CHAPTER VIII.
HIS FATE DECIDED.

"Davis, you can call for me at eleven. Meanwhile you can put the machine up and amuse yourself at the Lyric, or any other place of amusement that suits you; and here's something to pay your way. But don't go over the line, you know."

"Oh, no, Sir Arthur, of course not. Hope you don't think I'd do such a thing," said his chauffeur, as he took the half sovereign with one hand and touched the brim of his cockade hat with the forefinger of the other, in which he was holding the wheel loosely.

"Very well, then—don't forget, eleven sharp."

"No, Sir Arthur, I will be back on time—eleven sharp."

The uniformed porter, with a couple of medals on his breast, stiffened up and saluted as Eversley went in.

"Hello, Stevenson; is that you? So you have left the service?"

"Yes, sir," replied the man. "Invalidated out. That bullet in the elbow at Belmont, you may remember."

"Ah, yes, I remember, of course. Good job you saved your arm. Stiff now, I suppose?"

"Yes, sir—not much more good to me; but I've been fortunate in finding a fairly comfortable berth, and that's more than a lot of us did."

"Yes, yes," said Sir Arthur, as his recollection went back to that terrible day when this man and himself had ridden almost side by side through the leaden hall of the Boer fire whistling around their ears. "Well, I'm glad to see you all right again now, Stevenson."

He took a letter case out of the inside pocket of his dress coat, fumbled about with it for a few seconds, during which the ex-corporal of lancers watched him with somewhat anxious but keen eyes, and finally extracted a five-pound note. He gave it to Stevenson, and said, in a halting voice, which the old soldier recognized with an apprehension which he dared not express:

"There, that's for old acquaintance sake. I'm a richer man now, Stevenson, than I was when you and I went climbing kopjes. No, no; don't bother about thanks. Yes, I—yes, I want you to tell me—I mean—well, on which floor does Mrs. Ashley live?"

"Mrs. Ashley, sir? Oh, yes, the lady who is staying with her aunts, the Misses Holroyd. First floor. But, allow me, I will take you to the door. You see, sir, we have no elevator here; if you will kindly come with me up the stairs. Thank you, Sir; this way."

Sir Arthur followed him up the staircase, doing his best to pull himself together, so that he might face the ordeal, terrible in one sense, and yet possibly delightful in another, which he knew with his soldier instinct was in front of him. The crisis of his life was now within the distance of a few steps, and, as he went up the stairs, and the moments passed, he wished with all the strength of his manhood that was left in him that he might meet his fate as the man he once had been.

They reached the landing on the first floor, and the porter rapped at a door on the right-hand side. Then he saluted again and said: "Thank you very much, sir," and went back down the stairs.

Sir Arthur stood outside the door, expecting to be admitted by the usual housemaid in black dress and white apron and cap, but when the door was opened he saw under the light of the red-shaded lamp hanging from the ceiling of the hall a vision of loveliness which seemed to him to have been materialized out of the semidarkness. He saw the gleam of eyes which looked almost black in the half light, the pale gleam of white shoulders and arms, an indescribable expression of welcome lighting up a perfect face, and he heard a sweet and sadly long-remembered voice saying:

"Well, Sir Arthur!"

He put his hand out, and another hand, small and soft and warm, met it and seemed to nestle in it. The black eyes were looking up into his, the perfectly curved lips were trembling with an unspoken but irresistible suggestion.

The next moment his arms were around her. Her daintily clad form was crushed up in an almost savage embrace. His lips were upon hers, and, with just a little tremor, they answered his kiss, and so the fate which he had come to meet was decided.

CHAPTER IX.
SALVATION FIRST, MARRIAGE AFTERWARD.

"My dear Arthur, it is really quite impossible at present. Surely you must see that yourself."

"But why not, Lillias? Of course, I grant everything you say. I've had a pretty hard time of it, and I'm a very considerable bit of a wreck, but—will, if you look in that glass, you'll see one of the reasons—"

"You have no right to say that. When you were little more than a boy, and I was quite a girl, you fell in love with me, honestly; and what you've just been saying proves that it was more than what they call call love. I admit that I didn't think so then, and to be perfectly candid with you, I was not sufficiently in love with you to—"

"Oh, yes! I know what you're going to say—you weren't sufficiently in love with me to marry a Lieutenant of lancers, who couldn't live on his pay, and depended on his brother's charity to help him out; but, you see, all that is altered now."

"Yes, and other things are altered, too, Arthur," she replied. "We are no longer boy and girl, you and I. A good deal has happened since then, you know, and for one thing, I have been married."

PALE ANAEMIC GIRLS AND BOYS

Need the Tissue Building, Blood Making, Strength-Creating Elements Contained in Vinol.

Druggists Guarantee Vinol Will Make Them Strong, Robust and Rosy, or Return Your Money

It is not natural for a child to be pale, sallow, thin, ailing and puny, with no appetite, and with little limbs, thin and scrawny.

What such children need is more iron in the blood and the strengthening, tissue, and body building elements of good old-fashioned cod liver oil, without the oil, such as is contained in VINOL, together with other vitality-making ingredients.

VINOL increases the red corpuscles and enriches the blood, quickens the circulation, increases the appetite, aids digestion; soon the cheeks regain their rosy hue and the little limbs fill out round and plump, and instead of being thin, sickly, ailing, your child is transformed into a happy, healthy child, strong, robust and rosy.

Mrs. L. Andrews, of Bainbridge, N. Y., says: "My little daughter, 13 years old, overworked and was run-down, had headaches, couldn't eat and had to stay out of school. VINOL has built her up. She has a good appetite, no more headaches and has returned to school."

For all run-down, nervous, anaemic conditions, weak women, overworked men, feeble old people and delicate children there is no remedy like VINOL.

The champagne that he had had at dinner and a fairly stiff brandy and soda afterward, had invigorated his nerves sufficiently for the time being to enable him to see the suggestion instantly. He pulled himself up in the armchair in which he had been half sitting and half lying, and said, almost sharply:

"I didn't need to be reminded of that, Lillias. I didn't want to be. As regards the rest, of course, you are quite right; and I'm glad to hear you say that you see now that what you were kind enough to call my call love was something a good deal more serious—in fact, is still a good deal more serious than that. But I really cannot see that the fact that we have grown up from boy and girl to man and woman, and that you have incidentally been married widowed in the same time, should be a sufficient reason for your refusing to become Lady Eversley, with a rent roll of forty thousand a year, three places in the country, and a decent house in Cumberland Gate."

"Yes, yes," she replied, with a little show of impatience. "But surely you must know it would be no use trying to tempt me with that sort of thing. After all our losses through these miserable Markham swindlers, we still have enough left to live upon, and you—"

"No, no, of course, I don't mean anything of that sort. Certainly I ought to know you better than that, and I do, but if you could only— No, I won't say that. Put it this way: I know very well that in what the society papers called my splendid inheritance, I am myself about the worst item—at least as I am at present. But, Lillias, there's something left of me even now, something that might be worth saving; and you're the only woman, the only human being on earth, in fact, who could save me. I'm not asking for your love. I'm asking for your mercy."

"It is very nice of you to put it in that way, Arthur," she said, very softly and sweetly, turning in her chair toward him and resting her chin on her hand. "But, don't you see, that this—well, this proposal of yours is altogether too splendid; and, besides, to be perfectly frank with you, I think that, just at present, you need a nurse more than you want a wife."

"And you don't like me well enough to be both? Well, then, I suppose that's about the end of it and of me; and so I may as well say good night and good-by!"

"No," she said quickly, almost impatiently; "you are quite wrong. Sit down, please, just for another minute or two, and let me explain. I do like you, Arthur. I like—yes, I'll confess it—I love you too well to do what you want, and there are other things, you know."

He nodded, and muttered: "Oh, yes, I understand."

"She went on, speaking more earnestly: "Yes, of course, you do; therefore, suppose we make a compromise."

"A compromise?" he echoed, sitting upright again, and looking sharply at her. "My dear Lillias, how on earth can there be a compromise in an affair like this? You know that I love you, and that I have loved you ever since those old days over at the Abbey, when I used to chase you around the garden for kisses. The point is, whether you like me well enough to marry me, or not. You can't compromise a question like that, you know; it must be one thing or the other."

"Oh, no," she replied; "that is another course which might be a quite possible one, and Arthur, I'm going to suggest this to you, to show you that I really do care for you—I mean, in a proper way, as a woman who honestly cares for a man."

"That's the best thing I have heard for many a long day, Lillias," he exclaimed. "Another way! Well, what is it? If you have thought of it, it must be something like a path to paradise."

"Don't be silly," she laughed, with a flash in her eyes and a flush on her cheeks, which, if possible, intoxicated his senses even more than they were. "It is a very plain and practical suggestion that I'm going to make."

"Then, for Heaven's sake, make it, Lillias, dear, and put me out of my misery one way or the other—by which, of course, I mean your way."

"Possibly," she replied, smiling, although her tone was somewhat grave. "You remember what Oliver Wendell Holmes said in one of his poems, 'Man has his will, but woman has her way,' and now, my way is this: You have asked me to do two things—to save you, as you put it, and to marry you. Now, if I were still just the same Lillias that you used to, as you've just said, hunt around the Abbey garden for kisses, I should probably take the attitude of the sentimental heroine of a cheap novel, and say, with a fine sense of innocent sacrifice: 'Arthur, I will marry you, and I will devote my life to saving you.'"

"Oh, look here, Lillias, don't pile it up quite so high as that. We are neither of us in a cheap novel, and the style doesn't quite suit you. You're a lot too good, and sensible, and sweet for that sort of thing, and, besides, I don't think that I've done anything to deserve being chaffed."

"I am not chaffing you, Arthur," she continued, more seriously than before. "On the contrary, I mean quite earnestly every word that I've said. I was widowed now. A woman who has been married, not very happily, perhaps, but still married, and, therefore, with a knowledge of the world that only marriage can give; and it is just because I have got that knowledge that I am not going to do as the young lady in the novel would."

"Then," he exclaimed, getting up out of his chair, and going across the little drawing-room to the side of her chair, "why have you been saying all this, Lillias, if you don't mean to marry me, after all? I asked you for mercy just now; this doesn't seem very like it, does it?"

She rose and faced him, her eyes shining into his, and her lips smiling in almost irresistible temptation. She put her hands on his shoulders and laughed so softly and sweetly that his shaken nerves shivered.

"I didn't say that I wouldn't marry you, Arthur; but you have said that I— I mean that you—well, yes, you do want saving, don't you? And I am the only one that can do it, as you believe. Now, will you believe in me enough to let me save you first, and marry you afterward?"

He took her by the arms and drew her toward him.

"Yes, Lillias, I should have no faith left in anything in heaven or on earth if I couldn't believe that," he answered fervently. "You are perfectly right. I'm pretty bad, I know, and, of course, if I'm not worth saving, I'm not worth marrying."

"You are worth both saving and marrying," she replied, as she felt his arms go around her, "and, quite between ourselves, I may tell you that I propose to do both."

Home Rule Bill Gets Second Reading.

Two Rejection Motions Will be Made -- Viceroy of India Incapable -- Chelmsford's Recall Demanded--Floods in New England States -- Great Damage Done by Tornado.

MINERS WILL BALLOT.

LONDON, March 29. The mine workers' delegates in conference here, decided to-day upon a ballot of men as to whether the Government's offer of twenty per cent. increase on gross earnings should be accepted or a strike called for the three shillings minimum increase demanded.

HOME RULE BILL UNDER DISCUSSION.

LONDON, March 29. The second reading of the Irish Home Rule Bill was moved in the Commons to-day by Ian Macpherson, Secretary for Ireland, amid an atmosphere of tenseness, but with little evidence of excitement. The Government, fearing Sinn Fein sympathizers might make a demonstration, had caused special guards to be called at Westminster, but their services were not needed. Two motions for the rejection of the Bill have been prepared, one by the Labor Party and the other by Premier Asquith. The Speaker has given precedence to the former. Interest, however, centers upon the proceedings expected to-morrow when Mr. Asquith will speak against the Bill and will be answered by Premier Lloyd George. Explaining the provisions of the bill Mr. Macpherson stated that recent events in Ireland had only strengthened the view that an undivided Ireland was impossible. Referring to the proposal for an Irish Council, which is one of the points in the bill that has been severely attacked, he said the Government was prepared to listen sympathetically to suggestions for improving the Council. The Government, the Secretary declared, had acted magnanimously. Any secession in whole or in part could not be tolerated, it would be suicide, he insisted, for Ireland to be separated from the Empire. Premier Lloyd George announced the appointment of Sir Neville MacCreedy, chief of the Metropolitan Police of London, as military commander in Ireland. The reason persons deported from Ireland are not brought to trial is because it is "impossible to get the necessary evidence" as a result of the terrorism and intimidation in Ireland, the Premier declared. In answer to a question, the Premier said, The Government would not promise to cease deportations from Ireland during discussions of the Irish Home Rule Bill.

FINDING OF INDIAN COMMISSION.

DELHI, Mar. 29. The special commission appointed by the National Congress to inquire into the recent disturbances in the Punjab, finds that General Chelmsford, Viceroy and Governor General for India, incapable of holding high office and demands his recall. The report also demands that General Dwyer, commander of the British troops in India, two Colonials and two Indians named shall be relieved of their offices.

IN THE WAKE OF THE STORM.

LA GRANGE, Ga., Mar. 29. Tornado casualties resulting from the storm which swept this section late yesterday, were placed at fifty dead and a hundred injured. Approximately one hundred houses were destroyed, and property damage is estimated at half a million.

TOLEDO, Ohio, Mar. 29.

Casualties in the storm which swept Toledo and district yesterday afternoon and late last night numbered twenty killed and hundreds injured, as far as could be learned to-day with communication to surrounding points badly injured by fallen wires.

INDIANAPOLIS, Mar. 29.

Fourteen persons are reported to have been killed, scores injured and property damage to the amount of many millions of dollars, as a result of a tornado which swept northern Indiana last night. At West Liberty, Indiana, seven were killed and many injured. Fire following the storm completely wiped out towns.

FLOODS IN NEW ENGLAND.

BOSTON, Mar. 29. Swollen rivers, caused by a thaw in the northern Mill districts, continued to menace bridges and river front property in many cities and towns in New England to-day. Points along the Merrimac and Connecticut rivers and their tributaries reported that water had reached the highest mark in many years.

Ship Raced to Land Duke for Dinner.

LONDON, March 23.—(Canadian Associated Press.)—The Duke of Devonshire arrived in London just in time to preside over the Canada Club's dinner to Sir Auckland Geddes, the new British Ambassador to Washington.

In the course of a speech at the dinner, Right Hon. Walter Long, the head of the Admiralty, remarked that the Imperial Parliament had not only refused to build new vessels, but had actually scrapped glorious ships.

"The time has arrived," continued Mr. Long, "when we should enter into new competition, not in regard to the size of armaments, but into the reduction of armaments. I am a believer in the League of Nations, but we who have great possessions and above all are the real security, for the freedom of the world cannot agree now to abandon all our protective armament."

Sir Auckland Geddes said that if his wife and himself had only followed their own inclinations they would have been back in Canada fully a year ago. He has found himself swept into the stream of public service, the depths of which he very little imagined. He stayed in what he was persuaded, was the necessary service for the state.

Lord Bryce, former Ambassador to Washington, also spoke. The papers here made quite an exciting story of what they called the Duke of Devonshire's race against time, on the Empress of France, by which he was enabled to preside at the dinner to Sir Auckland Geddes.

The Daily Mail talks of consultations on board the ship, of the captain to make it go its best gait, of the piling on of every pound of steam and so on, with the final galling delay by fog, which was nearly fatal to the Duke's hopes. Others content themselves by describing the shipping company's efforts to get the Duke ashore by special tender, and speeding him off to the station in a waiting car just in time to catch the London train.

Capital and Labour.

NATIONAL POLITICAL LEAGUE'S NEW CAMPAIGN.

Lord Morris, formerly Prime Minister of Newfoundland, who presided at a drawing-room meeting of the National Political League at 40, Lowndes-square, last evening, stated that the League was of a strictly non-party character; it was more directly concerned with the general welfare of the people rather than with the interests of any one class or party. During the war the League had devoted itself to practical work for the benefit of the community as a whole, and had achieved the remarkable feat of having placed something like 20,000 women on the land. (Cheers.) The League was now launching out on a new campaign, the purpose of which was to achieve co-operative action amongst all classes of the community with a view to reconciling the discordant elements of Capital and Labour and ensuring a greater measure of safety and progress for the whole country. (Hear, hear.)

If one were guided by the gorgeous shop displays and the lavish expenditure indulged in by their customers one would be tempted to think that Great Britain was never in a sounder financial condition and never more prosperous. But the fact was that while we were importing as largely as ever, we were not manufacturing half as much as we did before the war and not exporting so much. Was it to be wondered at, therefore, that when we were not paying for our imports by our exports the English pound was worth less than 16s. in the United States? It was absolutely necessary that the public should grasp the meaning and portent of these problems, and as a means towards that end the National Political League proposed to start a non-party propaganda throughout the country. (Cheers.)

Some Interesting Correspondence

65 Pennywell Road,
March 29th, 1920.
Editor Evening Telegram

Dear Sir.—Would you please publish the enclosed copies of correspondence with the City Council, with the idea of showing what considerate (?) Citizens we have at the head of City affairs. It seems to be absolutely futile to expect anything from them, and Citizens not only have to put up with annoyances from natural causes, but must submit to nuisances created by the Council in the City Limits.

The accompanying letters have drawn out one response from our City Fathers, therefore, I presume it was beneath their dignity to take any notice of such a straightforward eulogy (?) or it may possibly be, that they have no defense to make to the statements contained therein. But while no official reply has been made, I have been informed verbally by the Secretary, that both the Sanitary Supervisor and his Worship the Mayor, have visited the scene under discussion, and have both reported, they found no cause for complaint. The day on which the visitation was made, was one of the finest during the winter, the sun shining brightly, with a slight breeze from the west, and because no ashes were being blown around it just follow that none blew previously, and therefore, the complaint was without justification.

My protest was made owing to the fact, that ashes and filthy paper were blown from this dump during a North West Gale, therefore, to verify my statement a visit should have been made while a North West Gale was blowing, and not during a slight westerly breeze.

I am not surprised that the Sanitary Supervisor made such a report, because no doubt the condition of this section of the town was not up to his expectations. Owing to the position of this highly intelligent gentleman occupies, no doubt he is often brought in contact with more filthy surroundings than he found here, therefore, he found no reason why others who are not accustomed to such filth should protest. With regard to the Mayor's report, it certainly was not what was expected, but as there are intelligent animals who can be taught almost anything a human knows, there are others of a lower order from whom we expect nothing but a grunt.

But while these intelligent gentlemen found no cause for complaint, the City Engineer, so I have been verbally informed, has reported on the matter and confirmed my statements as to its being a positive nuisance, and a menace to the health of residents of this part of the City, in fact, his statements were much stronger than mine, and condemned the practice in forceful terms, with the result, that Mr. C. P. Ayre representing the Owners of the property, promised to have the nuisance attended to, but to date no steps have been taken, and occasionally a load of refuse is still thrown here.

I do not wish to unnecessarily bother the Owners of the place, seeing it is to be used in a good cause, but unless something is done before the warm weather comes, I will be forced to take the necessary steps as stated in the last paragraph of my letter to the Council. Thanking you for space.

I am,
Yours faithfully,
H. DAWE.

The Municipal Council,
City.

Dear Sirs,—During the Winter you have been making an "Ash Dump" on what is known as "Coady's Premises," Pennywell Road, now owned by the Trustees of the Methodist College. Recently during a northwest gale this section of the road was literally smothered with clouds of ashes and filthy paper from this dump; every time a door or window was opened a shower of dust was blown in the house, in fact, it was blown through windows and doors while closed with storm doors and storm sashes also fastened, such was the force of the wind. The snow for a distance out the road was blackened with filth and ashes, and I, as a resident of this section of the Road, most strongly protest against a recurrence of this nuisance. As long as ashes is being thrown here, we are sure to have the same trouble repeated whenever a northwest gale is blowing, and I feel sure, you only require this matter brought to your notice to have same remedied.

I am,
Yours faithfully,
J. L. SLATTERY,

Trusting you will give this your serious attention, I am,

The Municipal Council,
City.

Dear Sirs,—With further reference to my recent communication re Ash Dump, I would like to point out, that although the matter was referred to the Sanitary Supervisors, no action has been taken. Am I to understand from this that you refuse to have anything to do with it? Is the Sanitary Supervisor responsible for his own actions, or does he take his instructions from the Council? Everybody in this section of the Road is complaining of this nuisance, although none but the writer has made an actual protest. Is it necessary to have a protest signed by every Resident of the Road before you take action? How well either of the City Councilors would like to have an ash dump opposite his dwelling, and every time the wind blew from that direction he was showered with filthy ashes? You certainly have some consideration for the rights and comforts of Citizens to allow this nuisance to continue?

During a recurrence of the nuisance already complained of, Ayre & Sons' Grocery Express delivered goods along this Road with the result, that the parcels were in a filthy condition and the ashes had penetrated the packages, consequently, the groceries are being returned as unfit for use.

If a further occurrence of this nuisance is occasioned through your neglect in attending to this matter, I give you warning that I will take action against you for damages and inconvenience caused thereby. I am,
Yours faithfully,
(Sgd.) H. DAWE.

March 5th, 1920.
Mr. H. Dawe,
65 Pennywell Road.

Dear Sir,—I beg to acknowledge receipt of your letter of 3rd inst., and to state there is nothing new in having a dump on Pennywell Road, as it has been there for many years. Nothing has been received, so far, to warrant the Council in believing that it is a nuisance, in any shape or form. Meanwhile the City Engineer has been asked to investigate the matter.

Yours very truly,
J. L. SLATTERY,
Secretary-Treasurer.

(COPY.)
65 Pennywell Road, City,
March 8th, 1920.
The Municipal Council,
City.
Gentlemen,—I am in receipt of your favour of the 5th instant, and note you wish to convey the idea that the Ash Dump under discussion has been in this locality for many years, and that so far you have received nothing to warrant your belief that it has been a nuisance. That all depends on what proof you require, and whether you consider the statements of others of the same value as your own, in the light of the above statement that this ash dump has been in this locality for many years. I can assure you, that this particular dump came into existence only during the present winter, and since the Premises has been taken over by the Trustees of the Methodist College, I am not aware of the existence of any other dump in the neighbourhood, therefore, in my opinion, you either do not know what you are talking about, or your statement is an absolute falsehood, and certainly does not reflect credit on your standing as trustworthy citizens in control of Civic affairs. Even if it were true, as you state, that a dump has been here for years, is that sufficient justification why the nuisance should be continued to the annoyance of citizens? Because your predecessors in office may have done things not beneficial to the welfare of the City, is that sufficient excuse for your line of conduct during your term of Office? Is that your idea of progressiveness and modern improvement to copy what our forefathers did in prehistoric days?

If citizens go on the outskirts of the City to live in order to get away from the filth of the slums, is it necessary that you collect this filth and deposit same in front of their doors. Have you no consideration at all for the health of your City? You ask us as citizens to co-operate with you in keeping the City clean by cleaning up back yards, etc. Are you doing what you ask others to do in this respect? Part of the dirt deposited in these dumps is probably the sweepings from the dirtiest slums of the City, which when dried to spread by the wind for the benefit of nearby residents. Is that your idea of combating disease and keeping the City healthy? We hear a lot these days of child welfare: Is your method of dealing with this filth conducive to the health of children living in the locality of these ash dumps? In my humble opinion it is quite the opposite.

Since your last Council meeting I have been asked by the Sanitary Supervisor what objection I have to this dump. My objections are plainly set forth. Is it not sufficient cause for objection and protest that I am expected to submit to your filthy way of dealing with refuse of the City? Would Mayor Gosling have any objection to a dump being made on LeMarchant Road opposite his dwelling, and getting the benefit of its contents whenever the wind blew from its direction? Has Mayor Gosling any more rights as a Citizen than I have, because he happens to live on LeMarchant Road. The age of class distinction and autocracy has passed, and the sooner you get this fact in your craniums the better for all concerned.

When I first wrote you in this connection it was in a noncomplaining spirit, as I felt sure that as soon as the matter was brought to your attention you would take steps to have same remedied, either by discontinuing the dump, or scattering and covering the deposits as made, or by screening the ashes before depositing same. But I can see plainly from your indifferent attitude that nothing is to be expected from such fathead Autocrats as some of you appear to be, and who, in my opinion, hold the welfare of the City second in importance to that of your own prominence in Civic life. It is a great disappointment to me to discover such indifference to the health of the City, and utter disregard of the rights of private individuals in such a body of citizens composed of men of the calibre of our amiable physician J. Sinclair Tait, our congenial and affable citizen Mr. I. C. Morris, and our upright, levelheaded, independent citizen Mr. J. J. Mullaly, but it appears to me as if they are all dominated by the superior influence and greater will power of an autocratic Mayor, who like others of his ilk has failed to learn the lesson given autocracy during the past five years.

What, may I ask, is the reason for your persistence in depositing this filth in front of our doors to our inconvenience, annoyance and detriment, especially during the present epidemic of Influenza, when everyone is trying to do all possible to avoid contracting this disease? Are you so disinterested in and indifferent to the health of citizens that you ignore my request in this connection with such despicable callousness? It is quite bad enough to be forced to wade ankle deep in mud when crossing Water Street in the Spring, or being blinded and choked with dust when this mud is dried and blown about by the wind during the Summer, but to be subjected to this filthy nuisance during the time the ground is covered with snow, when everything is supposed to be clean, is, to my mind, past ordinary human endurance, and instead of the City Authorities being the protectors, they are actually the perpetrators of this outrage.

For your information I beg to advise you, that unless the depositing of this filth is immediately discontinued, I will institute proceedings against the guilty parties, whether you or the owners of the Property on which the dump is located, to secure an injunction against you for the discontinuance of this nuisance.

Yours very truly,
(Sgd.) H. DAWE.

Every girl who has the intention of getting married should first learn how to cook. Man likes well cooked and well-prepared dinners; and if they are not forthcoming he has a habit of showing his displeasure which may well bring tears to the well-meaning, but inexperienced young wife.

After all, cooking should be looked upon as a hobby, rather than a task. Is there not a real pleasure in concocting new dishes, or even in cooking a steak or chop perfectly.

Even the girl most ignorant on the subject, by dint of following with perseverance a course of cookery instructions, may, in the course of a little time, develop into an excellent cook.

HOW CAN THEY?

How can people be so careless about showing in small ways traits of character which, if they stopped to think, they would realize might prejudice people against them in relation to much larger matters.

Here's the sort of thing I meant! The Authorman loaned some magazines and books last winter to a young friend, at her request. He told her that one of the books he would want to use in his work the next week, but that he would be delighted to have her keep it until she was through with them, as the only further use he had was to loan them to other friends who were not in any great hurry.

She Was a Ready Promiser.
 She thanked him most effusively and declared she wouldn't keep the book more than two days, as she could easily read it through in that time, and that she would have the magazines back in a week or two at most.

time she was to take the room, she suddenly changed her mind on a whim and wrote and cancelled the reservation. Naturally, that put the business man who had used his influence to have the best accommodations reserved for her for a two weeks' stay in the busiest month in the year, in an uncomfortable position. Later, when he was appealed to to use his influence in getting her a start in the business world, he, like the Authorman, did not feel that he could recommend so undependable a personality.

When he got ready to use the book it had not come back and he had to stop his work and go around and get it. The magazines were gone for 10 weeks, and then the girl's mother brought them back.

Now of course many people are careless about such matters, but here is the notable thing about this particular case—this girl is much interested in editorial work and wants to get an opening to do something of the sort. The Authorman, who knows quite a few editors, had promised to be on the lookout for some such work.

THE PARIAR.

Before the drums of war were still, I hated all things Hunnish; I hoped some day we'd get old Bill, and most severely punish him. I'm not a fierce, blood-thirsty hard, and yet I hoped the Kaiser some morning might be tried in lard, if boiling were not wiser. But now he will not face the law, the news department hollers; he will not meet the judge and draw ten days nor yet ten dollars. And as for me, I care no hoot that he's not in the cooler; I would not lend a gun to shoot that poor old daff ex-ruler. The glory that was one time his has with his dreams departed; and now he weeps and sighs, "Gee whiz!" an outcast, broken hearted. We cannot punish him so much by hanging or by burning, as he is punished where the Dutch behold him weeping, yearning. I'd rather forty times be dead than lead old Bill's existence, with all of peace and honor sped into the purple distance. And so I view not with alarm, no depths of grief I'm plumb-ing, when told that Justice will not harm or hand him what is coming.

Carrot marmalade can be made with 2 cups of ground carrot, 2 lemons, sliced, and 2 tablespoonfuls of ground ginger root, with 1½ cups sugar.

Just Folks

THE BOOK OF ACCOMPLISHMENT.
 When you've written your deeds on the ledger of life
 And the styles shall fall from your hand,
 When your brief tasks are done and night shuts out the sun,
 And all that you've graven must stand,
 Think you that in pride you shall pass up the saved
 And open it wide for the Master to read?

When the last line is cut on the stone of your years
 And there's no new to-morrow to write,
 When you can't make amends for the hurt to your friends
 Or blot out a blunder from sight,
 Do you think you'll be proud to step forward to show
 Your book of accomplishment written below?

Suppose that your book should be finished to-day,
 What most would the ledger disclose?
 Would the Great Master find enough deeds that were kind
 To balance the sham and the pose?
 God knows there are great deeds you're eager to write—
 But what if your record should end with to-night?

He shall know as he looks on each pitiful smudge,
 Of our failures and blunderings here;
 But still, as he reads the great sum of the deeds,
 The humblest of men need not fear,
 If the Master shall find, as he looks his life through,
 That he lived to his best and he tried to be true.

Essex,

THE CAR OF THE FUTURE.

Even though you may have never ridden in the ESSEX, you must have heard of its qualities that make it a favorite with both those who have owned light weight economical cars and those who use large costly automobiles. The reason is readily understood. It lies in the fact that ESSEX combines the advantages of both. It is light in weight, moderate in cost and economical in maintenance and operation. Those are the advantages of cars of its weight class. But it also is finely finished. Its endurance matches the costliest cars. In performance very few excel it in either speed, acceleration, nimbleness or hill climbing.

Why not get acquainted with the ESSEX now?

Size and Behaviour of the Hens.

The bird that is of medium size for its breed is usually most likely to suit the purpose than any other. As regards behaviour the choice should fall upon those that are the most active. It is the alert and busy bird that usually lays the most eggs; the one that is always engaging in scratching exercise in the litter on the floor of the house, or that never tires of foraging far afield if given the opportunity. The good layer begins to hunt for food early in the morning, and continues the quest after the more lethargic fowls have sought the roost in the evening. The general appearance of a likely layer is suggestive of a wedge, with the slope from the front to the back. The high carriage of the tail is a good indication and is suggestive of alertness. The head should have a fine-drawn appearance, being narrow rather than broad, with a bright, sharp, projecting eye, and a relatively small comb. This type of head should carry a short beak, and be set on a short neck that has no undue thickness. The breast-bone must also be short, but length of back—with a fair width over the wings—is required. The legs should be short, and set rather wide apart. Another important indication of the probable laying powers of a fowl, and one that has received an increasing amount of attention recently, is the distance between the base of the breast-bone and the pelvic bones. To ascertain this the bird must, of course, be handled for examination. Mr. Tom Barron, the well-known Lancashire breeder, gives it as his experience that it should be possible to get the width of four fingers between the breast-bone and the pelvic bones of a first-class layer. The accuracy of testing capabilities by this method must, however, necessarily depend upon a good deal of practice. It is worth while trying it to see how far the indications accord with the points that appeal to the eye. Skill in selection along the lines suggested will come with experience.

Long Sermons.

A SOLEMN WARNING.
 (Manchester Guardian.)

On the subject of long sermons Mark Twain once told a story to illustrate how he was affected by one. He was present, he said, at a charity service conducted by a most eloquent preacher. The appeal for funds went to everyone's heart, and Mark Twain himself was so touched that he simply fished for the plate to come round in order that he might give the four hundred dollars he had in his pocket and borrow more to put to it. But the preacher went on and on, and the air grew hotter, he grew sleepier and his enthusiasm went down a hundred dollars at a time till at last, when the plate reached him, he stole ten cents out of it.

Daylight Saving;
Its Origin.

"The clocks were pushed ahead in London, one hour, at 2 o'clock this morning, in keeping with the Daylight Saving Scheme," read a message to the Press from London, dated March 28 (Sunday). When first the Daylight Saving Scheme was mooted, it was almost universally received with ridicule and laughter and was the special butt of all the comic and humorous papers on both sides of the Atlantic. But it has won its own fame, has beaten down all opposition, excepting in certain small local centres—and this applies to Newfoundland as well as to other sections: has been deemed of sufficient importance to be given the attention of numerous legislatures, becoming the established law of many lands, and to-day is of such world-wide interest that it is given a special paragraph in the Press despatches coming from the world's capital. Originally an experiment, it is now a statutory Act of the principal countries of Europe and America.

In Newfoundland, too, it was considered of such moment as to occupy the attention of both branches of the Legislature, and at the session of 1918, the Daylight Bill was passed by a practically unanimous vote. To give the measure its proper local title, it is "An Act respecting certain changes in hours of the day and night," and provides that "on the first Sunday in May, in each and every future year (from 1918) the hour of ten o'clock in the evening shall become the hour of eleven o'clock of the same evening, and time shall so continue till the first Sunday in October, when the hour of eleven o'clock shall become the hour of ten o'clock, and time shall thereafter run on as at present from day to day. This time to be called 'Newfoundland Time,' and all legal engagements referring to time shall be held to refer to 'Newfoundland Time.' It would be discourteous, if in referring to this enactment, due credit were omitted from being given the one man, who more than any other, worked both by tongue and pen, in the Press and on the platform for the passage of this measure and who was eventually its sponsor in the Legislative Council, and primarily responsible for its becoming one of—and not the least important—statutory Acts of Newfoundland. To Hon. John Anderson, then, we apply the meritorious phrase of the Latin writer, 'Palmas qui merui ferat.'"

The Boston Herald, discussing this subject under the heading—the plural will be noted—"Origins of Daylight Saving," becomes quite illuminating, and carries its researches into history back for more than a century, allowing the claim of Benjamin Franklin as the original advocate in favor of the innovation. No matter to whom the actual honor belongs, the Daylight Saving Bill, simple in operation as it is, has conferred much benefit upon the peoples of the countries adopting it. The article referred to is printed beneath:

"It was in April, 1784, that a daylight saving law was first enacted in Germany—an example that was quickly followed in Great Britain, France, Holland, Austria, Turkey, Italy, Switzerland and other European countries. May 1st was originally the day chosen for making the change, which continued until Oct. 1, but the next year, the change was made in March; and when, in 1918, the United States embarked on the experiment, the lengthened day ran from the last Sunday in March to the last Sunday in October—a precedent that is followed in the Bill now pending in our Legislature. Like many innovations, the plan of daylight saving was slow in making its way. A booklet urging the change, and entitled 'Waste of Daylight,' appeared in England in 1907, and in 1908 a daylight saving bill was introduced in the British House of Commons, but came to nothing. It was the stress of the great war, and the need of saving coal, gas and electric lights that hastened the adoption of the change. Our own Benjamin Franklin, nearly a century and a half ago, first called attention to the need of a change in this direction—although the suggestion, naturally, took a different form. He was in Paris in April, 1784, when he found himself awakened by a flood of sunlight one morning at 6 o'clock; and, following his natural impulse, he fell to computing what the waste of the early morning hours involved, and he figured that, in Paris alone, more than a hundred million francs was spent needlessly every year for 'beeswax and tallow'—which were then the world's illuminants. The reform which he suggested was to have the chimes all sound at sunrise, and, if necessary, to have salutes of artillery fired in the streets—this, presumably, for the benefit of heavy sleepers. But modern methods and appliances achieve a more quiet and universal inauguration of the reform than Franklin had in view."

President Reid Outlines Development Plans.

BIG INDUSTRIES MAY RESULT.
Montreal, March 29th, 1920.—Mr. H. D. Reid who has been President of the Reid Newfoundland Railway for the past two years gave out an interesting statement last evening just previous to his departure for St. John's, Newfoundland, accompanied by Mrs. Reid, intimating that the progressive policy of the Company would be in keeping with present prosperous times in the Dominion of Newfoundland.

Among other improvements will be a half million dollar up to date hotel overlooking the harbor and supplying not only the tourists from Great Britain, Canada and the United States. The plans already prepared are of massive structure yet of artistic design. This hotel will be built during the coming summer, and while it will be promoted by the Reid Newfoundland Company, local interests will also be largely represented in the enterprise.

The President stated that his brother, Mr. R. G. Reid, Vice-President of the Company was at present in London, England, looking after the replacing of their two lost steamers, namely, the "Ethie" and "Dundee" of the Company's coastal service and that the new boats would be in commission by the first of May.

Mr. Reid further stated that the important cold storage plant which they had established during the war in order to supply frozen fish for the British Army had now been reorganized with strong British connections and the plant will be used to put up large quantities of smoked fish of all kinds to be shipped abroad where the demand is practically unlimited.

Another announcement of interest from the President was to the effect that Mr. Henry B. Thomson, late Chairman of the Canada Food Board and a member of the London Trade Commission, had become associated with the Reid Newfoundland Company and that his duties would be to promote the development of the Company's lands, etc.

Mr. Reid expressed the opinion that Mr. Thomson is one of the ablest men in the country and that the acquisition of such an experienced and energetic man would be of the greatest benefit, not only to the Company but to the general development of the Dominion of Newfoundland.

Mr. Thomson, he explained, would work in connection with the Natural Resources Department of the Company which was formed two years ago, when Mr. H. D. Reid took over the presidency of the Company, and which is most efficiently managed by Mr. John M. Forbes, so that now the Company's very valuable pulp and water power holdings can be placed before capitalists and all those interested in the general development of the new Dominion.

In conclusion Mr. Reid stated that Newfoundland is highly prosperous and the financial situation sound. The Dominion last year he said had a surplus of over $2,000,000, and the President is of the opinion that by the end of the present fiscal year the surplus will be quite as large as last year.

The late Sir Robert G. Reid went to Newfoundland thirty years ago following the completion of several extensive railway contracts on the C. P.R. and other roads, and the present Reid Newfoundland Company was organized in 1901 by him.

Sealing Outlook More Promising.

As will be seen from the sealing messages following, the seal-hunt has taken on a more optimistic aspect, and there is hope that the season will not turn out such a blank as originally feared. The Thetis, one of Job's steamers, on Monday panned 4,000 whitecoats, whose presence may be taken as a sign of the comparative proximity of the main patch. The ice in which ships were jammed has been now broken up, the swell having accomplished this wished-for end, and the rest, as regards movements, is plain sailing.

Vocational Training for Veterans.

Applications for Re-training Courses Not Diminishing—Forty Considered Last Meeting.
Hon. J. M. Kent presided over the last session of the Civil Re-establishment Committee, when some 40 applications for courses in re-training were considered, and 30 granted; 15 extensions in courses were also allowed.

The full Committee was present, and the report of the sub-committee on the agricultural scheme and land settlement question was read and fully discussed. The idea outlined by the sub-committee and submitted to the Minister of Agriculture and Mines appears elsewhere in these columns.

The employment report showed that 16 men had been placed in positions during the past week; the Royal Stores, A. E. Hickman, Co., Job Bros., Ayre and Sons, Harvey & Co., and the Reid Newfoundland Co., being the employers who found vacancies for some of the veterans listed. 96 men are still out of work.

This evening the Men's Bible Class will hold the annual meeting at 8.30 o'clock, when a supper will be served to the members of the Class.

Drowned at Burnt Point.

The little son of Mr. Ishmael Tucker of Burnt Pt., B.D.V., was drowned in a nearby pond on Saturday, according to a message received yesterday by Mr. Jesse Whiteaway. The body was recovered.

George Street A. B. C.

The session on Sunday afternoon was the closing one in the contest between the Red and Blue Divisions, the latter coming in victorious by sixty and a half points. Capt. "Jack" Fowler was heartily congratulated by the contest manager, C. F. Scott, and members of the losing division. The average attendance during the contest was about ninety. The address by the Associate Teacher, Mr. I. C. Morris, was very interesting as well as instructive. He urged upon the members the necessity of taking a deeper interest in St. John's, "our city." Time did not permit him to give a full account of his tour through the States and Canada, but it is hoped he will do so at some later session. While away he spoke to several large Bible Classes, all of which sent greetings to George Street, the oldest in the Dominion. Next week the annual meeting will be held, after which arrangements for the banquet will be finalized. The social committee are making arrangements for a concert to be held during the Easter season. The yearly "At Home" will be held at a later date.

Cochrane Street
Centennial Church.

The service last evening was conducted by Rev. D. B. Hemmeon, who took as his subject "The Cleansing of the Temple," and spoke some timely words which were listened to with profit by the people of whom there was a goodly attendance. The Rev. Gordon Dickie is the speaker for this evening. Services commence promptly at a quarter to 8, and last for one hour only. The Choir are requested to be in their places again this evening.

GOOD FRIDAY.
Through the medium of our daily press we are inviting the public of St. John's to attend a "Day at the Cross" conducted by Colonel and Mrs. Martin, on Good Friday. Remember the hour and place, 11 a.m. and 3 p.m. at the Salvation Army Citadel, Adelaide Street, at night beginning at 7 o'clock in the No. 1 Citadel, New Gower Street. Come one and all to pray for the welfare of our Dominion.

Ice Doesn't Melt—It Sinks.

Many of the suburban ponds are now open—an unusual thing at this time of year. Yesterday the nearby three-foot-thick sheet of ice on Long Pond sank from view. The mild weather of the past few days waterlogged the ice, which consequently lost its buoyancy. Contrary to popular opinion the ice on ponds does not always melt or break up. Very often it becomes waterlogged and, losing its buoyancy, sinks to the bottom, where it remains long after all other snow and ice have disappeared. This, to some degree, will explain why the water of ponds retains its low temperature so late into the summer season. This, to youths and others who enjoy a dip in the nearby waters, should prove interesting.

Drowned at Wabana.

The body of Margaret Ivany, wife of Elias Ivany, blacksmith, was found in a pond at Wabana yesterday, according to a message received by the Inspector General. The unfortunate woman had been ill for about eighteen months and is believed to have suicided. Three sons and two daughters, besides the husband, survive her.

Patriotic Association.

A meeting of the Patriotic Association was held in the Board of Trade Rooms last night. His Excellency the Governor presiding. Following the reading of the minutes of last meeting Mr. J. Browning enquired as to the preservation of the records of our fighting forces—and was informed that these are in the hands of the Militia Department. A communication was read from Deputy Col. Secretary Mews that the request of the Patriotic Fund for the extension of powers in dealing with needy cases would be brought before the Executive Government as soon as possible. On motion of Mayor Gosling, seconded by Judge Morris, the general report presented at the previous meeting, was adopted with some amendments. Mr. L. E. Emerson, Secretary of the War History Committee reported that they had made little progress in their work owing to arrangements previously made having been cancelled by the Government. The committee is now without power or finances.

The importance of having the achievements of our fighting forces recorded accurately and in suitable form was emphasized by the Chairman, Mr. J. W. Withers, Judge Morris, Mr. J. A. Clift, Dr. Blackall, Lieut.-Col. Bernard, Sir Wm. Lloyd and Dr. Robinson, the suggestion also being made that the work be compiled by one, such as Lt.-Col. Bernard, who had been closely in touch with the Regiment from the first. A resolution proposed by Dr. Blackall and seconded by Judge Morris was passed to the effect that the War History Committee and War Veterans' Executive cooperate and confer with the Government as to forwarding the work.

Mr. J. A. Clift, K.C., was elected Vice-Chairman of the Association in succession to Sir Jos. Outerbridge, who has retired. Mr. J. Browning moved that pending permanent arrangements for the preservation of the war records, they be kept in fire proof vaults as a protection against fire. The motion was seconded by Lt.-Col. Bernard, supported by Mr. J. A. Clift, Dr. Blackall and Dr. Robinson and passed. Mr. Gosling, Chairman of the War Memorial Committee, reported the memorial and nothing further could be done till a reply is received. The meeting closed at 10.30 with the National Anthem.

To-day's Messages.

SATISFACTORY TO NONE.

LONDON, March 29.

John R. Clynes, Labor member for Manchester Northeast, and who was a member of the parliamentary group which early in the year visited Ireland, to investigate conditions there, in moving the rejection of the Home Rule Bill in the House of Commons to-day, referred to the effect, on British American relations, of the present system of Government in Ireland, of imprisonment and deportation without redress. Mr. Clynes declared that the Bill had been accepted by few, and approved by none of what he termed the undue tenderness the Bill displayed toward Ulster, and the proposal to partition Ireland on a religious basis. Lord Robert Cecil, former assistant Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, agreed that it was a very bad bill without an atom of Irish opinion behind it, and lacking in Irish approval. He said he failed to see how it would conciliate American opinion. If that were the object of British policy he declared that British would get the respect and affection of the American people "not of politicians, or of the people who governed as a trained body in the Senate," if Great Britain did the right thing from the view point of justice and good administration and left American opinion to follow and understand what our actions mean. Lord Robert added that the Bill would not restore order in Ireland and he declared it was fantastic nonsense to force a scheme of self government on a country that utterly rejects it.

FALCONS ARE CHAMPIONS.

TORONTO, March 29.

The Falcons of Winnipeg are the amateur hockey champions of Canada, and will represent the Dominion at Antwerp next month. To-night they defeated the University of Toronto by three goals to two, which gave them a lead on the two game series of 11 to 5.

ENTIRELY INADEQUATE.

WASHINGTON, Mar. 29.

The United States Navy submarine equipment, during the war, was entirely inadequate. Admiral A. W. Grant, formerly in command of the Atlantic Fleet's submarine force, testified to-day before the Senate Committee investigating U. S. Navy's part in the war.

COWARDLY ASSASSIN.

MONTREAL, Mar. 29.

The Star to-night publishes the following Dublin cable: "Thomas Dwyer was called from his home at Thurles early to-day by an armed party, and was shot to death. The circumstances of his murder was almost identical with those in the murder of James MacCarthy, Sinn Fein leader, who was shot and killed in the bedroom of his home at Thurles Saturday. The Dwyer murder was believed to be another proof of the belief that two rival murder societies were warring upon sympathizers of Sinn Fein and the British Government throughout Ireland."

DEATH LIST INCREASING.

CHICAGO, Mar. 29.

The death list of the Palm Sunday tornado, that swept sections of eight states, to-night stood at 160. Telegraph and telephone service with many isolated communities in the middle west had only been partly restored to-night, and indications were that the toll of death and destruction would be augmented. The property loss in the Chicago area alone was estimated at $5,000,000, while in the other states affected the material loss was large. Elgin, Illinois, suffered the heaviest property loss, the damage there being $4,000,000. Illinois was the hardest hit of the central states with 50 dead, more than 1000 injured, and two thousand made homeless.

STAGGERING FIGURES.

PARIS, Mar. 29.

Frederic Francois Marsal, Minister of Finance, speaking in the Chamber of Deputies to-day said the daily expenditure of France was forty-one million francs in 1914, sixty-eight million francs in 1915, eighty-two million francs in 1916, one hundred and four million francs in 1917, 127,000,000 francs in 1918, and 159,000,000 francs in 1919. The Minister gave the total expenses for 1920 as 50,952,000,000.

CHANGE IN IRISH POLICY.

LONDON, March 29.

The appointment of Sir Neville MacCreedy, Chief of the Metropolitan Police, as military commander in Ireland, foreshadows a change in the Irish policy of the British Government, according to the Daily Mail. The Government intends to abolish some of the vexatious restrictions, the Mail says, and in that respect the new regime will be more tolerant. At the same time the new administration will be empowered to obtain greater efficiency for police service in Ireland.

Summary of Home and Foreign News.

HORSEA, Mar. 30.

Following this meeting which was held by the Government last night to consider coal miners demands, the executive had a further interview with the Premier this morning, when an opening offer was made by the Premier on behalf of the Government. The new proposal is a twenty per cent. advance upon gross earnings, excluding special increases granted during and since war, with guaranteed minimum rates of two shillings per day for men, one shilling for youths between sixteen and eighteen, and nine pence for boys under sixteen. The original demands of the miners were for three shillings per day for men, and one and sixpence for boys. In the afternoon the new offer was submitted to conference of the miners delegates, when conference decided to have a ballot of the individual miners as to whether the Government offer should be accepted or a strike should be declared. The ballot is returnable by April fourteenth, and the result will be declared on the following day. Moderate leaders expect victory for the policy of no strike.

CROWD ATTEND AUCTION.

At the Auction Sale of unclaimed goods held by Messrs. Dowden and Edwards to-day, so great was the crush that the sale had to be discontinued indoors and held in the open.

Grand Sacred Concert.

The united choirs of the R. C. Churches are now practicing for a Sacred Concert to be held in the R. C. Cathedral some time next month. The united choir will consist of nearly 300 voices, the largest choir ever assembled here. The Church choirs taking part are, Cathedral, St. Thomas's, St. Mary's, St. Michael's, R. C. Cathedral, St. Patrick's, St. Joseph's, Cochrane St. Gower St., George St., Wesley, St. Andrew's and Congregational. A practice was held in the C.C.C. Hall last night, Mr. Charles Hutton being conductor. The proceeds will be used to defray expenses in connection with the organ in the R. C. Cathedral. Five choruses have been prepared as follows: "The Heavens are Telling," "The Marvellous Work" from "The Creation," "Worthy is the Lamb" and the "Hallelujah Chorus" from "The Messiah," "The Infamatus Est" from "Rossinis Stabat Mater." There will also be sacred solos, duets, trios, and some leading artists. In the year of 1893, a somewhat similar concert was held but only about 150 people took part.

Novel Distribution.

For some time past the detective force have been shadowing a West End man who was suspected of violating the prohibition law. Of late this man was noticed to be getting rather corpulent. The police having an idea that it was not from the result of over-eating, a strict watch was kept. Yesterday the house of this man was visited and in a search the result of this artificial distention was disclosed. A large tin (like a curie-cut tobacco tin), measuring 1 inch thick by 12 inches square made to shape to fit snugly on the person, was seized. This tin which holds one gallon was used to carry moonshine which it is thought was delivered to various customers. The police have not ceased their efforts and in a day or so may bring other interesting facts to light. The workmanship and skill used in making this latest aid to illegal selling, is of a high order. (For useful inventions, Newfoundlanders can't be beaten.)

A Reasonable View. The city lies as much exercised over the present unsatisfactory working of the Prohibition Law. Both the Prohibitionists and Antis have held meetings on the subject and quite a discussion is going on in the newspapers. The moderates are in favor of improvement in the present law and would like to have some new regulation, presumably favoring the Swedish system. The Prohibitionists are also for improvement, but want the law amended so as to do away to a large extent with the evils that result from the law as it now stands. The Prohibitionists seem to take the position that all who hold that the present law is not a good one are against Prohibition. A very extreme view, and one that is not borne out by fact. There are many teetotalers, and scores of moderate drinkers, who do not hesitate to say that the Prohibition laws have proven unworkable and are not what they were expected to be. There are thousands of people in the Dominion to-day who voted for Prohibition who would reverse their vote if it were to stand in its present form. No one wants the open bar. The abuse reported about the issuing of scripts by some of our medical men, is sufficient for hundreds to hesitate in adding their help to such an unfair and unjust use of the privileges granted in the Prohibition law.—Hr. Grace Standard.

One Real Joy Ride.

Just before the first event at the balloon circus at Arcadia the other day, a rancher addressed Lieutenant Colonel Mygatt, saying:

"You're one of them government fellows, can you tell me if I can buy one of them war-tanks, now that the fight's over?"

"What in the world do you want a tank for?" demanded the astonished officer.

"Well, it's this way," explained the rancher, "I'm tired of these here road hogs in their big machine crowdin' my flivver off into the ditches, an' I'd be willin' to pay good money just to jog down the road a piece in one of them tanks, just to see what would happen."—Los Angeles Times.

Deo Gratias.

The city official, of an aristocratic western city during the recent "flu" epidemic placed a ban upon all public gatherings. Both theatre and church assemblies suffered as a result.

On the bulletin of a fashionable church it had been a custom to display a suitable text beneath the announcements of the week.

Near the end of the quarantine the usual announcement, "No Services Sunday," appeared, and to the amusement of passers-by and to the consternation of the church members it was supplemented by the text "Be Ye Thankful."

MINARD'S LINIMENT CURES GAGGET IN COWS.

The Amateur Golfer.

She was a distinctly attractive young woman, essentially feminine, and, as such, infinitely more alluring than the majority of the ladies who patronised that shop; for at the shop in question only were sold things appertaining to sport and virile, vigorous recreation. The girl's frailty seemed quite out of keeping with her surroundings, but very pleasing—at all events to the assistant who hastened forward to serve her.

"Yes," she said, in reply to his preliminary inquiry: "I want some golf-clubs."

"Golf-clubs. Certainly! And what clubs are you requiring?" The girl looked thoughtful.

"Really," she cooed softly, "I don't know. You see, I'm quite a beginner, and am not sure that I even remember which end of the caddie to use!"

What the Boy Thought.

The afternoon was very hot. So, too, was the bishop. And not only was he hot, he was also very tired, for he had spent the day making visits in the slums. And "slumming," as even he—the bishop—had discovered, is aught but the ideal amusement for summer weather.

However, his labours now over, he set about to return to the peace and comfort of his palace; and, with his object in view, accosted a small urchin whom he met loafing along the street.

"Can you," inquired the right reverend gentleman, "direct me to the nearest railway-station, my boy?"

"Keep straight on," replied the lad, "and take the first turning to the left." Then, eyeing curiously the episcopal gaiters—obviously he knew but little of the ways and habitments of bishops—"What's up, gov'nor?" he added. "Somebody pinched yer bike?"

The Real Thing.

A distinguished Indian officer, Scotch to the core, has never lost an opportunity of advertising his countrymen. One evening at mess he had a large number of guests, and had a magnificent specimen of a Highland piper on duty behind his chair. To draw attention to the man's splendid appearance he turned to him and said:

"What part of Scotland do you come from, my man?"

With a punctilious salute the reply came, "Tipperary, yer honour!"

Consumers' League Proposed.

MEETING TO BE CALLED SHORTLY.

Protection from Profiteering the Object.

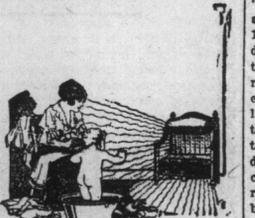

The opinion that a lot of profiteering is going on in our midst, the ineffectual efforts of the Food Control Board, coupled with the ever-increasing price of necessaries have led to a movement for the organization of a Consumers' League. This League was suggested at a recent public meeting, and has since gathered considerable force. The idea of those behind the movement, is to have competent men outside of trade, trade interests and politics, form a committee which may co-operate with the present Food Control Board, which as a body is thought to be without sufficient support. Housewives, being the principal buyers, will also be asked to interest themselves in the movement and will have much important work to do. A vigilance committee, which will watch and compare prices, charged in the different stores, reporting same to the central organization, will form an effective branch of the League. The central committee will investigate costs in foreign markets, transportation charges, and profits made. A drastic and effectual law against profiteering with the cutting out of luxuries will also receive its consideration. It is asserted that there is to be found as much as 100% difference in prices charged in city stores for like articles. It is also said that there are business people here who have within the past two years accumulated fortunes at the expense of the public. Instances of people with small capital, banking from $10,000 to $20,000 in a very short period, are not wanting. The greatest grievance seems to be in the matter of dry goods and millinery, these articles, except to the experienced, are known as "blind," and therefore more likely to be "surcharged" than groceries or provisions. A meeting of those interested in the movement will likely be called in a few days.

Young-Adams Co. at Casino Theatre.

Having played a three weeks engagement in St. John, N.B., endorsed by both press and public, the Young-Adams Company will open their initial engagement in St. John's on Monday night, with "The Butterfly on the Wheel," a high class society drama, with the scenes laid in Paris and London. This excellent company, headed by Mrs. H. Wilmet Young and Miss Marjle Adams, surrounded by an excellent cast, have met with favor wherever they have appeared, and are regarded as one of the best repertoire Company's travelling in Canada. The "Butterfly on the Wheel" has a most interesting plot, full of dramatic situations appealing to the heart throbs, and the merciless prosecution of a defenceless woman by a relentless prosecuting attorney in a sensational court scene, makes the story better than a sermon. Miss Marjle Adams, as Peggy Adams in the social "Butterfly" has a difficult role to portray, from the lighter view of comedy to the distracted emotion of the falsely accused wife, while Sir Robert Frye, K.C. (Mr. Young) the prosecuting attorney plays the part with splendid vigor and distinction. Among the plays to be presented are, "The Gamblers," "Trail of the Lonesome Pine," "Little Peggy O'Moore," "The Marriage Question," "All of a Sudden Peggy," and "Wanted a Wife." Each production will be staged with elaborate scenic equipment, and the demand for seats is already large.

To Hold a Re-Union.

The Faculty and students of Mount Allison University are planning to invite all graduates and former students to come to a general re-union in the closing days of the University year. It is hoped that a large number may arrange to be present, especially of "returned men," to greet each other and their old friends. May 17, 18 and 19 are the dates arranged. On these days there will be held, in addition to the University Convocation and the regular events of "Closing," special exercises and class re-unions. The last of the days is the most desirable to choose, if anyone finds it impossible to come for the earlier two, as on that day, in addition to the University convocation, there will be a special re-union gathering and an Alumni banquet.

An Irish Bull.

One of the best double-barrelled bulls is credited to an Irish member, who, complaining of the over-taxation of his country, "If you put the hon. members on an uninhabited island, they would not be there twenty-four hours before they had their hands in the pockets of the naked savages."

Something in Heredity.

The doctrine of Free Will is all very well and very necessary up to a certain point, but the fact remains that our inclinations and destinies are to a considerable extent shaped by our forefathers. It is useless to deny the influence of heredity, even as it is impossible to deny the influence of environment. As a sample of heredity the story is told of a dissolute woman named Jukes, who was born in 1740, in the country now called the United States. She died a confirmed drunkard and some years ago there was a census made of her descendants then living and a history obtained of both the living and the dead. Of her seven hundred descendants—100 were illegitimate; 181 were women of the streets; 142 beggars; 4 were workhouse inmates and 76 criminals, from murderers to pickpockets. It is estimated that it cost the nation all told, $1,200,000 to take care of this bad woman's descendants.

On the other side there is the story of a great preacher and his excellent wife. In the year 1900 there had been 1,399 descendants of this family traced and identified. Of these 295 were college graduates, 13 were college presidents, 63 professors, 60 physicians, 108 clergymen, 101 lawyers, 30 judges (one a vice-president of the United States), 75 army and navy officers, 60 prominent authors, and 16 railroad and steamship presidents.

It certainly pays to have good ancestors.—Acadian Recorder.

Why Men Go Wrong.

(From the Argonaut.)
A certain young rector just before the service was called to the vestibule to meet a couple who wanted to be married. He explained that there wasn't time for the ceremony then. "But," said he, "if you will be seated I will give an opportunity at the end of the service for you to come forward, and I will then perform the ceremony." The couple agreed, and at the proper moment the clergyman said:—"Will those who wish to be united in the holy bonds of matrimony please come forward?" Whereupon thirteen women and one man proceeded to the altar.

Premier Lloyd George's Political Future.

London, March 23.—J. L. Garvin, discussing on The Observer, Premier Lloyd George's political future, says that the premier is convinced that with better organization for the coalition, the recent course of the by-elections could be reversed and if the confidence of the country were so demonstrated the Premier would prefer to postpone the dissolution for a couple of sessions. He would then appeal to the country with the biggest program of achieved work behind him that any parliament has ever accomplished and with an equally strong program for the future.

Mr. Garvin, discussing what the unionists are prepared to do to help the Premier to carry Liberal opinion, thinks the crux will come on licensing matters. He urges Unionists to concede local opinion, which does not mean "Pussyfootism."

"Missionary Hypocrisy."

Dr. Grenfell Replies to Capt. Lanning.

"Still as of old man by himself is proud; For thirty pieces Judas sold himself, not Christ."

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Mr. Editor—I have just received a copy of your paper containing a long article entitled "Missionary Hypocrisy," by Capt. Lanning. May I ask you in fairness to kindly publish this reply, as Capt. Lanning is either unacquainted with the facts, or intentionally is misrepresenting our work.

To begin with (1) we are not a religious mission imposing itself on a strange country as he suggests; nor do the Christian Churches and their missionary efforts need any defence from me. We call ourselves an Association, our gospel is a social one, and our workers are everyone laymen. They would all like to be worthy of the title Christian. Some have been Roman Catholic, some Anglican, some Methodist, some Presbyterian. Church affiliation we consider a personal matter. The credentials we regard most are qualifications for our respective jobs. Personally I have no more claim to the title missionary than Capt. Lanning when he went to fight for peace in France.

(2) It was at the request of some residents of St. John's and partly at the expense of the Rt. Hon. Lord Southborough that I sailed from England for Labrador in 1892. I had not the slightest intention of remaining and I returned to England in the fall. During that winter, however, an invitation to return and erect two hospitals on the Labrador coast, and to run and raise the money for maintaining them was sent to our Council. It was signed by His Excellency the Governor, the Leaders of the Government and Opposition, the Chief Justice, the principal merchants and the larger fish planters. In response we secured two additional doctors and nurses and agreed to try and finance the enterprise (Newfoundland offering to help us) and returned as soon as navigation opened in 1893.

Fishermen Responsible.

(3) The fishermen themselves are entirely responsible for every new effort we have made. St. Anthony Hospital was built in response to their written appeal, because there was no doctor on the North Newfoundland coast between Green Bay and Bonne Bay. Pilley's Island Hospital was started in response to request of fishermen of Green Bay, voiced by a deputation of fishermen carrying a large signed petition, men who journeyed all the way to St. Anthony to present it. Harrington Hospital on the Canadian Labrador was an answer to a similar petition from that section of the shore, there being no doctor on five hundred miles of coastline. The nursing unit at Ferienu was a reply to an offer of every fisherman in the neighborhood to give a week's work each year for the station if we would establish it. The Hospital at North-west River was built on the petition of the trappers and fishermen of the Bay, as for eight months of the year no doctor was ever in reach. What it meant to them during the epidemic of 1891 shown by the statistics, when compared with those of Sandwich Bay, is the reason Dr. Padon and the Rev. Henry Gordon are helping us this year to put a nursing station in Sandwich Bay—the Hudson Bay Company helping to finance it. Four times at the request of the fishermen at Twillingate I have visited that town to try and get a hospital started there. The Executive of Sir Robert Bond's government offered us the old hospital at Twillingate years ago. We were unable to accept the financial responsibility, and felt that as a progressive and more prosperous centre they would, as it is turning out, be able to acquire one for themselves. Twice I have visited Bay of Islands at the request of Dr. Fisher and the people to start similar work there.

The Initial Cost of Hospitals.

(4) Hospitals are the only way to give scattered communities such surgery and medicine which we demand for our own loved ones. Modern means of diagnosis and treatment absolutely involve laboratories, x-ray outfits, and specialists in various lines—and these are expensive. In every country they have to be subsidized beyond the amount patients can pay. Thus, in 1918 St. Anthony Hospital cost $26,000, not counting a great deal of volunteer, medical and social service; St. John's Hospital, I believe, cost over $100,000 that same year.

(5) In England hospitals are supported by private charity. American cities of any size have one run by the municipality, the remainder, as in England and Canada, are supported by private effort and charity. It does the givers good every time, and any man with the right view of life realizes this.

At first our work was financed from England. But I lectured in Newfoundland as well, and our Association periodically made efforts to obtain more support from the Government. The urgent necessity of meeting the bills induced me to visit Canada. Lord Strathcona, so long a resident of Labrador and a great lover of Newfoundland, generously helped us, as did many other old Newfoundlanders, especially Sir Thomas Roddick, Robert and John McLea, and others. As the needs of the work grew we

Far North Hunter Received Friendly Aid in Nick of Time

Was Almost Down And Out When He Met Friendly Prospector.

One thousand miles back, north-east from Montreal and Quebec, on the great Assinipi Lake, is the shack and happy hunting-ground of Stanislas Brouleau, noted hunter and trapper. He is well known to all the people of the great North East, for he has spent most of the last twenty-five years in the wilds of the counties of Saguenay and Assinipi, trapping, hunting and fishing with the Mountain Indians. It's a serious matter when a man gets ill in that country, far removed from all medical aid, but that's what happened to Stanislas Brouleau last winter when away up on the Hamilton River. While in at Dr. LeDuc's drug store on Chaboullers Square, Montreal, recently, he told the remarkable story of his experience.

Last winter I had a deal of sickness. The eternal rain and dried meat upset my stomach. After eating I had a feeling of nausea and very often could not retain my food. I completely lost my appetite which was unusual for me and was also constipated for as many as four and five days at a time. I guess I must have been badly run-down, for I had a lot of neuralgia in the back of my head and the left side of my neck. When those neuralgia pains were on me I just had to lie down in my bunk, for the least movement drove me almost frantic with pain. Later I was bothered with rheumatism in both my knees, and whenever the weather got damp I could hardly crawl around, and would have to stay by the camp fire until I got better.

"While in this condition I met a prospector and trapper away up on the Hamilton, and he left me a few bottles of Taniaic. It just suited my case exactly. It wasn't long before my digestive organs were in perfect working order once again. I began to eat with the voracity of a famished wolf, and could eat anything without getting the least bit upset. I was no longer troubled with constipation and have never since had the neuralgia. And although my hunting trips take me through mountain streams and muskeg swamps, up to my knees for hours in water, I have not been troubled with the rheumatism any more. My case alone is enough to show that Taniaic is a wonderful medicine."

Taniaic is sold in St. John's by M. Connors, and by the leading Druggist in every town.—adv.

The position to-day is that not less than $70,000 a year is needed to carry on the work. If that sum can be guaranteed in Newfoundland I would bless the day that freed me from the lecture platform almost as a second wedding day; and if Capt. Lanning's love for his country should be the means of accomplishing that we would put up a statue to his memory. Any constructive help or advice would be gladly received by any of our Board of Directors. The Hon. W. C. Job is the Chairman and the Hon. Robert Watson is the Honorary Business Adviser.

Visits From Governors.

It has been our good fortune to secure visits to the work from several of our Governors. The Rt. Hon. Sir William MacGregor spent part of two summers with us, helped us to improve the Labrador chart and issued a most generously appreciative and exhaustive pamphlet for the Colonial Office after personally inspecting the whole work; and admiring both it and our lecture propaganda. The Hon. W. F. Coaker, Lord Morris, and others have also inspected our work in part; and Lord Grey and the Duke of Connaught, Governor-General of Canada, did the same.

(6) Capt. Lanning suggests that we be forced to close it all down. The Government Commission under Magistrate Squarey, appointed two years ago, generously admitted that their personal inspection completely changed their view. Our latch string is always out for Capt. Lanning. I shall be back in St. John's in May, but if he prefers it I shall be glad to debate the whole problem with him in an open forum in that city. These are progressive, not retroactive days. Deeds, not words, are a country's credentials. To go back on hospitals in the North would do the Colony real harm in the world's eyes. That my lectures do not give wrong ideas of the country is attested by the large numbers of well educated people who come down every year and return to become supporters of the work. These are among our best helpers afterwards.

The money must be found to give more and better aid, not less. Up-to-date medical aid has become in civilized countries the prerogative of the working classes. An endowment must be raised somehow—that is the only answer.

I should like to refer briefly to some other parts of Capt. Lanning's letter. He does me the honor of classing me with President Roosevelt as a self-advertiser. I was privileged to enjoy the personal friendship of that great man. He was a fine red-blooded patriot and world citizen and true sportsman. He was also a humble Christian. I feel honored to be in any category with him.

As for drunkenness Newfoundland as a whole was never a drunken country, and no one ever accused her of it. There was a good deal of drunkenness in St. John's, however. Its citizens recognized it and put it out. It is true that England sins infinitely more in the way of drunkenness. With her sovereign so terribly depreciated she yet spent four hundred million pounds sterling last year on alcoholic drinks to make herself still more inefficiently. Yet the liquor traffic was able to flower-bag, assault and knock out the right eye of Mr. W. E. Johnson for advocating it down. My own time in England was short and very busy, but "Passyfoot" was good enough to allow me to speak for Prohibition on his platform in London, Liverpool and Glasgow. He is a sportsman and a gentleman.

be largely derived from the barren lands of the North. Our herd is now no expense to our Association, as the Canadian Government has had the vision to take it over, and is affording them the only one thing that was necessary—namely, proper protection.

Capt. Lanning is right in saying that the tragedy of the European War and its aftermath is a severe comment on two thousand years of missionary effort. It is discouraging; but Mr. Orville Wright told me a day or two ago that when he and his brother, boys born on the middle-west farm, got the faith to believe that they could make a heavier than air machine which would fly, they had to scrap-heap the mathematics and methods of all the ages on the subject, and begin anew. Failure should be only an incentive to do better next time. The Churches are discouraged but not defeated.

GETS ANOTHER TRAWLER.

Another steam trawler with an enviable record for sinking German submarines during the war has been added to the fishing fleet of Canada. It is the Venosta, from Grimsby, England, for the National Fish Company, Halifax, N. S., at which port she arrived on February 11th with a catch of 50,000 pounds of fish, taken during the trip across the Atlantic. In Canada the Venosta is declared to be the finest trawler fishing from any port of North America. The dimensions are length, 145 feet, gross tonnage, 330 tons with engines of 630 horsepower. The crew consists of 20 men.

The Venosta was built in 1917 for private owners. On completion she was taken over by the British Admiralty and made flagship of a fleet of 75 trawlers. She is officially credited with sinking three submarines and is generally believed to have accounted for several others.

Captain Myhre brought the vessel from England. He was abroad for more than a year in the interest of the National Fish Company and during his stay purchased the Venosta and Lemberg, the latter being at Halifax for some time past.—N. Y. Fishing Gazette.

Silver Jubilee of Popular Priest.

Twenty-five years ago to-day Very Rev. Henry T. Renouf, present rector of St. Patrick's, having completed his theological studies at the College of the Propaganda in Rome, was ordained priest for the Vicariate of St. George's by Rt. Rev. Edmund Stonor, D.D., titular bishop of Trebizond, in the Church of St. John Lateran. On the next day, Passion Sunday, the newly ordained priest celebrated his first Mass at the Shrine of Mater Admirabilis, Trinita del Monti, being assisted by his personal friend, the rector of the Bohemian College. The servitors were two of the Newfoundland students, Messrs. Joy and Mackey, now the respected pastors of Port au Port and Bay de Verde. After a short vacation in London, Father Renouf arrived in St. John's early in May, 1895. The scene of his first missionary labors was Villa Nova, or Manuela. He was attached to Sandy Point and St. Grace for short periods, and then went to Harbor Breton. Nearly three years were spent in the Fortune Bay mission, the rigours of which so impaired the young man's health that on the advice of his physician and consent of his bishop he applied for a transfer. He was then attached to the St. John's Diocese and appointed Administrator of St. Bride's Parish where he labored some eleven years. On the transfer of the late Dean Born to St. John's, Father Renouf succeeded him at Trepassay, and on the Dean's death again succeeded him at St. Patrick's.

Father Renouf's pastorates have been marked by new churches, schools and other buildings, and since his advent to St. Patrick's, the Church has been thoroughly repaired, refurbished and decorated. A man of broad views and most unassuming deportment, yet an organizer and disciplinarian, the people of St. Patrick's have recognized his sterling worth and are preparing to fittingly mark, at a later date, this milestone in the good Priest's life, while to-day their prayers and good wishes are that he may be long spared to the Archdiocese and the Catholics of the West End.

We tender the Very Rev. Jubilarian our warmest congratulations on the completion of his silver jubilee in the Priesthood, and wish him "ad multos annos."

Clash Between Admiral and Senator.

WASHINGTON, Mar. 23.—Cross-examination of Rear Admiral Sims was concluded to-day by the Senate Committee investigating his criticisms of the Navy Department's method of conducting the war. Admiral Sims was charged by Senator Pittman, Democrat, Nevada, with a desire to "turn over the whole American Navy to the British during the war regardless of protection of the coasts of the United States," and with "having favored the French and British policy, certainly not the American policy, of sending raw, untrained troops to France."

"The testimony, before this committee, proves to my satisfaction that you relied very largely on the British Admiralty for your opinions and recommendations," declared Senator Pittman. "You talked freely to Americans abroad during the war of your belief that the American Expeditionary force transport system had broken down, and on November 9, 1918, you still thought General Pershing's supply arrangements behind the Argonne front had broken, and you never expected him to succeed there."

"That is the veriest kind of rot," retorted the Admiral, "no officer of my experience, not to say record, would allow himself to be governed by any such policies."

The hearing to-day was confined largely to technical questions regarding the placing of responsibility for alleged failure to adopt the convoy system earlier in the war. Senator Pittman asserted that the blame did not rest entirely with the United States, and asserted that Admiral Sims had been "hot-headed," in charging the murder of five hundred thousand men to the Navy Department, because of the alleged lack of prompt naval cooperation by the United States.

Frequent heated verbal clashes between Senator Pittman and the witness enlivened the hearing for the spectators. At one point the Senator shook his finger at the officer.

"Don't shake your finger at me," admonished the Admiral. "It won't do any good."

"You are not on the bridge of a ship," retorted the Senator. "We follow Senate procedure, not Navy methods, here."

"Well, you don't need to use police court methods," replied Admiral Sims. Captain Horace Fanning, assistant chief of the Bureau of Navigation during the war, and for a time acting head of the Bureau, is expected to testify to-morrow.
