CHAPTER XXIX.

If there be truth in the adage, "Coming events cast their shadows before them," then the result of Mr. Drayton's well-planned gift to Dr. Dacie may be taken as apt example of the same, for it certainly brought professional luck back to the gate, which seemed prophetic of better things that followed.

Whether the cob had anything to do with mending matters, or whether having had their turn in the trough of the sea, they were now to rise on a crest of the wave again, must remain a moot question, but just now the outer ring of patients began to discover that after all they preferred the old doctor to his younger rival, whose bills were apt to be as long as his learned phrases. Moreover, "Alexander McAndrew, Esq., M.D.," as he preferred to be addressed, made a grand blunder in his first visit to Oakleigh Place. Mistaken by an inaccuracy of message, he had gone spanking off thither on the day Mr. Drayton was at St. Clair, in delighted anticipation of physicking through some complicated disorder the earl or countess, or a lady daughter at least, building on that base a vision of county practice that would turn his dog-cart to a brougham, his "buttons" to a full-blown groom!

But woe to his ambition! The patient was the housekeeper. The malady a simple sprain. Alexander McAndrew felt hugely disgusted, and revealed his feelings. When his back was turned, "We won't trouble that young man to come here again!" said the housekeeper, and the fruit of that affront was a summons to Dr. Dacie, and Dr. Dacie only, when a month later an upper house-maid fell ill with sore throat. "The Scotch gentleman don't seem to think us servants worth trouble" for, my lady," Mrs. Pounce had reported, and that settled the Scotch gentleman's business. So what was one man's poison was another man's meat. Six servants obligingly took sore throat one after another. Dr. Dacie tended them carefully and kindly. Then the epidemic attacked Lady Gertrude. He treated her with precisely the same kindly care, mixed with old-fashioned courtliness, which pleased immensely. Then he put a feather in his cap by discovering a mischievous drain; established himself as Lord and Lady Comyngham's trusted medical adviser, and by consequence soared into popularity again throughout the neighborhood. Other people besides those at Oakleigh paid their bills promptly, and Mary soon picked up lucky pennies enough to pay hers.

The doctor found prosperity better medicine for himself than any in his dispensary. His wife brightened up like the affectionate old satellite she was; and if his daughter's satisfaction at this new turn of the wheel had any flaw she kept it well and unobtrusively in the domestic background.

It was one of those last May days when great perplexities were approaching at Wynstone that events not unconnected with them were in progress at St. Clair. At noon "Brownie" had just trotted off with Dr. and Mrs. Dacie to lunch with an old acquaintance at a distance. Very cheerfully the elders had started on their mildest dissipation. Ashamed of herself for having to make an effort in reflecting their beaming good-byes, their daughter turned in-doors with the wise determination not to sit down and give rein to the depression that overhung her, but rather to disperse it by some vigorous distraction. A neatly labeled vial in the hall gave her the plea for a six-mile trudge. Her midday meal the matter for a few minutes only, she released the factotum to "Brownie," and the gardener from his errand to Oakleigh Lodge, undertook herself to deliver the medicine there, left word where she was going, and thither set forth in all the freedom of having no one by to see if she were looking glad or sorry.

For a minute she had debated over best or second-best hat, deciding for the latter; a suspicious haze was coming up with the wind; and forever, as she thought rather wearily, out of tune with the mild, promiseful day. "Nobody cares how I look!" so in sombre guise altogether off she went, her mind obstinately playing variations on that dirge-like theme, all the way along by the broom-girt banks and brier-scented hegerows.

But reaching the lodge, she had something else for a time to think of. Her knock unheard, she opened the door, with "Mrs. Rand, I have brought your baby's medicine. May I take word to my father how the little one is?" and not only the keeper's wife replied, but Lady Comyngham came forward to greet Miss Dacie most graciously.

"How kind of you to walk over for that! Just like her father; so thoughtful. And now Mrs. Rand must keep baby warm, and do exactly what Dr. Dacie told her, and Miss Dacie must positively come up to the house as she was so near, and lunch with her and the girls; no one else was at home; but she would not hear of her going that distance back without refreshment."

Vainly Mary, not at all anxious for the honor, protested she had lunched. The countess would hear no excuse, but with good-humored imperiousness marched her reluctant guest up the long drive, paying her the compliment of making just such conversation en route as set her at her ease.

And by the way, had Miss Dacie been to see Mrs. Edward Duvesne? No? Oh, then, when would she go?

Consider your family and use Windsor Table Salt and next half an hour's rest at the luncheon served with delicate appointments such as seldom fell to her lot. Regretfully her memory was recalling her last hour there, and Sydney with it, when, clairvoyante, as it seemed, Lady Comyngham asked, "Can you tell me, Miss Dacie anything of that charming young friend of yours, Miss Alwyn? I confess to inquisitiveness about her. I imagine no one can enlighten me better than you."

"And I can not do it at all," answered Mary. "I only hear from her just enough to know that she is not forgetting me."

"Travelling with her mother, I suppose?"

"Oh, no. She is in England."

"England! What! has not that long visit her mother said she went on, ended yet?"

"Visit," echoed Mary. "I thought—"

Then she stopped, coloring confusedly.

The countess looked at her keenly. "I suspect," said she, "that visit was a—myth, to put it civilly. Will your mind telling me why the child went away at all? I am really asking for something beyond curiosity."

Mary hesitated. "Sydney hardly gave me a plain reason, Lady Comyngham. There was, I think, some—difference—between her and Mrs. Alwyn. Mamma went over and spoke of it, and brought away the idea it was about a—marriage."

"But you did not think so?"

"N-o!" Mary had to confess. "She hardly thought it was that exactly."

"And you were right," exclaimed the countess. "And I am right!" nodding to her daughters. "Mrs. Alwyn insinuated the story of an engagement to me—"

"There was no engagement," said Mary. "And then some fanfaronade about its breaking off. But I was convinced something else lay behind that. Now there are two things that upset families; Matrimony and money. This was not matrimony. It was money. Used that pretty Cinderella, as my children called her, because she was always getting left at home, to tell you of her money arrangements Miss Dacie?"

"Only," said Mary, naively, "that she wished she had more of it! Till—why yes, just before she went. Then she was so delighted at coming of age, for she was to have—six thousand pounds, I think, of her own."

"There!" cried the countess, excitedly. "The secret is out! Avena is told truly. Miss Dacie, be proud of your friend. She is worth her weight in gold!" Then seeing her hearer greatly bewildered by this outburst, Lady Comyngham explained how her son Edward's maid had disclosed the grievous loss of her parents' savings, and Mrs. Alwyn's insulting reply to the rappeal. Stopping Mary's quick "Sydney knew nothing of this!" with, "of course not. Or not up to last summer. Then she must have found it out. Did I not hear of her going into the Midland counties?"

"She went—oh, poor Sydney—to fetch my mother home from Chaddesley."

"And there probably some chance enlightened her. How was she when she came back?"

"Why"—remembering only too accurately—"changed, Lady Comyngham. I recollect it all now. And I only saw her once again—when she bade us good-bye so strangely."

"Then depend on it, there had been battle royal in the meantime, and the result was, the poor wretches who lost their all through Mr. Alwyn's misfortune got paid at last with his daughter's money. Miss Dacie, I envy you your friend. I would go a good deal out of my way to shake hands with her again!" and the countess ended with Lewis's story, transmitted through Lady Avena, of how the various sums had been distributed through a clerk of Mr. Alwyn's.

"Jacob Cheene!" cried Mary.

"Yes. That was the name. And the giver of this money would not be known, though Lewis and others of the repaid list had put their wits together, and came to the conclusion it must be the old lawyer's child. And if so," declared the countess, with acrimonious emphasis, "that mother of hers of course prefers such action kept in the dark, as she did what led to it. But 'honor where honor is due,' say I. Once let us be sure about this, and then trust me to let people know why Miss Alwyn, at any rate, went away from St. Clair!"

Illustration of a flowerpot.

In the repair department of a jewelry shop hangs the conventional sign. "We will not be responsible for goods left more than sixty days." A friend of mine who is very prompt and punctilious young person called my attention to it as we passed. "Does it seem possible that anyone would be careless enough to leave an article more than sixty days?" she asked.

Having been one of the offenders, I had to confess that it did. And yet the way in which people will neglect their property in cases like this is really remarkable.

The other day a jeweler showed me a big box full of watches which had been brought in for repair and never called for. None of them were cheap and several were really expensive. In some cases the jeweler said, the owners had probably died while the watches were being repaired. But in a great many cases the owners were still living and had simply neglected to claim their property, and some watches had been there five or ten years.

Every few years banks advertise in the daily papers the deposits whose owners have apparently forgotten them, and if nobody appears to claim them they are finally forfeited to the bank. Most of the accounts are only a few dollars but some range as high as a thousand. It seems difficult, doesn't it?

MUD.

By GEORGE FITCH.
Author of "At Good Old St. John's."

Mud is earth which has been put in a sack by nature.

Mud is the most valuable thing in the world. After earth has been mud for a while it produces crops without which mankind would curl up and die like a baby sparrow on a hot door-step.

Never, since man does not raise crops on the country roads he has no particular use for mud in that particular spot.

All over the central part of this name the country roads are paved with mud. Mud makes the worst pavement in the world. A five-mile mud pavement in March is as effective as a five-inch oak plank floor for keeping a farmer at home. There are hundreds of millions of bushels of grain on the farms of America in the early spring but they do not have much effect upon the cost of living because they are separated from the market by several miles of roads which clog the farm wagons to their bosom with a glad struggle and refuse to release them until three teams are hitched on.

Wherever mud is used for making roads the farmer sells his grain when the roads are firmest instead of when the market is firmest.

American mud is extremely useless on the country roads. It is even more useless on the city streets. It is hard to work up a worry over the fact that the American business man does not worship old masters and broken noses distressed over the aesthetic taste of a man who will wade down town ankle deep in last winter's mud all spring without calling around at the city hall with a rope and pleading to be allowed to hang the administration.

The efficiency of American city government can be measured in some ways by the amount of mud on the American city street. If the streets are profusely decorated with mud some of it will almost certainly get upon the reputations of the aldermen before very long.

BELEM, May 19. Ten persons, including two Roman Catholic priests recently from Ireland, and Capt. Stappler, were drowned in the sinking of the schooner Elmano. Thirteen were rescued.

JUAREZ, May 19. More than 40,000 Mexican soldiers are believed to be engaged in a death grapple about Saltillo, to-day, that will determine the fate of Huerta. Among constitutionalist officers the opinion is openly expressed that Villa has hurled 29,000 soldiers against the 12,000 federals defending Saltillo but they are in the dark as to the progress of the battle.

HALIFAX, May 19. The chief officer and other three men of the steamer Columbian, rescued by the revenue cutter Seneca, are slowly recovering, although the chief officer will have to undergo an operation and have part of both feet amputated. A collection was taken up on board the Seneca, when an amount was realized totalling $100 for the sufferers.

VERA CRUZ, May 19. Dr. Aureliano, ex-Minister of the Interior, declares that he left the capital, because he feared assassination, and in the belief that a revolt would shortly occur in the City of Mexico. I left the capital, he said, for two reasons; the first was knowledge of a plot among Huerta's close political supporters to assassinate me. They said I knew too much. Secondly there has been planned a general revolt by the people and the army. I would not be surprised at any minute to hear news of an uprising against Huerta of whom both the people and the army are tired and determined to rid themselves. I did not want to be in Mexico City, when this occurred.

TOKIO, May 19. The Japanese must prepare to stand alone and face the white race in battle. Such is the bellicose retort that an influential newspaper makes to Sir Ian Hamilton, whose recent speech in New Zealand as to the coming struggle for the Pacific, between the white races and the Asiatics, was cabled to England and afterwards here. The paper adds that the Japanese must inform other Asiatics of the fearful consequences of the prejudice and unrighteousness of the white man. Asia must be prepared to co-operate with Japan for common defence.

LONDON, May 19. Lively scenes, in an effort to see the King, are promised for Thursday. At yesterday's meeting of the suffragettes Mrs. Mansell said it was going to be the biggest thing ever. She thought the authorities ought to be trembling in their shoes. If there was going to be any militancy it would be on the part of the other side. If there was any attempt on the part of the minions of the government it would be at their peril. Mrs. Mansell said that Mrs. Pankhurst would be safe because, like Carson, she had a body-guard.

LONDON, May 19. The first bill to become law under the operation of the Parliament Act, is the Welsh Disestablishment Bill, which passed its third reading to-night by a vote of 328 to 251. Renewed interest has been taken in the question during recent months, because of its relation to Church and Churchmen. Under the Parliament Act the Bill automatically becomes law after the third passage by the Commons, no matter what action is taken by the Lords. Among other things the Bill provides so far as Wales is concerned, that the Church of England will cease to be established by law, and all cathedral and ecclesiastical corporations will be dissolved. The Bishops of the four Welsh dioceses will cease to be members of the House of Lords, and the present ecclesiastical law will cease as a law. The Bishops and clergy will not be members or represented in the House of Convocation of the Province of Canterbury.

Exhibition.

Mr. H. H. O'Neill, of the Wales Goodyear Rubber Co., Naugatuck, Connecticut, makers of the celebrated Bear Brand Rubbers, is showing his samples this week at the sample room of the Cleveland Trading Co., New Market Building. Mr. O'Neill has a very interesting collection, amongst which are a pair of rubbers one hundred years old, made in Brazil, and a pair made in the United States in 1849. A cordial invitation is extended to all who wish to see this exhibition.

May.

This blooming month deserves all praise, and should inspire some poet's song; it ought to have two hundred days and each day just a fortnight long. In May the winter chill is gone, and there's not heat enough to hurt, and we can play upon the lawn, or manufacture piles of dirt. The garden sash we love is cheap, and we may have a full repast; the nights are cool, and we can sleep as sleep Old Masters in the past. In May the flies are far between, and one can slumber in his bed, on Sunday morn, without a screen in which to hide his weary head. The chiggers and the bugs and bees are not yet organized for strife, and one may sit beneath the trees, and there enjoy a peaceful life. May is the resting place betwixt the winter stress and summer strain; it keeps the two from getting mixed, and shields us from all kinds of pain. And now the girls are bundling o'er their needles, morning, right and noon, and buying glad rags at the store, which they will wear as brides in June. And every one feels young and gay, existence is a cheerful thing; and he's a dead one who in May declines to smile and dance and sing.

Stomach Always Bulked, Had Constant Indigestion

Smell of Cooking Made Him Sick—Bilious Two Days a Week.

Cured by Dr. Hamilton's Pills.

Mr. Clemmons' experience is not unusual. Nowadays poor stomachs are more the rule than the exception. But the proper treatment is sure to make a quick cure. You can always depend on Dr. Hamilton's Pills, they reach the trouble at once, go right to business, work while you sleep and have you feeling better if not cured next morning.

"My food seemed to decompose in my stomach," writes Mr. Ralph Clemmons, of Newbridge P. O. "I had a stomach that failed in some way to perform its work. Digestion seemed more or less arrested and I grew thin, yellow, nervous. The stomach became distended and impeded apparently the action of the heart, for often at night it would do great stunts. At times I would vomit a mucous mass, and at these times my head ached most terribly. A friend who had been cured of a similar condition, advised me to take Dr. Hamilton's Pills regularly, which I did. The result in my case was simply marvelous. Dr. Hamilton's Pills removed the cause, strengthened the stomach, excited the liver to normal action, the kidneys were released of excessive work. Health soon grew within me. I can now eat, sleep and live like a live man."

Be advised — use Dr. Hamilton's Pills—they are sure to do you good. 25c. per box, five for $1.00, at all druggists and storekeepers or by mail from The Catarhizone Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Canada.

The Preist And The Man

At The Nickel.

As will be seen by the programme published in to-day's paper, the Nickel Theatre leads again with a show that cannot be equaled, and the patrons who attend this evening and tomorrow will be delighted with the excellent bill. Foremost there is the great drama "The Priest and the Man" which has been so much commented on of late. It is adapted from "The Going of White Swan," by Sir Gilbert Parker. All classes of citizens are anxious to see this picture, and to-night they will have the chance. "The Ferrets" is a romantic tale of life in the underworld where in spite of evil companions and bad environments one often finds splendid types of character. "Love" is a love story faultlessly acted by French artists who are well known the world over for the brilliancy of their work in this class of play. "The Man Who Wouldn't Marry" is an unusual kind of drama which every one should make an effort to see. There will also be a full reel of Williamson's Animated News. Miss Gardiner sings "Will You Have This Woman to be Your Lawful Wife," and Mr. McCarty, a pretty Irish ballad. Friday "Wamba" a child of the Jungle, a feature picture in two reels will be given. All desirous of spending a pleasant evening should attend to-night.

WEDNESDAY, May 20, 1914.

Saving of Life at Sea.

As a result of the Titanic disaster, an International Conference on the Safety of Life at Sea was held in London. The German Emperor suggested the Conference and the British Government convened it. The following States sent representatives: Great Britain, Germany, the United States, Austria-Hungary, Belgium, Canada, Denmark, Spain, France, Italy, Japan, Norway, the Netherlands, Russia, Sweden and New Zealand. The delegates were composed of administrators, experts and jurists and not of representatives of the shipping interests. Lord Mersey was appointed Chairman of the Conference, which met for the first time at the Foreign Office, London, on November 12th, 1913. A Convention was drawn up and concluded by January 20th, 1914. A blue-book containing the text of the Convention has been sent out to the Government here, and the Government are now considering whether the provisions of this Convention should be made applicable to this Colony, and if so, what voyages, if any, should be excluded under the provisions of Article 3. The editors of the city newspapers have been supplied temporarily with copies.

As a general rule, the Convention applies to merchant ships, mechanically propelled, which carry more than 12 passengers and which proceed from the port of one of the said States to a port outside of that State and conversely.

Under Article 3, any of the contracting parties may except, certain voyages, where ships go no more than 200 sea miles from nearest coast. These exceptions must be communicated to the British Government before the Convention is ratified. We will deal with the subject matter of the convention to-morrow.

St. Bon's Dance.

The dance held at the British Hall last night, under the auspices of the St. Bon's Ladies' Association, proved one of the most successful of its kind held in recent years.

Upwards of 200 couples participated and an enjoyable programme of dances was gone through, the music being furnished by the T. A. Band. The ballroom was tastefully decorated for the occasion, and presented an attractive appearance.

During the interval an excellent supper was served, which reflected great credit on the reception committee who were as follows:—

Mesdames J. V. O'Dea, A. Mitchell, J. Atkinson and W. Tobin.

The proceeds of the affair were quite satisfactory and will go towards the funds of the association.

By the Lintrose.

The s.s. Lintrose arrived at Port aux Basques at 5.20 a.m. to-day, with the following passengers in saloon: H. B. Gillis, J. J. McDougall, T. Moulton, J. W. and Mrs. Withers, Miss M. Colville, Miss B. Walsh, Miss M. Bidell, Mrs. J. Hannaford, Mrs. P. Wisheart, Miss M. Dingwell, Miss T. Dingwell, Miss S. Herridge, Miss E. Penney, S. Hannaford, T. Hannaford, Dr. J. J. Smith and T. Chafe.

Champions Dined.

On Saturday night last, the Fellidians, who won the championship in the Inter-Collegiate hockey matches at the Prince's Rink, the past winter, were entertained at Robinson's restaurant by a number of Old Fellidians friends and supporters. The menu was all that could be desired, the catering creditable coupled with a comprehensive toast list. The speech-making was excellent, the toasts being interspersed by songs. An enjoyable time was brought to a close by the singing of Auld Lang Syne and the National Anthem.

Personal.

First Flying Train Tried in London.

London, May 14.—M. Bachelet's flying train continues to attract attention. M. Bachelet yesterday wound up a demonstration of his invention by lifting a box into the air in his model passenger car. A boy five years old, weighing forty-two pounds, sat in a wicker chair. M. Bachelet switched on the current, and car, chair and boy rose from the coils and remained supported in the air in a Mahomet coffin-like effect. The little passenger jumped when he was suddenly jerked upwards, but quickly broke into smiles, and obviously enjoyed his experience as first passenger on a flying train. The model car weighed eighteen pounds, so that the total weight lifted was sixty pounds.

Twelve of Crew Believed Drowned.

London, May 13.—The steam collier Turret Hill, has sunk owing to the shifting of her cargo off South World, in the North Sea. The chief engineer, who was picked up by a passing steamer, said that the steamer turned turtle, heeling over so rapidly that there was no chance to launch the boats.

The captain of the Turret Hill was picked up by another steamer after he had clung for several hours to a life buoy. The remainder of the crew numbering twelve, are believed to have been drowned.

A steam pilot cutter was sunk today by a steamer in Bristol Channel. Five men were drowned and sixteen saved.

By Authority.

His Excellency the Administrator has been placed to appoint Captain Thomas Dunn (Riverhead, Harbour Grace), Thomas L. Drover, Esq., (Green's Harbour, T.B.), and William Sodero, Esq., (Harbour Breton), to be Justices of the Peace for the Colony.

His Excellency the Administrator in Council has been pleased to appoint Mr. Simeon Wheeler, to be Inspector of Weights and Measures at Bay of Islands, in place of Mr. Henry Long, resigned; Mr. Louis French (Man Point, Gander Bay), to be a Surveyor of Lumber.

JOHN B. AYRE.

Southern Shore Notes.

Mr. John Meloin, who has been domiciled in the gold regions for quite a number of years has returned to his native home, LaManche, and intends to remain home now where he will use his money in speculations.

The ladies of Witless Bay intend leaving no stone unturned to have the Garden Party, which promises to be the event of the season. The funds are needed to go towards the completion of the new B.I.S. Hall. The building promises to be one of the finest erections in the harbor and will exceed any of the halls on the shore.

A young man from the Southern Shore was near visiting Davy Jones' locker by taking a quantity of carbolic acid in mistake. Fortunately his father came to his assistance and having skill in those cases prescribed an emetic and thus saved the boy.—Com.

Quebec Marriages.

The Province of Quebec is the most expensive place there is in which to be married by license. This is because the province puts a tax on marriage by license. Six dollars is drawn down every time a license is issued by the Government. The total cost is eight dollars. Two of these go to the issuer of the document. This money does not go into the general fund of the province, but is devoted to the higher Protestant educational institutions, and is placed at the disposal of the educational board. It is given in this way because Roman Catholics do not marry by license. The tax amounts to many thousands of dollars every year. In one office alone in 1913 no less than 800 licenses were issued. Undoubtedly the total would be in the neighborhood of $100,000.

Reids' Boats.

Mexico's Great Seaport

THE ROMANCE OF TAMPICO.
Until the present trouble arose between the United States and Mexico, the average person probably knew little about Tampico, the Mexican seaport towards which the American fleet is sailing at the moment of writing. Nevertheless, it is a town which provides one of the most remarkable of modern romances of industrial investment.

Tampico became famous in the money market at the beginning of the great oil boom, and some idea of its importance in connection with that industry may be gathered from the fact that in about ten years nearly fifty million sterling has been invested in the oilfields in the State of Tamaulipas to which Tampico belongs.

Of this total over £15,000,000 represents British interests, and the amazing growth of oil properties in that corner of the world is illustrated by the fact that from the 1,000,000 barrels of oil secured in 1907, the figure has grown to 16,000,000, which was last year's total.

Apart from oil, however, Tampico which shares with Vera Cruz the greater portion of the foreign trade of Mexico, has quite a number of other prosperous industries, which have been greatly developed of late years by British and American residents, who are more numerous in Tampico than in any other part of Mexico. The excellent harbor accommodation of the town makes it the chief port for the exportation of coffee, sugar, rubber, copper ores, and asphalt, the most important products of the neighboring territory.

The soil is very rich, and it is expected that within a few years there will be an enormous increase of the flourishing trade in fruit and vegetables. Furthermore, it is a fine centre for sea-fishing. Indeed, it is the happy hunting-ground of the enthusiasts who delight to catch the big game of the sea, for in no other waters can that giant fish, the tarpon, which attains a length of 6 feet or 7 feet, be found in such large numbers.

Most of the commerce of Vera Cruz is also in the hands of foreigners, although it is a place to be avoided by those who have a regard for their health. Its moist, hot climate is notoriously unhealthy, and the annual death rate ranges from one in eleven to one in twenty of the population, mostly from lung diseases and from yellow and other fevers. The full title of the city is Villa Nueva de la Vera Cruz, or "New City of the True Cross."

A Creed.

To be earnest, to be strong.
To make light the way with song;
Slow to anger, quick to praise
Walking steadfast through the days,
Firm of purpose, sure of soul,
Pressing onward to the goal,
Upright, even, undismayed,
Sure, serene, and unafraid.

To be patient, to be kind.
To be purposeful, and find
Sweetness all along the way;
Loath to judge, but firm to say
Truth with unrelenting tongue,
By no cavil veered or swung
From the right; and to endure
Hopeful, helpful, clean and pure.

To be gentle, to forgive.
True to life and glad to live,
To be watchful and to be
Rich with boundless charity:
To be humble in success,
Strong of heart in bitterness,
Tender, gracious, thoughtful, good
In our man and woman hood.

To be smiling, to be glad
For the yesterdays we've had;
To be grateful all the way
For the beauties of to-day;
To be hopeful and to see
In the days that are to be Bigger, better, broader things,
Robes of purple, crowns of kings!

Bite of Sick Child Ends Doctor's Life.

Physician Dies From Poison of Diphtheritic Child.

New York, April 23.—Three months after he had been bitten in the hand by a child suffering from diphtheria, Dr. Julius Caesar Lauer, of Astoria, Long Island City, died of blood poisoning. His death occurred at his home yesterday.

The exact cause of Dr. Lauer's death is obscure. The only source it can be attributed to is the bite of a diphtheritic patient. At the time Dr. Lauer was bitten he was administering anti-toxin to the little patient.

Dr. Lauer thought nothing of the occurrence, but soon his hand and arm began to swell and pain him, and then it was discovered that he was suffering from blood poisoning. He was taken to the German Hospital where he was under treatment for ten weeks. It was found that he was suffering from septic endocarditis and that his blood was filled with microbes.

It is said that others volunteered to give up fresh blood which was infused into Dr. Lauer's veins. He was also inoculated with a vaccine. Under the method employed he improved rapidly and the microbes seemed to disappear entirely. He was then taken to his home where there was plenty of fresh air and where there seemed to be every prospect that he would eventually recover. Instead of recovering he grew rapidly worse.

Dr. Lauer was 56 years old and had been a physician for more than 25 years. He was born in Berlin and was educated at the Royal Friedrich Wilhelm University in that city. He also took a post graduate course at Columbia University. He had been practising for eight years in Long Island City.

Their Daily Round.

All over Great Britain—particularly in the rural parts—there are aged postmen who cover, on foot, their twenty and thirty miles a day, and who, during the past twenty years or so, have tramped many thousands of miles.

But there is another branch of activity in connection with the postman's daily life about which one hears very little. What of the stairs climbed by the men who deliver letters in the great commercial centres of the Kingdom?

Investigations, recently carried out in Glasgow, show that in some cases a postman climbs, on an average, so many as two hundred and ten flights of stairs a day.

Another Glasgow postman has to climb up and down fifty-one thousand four hundred steps in a week, his daily average when working, being over nine thousand.

There is a third who every day walks nearly fifteen miles on the level as well as climbing to a total height of three thousand two hundred and sixty-six feet up office staircases! In other words, every day he ascends a height only three hundred and five feet less than that of Snowden—with a fifteen mile tramp thrown in!

Ten Men Were Hurlled to Death.

Detroit, Mich., May 15.—Ten men, most of them chemists, were killed by the explosion of acid and chemicals in the mixing room of the Mexican Crude Rubber Company on the West Side here to-day. Four other employees, removed from the steaming debris, were taken to a hospital, and all may die. Two men were less seriously hurt. The building, a one storey structure of solid concrete and cement, was almost obliterated. Other buildings within a radius of a mile were more or less damaged. The loss was estimated at $50,000. The lead are: Edward Christopher, Wm. McCoy, C. Larsen, Al. Hodgins, Victor R. Burns, William F. Niles, Jose Casse, Gorton Latta, Emon Aman and George Gleggoria. The four last mentioned victims were Mexicans. All but Gleggoria probably were instantly killed. He died in a hospital.

Among those who escaped were John H. Evans, superintendent and John C. Treadwell, manager of the plant. Just what caused the explosion probably will never be known. In the mixing room was a large vat of molten rubber being prepared by a secret process. Without a moment's warning the building was torn to pieces. Every man who was in the mixing room at the moment was killed.

The company manufactured imitation leather, and it is understood that ether and other explosives were used in large quantities. Because of the secret process of preparing the crude rubber, employees were not allowed to leave their department to enter other parts of the plant. Few of the employees knew each other, and it was some time before the victims were identified.

Coroner Rothacher said he has started an investigation to determine whether negligence was the cause of the explosion, or whether the concern violated a city ordinance by mixing dangerous explosives within the city limits.

More Fires.
Fires provoke immediate sympathy for the sufferers and also thankfulness for personal escape. Another thought should be whether one is personally and sufficiently protected? An insurance policy with Percis Johnson would provide for you this desired security and at small expense. Have you enough insurance?

Supreme Court.

(Before Full Bench.)
TUESDAY AFTERNOON.

Job Bros. & Co., Ltd., vs. John McMartin, et al. J. W. O'Brien, Cross-examined by Mr. Howley, K.C.—(Continued.)—As to the note he did not know to whom it was payable, nor that it was a note in connection with the Labrador Pulp and Lumber Co., nor what business transactions existed between Job Bros. and the McMartins. Mr. Reid was the first to tell him that he was needed as a witness to this case for the plaintiffs.

That was about last December. He has no interest in the Labrador Pulp and Lumber Co., though Mr. Reid promised him an interest about five years ago.
Howley, K.C., read affidavit of John K. Erskine, showing that the cross-examination of Charles C. Paulding, who left on Monday's train for New York, was absolutely necessary, and showed that it was equitable that the defendant be given the opportunity to cross-examine him. Some discussion followed. The Court decided that a commission be appointed to cross-examine him in New York before judgment. Various legal points were raised and argued by Counsel on both sides. Court rose at 4.30.

This morning the further hearing was postponed till 3 o'clock this evening. Mr. H. Knight has been associated with Mr. Howley, K.C. in the defence.

Divorced Life

By Helen Hessong Fuesle

A Manless Home

Vines, slumbering for the winter, extended their arms and fingers across the walls of the log studio where Ann passed with her guest. Through the window, Marian could see the flames of a wood fire capering warmly. The comfortable picture seemed to reach out through the window with invisible arms and welcome the traveler; and Marian was supremely glad that she had come.

"Enter," said Ann, pushing open the door which she had never found it necessary to lock. "As I wrote you," she added, "it's no palace, but I think it will do."

Marian laid aside her things, and, with an exclamation of sheer delight, fell to examining the details of the studio's living room, a littered, artistic confusion with its piano, rustic chairs, easels, snow-shoes, and skis standing in a corner, its built-in book-cases, cushioned widow seats, and its many painted landscapes on the walls. Overhead were rough-hewn rafters, eke-outs of the solid simplicity of earlier days.

"Just a minute and we'll have a bite to eat," said Ann. "Come on in to the kitchen and help. I've never indulged in the luxury of a maid, so I make all my guests hustle."

The kitchen was a mere shut-off corner of the living room, just large enough to accommodate a cook stove and the larder. A few minutes later the two sat down to tea by the fire-side. As she ate and listened to the animated talk of her companion, Marian gazed at her curious, unwonted surroundings, with their atmosphere of the artistic, and of toil, and optimism against odds, and she felt like a stranger on a delightful sojourn in a strange land.

"You have a beautiful place," she said, "a delightful home. Somehow, I seem always to have associated the idea of home with that of marriage, but I'm beginning to realize that a man isn't at all essential in every case."

"A man!" echoed Ann. "A man would fit in here about as well as an elephant. It's a terribly mistaken notion that it takes a man to make a home. Why, it's absurd." "You have your work," answered Marian, with a dull feeling of envy. "Your wonderful work! With it, why should you ever feel the need of a man? I suppose you've never even thought of love?"

An odd momentary shadow ran across Ann's features. "Like all women, I've been in love," she answered quietly. "It was in Paris—in the Montmartre. What art student doesn't have her love affair? We were so love-bene married. But his health gave way under the pressure of his studies, and was sent away to the Alps. He died."

"Like all women, I've been in love," murmured Ann. "It was in Paris—in the Montmartre."

She paused for a moment, after Marian's low exclamation of pity, then added: "I couldn't imagine myself caring for any other man. I have my work, and the occasional visit of a friend, and find life perfectly bully." She went on with abrupt lightness, and the talk sped into other channels. Marian reflecting upon her own hapless marriage, smashed ideals, and many woes, was aware of a still deeper envy of her hostess, whose lover, even though dead, remained nevertheless her radiant ideal, the constant comrade of her toil, the inspiration of her efforts.

Night Work On Steamer.

LETTER FROM EMPLOYERS' ASSOCIATION.

M. P. Gibbs, Esq., St. John's.

Dear Sir—Your letter of the 9th May was delivered by your clerk at the Board of Trade Rooms instead of at my office in Cliff's Cove, with the result that I did not get it until the afternoon of Wednesday last, when it was too late to call a meeting for Thursday, Friday and Saturday were engaged, so that the earliest time when I could obtain consideration of your letter by the Employers' Protective Association was yesterday. I regret the delay in bringing your letter to the notice of the Association but it was entirely owing to the mis-delivery effected by your messenger.

In reply I am instructed to refer you to my last letter to you, in which I state "that the conditions of the trade of the Colony are such as not to warrant any advance in wages, and that therefore the Employers could not comply with the demands which are set forth in the circular." To this decision all members of the Employers' Protective Association firmly adhere.

"If you have any other matters which you desire to bring to the notice of the Employers' Protective Association, I shall be obliged if you will let me know what they are, so that any committee which they may appoint to meet your proposed suggestion may be in a position to discuss the matter intelligently with them." This offer is, of course, still open.

In your letter, to which I am now replying, you say among other things—"It is only reasonable to assume that as common-sense men the workers would be loathe to do anything which may jeopardize the stability of trade and business." I confess to being quite unable to reconcile the position you thus take with the recent action of the Longshoremen's Protective Union in refusing to work steamers after 6 o'clock p.m., as they have been in the habit of doing. You must be well aware that there is no action which the Longshoremen could take more calculated to jeopardize the stability of trade and business than to delay the dispatch of steamers frequenting our port. It is not as if their action in this matter affected them and the steamship people alone, for in its ramifications it affects nearly every interest in the Colony.

If this principle of the Longshoremen's Protective Union is extended, then the results will be a total negation of the assumption you set forth, to be followed by very serious consequences. For instance, perishable goods if not discharged would decay and rot, and would be useless. The employees of factories would be wanting work because the raw materials necessary for the working of the factories were not obtainable, and the whole of the business community would be put to a great loss and inconvenience. Beyond this, when the season arrives for the tourists to visit our port again by the Red Cross and other lines of steamers, if uncertainty of the prompt return of the steamer is evident, very few tourists will come. Nor is it as if you had consulted with the steamship people or the Association which I represent and your wishes had been refused before taking action; the Longshoremen have simply said, "we will hang up your steamers, we will not discharge them as has been customary." In other words you have tried to ride rough shod over the trade of this Colony, (without, I am afraid, very much reason for your action), not only in the matter of refusing to work after 6 o'clock p.m., but also in the manner in which the new schedule of wages was presented to the Employers.

The Employers' Protective Association feel that it is their bounden duty to protect the trade of St. John's, and therefore, in a general sense, the trade of the Colony, in every reasonable way that lies within their power, as they are convinced, that in spite of the disputes between them and the laborers, the welfare of the community must be considered.

I am therefore instructed to ask the members of the Longshoremen's Protective Union (through yourself), to give this matter their prompt and careful consideration, and to let me know not later than Tuesday morning of next week, whether they decide to continue the present rules of refusing to work after 6 o'clock p.m., or whether they will return to the old method of loading and discharging steamers during the evening. (Whenever it is necessary to do so in order to dispatch the steamer according to the demands of the trade), so that the Employers' Protective Association may be in a position to consider the matter, and to take such steps, (if any) as they may think necessary in order to conserve the best interests of the trade of the Colony.

In view of certain statements which have appeared in the press, I am sending a copy of this letter to the press for publication.

Yours truly,

G. C. FEARN,

Secretary Employers' Protective Association.

Boy Drivers.

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir,—For the last few days a notice has appeared in the daily papers from the Inspector General in which we are informed that no person under eighteen years of age will be permitted in future to drive a horse in the city. This is evidently the law, but it is only put into effect when an unfortunate accident occurred, which would go to prove that no immediate necessity demanded the enacting of this law, for it must be plain to every sensible person that that accident could have occurred if a middle-aged man were the driver just as it happened with the boy. It is very hard on small shopkeepers to enforce this law, for many of them have good steady boys of sixteen years old doing their light express work, and now in order to comply with the law those boys have to be discharged. A boy of sixteen is to my mind just as efficient as one at eighteen, and in order to give the shopkeepers a fair show I think the Inspector General should be given power to use his judgment in matters of this kind, with his great knowledge of the city he knows from experience where common sense counts and I feel sure if a boy who is of steady habits, even though he be only sixteen, who now holds a job, is passed as "safe" by the Inspector General the public safety will be looked after, the boy will hold his job and the small shopkeepers will not be inconvenienced by the law as it now stands.

After all is said and done the main object of the Law is the protection of life, and if a sensible, good, honest boy now holds a job driving an express and his only fault is that he was born too late in the century, surely it is hardly fair play to fire that boy and place in his stead one, who, though he may have sidights adorning his visage, yet may not be half as careful as the lad whose place he fills.

Hopeing that this note may have the effect of showing up the headships which this law will cause to store-keeper and boy alike, and trusting that this matter will receive the consideration from the authorities which I think it deserves.

I am, yours truly, BUSINESS.

I wish to state that I am well satisfied with the results which your Company have given me in connection with my Endowment Policy No. 47,775, which matures on the 17th of March.

I find that the returns give me over $424.00 more than I have paid in premiums, in addition to the protection that I have had during the Policy term. I consider this all the more satisfactory taking into account the fact that the dividends were applied as a Bonus every five years. LONDON, To-day.

In a striking speech at the Woman's Tariff Reform and Unlouis Association at Queen's Hall last night Sir Edward Carson breathed defiance of the Government declaring he would die first rather than sell Ulster under Home Rule. Sir Edward poured ridicule on the idea that Unionists were disheartened and ready to abandon the struggle. He said he was never more determined. He brushed aside the offer made by the Government in the Commons as a hypocritical sham, and then taunted the Government for being afraid to prosecute gun runners. Civil war might be a savage thing, in the present century, he said, but if driven to it Ulstermen were ready to accept its consequences. It would be the Government which would have to climb down, for it was quite plain where Gladstone had failed. Asquith had also failed. Sir Edward's colleague in the representation of Dublin University, J. W. Campbell, will move the rejection of the Home Rule Bill, when its second reading comes up on Thursday. An important financial amendment has been put down by Sir Frederick Banbury the effect of which requires that under Home Rule, Ireland shall pay its own way.

Here and There.

WEATHER.—It is calm and fine up the country to-day; along the line of railway the thermometer registers from 37 to 43 above.

LIGHTSHIP OFF.—The Lightship Halifax 19, which put into this port short of coal, sailed yesterday afternoon for Halifax, having been supplied by the Bonaventure through the Agency of Mr. Tasker Cook.

MR. ROSS'S CONDITION.—We are pleased to be able to say that Mr. Joseph Ross, who was hurt in Sunday's railway accident, as alluded to in yesterday's Telegram, shows signs of improvement at his home to-day.

Boston Helps Sealing Fund.

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir.—It is with great pleasure that the Newfoundlanders of Boston join with their fellow-countrymen all over the world in helping to swell the subscription fund for the families and dependents of those who lost their lives by the recent disaster.

Boston's total collected to date, is close on $8,000, and when amounts from other sources are turned in, we expect to close the fund with something like $20,000. Owing to the industrial situation of this great Republic, not being in a flourishing condition, at the present time, and the native citizen, not being conversant enough with the circumstances of the disaster, collections by those reasons, have been somewhat hampered, but from a generous and charitable source the people of Boston are to be congratulated in the help and assistance that they have rendered us.

On Sunday night, April 26th, an illustrated lecture on the "Ancient Colony of Newfoundland," and her people was given in Boston College Hall by J. J. McAuliffe to an audience of from six to eight hundred Newfoundlanders. The lecturer opened his discourse giving in detail the early history of Newfoundland, its discovery by Cabot and numerous incidents of early years; then came the views of Newfoundland in moving pictures which all present were anxious to see, and as each picture appeared it was heartily applauded. Among some of the principal shown were St. John's from Battery Road, the Narrows, Regatta Day on Quidi Vidi, the new Court House, Reid Nfld. Co.'s Station and Dry Dock, Haymarket Square and the old Custom House, all the principal churches and public buildings in St. John's were shown both before the fire of 1892 and after. Considerable laughter was indulged in when the picture of Haymarket Square was shown, and of the farmer disposing of his hay; also when the sagacious and clever animal, known the world over as the Newfoundland dog. Particular attention was attracted to the picture of the sealing fleet, which comprised sealers leaving for the icebergs, hauling and panning seals, sealers strayed from their ships, steamers picking up seals, steamers jammed and steamers landing seals. All eyes were centred on this picture, as it displayed the incidents of the greatest sealing disaster known in the history of sealing. Bell Island Mines, Tilt Cove, Fortune Harbor, Hr. Grace, Carbonear, Trinity, Bonavista, Torbay, Petty Harbor, all came in for their share and nearly every town and village and point of vantage in the island, that was interesting, was shown. Its industries, manufacturing devices, agriculture and mineral resources were forcibly described. Its privileges as a sportsman's paradise and health resort was also hinted at, and as each picture was presented it brought back to every one present past recollections of their native home. For two and a half hours the audience were all as they were centred in Newfoundland. The proceeds, which amounted to over $200 net, was turned over to the sealers relief fund. In the coming week a social and ball is to be given by the Newfoundland Charitable Society to help to swell the relief fund, and a very interesting and pleasant time is anticipated. The next lecture to be given is by one of Newfoundland's ablest sons, the Rev. Alan Hudson, of Brocton, Mass., who will speak to a South Boston audience on Newfoundland; its resources advantages and attractions.

Trusting that I have not encroached too much on your valuable space, and wishing the Telegram the continued success that it justly deserves.

I remain,
Yours very truly,
P. A. BUCKLEY.

A Man of the People

AT THE CRESCENT.
Donald McDonald, Ramona Langley, Max Aster and Lee Morris.

Every change of programme at the Crescent Picture Palace, the House of Features, sees new pictures but very often the same performers who are the world's best known in movie life. The last bill showed Maurice Costello Pearl White and several others who have reached the top mark in their profession. To-day we have Donald McDonald, Ramona Langley, Max Aster and Lee Morris.

"The Heart of an Artist" is the feature subject, a Crystal drama of merit. "A Man of the People" is a neoteric western story with Donald McDonald and Ramona Langley. "A Legacy of Happiness," an Essansy special. "The Tramp Dentist" is a comedy where Max Aster and Lee Morris make good. Mr. Sidney Earnshaw sings Donald Brian's musical hit, "I'm Looking for an Irish Husband."

A big two reel feature is booked for Friday and Saturday, "When Urasu Threw the Bull," a Nestor burlesque on Quo Vadis.

Fire Last Midnight.

Shortly before last midnight, the Central and Eastern Companies were summoned to the Empire Wood Working Co.'s factory where a slight fire was in progress, which might have resulted disastrously but for the vigilance of the watchmen, and the promptness of the firemen who were on the scene so quickly after the alarm. The blaze was confined to the drying room, and it supposed to have been caused by the carelessness of two uninvited guests who apparently sought the drying room for lodgings. As the watchman was making his usual rounds he visited the drying room and upon opening the door found the place filled with smoke, and hurriedly investigating the cause, noticed a man's coat hanging on the end of a board, whence the fire came. Rushing to the scene to grab the coat he saw two men asleep on a pile of lumber in the room, where the ceiling was now ablaze. He aroused the sleepers, who were apparently half suffocated, and hurried to the East End Fire Hall and gave the alarm. When the firemen arrived the sleepers had vanished, and the blaze had made considerable headway. Two streams of water were directed on the flame, and the situation was soon controlled. The fire was extinguished within a few minutes, without any serious damage being done. The police are endeavouring to capture the persons who were responsible for the outbreak, and have a full description of them from the watchman, to whom they are unknown. How the fire really occurred is only a matter of conjecture, but it is supposed that the "lodgers" were smoking before retiring, as it was in their vicinity the fire had its origin.

SUSPECTS ARRESTED.

This morning, William Candow and Peter Quirk were arrested by Sergeant Mackey and Constable O'Flaherty, on suspicion of being the parties who were asleep in the drying room of the Empire Factory when the fire broke out last night.

Where Responsibility Lies.

No matter how large, or how small, a business may be, nobody can deny that its Office is the nerve centre of the firm. Every transaction, important or trivial, must be recorded at the Office. An order is received at the Office, and finally payment is received at the Office. If the Office makes an error the firm stands the loss. That's why you must be sure that your office is moderately and dependably equipped for the care of all important papers. To do this effectively you need the up-to-date equipment of the "GLOBE-WALKER CO." When sixty offices in St. John's have found this necessity this equipment can surely be of use to you. Mr. Percie Johnson represents this world known firm in Newfoundland.—01714

Hal And Bert Tait.

They returned by the S. S. Digby a day or two ago Dr. Tait's two sons, who had been away finishing up their University course of study. Both were highly successful—Mr. Harold taking the degree of Doctor of Medicine and Master of Surgery at Dalhousie University, and at the same time passing his examination and taking the diploma of The Provincial Medical Board. These privileges give him the right to practice in Britain and in certain British Colonies and other countries without further examination. It also admits to the army and other medical services.

Bert on the other hand, who was a Rhodes scholar and holds the degree of B. A. from Oxford has added to his arms matriculation the further Degree of B.C.L. from King's University. He is apprenticed to Mr. A. B. Morine and in a short time will be eligible to present himself to the Law Society for admission to the Bar. We congratulate the parents of these two young men and bespeak for them a brilliant career. Both boys receive their preparatory education at Bishop Field College, and both have done honor to their Alma Mater.

The Wonderful Edison Talking Pictures.

The original seven wonders of the world have undergone such modification that if to-day the dignitaries who designated them were asked to enumerate the marvels of nature and of men's creation, they would be unanimous in proclaiming Thomas A. Edison one of the present wonders of the earth. The wizard's generally conceded most wonderful invention is the Kinotophone, or Talking Picture, which is completely revolutionizing the amusement world. St. John's will see these genuine Edison Talking Pictures for the first time at the Casino Theatre, and judging by the interest manifested by local amusement seekers in the forthcoming engagement it will be well to get one's seat early. The Edison Talking Pictures are not simply moving pictures, but laughing, talking and singing figures, and those who see them are simply carried away with them.

A Series of Fires.

At 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon an alarm was sent in from box 253, indicating the Central and East End Companies to Fleming Street where a slight fire was in progress in the house of Mr. A. Doyle, caused by sparks from the chimney igniting some shingles on the roof. The use of the chemical extinguished the blaze before much damage was done. Very soon after an alarm came in from box 21 on Adelaide Street and the West End and Central firemen responded to George Street, finding a room in the upper flat of Mr. James Maclean's house on fire. Though the women used the chemical to put out the blaze yet the fire was practically quenched by Constable Nugent through the aid of a Pyrene extinguisher which was procured at the Post Office. The origin of the fire is not definitely known, though it is supposed to be caused by a defective chimney.

At 6 o'clock a verbal alarm called the East End men to a house on York Street occupied by a family named Confias. The chimney was on fire, but in a few minutes through the efforts of Capt. Trebble, the danger was removed.
