German View "In decisive" is Significant to Experts

LONDON, Sept. 30.—The brief official communication received here from Paris declares that the conditions along the battle front in France remain unchanged. Among the special despatches is one from Nancy which tells of the capture by the French of St. Mihiel and the capture of the Crown Prince of Bavaria, and relates that desperate attempts are being made to retake the distinguished prisoner.

No one knows except those on the ground just how the great battle of the Aisne is progressing, but there are many indications that its nineteenth day may be witnessed as a stupendous and decisive struggle in the valley of the Somme.

Belgium again has been the scene of fighting which in a war of less magnitude than the present struggle would be called a great battle, as it is estimated that more than 150,000 men were engaged yesterday in the Antwerp campaign. During the day desperate fighting took place along a line extending from Termonde to the sea.

The German military government is preparing to remove to Namur. In the east General Von Hindenburg and General Rennenkampff along the Niemen are reported to have been engaged in a fierce battle during the last three days without any decisive results.

Vienna states that the much-harassed Austrian army from Galicia has formed a junction with the German corps at Cracow. This junction has been expected, but in the British view occurred none too soon, as the Russians are reported to be only 60 miles from the city. Heavy fighting in this region and in Silesia is expected soon. Owing to the marshy ground the Germans have been compelled to place their guns on the high roads.

It is the Russian forces have won the passes in the Carpathians, nothing except improvised forts remain to prevent them from advancing. Heavy fighting in this region and in Silesia is expected soon. Owing to the marshy ground the Germans have been compelled to place their guns on the high roads.

Petrograd reports signs of activity on the part of the German fleet in the Baltic, and a gale credited with being the heaviest within human memory sweeping over the North Sea and Denmark has washed ashore bodies of German sailors in uniform near Esbjerg, Denmark.

The Balkan allies pressing the attack on the Austrian province of Bosnia have won several minor successes, but the investment of Sarajevo, the capital, proceeds slowly as the nature of the country makes the movement of siege guns a small-scale task, while the six miles which separates the assailants from the capital is occupied by a range of mountains and outlying forts.

PUT OUT OF COURT (New York Times). No voice or pen, however eloquent or gifted, can convince an impartial world of the justice of Germany's cause or chance the rooted belief of right-thinking men that she is battling for ends that she would retard the advance of civilization and make the peace, the prosperity and the happiness of the nations less secure.

This Bravery is Very Hard Kind To Beat

LONDON, Sept. 30.—A Reuter despatch from Paris says: "Thirty gunners of a British field battery had fallen, killed or wounded. Knowing that they were going to almost certain death, they called out, 'Good-by, fellows,' to their comrades in the reserve line. Two minutes later every man was out of action."

"Thirty more went on the front with the same farewell greeting. The German shells were falling thickly behind the battery, and killed or wounded every man serving the guns. Eventually the persistence and accuracy of the British fire proved effective, and the British infantry advanced and took the opposing position at the point of the bayonet. "Similar incidents occurred along the whole western wing Tuesday, enabling the Allies to hold their own against the repeated furious onslaughts of the Germans who were attempting to break through."

OFFICIALLY ANNOUNCED AT PARIS THAT SUCCESS HAS BEEN WON ON THE LEFT

On Left Wing Germans Were Repulsed With Very Heavy Losses—Quiet in the Centre and on the Right of the Battle Line.

PARIS, Sept. 30.—According to the official bulletin on the west given out in Paris this afternoon, the turning movement of the allies north of the Somme is developing rapidly. A German attack on Tracy-Le-Mont has been repulsed with heavy losses.

The text of the statement is as follows: "First—On our left wing, north of the Somme, the action continues to develop rapidly. To the north, between the Oise and the Aisne, the enemy has delivered a vigorous attack on Tracy-Le-Mont, north east of the forest of Argue. They were repulsed with heavy losses."

"Second: On the centre there is relative calm along the entire front which extends from Rheims to the Meuse. Between the Argonne and the Meuse we have made slight progress. "In the Woerthe district there have been severe battles. Our troops have advanced at several points, notably to the east of St. Mihiel."

"On our right wing in Lorraine and the Vosges there has been no change. "In Galicia the efforts of the sorties made by the Austrian garrison at Przemyel have failed."

Belgians Are in Desperate Fight To-day

LONDON, Sept. 30.—The correspondent of the Daily London Chronicle, with the Belgians, in writing under yesterday's date estimates that nearly 150,000 troops are engaged in a desperate battle along a line extending from Termonde to Aerschot.

"The battle," the correspondent says, "appears to be the last effort on both sides. Belgian resistance in the face of the superior German artillery, is really magnificent."

"As regards Antwerp, it is not easy to make a definite statement until the result of to-day's (Tuesday) battle is known. In any case the town is well provisioned and defended. The German losses in the last few days must have been enormous. Certainly many thousands have fallen."

STEAMSHIP SAILINGS NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—The Danish steamer United States reached New York to-day from Christianland with 1,043 passengers. The only other trans-Atlantic liner expected to-day was the steamer Napoli from Palermo due late this afternoon. The Cunarder Mauretania sailed for Liverpool at 10 o'clock this morning. Many English reservists were on board, and before the ship sailed a tribute was paid to them by passengers and persons ashore, who sang God Save the King.

If Demands Are Not Met, Germans Take Loot With Officers' Consent

LONDON, Sept. 30.—Correspondents of the Times in France give contrasting instances of the manner in which Germans deal with the towns they occupy. During the German occupation of Peronne, owing to the failure to provide the requisitions demanded, the commanding officer gave the troops permission to loot the town. For two hours the Germans needed no second invitation; it is said, and furniture, ancient and modern silver and bronzes, pictures and personal property were loaded on trains and taken away.

NUMEROUS PRISONERS WERE CAPTURED AGAIN BY THE FORCES OF THE ALLIES

All Signs Tend to Point to Victory but There is Great Reticence in Official Circles—Outlook is Very Hopeful.

PARIS, Sept. 30.—It was again the return of the allies' left yesterday to sustain the shock of the enemy on the battle front in northern France, and though the official communication does not say so, it is reliably stated that it was again their good fortune to take numerous prisoners.

The lack of consistency in the operations of the Germans, added to the increased vigilance of the allies, is making the lot of the military prophets a hard one. All they can deduce to-day from the information given out is that the Germans failed to break through the allies' front anywhere. "Naturally the absence of news makes a place for rumors which are very plentiful, but which none dares to publish even if their truth had been ascertained. Commentators are also required to be very circumspect as is shown by the blank, white gaps of various lengths in the censored articles in the Paris newspapers. All that can be said of the unofficial reports that are printable is that they are not unfavorable to the allies."

WAR SUMMARY

The turning movement directed against the German right wing by the allied armies is developing rapidly, according to an announcement by the French War Office this afternoon. It is declared that a vigorous assault on Tracy-Le-Mont was repulsed with heavy losses to the Germans.

There is nothing in the Paris announcements or in other official statements to-day, however, to confirm last night's assertion by a Paris correspondent of a London news agency that the German right wing had been broken.

Tracy-Le-Mont is the elbow of the fighting line that in a general way stretches from that point east and north. The official statement says this action gives more and more towards the north.

A RUSSIAN CAVALRY REGIMENT IN ACTIVE SERVICE

This picture, which was drawn at the front by G. Melny, special artist for this newspaper, the New York Herald and the London Sphere) shows a Russian cavalry regiment on the march while in active service. In many of the Russian cavalry regiments there are specially-trained singers to take the place of the customary band while the regiment is on active service. The regimental band very rarely accompanies the regiment into action. Some of the singers have simple hand instruments with which they accompany the songs they sing. The effect this singing has on the Russian soldiers is most remarkable.

GERMANS TAKE LOOT WITH OFFICERS' CONSENT

North Sea is Blowing Hard

Considerable damage has been done to property, continues the despatch. "The German air manoeuvres in the neighborhood of Kiel have been abandoned. A telephone message from West Jutland states that a number of bodies of German sailors in uniform were washed ashore Monday north of Saberg. Telegraphic communication has been considerably upset."

British Military Experts Say Situation Excellent

LONDON, Sept. 30.—The Standard military correspondent writes: "The note of quiet confidence, which one feels, has been sounded of late in the town and guarded official communications which have had reference to the course of the war in France, appears to me to get louder and more persistent. Even a negative expression of hopefulness in an extraordinary and unaccountable manner."

Will Spare Cathedrals Says German

Apparently Antwerp is to Undergo Heavy Bombardment.

LONDON, Sept. 30.—The Daily Mail military expert says: "If the German government in the Woerthe district, directed against the Verdun-Toul defensive line, we have now been fully reassured. Had the movement been a serious one, it would have materialized before now. But it is clear that it is dragging and may now be regarded more as a feint attack than a determined effort to cross the Meuse in force."

"What seems probable is that when Gen Von Kluck asked for reinforcements the German General staff had 'nothing to spare' except Loraine, and the offensive power of the German armies on the eastern frontier had to be sacrificed to the vital necessity of keeping the right wing of the German army from losing its hold on its positions."

"If the reinforcing troops had been 48 hours later on the line than they were, the German army would by this time have been in full retreat to the Rhine. It gained time for the Germans, but time is of no use to them except to preserve their armour proper for a little while longer. Judging by the mixture of troops sent up as reinforcements, they were drawn by hook and crook from whatever corps could spare them."

"Exhaustion is already beginning to make itself felt. Sooner or later the German staff must recognize the need to alter their strategy to meet the altered conditions of the campaign. What is certain is that the German army cannot stay indefinitely in its present position, and it cannot go forward. There is nothing left for it but to go back."

GERMANS TAKE DOPE FACTORIES FROM BRITISH

American Capitalists are Also Interested in the Concerns.

BERLIN, Sept. 30.—Two cigarette factories in Germany, the Jasmatz concern at Dresden and the Balachari factory at Baden-Baden, owned by the Anglo-American tobacco combine, have been placed under government control for the reason that a majority of the capital is held in England.

According to the Jokal Anzeiger, Prince Franz, son of the King of Bavaria, who has the rank of major-general, and is in command of the second Bavarian regiment, has been slightly wounded in the thigh. He is now on his way to Munich.

Prince William of Hohenslern, whose daughter is the wife of Manuel, former King of Portugal, has been decorated with the Order of the Iron Cross, first and second class.

JAPS GOOD WORK TOKIO, Sept. 30.—Japanese aeroplanists claim they hit a German vessel during the latest fighting at Kiaochow, with bombs thrown from the machines at a height of 700 yards. Two biplanes and one monoplane were engaged. The wings of the machines were riddled with bullets, yet they returned in safety to their base.

The Public Service Commission shows that there is a great decrease in deaths, resulting from railroad accidents in New York State.

Addresses fittingly suitable to the occasion given by Pastor Hamilton and the Rev. G. A. Woodside of Zion Presbyterian church, made up a superb programme, both delightful and impressive.

COL. HUGHES' MESSAGE TO DEPARTING TROOPS

Minister of Militia Bids Canadians Farewell, With Confidence They Will Give Good Account of Themselves and Win Deathless Reputation.

QUEBEC, Sept. 30.—The following farewell message was issued in pamphlet form by Colonel the Hon. Sam Hughes, Minister of Militia, to the contingent before it sailed to England:

Where Duty Leads

"Fellow-citizens.—Six weeks ago when the call came to arms, inspired by that love of freedom from tyranny dominant in the British race, actuated by the knowledge that, under British constitutional responsible government, you enjoyed the utmost of human liberty, you loyally and promptly responded in overwhelming numbers to that call.

"Twenty-two thousand men were requested by the motherland. To-day upwards of thirty-three thousand are en route to do duty on the historic fields of France, Belgium and Germany for the preservation of the British Empire and the rights and liberties of humanity.

"Last of power, the subjugation of an offensive and law-abiding neighbor, autocratic aggrandizement, have caused this war. In its cause the allies are guiltyless.

"Belgium and Holland have long excelled in Prussian ambition for ownership. Austria has desired extension towards the Euxine and Aegean Seas. Insane lust of conquest brings ruin, rapine and misery in its train.

"It has long been predicted that when the Kiel Canal would be completed Germany would begin the long dreaded war. The Kiel Canal was completed early in July. War was begun before the end of that month. Germany was found absolutely ready and waiting. Great Britain, Belgium and France were unprepared. Three weeks elapsed before the regular armies of the latter countries could take the field.

Marvel in Eyes of World

"Soldiers! The world regards you as a marvel. Within six weeks you were at your homes, peaceful Canadian citizens. Since your training camp has been secured; three and a half miles of rifle ranges—twice as long as any other in the world—were constructed; fences were removed; water of the purest quality reached your pipes; drainage was installed; crops were harvested, roads and bridges were built; ordnance and army service corps buildings were laid down; woods were cleared; sanitation was perfected so that illness was practically unknown, and thirty-three thousand men were assembled from four points, some of them upwards of a thousand miles apart. You have been perfected in rifle-shooting, and to-day are as fine a body—officers and men—as ever faced a foe. The same spirit that has distinguished the great work of what you will display in the war fields of Europe. There will be no faltering, no temporizing with the work must be done. The task before you six weeks ago has been successfully accomplished. So, following the same indomitable spirit, you will triumph over the common enemy of humanity.

Certain to Give Good Account.

"That you will render a splendid account of yourselves for King and country is certain. You come of the right breed—English, Scotch, Irish, French, Welsh, German and American—your courage and steadfastness are proverbial. In South Africa your presence was a guarantee of success. So in this most righteous struggle on the part of Britain, when side by side with soldiers from the motherland stand the freemen from the Dominions beyond the seas; when Australians, New Zealanders, South Africans, Hindus, Newfoundlanders and Canadians tread the soil of Europe, then will the Prussian autocracy realize the gigantic power of liberty.

No War on German People

"And amid it all you will never forget that you war not on the innocent and lovely people of Germany. Your aim is the overthrow of tyranny and aggrandizement. Every man among you is a free-will volunteer. No more typical army of freemen ever marched to meet an enemy.

"Soldiers! Behind you are loved ones, home, country, wife and all the traditions of liberty and loyalty, love of King and constitution. You bid adieu to those near and dear to you. You sing:

"I go, then, sweet lass, to win honor and fame
And I'll bring thee back to come gloriously home
I'll bring a heart to thee with love running o'er
And I'll have thee and the homeland no more."

The Conviction of All Canadians

"That you will so bear yourselves, individually and collectively, where duty may call you, as to win the respect of the foe in the field, the admiration and regard of the good citizens of all lands in which your lot may be cast, and the love and regard of those near and dear at home, is the conviction of all Canadians.

"And when, with years and honor crowned, and hear no more the stirring sound of battle, you return, what will be the first and give one him, burrah!
And pledge the memory of the day
When you return, rest assured a crowning triumph will await you.

Heroes' Deathless Honor.

"Some may not return—and pray God they be few. For such, he cherished by their ones near and dear, and by a grateful country, but throughout the ages freemen of all lands will revere and honor the heroes who sacrificed themselves in preserving unimpaired the priceless gem of liberty, but the soldier going down in the cause of freedom never dies—his mortality is his. What redeems him whether his resting-place may be beneath the golden lilies of France or amid the vine-clad hills of the Rhine? The principles for which you strive are eternal.

"May success ever attend you, and when you return, rest assured a crowning triumph will await you.
"Sam Hughes, Colonel.
"Minister of Militia and Defence for Canada."

STOPPED HIS PAPER
TOULESE, France, Sept. 30.—Former premier Georges Clemenceau has succeeded in evading the suspension order against his newspaper L'Homme Libre by changing the name to L'Homme Enchaîné (the man in chains). The paper was published as usual today. The article which resulted yesterday in an order of suspension for eight days, is a mild appeal for the preferential treatment of German Asiatic prisoners.

MORMONS ARRESTED
LONDON, Sept. 29.—Thirty Mormon missionaries, headed by Thomas Rees, Charles Lloyd and Julius West, appeared in the offices of the American relief committee to-day, having arrived in London after much trouble from the various war zones. Most of them came from Germany and Austria, but a few were from Belgium. Those who had been in Germany and Austria had been arrested as English spies and experienced some difficulty in proving their nationality.

THE SITUATION.
There is nothing yet definite with regard to any marked result of the fighting in the north of France, but the authorized despatches with reference to the Allies possess a distinctly hopeful and reassuring tone. The British War Office has always been noted for exercising great care not to either under-rate an enemy or to make undue boasts, and the same cautious care is evidently animating the French office. A like spirit is also characterizing their men in the field, who are fighting with a continued steadiness and purpose utterly lacking in the disastrous war with Prussia in 1870.

The Russians still continue to make fine progress. Their allotment in this war was to head for Berlin, and they are looking after that end of the job in first-class style. More and more soldiers are reinforcing those now in the field by the hundreds of thousands. The next important point they are after is Cracow, the ancient capital of the Kingdom of Poland, but now in Austrian territory. It is over three hundred miles from the German capital, and has been very strongly fortified for the purpose of withstanding a long siege. The Russians are figuring on reaching Berlin by November 1st, but there will be some terrible fighting ere that is done—even more fierce than has already transpired.

The highly concentrated efforts of the Germans to engage the sympathy of the people of the United States have signally failed. By every possible device they have attempted this. Americans in the Fatherland have been treated with every possible kindness and consideration, with special trains at their disposal, and all the rest of it. German professors in the States have sent out laboriously-prepared articles attempting to justify the Kaiser and his war lords on the basis that they have been attacked and not the attackers, and through mercantile and other channels the goodwill of Uncle Sam has been sought.

The effort has proved abortive. Practically all the thinking men and all the best papers across the border have refused to be blinded. Their abhorrence of what was done to Belgium has been freely expressed, and they still continue to maintain what is undoubtedly the truth, that this frightful period of massacre was deliberately provoked by Germany, and that the issue at stake is one of militarism and terrorism versus civilization and liberty.

The parting message of Col. Sam Hughes, Minister of Militia, to the Canadian boys was worthy of him and the occasion. He has been a much-abused man, but the fact remains that he handled a sudden situation with highly commendable success.

THE PREMIERSHIP.
Now that the last sad rites have been paid to Sir James Whitney, the question of his successor will have to be faced. Hon. Dr. Pyne comes next in seniority, but Premierhips, of course, do not go in rotation.
The Toronto Globe and other Liberal sheets which were so lacking in taste at a time when it seemed possible that Sir James could not again take the reins as to allege a bitter internecine trouble over aspirants for his mantle, are again at that trick. It has been the dodge to depict Hon. Mr. Hanna and Hon. Adam Beck as at daggers drawn over the matter, with Hon. Frank Cochrane pulling wires for Hon. Mr. Hearst. Such yarns should be accepted for what they are worth.
Hon. Mr. Hanna, whose name has been prominently mentioned as a fit and proper First Minister, might or might not accept. The emoluments of the office are small compared with what he can make as a lawyer, and the responsibilities are great, wearisome and continuous.
From what the Courier knows, it is doubtful if Hon. Adam Beck would consider the post, even if it should be offered. It is well known to his friends that the only remains in public life to-day because of his devotion to Hydro-Electric. In fact, he hesitated a long time before he decided to again run in London last election, and only did so under pressure from Whitney. His often-expressed desire has been to live mainly in the Old Land, where as a keen and enthusiastic horseman he could better pursue that hobby, both with regard to breeding stallions and the hunting field.

It may be objected however, that

Hon. Mr. Hearst is the youngest member of the Cabinet, and a good man also, but to insinuate that Hon. Mr. Cochrane or anybody else can insist on a choice is the sheerest lunacy. It is the majority voice of the Conservative members which will do the deciding, and whoever may get the position, the people may rest assured that the splendid, the inspiring and the honest leadership of the dead statesman will be fully maintained.

THE TURN OF THE TIDE.
"There is a tide in the affairs of men which, taken at the flood, leads on to Fortune."

Many Canadian business men are eagerly looking forward to the "turn in the tide" in Canadian trade. Some of them are saying: "Just wait until this war is over—the country will prosper, business will boom, and we will then start advertising on a large scale to get our share of it."
There is a wiser type of man; the man who is acting instead of talking—laying his plans NOW, so as to have his "boat of business" headed UP-STREAM when the tide turns; advertising NOW, because he knows that to delay until the war is over is to add a hundred-fold to the opposition his plea for "a share of the big business" must encounter.

Public opinion is not to be won "over-night." When the Canadian public lets loose its cash, the manufacturers and merchants to whom the golden stream will most freely flow, are those who are busy NOW creating good will for themselves and their goods.

To take the tide of business at its flood requires, not days, not weeks, but MONTHS of preparation. Prepare NOW—advertise NOW—if you would later prosper.

BRITISH AND GERMAN CRUISERS COMPARED.
Now that the Heligoland fight has been British and German cruisers exchanging broadsides, naval journals are discussing the relative merits of the two national types. For years Germany has been building what the German admiral staff terms "small cruisers," these vessels can be distinguished by their bearing—the names of towns—Lepsius, Karlsruhe, Emden, Madgeburg, etc.—and are all of small or moderate size, great speed, and light armament. British cruisers are not standardized in the same way; but of late years the Admiralty has been building a number of very fast ships, some larger, some smaller, than the German "small cruiser," but all more heavily armed. The German ships are all armed with the 4.1-inch gun, a weapon which fires a 35 pound shell, and probably can be discharged with great rapidity. The British 4.1-inch gun is a lighter weapon; the earlier "marks" fire a 25 pound shell, and the latest ones a 30 pound shell, and the patterns weighs 31 pounds. The British cruisers, however, usually mount 6-inch guns as well as the 4.1-inch weapons. The 6-inch shell weighs 100 pounds. The Naval and Military Record says:

"Specific mention is made in the Admiralty communiqué of the excellent work performed by the Arethusa's six-inch guns. With these weapons she seriously injured one of the enemy's cruisers, with whom a running fight of 35 minutes duration was maintained at a range of about 3,000 yards. The emphasis laid on the work of these guns proved them to have been much more effective than the 4.1-inch battery. Such a result has always been predicted by leading British authorities. Our light cruisers have a real advantage over the enemy's ships of equivalent type by virtue of their heavier metal. Take the Arethusa (3,750 tons) and one of the ships she engaged, the Mainz (4,280 tons). The first named has a broadside of two 100- and three 35-pounders as opposed to the ship of 203 lbs. against 210 lbs. The difference in the rate of fire between the 6-inch and the 4.1-inch is too slight to compensate for their disparity, which is increased by the greater range, accuracy, and smashing effect of the bigger gun. Thanks to the foresight of the British Admiralty, nearly all our modern light cruisers carry this excellent weapon, whereas no German small cruiser aloft mounts anything heavier than the 4.1 35 pounders. Whatever the occult objection to an adequate armament which influenced the German authorities, they have already suffered by it, and will suffer still more judging from the manner in which the gallant little Arethusa mauled her bigger opponents.

It is interesting to compare the features of typical ships which took part in this first authenticated cruiser action of the war:

Nothing could demonstrate more clearly the remarkable superiority of British cruiser design. Our ships are unquestionably the best as regards all-round fighting quality, but especially with respect to gun power. Although she is 530 tons lighter than the Mainz the Arethusa is obviously the more formidable, whilst the Birmingham though only 1,160 tons larger than the German ship, is immeasurably superior in armament, has equal, if not higher speed, and much better armour protection.
It may be objected however, that the British vessels cited are of more later design than the Mainz. This is true; but if we take the Karlsruhe, launched in 1913, and therefore contemporary with the Birmingham, we find her reproducing the same inherent defect of all the German light cruisers. She displaces 4,280 tons, has a speed of 27 knots, and mounts the same armament of twelve 4.1 inch guns. Her sole claim to superiority is the 3-inch belt, which protects vital parts, reinforced by a 2-inch deck. The Karlsruhe in fact, despite her extra 1,070 tons, is two knots slower than the Arethusa and has a much less effective battery.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.
They are commencing to show German war trophies in Old London. The one exhibit we would most like to see then get hold of is a gent who goes by the name of the Kaiser.

A number of valuable paintings are reaching the Old Land from Belgium and France. That's because the German Emperor started to paint the map of Europe red with priceless human blood.

The Crown Prince plundered the house of a Baroness in which he was quartered, and stamped upon the portraits of the Russian Emperor and Empress. He is a worthy son of his sire, all right.

The death lists from the front demonstrate just how "effete" members of the so-called British aristocracy are. Men of title and large estate are meeting hardship and death with the same bravery which has always characterized all the British ranks.

WE BATTLE FOR PEACE.
They grow in a garden together. The Thistle, the Shamrock, the Rose The Maple locks arms with the Oak Tree.

To shelter their Loves from their Poes; The Lion stands guard at each Gate-way. While the Beaver rolls its wealth to the Sea, And never once yet has the Golden Sun set O'er the broad Garden-home of the Free.

O Britannia, Britannia, Britannia,
Our heart leaps at mention of Thee;
Dear Britannia, Britannia, Britannia,
Thou broad Garden-home of the Free.

"Twixt us and the Sun rose a Shadow,
A shadow of sadness and plight—
For the German tyrant in mind,
His War-dags led loose in a night;
But with hearts undimmed by their baying,
We will fight till their baying shall cease.
We will laugh at their din, we will fight, we will win.
For the Battle we wage for Peace.
O Britannia, Britannia, Britannia,
Thou broad Garden-home of the Free.

Over seven seas wide, loyal hearts swell with pride,
Dear Britannia, at mention of Thee!

—Walter A. Ratcliffe.

SUMMARY
The French War Office states that slight progress has been made in the Argonne and the Meuse, and that the Allies had advanced east of St. Mihiel.
No notable movement has occurred on the centre, and the situation on the right is reported unchanged.
An official German announcement coming by way of London indicates that there has been general retreat on the German right, but nothing of a decisive character had transpired. German headquarters also report the centre of the French advances in the vicinity of Verdun and Toul have been renewed, it is said.
A despatch from Petrograd says that a fierce engagement between the armies of General Rennenkampf and General Von Hindenburg has continued since Sunday morning along a line extending from Grodnio to Dunseniki; the Russian corps are pitted against an equal number of German. Russian reinforcements are reported as strengthening their lines.
The Russians have established a civil government at Lemberg, capital of the Austrian Province of Galicia.
An English correspondent in Belgium says that 150,000 troops are engaged in a desperate battle along the line from Termonde to Aersohot.
A report from Bucharest says that King Charles has summoned the cabinet to meet to-morrow to determine the attitude of Roumania. Earlier Bucharest reports published in Paris claimed that the King wished to support Germany, but that the ministers rejected the proposal.
A message from Antwerp says that the German bombardment of the forts of Antwerp continues and that the Belgian garrison make sorties compelling the Germans who suffered heavy casualties. Belgians marching on Brussels are said to be in contact with the Germans.
A correspondent at Cetinje reports that the Montenegrins have seized the Austrian entrenchments, 2 miles southeast of Sarajevo, capital of Bosnia.

NO GARISH DISPLAY IN THE FUNERAL OF SIR JAMES
Presence of Hundreds of Men and Women at Obsequies Yesterday—Members of Parliament Attend.

MORRISBURG, Ont., Sept. 30.—With an absence of garish display that reflected all through his life, the remains of Sir Jas. Whitney, were buried in the cemetery adjoining the Whitney Memorial Chapel, near his birthplace at Williamsburg, three miles east of here, yesterday afternoon. What was lacking in state and pomp was more than compensated for in the genuineness of respect that Morrisburg paid to her distinguished citizen.

A Man of the People.
Through the passing of the years many of Sir James Whitney's early associates were taken to their rest, and the crowd that gathered yesterday was largely composed of those who had known him during the political struggle. It was here in reality that Sir James was a man of the people, for at his graveside his brothers and those related to him by blood mingled with Cabinet ministers, Parliamentarians and men representing the official and domestic life of Canada from every class. Although the accommodation of the funeral was strictly limited to the official party, civil servants who had followed his political success with affection and admiration claimed their right to join in the procession of Crowds Waited in Rain.

The special train did not reach Williamsburg until 5 o'clock. The railway runs immediately behind the churchyard, which fronts on the St. Lawrence. At Williamsburg, heavy rains had been falling for an hour, but even with this the crowd waited patiently, and for the most part followed the remains on foot.
The funeral was supported by a detachment of ten men from the 50th Highlanders, and a detachment from the 4th Hussars bore the floral tributes.

Stops on the Journey.
Only a few steps were made on the trip down, the first at Cobourg, where a few friends met the train. At Belleville, where a stop was necessary, to change engines, about two hundred people visited the train, where the remains rested, and Mr. Stone, who was in charge of the casket, raised the lid to permit a short view. At Kingston, where a Prescott stop was made, a demand was made by people who had waited an hour on the platforms, while at other places as the train rushed through several groups of people with bare heads in silent reverence.

Impressive Service in Chapel.
Of all the ceremonies of the day perhaps the service in the small chapel by the river was the most impressive. The surroundings are rugged, the little stone chapel standing like a landmark to the navigators whose ships pass by. The service was in charge of Rev. Dean Carson, rector of the Morrisburg parish, and he was assisted by the Rev. M. G. Poole, at one time rector; Rev. G. S. Anderson, late rector of the parish; James Canon Arthur Jarvis, a more recent rector of the church, and Rev. W. H. Quartermain of Renfrew.

ing on the Aisne. The feeling on the French side was more emotional than that of the nation realizes that the life or death of the country is in the balance. There is also a feeling of the greatest gratitude to Great Britain for the support that whatever may be the terms of peace, when it comes their nation is protected. The French as a nation are more emotional than we and are more exalted or depressed by ups and downs; but the determination is universal to carry this war through to the very end, to suffer and to continue to suffer sooner than accept which would not absolutely insure France for all time against future invasion.

PROFESSOR ON War to Students at University
(By Special Wire to the Courier)
TORONTO, Sept. 29.—The University of Toronto, which by reason of its close affiliation with German culture, might be expected to hold out for some redeeming qualities in the German nation, has come forth with all other branches of the community and in a splendid opening address to the students this afternoon President Falconer, voiced a complete and utterly sweeping condemnation of all things German, even to that portion of German culture which has had a hand in the development of the present situation.
President Falconer reviewed the whole situation and by frequent quotations from the famous "White Paper" proved Britain's unchallenged stand in the war. The academic world has been ungrudging in its acknowledgment of what Germany has accomplished, but the Germany that we know has been trampled down by the rude soldier. Britain has joined with the allies in fighting Germany because the latter has become afflicted with a disease that has infected her whole life and made her dangerous to the "civilization of the world. This nation has in her incapable diplomacy, and her brutal conduct of the war so far, so acted no longer to be able to cast up barbarism to the Slav, whose dominance in France and Belgium she professes to fear as a menace to civilization.
The German name is dredged—a gospel of force, that has been preached in Prussian universities by Prussian professors for the past generation. Read General Von Bernhardi's "Germany and the Next War" for an amazing example of brutality and arrogance. That book, and others like it, widely circulated, contain the gospel of the military classes.
"Here is the secret—the soldier and
At Rest in Historic Ground
This, followed by the sublime words of the Magnificat, the commitment, and the chapter was ended. Sir James Whitney lies adjoining the plot in which his father, mother, and brothers are buried, on a slight slope facing the great St. Lawrence, in the midst of a country rich in historic anecdote and pioneer tradition.
The order of the funeral cortege from the train to the chapel was similar to that in Toronto, with the addition of the Rector and Councillors of Morrisburg. His Honor Sir John Gibson was unable to make the trip to Morrisburg, and he was represented by Mr. D. McPherson, who Hocken appeared for the city council, Sir Lomer Gouin and Hon. Peter MacKenzie for the Government of Ontario, and Mr. W. D. McPherson, R. C. McPherson, for the government of Manitoba.

ENGLAND'S PERFECT PEACE AND THE HORRORS OF FRANCE
(By Special Wire to the Courier)
LONDON, Sept. 30.—The Daily Chronicle prints the following written by a correspondent who has just returned from France: "It is difficult for people in England to realize the conditions in Northern France at the present time. Although the papers are full of accounts of the desolation and destruction caused by the German invasion, it is only by actual experience that the full realization of horror comes. To return to England after visiting the French war zone is to come back to a land of perfect peace, where everything is normal, and where it is not easy to believe one is so near to the cannon."

PURE BLOOD MAKES HEALTHY PEOPLE
Hood's Sarsaparilla surely and effectively removes germs, boils and other blood diseases because it drives out of the blood all the humors that cause these diseases. They cannot be successfully treated in any other way. External applications for their removal have proven almost useless, because they cannot drive out the impurities that are in the blood.
Hood's Sarsaparilla makes pure rich blood, perfects the digestion, and builds up the whole system. The skin becomes smooth, clean and healthy. This great blood remedy has stood the test of forty years. Insist on having Hood's, for nothing else acts like it. There is no real substitute. Get it today. Sold by all druggists.

THE STORY OF Waitstill Baxter

By KATE DOUGLAS WIGGIN.

CHAPTER XXVI. Sentry Duty.

IVORY BOYNTON drove home from the woods that same afternoon by way of the bridge, in order to buy some provisions at the brick store. When he was still a long distance from the bars that divided the lane from the highroad he espied a dark clad little speck he knew to be Rodman leaning over the fence, waiting and longing as usual for his homecoming, and his heart warmed at the thought of the boyish welcome that never failed.

The sleigh slipping quickly over the hard packed, shinned road, and the bells rang merrily in the clear, cold air, giving out a joyous sound that had no echo in Ivory's breast that day. He had just had a vision of happiness through another man's eyes. Was he always to stand outside the banquetting table, he wondered, and see others feasting while he hungered?

Now the little speck bounded from the fence, flew down the road to meet the sleigh and jumped in by the driver's side. "I knew you'd come tonight," Rodman cried eagerly. "I told Aunt Boynton you'd come."

"How is she, well as common?" "No, not a bit well since yesterday morning, but Mrs. Mason says it's nothing worse than a cold. Mrs. Mason has just gone home, and we've had a grand housecleaning today. She's washed and ironed and baked, and we've put Aunt Boynton in clean sheets and pillowcases, and her room's nice and warm, and I carried the cat in and put it on her bed to keep her company while I came to watch for you. Aunt Boynton let Mrs. Mason braid her hair and seemed to like her brushing it. It's been dreadful lonesome, and oh, I am glad you came back, Ivory. I told you that any more sprays gum where you went this time?"

"Pounds and pounds, Rod; enough to bring me in nearly $100. I chanced on the greatest place I've found yet. I followed the wake of an old whirwind that had left long furrows in the forest—I've told you how the thing works—and I tracked its course by the gum trees that had formed a clean line. It's hard, lonely work, Rod, but it pays well."

"If I could have been there maybe we could have got more. I'm good at shinning up trees." "Yes, sometime we'll go gum picking together. We'll climb the trees like a couple of cats and take our knives and scrape off the precious lumps that are worth so much money to the drug-gists. You've let down the bars, I see."

"Cause I knew you'd come tonight," said Rodman. "I felt it in my bones. We're going to have a splendid supper." "Are we? That's good news." Ivory tried to make his tons bright and interested, though his heart was like a lump of lead in his breast. "It's the least I can do for the poor little chap," he thought, "when he stays as caretaker in this lonely spot. I wonder if I hadn't better drive into the barn, Rod, and leave the harness on Nick till I go in and see mother? Guess I will." "She's hot, Aunt Boynton, hot and restless, but Mrs. Mason thinks that's all." Ivory found his mother feverish, and her eyes were unnaturally bright, but she was clear in mind and cheerful, too, sitting up in bed to breathe the better, while the Maltese cat snuggled under her arm and purred peacefully. "The cat is Rod's idea," she said smilingly, but in a very weak voice. "He is a great nurse. I should never have thought of the cat myself, but she gives me more comfort than all the medicine."

noon, like the old fox that he is, and turned Patty out of the house." "Mean old skink!" exclaimed Rod excitedly, all the incipient manhood rising in his ten-year-old breast. "Is she gone to live with the Wilsons?" "The Wilsons don't know yet that Mark is married to her, but I met him driving like Jehu, just after; I had left Patty and told him everything that had happened and did my best to cool him down and keep him from murdering his new father-in-law by showing him it would serve no real purpose now."

"Did he look married and all different?" asked Rod curiously. "Yes, he did, and more like a man than ever he looked before in his life. We talked everything over together, and he went home at once to break the news to his family without even going to take a peep at Patty. I couldn't bear to have them meet till he had something cheerful to say to the poor little soul. When I met her by Uncle Bart's shop she was laughing along in the snow like a dragged puppy and crying like a baby."

Sympathetic tears dimmed Rodman's eyes. "I can't bear to see girls cry, Ivory. I just can't bear it, especially Patty." "Neither can I, Rod. I came pretty near choking her eyes, but pulled up, remembering she wasn't a child, but a married lady. Well, now we come to the point."

"Isn't Patty's being married the point?" "No, only part of it. Patty's being sent away from home leaves Waitstill alone with the deacon, do you see? And if that's your favorite, Waitstill is mine. I might as well own up to that."

"She's mine, too," cried Rod. "They are both my favorites, but I always thought Patty was the suitablest for me to marry if she'd wait for me. Waitstill is too grand for a boy?" "She's too grand for anybody, Rod. There isn't a man alive that's worthy to strap on her skates."

"Well, she's too grand for anybody except— and here Rod's shy, wistful voice trailed off into discreet silence." "Now, I had some talk with Patty, and she thinks Waitstill will have no trouble as with her father just at present. She says he's lavished so much rage upon her that there'll be none left for anybody else for a day or two. And, moreover, that he will never dare to go too far with Waitstill because she's so useful to him. I'm not afraid of his keeping or injuring her so long as he respects his own senses, and it's ever right to have any. But I don't like to think of his upbraiding her and breaking her heart with his cruel talk just after she's lost the sister that's been her only companion." And Ivory's hand trembled as he filled his pipe. He had no confidant but this quaint, tender-hearted, old fashioned little lad, to whom he had grown to speak his mind as if he were a man of his own age, and Rod, in the same way, had gradually learned to understand and sympathize.

"It's dreadful lonesome on Town House hill," said the boy in a hushed tone. "Dreadful lonesome," echoed Ivory with a sigh; "and I don't dare leave mother until her fever dies down a notch and she sleeps. Now, do you remember the night that she was taken ill, and we shared the watch?" Rodman held his breath. "Do you mean you're going to let me help just as if I was big?" he asked, speaking through a great lump in his throat. "There are only two of us, Rod. You're rather young for this piece of work, but you're trusty—you're trusty?"

"Am I to keep watch on the deacon?" "That's it, and this is my plan: Nick will have had his feed, you're to drive to the barn when it gets a little darker, and hitch in Uncle Bart's horse and, covering Nick well, you're to go into the brick store, and while you're getting some groceries wrapped up, listen to anything the men say, to see if they know what's happened. When you've hung about as long as you dare, leave your bundle, and you'll call again for it. Then see if Baxter's store is open. I don't believe it will be, and if it isn't look for a light in his kitchen window and prowl about till you know that Waitstill and the deacon have gone up to their bedrooms. Then go to Uncle Bart's and find out if Patty is there."

Rod's eyes grew bigger and bigger. "Shall I talk to her?" he asked, "and what'll I say?" "No, just ask if she's there. If she's gone Mark has made it right with his family and taken her home. If she hasn't why, God knows how that matter will be straightened out. Anyhow, she has a husband now, and he seems to value her, and Waitstill is alone on the top of that wind swept hill!" "I'll go. I'll remember everything," cried Rodman, in the seventh heaven of delight at the responsibilities Ivory was heaping upon him. "Don't stay beyond 8 o'clock, but come back and tell me everything you've learned. Then, if mother grows no worse, I'll walk back to Uncle Bart's shop and spend the night there just—just to be near, that's all." "You couldn't bear Waitstill, even if she called?" "Rod said." "Couldn't I? A man's ears are very sharp under certain circumstances. I believe if Waitstill needed help I could hear her breathe! Besides, I shall be up and down the hill till I know all's well, and at sunrise I'll go up and hide behind some of Baxter's buildings till I see him get his breakfast and go to the store. Now wash your dishes." And Ivory caught up his cap from a book behind the door. "Are you going to the barn?" asked Rodman. (To be Continued.)

PARIS WAITS FOR THE END

It is Reported That There Has Been a Lull in the Battle.

PARIS, Sept. 29.—The comparative calm on the French battle line yesterday after Sunday's storm of shot and shell was a surprise. It was supposed that the extreme violence of the German attack meant a determination to finish the campaign on the Aisne by breaking the Allies' lines at all costs, and the pressure, it was expected, would continue, especially on the Allies' left, where the Germans had brought up reinforcements.

The centre, however, was the only point seriously attacked, probably on the supposition that the lines here had been weakened to reinforce the left. One theory is that the armistice of four hours granted by the French for burying the dead was not sufficient, and that the French needed the entire day to get rid of the bodies encumbering the trenches, and another is that a further shifting of troops is in progress preparatory to a violent shock elsewhere, all efforts against the left having failed.

In any case, the opinion is prevalent here that the Germans are losing valuable time, and that a return of the bad weather will perhaps find them still harassed by the French in the Aisne district, and that they will again be forced to uncover themselves by invading floods.

The military operations in the extreme east of the Vosges and in Alsace have been hindered by bad weather, as there is snow on the heights and floods in the valleys. The Rhine is much swollen, while the Doller, Ill and Thur rivers have overflowed. The plain between Mulhausen and the mountains is under water to a great extent, and it is impossible to move heavy artillery, which gives an advantage to the Allies, who have comparatively light guns.

Both sides, however, are handicapped, and if the bad weather continues it will have the result of prolonging the campaign on this side of the Vosges and the
