on October 23, following a report from a special book committee, there was a motion from the floor to the effect that Mr. Manzer and Mr. Wallace become co-editors of the magazine.

The co-editors have named the following editorial staff: John Ripley as prose editor, John Stockdale as poetry editor, Dick Steeves as business manager.

When asked about financing the magazine, Mr. Manzer said. "The Fiddlehead has donated $25.00 to us, and the book committee of the Arts Society has made some other arrangements to assist in publishing the magazine."

Prof Fred Cogswell of the English department will be faculty advisor to the editorial board. Mr. Wallace says that Prof. Cogswell has shown a great interest in the past in student creative writing, and has offered to help in any way possible with the magazine.

The editors plan to publish a magazine of 50 to 75, 6" x 9" pages. The magazine will be done in offset printing, and will be a limited edition of 200 copies.

The editors will be accepting material from any student contributors. Mr. Wallace stressed that contributors need not necessarily be members of the Arts Faculty, and also stated that in selection of articles for publication, the decision of the editors will be final.

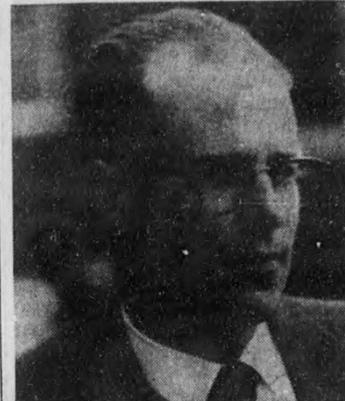

The title and the cover design for the magazine have not been chosen. The editors are open to suggestions.

Mr. Wallace is a senior Arts student, majoring in History. Before coming to UNB, he taught school, during which time he was faculty advisor to student publications. Here at UNB, he was news editor of the Brunswickan in his second year.

Mr. Manzer, also a senior Arts student, is majoring in English and Economics. He was on the staff of the Brunswickan for two years, being sports editor last year.

JOHN RIPLEY

JOHN C. STOCKDALE

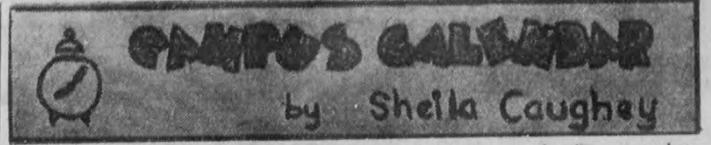

DICK STEEVES

John Ripley, the prose editor, John Stockdale, the poetry editor, and Dick Steeves, the business manager, have been named to assist the co-editors in this new project being undertaken by the Arts Society.

Both Mr. Wallace and Mr. Manzer are products of Dr. Desmond Pacey's creative writing class.

Mr. Ripley, the prose editor, is a post-graduate English student. He has had numerous short stories published in national magazines.

Mr. Stockdale, the poetry editor, is a junior Arts student, majoring in English. He was the joint winner of the Bliss Carmen Memorial Scholarship in 1958. He has had his poetry published in the Fiddlehead and the Brunswickan.

LIFE PRESENTS DISMAL ASPECTS

by MAC

I think that I shall never see
A poem as lovely as a tree.
That's why I don't write poetry.

Anyhow, poetry is not the proper medium to express the sentiments of this column.

Campus queens are beginning to appear among the multicolored leaves of the campus. While Mac would not be one to advocate that every charming female on the campus is not a queen in her own sight, he does recognize a need for some rhyme or reason to the method of choosing the fairest of the fair for faculty representatives. So—Mac tips his well-worn freshman beanie to the Business Administration Club and its method of choosing a queen. Last year the "Busy Adders" selected a committee in which they placed full trust to do the job. This committee privately nominated the candidates. Unknown to the lovely likeliest and the rest of the faculty, they observed and talked with the prospective queens, and selected one representative. This queen was chosen in a dignified, objective manner, not by a massed vote from a photo on the wall.

As Mac sits placidly looking at the falling leaves, from his vantage point in the Students' Centre cafeteria, he contemplates the cup of brown "muck" growing cold. Why is it, every day, once or twice a day, day in and day out, come rain or come shine, that hundreds of students do this same thing?

Choristoneura fumiferana, alias the spruce budworm, is, if luck be with us, licked. And, if luck be with us, next spring will see six million acres of pulpwood forest (about a third of New Brunswick area) stir with new life. For the first time in seven years, June may find that new buds and foliage will expend without the waiting threat of myriad crunching larval mouths. (The sight, too, of branches welded together by budworm excretions should in time become uncommon.) And acres upon acres of scorched forest, now appearing as if a searing heat had swept across them, should, when next the sap runs, flash green again. If this happens, smiles of relief will flash too. This insect war has cost a mint of money—$12,000,000 in fact. This is not chicken feed—though perhaps at times the donors had the uncomfortable feeling that it was another kind, that the voracious budworm palate was not adverse now and then to a dash of dollar with its other greenery. Yet the four pulp and paper companies (Fraser, Bathurst, N. B. International and Irving) and both governments believed in the spray project, and yearly funnelled funds into Forest Protection, Ltd., the central organization. No spraying, they were convinced, meant no wood—virtual destruction of fine timber on thousands of acres. So they kept spraying, and here we are.

We should not thump chests too soon, of course. As Dr. Webb (who supervises the mammoth project) points out, it might take only prolonged good weather for one or two years to inject fresh vigor into the waning epidemic. And New Brunswick, if a quirk of Nature should so decree, and should find us unprepared, still offers a feast of palatable fir for CHORISTONEURAS.

With the above as a code of ethics, if you will, we respectfully inaugurate our column designed to record the pulsations of an active campus.

THIS, THAT, AND THE OTHER THING: When the Year Book comes out next spring, a whole "new look" will grace its pages. Editor Ian Collins promises a new format in an attempt to break away from the standardization of the last four or five years.

Steve Patterson of Around The World fame has penned a new musical for this year's Winter Carnival. It's called Vicki.

The Red 'n' Black Revue, although still in the preliminary stages, looks great. In an attempt to add more continuity to the show, skits of the 'two-minute walk-on' variety will be featured between each act.

Next week the Red Bombers move to the soggy banks of the Tantramar for a showdown with the Mt. Allison Mounties. This whole campus, fell victim to a propaganda barrage rivaling the best of Madison Avenue. Now we have a chance to avenge that defeat. The time is right. The eighth should be ours.

Campus Speeders

The failure of campus motorists to score their first kill of the year is a fortunate, though almost unbelievable, phenomenon.

No one can claim that most of the drivers are not trying. They regularly exceed the official speed limit of 20 miles an hour, and never think of sounding a horn to warn prospective victims.

Still the pedestrians manage to survive. Just how is probably a trade secret, or perhaps a miracle, or maybe just proof that only the good die young.

In any case, no apparent effort has been made to crack down on even the most reckless motorists. The result: irresponsible drivers now use the brake only to avoid collision with their fellows.

The failure to enforce the speed limit is dangerous, for campus roads are now in use by unprecedented crowds of students.

Will one have to die before somebody re-establishes sane driving habits?

Will some boy or girl have to give up a limb before speeding is stopped?

We sincerely hope not.

Letters To The Editor

Sir: Thursday evening next, there will be many girls about town frantically pressing dresses, setting hair, and starching crinolines in preparation for the Fall Formal on Friday. Many painstaking days and hours must be devoted to the task of producing the ravishing creature to whom you give the corsage. Yet a large percentage of these girls will have had less than three days' notice—and it isn't enough!

Perhaps the fellows on campus just don't know this, or perhaps they are just being thoughtless when they call a girl on Wednesday night to go to a FORMAL in 48 hours. Since this is such a wide spread practice, and since no girl wants to stay home, the same dilemma recurs before each formal. We don't suggest that the girls refuse to go—but we do suggest that the fellows get change for a quarter and make that call right now.

Bombers 47-0 Over S.T.C. Soccer Team Wins Cup

The UNB Red Bombers rambled on the ground and through the air to post a 47-0 victory over Saint Thomas College last Saturday afternoon. The Maritime Intercollegiate Football League fixture was played in Chatham.

The Tommies, lacking beef and brawn on their front line, and running power in the backfield were held to only 5 first downs and 55 yards gained rushing by the stonewall UNB defense. The Bombers played possibly their best game of the season, seeming to score at will.

Brian Arthur, who has regained last season's form, and fullback Norm Bolitho each scored two touchdowns to provide the Red and Black scoring punch. Don Goss, Stirling Gorham and Steve Mills picked up majors with quarterback Pete Madorin hoofing 5 converts.

The Bombers piled up the awesome total of 520 yards, 340 rushing and 180 passing, and 27 first downs. Norm Bolitho personally accounted for 117 yards as he shouldered the brunt of the plunging chores. The UNB quarterbacks had a fairly successful day passing as Madorin connected on 6 out of 9, and Rylander 3 out of 4. One pass resulted in a major. Right end Steve Mills grabbed a short pass and galloped 60 yards for the longest touchdown run of the day. Rylander handling the kicking job, booted for a respectable average of 41 yards.

The Tommies' backfield, headed by Quarterback Bob Reid, and halves Lordon, Brian Jones, Walt Mills, Butch Ryan, and Terry Gulliver, only managed 55 yards rushing. Reid heaved 13 passes, completing 4, with one interception, by aggressive half Brian Hough. Triple threat man Reid also kicked for a 33 yard average.

Don Goss' touchdown was the first scored by a UNB lineman this year. On a third down kicking situation deep in their own end the Tommies' snap was bad, and Goss burst through and grabbed the loose ball to go into the end zone.

Late in the fourth quarter Tommies' end Brian Jones and UNB end Cameron were ejected from the game for as the referee so delicately put it, exchanging blows. On the last play of the game STC halfback Bussy Mills was thrown out for roughing. Injured players, half Jim Ross, center Dave Fairbairn and guard Bob Walker sat this game out to speed up their recovery.

For the first time in four years the New Brunswick Intercollegiate Soccer title is back where it belongs. The UNB Squad won the Canon Clarke Trophy on Saturday by holding Mount A. to a 2-3 score at Sackville. UNB won 4-2 at home and so took the series 6-5. Mount A. started well and were soon a goal up. However, UNB came back strongly and were rewarded through a goal by Page. They were unfortunate not to be leading at the half-way mark. After the interval a da Costa goal made it 2-1 for UNB and it was then that the issue should have been put beyond all doubt.

Instead a startling change in fortune came about half way through the second half. Stan Porter, UNB goalie, was the victim of a penalty decision following a roughing incident. The Mounties capitalized on the penalty to equalize, after which they continued to press and minutes later made it 3-2. UNB now had their backs to the wall and had to fight desperately to hold out. Porter came way out of his net to bring off a brilliant save near the end. Thus when the final whistle blew UNB had earned themselves the right to meet for the Maritime title. The game will be played here next Saturday.

Pat Hollett starred for the UNB eleven, which worked fairly well together until the penalty incident. Coach Jim Berryman felt the small field hampered UNB tactics and hoped that his team would revenge their loss by taking out the Mounties in the Sumner Cup Semi-Final, due to be played here soon. The Sumner Cup is open to all New Brunswick and P.E.I. teams. UNB won its berth by beating Moncton and RCAF Summerside in knock-out compe-
