MUTT AND JEFF STILL POPULAR

Hard times and slow business seem to have no effect on the popularity of Mutt and Jeff made famous by Bud Fisher's famous cartoons. Last night Griffin's was crowded to capacity, with many standing at the rear to see Gus Hill's dramatic version of Mutt and Jeff's ludicrous adventures at Panama.

VOL. LXIV.

BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, THURSDAY, APRIL 30 1914

MORTON & HERITY, PROPRIETOR

WHY WAS THE LOWEST TENDER NOT ACCEPTED?

Mr. Lucas Allen Would Give Explanation and Present Facts for the Consideration of the Ratepayers.

To the Editor Daily Ontario: As a resident ratepayer of the City of Belleville and also interested in the contract for paving Front and Bridge streets, I wish to place on record before the public and the ratepayers in connection with the awarding of the paving contract to the highest bidder, Messrs. Foley & Gleason, of Ottawa.

1—Both Mr. Harvey and myself have had an extensive experience in nearly all classes of construction and engineering work, having done work for the Dominion and Provincial Governments, several cities, towns and counties in Ontario as well as for large corporations and private individuals amounting in value to approximately one million dollars ($1,000,000) within the past ten years, and we defy anyone to show any contract or work that we have undertaken that was not completed in a satisfactory manner.

2—We have made a special study of concrete work, which is a large and essential item in the cost of the concrete base for permanent pavement and could have performed that part of the contract at a lower cost than any other contractor outside of the City of Belleville.

3—We propose, and we have arranged to have the entire work of laying the Asphaltic Concrete wearing surface and binder performed by the best and most practical men to be found in that line of work using only the best plant and machinery obtainable for paving work. These men have had long years of experience in laying all classes of asphalt pavements, thereby ensuring the best and most permanent work obtainable by any other contractor, and no contractor tendering for the work would be allowed to employ any man of inferior workmanship.

CLEANING OF FRONT STREET IS TO BEGIN

By Day or Two—Pavement Contractors to do Work—Letter to Chairman.

The committee received the communication relative to the cleaning of Front Street, Belleville, April 23rd, 1914.

Dear Sir:—On account of sewer and other underground work to be done on Front and Bridge Streets, we find that it will be some little time before we can start the paving work, and as a result, a contract for which was awarded us last night.

As the mud on these streets has gotten so deep as to become an annoyance to the merchants and pedestrians in general, we have arranged to start a gang within the next day or two cleaning up said mud and will appreciate any assistance you can give to expedite this work.

We trust our action will meet with the approval of your board and relieve the annoyance until we are ready to start paving.

Yours very truly, Foley & Gleason, By J. F. Driscoll.

CITY COUNCIL CHOSE BEST PAVEMENT

Is Statement of Dr. Platt, Chairman of Public Works—Differences Were Not as Has Been Contended.

Belleville, April 29th, 1914. Editor of Ontario: With your kind permission I should like to answer the question, as published in "The Weekly Ontario" under the heading of "Money to Pave" which was the heading of a letter of the Warren Board of Paving Co. who tendered for our pavement. They are very very sorry because they did not get the contract and are thus trying to arouse the ire of the citizens.

Now let us look at their letter. Tender No. 1 they say would have saved the citizens $8,500.00 and given to them the best pavement to be had. This is so utterly misleading and false that the average citizen should know different. This class of pavement was discussed in council and was not entertained for one moment by any of the aldermen when in Toronto last week asked the city engineer of Toronto what the thought of such a proposition for Erie Street and the answer he received was that he would not consider it for one moment. Yet this company would try to make our citizens believe that they were to be had and would give a saving of $8,500.00.

Next they would try to make out that tender No. 2 would give exactly what Foley and Gleason's tender offered and this have saved the citizens $2,250.00. Again they are wrong and the citizens have cause to be grateful to their council that they rejected their tender and accepted the one they did. The great difference of the two tenders is the quality of Asphalt used. The Warrens use California Asphalt and Foley and Gleason use Trinidad Asphalt which so far has given the best satisfaction wherever it has been tried. Here are a few facts for your thoughtful consideration. New York Asphalt is made of one of their best streets, namely Fifth Avenue, put down 17 years ago a Trinidad Lake asphalt pavement it gave such excellent satisfaction that last year it was repaved with the same asphalt. The City of Buffalo was one of the first to lay asphalt. She has experimented with everything. Up to date she has laid 4,077,338 sq. yards of Trinidad asphalt, 40,678 of California asphalt. Just note the difference, fraternal citizen. And now she has discarded all asphalt except Trinidad of which last year she laid 200,000 sq. yds. or over ten times what Belleville will lay this year. The City of London, England is discarding all other asphalt claims except Trinidad Lake to be the best. The City of London, Canada, turned down Warren's tender which was 18 cents per sq. yard less than Foley and Gleason's and gave it to the latter saying they wanted no more experience. Lindsay doesn't even bid for other tenders but gives it to Foley and Gleason as well as we are satisfied with the work they did for them last year.

Mr. Editor, the council have consistently given the contract to the firm who we think will give us the best pavement and the best is no too good for Belleville.

FRONT OF THURLOW

Front of Thurlow, April 28th.—A pleasing event took place on Thursday last when a double christening was performed by the Rev. A. E. Gardner of Melrose at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Claxton. FOLEY AND GLEESON GET CONTRACT

Council This Morning Accepts the Tender of $2.38 Per Square Yard—Other Tenders.

The contract for Front street and Bridge Street permanent pavements was early this morning awarded to Messrs. Foley & Gleeson.

The tender calls for the use of Trinidad Lake Asphalt for the paving of the streets.

When the council met last night at its meeting it immediately adjourned for a time to allow Public Works to resume the discussion on the pavement tenders.

When the discussion was over the council resumed and Ald. Platt arose and said: "Public Works Committee begs leave to report that we accept the tender of Foley & Gleeson for pavement of Front and Bridge Streets at $2.38 per square yard."

Yes—Ald. Duckworth, O'Flynn, Foster, Platt, St. Charles, Smith, Wood, Wallbridge—Total 3.

DISAGREEMENT AS TO ELECTION

Private Conservative Members Do Not Want General Election Now.

Hamilton, April 28th. A frank as well as interesting news despatch appears in the Hamilton Spectator (Con.) in regard to the General Elections and a lack of harmony in the Ontario Cabinet.

The Conservative caucus held yesterday afternoon is said to have been anything but a unit in favoring an early appeal to the electorate.

AMERICAN DOMINATION OF OUR STAGE

Women's Canadian Club of Belleville Addressed by Montreal Critic in Interest of Canadian Art.

The Women's Canadian Club had the honor yesterday afternoon of having Mr. Bernard K. Sandwell, financial journalist of Montreal, deliver an address on "Our Adjunct Theater." The meeting was held at the Y.M.C.A. Mrs. J. F. Willis, president, occupying the chair.

After the singing of the Maple Leaf by the gathering, the president introduced the guest of the club. Mr. Sandwell although a financial editor, attends "first nights" in Montreal and acts as critic for the Tuesday afternoon papers of that city. He is possessed of a genial humor and gentle satire which made his message all the more interesting.

In his opening remarks he paid high tribute to the interest of women in art. "It is the women of Canada who are directing the artistic tastes of our country. Men are all very well for business and politics. They furnish the tickets for the theater, but the ladies generally say what theaters shall be attended."

The local club for instance, has devoted a number of its sessions to lectures on the artistic, dramatic, and musical arts. "Your organization represents a change in attitude to the art of the theater, which a few years ago was regarded as immoral, but which today is recognized as immortal and capable of great results."

Evidence of the awakening are not in the number of British players in Canada and the honorary degree conferred by McGill on Mr. F. R. Benson.

The position of the Canadian theater is unique. Canada acquires a large part of her art from the United States. We have nothing to say of the nature of the plays sent us. Our theaters are looked to by firms in New York. Canada it simply part of their territory. It does not matter whether these shows have any value for Canada or not. What is the nature of the theatrical population turned out?

There is a small portion of English plays. To these Canadians have no objection. These plays are of sufficient international importance to warrant their being secured for American tours by the American managers. But South Africa and Australia are not dependent on the U.S. for their plays and why should Canada be? The great majority of these shows are what are manufactured in New York. A few years ago it was the army and navy heroic type, today the American play is the disorderly household. Very few American plays would interest German or French audiences. Neither do they entirely interest Canada for they are not our problems. Still the American plays are not as bad as they might be.

The whole burden of Mr. Sandwell's charge is that the control of Canadian theaters is not Canadian nor British but absolutely foreign and alien. This condition is unique in history.

There is no Canadian theater, but Australia has theaters of her own and is not the annex of any theatrical country.

The Australian theaters produce English plays, bring out English companies and have been the cause of the advent of a number of Australian dramatists.

The only Canadian theater is the French Canadian Theater in Montreal. The plays are selected to interest Canadians. No one in Paris or New York controls the management.

There is no English speaking Canadian theater. This condition has come upon us unawares. The rise of the theatrical trust is the result of the past ten, twelve or fifteen years. Before that Toronto and Montreal had occasional stars and some regular stock companies.

Since then the American theater has become violently national. The American is profoundly interested in ward politics, police corruption, attempts to legislate vice out of the land and so forth and wants dramatist to give him studies in those things. But these plays do not satisfy Canadians for the problems are foreign. Unfortunately the Americans are excluding the best English drama.

The British drama I got interest to us. Yet we rarely get any. When Canada once wakes up, she will not be long in taking steps to remedy this anomalous condition. One of the first things to do is to form a drama league. It is primarily for the organization of an intelligent theatrical audience. Montreal hopes to see the proprietary theater established in the near future. The establishment of such in the four or five Canadian cities will do most towards the cure.

MUSIC AND DRAMA

Mrs. D. J. Fairfield returned yesterday from Toronto, where she has been since Easter visiting her daughter, Mrs. (Dr.) Gutzeit in that city. On Tuesday evening she added the annual concert of Wesley Methodist Church, Dr. Gutzeit, son-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. Fairfield, is the organist and choir leader. The Toronto Globe in speaking of the performance says: "Mrs. Fairfield, the organist and choir-master, may honestly be congratulated on the showing his choir made as compared with the concert of last year. The choir singing was noteworthy for a marked development of both refinement and dynamic power. In the accompanying anthems by J. C. Warren 'Heart, Be Still,' the choir was heard to sing with a distinct and intelligent shade of tone, and a range of expression that made it one of the features of the evening. A novel number to the majority of the audience was a transcription for the chorus by the organist, the 'Moonlight.' Strange to say, the effect of the adaptation was decidedly good, the transposition of the melody for the voices in conjunction with the words, having a religious tone that would not feel sensitive to in the original. The choir sang the anthem 'Joyful Light,' by Tours, in which they revealed an excellent sense of effect and a brilliant soprano section. Interesting numbers were: 'Sir Arthur Sullivan's 'The Long Day Closes' for male quartette; the anthem, 'By the Waters of Babylon,' by John G. Whittier; a quartet of different setting in spirit from that of Condon; Mr. Henry Milne's baritone solo, 'The Fall of Jerusalem,' by Martin Blumner; the trio, 'Fraise Me,' by Verdi; Signor C. Martinelli's 'Save Us, O Lord,' for chorus; and Spohr's cantata, 'God, Thou Art Great' with solos by Mrs. Spence (soprano), Mr. Albert Atkinson (bass), Mrs. Gutzeit (contralto), and Miss Madesty (tenor). In the opening number, Tours the soloists were Mrs. Ruby Long (soprano), Mrs. Tisdale (contralto), Mr. George Carman (tenor), and Mr. Henry Milne (bass), who sang with great general appreciation.

Interesting variations of the program were the instrumental numbers and assistance given by Benedict Clark violin, Ernest Sanderson, violinello; Dan Dineen, flute; Clifford Giese, oboe; John Dineen, clarinet; Harold Crowther, bassoon; and Henry Alcott, French horn.

WEDDING BELLS

CADMAN—LOTT. A very pleasing event took place on Wednesday morning, April 15th, 1914, at the Foxboro parlors, when Miss Edith Lott, of Sidney and Mr. Wm. Adamson, of Halloway were quietly married. The ceremony was ably conducted by Rev. W. L. Brown. The bride looked beautiful in a suit of tulle with cream waist and hat to match. After the nuptial knot was tied the wedding party, consisting of eight left for Belleville where they partook of a very tasty dinner prepared at the Kyle House. Amid showers of confetti, Mr. and Mrs. Cadman were invited to the Lott train for Toronto. They will reside at Halloway where Mr. Cadman has a very successful business as milkman. On Friday evening, April 24th, Mr. and Mrs. Cadman were invited to the Lott home where a number of her friends gathered to do her honor in form of a variety shower. The following address was read by Grace Bell: To Mrs. Wm. Cadman, obse: Dear Edith— We a few of your many friends have come tonight to spend an evening with you in your old home. While we have brought you the new ties you have assumed, we very much regret the severance of the old. A review of the past brings the remembrance of the many times you have aided in all the different branches of church work, always giving your best willingly and generously. All that is past. You have left the old home and the old surroundings. You have married and gone to your husband's home. As the new duties and obligations present themselves, we know that you will be governed by the same high ideals. We have brought gifts and ask you to accept them as a more substantial expression of our love and esteem for you than mere words can convey. As you assign them to their various uses, we trust you will be reminded of us all. We greet you tonight with the kindest thoughts and best wishes for a happy future and hope both you and your new home will be blessed to sustain and comfort each other. Many things will remind us of your former residence among us, and rest assured the glad hand will always be extended whenever you come back to your old home town. Signed in behalf of Scott's neighborhood Grace Bell Bessie Scott.

HE ESCAPED INJURIES.

Yesterday morning at the Front St. crossing of the C.N.R. and C.P.R., something happened which might easily have been more serious. Two men were engaged in taking rails from a lorry. The plan is to shove them off one man being at each end. Unfortunately in putting off one rail, one of the men lifted his end of the rail and the other end became fast under another rail. The fall the latter was moved. One young man Walter Langbeek standing by was thrown off the lorry but fortunately was not injured nor struck by the rail.

MARRIED.

MODERN DEVICES MAKING DRIVING EASY FOR WOMEN

Handling an Automobile no longer requires Great Strength, Self-starters and Better Equipment Make Only Quick Work Necessary.

Success in driving a motor car among women are those who have confidence in themselves and a thorough knowledge of their car. Too many women, says Miss Frances J. Thornton, of Brooklyn, one of the few women instructors in this country, step, as it were from the sewing machine to an automobile and expect to drive skillfully and safely.

"Come to think of it," said Miss Thornton, as most of the women whose husbands are able to purchase automobiles have their sewing machines repaired for the hour they do not even possess this slight mechanical advantage! She added that the training of the average modern woman does not fit her to enter upon driving a car after an hour or two of instruction under some salesman's demonstrator. But properly trained, there is no more reason why she should not operate an automobile than a man, which is to say none at all.

There is, in fact, no opposition today to a woman driving a car where in the early days, there was a great deal of fear on the part of the operators. Cars then were looked upon with curiosity and disapproval, which, in many ways were justified; for the early automobiles was distinctly a man's vehicle. It was no easy thing for a woman to drive because of the expenditure of physical effort involved—the laborious work of cranking the motor, in the first place, and then, the shifting of gears, and, even the steering, which involved no small amount of real muscular labor.

Today there are great numbers of women driving cars, and no one thinks a thing of it. Self-starters, electric lighting systems, and all the labor-saving devices that now attach it within the physical possibilities of any woman. There remains, however, to make slight repairs on the road in this way, comes that confidence in all emergencies, which, according to automobile men, has been the weak point of women drivers all along. Through confidence the woman did not lose her wits when she is confronted by a condition that might mean accident, and in a large majority of cases, such a poised eminence of the necessity of her ever facing such a condition.

OBITUARY

LT.-COL. W. W. BROWN.

(Colborne Express). After a long and painful illness death relieved the suffering of our esteemed townsman, Lt. Col. William W. Brown, who passed away on Monday, April 20th, 1914. Deceased, who was in his 50th year, was a son of the late Ira Brown, of Cramah township. For some years he has been an Inspector under the Fruit Marks Act and an office he was especially adapted for and, although an appointee of the Liberal Government, he was retained in the service by the Conservatives because of his efficiency. He was married thirty years he has been connected with the militia, enlisting in a Squadron 3rd Prince of Wales Canadian Dragoons, about the year 1885, when he was promoted to the rank of Lieutenant-Colonel and Commandant of the 4th Infantry Company. He was in command of the Troop, as it was then designated. Starting as a private, he advanced steadily to the office of Lieutenant-Colonel and Commandant of the 4th Infantry Company. He was in the position of the allowed period of five years after which he was placed on the list of Reserve Officers, and has been at various camps. He succeeded in securing a commission with the Canadian troops that were sent there, resigned as Major of the 3rd Dragoons and enlisted as a private in the 2nd Canadian Mounted Rifles and accompanied him. On his return he was re-commissioned as Major. He was a member of the Methodist Church, a Mason, a Maccabee, a Workman and an Odd-fellow. The funeral services were well attended Thursday afternoon at the Salem Church, Rev. A. H. Foster being the officiating clergyman, and Rev. J. D. P. Kitching assisting. He leaves his wife and son, Mr. Clifford Brown of Minnesota, who was home recently, also two sisters, Mrs. F. W. McConnell and Miss Gertrude Brown, and a brother, Mr. Morley Brown. The sympathy of their friends and acquaintances is extended to them.

DECEDENT LEAVES SISTER IN BELLELILLE

Estate of Late Mary Lundy Hogan, of New York City, Has Been Appraised—Directors of Will.

New York City, April 25.—A report of the Transfer Tax State Appraiser, on file here today in the office of the Clerk of the Surrogate's Court, on the estate left by Mary Lundy Hogan—late sister, in Belleville, of Mrs. Louis Carr, of No. 376 Albert street—shows that when the decedent passed away here on Oct. 6th, 1913, she left an estate of $27,357.15. This sum represents $21,248.49 in 11 Savings Banks; $288.75 in furniture; $407.50 in personal effects; 50 shares of preferred stock of the Thompson-Surrett Company, $5,350.00, and 125 shares of Caledonia Oil Company, $62.50.

Out of this sum, $27,357.15, however, there are expenses of $11,768.81—General $306.16; debts $409.97, and commissions $408—which, when deducted, brings the estate down to the $26,180.34 figure. This, under the directions of her will, executed Oct. 4th, 1911, passes over, as follows:—Sarah Cunningham, faithful maid, of No. 212 East 16th street, the $28,750 worth of furniture; the sum of $5,000.00 to the St. Luke's Home for Aged Women, and the balance of the estate, to Francis E. G. Groat, nephew of No. 289 Gladstone avenue, Ottawa.

Mrs. Carr, the Belleville sister, and three nephews, Trevor H. Groat, of Arnprior, Ont., James B. L. Groat, of Oakville, Ont., and the Rev. George H. P. Groat, of the Catskill, N.Y., are entirely ignored by the decedent.

Albert B. Boardman, a friend, of No. 2 Hector street here, is the executor. In her will Mrs. Hogan directed that the premises at No. 212 East 16th street, in which she lived, be bequeathed, also, to Sarah Cunningham, the maid. The report here shows that at the time of her death she did not own the property.

Met With Accident.

Master John Groves, 12 year old son of Mr. John Groves, of Queensboro, passed through a trying experience on Wednesday, one which he can place on record as a miraculous escape from death. To be trampled on by a team of heavy horses as he was and escape so fortunately is an ordeal through which only those born of a lucky star could pass as he withstanding the many cuts and bruises he sustained, his injuries are not considered serious. He was leading the team when in some unaccountable way he was thrown under their feet and, metaphorically speaking, was "trampled all over." Fortunately that part of the barn yard on which the accident happened was covered with straw which served as a cushion and to this is attributed his escape from serious injury. Besides being more or less bruised about the body his forehead was cut to the bone, a bad gash was inflicted on his neck and he sustained a nasty scalp wound. Dr. Robertson was summoned and found it necessary to use several stitches in dressing the wounds. No serious results are anticipated.—Tweed Advocate

Can Not be "Beet."

As a side line to his regular pastime work, the Rev. Mr. Binswanger is a little gardening. He left some pumpkins in the ground over winter, and when he took them out of the ground this week he came across one which measured 42-2 in. Who can beat this?—Deseronto Post.

EVERY NEURALGIC HEADACHE CURED!

USE "NERVILINE"—IT WON'T FAIL

The Miraculous Healing Power of This Linctament is Unfailing. RUB ON NERVILINE

There may be a thousand pains; yet excepting sciatica, neuralgia is the worst. Most remedies are not strong enough or penetrating enough to relieve neuralgia. You know everything you have tried has failed to give even momentary relief, and you have decided that neuralgia must be borne forever.

Do not make this mistake—try NERVILINE. It is a powerful analgesic. Apply it to the sore spot. Notice the glow that spreads deeper and wider as Nerviline's curative power is carried further and further into the tissue. How quickly the pain is soothed! How rapidly it lessens. In a little while you have forgotten the pain—it has actually gone.

Neuralgia gives Nerviline an opportunity over all other pain remedies. Not magic as you might imagine after you have used it—simply the application of scientific knowledge to the relief of pain. Nerviline is a great outcome of modern medical ideas. You cannot afford to be without it, because pain comes so quickly and comes to us all. Guaranteed to cure the aches and pains of the whole family. Large bottles, 50 cents; trial size, 25 cents; at druggists or the Catastrophe Co., Kingston, Canada.

HINDUS IN SOUTH AFRICA

There have been passing references in Canadian papers to the case of the Hindus who have gone to South Africa. There have been more extended references in English papers to the same matter. In South Africa, it appears, from what has been stated in the English press, the regulation of immigration from India is a local rather than a federal matter. Natal has encouraged Hindu migration and as a consequence the Hindu population of that Province is larger than the white population—141,000 to 98,000. In Old Cape Colony, where such migration has not been encouraged, there are only 15,000. In the Transvaal, where the desire has been to exclude Hindus altogether, there are but 8,000. Even in Natal the policy has been to confine the Hindus to labor on sugar plantations and in mines where they are held as indentured servants—a condition little different from that of slavery. These Hindus in Natal are not free to leave that Province and enter the Transvaal. They are not free to move about at will even in Natal itself. As a protest against these conditions the Hindus in Natal recently engaged in the wholesale burning of sugar plantations. Others, to the numbers of 2,000, moved in a body into the Transvaal. The leader was arrested and sent to jail for nine months on refusing to pay a fine of £60 and his followers were escorted back to the Natal border. In an encounter between the Transvaal police and the Hindus six of the latter were killed and thirty wounded. Three of the police were also injured. These things have aroused a bitter feeling among the natives in India and the British Viceroy of India, fearing that the state of affairs will spell trouble for him, has entered a protest. This protest led to the recent emphatic declaration of Premier Buxha that South Africa must be left free to pursue her own policy regardless of the effect on India. With a native black population outnumbering whites in the proportion of something like seven to one, Buxha naturally objects to having an Indian problem added to his other difficulties.

The whole case illustrates anew the many difficulties in the way of forming an organic union out of an empire scattered all over the world, with so many diversities of race and greater diversities in local interests.

THE GERMAN POINT OF VIEW

"Germany cannot submit to Britain's unconditional authority over the seas." This is the most important statement obtained in Germany by a staff correspondent of the London Chronicle, who has lately been touring that country for the purpose of obtaining the German point of view regarding the naval rivalry between Britain and Germany. The statement was made by a German Admiral. When it is remembered that Germany, like Britain, has possessions in Africa and China, and that three-fourths of her commerce is seaborne, the reasonableness of the position taken will be readily understood. At the same time the London Chronicle found nothing but goodwill to Britain, and a desire for a better understanding with that country, even among German naval and military authorities. "Great Britain and Germany," said the Admiral already quoted, "are in the forefront of culture and enlightenment, and of everything that makes for the betterment of the world. Their interests are the same, and their true policy is to work together, and remove all causes of difference." Any relaxation of the strenuous naval competition must come, he added, as the fruit of a true understanding between the nations. Germany must have her place in the world's work, and means to extend her civilization and culture. The Admiral regards it as the true interest of England that such opportunities should be open to Germany. The Colonial question is not one of urgency, because Germany can at the present time absorb all her labor, and has even to import more. But this question is destined to become one of great moment in the future, and England ought to recognize the rights of Germany. The Admiral finds it hard to understand why England, which took Gibraltar from the Spaniards, India from her native rulers, Egypt from Turkey, and Hong Kong from the Chinese, should reproach Germany with her small efforts at expansion.

At the same time Germany distrusts Churchill's proposal of a "naval holiday"—a cessation for a year in warship building by the great powers—as long as British statesmen continue trying to cajole Canada into the building of Dreadnoughts which would really take the place of ships that might otherwise be built by England herself. This sustains the point frequently made that warship building by Canada would aggravate rather than lessen the present naval rivalry in Europe.

The whole statement should be seriously considered. We shall never get anywhere in the movement for disarmament until we learn something of the point of view of other people.

GERMANIZING ALIEN POPULATION

On her northern, eastern and western frontiers Germany is endeavoring to assimilate alien populations. In the north the alien population is Danish, on the east it is Polish and on the west French. The eastern acquisition came with the partition of Poland over 100 years ago, the Northern as the result of the taking of Schleswig-Holstein from Denmark in the sixties and the western as the outcome of the Franco-German war of 1870 and the annexation of Alsace-Lorraine. In all these quarters an effort is being made to impose German customs and laws on conquered peoples. How much bitterness has been aroused in one quarter was indicated some time ago when a German officer in an Alsatian town told his soldiers to use their bayonets on civilians who insulted them and in doing this precipitated a serious riot. In Schleswig-Holstein, a Danish lady born in that province, and who has practically lived there all her life, was not allowed to open a school. The Danish students from Copenhagen, etc., when visiting their friends in Schleswig, have to remove their flag with the white cross that they wear on their caps before they are allowed over the border.

A Danish lady put up red and white curtains (the Danish colors) to her windows, and another planted red and white flowers in her garden, and they were both ordered by the authorities to remove them.

A confectioner exhibited a cake in his window, and on it put a Swiss flag, which was a small white cross, rather similar to the Danish flag. The police ordered the removal of the offending ensign.

In Prussian Poland similar incidents have occurred. Germany will have enough to do for a hundred years to come in consolidating these alien Provinces as part of her empire without seeking quarrels abroad.

An exciting experience, says the London Chronicle, befell Lieut. Fowler, R.N., while flying the British Admiralty monoplane No. 84 from Harwick to Sheerness. About 4 o'clock, when he was near Colchester, the throttle wire of the machine broke, and the monoplane fell into the sea about two and a half miles from shore. The accident was witnessed from the shore, and life-boats at once put off to the pilot's assistance. Lieut. Fowler, however, piloted the monoplane under its own engines to the coastguard ship, and the coastguardmen pulled it to their station. This was an ordinary air machine—not a hydroplane which is capable both of flying and also of floating on the water. With a hydroplane the feat would have been an easy one. With an ordinary monoplane it was an extraordinary accomplishment.

Almost four centuries have not frayed the charm of the world's master entertainer whose birthday anniversary was celebrated last Thursday in every civilized country. As the centuries push on the wonderment increases that the Englishman should have achieved his high position with the very common material he used. The gifted son of Avon did not promulgate any new thought, organize a new cult or found a new religious philosophy that would fit the conscience of men who wanted to be bothered the least by it.

Nothing spectacular marks his career. He took man just as he found him. He painted him as he saw him. Shakespeare did make man appear the most perfect work of God. Observations from Shakespeare's mental palette sketched man with his imperfections and foibles and far short the perfectness of a lily. This is one reason Shakespeare has lived while thousands of other literary men have gone into oblivion. He sang music in the common tone that you and I appreciate. He depicted emotions he saw, not ones he imagined.

A writer in the Scientific American describes the Babylonian excavations, which German archeologists are conducting. Of all the interesting discoveries that have been made, Nebuchadnezzar's palace may be considered the most important.

Little except the foundations of the palace remain, and they are of square burned bricks, each of which bears on its lower face the name and title of the great king. The several hundred chambers of the palace are small; some of them are scarcely larger than a modern bed. One chamber, much larger than the rest, had at one side a low platform of bricks. That is supposed to have been the throne-room; upon the platform of the throne of the king probably stood.

There was a sacred street in Babylon that led from the palace to the temple. Along it the images of the gods were carried in procession in time of festival. The palace gateway that led to the street, known as the Ishtar gate, is most imposing, and gives the spectator a good idea of how Babylon must have looked in its glory. Whatever its original height may have been, it still stands forty feet above the street.

Its six square towers of burned bricks measure twelve feet each way, and on all their sides, one above another, there are beautiful bas-reliefs of bulls, lions, dragons and animals of fantastic shapes. The reliefs are of brick, glazed blue and yellow and white, and the coloring is as fresh as it ever was. Even brick of the relief was glazed separately, and so accurately that when it was placed in the wall it formed a part of the perfect picture.

Within the city of Assur were discovered the earliest Assyrian palaces and temples, the home of the mayor, an intricate system of water-works and drainage, a business street lined with shops and paved with blocks of marble, the thickly crowded residential section of the poorer people, the great vaulted tombs of the nobles, with massive doors of stone which still swing on their stone pivots, innumerable weapons, and ornaments of gold and stone.

Not content with the improvement in the incandescent electric lamp brought about by using drawn wire filaments of tungsten instead of carbon, electric experts are seeking an even more efficient metallic filament. According to the London Times, ductile molybdenum may supply the want. Molybdenum seems to be the most promising of all the so-called rare metals at all suitable for use in electric lamps. Molybdenum has rarely if ever been melted; consequently filaments of the pure or the alloyed could be used at a higher temperature than tungsten. That would mean better lights for the efficiency of an electric lamp largely depends on the temperature to which the filaments can be raised. Molybdenum is a white metal, almost as malleable as iron. It can be forged while hot and worked up into thin rods, which in turn can be drawn into wire. Experts are now trying to find out whether the wire can be drawn fine enough to have the necessary electrical resistance.

Many of the big land estates at present held in England have no better basis than plain stealing. At a time when the British Parliament was controlled by the Privileged Few vast areas of common land were allotted to private individuals by Act of Parliament. The Croydon Commons, for example, says a writer in the London Chronicle, are now but a name, and few, perhaps, have any idea that there ever were any commons there. Before the Enclosure Act of 1797 they extended from Croydon town to the foot of Norwood hills, and they are now for the most part covered with houses. Nearly one-half of the acreage of the borough was held in common, and nearly one-quarter (2,200 acres) was open waste and common, over which the public roamed without let or hindrance. But the population was small—namely 5,743—and the land was allotted to those who already had land. In spite of protests from the powerless common people. Nearly one-eleventh of the whole borough was allotted to the Archbishop of Canterbury, afterwards passing to the Ecclesiastical Commissioners. When the corporation of Croydon, a few years ago, re-acquired some of what had been common property, in order to create an open space for recreation purposes, it had to pay nearly £109,000 for 469 acres. "It," says the writer quoted, "it wishes for more open spaces it will have to buy back its own commons. Fortunately enclosure of commons and common lands in England has now come to a standstill, but the evils of enclosure, which ran riot during six centuries of land-lord legislation, can never be abolished, although it is to be hoped they are now likely to be abated."

It is not saying anything new to say that the man who owns a home or a farm is much more interested in keeping it up and in gearing the community up than the rent-payer whose only interest is a temporary one, lasting until he moves.

Yet, do you realize how rapidly both homes and farms are passing into the hands of tenants—how rapidly great numbers of Americans are becoming nomads?

In the six rich states of Illinois, Iowa, Kansas, New York, Ohio and Pennsylvania the past generations have seen an increase of 121,167 in the number of tenant farmers, while the number of home-owning farmers actually decreased 61,915. And what was true in these states is only a sample of what has been going on in varying but decreasing degree all over the country.

But that is only one side of the picture. In the cities, too, tenancy has been increasing with similar rapidity. Here and there you find a city which boasts that its inhabitants own their own homes; but even in these conservative centers apartments and tenements are growing up like Jonah's gourds and every May

Day is a time when thousands flit from place to place.

As soon as a farmer "makes a pile" he moves into town and rents a house or apartment, while some tenant moves upon the old homestead, and, like a rat, skins it. The country landlord lives in town on the sweat of another man's brow, and in turn is sweated by the city landlord.

That being true, remember this: Absentee landlordism has ruined every nation upon which it has gotten a commanding foothold.

If you want to feel that you are a real and vital part of the community and not a human cork floating on a tide; if you want to do something helpful to yourself and serviceable to your country, earn your own home.

—Wichita B. con.

In a few days the fly which has been hibernating in cracks and crannies in the house will be emerging from its winter seclusion, and will commence its operations, as usual by visiting the windows to ascertain what the weather looks like outside. Now is the time to combat the first winged visitors of the season by liberally sprinkling window sills with poisoned insect powder, for by destroying the advance guard of the pestiferous flying army it will rid the house of a dangerous species of insect, and by putting up screens to windows and fixing the screen doors to entrances, much will have been effected to start the season with a clean internal sweep of this insect.

Externally, the removal of all rubbish that may have been allowed to accumulate during the winter will assist in mitigating the fly plague by depriving flies of suitable breeding spots contiguous to the house.

By adopting early preventative measures the fly nuisance will be materially minimized throughout the whole season, but when several broods are allowed to appear before taking these precautions the struggle becomes keener and extermination more difficult.

The long expected visit of the Kaiser to the French President was nearly marred by an accident and a slight piece of tactlessness on the part of the President's valet. On the first evening it appears that the Kaiser's brushes had failed through some misunderstanding to arrive in time. Brushes that had been presented to the President himself by the Service League of France were sent to His Majesty. To the horror of everyone within 40 yards of the room, no sooner had the Kaiser lifted them out of the box than the epic notes of the "Marseillaise" thundered forth from the backs of the brushes, which contained small music boxes. The valet who had taken them in had forgotten to turn on the silencer. The Kaiser, it is said, immediately dropped the brushes and went pale blue, his moustache wagging furiously. It was only after a long explanation in several languages that he was induced to believe that the incident was not a specially designed and manoeuvred affront.

A TRYST

I will not break the tryst, my dear,
That we have kept so long,
Though winter and its snows are here,
And I've no heart for song.

You went into the voiceless night;
Your path led far away,
Did you forget me, Heart's Delight,
As night forgets the day?

Sometimes I think that you would speak,
If still you held me dear,
But space is vast and I am weak—
Perchance I do not hear.

Surely, how'er remote the star
Your wandering feet may tread,
When I shall pass the suldering bar,
Our souls must still be wed.

A MOTHER'S SLUMBERING SONG

Sleep my darling Delbert sleep
Narrow thy bed and deep,
Neither hunger, nor thirst nor pain
Can touch or hurt thee again,
I, thy mother will bend and sing
As I watch thee calmly slumbering,
Sleep my little son sleep.

Sleep my little son sleep
Narrow thy bed and deep,
Soon in the Angel's tender arms
Closely sheltered from earth's alarm
Thou wilt waken darling mine
Where all is mercy and love divine
Sleep my little son sleep.

Sleep my little son sleep
Narrow thy bed and deep,
I have wept till my heart is dry
But now I smile as I see thee lie
With small hands crossed in death's mute prayer.

Never to reach in wild despair
Of hunger's anguish, all is o'er,
I have wept but now I can weep no more
Sleep my little son sleep.

Sleep my little son sleep
Narrow thy bed and deep,
A little while I too shall rest
Close by the side of my Delbert blest
Safe is my son, earth's anguish done
Safe at the feet of the Holy One
Sleep my little son sleep.

In memory of Delbert Mumby 12 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Mumby, of Rawdon, and grandson of James T. Belshaw Stirling, England.

Note—The above lines first appearing in News-Argus, Stirling, are republished as they have but few equals if any in the expression of the mother's loss and anguish.—J. S. S.

INQUIRY IS DENIED

Mr. Hanna Replies Anger to Mr. Bowman's Charges

PERSONAL PERSECUTION

Heated Debate in Legislature Upon Presentation of Allegations of Alliance with Liquor Interests and Debauchery For Commission of Inquiry—Mr. Hanna Avoids Issue

TORONTO, April 29.—The days of the session of the Legislature were marked yesterday by an emotional debate arising out of the Provincial Secretary Hanna's demand for a royal commission to investigate the conditions surrounding the liquor interests and the Scott Act during the Scott Act election. At a late hour last night the debate concluded, and on a division the motion for an inquiry was defeated. The charge which Mr. Bowman preferred against Hon. Mr. Hanna was, in brief, that he and the liquor interests through their representatives had agreed that the Government or one of its officials should take steps to procure the defeat of the Scott Act in Peel, Wellington and Huron Counties, and that the visit of Lieutenant Governor to Welland just prior to the election was in fulfillment of that contract. In conclusion it was charged that the Minister had "illegally, wrongfully and corruptly intervened, interfered with and influenced voters."

Mr. Bowman declared that the liquor interests had decided that the Scott Act, which was likely to become popular in the province, should be defeated, and accordingly raised $25,000 to defeat it. They supported Government candidates in by-elections and in the provincial election of 1912. It was agreed with the Government that the act should be defeated jointly, and the statement as to weaknesses prepared by the Government was issued with that intention. It was prepared in a conference of liquor interests with the Government.

In beginning his brief reply, Hon. Mr. Hanna said that this "last act in a splendid drama," although called a discharge of duty by the Opposition, was not so in the minds of the people who had observed affairs of the last eight months, both in and out of the House. Some would term it the "worst example of personal persecution that they had known in the annals of the province." He would speak however to the House and to the province with candour and show that as far as the charge concerned him the conditions in the province and the constituencies gave them a complete lie.

On the 22nd day of this month the member for North Bruce, under the guidance of his leader, had made a statement and motion, dealing with the same episode. Not a new title had been added here, nor a circumstance that was not challenged then. When the matter was disposed of some gentlemen were ashamed of their course and two or three were members of the Opposition.

"While my name did not appear in that statement, it was to me, and at me," declared Mr. Hanna. "I made a complete statement, absolutely true from start to finish, and meant to be full and fair and frank. That statement was accepted by this House, this province, and the press outside of those too tightly bound to ties of party."

"This," he declared, "is the best living example of peasant politics that the province has yet given." "I am going to say this: that from one end of the province to the other, and without qualification or reservation, and I care not what test may be applied, what I said was absolutely true. (Applause.) Every charge of alliance between the Government and the liquor interests was untrue, and every one imputing wrong doing on his part was untrue. No matter the language used, it was untrue."

Mr. Hanna then reviewed the attacks on his Department and the charges of an alliance with the liquor interests. "There is no such bargain and never was such bargain, and as to $25,000, I know absolutely nothing, but when they speak with such certainty they will doubtless be accepted as authorities."

Mr. Rowell contended that the Provincial Secretary had failed to meet the motion. His son, friend of the Government, had suggested that this answered the charge. The public wanted to know if when Mr. Snider went into the riding, when he represented that he came from the Department of the Provincial Secretary when he went there with all the weight and prestige of the Government and sought to influence temperance Conservatives to defeat the Scott Act—did he so that of his own mind or at the request of the chief of the Department of the Provincial Secretary? Upon that question they had had no light and the only way they could get that light was by the granting of the inquiry.

Mr. Rowell then quoted a statement which he had received from a prominent Conservative, at one time Minister, Mr. Charles Steel, reeve of Peel, Colborne. In his letter Mr. Steel asked for the dismissal of an official who sought to interfere in a local election, and offered to testify as an enquiry.

TRENTON

LINDSAY BARRIE

OUR daily news letter from this thriving town furnished by The Ontario's special representative.

Busy Trenton

Trenton, April 22—Mr. George Evans, of Toronto, is one of the owners of "Bayview Gardens" sub-division, adjoining the C.P.R. divisional property in East Trenton, is in town today. He likes Trenton and believes the town will be one of the best in the Dominion, when the projected civic improvements are completed.

The "Byron Whittaker" ran aground in the bay, early this morning, but was released without difficulty and proceeded on her way.

We are in receipt of the handsome booklet issued by the R. Weddell Dredging and Contracting Company. Photographs of every vessel in the fleet, with their measurements and digging capacity, are included in this booklet, making it one of the finest and most artistic productions we have ever seen.

The Hon. Ball, given last evening by the Daughters of the Empire, in the Parish Hall, was a very enjoyable affair. The attendance was not as large as usual, but, for once, being in the hall.

We notice that Belleville has taken up the Heaton proposition, with a view of securing new industries. It is a fair scheme and results will certainly be obtained.

Mr. W. A. Blocker was out today with his new Mitchell car. It is a very handsome outfit.

Mr. Jas. R. Stevenson, who was taken with a paralytic stroke on Sunday last, is still unconscious.

A number of young Trentonians attended the "Red Widow" performance at the Griffin opera house, Belleville, this evening.

Motorcycles seem to be increasing in popularity. The local agents of the "Indian" are distributing to purchasers, a number of machines, this week.

Mr. W. A. Blocker was out today with his new Mitchell car. It is a very handsome outfit.

Mr. Jas. R. Stevenson, who was taken with a paralytic stroke on Sunday last, is still unconscious.

A number of young Trentonians attended the "Red Widow" performance at the Griffin opera house, Belleville, this evening.

Trenton, April 23rd.—The death occurred last evening at 8:30 o'clock, of James R. Stevenson, one of the oldest residents of Trenton. The deceased was taken down with a stroke of paralysis on Sunday last, and never regained consciousness. Funeral arrangements will be announced later in this column.

Miss Kirkpatrick, of Toronto, who has been visiting her sister, Mrs. Farncombe, for some weeks, returned to her home today. During her visit Miss Kirkpatrick was the guest of honor at a number of social functions.

Mr. J. W. Evans, son of Mr. J. D. Evans, of this place, was the successful applicant for the position of city engineer of Belleville. There were thirty applicants for the position.

A meeting will be held shortly to arrange for a celebration. The date has not been decided on, but it is not improbable that it will be held when the Old Boys meet in June.

The Meyers stone house, which is at present without a roof, will be shortly turned into a small factory. It plans now being considered, work out as expected.

Long Bros., confectioners, have had fitted up in their premises, a very attractive and convenient lunch counter.

THE latest news of the town and surrounding neighborhood is given in an interesting manner.

MELVILLE

The harbor is a busy looking spot relieving the situation somewhat.

C. W. Boyler is offering $5 feet frontage on Dundas Street South, adjoining the Bank of Montreal for sale. This is a fine property and should soon be picked up.

In recognition of her faithful and valued services as organist for some years past, the congregation and choir of St. George's Church, have presented Mrs. Irvin Gains with a handsome china cabinet and a set of dining-room chairs.

The meeting of all the local managers of the Electric Power Company will be held here some day this week.

The King Street Methodist Church was well filled with an appreciative audience last evening, the occasion being the rendering of the Crucifixion by local and outside talent.

Fuller, April 27.—Not much seedling done yet. As the weather is some warmer now, some farmers will likely begin to look it over.

There was service in the Presbyterian church last night.

Mr. Arthur Burke of Bayside spent a few days last week with his partner.

Mr. Frank Morton of Rogan spent Friday with her father, Mr. Wm. Dean.

A number of our neighbors went to the farm raising at Mr. Fred Gray's, Rogan. Some of the ladies went to help Mrs. Gray.

Miss Molly McAvey is improving under the care of doctor Zwick.

MEDIATORS CONFER

First Steps Taken to Secure Peace in Mexico.

WAR PLANS GO FORWARD

Washington's Interest Is Divided Between Dignified Calm and Aggressive Action and Military and Naval Preparations at the Capitol—Panama's Men Land at Vera Cruz.

WASHINGTON, April 29.—The Mexican crisis is now centering on the issue between those who are seeking, through the good offices and in termination of Latin-America, to find some middle ground for pacific adjustment, and those who regard a resort to arms as an inevitable consequence of what has occurred.

Throughout the day two distinct branches of activity were manifest here—that of the envoys of Argentina, Brazil and Chile, in formulating a plan of adjustment to be submitted to the United States and the Huerta regime, and that of the military and naval forces of the United States, which continue to go forward steadily in preparation for any eventuality which may develop.

The arrival of 5,000 troops at Vera Cruz, was one of the notable military developments of the day.

Chief interest was directed to the sessions of the South American envoys, lasting through the day and late into the evening. The meetings are held at the Argentine legation, where, seated about a long mahogany table, the three envoys deliberated much as an international court would weigh a case of supreme importance pending its decision.

At the White House President Wilson, and his Cabinet advisers held a lengthy meeting, devoted chiefly, however, to the Colorado situation, although the Mexican crisis continued in the foreground. To a large extent, however, it was felt that the Mexican situation was now before those who had undertaken to exercise their good offices, and care was taken not to embarrass the efforts of the envoys by any announcements of conditions of settlement which the United States would insist upon. A spirit of optimism over the progress of the negotiations was distinctly apparent in executive quarters.

INQUIRY BEGINS AT ONCE

Hon. Mr. Haasen Says Marine Scandal Will Be Probed.

OTTAWA, April 29.—In the House yesterday Hon. J. D. Haasen outlined the position in Quebec, where graft charges in the Marine Department are being investigated. Mr. Drouin, the purchasing agent of the Department and an official of the Justice Department have been sent down to investigate.

In reply to Sir Wilfrid's question Mr. Haasen explained that the pay sheet had been padded in 1908-1909. The timekeeper, the accountant of the Department and the paymaster had all passed the accounts, and they were paid to persons who were not really employed.

This was admitted by the accountant and another official. The investigation would commence immediately, and four officials were now suspended.

C. P. R. STEAMER ASHORE

Montfort Runs Aground on Island of Orleans.

QUEBEC, April 29.—The C. P. R. steamer Montfort, bound from Antwerp to Montreal, with 160 passengers and a general cargo, went aground while approaching the harbor of Quebec at 9:30 o'clock yesterday morning under a fog. She went aground on the beach just below the Island of Orleans.

The tide had been running down over two hours when the accident occurred. Experts said there was no danger for the vessel, except injury by her own weight, as she was lying on a sandy bottom.

GRAND TRUNK APPOINTMENT.

A circular issued from the office of Mr. H. C. Martin, general freight agent and approved by Mr. C. E. Dewey, general traffic manager, announced the appointment of Mr. Vivian G. Snell to be commercial agent of the Grand Trunk Railway System at Moncton, N. B. Mr. Snell is well known among the shippers of merchandise in Montreal. He was solicited freight agent for the Grand Trunk from 1906 to July last when he became city freight agent. He entered the Grand Trunk's service in 1895 as call boy, became telegraph operator at Bonaventure Station and was afterwards employed in the local freight offices and as agent in Montreal for the National Despatch—Great Eastern Line (Central Vermont Route) Express. Mr. Snell succeeds Mr. G. W. Grand Trunk Pacific Railway as division freight agent at Moncton.

LADY NICOTINE IS FOREIGN TO THE FAIR SEX

Women Are Not Addicted to This Evil Habit in Peterborough. But Are Fond of Sport.

Peterborough women are not cigarette smokers. The announcement is that cigarette smoking is fast becoming a common practice among society women of Ottawa, Toronto and other cities. While there may be women in the city who smoke and who think nothing of the habit, taking it as a matter of course, yet these women are probably so few in number that they in no way influence the representative society of Peterborough, and it is practiced only on exclusive occasions. Some of the members of the city "club" who probably have seen the city grow from a town when there were no strangers are responsible for the remark that they never have seen a local society woman with the fair lady smoking. It is at social functions or in public or even when a lone guest was present. This would seem to determine pretty definitely the attitude of the women of this city as to cigarette smoking, public at any rate. Englishwomen probably regard smoking among members of their sex in different light from the Canadian women, thinking nothing of the habit in many instances. There are women in this city, no doubt, but they certainly do not smoke at functions, confining the practice to their own homes. Speaking of the matter of sports as good, showing as horsewomen golfers, curlers, motorists, tennis players and other sports—Review.

SUPREME COURT OF ONTARIO

High Court Division—Calwell vs. Reid

This action came up before His Honor Judge Frazer for the judgment and reference to the Master, Col. Laizer, to take the accounts involved in two land mortgages made respectively in 1881 and 1911 for $2255 and $1410 respectively, which mortgages fell in arrears and were assigned to the Administratrix of the Estate of the late F. C. Caldwell, as well as a chattel mortgage made by the Defendant to one, W. R. Mather, to secure the payment of $1750. The collateral was the title to the land and chattels was in the said F. C. Caldwell who died in Toronto in April 1911. The Defendant contended that the Decedent was given to the said F. C. Caldwell as trustee and that he, the defendant had paid the most of the monies which had been paid on the said mortgages and that he owned the chattels as well, and set up the statute of limitations to establish his indefeasible title thereto, and that an extension of time for payment thereof had been given to the Defendant, and that his title by possession was indisputable. For the Plaintiff it was contended that the Defendant was in possession merely as caretaker for the late F. C. Caldwell and that the statute of limitations as pleaded did not avail against the mortgages sued on. Judgment for the Plaintiff for possession and sale of the lands and chattels with reference to the Master to adjust the accounts under the mortgages and six months to redeem. A Motion for Plaintiff, Foster & Carow for Defendant. Corns cause much suffering, but Holloway's Corn Cure affords speedy, sure, and satisfactory relief. There is a woman out in the street hobbling along—Crippled or straggling every morning before school.

INTERESTING BUDGET FROM WELLINGTON

Social Happenings Along the Lake Shore and Vicinity Furnished by Our Correspondent.

Wellington—Walter Denway will not return to the Northwest to reside. Mrs. Donald will return from England in July. Mrs. (Mrs.) E. B. Saylor will accompany her for a visit at Dr. D. S. Saylor's. The Methodist Sabbath School has an increased attendance and every Sunday morning new ones are added to their list. Mr. Collins, banker, spends each Sunday at Bloomfield with his parents. Who says no harbor? We really would like to see work started; not so much talk; let us know so we can take a look. We hear there are going to be a large number of motor boats on West Lake this year. Miss Eliza Haight from the country was a caller in town last week. Our children enjoy playing in the park. It is a merry sight. Our bowling alley boys and men had their first game at Hotel Alexandra on Friday afternoon. Our men are all away on Government situations and a number travel for various firms. On Sundays we notice them at home and at our various churches. Mr. Thomas Hardy was a visitor at Cold Creek a day last week. We are sorry to report that Mr. Hara does not improve in health. Our cannery factory men are all hard at work getting ready for the season. Tomatoes, cabbages and pine apples have arrived in town in notice. Mrs. Charles H. Greer, a young bride will receive callers last Thursday in every month. Mrs. Clayton Morden another bride of this season will also receive. Our missionary societies in all our churches report good attendance and good workers. The Methodist Ladies Aid will have a bazaar this summer for sale of fancy work. We hope to see Hotel Alexandra filled with boarders this summer. The quarterly board will meet at Wesley at Home Ball Methodist church on Monday afternoon, May 4th. A full attendance is requested. Mr. and Mrs. W. Clinton were out of town a day last week. Mr. A. Rogers is back at W. P. Niles' good house from Peterborough. Rev. Mr. Archer from Woodville is invited to take Rev. W. Elliott's place at the Methodist church. Eggs have gone down in price. Meat and butter are very high here. Every body was pleased to see the rain on Saturday as the streets were very dry. Our school children are getting their pretty window gardens ready. Quarterly meeting at Methodist church on Sunday, May 3rd, the last Rev. W. Elliott will have. All are expected to part with Mr. Elliott and family; but he will not be far away, only at Brighton, Ont. Rev. G. Phillips is away to the States on a pastoral trip. Another new house will be built west of the city and Rev. G. Phillips sells his home at East Wellington. The Bible Society held a very interesting meeting on Friday night. Lantern views were shown and all enjoyed it. The Thomas Jubilee Singers will be at the I.O.O.F. concert in the music hall this Tuesday night. Mrs. S. Christy and Mrs. Stephen Leavens, Jr., were in Picton Saturday. Miss Fern McQuoid has arrived here to live with her grand parents. Mrs. D. Sprang is improving in health again. Helen Barley spent Sunday with Miss Edith Lloyd. We are pleased to hear that Miss Thomas likes her situation at A. Bristol & Son's, Picton. She is in the glove and lace department. Our train ran off the track Thursday at Bloomfield. A number were in our town until Friday morning. Fortunately no one was hurt. The section and trainmen worked hard all night to get the train in running order Friday morning. A very large number attended Mrs. Orval Clark's funeral at Hillier on Friday morning. A number are making gardens this year. Mr. James Fox has dug up his gross plot in the back yard and intends to make it into a garden. A number of women are now busy at our green house. A number of the men are busy spraying trees. Mr. Richard Wilson and Mr. J. Jenks are busy fixing Mr. Great's light's machine shop. A fine cement sidewalk on Mill St. has been completed. John McMillan has been helping men move his father's barn. We are pleased to report that Laurine Hodgins is improving after being ill. Very sorry Harry Egan has been so ill. All hope for a speedy recovery. Another bake shop will be opened here and would locate here. Mr. Collier has started to call again with his new cart. Mrs. Robert Pettengill of Trenton is visiting relatives here. Mr. and Mrs. Benson and two daughters have returned home to Markham, Ont. Our Standard and Metropolitan banks will observe Thursday afternoons as a holiday during May, June, July, August, up to November, but the banks will be open for business on Saturday evenings during that time. Our stores will not observe Thursday afternoon holiday until June. Our entrance class is very busy every morning before school.

MAY IS COMING THE busy month of May is almost here, one of the busiest months of the year in our store, month of buying and selling, when so many prospective brides are busy getting ready for the June Weddings. Years of experience enables us to forecast the requirements for the Busy Month of May and our store is now filled to overflowing with the finest collection of beautiful Dry Goods, Suitings, Silks, Laces, Trimmings, etc., that we have ever shown, all waiting your inspection, with a staff of salespeople always at your service.

Silks for May Selling Never before have we shown such a beautiful collection of Dress Silks as may now be seen in our store, and all in the double width silks, in every fashionable make and color, and at prices to suit every purse. Our yard wide Mesalines, in plain and fancy weaves in every new shade, are the best silk values we have ever seen at 85c, 91 and 91.25 per yard.

Ladies' and Misses' New Spring Coats The new Cloaks and new styles combine to make the Spring Coats, the most attractive collection we have ever shown, and we are showing these in styles specially designed for Sinclair by the very best makers of Ladies' and Misses' Garments. Older women we also show some very handsome black silk and satin coats, all of which will be found at very moderate prices.

New Wash Dresses This week we make our first big display of Ladies' and Misses' Wash Dresses for the summer season. We cannot describe these new dresses in our limited space, but we do say that you have never seen such an array of dainty wash dresses at every price from $2.50 to $17.50 each.

New Voile Waists Not only are we showing but we are also selling quantities of Ladies' Voile Waists. These we think are the daintiest lot of white waists we have ever been able to offer and we show these in a great variety of styles to sell at every price from $1.00 to $5.00 each. Look for the name on the selvedge—The words "Priestley's Limited" stamped every five yards on the selvedge, and the varnished board upon which each piece is folded, always identify the genuine. All over the world, "Priestley's" means absolutely reliable quality and great variety of fashionable weaves and colors. In Canada, the British preferential tariff brings Priestley's dress goods within easy reach of every purse. Ask to see Priestley's. SINCLAIR'S

Opera House Sold. McKenies Block comprising the opera house Star Theater and two stores was sold this week by Mr. S. A. McKenies to Mr. Delaney, proprietor of the Palace Theater. Neither gentlemen would state the purchase price but it is understood that the sale involves a great deal of money. Mr. Delaney intends to take out the floor of the opera house, which is directly above the Star, and convert it all into a modern opera house, with a large gallery, and a seating capacity of about one thousand. Mr. Delaney intends to equip his new theater with all the latest modern furniture and make the opera house a credit to the town. When interviewed in regard to the improvements Mr. Delaney reiterated his intentions as stated above and further declared that an architect will be brought here as soon as possible to look the place over and recommend improvements, asked as to the amount he intended spending on improvements alone, Mr. Delaney said that he was not sure as to the amount but admitted that it would take three or four thousand dollars to put everything in shape. He is already in communication with theatrical agencies in Toronto with regard to the arranging of a get for his dinner? Hungry.

BLACK KNIGHT DEAD Negro Temperance Worker Well-Known in Belleville. News of the death of Rev. J. H. Hector, universally known as the Black Knight, at his home, York Pa., has reached this city. He was very well known in Belleville, as in many other cities, as an influential temperance speaker, having spent a great deal of his time in the local option cause. He was the son of negro slaves, and although he had little education was a gifted speaker. After fighting as a volunteer in the Civil War in the U. S. and being employed as a railway engineer, he became a minister of the African Methodist Episcopal Zion church. He was about seventy years of age, and was a familiar figure in Canada, the United States and Great Britain. Hector was on several occasions a visitor to Belleville.

OFFER TO CARSON.

Churchill Invites Him to Submit a Federal Scheme.

LONDON, April 29.—Much interest has been created by a new offer to Sir Edward Carson, the Ulster leader, made by Winston Spencer Churchill.

First Lord of the Admiralty, in the course of a speech in the House of Commons last night. The Minister invited Sir Edward Carson to make an attempt to compromise the Home Rule question on the federal basis.

Mr. Churchill is reported to have spoken entirely for himself and without the authority of the Cabinet. Many of the Liberals are indignant at him for taking the course he did, contending that it will only be interpreted as a sign of weakness on the part of the Government.

The view of the Unionist leaders here is that Mr. Churchill's offer must have been debated in a Cabinet Council held earlier in the day. They believe it entirely changes the situation and improves the prospect of a settlement being reached.

Andrew Bonar Law, the Opposition leader in the House of Commons, is said to be ready to renew negotiations with Premier Asquith if the Government will take the initiative.

TROOPS GO TO SCENE

U. S. Federal Forces Will Restore Order in Colorado.

WASHINGTON, April 29.—On the urgent request of Governor Elias M. Ammons of Colorado, President Wilson yesterday ordered Federal troops sent to the scene of strike disorders.

The President made it plain in his proclamation, and in a long telegram to Governor Ammons, that the Federal Government was taking no sides in the dispute.

The proclamation enjoins "good citizens of the United States against aiding, countenancing, sheltering or taking part in such unlawful proceedings."

The troops, which will go out with their horses, will arrive probably some time to-day.

TWO TORIES BOLT

Dissension in Government Caucus Over C.N.R. Aid.

RESOLUTION IS DRAFTED

By Terms of Contract Submitted to House To-day the Dominion Must Guarantee Bonds to Amount of $45,000,000 in Exchange for Share in Stock and a Measure of Control Over C.N.R.

OTTAWA, April 29.—The much discussed Canadian Northern aid proposals which have been the subject of negotiations for some months have been placed before Parliament in the form of a resolution to-day.

Pre-merger Borden will move that the Government be authorized to guarantee the bonds of the C. N. R. upon certain terms contained in a resolution.

The resolution will probably come up on Friday, it is in brief:

(1) Provision is made for guaranteeing the bonds to the amount of $45,000,000, which with the other assets now available, is considered sufficient for the completion of the company's lines as a transcontinental system, which will comprise nearly 10,000 miles of railway.

(2) The company's stock issue at the present time amounts to $145,000,000, of which about $138,000,000 is held by Mackenzie and Mann, Limited, and $7,000,000 by the Government.

(3) Mackenzie and Mann, Limited, have absolutely released all claims against the C. N. R. in connection with the subsidiary companies for any services which they have performed during the past eighteen years, or since the inception of the enterprise.

(4) The Government receives security by way of mortgages on the C. N. R. lines in the provinces of Ontario, comprising about 5,000 miles. This is the most remunerative portion of the company's system.

(5) In case any portion of the 45 millions to be raised by the Government's guarantee should be applied in completing the C. N. R. lines, such company must also execute a mortgage for the protection of the Government for the amount so expended upon such company's property.

(6) The reduction of the stock issue from one hundred and forty million to one hundred million has been accomplished by having all the stocks of the various subsidiary railway companies, of the terminal companies, telegraph, express and elevator companies as well as the steamship company, transferred to the C. N. R. by the Government.

(7) In order to ensure that the forty-five million dollars to be raised by the Government's guarantee shall be applied to the completion of this transcontinental system, and to no other purpose, the Government has made provision for the most thorough and strict stipulations in the trust deed, so that not one dollar of the money so raised can be appropriated or diverted to any other purpose.

(8) As the company, outside of the amounts owed to contractors which are very large at the present time, owes about fourteen million dollars of temporary loans, raised by the pledging of securities which have not been sold and which hitherto have not been available at reasonable figures, and as the company has also a heavy indebtedness of between ten and eleven million dollars, the Government has stipulated that Mackenzie and Mann, Limited, shall give absolutely satisfactory security that both the temporary loan and the existing indebtedness shall be paid off by them without recourse in any way to the money which are to be raised by the guaranteed securities for the completion of the road.

(9) Provision is made that all traffic arising on the C. N. R. system shall be transported over Canadian lines, and if for export shall be consigned to Canadian ports. In this respect the Government has exacted a strict covenant which admits of no evasion.

(10) Provision has also been made for interchange of traffic between the C. N. R. system and the I. C. R.

(11) The provision is made for inspection by the Government officials of books, reports and other records of the C. N. R. and its subsidiaries at any time.

(12) Provision is also made for the appointment by the Government of a director upon the board of the C. N. R. and each of its subsidiary companies.

(13) It is provided that all the lines comprising the C. N. R. system shall be subject to the entire jurisdiction of the Parliament.

(14) In the event of any default by C. N. R. or any of its subsidiary companies in meeting the interest or principal due upon any securities issued by such companies, the Government may displace the directors of all such companies and appoint others who will have power to transfer the road to any company formed for the purpose, and thus obviate long foreclosure proceedings.

(15) The Government agrees that, for three years after the opening of the through line, the Government, if requested by the company, will pay the interest on the forty-five millions guaranteed, but the interest so paid must be repaid with interest from time to time.

MINERS ENTOMBED

All Hope Abandoned of Rescuing 208 Men in Colliery Workings.

ECOLESE, W. Va., April 29.—All hope for the rescue alive of 208 miners entombed by an explosion yesterday in mines Nos. 5 and 6, of the New River Collieries Co., here, was abandoned late last night.

Rescuers were unable to force their way into the burning shafts. Fifty-nine men, all burned severely, were rescued alive from No. 6 mine and are receiving medical treatment in improvised hospitals. Four bodies were recovered from the same shaft.

The disaster, the second largest in the mining history of West Virginia, was caused by a gas explosion in the 600-foot level of mine No. 6. It was followed five minutes later by a second explosion, which completely weakened the mine and partially demolished mine No. 6, a connecting operation.

One hundred and ninety men were at work in mine No. 5 and not one of them reached the surface. The mine immediately caught fire and attempts at rescue work were futile. Late last night all hope of getting the miners out of mine No. 5 was given up and the rescue parties, driven back by the intense heat and deadly gases, were forced to halt their effort to reach the entombed men.

The four dead and 59 injured men were taken from mine No. 6 through one of the four shafts of the mine not injured by the explosion. Thirteen men are still in No. 6.

SENATOR NOMINATED

Prescott Liberals Choose Candidate for Legislature.

VANLIEKE HILL, Ont., April 29.—F. A. Senecal, secretary of the Prescott County Liberal Association, was yesterday chosen as Liberal candidate for the Legislature in succession to Gustave Evanturel, who recently resigned his seat in the House as the result of charges preferred by C. Howard Ferguson, M.P.P. for Granville. The officers of the association yesterday refused to allow Mr. Evanturel's name to go on the ballot for nomination as candidate, and this precipitated a warm row, Evanturel's adherents refusing for a time to allow Mr. Senecal to address the convention. Two other names were put in nomination, but they withdrew in favor of Mr. Senecal.

Gustave Evanturel, in a fighting speech, declared he would contest the riding as an independent candidate. Thirty-eight polling subdivisions in the riding, out of 40, were represented at the convention, 150 delegates being in attendance.

GIRLS CAPTURE BURGLAR

Students at Alma Ladies' College Showed Flunk in Emergency.

ST. THOMAS, Ont., April 29.—A young student at Alma Ladies' College here was awakened by a noise about two o'clock yesterday morning, and quietly investigating discovered a man in the corridor.

The other girls were aroused, and while some stood guard at the windows and exits from the corridor, others flew to arouse the principal, his son, and the janitor. These three arrived and took the man, who was still surrounded by the determined girls, into custody. He pretended to be intoxicated and had climbed a fire escape to the second story.

British Baptist Fund

LONDON, April 29.—The Baptists of Great Britain Monday night celebrated by a great mass meeting in Albert Hall the completion of the fund of $750,000 to provide more adequate stipends for the ministers of the church. At present 140 ministers receive less than $375 yearly, while 700 are paid less than $750.

There is some heart-burning among the more strict members of the denomination, because it is claimed that participation in the benefits of the fund means control of the individual minister by the board of trustees.

Quebec Rejoices at News

QUEBEC, April 29.—The bells of all the Roman Catholic churches of this city pealed out joyously at 11 o'clock yesterday when the news of the elevation of His Grace Archbishop Begin to the dignity of a cardinal was officially confirmed in a communication from Mgr. Stagni, apostolic delegate at Ottawa, in which he also transmitted the cablegram which he received from Cardinal del Val.

TARZAN OF THE APES

"It is, though. It was I who stole it, not knowing either its value or to whom it belonged. I saw the sailors bury it, and I saw it dig it up and bury it again elsewhere. When D'Arnot told me what it was and what it meant to you I returned to the jungle and recovered it. It had caused so much crime and suffering and sorrow that D'Arnot thought it best not to attempt to bring the treasure itself on here, but to have my intention known. I have brought a letter of credit instead.

"Have it, Professor Porter." Tarzan drew an envelope from his pocket and handed it to the astonished professor. "Two hundred and forty-one thousand dollars."

"To the already great burden of the obligations we owe you, sir," said Professor Porter with trembling voice, "is now added this greatest of all services. You have given me the means to save my honor."

Clayton, who had left the room after Carter, now returned. "I think we had better try to reach town before dark and take the first train out of this forest. A native just rode by from the north, who reports that the fire is moving slowly in this direction."

This announcement broke up further conversation and the entire party went out to the waiting machines.

Clayton, with Jane Porter, the professor and Esmeralda, occupied Clayton's car, while Tarzan took Mr. Philander with him.

"Mr. Philander, do you recall the details of the finding and burying of three skeletons found in my cabin beside that African jungle?" asked Tarzan.

"Very distinctly, sir; very distinctly," replied Mr. Philander.

"Was there anything peculiar about any of those skeletons?" it means a great deal to me to know," said Tarzan.

"Your answer may clear up a mystery. It can do no worse, at any rate, than to leave it still a mystery. I have been entertaining a theory concerning those skeletons for the past two months, and I want you to answer my question to the best of your knowledge—the three skeletons you buried all human skeletons?"

Mr. Philander eyed Tarzan narrowly. "No," he said, "the smallest one, the one found in the cave, was the skeleton of an anthropoid ape."

"Thank you," said Tarzan. "In the car ahead Jane Porter was thinking of me, and she felt the purpose for which Tarzan had asked a few words with her, and she knew that she must be prepared to give him an answer in the very near future."

He was not the sort of person one could put off, and somehow that very thought made her wonder if she did not really fear him.

Could she love where she feared? She realized the spell that had been upon her in the depths of that African jungle, but there was no spell of enchantment now in promise Wisconsin.

For did the immaculate young Frenchman appeal to the primal woman in her, as had the stalwart forest god?

Did she love him? She did not know—now.

She glanced at Clayton out of the corner of her eye. Was not here a man trained in the same school of environment in which she had been trained, with position and culture such as she had been taught to consider as the essentials to a successful association?

Did not her best judgment point to this young English nobleman whose love she knew to be of the sort a civilized woman should crave as the logical mate for such as she?

Could she love Clayton? She could see no reason why she could not. She was not calculating of nature, but training, environment and heredity had all combined to teach her to reason even in matters of the heart.

That she had been carried off her feet by the strength of the young giant whose great arms were about her in the distant African forest and again today, in the Wisconsin woods, seemed to her only attributable to a temporary mental reversion to type on her part, to the appeal of the primal man to the primal woman in her nature.

If he should never touch her again, she reasoned, she would never feel as free as she knew to be of the sort a civilized woman should crave as the logical mate for such as she?

Excitement would not always mark their future relations should she marry him, and the power of personal contact would be nullified by familiarity.

Next week The Ontario will begin publication of "The Return of Tarzan," by the same author.

GRAPPLING FOR RIVER VARIETY OF FISH

Patient Grapplers Line Up Along the Moira's East Bank for Mulletts.

The grappler is a sure sign of approaching May-day. Already the colorful line of hooks, ropes and bamboo can be seen along the River Moira's east bank in the rear of barns and storehouses beginning the deadly work of mullet and sucker grappling.

The patience of a fisherman is proverbial but the evidence one sees today of the type leads one to believe they are nothing but heroes. The other evening at cold twilight hour, a grappler was standing in the water with rubber boots trying to get a line on the denizens of the deep. Any calm night traveller over the foot-bridge can hear the splash of the fish line in the water.

Mulletts are not yet running very plentifully. The "red fins" have not yet come in.

Allowed To Go

RECORD OF APPRECIATION OF M.J. BUTLER IN "CANADA"

There is on exhibition in the window of Angus McEee, jeweller, Front St. E., a framed document recording the appreciation by the Associated Boards of Trade of the labors of Lt.-Col. Ponton as president. The form is as follows:

The Ontario Associated Boards of Trade desire to record their appreciation of the services rendered by

LIEUT.-COL. W. N. PONTON, K.C., during his presidency of the Board in the year 1913 and also to extend their thanks for the able manner in which he has conducted the business of the Board for the promotion and general welfare of the Province of Ontario and the Dominion at large.

NINE WOMEN FOR THE "PEN"

Are Being Transferred from Edmonton to Portmouth.

The population of Portmouth penitentiary will be increased in a day or two by the arrival from the Edmonton penitentiary of no fewer than nine women who have been confined there for various degrees of crime, ranging from murder down to the man's department of the Edmonton institution has been closed, and hence the transfer of the women to Portmouth. This will practically double the number of the women in the penitentiary, as there are only ten in Portmouth now, and will make the largest number of women ever imprisoned here.

One young girl who had been confined in Edmonton and who, it was expected, would have been brought here, was almost at the last moment turned over to the men. This girl, a foreigner, was little more than a child, being but 18 years old. She had murdered a man by striking her over the head with a shovel.

In this connection it is worth recording that the penitentiary year, which closed March 31, showed on that day no fewer than 511 prisoners at Portmouth, while the average for the year was 499. The present number is exactly 504—Kings on Standard.

BEST MONEY HE HAS EVER SPENT

Was What C. Hansen Paid for Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Had been Ailing for Six or Seven Years when He Took a Neighbor's Advice and Found a Complete Cure.

MONA, Man—April 27th (Special)—Mr. Cornelius Hansen, well known and highly respected here, is telling his friends of his simple but complete cure from a protracted illness. The facts in brief are: He had Kidney Disease; he took Dodd's Kidney Pills; they cured him. But let Mr. Hansen tell his own story.

"I was troubled with my kidneys for six or seven years," he says. "My back was so sore I couldn't get out of bed in the mornings. I tried medicines, but they did me no good. Then I met a neighbor, and he advised me to try Dodd's Kidney Pills. He said he had used them in his family for a long time and they were a great medicine."

"I bought six boxes of them, and by the time I had taken three of the I was feeling much better. Now I am quite well, and I think the best money I ever spent in my life was what I paid for Dodd's Kidney Pills."

Dodd's Kidney Pills are a cure-all. They simply cure sick kidneys, but they do all that I said for them.

Local Man in Atlantic Fleet

Belleville has at least one citizen in the American fleet which is at the seat of trouble on the Mexican coast. His name is Mr. "Jack" Sullivan, brother of Mr. Timothy Sullivan of this city. Mr. Sullivan is aboard the superdreadnought "Arkansas," whose tonnage is 26,000.

JURY DOES NOT FIX THE BLAME FOR HOTEL FIRE

Interior Walls of Woodbine Hotel Were Highly Inflammable—Centralize Inspection.

"We find that Charles Wilnot came to his death by fire which occurred on the evening of the 17th of March, 1914, in the Woodbine Hotel, King St. West, in the city of Toronto.

"We find by the evidence that the material used in the construction of the interior walls of the annex of the Woodbine Hotel was composed of such a nature as to be highly inflammable and a danger to life in public buildings and its use should be prohibited for such purposes in all buildings of this nature."

"We believe that more care should be taken in the enforcement of the by-laws regarding obstruction to fire escapes and that all should be accessible as near as possible through corridors."

"We believe that the inspection of all public buildings under construction should be absolutely under the control of the Architect's Department as there by the conflict of authority would be largely eliminated, as shown in the evidence."

"No evidence has been brought to the jury to the direct cause of the fire and it must therefore be classed as unknown."

This was the verdict returned in Toronto by the coroner's jury which for over a month has been inquiring into the death of Charles Wilnot, one of the men who perished in the Woodbine Hotel fire. As will be seen no blame was rested on anyone for the loss of life and the jury felt that the evidence given was not sufficient to fix the cause of the fire.

NEWS FROM DESERONTO

38th Anniversary of Church of Redeemer—Other News.

Deseronto, April 24—On Sunday the 38th anniversary service was held at the Church of the Redeemer, when Rev. Mr. Macintosh of Kingston delivered two splendid addresses. The choir was under the direction of Mr. Arthur Craig, who gave several solos. He is always welcome in town. Mrs. Eva of Kingston gave solos in splendid tenor voice, and was much appreciated. Mrs. Yonkman, of Napier, sang a soprano solo in splendid voice. Miss Luella Hill had charge of the organ and gave several solos and is always welcomed to Deseronto. Both services were well attended.

On Monday evening the Young People's Society and Ladies' Aid gave an home in the church parlour when the local talent assisted and refreshments were served.

M. H. Howell of Kingston spent a few days with Mr. Horace Thompson. The St. Mark's Guild gave a high-class concert in Naylor's theater on Friday evening and was well received. Local talent took part. A play entitled "Your Turn Next" was well rendered and reflected great credit on Mrs. Anderson, who was the lady in charge.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Peden and children of Montreal, Mr. Fred Richardson and son of Toronto, spent a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Amos Richardson.

The Odd Fellows are to attend the Church of the Redeemer on Sunday morning.

The schooner Kitchner and Mr. E. H. Miller, clerk of the township of Regain, in which he informed Mr. Ross, as Inspector of Roads that he had sent him a sample of the rotten wood which formed the timbers of the bridge at Combermere. He had taken the most up-to-date means of pointing a municipal lesson—Renfrew Mercury.

RECORD OF APPRECIATION OF M.J. BUTLER IN "CANADA"

There is on exhibition in the window of Angus McEee, jeweller, Front St. E., a framed document recording the appreciation by the Associated Boards of Trade of the labors of Lt.-Col. Ponton as president. The form is as follows:

The Ontario Associated Boards of Trade desire to record their appreciation of the services rendered by

LIEUT.-COL. W. N. PONTON, K.C., during his presidency of the Board in the year 1913 and also to extend their thanks for the able manner in which he has conducted the business of the Board for the promotion and general welfare of the Province of Ontario and the Dominion at large.

NINE WOMEN FOR THE "PEN"

Are Being Transferred from Edmonton to Portmouth.

The population of Portmouth penitentiary will be increased in a day or two by the arrival from the Edmonton penitentiary of no fewer than nine women who have been confined there for various degrees of crime, ranging from murder down to the man's department of the Edmonton institution has been closed, and hence the transfer of the women to Portmouth. This will practically double the number of the women in the penitentiary, as there are only ten in Portmouth now, and will make the largest number of women ever imprisoned here.

One young girl who had been confined in Edmonton and who, it was expected, would have been brought here, was almost at the last moment turned over to the men. This girl, a foreigner, was little more than a child, being but 18 years old. She had murdered a man by striking her over the head with a shovel.

In this connection it is worth recording that the penitentiary year, which closed March 31, showed on that day no fewer than 511 prisoners at Portmouth, while the average for the year was 499. The present number is exactly 504—Kings on Standard.

FOXBORO

Foxboro, April 20—Miss Tena Conley of Stirling, visited Mrs. Homans recently.

Mrs. S. Hoard and daughter, Mabel have returned home after spending one week with friends at Wallbridge.

Miss E. Adams and Miss F. Johnson also spent a few days at Wallbridge last week.

Miss Grace McDowell last Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. H. Frederik has gone to Cobourg, where she will spend a few days.

Mr. Fred McDowell has returned home after spending a few days at Stirling.

Mrs. J. Stewart was the guest of her sister, Mrs. C. O. Davis on Friday last.

We are all glad to see Mrs. B. Faulk on our road again.

Mrs. W. H. Brown is visiting her son at Point Anne, where she will spend a few days.

Mrs. R. Haggerty of West Huntingdon spent Friday in this vicinity.

BEST MONEY HE HAS EVER SPENT

Was What C. Hansen Paid for Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Had been Ailing for Six or Seven Years when He Took a Neighbor's Advice and Found a Complete Cure.

MONA, Man—April 27th (Special)—Mr. Cornelius Hansen, well known and highly respected here, is telling his friends of his simple but complete cure from a protracted illness. The facts in brief are: He had Kidney Disease; he took Dodd's Kidney Pills; they cured him. But let Mr. Hansen tell his own story.

"I was troubled with my kidneys for six or seven years," he says. "My back was so sore I couldn't get out of bed in the mornings. I tried medicines, but they did me no good. Then I met a neighbor, and he advised me to try Dodd's Kidney Pills. He said he had used them in his family for a long time and they were a great medicine."

"I bought six boxes of them, and by the time I had taken three of the I was feeling much better. Now I am quite well, and I think the best money I ever spent in my life was what I paid for Dodd's Kidney Pills."

Dodd's Kidney Pills are a cure-all. They simply cure sick kidneys, but they do all that I said for them.

Local Man in Atlantic Fleet

Belleville has at least one citizen in the American fleet which is at the seat of trouble on the Mexican coast. His name is Mr. "Jack" Sullivan, brother of Mr. Timothy Sullivan of this city. Mr. Sullivan is aboard the superdreadnought "Arkansas," whose tonnage is 26,000.

JURY DOES NOT FIX THE BLAME FOR HOTEL FIRE

Interior Walls of Woodbine Hotel Were Highly Inflammable—Centralize Inspection.

"We find that Charles Wilnot came to his death by fire which occurred on the evening of the 17th of March, 1914, in the Woodbine Hotel, King St. West, in the city of Toronto.

"We find by the evidence that the material used in the construction of the interior walls of the annex of the Woodbine Hotel was composed of such a nature as to be highly inflammable and a danger to life in public buildings and its use should be prohibited for such purposes in all buildings of this nature."

"We believe that more care should be taken in the enforcement of the by-laws regarding obstruction to fire escapes and that all should be accessible as near as possible through corridors."

"We believe that the inspection of all public buildings under construction should be absolutely under the control of the Architect's Department as there by the conflict of authority would be largely eliminated, as shown in the evidence."

"No evidence has been brought to the jury to the direct cause of the fire and it must therefore be classed as unknown."

This was the verdict returned in Toronto by the coroner's jury which for over a month has been inquiring into the death of Charles Wilnot, one of the men who perished in the Woodbine Hotel fire. As will be seen no blame was rested on anyone for the loss of life and the jury felt that the evidence given was not sufficient to fix the cause of the fire.

THE POWER OF PAINT

There's a hint to the housewife and householder in the tuneful lines of Tennyson: "In the Spring a brighter iris gathers on the burnished dove." Spring is the season of rejuvenation, when all nature grows young again, and man follows suit.

THOUGH MANY ARE TARRED WITH IT, IT IS PITCH JUST THE SAME

Uncle John D. Rockefeller recently told a Cleveland chum how to become wealthy without wickedness. The recipe is simple—taken from his own experience. "See that tract of land there?" he asked pointing to a part of his Forest Hill estate.

THE APPEAL OF WATERLOO

In connection with the centennial anniversary of the battle of Waterloo which will occur on June 18th of next year, a movement is on foot in Belgium and England looking to the preservation of the famous field, the face of which is in danger of being hidden by an encroaching suburb of Brussels.

Why? The battle of Borodino was more sanguinary. The retreat from Moscow was a greater tragedy. The issues at stake at Waterloo were great. The same is true of Gettysburg where the fate of 4,000,000 slaves and the question whether Democracy should succeed or fail the world over hung in the balance during a titanic struggle spread over three days.

Again it may be asked why? Is it because interest in a person exceeds interest in a principle? Because the imagination is caught by the downfall of one man beneath whose feet empires have crumbled into dust? Or is it because of the literature that has been built up around the name of Waterloo beginning with Byron's "so und of revelry by night," and the "unreturning brave," and ending with Hugo's moving prose narrative?

Dr. Richard P. Strong, head of the Harvard school of tropical medicine, has expressed the opinion that the opening of the Panama Canal may be followed by the spread of yellow fever from the west coast of South America to India, and of Asiatic cholera from India to America.

This result is far from improbable, and Dr. Strong has good historical foundation for the opinion, the migratory activities of man being responsible for the dissemination of many diseases which at one time had geographical limits. Within these limits the particular disease is often of a very mild character, but under changed conditions it frequently becomes a virulent scourge.

Smallpox for instance, is an Asiatic disease which almost died out in its original habitat but which almost got a new lease of activity by being imported into Europe, where it got in some work despite inoculation, which was the Oriental way of dealing with it, and vaccination. The comparatively harmless measles of Europe became a terrible scourge among the South Sea Islanders and the aborigines of the Pacific generally.

A New York drug store offered 50 cents worth of toilet articles for nothing, and the rush was so great that a policeman had to be called. That there was no soap offered was probably the cause of the rush.

Has Manifest Destiny, assisted by the Big Interests, proven too much for President Wilson's diplomacy of Christianity and common sense? This Manifest Destiny is a curious thing. It is responsible for the fact that the United States finds itself responsible for the government of the Philippines, Porto Rico and Hawaii, and for recent conditions in Cuba, as it is responsible for the fact that so much of the map of the world is painted red to represent the British Empire.

Four prominent citizens of Brantford, including a judge, K. C., and a doctor brought action against a man from whom they had purchased one hundred and seventeen acres of Western lands. According to the evidence published in the daily papers the seller represented the property as being situated within one and a half miles of the city of Prince Albert, as suitable for building on, and in the line of city's development.

What is the difference, in morals, between a man who sells an article at a price which he knows is beyond its value given to it by developments carried on through the labor of others? In other words, is land speculation justifiable on moral grounds?—Weekly Sun.

Every little while there comes to the surface an enthusiast with a dream like that which lured the Spaniards when America was young—the dream of perpetual youth. The latest was a Westerner who promised himself, by reason of a certain regime of diet and exercise, a life span of at least 200 years, with a sneaking hope of eternity.

Far be it from us to belittle the importance of living carefully, and long. But why put so much emphasis on youth, as if only the morning of life were worth living?

Here's some solid advice for the man who is everlastingly looking for trouble: Go to Mexico.

The suffragettes in London, England, and other centres, will certainly have earned the opposition and enmity of the insurance companies. During the year 1913 fires started by them did damage to the extent of $1,250,000.

A woman in Chicago is operating on the jack-the-hugger style, and is reported to have kissed several men. We've been watching the police records closely, but, so far, there's not one stingy little complaint entered by the men attacked.

An organized movement is under way in England which has for its object the betterment of the pay of English farm laborers. The demand is for "King's wages"—that is for the wages paid laborers on the King's estate. These do not seem excessive—16 shillings a week, with a half holiday on Saturday. They are, however, much above the wages paid on some estates in England. In parts of Essex they are only 13 shillings per week and even this rate is a shilling above that recently paid.

Has Manifest Destiny, assisted by the Big Interests, proven too much for President Wilson's diplomacy of Christianity and common sense? This Manifest Destiny is a curious thing. It is responsible for the fact that the United States finds itself responsible for the government of the Philippines, Porto Rico and Hawaii, and for recent conditions in Cuba, as it is responsible for the fact that so much of the map of the world is painted red to represent the British Empire.

There are those who claim, of course, that Manifest Destiny is only another name for Moneyed Interests.

For centuries the profession of pilot in England has, says the London Chronicle, been limited to men found qualified and licensed by some duly authorized body, such as the Trinity House of London. Tied down by their circumstances to one particular locality which they know by heart, pilots often bring up their sons to follow the same calling. In many places, such, for example, as Shields, Falmouth, Limerick, and the Bristol Channel, there may be found many pilots who are following their fathers and grandfathers, and whose sons are preparing to follow them.

A peculiarly moving ceremony took place on the British coast recently when the last tribute of respect was paid to the memory of the men who were lost in the disaster to a submarine which occurred some weeks ago. The vessel could not be raised and so a funeral service was conducted over the spot where she lay.

Then was witnessed, says the London Chronicle, the most pathetic scene in the whole service. The only orphan among the mourners on board was the little son of Engineerom. Artificially, and as the forth passed over the spot where the remains of his father rested, the little fellow dropped a wreath of flowers overboard and then rested his head on the deck-rail while the silence was broken by his sobs.

Then the "Last Post" was sounded, the ships moved slowly back to their posts and the dead were left in their silence and solitude of their ocean grave.

FOR THE LIVING

If you like a brother, Tell him so: If you hold his friendship dear, Let him know: All the roses that you spread On his bier when he is dead Are not worth one kind word said Years ago.

You can help a brother now If you will; Smooth the furrows from his brow You can kill The despair that's in his heart With a word and ease the smart So why stand you now apart, Keeping still?

You can help a brother when He is here; He would hold your praises then Very dear. But absurdity you stay And withhold what you can say That would stop him on his way For his bier.

What I wonder, if the dead Saw and heard What is done and what is said Afterward. Would they utter in reply, Would they smile and ask us why When the time of help was nigh, No one stirred?

"Keep the roses for the living," They would say. "Waste no time in praises giving Us to-day Strew some living brother's way? so, If you like another say so, For the thing that now you praise so Is but clay."

SUNDAY SCHOOL

Lesson V.—Second Quarter, For May 3, 1914.

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.

Text of the Lesson, Luke xv, 11-24. Memory Verses, 17-19—Golden Text, Luke xv, 18—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

In this third part of the parable which is spoken of in verse three as "this parable," including the three stories of the lost sheep, the lost coin and the lost son, we have beautifully set forth the heart of God the Father, as no one but the Son of God could tell it out for "no man knoweth the Son but the Father, neither knoweth any man the Father save the Son, and he to whomsoever the Son will reveal him" (Matt. xi, 27). We are told in many places of the love of the Father, as in John iii, 16; I John iv, 8, 16; and of the love of the Son, as in Gal. ii, 20; Eph. v, 25. The love of the Spirit is mentioned in Rom. xv, 30. The love of God and His unwillingness that any should perish are two of the great foundation truths of all Scripture, and are perhaps nowhere more simply told than in this threefold parable. Man's helplessness, his godlessness and his selfishness and enmity to God are also here set forth.

It may be difficult to see quite clearly whom the elder brother represents, but we would not need to seek far or long to find some really saved people who act a good deal like the elder brother when sinners who have wandered very far away are welcomed home.

I have read a discourse upon this chapter by a great Bible student in which he thinks that both the elder brother and the ninety-nine just persons represent the angels who never sinned. There seem to me to be many difficulties in this interpretation. We are quite safe in dwelling upon the love of God in seeking and welcoming home the lost ones, and we shall understand many things better when the Intelligence symbolized by the many eyes of the cherubim shall be ours.

How many seem to think that they have a right to demand of God a portion of this world's goods and to do as they please with it. Such self will is the essence of sin and shows the heart of man toward God, and yet God often permits it. Every sinner is in the far country, far away from God, without God and without hope, living unto himself, his life all dark and void and nothing glorifying to God. It (Gen. i, 2; Dan. vi, 25). The ungodly are compared to dogs and swine by our Lord Himself and also by the Spirit through Peter (Matt. vii, 9; II Pet. ii, 22). The comparison would not be at all flattering to some respectable sinners, but the Bible never says nice things about the enemies of God. There are many ways of wasting one's substance, and when we read that he had spent all we think of the sick woman who spent all that she had upon physicians and was nothing bettered, but rather grew worse (Mark v, 25).

It was a good thing for this lost son that he became so desperately in want that he would fain have eaten swine's food, and it was a good thing for him that no man gave unto him. Possibly some "down and out" people might come to themselves sooner if no one helped them to be comparatively comfortable in their low down estate.

It is a great thing when one is led to see himself in his true light before God, when his heart cry is, "God be merciful to me, a sinner." It is a good experience for a saved sinner when he is led to say as Job did, "I abhor myself" (Job xlii, 6). Whatever leads us to see more of God and His goodness is a helpful experience. It was good for this man when he began to think about his father and the abundance there which he might be enjoying. It was well when he determined to return to his father, confess his sin and ask to be given a servant's place, but it was better when he actually arose and came to his father.

See the father's heart in verse 20. "When he was yet a great way off his father saw him and had compassion and ran and fell on his neck and kissed him." No upbraiding, not a word of fault-finding, just a loving welcome home and a kiss of reconciliation. Do we know God as such a Father, and are we ready to tell lost ones of such a welcome awaiting them if they will turn with true penitence to Him? The son said part only of what he had intended to say, but was not allowed to finish it. Instead of the servant's place it is the best robe, a ring on his hand, shoes on his feet and a feast of welcome, because the lost one had come home. If we really believed that there was such a reception awaiting penitent sinners, how could we help urging them to come home?

It is said that they began to be merry—salvation is only the beginning of joy that knows no end. Consider the elder brother as representing one who has from his youth known the way of life, a child of godly parents and truly saved, having at some time not definitely known to himself accepted the Lord Jesus. He never fell into bad habits, but was always known as a good sample of a consistent Christian, though by no means a happy one. He did not know his father as he might have done and had no use for returning prodigals. Did you never see such a one in the glass or elsewhere?

Auditors—H. Snycy, A. M. Chapman.

It was decided that the annual meeting be held on the third Tuesday in January in each year and that the annual membership expire on Dec. 31st of each year.
Among those present were—Mr. Elliott, president; Col. Ponton, Sec.; Messrs. O. Scott, A. M. Chapman, W. B. Deacon, A. J. McLaren, Rev. A. M. Huby, Dr. E. M. Asher, A. McGee, Walter Lingham, F. B. Smith, Dr. Proctor, R. Templeton, J. A. Kerr, B. Frederick, F. S. Deacon, J. A. McPee, D. R. Leavens, Jas. Roy, C. J. Willis, C. J. Howell, H. E. Ketcheson, L. A. Bell, S. L. Lazier, Mayor Will, W. W. Anderson, L. E. Allen.

Mr. John Elliott, president, took his farewell of the chair last evening. His seven years' residence in Belleville had passed very rapidly. Seven years ago he became a member of the board of council, four years ago he became vice president and two years ago president following able predecessors. He had tried to do his best. He knew of an city that has gone along more steadily and made more strides as Belleville and I think none is better able to look after its future. Our new schools have been built, many buildings put up, two rail ways have been constructed, and many are marked at the local industries, the population has grown. The Dominion Construction Company has spent about $4,000,000 in the vicinity of Belleville in the past couple of years. S. L. Lazier, Mayor Will, W. W. Anderson, L. E. Allen.

Mr. Elliott, president, thanked Mayor Will for his kind invitation to give the address at the annual meeting. He said that he had been a member of the board of council for seven years, and that he had been vice president for four years, and president for two years. He said that he had tried to do his best, and that he was proud to have been a member of the board of council. He said that he was proud to have been a member of the board of council, and that he was proud to have been a member of the board of council.

Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills
owe their singular effectiveness in curing Rheumatism, Lumbago and Sciatica to their power of stimulating and strengthening the kidneys. They cleanse these organs to thoroughly filter from the blood uric acid (the product of waste matter) which gets into the joints and muscles and causes these painful diseases. Over half a century of constant use has proved conclusively that Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills strengthen weak kidneys and cure Rheumatism.

Mr. W. B. Deacon gave a short address outlining the work of the public department. Mr. W. W. Anderson, of Reamore, said there was no industry in Belleville making farm machinery. There is something evidently wrong but Belleville will soon come into its own.

Mr. Ketcheson said the Cordova mines would open shortly. Mr. C. J. Willis asked where was there a small city where the working men had a better time and where there was no little difficulty between employers and workmen. Mr. Alex. J. McLaren said he knew that Mr. Elliott had done a great deal for the rural municipalities. The immigrants after a year are drawn into the cities where they are "little good except to hold up the corners of buildings." The farmers are perhaps blamed too much for this. He thought perhaps the new men should work longer in the country than in the city.

How can the present progress continue if we do not get industrial life here? He thought it would be a good idea to make this progress permanent. Mr. Henry Sneyd, Treasurer, reported a balance of $7.35. The wine merchants writing asking if any one were anxious to secure pure liquor.

A communication was read requesting Belleville men to appear before a Royal Commission on Technical Education when it comes to Canada to give evidence. This is a communication of high honor for Belleville manufacturers.

NOT WITHIN THE POWER OF DEPARTMENTS
To Aid in Purchase of Belleville Driving Park for Agricultural Society.
Neither the Dominion nor the Provincial Departments can do anything thing towards the purchase of the Belleville Driving Park for the Agricultural Society. Such was the tenor of communications received by the board of trade. It is not within the powers of the set authorizing grants to agricultural associations.

PUBLIC WORKS MUST PROVIDE STORM DRAINS

Sanitary Conditions of Sewers all Night—Engineer Instructed to Prepare Plans.
From Thursday's Daily.
Provincial Sanitary Engineer, F. A. Dallyn, of Toronto, was in the city yesterday making an examination of the sewers. In his report to Dr. McCullough, Provincial Officer of Health, he says that the sewers on Front Street so far as they are sanitary sewers are all right. But provision will have to be made for the street drains to carry the surface water and storm water away.

Accordingly this morning the council held a special meeting and instructed City Engineer Evans to draw plans for the surface water and storm sewers for those portions of Front Street and Bridge Street which are to be paved.

ENGINEERS LAY CABLE
They Had a Busy and Interesting Time—The Nights Cold.
The Kingston Standard of April 23rd says—Every thing is in full swing today. The men report that the weather is very cold at night and yesterday morning several of them had severe colds as a result of not being used to the weather. The open air in such cold weather. Last night, however, was not so bad. The weather not being quite so cold. Today the men had the first of the engineering instruction. They were employed most of the day in engineering stunts such as throwing up earth works, etc. The main job, however, was laying the cable for the field telegraph. This is very interesting work inasmuch as it is one of the most important phases of field and war engineering.

Explained to Standard very ably by Major H. T. Hughes, who is in charge of the camp, it is very interesting. Twenty miles of cable were laid this morning around the camp. At intervals of every half mile tents were pitched in which there was stationed an operator. The scheme was carried out with great efficiency by the engineers. Everything at camp is progressing in a very satisfactory manner.

Messages Sent to Employees of Grand Trunk Pacific Railway.
To every employee of the Grand Trunk and Grand Trunk Pacific Railway a message has been sent from the president's office. This message deals with "Efficiency and Courtesy" and is signed by Mr. E. J. Chamberlain, President of the Grand Trunk and Grand Trunk Pacific Railway. Mr. Chamberlain's message embodies the spirit of the modern railroad, an insistence on the right of the public, passengers, and shippers alike to demand the best possible service from the railway man. In his message to the passenger department employees the President says—

"The railroad company desires to sell its transportation. The tickets are alike for all, and any person buying a ticket, not matter what the style his clothes are, how much money he displays or what his position in society is, is entitled to proper and courteous treatment. The railroad man has a great opportunity for passing out kindness and good will; he comes in contact with every kind and condition of humanity—the old, the young, the rich, the poor, the illiterate, the learned, the happy, the prosperous, and those in defeat, saturated with sorrow and distress; he sees them all and through intuition knows to which class they belong. A kind word, or a kindness done to any of these cannot fail to leave its impression for good and this good cannot help but expand. Try it."

The President's message to the freight men says—
"The needs and wishes of shippers and consignees should be anticipated as much as possible. When cars are ordered the matter should receive close attention and in case it is not possible to furnish as ordered, shippers should be notified, so he may arrange his plans accordingly; he should be made to feel you are interested in his welfare, and that his business is worthy of consideration. Do not discommode a shipper because of some omission of his own, but try to help him out. Railroads are the servants of the public and it is their duty to serve well."

Attress Pays for Her Folly
Peterboro, April 22—One of the actresses of the Red Widow Company lost her whole wardrobe by fire today. She was using an electric iron in her bedroom at the Grand Hotel, and after throwing the iron on the bed without turning off the current went out. The contents of the room were destroyed before the firemen put out the resulting blaze.

WOMAN SUFFERED TEN YEARS

From Female Ills—Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.
Belleville, N.S., Canada.—"I doctored for ten years for female troubles and did not get well. I read in the paper about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and decided to try it. I write now to tell you that I am cured. You can publish my letter as a testimonial."—Mrs. SUVERNE BARNES, Belleville, Nova Scotia, Canada.

Another Woman Recovers.
Auburn, N. Y.—"I suffered from nervousness for ten years, and had such organic pains that sometimes I would lie in bed four days at a time, could not eat or sleep and did not want anyone to talk to me or bother me at all. Sometimes I would suffer for seven hours at a time. Different doctors did the best they could for me until four months ago I began giving Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial and now I am in good health."—Mrs. WILLIAM H. GILL, No. 15 Pleasant Street, Auburn, New York.

The above are only two of the thousands of grateful letters which are constantly being received by the Pinkham Medicine Company of Lynn, Mass., which show clearly what great things Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound does for those who suffer from woman's ills.

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential), Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

LIFE OF REV. T. CROSBY
Was Given at Foxboro League Meeting—Good Musical Program.
Foxboro—Under the leadership of Mrs. A. L. Brown an interesting and instructive review of the life of Rev. Thomas Crosby was given at the League on Monday night. This was supplemented by a brief musical program consisting of a solo by Miss Mabel Caverly, a duet by Misses Ella and Vera Sprague and a piano recital by Mrs. Henderson and Mrs. Carl Bronson. Several of Crosby's favorite hymns were also sung by the congregation and a goodly number of young people took part in the topic. The increasing number of those who take part in League meetings is a most encouraging feature of our society now. During Easter vacation our public school received a thorough cleaning. The walls were tinted a pleasing green and the floor was tiled. School re-opened on Monday with the addition of a class of fifteen beginners which brings the attendance in the junior form up to fifty-two.

THE GOLDEN AGE WILL BE CREDIT

Every Effort Being Made to Give This Beautiful Production a Fitting Presentation.

The rehearsals of The Golden Age are going along at a rapid rate, showing wonderful progress. Every detail is being arranged to give this beautiful work a production that will be a credit to the city of Belleville and the Dominion of Canada, as nowhere else has such a production of music, book, talent, musical and stage direction being all home talent. And by no means are they all amateurs. Just "home" talent. This production is being presented by the Belleville Amateur Lacrosse Association, and is a production of the Golden Age worthy of Broadway. The costumes, scenery and electrical effects will be better probably than any seen in a production road show that has played Belleville, and special orchestras of 40 pieces will be a delightful innovation for the music lovers of this old city.

LACROSSE WILL BOOM THIS YEAR

Belleville Grouped With Trenton and Picton Intermediates.

The Ontario Amateur Lacrosse Association entered upon the biggest season of its history, and emphasized the fact that the game was going to boom when the district committee met at the Troquois Hotel, Toronto, to make the initial draft of the districts. Among the officers present were: President J. E. Stevenson, Secretary Frank Doyle, Second Vice President Woody Tignor, Pete Hoeking and Ernie Doyle of the committee.

The championship series of the O.A.L.A. are senior, intermediate, junior, and juvenile. The intention of the executive of the club is to meet the desire of the club by the different series where it is possible in reference to grouping. For the purpose of the preliminary grouping is published, and any clubs desiring changes should notify Secretary Doyle immediately, so as to facilitate the work of the district committee in the final grouping, which will be published within a reasonable time. Club managers are reminded that senior teams consist of twelve men residence May 1. Intermediate teams consist of ten men residence May 1. Junior teams consist of ten men, under age of 21 years Jan. 1. Juvenile teams consist of ten men under age of 17 Jan. 1. As playing season opens May 27, players are reminded of the one certificate one-club-only rule, which will be strictly adhered to. Belleville, Trenton and Picton are grouped in Group 16. Intermediates

Always Serviceable - Most pills lose their properties with age. Not so with Paralee's Vegetable Pills. The pill mass is so compounded that their strength and effectiveness is preserved and the pills can be carried anywhere without fear of losing their potency. This is a quality that few pills possess. Some pills lose their power, but not so with Paralee's. They will maintain their freshness and potency for a long time.

I.O.O.F. PARADE ON SUNDAY TO JOHN STREET

Inspiring Address by Rev. E. C. Currie to Society - Special Music of Day.

From Monday's Daily. In spite of dismal rainy weather, the annual I.O.O.F. Church parade on Sunday morning was very largely attended. In the line of march to John Street, the parade was led by the Belleville and Mirapah, subordinate lodges, Quinte and Moira Encampments, Belleville Canton No. 8, the I.O.O.F. band of this city and Trenton I.O.O.F. band. The Belleville band were well represented at the church service. Mirapah Lodge and Quinte Encampment members wore their new regalia for the first time. Church, a cordial welcome was extended to the visiting brethren. The Rev. E. C. Currie said he appreciated the presence of the society as it was regarded as a distinctly christian organization. The service was special in certain features. There was responsive reading and the musical program in charge of Miss Wallace, organist, and Miss Stork, choir leader, was fitting for the occasion. The choir sang "Hail to the King," "The Lord's Prayer," "Hear My Cry" (Wooler) and the Misses Thompson and LaVoie sang "Come Holy Spirit, Bless Our Home." The congregation sang Psalm selection number 114: "Hymns 'We Labor On,' 'Spend and be Spent' and 'O Christ for Thine Own Glory'." "And when the burst offering of the Lord began, the song of the Lord began also." (II Chron. 23:27). On this last the pastor preached an inspiring sermon on the relationship between sacrifice and thanksgiving. "The chapter," said the Rev. E. C. Currie, gives a sketch of the reforms which Heshaiah sought to perform. The picture of the text, smoking altars, victims, massed multitudes - fill the imagination. But though the sacrifices are gone for ever, the thing for which they stood still remains to arrest our thought. Sacrifice and song are spoken of in the same breath suggesting a relationship. This reunion we find wherever we look. Does the child find joy when it is crying in its own way or when its parents' song heard when they hold their child in submission, or when by some sacrifice they make the little heart leap with joy by the presentation of some little thought? The best fiction and the lives of missionaries do not leave us in doubt of the happiness of sacrifice. Is it this relation indescribable? If it is indescribable, it is impossible for the selfish man to be happy. The moment a man denies himself for others, that moment he becomes jubilant with music. This fact is tested by the greatest experience and recognized by scripture. "When the aims of the I.O.O.F. are studied it is no wonder that it is popular. Its aim is to relieve distress. We are all in quest of happiness. With some it is the end of life. They are starting in the wrong way. Such a philosophy will not face the light of facts. Multitudes believe happiness consists in having and getting, whereas it is in giving. Joy or pleasure is a means for the more perfect doing of our work. Without it work is slovenly done. Carlyle said, 'Give me the man who sings at his work.' He means that this man will do his work of the finest perfection if he is happy in it. So all self-denial has a musical accompaniment. This leads to the example of Christ who went about doing good and made Himself of no account and endured the cross and shame to save men. It is ours to copy Him. As Christians we profess to do so. The pity of it is that a man should live in the world and do nothing for himself, his neighbor and his God. If there is tragedy in life that is where it lies.

MISSIONARY DAY AT BRIDGE ST.

Prominent Speakers Spoke on Home and Foreign Needs.

In Bridge Street Methodist church yesterday Mission Sunday was observed in the evening. Rev. F. J. Brown stated that a small city of immigrants enters Canada every week nine or ten thousand. They come not because of the highest things but are drawn by our fabulous wealth and the lure of riches. A heavy burden is accordingly being laid upon the church. We must make the home base strong, as yet we are scarcely touching the fringe of the foreign element. Mr. Brown touched on the great area that never should have been used as farm land, but the men must be spiritually satisfied; they cannot be forced out of the land. One district in Mississippi had 100 souls without a pastor. Of them one said "Our children are growing up like cattle. We're no Sunday here." In the spars districts the people appreciate the efforts of home missions and drive miles to hear a preacher. Northern towns are filled with foreigner. Sixteen nationalities are represented in the Methodist congregation at North Bay. Conversions are prominent among the Italians at one center. There has been all too little interest in Home Missions, in which a noble work is being done. Mr. J. L. Johnston, a merchant of Toronto asked if it was fair that the home missionary should bear all the heavy load to say necessities of life. The givings to missions must be trebled to meet the problem. If we are worthy the name of Christians we must measure up. Mr. Johnston painted a rosy picture of the progress of missions in 1913 in China, Korea, India and Turkey. Today there is a supreme need of men and prayer.

Plainfield

Plainfield, April 28. - The dust has begun to fly. Looks very spring-like. The joyous songs of the cultivators are sounding in all directions. Every farmer is at his spring work. The people in this vicinity wish to extend their heartfelt sympathy to Mr. Edgar Vermilyea in the death of his father, who was so popular and beloved by all who knew him. Mr. Wilson Lloyd who has been attending Queen's University at Kingston is spending a few days with his mother, Mrs. Joe Lloyd. Mrs. Geo. Hall has been spending a few days with her son, Mr. W. J. Hall. A number of the people of this village attended the funeral of Mr. Rob Leslie. Miss Nellie Shannon, 7th Concession of Tyendinaga, is spending a few days under the parental roof. Mr. Arthur Hall, who is attending business college, Belleville, spent Saturday and Sunday at his home in company with his friend, Mr. Jackson. Our W.M.S. met last Thursday for a re-election of officers. Mr. Fred Gray had a raising of a barn on Friday. Mr. G. B. Sinclair returned home on Saturday night after having completed his first year course at the School of Practical Science, Toronto.

THE NEW LORD MINTO

Lord Melgund who has succeeded his late father as Earl of Minto. He is in the Scots Guards.

SUDDEN DEATH OF RESPECTED RESIDENT

John Luscombe Died Suddenly on Saturday Evening of Heart Disease.

From Thursday's Daily. John Luscombe, a well known citizen passed away on Saturday night at his home, 84 Grier street, with startling suddenness. He had gone upstairs with the intention of retiring to rest for the night when he was smitten with an attack of heart failure. Everything possible was done for him but without avail. The late John Luscombe was born Sept. 13th, 1841 at Buckfistley, Devonshire, England. For twenty-one years he was in the British Army, being attached to the Twentieth Regiment and served in India, Japan and Africa. He came to Canada about 30 years ago and was car inspector for the Grand Trunk Railway, retiring three years ago. He was a member of Moira Lodge No. 11 A.F. and A.M., Moira Chapter No. 7, Royal Arch Masons; Oxford Lodge No. 17, Sons of England and the Canadian Order of Oddfellows. For years he was a constant member of the Baptist church, of which he was an elder. Mourning his loss are his widow, five sons, John of Bellefleur, Ohio, Alfred of Mul-linger, Sask., Reuben of Newark, Ohio, Walter and William of Belleville and three daughters, Mrs. B. Ainsworth, Allansville; Mrs. Darlington of Kingston, and Miss Clara of Kingston. The late John Luscombe had a wide circle of friends. Although he had not enjoyed the best of health lately it was not thought that there was any danger. On Saturday he was in his apartment in his usual health. To the bereaved family in their affliction, the deepest sympathy will be extended by the entire public.

INTERESTING FACTS ABOUT READING CAMP

Rev. Thomas Joplin is in the City This Week on an Important Mission

From Monday's Daily. In an interview with our representative today Rev. Thos Joplin, who is spending a few days in Belleville, gave us some particulars of the work of the Reading Camp Association, of which he is an official. "The Reading Camp Association believes in bringing the most highly cultivated portion of the population into close and intimate contact with its less favored classes," stated Mr. Joplin. "That is to say, the Reading Camp sends out college graduates and undergraduates from the various universities to the outlying camps, lumber, mining, railway construction or wherever their character may be, who teach the men employed there. Most of these men are foreigners, coming for the most part from Southern Europe, and the instructor makes it his chief care to see that they have all the requisite facilities for learning English. He himself is a laborer on the same plane as they are, during the working-day, and his classes are held after working hours and on holidays, and in fact whenever both he and the men can spare a little time for study. Besides teaching the men, he tries to make life a little more interesting for them in other ways, with the aid of a phonograph, by arranging concerts and other entertainments, assisting the assistance of whatever local talent he can discover on the spot, and the reading tent or room is kept supplied with the latest magazines, treatise, newspapers, etc. A good proportion of the natives can read and write in their own languages, and those who can do so are greatly pleased to find in their own camp, in an English, German, Russian, Swedish, Polish or whatever it may be. A good many of them, too, are glad to take advantage of the writing materials with which the tent is always furnished, and with age at their disposal. It is a hard life for the instructor, probably harder than it is for the average navy, for he is expected to do his daily "stunt" at least as well as the sailor, and has the strain and responsibility of teaching as well. Nevertheless it seems to attract the right sort of men. The Reading Camp has this year received applications from more than 200 men, and it is expected that the number of men who will be employed all the way round, but of course there are not so many camps open in the winter, and as a consequence only a limited number of men can be employed. All the provinces of the Dominion are now covered by the reading camp. Education with the exception of Prince Edward Island, and all of the Provincial Governments mark their approval of the work that is being done by grants of various sizes."

THEY INSPECTED TORONTO ROADS

Some of City Council Had Trip to the Queen City.

Six members of the Belleville city council have returned from Toronto where they inspected various classes of pavement roadways in order to be in a position to vote with knowledge for the kind desired for Front and Bridge streets. The following aldermen accompanied the delegation: Ald. Platt, McFee and Duckworth. An adjourned meeting is being held tonight to consider the new tenders.

DR. AMICI

The Pope's physician. During an illness of the Pontiff he never leaves the Vatican, day or night. Bickie's Anti-Consumptive Syrup is agreeable to the taste, and is a certain relief for irritation of the throat that causes hacking coughs. If set according to directions it will break the most persistent cold, and restore the air passages to their normal healthy condition. There is no miller with it, but those who seek a sure remedy and are in doubt what to use, the advice is - try Bickie's Syrup.

HOME KISSED

are the satisfied owners of "HOME KISSED" Curtain Stretchers, because THEY save time, worry, and big laundry bills, yet double the life of your curtains and BEAUTIFY them as well. Every housewife SHOULD own one, economical women MUST.

In seven short years, "Fruit-a-tives" has become the most famous and the most widely used medicine in Canada that has ever been introduced to the people of the Dominion. Even those who take "Fruit-a-tives" regularly and recommend these famous fruit juice tablets to their friends, probably have no idea of the enormous number of "Fruit-a-tives" that are being used by those wishing to regain their health.

Last year, over eight thousand gross boxes of "Fruit-a-tives" were sold. As there are one hundred, forty four boxes in a gross, this means that over one million one hundred thousand boxes were sold in 1912. And this year, this number will be still further increased.

This means a box of "Fruit-a-tives" for every six persons in Canada, or six tablets for every man, woman and child in the country.

"Fruit-a-tives" are sold in every section of the Dominion. On the rugged Atlantic coast, throughout the Maritime Provinces, among the French in Quebec and the English in Ontario, all over the great Prairie Provinces and on the shores of the Pacific, "Fruit-a-tives" is the best selling medicine in stock.

This is true because "Fruit-a-tives" gives results. For chronic Constipation, Indigestion and Stomach Trouble, for bad Blood, Skin Eruptions and Eczema, for Rheumatism, Sciatica and Lumbago, for Kidney, Bladder and Urinary Troubles—"Fruit-a-tives" cures when nothing else will.

In the head office in Ottawa, are hundreds of letters and photographs from grateful men and women who have been cured of sickness and suffering by "Fruit-a-tives." Many of these letters and photographs have been published by permission and have induced other sufferers to try "Fruit-a-tives." This is one of the factors in the demand for "Fruit-a-tives," which is now sold in every city, town, hamlet and cross roads store.

50c. a box, 6 for $2.50 trial size, 25c., at all dealers or sent on receipt of price by Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

HORSESHOERS ARE ASKING FOR LEGISLATION

At the Master Horseshoers' Convention in London, the bill of the Association, which has been sent to the Provincial Secretary was discussed.

The bill proposes to put the horseshoers, on a plane with the legal, dental, medical and other professional, insofar as under its provisions, only men bearing regularly-certified diplomas and having certain qualifications, would be eligible to practice the gentle art of tacking footwear on equine feet. Yearly examinations would be conducted and each master horseshoer that is to say, each man having a shop of his own, would have to pass the government tests and become a member of the provincial association, the whole procedure corresponding to that provided for applicants to the medical profession. In addition to a two and a half years' apprenticeship under a competent instructor, each candidate for horseshoing honors, would be required to acquire a knowledge of horsemanship.

Though the bill was sent to the provincial secretary some time ago, and was dated to take effect in April 1915, there is a little likelihood of its being formally presented to the house during the present session.

The bill is aimed at the cut-rate shoers and men who refuse to join the association and add in the general boosting of prices. There were delegates who were free to admit their doubts as to the possibility of approval of the bill by the legislature. The fact that the measure places restrictions on the trade in allowing members of the association to charge for their work, and would thus give opportunity for doing price-cutting, was purely at the fancy of the association, is regarded as likely to defeat the bill. The farmers who constitute the largest customers of the horseshoers, are expected to be greatly opposed to the measure favored by the association.

DEATH OF D. MAULEY

Picton, April 20.—There died here today at his residence, Center street, a highly respected citizen and business man, David McAuley, aged 80 years.

Mr. McAuley was born in the township of North Marysburg, later coming to Picton, where he was engaged in the canning industry, establishing factories here and at Trenton. He was a buyer of apples for export on a large scale, being the first man to ship direct from this port to the British Isles. Until his retiring from business a few years ago he was a noted horse breeder. He was a staunch Liberal in politics and a Roman Catholic in religion. He was married. The funeral will be from St. George's Catholic Church on Thursday morning.

BELLEVILLE WINS AGAIN

Saturday night, after the leaders of the Toronto Central Y.M.C.A. had given their exhibition of gymnastic work a picked team from the corps played the Belleville Y.M.C.A. team a game of basketball. The result was that the Belleville team won a victory.

The Belleville team have had a very successful season, having defeated both the Peterboro and Kingston Y.M.C.A. senior teams. In fact, they have not lost a single game. This same team, all of whom are members of Dr. McCulloch's Bible Class, will play a game under their class name of "Bridges Street Ever-Ready's" in the Y.M.C.A. gymnasium Saturday night 25th inst. Their opponents will be the St. Luke's Sunday School team of Kingston, who are winners of the church league in that city.

BELLEVILLE RIFLE ASSOCIATION

California "Raisin Day"

This year California "Raisin Day" is to be celebrated in the "Golden State" on April 30th. The slogan on that particular day will be "Eat Raisins." Not only in California will the day be given prominence, but many of the eastern railroads will feature it by placing on the menus of their dining cars special California raisin dishes. The Grand Trunk will add these dishes to their special menus on all their dining cars, April 30th.

A CHARMING SPRING WEDDING

From Thursday's Daily
One of the most charming spring weddings ever witnessed in Belleville was solemnized on Wednesday, April 22nd at eleven o'clock at the home of Mr. Charles H. Bonisteel, Avondale, when his daughter, Miss Frances was united in marriage to Mr. Ernest W. Dickens, also of this city. The guests were received in the drawing room which was appropriately decorated with flowers, palms and ferns, by Mrs. Bonisteel and Mrs. Dickens, mothers of the contracting parties.

The attractive young bride who was given away by her father, was dressed in a gown of ivory charmeuse, trimmed with lace and pearls, wearing the accustomed bridal veil, and carrying a handsome shower bouquet of roses and lily of the valley, and was unattended except by little Mary Day, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Day of this city, who acted as flower girl and looked very winsome in a French embroidered dress carrying a basket of daisies.

Immediately after the ceremony which was performed by the Rev. E. S. Osborne, pastor of Bridge St. Methodist church, Mr. James S. Ketchum, brother-in-law of the bride and Mr. Phillip's new wedding song "All Mine Alone" The Sprague Orchestra played the wedding march and furnished excellent music during the luncheon, which was served from the dining room to the sixty guests by six friends of the bride who looked very chic in their new spring frocks.

Particular mention must be made of the much admired wedding cake, which was a masterpiece, made especially by the groom's father. Many and beautiful were the gifts presented to the highly esteemed young couple. The groom's gift to the bride was in the form of a substantial check, while the bride's gift to the groom was a beautiful silver set, including a watch and chain, the so-called receiving a beautiful silk umbrella.

Mr. and Mrs. Dickens left on the International Limited for Buffalo en route to New York City, the bride travelling in an exceedingly smart suit of brown silk tulle with tulle can hat to match.

When the popular young couple returned to this city they will take up residence in their new home on Albert street, where their loss of friends wish them great joy and happiness.

WEST-VER-IRWIN

At the Rawdon parsonage, Tuesday April 14th, a wedding was solemnized by the Rev. J. A. Connell, when Mr. Arnold B. Westover and Miss Nellie A. Irwin were united in the bonds of holy matrimony.

The bride, who was daintily attired in brown was attended by Miss Lulu Ross, while Mr. Clifford supported the groom.

The groom's gift to the bridesmaid was a brooch set with pearls and to the groomsmen a watch pin. The happy couple will reside in Sidney where they have many friends who unite in wishing them a happy and prosperous life.

HAVELOCK JURY SAYS N. DULOFF WAS MURDERED

Suspicious Point to Kalo Yaloff, Who Worked With the Party.

"That N. Duloft came to his death at the hands of some party or parties unknown, pointing with strong suspicion to Kalo Yaloff, now in Bulgaria," was the verdict rendered by the jury in connection with the inquest into the death of N. Duloft a Bulgarian, whose body was found in a pond above the dam at Havelock.

Dr. Kindred, coroner, conducted the inquest. Havelock while the crown was represented by Assistant Crown Attorney Wearing M.A. of this city.

Evidence by five Bulgarian fellow-workers of the murdered man, N. Duloft, and also of the alleged murderer, Kalo Yaloff, was to the effect that they commenced working on the night of the 6th of December unloading coal cars. Duloft left the car shortly before 3 o'clock. Shortly after this Yaloff disappeared from the car. Duloft came back and asked for Yaloff, and then again left. This was the last time he was seen alive. The next morning Yaloff was found sleeping in his bunk. Examined by Assistant Crown Attorney Wearing M.A. the witnesses claimed their suspicions were not aroused over the proceedings and actions of the two men. They were however, at a loss to account for the disappearance of Yaloff a day or so after Duloft left. They were not suspicious of his departure, owing to the fact he had remarked to them of his intention of going to Toronto in a few days. Shortly after the missing man Duloft was found in a car. This aroused their suspicions and they informed the police.

Timekeeper Snyder, of the C. P. R., failed to identify his handwriting in connection with some exhibits shown. He told of Yaloff eating the check for Duloft and a few other men or details.

Traffic Watch

An autoist and a driver of a horse vehicle both came under police notice last evening, one for alleged speeding and the other for driving.

GOVERNMENT PREPARING FOR GENERAL FIGHT

(Special to The Ontario)

Toronto, April 23rd. Cabinet discussions and the Snider affair are the chief topics of interest in the Provincial situation. Ontario politics, nearing the brink of a General Election are beginning to move more quickly and are occupying considerable public attention.

The lack of homogeneity in the Cabinet is plainly becoming acute. Some of the Government papers are now giving up their policy of silence or denial and are admitting what has been known in inner circles for some time. The Toronto Telegram, for example, says—"The Conservative members in the Legislature find it easier to was money at the idea of friction in the Hydro Electric Power Commission than they do to make a move to remove the said friction."

This estrangement in the commission extends to the whole government. Conservatives are apparently amassing themselves at the extent to which disintegration has already set in. The Snider affair may easily develop into a crisis as important as the Proudfoot charges of last Session and the Cabinet Minister involved is the same man—Hon. W. J. Hanna. The debate on C. H. Bowman's motion for a select committee to examine into Snider's visits to Scott, Act contests and the relation of the Government and the liquor interests to these visits is likely to take place Tuesday or Wednesday.

Corridor talk is that Hanna is thoroughly frightened. Those who should know say it is quite possible that he will retire from the Cabinet before long and take the Chairmanship of the Workmen's Compensation Board. The Toronto Telegram supports this rumor. Although there is more money in the Chairmanship than in the Premiership of Ontario, the latter undoubtedly is the position for which Hanna has been waiting. If he retires from the Government it is evident that he does so because of the discredit he has brought upon himself in the last two Sessions of the Legislature.

Mr. A. E. Peake, Mrs. Ann Peake, Mrs. E. Chaplin and Miss Chaplin drove to their cousin's, Mrs. John Harry's, of Trent Road for today.

TRYING TO MAKE ARRANGEMENTS

The shareholders of Dale's private bank met yesterday in Madoc and are making every effort to effect a satisfactory arrangement.

There is no truth in the report that a statement had been issued showing deficit and amount of deposits. Such became current in Madoc and Belleville yesterday.

It is rumored that the accountant will not issue his statement in Madoc but from Toronto.

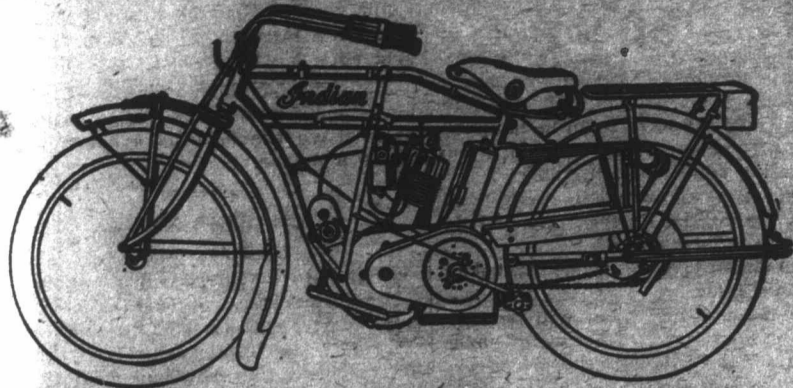

Spring Fishing

According to advertisements all fishing resorts are alike, they are the best ever, but if fishing is better anywhere than it is in Aigonquin Park, we do not know where it is. There is a great variety of fish in these waters and they are always hungry. The one place where you can afford to fish is where the fish are numerous, big and delicious in flavor, and that point is Aigonquin Provincial (Ontario) Park, so the fisherman say. Speckled trout may be caught after May 1st and open season for salmon trout is from December 1st to October 31st the following year. Drop a line to Manager, Highland Inn, Aigonquin Park Station, Ont. for booklet and all particulars or get in touch with Grand Trunk Agent. As the weather is so popular one for spring fishing, write early to secure accommodation.

A SOLDIER'S FUNERAL

Military Honors Accorded Late Major Sidney W. Vermilyea—Impressive Obsèques.

From Friday's Daily.

Military honors were yesterday afternoon accorded the late Major Sidney Walton Vermilyea, his funeral being one of the largest seen in this city for years.

In the early afternoon an immense number of citizens gathered at the family residence on Ann street. The Fifteenth Regiment of which deceased was quartermaster, attended in full strength to assist in the obsequies of their late comrade.

Rev. H. A. Osborne of Bridge St. Methodist church conducted a solemn service at the home, assisted by the Rev. Dr. R. N. Baker of Albert College and the Rev. A. S. Kerr of St. Andrew's. The remains were then removed to the hearse and the cortege began its march to the Belleville cemetery for the last sad rites.

First came Major Brown and the non-commissioned officers and men with arms reversed. Three muffled drums reverberated their dull monotony. The Fifteenth officers were out in full strength and wore crepe. Walking at the sides of the hearse were the bearers, five colonels and one major, Lt. Col. S. S. Lester, Lt. Col. W. N. Fenton, Lt. Col. Thomas Stewart, Lt. Col. W. Marsh, all of the Fifteenth Regiment; Lt. Col. W. G. Ketcheson of the Forty-Ninth Regiment, Hastings Rifles and Major David Barragar of the 10th. An immense number of vehicles followed the remains, while many hundreds of citizens walked.

The route of the funeral from the residence to the foot of Murray's hill was lined by a great throng of people.

At the top of the hill, the members of the regiment were allowed to enter carriages so that they might attend the closing ceremonies in the Belleville cemetery.

Although the family requested no flowers, many beautiful emblems were received from friends in Belleville and in outside places.

At the grave in Belleville cemetery the impressive military ceremony of burial was carried out in every detail. As the body of their beloved soldier comrade was laid to rest, the orders were given for a triple discharge and a bugle blew "The Last Post."

LOCAL BOARD OF TRADE 'WAY BACK IN 1865

May be Semi-Centennial Observations in 1915—Some Past Meetings.

Next year, 1915, is the fifteenth anniversary of the founding of the Belleville Board of Trade. Col. Poston said last evening that it would be fitting to have the semi-centennial celebration coincident with the Old Boys Reunion a year from this coming summer. He read certain passages from the "five old book" (the minutes of the days that are to show more to the deep interest the board in the past had taken in all that pertained to the welfare of Belleville. He also noted that in the time of a former secretary a number of meetings could not proceed for lack of quorums. This he remarked, never occurred in those days.

CHARGES AGAINST DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION

His Certificate Suspended Without Valid Cause, Says R. S. Jenkins.

Almonte, April 21.—Mr. R. S. Jenkins, the Principal of the Almonte High School, whose place his wife must take this term owing to the extraordinary action of the Education Department in suspending his certificate without valid cause, has issued the following statement containing a list of charges such as have rarely had to be brought against a department of the public service in an Anglo-Saxon country.

"I charge the department of Education for Ontario with arbitrarily and wrongfully suspending my certificate as a teacher under terms which were intended to be equivalent to cancellation, without having given me an opportunity to make a defence.

"I charge it with fabricating regulations which have no existence in fact.

"I charge it with making a series of absurd or false statements of which it refuses to give proof because it is aware it is unable to do so.

"I charge it with using in a communication such terms as will cast lasting disgrace upon the department unless they are apologized for and withdrawn.

"I charge it with dishonestly appropriating, retaining and making public a private letter, the nature of which has been attempted to distort.

"I charge John Smith, Superintendent of Education, with being the person who has designed and carried out this plan for driving me from the teaching profession of the province."

Mr. Chas. Allard, who has spent the winter in the city, left this afternoon to take a position in Bradford.

IMMIGRANTS CONTINUING TO ARRIVE

D. J. Fairfield Has Been Kept Busy Placing New Arrivals the Past Few Weeks.

Immigration Agent, Mr. D. J. Fairfield, is busy these days welcoming new arrivals from the Old Land. Yesterday a married couple reached the city and were placed today. Five others came in last week and arrivals are expected daily.

GOV. AND THE SNIDER AFFAIR

Whose Authority is Back of This? Opposition Charges That Enquiry is Stifled.

(Special to The Ontario.)

Toronto, April 24. One fact sticks up above the others in the Snider affair. The Government after a five hours' debate in which a serious condition of affairs was declared, refused to appoint a committee of investigation. Mr. Bowman pointed out the fact admitted by the Government themselves, that a public official, Provincial License Inspector Snider, was proceeding against the Canada Temperance Act. A Government official, therefore, was lined up with the organized liquor interests against the forces of the Churches, the Dominion Alliance, the Ontario Young Men's Association and other temperance workers. Bowman's essential question, one which remains unanswered in any satisfactory way and which must remain unanswered until light is let into the subject by a full enquiry, is this—"How did Snider come to be there?"

If Snider was in these Counties entirely on his own responsibility, as Bowman has stated, why was he not dismissed? What is behind the Government's silence? Does the Government have to placate Snider because he knows too much?

It was pointed out in the House that if this were the first time the Government had blocked an enquiry, the matter might be passed over a little more lightly, but when, since the Proudfoot charges last year, the siding of the Government has become almost the habitual procedure of the Government, public suspicion is immediately aroused.

A typical question being asked today is whether, in view of the fact that the Government would go to their country under the cloud of having blocked still another enquiry, unless they knew that a free investigation would have revealed facts still more damaging to themselves.

KING EDWARD BRINGS SUIT

Mining Man Run Up Large Bill For Flowers.

"That's right. Go down and talk about it over a good lunch. They know how to serve good lunches down there."

Such was the admonition of Judge Winchester in Toronto, when Mr. Rota Gooderham, counsel for the plaintiffs informed him that the King Edward Hotel, who brought Schlicht mining engineer of New York, and Peter Kirkegarde, of Toronto, managing director of the Cordova mines, was willing to fix things up out of court.

According to the King street reporter, that favorite rendezvous of mining men, Schlicht had run a bill last summer, in which, besides board, such items as "telephone and telegraph $29.99; souvenir room $14.50; and $22.50 for flowers" went to swell the total to $165.55. The hotel said that Kirkegarde had notified them that he would stand good for Schlicht's expenses, and that month Kirkegarde was in court, and Schlicht in some valuable papers in the valise of Schlicht, which, with other articles of his was retained in lieu of board after his departure.

Schlicht did not appear, but Mr. Kirkegarde was in court, and denied the allegations about his standing good for the claim, although he admitted that he had made the hotel an offer in this connection, besides the $100 for his papers, which latter, he said, they had refused.

Mrs. Ann Penke, of Toronto, is the guest of her sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Champlain, Harriett St.

EARLY BIRD AND TRANSFORMER

West Belleville Residents Thought Breviter Was at Work.

"The early bird that catches the worm" may be very industrious, and restless with the awakening spirit of dawn but he sometimes arouses his human neighbors to a pitch of uncontrolled frenzy, such as a four o'clock-in-the-morning carpenter in shingling a roof can accomplish when he begins to make the air hideous during the summer hours.

The past few days an industrious redheaded woodpecker has been making things exciting in Murray ward along Catherine street. This gentleman with the red hat is a much desired individual, however, and his industry goes for naught and perhaps his peck too. This bird in some manner took to an electric light pole and must have imagined the transformer hollow and a possible fire-trail if he could get into it. It is not thought he has any intention to "play the band" for the benefit of the public, but anyway he has taken to beating with his beak against the metal side of the transformer. This results in a sound which can be heard for several blocks, and farther in the early morning hours. Pedestrians have wondered where the steam-heating machinery was at work at that time of day. Dozens of people have been deceived by the bird but as yet he has not been discovered by those who have been fooled.

Neighbors say a similar bird created the same nuisance last year in the same spot.

CALL TO LABOR IN POLICE COURT

Two Men Are Selected to Work For Magistrate Dumble.

"How many men of you want work?" was the bombshell Magistrate Dumble sprang on the work at a recent session of police court in Peterborough.

In response to His Worship's question about one-third of the spectators arose to their feet. "Pick me out a couple of good men, Chief," was the next remark. Chief Thompson did as requested, and the Magistrate informed the men to come to their feet, as most of them would give them work.

BARGE NAVAJO A TOTAL LOSS

Part of the Engines May be Saved—Stern of the Craft is Broken Off.

Kingston, April 23.—The steam-barge Navajo, which went ashore on the Main Duck Island after taking a load of grain out of the barge Caylon last fall, is in a critical condition and it is feared that she is a total loss. The craft has had no protection from the elements as she has been in the mercy of the full force of the winter gales on Lake Ontario. A trip to the scene made recently showed that the stern of the barge and the hull up past midships is totally destroyed and the machinery is badly damaged. Much of the engine's piping has been carried away and the boilers have been seriously affected by the cold weather. It appears that the water was left in the boiler all winter and that they have cracked to some extent due to the fact of the water freezing.

The island is strewn with the grain that has been washed ashore, and it has made good food for the multi-tude of crows that come near the island. Practically the only parts that will be of value on the craft will be some parts of the engine and the hoisting engine which is situated forward. The only thing left on the deck is the wheelhouse, which is near the bow.

Arrangement Was Reached

From Friday's Daily. This morning a settlement was effected in the charge against Charles Ed. Powley of assaulting his wife. Mrs. Powley laid the charge with drawn and said the costs, her husband being bound over to keep the peace for one year. Mr. P. J. M. Anderson for the crown, Mr. J. J. B. Flint for private prosecutor and Mr. E. J. Butler for defendant.

"ETERNITY"

Written for The Ontario by Miss Jennie Osborn.

The meaning of the word in never ending. How are we living, what are we doing for our blessed Master? Are we working to save precious souls? Reader, where will you and I spend eternally—in heaven or hell. Sinner, listen, if the Lord be God follow Him. If Heal follow him. Remember the Bible says "My spirit shall not always strive with man. What a solemn word—eternity. In the midnight hour when the old clock is ticking it seems to tell us to prepare to meet our God. How must we live so we may spend it in heaven! Some say by praying and fasting, others by penances, giving money to the poor; others by being strictly moral; others by joining a church. You will find the words but once in the Bible, in Isaiah, 57th chapter and 15th verse. If we spend our eternity in heaven we must have a change of heart, we were born in sin. We must give our hearts to Christ, and our high must shine brightly before men. We must obey the golden rule. We must be glad with the whole armour of God. May the Lord show us how to live and what to do. Take the Bible as our Chart. God bless us all. May we live in the spirit that we will walk in the spirit. The Lord help us to see it while it is called today to prepare to meet Him in joy, so we can spend our eternity in heaven. May we do all to the glory of God. May we remember the word eternity and its meaning never ending.

AT REST

Obsequies of the Late Jas. W. Anderson, of Ameliasburg.

From Thursday's Daily. The funeral of the late J. W. Anderson took place from his residence in Ameliasburg this afternoon and was largely attended by a wide circle of relatives and friends, many of whom came from a distance to pay the last tribute of respect and esteem to one who had been recognized as one of the stalwart men of his day. The service was conducted at the residence of the deceased by the Rev. M. W. Leigh, B. A. Methodist minister and pastor of the Redversville circuit, who gave a very able discourse from "John XX. Chap. 29 verse, last part. "Blessed are they that have not seen and yet have believed," a favorite text of the deceased and one which was frequently referred to by him during his illness. The music, which was under the leadership of Mr. J. M. Chislett, an esteemed friend of the family, consisted of favorite selections and was highly appreciated. A widow and two sons have been left behind. They have sustained through the death of a kind husband and father. The bearers were Jas. F. Anderson, Alex. H. Anderson, Jas. H. Anderson and Riley Anderson, nephews of the deceased.

The interment took place in the family plot at Albany cemetery.

Suspended Sentence

This morning Magistrate Mason allowed a man named G. Brown to go under suspended sentence for one year. He had pleaded guilty a week ago to taking some wood from a yard. The court found a warning to the accused, Mr. W. Carnow for defence and Mr. P. J. M. Anderson for the crown.

Check those Colds in the Head with FOSSAL BALM

As you know, "catching a cold" simply means allowing the germs of a cold to catch you.

Usually these germs, which abound wherever people congregate, gain their first foothold in the mucous membrane lining the nasal passages. Here they multiply if unchecked, and quickly set up an inflammation. Then follows that irritating, burning, stuffed up, "headache" feeling—that cold in the head that is so depressing and so likely to develop into something more serious.

Fossal Balm goes right to the spot, kills the germs and checks the cold. Fossal Balm is an antiseptic, healing ointment, put up in a collapsible tube with a long, nozzle-shaped opening. This little nozzle, inserted in the nostril, carries the Fossal Balm well up into the passage, where it quickly spreads over the inflamed membrane, destroys the germs that are causing the trouble, soothes the irritation, clears the passages, and gives grateful and lasting relief.

Get a 50c tube of Fossal Balm from your Druggist or write for it direct to National Drug & Chemical Co. of Canada, Limited, Montreal.

ITEMS FROM PLEASANT VIEW

Interesting Budget of News From Our Own Correspondent.

Pleasant View, April 22.—Mrs. Wm. Phillips and daughter, Elsie, have returned home after spending the winter with relatives down East.

Mr. Frank Oliver of Winnipeg was the guest of his parents and sister Mrs. H. Jeffrey last week.

Miss Ida Burdick with some friends from Prince Edward were visiting at Mr. J. Tucker's home week.

Mrs. Richard Oliver of Mountain View has been visiting her old neighbors for the last two weeks. Sugar parties and syrup making are over now and people are starting to work on the land.

Mr. Holgate gave a splendid sermon here on Sunday evening last. The W.M.S. and Ladies Aid met together at the parsonage on Wednesday last and good reports given of the work in the past.

Mrs. Chas. Pope spent a few days with friends in Belleville.

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Sherry spent Monday evening at Mr. F. Rikley's.

ADMITTED HIS GUILT

From Thursday's Daily. Serg. Nephin has arrived home from the Ontario Prison Farm at Guelph bringing with him William O'Connell, charged with converting to his own use a suit of clothes in October last, thereby committing theft. In court O'Connell, this morning pleaded guilty to theft and to charges of obtaining a suit with intent to defraud. This arises out of the case. O'Connell had the suit on him and offered to return it. He had just worn it twice for he had just finished a six month term having been sent up from Peterboro. He said he had a job to go to at Guelph at $55 per month as blacksmith. The magistrate remanded him a week to inquire into the statement.

The suit of clothes in the case belonged to Mr. Vincent Brown but was obtained by O'Connell from Mr. George Lee.

This Farmer Shows How to a Road's Benefit

MR. J. J. HOUSTON, who lives on a road that has lately been improved, in Lauderdale County Mississippi, makes the common-sense statement which follows:

"I have never made an investment for which I have gotten as much financial returns and satisfaction out of as I have out of this road. The advancement in property alone has been sufficient to four or five times pay the whole cost of construction, and I don't think the county could make any investment that would bring in as much returns as to build a network of them all over it. It is such a good thing that I want every man in the county to have one just like it, and I am willing to pay my part of the taxes to help him get it."

Build Concrete Roads

Then your road taxes will be invested and not merely spent. They will return many times the amount they cost, and those returns will show in the increased valuation of your property, the lessened cost of marketing your produce, the longer life of your horses and vehicles, the greater conveniences and general prosperity of your community.

Concrete roads outlast all other kinds of roads and require practically no repairs for many years. They are safe, clean, permanent and passable every day in the year.

TARZAN OF THE APES

By EDGAR RICE BURROUGHS

Copyright, 1912, by the Frank A. Munsey Company

The trip to the beach was uneventful and the morning after they dropped anchor before the cabin Tarzan garbed once more in his jungle regalia and carrying a spade, set out alone for the amphitheater of the apes where lay the treasure.

Late the next day he returned, bearing the great chest upon his shoulders, and at sunrise the little vessel was worked through the harbor's mouth and took up her northward journey.

Three weeks later Tarzan and D'Arnot were passengers on board a French steamer bound for Lyons, and after a few days in that city D'Arnot took Tarzan to Paris.

The ape man was anxious to proceed to America, but D'Arnot insisted that he must accompany him to Paris first, not would he divulge the nature of the urgent necessity upon which he based his demand.

CHAPTER XX.

The Light of Civilization.

ONE of the first things which D'Arnot accomplished after their arrival was to arrange to visit a high official of the police department, an old friend of D'Arnot's. He took Tarzan with him. Adroitly D'Arnot led the conversation from point to point until the policeman had explained to the interested Tarzan many of the methods in vogue for apprehending and identifying criminals.

Not the least interesting to Tarzan was the part played by finger prints in this fascinating science. "But of what value are these imprints," asked Tarzan, "when after a few years the lines upon the fingers are entirely changed by the wearing out of the old tissue and the growth of new?"

"The lines never change," replied the official. "From infancy to senility the finger prints of an individual change only in size, except as injuries alter the loops and whorls. If imprints have been taken of the thumb and four fingers of both hands one must needs lose all entirely to escape identification.

"Do finger prints show racial characteristics?"

"It is marvelous," exclaimed D'Arnot. "I wonder what the lines upon my fingers resemble."

"We can soon see," replied the police officer, and, ringing a bell, he summoned an assistant to whom he issued a few directions.

The man left the room to return presently with a little hardwood box, which he placed on his superior's desk.

"Now," said the officer, "you shall have your finger prints in a second."

He drew from the little case a square of plate glass, a little tub of thick ink, a rubber roller and a few snowy white cards.

Squeezing a drop of ink on to the glass, he spread it back and forth with the rubber roller until the entire surface of the glass was covered with a very thin and uniform layer of ink.

"Place the four fingers of your right hand upon the glass thus," he said to D'Arnot, "now the thumb. That's right. Now place them in just the same position upon this card here; no, a little to the right. We must leave room for the thumb and the fingers of the left hand. There, that's it. Now the same with the left."

"Come, Tarzan," cried D'Arnot, "let's see what your whorls look like."

Tarzan complied readily, asking many questions of the officer during the operation.

"Do finger prints show racial characteristics?" he asked. "Could you determine, for example, solely from finger prints whether the subject was negro or Caucasian?"

"I think not," replied the officer, "though some claim that those of the negro are less complex."

"Could the finger prints of an ape be detected from those of a man?" "Probably, because the ape's would be far simpler than those of the higher organism."

"But a cross between an ape and a man might show the characteristics of either progenitor," continued Tarzan. "I should think likely," responded the official. "But the science has not progressed sufficiently to render it exact enough in such matters. I should hate to trust its findings further than to differentiate between individuals."

"There it is absolutely definite. No two people born into the world probably have ever had identical lines upon all their digits."

"Does the comparison require much time or labor?" asked D'Arnot.

"Ordinarily but a few moments, if the impressions are distinct."

D'Arnot drew a little black book from his pocket and commenced turning the pages.

Tarzan looked at the book in surprise. How did D'Arnot come to have his book?

Presently D'Arnot stopped at a page on which were five tiny little smudges.

He handed the open book to the policeman.

"Are these imprints similar to mine or M. Tarzan's? Can you say that they are identical with either?"

The officer drew a powerful glass from his desk and examined all three specimens carefully, making notations thereupon upon a pad of paper.

Tarzan realized now what was the meaning of their visit to the police officer.

The answer to his life's riddle lay in these tiny marks.

With tense nerves he sat leaning forward in his chair.

"Presently the police officer spoke. 'Gentlemen,' he said.

Both turned toward him.

"There is evidently a great deal at stake which must hinge to a greater or lesser extent upon the absolute correctness of this comparison. I therefore ask that you leave the entire matter in my hands until our expert returns."

D'Arnot had hoped to know at once," said D'Arnot. "M. Tarzan sails for America tomorrow."

"I will promise that you can enable him a report within two weeks," replied the officer. "What it will be I dare not say. There are resemblances, yet—well, we had better leave it for M. Leblanc to solve."

A taxicab drew up before an old-fashioned residence upon the outskirts of Baltimore.

A man of about forty, well built and with strong, regular features, stepped out and paying the chauffeur dismissed him.

A moment later the passenger was entering the library of the old home.

"Ah, Mr. Canler," exclaimed an old man, rising to greet him.

"Good evening, my dear professor," cried the man, extending a cordial hand.

"I have come this evening to speak with you about Jane. You know my aspirations, and you have been generous enough to approve my suit."

Professor Archimedes Q. Porter nodded in his armchair. The subject always made him uncomfortable. He could not understand why, Canler, was a splendid match.

"But Jane," continued Canler, "I cannot understand her. She puts me off first on one ground and then another. I always have the feeling that she breathes a sigh of relief every time I bid her good-by."

"Tut, tut," said Professor Porter. "Tut, tut, Mr. Canler. Jane is a most obedient daughter. She will do precisely as I tell her."

"Then I can still count on your support?" asked Canler, a tone of relief marking his voice.

"Certainly, sir, certainly," exclaimed Professor Porter. "How could you doubt it?"

"There is young Clayton, you know," suggested Canler. "He has been hanging about for months. I don't know that Jane cares for him. But besides his title they say he has inherited a very considerable estate from his father. It might not be strange if he finally won her unless—"

Canler paused.

"Tut, tut, Mr. Canler. Unless—what?"

"Unless you see fit to request that Jane and I be married at once," said Canler slowly and distinctly.

"I have already suggested to Jane that it would be desirable," said Professor Porter sadly, "for we can no longer afford to keep up this house and live as her associations demand."

"What was her reply?"

"She said she was not ready to marry any one yet," replied Professor Porter. "that we could go and live upon the farm in northern Wisconsin which her mother left her. It is a little more than self supporting. The tenants have always made a living from it and he has been able to send Jane a trifle each year."

"She is planning our going up there the first of the week. Philander and Mr. Clayton have already gone to get things in readiness for us."

"Clayton has gone there?" exclaimed Canler, visibly chagrined. "Why was not I told? I would gladly have gone and seen that every comfort was provided."

"Jane feels that we are already too much in your debt, Mr. Canler," said Professor Porter.

Canler was about to reply when the sound of footsteps came from the hall without, and Jane Porter entered the room.

"Oh, I beg your pardon," she exclaimed, pausing at the threshold. "I thought you were alone, papa."

"It is only I, Jane," said Canler, who had risen.

"You? You come in and join the group? We were just speaking of you."

"Thank you," said Jane, entering and taking the chair Canler placed for her. "I only wanted to tell papa that Tohey has come down from the college to pack his books."

"I must see him at once," cried the professor. "Excuse me just a moment."

And the old man hastened from the room.

As soon as he was out of earshot Canler turned to Jane Porter.

"See here, Jane," he said bluntly. "How long is this thing to go on like this? You haven't refused to marry me, but you haven't promised either. I want to get the license tomorrow so that we can be married quietly before you leave for Wisconsin. I don't care for any fuss or feathers, and I'm sure you don't either."

The girl turned cold, but she held her head bravely.

"Your father wishes it, you know," added Canler.

"Yes; I know."

She spoke scarcely above a whisper.

"Do you realize that you are buying me, Mr. Canler," she asked faintly and in a cold, level voice—"buying me for a few paltry dollars? Of course you do. And the hope of just such a contingency was in your mind when you loaned papa the money for that hare-brained escapade, which but for a most mysterious circumstance would have been successful."

"But you, Mr. Canler, would have been the most surprised. You had no idea that the venture would succeed. You knew that without security you had a greater hold on the honor of the Porters than with it. You knew the one best way to force me to marry you without seeming to force me."

"You have never mentioned the loan. In any other man I should have thought that the prospecting of a man's nomenclature and noble character. But you are deep."

"I know you better than you think I know you. I shall certainly marry you if there is no other way, but let us understand each other once and for all."

"You surprise me, Jane," said Canler. "I thought you had more self-control, more pride. Of course you are right. I am buying you, and I knew that you knew it. But I thought you would prefer to pretend that it was otherwise. But have it your own way," he added lightly. "I am going to have you, and that is all that interests me."

Without a word the girl turned and left the room.

But Jane Porter was not married before she left with her father and Esmeralda for her little Wisconsin farm.

As she coldly bade Robert Canler good-by while the train pulled out he called to her that he would join them in a week or two.

At their destination they were met by Clayton and Mr. Philander in a huge touring car belonging to the former and quietly whisked away through the dense northern woods toward the little farm since the girl had not visited before since childhood.

The farmhouse, which stood on a little elevation some hundred yards from the tenant's house, had undergone a complete transformation during the three weeks that Clayton and Mr. Philander had been there.

The former had imported a small army of carpenters and plasterers, plumbers and painters from a distant city, and what had been but a dilapidated shanty was now a cozy little two-story house filled with every modern convenience procurable in so short a time.

"I couldn't think of your living in the hole we found here," said Clayton to Jane when they were alone.

"Oh, Cecil, I wish I might repay you as you deserve—as you would wish," said Jane.

"Why can't you, Jane?"

"Because I love some one else."

"Canler?"

"No."

"But you are going to marry him. He told me as much before I left Baltimore."

The girl winced.

"It is because of the money, Jane?"

"Then am I so much less desirable than Canler? I have money enough," she said bitterly.

"I don't love you, Cecil," she said, "but I respect you. If I must disgrace myself by such a bargain with any man I prefer that it be one I already despise. I should loathe the man to whom I sold myself without love, who soever he might be."

"You will be happier," she concluded, "alone, with my respect and friendship, than with me and my contempt."

He did not press the matter further, but if ever a man had murder in his heart it was William Cecil Clayton, Lord Greytoke, when, a week later, Robert Canler drew up before the farmhouse in his purring six cylinder.

A week passed—a tense though uneventful week for all.

Canler was insistent that Jane marry him at once.

At length she gave in from sheer loathing of the continued and hateful importuning.

It was agreed that on the morrow Canler was to drive to town and bring back the license and a clergyman.

Clayton had wanted to leave as soon as the plan was announced, but the girl's tired, hopeless look kept him. He could not desert her.

Something might happen yet, he tried to console himself by thinking. In his heart he knew that it would require but a tiny spark to turn his hatred for Canler into the blood lust of the killer.

Early the next morning Canler set out for town.

In the east smoke could be seen lying low over the forest, for a fire had been raging for a week not far from them, but the wind still lay in the west and no danger threatened them.

About noon Jane Porter started off for a walk. She would not let Clayton accompany her. She wanted to be alone, she said, and he respected her wishes.

In the house Professor Porter and Mr. Philander were immersed in an absorbing discussion of some weighty scientific problem. Esmeralda dozed in the kitchen, and Clayton, heavy eyed after a sleepless night, threw himself down upon the couch in the living room and soon dropped into a fitful slumber.

To the east the black smoke clouds rose higher into the heaven. Suddenly they eddied and then commenced to drift rapidly toward the west.

On and on they came. The inmates of the tenant house were gone, for it was market day, and none there was to see the rapid approach of the fire.

Soon the flames had spanned the road to the south and cut off Canler's return. A little fluctuation of the wind now carried the path of the forest fire slightly to the north, then blew back, and the flames nearly stood still as though held in leash by some master hand.

CHAPTER XXI.

Out of the Fire.

SUDDENLY out of the northeast a great black car came careening down the road.

With a jolt it stopped before the cottage, and a black haired giant leaped out and ran up on to the porch. Without a pause he rushed into the house. On the couch lay Clayton. The man started in surprise, but with a bound was at the side of the sleeping man.

Shaking him roughly by the shoulder, he cried:

"Are you all mad here? Don't you know you are nearly surrounded by fire? Where is Miss Porter?"

Clayton sprang to his feet. He did not recognize the man, but he understood the words and was upon the veranda in a bound.

He cried out in consternation, then, dashing back into the house, called:

"Jane! Jane! Where are you?"

In an instant Esmeralda, Professor Porter and Mr. Philander had joined the two men.

"Where is Miss Jane?" demanded Clayton, setting Esmeralda by the shoulders and shaking her roughly.

"Oh, Marise Clayton, she done gone for a walk."

"Hasn't she come back yet?"

And without waiting for a reply Clayton dashed out into the yard, followed by the others.

"Which way did she go?" cried the black haired giant to Esmeralda.

"Down that road," cried the frightened black, pointing toward the south, where a mighty wall of searing flames shot out the view.

"Put these people in the other car!" shouted the stranger to Clayton. "I saw one as I drove up. Get them out of here by the north road."

"Leave my car here. If I find Miss Porter we shall need it. If I don't do one will need it. Do as I say," as Clayton hesitated.

They saw the little figure bound away across the clearing toward the northwest, where the forest still stood, unharmed by flames.

As each rose the unaccountable feeling that a great responsibility had been raised from their shoulders, a kind of implicit confidence in the power of the stranger to save the girl if she could be saved.

"Who was that?" asked Professor Porter.

"I don't know," replied Clayton. "He called me by name, and he knew Jane, for he asked for her, and he called Esmeralda by name."

"There was something most strangely familiar about him," exclaimed Mr. Philander. "Yet, bless me, I know I never saw him before."

"Tut, tut!" cried Professor Porter. "Most remarkable! Who could it have been, and why do I feel that Jane is safe now that he has set out in search of her?"

"I can't tell you, professor," said Clayton soberly, "but I know I have the same uncanny feeling."

"But come," he cried; "we must get out of here ourselves or we shall be shut off." And the party hastened toward Clayton's machine.

When Jane Porter turned to retrace her steps homeward she was alarmed to note how near the smoke of the forest fire seemed, and as she hastened onward her alarm became almost a panic when she perceived that the rushing flames were rapidly forcing their way between herself and the cottage.

At length she was compelled to turn into the dense thicket and attempt to force her way to the west in an effort to circle around the flames and regain her home.

In a short time the utility of her attempt became apparent, and then her one hope lay in retracing her steps to the road and flying for her life to the south toward the town.

The twenty minutes that it took her to regain the road was all that had been needed to cut off her retreat as effectively as her advance had been cut off before. Jane Porter knew that it was useless to attempt to force her way again through the undergrowth.

She had tried it once and failed. Now she realized that it would be but a matter of minutes ere the whole space between the enemy on the north and the enemy on the south would be a seething mass of flames.

Calmly the girl knelt down in the dust of the roadway and prayed for strength to meet her fate bravely and to deliver her father and her friends from death.

She did not think to pray for deliverance for herself; she knew there was no hope.

Suddenly she heard her name being called aloud through the forest: "Jane! Jane Porter!" it rang strong and clear, but in a strange voice.

"Here!" she called in reply. "Here! In the roadway!"

Then through the branches of the trees she saw a figure swinging.

A veering of the wind blew a cloud of smoke about them, and she could no longer see the man who was speeding toward her, but suddenly she felt a great arm about her. Then she was lifted up, and she felt the rushing of the wind and the occasional brush of a branch as she was borne along.

She opened her eyes.

Far below her lay the undergrowth and the hard earth.

About her was the waving foliage of the forest.

From tree to tree swung the giant figure, which bore her, and it seemed to Jane Porter that she was living over in a dream the experience that had been hers in that far African jungle.

She stole a sudden glance at the face close to hers, and then she gave a little frightened gasp. It was he. "My man!" she murmured. "No! It is the delirium which precedes death."

"Yes, your man, Jane Porter—you're a savage, primitive man come out of the jungle to claim his mate—the woman who ran away from him," he addressed most fiercely.

"I did not run away," she whispered. "I would only consent to leave when they had waited a week for you to return."

They had come to a point beyond the fire now, and he had turned back to the clearing.

Side by side they were walking toward the cottage. The wind had changed once more, and the fire was burning back upon itself. Another hour like that and it would be burned out.

"Why did you not return?" she asked.

"I was nursing D'Arnot. He was badly wounded."

"Ah, I knew it!" she exclaimed.

"They said you had gone to join the blacks that they were your people."

He laughed.

"But you did not believe them?"

"No—what shall I call you?" she asked. "What is your name?"

"I was Tarzan of the apes when you first knew me," he said.

"Tarzan of the apes!" she cried. "And that was your note I answered when I left?"

"Yes. Whose did you think it was?"

"I did not know, only that it could not be yours, for Tarzan of the apes had written in English, and you could not understand a word of any language."

Again he laughed.

"It is a long story, but it was I who wrote what I could not speak. And now D'Arnot has made matters worse by teaching me to speak French instead of English."

"Come," he added, "jump into my car. We must overtake your father. They are only a little way ahead."

As they drove along he said:

"Then when you said in your note to Tarzan of the apes that you loved another you might have meant me?"

"I might have," she said simply.

"But in Baltimore—oh, how I have searched for you—they told me you would possibly be married by now."

That a man named Canler had come up here to wed you. Is that true?"

"Yes."

"Do you love him?"

"No."

"Do you love me?"

She buried her face in her hands.

"I am promised to another. I cannot answer you, Tarzan of the apes," she cried.

"You have answered. Now tell me why you would marry one you do not love."

"My father owes him money."

Suddenly there came back to Tarzan the memory of the letter he had read—and the name of Robert Canler and the blighted trouble which he had been unable to understand then.

He smiled.

"If your father had not lost the treasure you would not feel forced to keep your promise to this man Canler."

"I could ask him to release me."

"And if he refused?"
