CHAPTER XVIII.
The night of Gaunt's dinner-party arrived.

He had put it off as long as possible, for he hated the thought of it, but the thing had to be done, and at last a date was fixed and the invitations sent out. It was to be a very large party, but there was no danger of the resources of the Hall being strained; for the "state" rooms, as the housekeeper loved to call them, were vast enough to hold more persons than were asked, and the army of servants was well drilled.

There was a Countess of Roborough, a dear old lady, with white hair, and beautiful, old-fashioned manners; she was a great friend of Gaunt's, and she offered to play the part of hostess and sit at the head of his table, "for that night only."

"It is a pity that there is not a duly qualified and legal 'lady of the castle,'" she said to Gaunt when she made the offer. "It is always awkward for a bachelor, and I think you will find me useful. I hope, next time you give a party, I shall not be needed, Lord Gaunt."

She smiled at him with her wise and compassionate old eyes, and Gaunt smiled back at her, and shook his head.

He had winced at the word "bachelor," but he answered, calmly enough: "No one could fill the place so well as you, dear Lady Roborough, and I should always be satisfied to see you in it. I am very grateful."

She looked at him trustfully, and sighed; she knew that there must be some mystery in his life; but she knew also that whatever it was, Gaunt would keep it to himself.

Mrs. Sherborne and her brother received an invitation, and accepted; Decima also received hers. She would have liked to have refused, but Lord Gaunt had made her promise, and she knew she must go. But she did not want to go with Mrs. Sherborne, and she carried the invitation to her father. Mr. Deane positively refused.

"I hate a crowd," he said. "Why does not Robert take you?"

"Bobby can not leave London," said Decima.

Mr. Deane shuffled up and down the laboratory.

"I've had a letter this morning from him," he said, and he felt in his pockets and looked round helplessly. "Where is it? I put it somewhere. He writes asking for more money; he seems to have spent all his allowance already. I suppose I must send him some more, though I can't afford it; that is, just now, presently it will not matter." He straightened himself and looked round with a sanguine smile. "There will be plenty of money, my dear Decima, plenty, very soon. Yes, Bobby and you shall take your proper places in the world."

Decima had grown so accustomed to such remarks as these that they had ceased to make any impression on her.

"And you will go, father?" she said. "Yes—yes; I suppose so," he assented, with a sigh.

Decima went and looked at her dresses. She would have liked a new frock for the occasion, but she thought of Bobby's letter, and resolved to make one of the old ones do. She was quite sure that so insignificant a person as herself would not be noticed in that brilliant assemblage.

So, when the night came, she put on her soft, dove-colored silk, only slightly open at the neck, and without a flower or jewel for ornament, and smiled at her reflection in the glass.

"I certainly do look rather Quakerish, as Bobby would say," she thought. "But it will not matter. I know scarcely any one but the Mershons, and I shall escape notice all the easier."

The party had created a great deal of excitement, and she realized how important a function it was when she saw the large crowd of villagers which had collected at the gate to see the guests arrive, and the long line of handsome carriages coming and going along the avenue.

The great house was a blaze of light, and Mr. Deane shuffled his feet and groaned, as their modest fly at last drew up to the steps, over which a striped awning had been spread, and he caught a glimpse of the many footmen standing in waiting.

Lady Roborough stood just within the drawing-room to receive the guests, and Lord Gaunt stood at her elbow holding her bouquet.

Her keen eyes scanned Decima's face as she and her father were announced, and for a moment a look of surprise and admiration flashed in her ladyship's eyes as she gave Decima her hand.

At Decima's entrance, Gaunt's heart leaped, but his face grew paler if anything.

"It was good of you to come," he said in a low voice, and his hand closed over hers with a firm pressure.

Decima murmured something inaudible, and passing on, was swallowed up in the crowd.

Lady Roborough looked after her. "What a sweet-looking girl!" she said in an under-tone to Gaunt. "It is a remarkable face; one sees so few really modest-looking girls nowadays. I did not know Mr. Deane had a daughter. How is it I have not met her?"

Gaunt looked straight before him; the touch of the little gloved hand was still throbbing through him.

"They are very quiet people and go nowhere," he said, casually; too casually, for the sharp old lady glanced at him keenly. But Gaunt's face was as impassive as usual and told nothing.

There were several persons who knew Mr. Deane, and Decima found that she was not to pass unnoticed, as she had hoped and expected; for her appearance had impressed others besides Lady Roborough; and the men were asking Mr. Deane to introduce them, and the ladies were glancing at her curiously.

her, and Mr. Mershon had to wait until she was free to greet him. His thin lips lightened, and he stood looking down with a half-nervous, half-aggressive air. Then he shook hands with her, and his small eyes glanced round the magnificent room and the brilliant crowd.

"Quite a brilliant affair, isn't it?" he said, with an attempt at a sneer.

Decima looked about her with a very different expression. The splendor of the women's dresses, the flashing of the diamonds pleased her, and excited her a little. There was not a spark of envy in her bosom, not a tinge of regret for her own plain attire. Mr. Mershon's remark and its tone grated upon her, and she made no response. She saw Lord Gaunt moving about the room, speaking to one and another, and almost as if he were conscious that her eyes were resting upon him, he turned and looked at her, and suddenly came across to her.

"Well, are you satisfied?" he said in a low voice, too low for Mershon to hear; and Mr. Mershon noticed the whispered tone and resented it with sharp resentment as he moved away a little.

"Satisfied?" said Decima, looking up at him with a faint smile.

"Yes," he said; "this is your doing; you wanted me to see people, go into society—and here you are, you see!" He smiled, but there was a gravity and intensity in his gaze which Decima felt.

"Oh!" she said in repudiation. "But if it were true, then I am satisfied. How beautiful it is! I mean the rooms."

"Which you decorated!" he said in a low voice.

"—And the dresses and the jewels," she continued, disregarding his interruption. "It is quite significant, and—like a pageant. You ought to be very proud, Lord Gaunt; for it must be pleasant to have so many nice and beautiful persons in your house."

He looked at the girlish face uplifted to him, and smiled enigmatically. He noticed the plainness of her dress, the absence of any ornament—he had noticed it the moment she entered—and he thought: "Not one of the women, with all their grand dresses and their diamonds, is so beautiful, so distinguished-looking, as this love of mine in her simple frock!"

"I am glad you are pleased," he said, quietly. "It will be my reward for being a good boy, and doing as I was told."

As he spoke, Mr. Mershon came up and offered her his arm.

"I am to take you in, Miss Deane," he said.

Gaunt looked at him with an impassive face, in which no sign of his envy was visible, and went to the Countess of Ilminster, who was allotted to him.

The brilliant crowd passed into the dining-room with its softly shaded lights. For this occasion the famous Gaunt plate had been unearthed from the bank vaults, and the long table shone with gold and silver.

There were flowers everywhere, and they softened the glitter of the precious metals and the flashing of the jewels. The dinner was a superb one—it is talked of to this day—and, unlike most functions of its kind, by no means dreary.

Lady Roborough was the perfection of a hostess, and Gaunt exerted all the charm which belonged to his race. No one was better fitted to shine in society, and Decima, who was not very far from him, where he sat at the bottom of the table, thought, as she listened to him and glanced now and again at his face, how much younger he looked than when she had first met him.

As a matter of fact, he was playing his part extremely well. He hated and loathed the whole affair, but no one had the least suspicion of his sentiment, or guessed that all the while he was talking so brilliantly and smiling so easily, that he was wishing them all away—all but one little girl in dove-colored silk.

Gaunt's admirably assumed manner and mood proved infectious, and instead of the dreary, commonplace small-talk, with its intervals of awkward and embarrassing silence, which characterized most dinner-parties, conversation flowed freely, and laughter ran like an accompaniment.

ESPERANTO WINS AGAIN.

HALIFAX, Nov. 1. The Esperanto's victory over the Delawana to-day was the one topic of discussion everywhere to-night. The Nova Scotia schooner lost the race by running past the fourth mark. She then had nearly a mile lead, but by the time she got around, the Esperanto had come up on her and then led to the finish crossing the line seven minutes and fifteen seconds ahead. Nova Scotians are greatly disappointed, but not so downhearted.

He is prepared to withdraw from Crimea across the Vivash Sea.

DISCUSSING GENERAL ELECTION.

LONDON, Nov. 1. Principal editors in half a dozen of the leading newspapers discuss today the possibility of a general election. When the coal strike was first booming up, common speculation was that Premier Lloyd George would make a dramatic appeal to the country, staking renewal of office on whether Parliament or Trade Unions should hold the reins of Government. This talk died down with the possibility of a settlement of the dispute. Present newspaper discussion started yesterday in the Sunday Observer, which is by no means unfriendly to the government, and now urges the Premier to call a general election in the spring. The Observer declares that the present House of Commons cannot pretend to represent the people.

MIXED IN DATES.

OTTAWA, Nov. 1. The Evening Citizen states that some communications have been exchanged between the Imperial and Dominion Governments relating to the next Imperial Conference, and that it is likely to be postponed until nineteen twenty (?). The plan was to hold Conference next summer.

OFF TO BUSINESS.

OTTAWA, Nov. 1. To-morrow afternoon Sir George Foster, Minister of Trade and Commerce, and Hon. C. J. Doherty, Minister of Justice, as Canadian delegates to the Assembly of League of Nations leave Ottawa for Geneva. They will be met in London by Hon. N. W. Rowell, former President of the Privy Council, who will be the third delegate to the League. Apart from the business of the Assembly, the Canadian delegates will, while in London, have important legislative. Among matters to be considered is the question of the Canadian-Nid.

boundary in Labrador, which arises over disputed stretch of territory, and affects Quebec more particularly. The Dominion government and Provincial government of Quebec have, it is understood, reached an agreement on points at issue. There now remains discussions with the Attorney General of Newfoundland (who is at present in London), over reference to the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council, the Tribunal which will give final judgment in the case.

CUTTING OUT CANADIAN OFFICES.

MONTREAL, Nov. 1. Before the end of the year three selling offices of Armour & Co. in Montreal will be closed. The big Chicago meat packing firm is getting out of the Canadian market entirely. There is a plant in Hamilton still in operation which will be completely closed shortly. Offices at St. John, N.B., and Ottawa have already been closed and that at Sydney will soon close also.

ONLY A FEW KILLED.

HAVANA, Nov. 1. The Cuban Presidential elections were held to-day with comparative quiet. No serious clashes were reported in any province up to time polls closed. Four persons were killed last night and two to-day in minor affrays and some were wounded.

THE BRUTAL TURK.

LONDON, Nov. 1. The Armenian town of Hadjin (Hajin) has been captured by Turkish Nationalists who have massacred the inhabitants, numbering ten thousand, according to a despatch to the Armenian Bureau in London. These Armenians had been holding out against attacking forces since March last.

SUGGESTS AIR SERVICE.

OTTAWA, Nov. 1. With airdromes marked out every fifty miles, and with wireless control of planes, there would be nothing to prevent a regular forty-hour air service between Halifax and Vancouver, according to General A. K. Tylee, Air Commodore, who reached Ottawa to-day on his return from the trans-Canada flight. General Tylee flew from Winnipeg to Vancouver as a passenger during the recent flight and returned to Ottawa impressed with the possibilities of developing a commercial cross-Canada service.

AGREES TO SETTLEMENT.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1. Great Britain has agreed to the settlement of the claim against Mexico growing out of the killing of Wm. S. Benton, British subject, near Juarez in 1914. Mexico is to pay ten thousand cash to Mrs. Benton and pension of two-fifty a day as long as Mrs. Benton remains unmarried.

NIGHT RIDERS CAUSE DESTRUCTION.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Nov. 1. Eleven negroes were in jail here to-day in connection with the burning of cotton gins, dwelling houses and churches by unidentified persons, supposedly night riders. Officials, however, expressed the belief that the destruction had been directed by white men. Operations were started in this country by supposed night riders Saturday night, and up to noon to-day had resulted in the death of two negroes and the burning of four negro churches, two gin houses, one store, eight dwelling houses and several tons of cotton seed and ten bales of cotton.

Inter-Collegiate Football

A very poor exhibition of school football was witnessed yesterday afternoon on St. George's Field when the M.C. beat the Feildians in the first game of the final round by 2-0. A slippery field, a soggy ball, and far too many fouls and hands all combined to spoil what should have been a very good game. With the wind in their favour in the first half, the Feildians managed to keep the ball in their opponents territory but owing to poor shooting and passing, were unable to score. In the second half the M.C. had things pretty well all their own way, and the Feildians being handicapped by the absence of Smith, their regular goalie, who was sick, were unable to prevent them from scoring two goals, one from a long shot by Johnston and the other through a penalty kick. Mr. E. Churchill was referee. On Wednesday the Feildians and St. Bon's will meet in the second last game of the series. It is hoped that this game will be an improvement on yesterday's.

A Royal Welcome.

(From the Chicago Tribune.)
Never in the memory of man for years has there been such a reception to returning royalty as was accorded the Prince of Wales when he reached the imperial capital after his journey through Australasia. Not only was the homecoming a magnificent spectacle, but it was most significant of the popularity of the heir-apparent in these days when royalty is supposedly unfashionable, if not positively wicked. From the moment the destroyers sighted the battle-cruiser Renown off Eddystone until dark fell, with the young prince dining quietly in the midst of the royal family circle at Buckingham Palace, wireless, wires, rails, the air, human legs, eyes and throats paid tribute to the heir to the throne. Perhaps the explanation of the remarkable testimonial of loyalty is that all the abuse and complaint rising from the dissatisfaction of the British people is being aimed at a little man with long grey hair, who greeted the prince among many other notables on the platform at Victoria station at noon. Many newspapers are bitterly attacking Mr. Lloyd George. Everyone made the most special display of its welcome to the Prince of Wales.

Volunteer Workers.

Some men of St. Mary's Parish with Mr. Arthur Ebsary as leader, are now busily engaged each night painting the interior of the Parish Hall. The intention is to have the work completed in time for the annual Sanctuary Guild Sale, which takes place towards the end of the month. The voluntary workers are determined that the old hall with its new and attractive dress shall present a bright appearance and be made generally comfortable.

FORMER ARMY NURSE HAS FULLY RECOVERED.

"I Can Never Express My Gratitude For What Tanlac Did For My Wife." Says Husband—Never Felt Better in Life.
Bud Morris, 277 University St., Montreal, P.Q., Sergeant in the Canadian Army during the late World War, and whose wife accompanied him overseas as a trained nurse, comes forward with an interesting statement regarding the merits of Tanlac. Mr. Morris is at present travelling in the interest of the Great War Veterans' Association. "I can never fully express my gratitude to Tanlac for what it has done for my wife. For two years she suffered with indigestion, lost her appetite entirely, and what little she forced herself to eat bloated and distressed her terribly. At times she suffered with severe headaches, and her nerves were in such a bad condition that even the ringing of the telephone would upset her completely, and it was impossible for her to get a good night's sleep."
"She became very weak and run down, and in fact, not even the fatigue and hardships she endured as an army nurse caused her anything like the suffering this trouble did. We tried a number of different medicines from time to time, but nothing helped her until she got Tanlac."
"Well, she is not like the same person now. Her appetite is so good she is always ready for a hearty meal, and her stomach never gives her the least pain or distress. Her nerves are in fine condition, too, and she sleeps like a child nights and is refreshed and full of energy mornings. In fact, I just received a letter from her, from Toronto, where she is spending a vacation, saying that she never really felt better in her life. Since Tanlac has done so much for her, it always gives me pleasure to say a good word for it."
Tanlac is sold in St. John's by M. Connors, in Paradise by Mrs. Martin F. Byrne, in Upper Gallies by H. C. Andrews, in Portland by H. C. Haines, in St. Joseph, Salmonier, by Mrs. J. Gush, in Mt. Town by E. J. Flatt Island by William Samsom, in Jamestown by C. Christopher Haines, and in Lewisporte by Uriah Frazer-adv.

Side Talks by Ruth Cameron

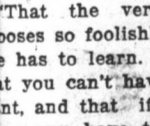

LETTING THE CHILD LOOSE.

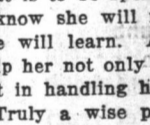

Two women were talking about giving their 16-year-old daughters clothes allowances and permitting them to buy their own clothes. Said one: "I don't feel that I want to let Frances handle her own money because she is so extravagant and foolish about it." The other woman said: "I don't think you should do that. It is a new kind of smock or bathing suit or scarf, she wants one right off. She hasn't the faintest idea how to conserve money and make it cover the things it has to cover. I have to argue her out of some foolish expenditure a dozen times in a season." Said the first woman: "Yes, Margaret is just like that, and that's exactly the reason I want her to handle her own money."

Who Won the War?
(From the London Morning Post.)
Who won the war? Why, of course, Lord Northcliffe, with the assistance of his trusty knight, Sir Campbell Stuart. This great discovery is being proclaimed daily, not only by "The Thunderer" and all the other Dandies Dimonts of Harmsworth Hope, but also by the defeated and discomfited Hun. If the Germans say it, it is so. And they are saying it daily at the suggestion of the subtle Ludendorff, who is perfectly willing to admit that the home front was pierced by Lord Northcliffe as long as he himself has not to confess that he was routed by Marshal Foch, and who is quite prepared to acquiesce in the cunning of Sir Campbell Stuart as long as he is not asked to bow to the soldiery of Lord Haig.

Italian Ship Had Thrilling Voyage.
New York, Oct. 27.—Hardships at sea that made the trip of the "Ancient Mariner" seem comparatively comfortably were told by the skipper of the Italian steamer President Wilson, and his passengers who arrived to-day from Trieste and Naples. Shortly after leaving Trieste a wireless warning that a field of floating mines had broken loose caused a wide detour, then fire broke out in the forward room as Naples was reached. In the harbor, the labor agitators harranged the crew to go on a strike and at sea the next day, two dozen stowaways were discovered so the ship put back to Naples to debark them. One who attempted suicide by jumping overboard was arrested. Soon after leaving land the ship came upon seven Moors exhausted in a small open boat. They said a severe storm washed away their sails and cargo of eggs when en route from Gibraltar to Algiers. A severe storm amounting almost to a typhoon which splashed huge waves over the entire boat leaving salty streaks on the pilot house, was encountered off Gibraltar. For six days she pushed against head winds which the log of the trip describe as the most severe the ship had encountered.

A YEAR AGO.

A year ago today, no doubt, I had the fastods or the gout, or some grim grief oppressed my soul, and made the scalding teardrops roll. But what it was that made me sore, I don't remember a n y more. A year ago, I wist and wot, my grumblings made the welkin hot; the burdens I was doomed to bear seemed greater than a man should wear; but what those burdens were that galled my shoulders till I wept and bawled, I don't recall; how can one say what chanced a year ago to-day? To-day I'm weeping by the hour; the life I live seems lemon-sour; the government is on the blink, there's nothing for a man to drink, the baseball scandal broke my heart, my ding-donged auto will not start. But if you meet me one year hence, and lean with me against the fence, and look me in the eyes and say, "We met one year ago to-day, and you were shedding bitter tears, and had crape tassels on your ears, and sackcloth on your jaded frame, and ashes where your whiskers came; you seemed a most grief-stricken man; now, please explain it, if you can," ah, who can recollect the woe that jarred his soul a year ago? I have fresh troubles every morn; each hour catastrophes are born; I'd be a freak if I could say what hurt a year ago to-day.

CONTENTMENT.
Let others tramp the distant lanes
And wander far away,
I want the pleasant window panes
Where lights of welcome play!
I'll fare the little simple street
That great men never find,
Where there are honest friends to meet
And hearts are always kind.

The ancient spires and walls of Rome
Hold little charm for me,
The smiling eyes of those at home
Are all I long to see;
The one which marks the wide world range
I would not o'er the wide world range
In search of splendours new,
I want the charms which never change,
Pink cheeks and eyes of blue.

I want the curling smoke of fire
Which loving hands have made,
I want the roof within a spire,
The dress without brocade;
I want no grander sunset than
The one which marks my west,
I seek no finer fellow man
Than those I know the best.

Oh, there are some must fare away
And tread the distant hills,
And some must travel day by day
In search of glory's thrills;
But I rejoice in all I find
Beside my kumble door,
Where eyes are bright and hearts
Are kind,
And do not sigh for more.

Curious Facts About Parliament's Own Guard-Room.

The fact that the House of Commons possesses its own prison for the accommodation of refractory M.P.'s is little known outside parliamentary circles.

This strange prison is situated in the Clock Tower, and comprises two sets of rooms, each of which is comfortably furnished. There are two bedrooms, one for the prisoners—not more than two of whom can be accommodated at one time—and one for the gaoler; and a sitting-room.

The office of gaoler is performed by the Supervisor of Badge Messengers, and it is his duty to ensure that the hon. member or members under his care do not escape, while, in addition, he attends to their wants.

As a prisoner an M.P. has a fairly good time. All his food is supplied by the House's catering department, and he is permitted to choose his dishes daily from the menu. As for exercise, he is allowed an hour and a half in the morning on the Terrace, and an hour in the afternoon. On both occasions he is escorted by an inspector of police and a sub-inspector of police. On Sundays he is permitted to attend church, in the company of a House of Commons messenger and a plain-clothes man.

Bradlaugh Defied the Speaker.
Records show that the first inmate of this remarkable prison was Mr. W. O'Brien, who refused to sit on a certain committee. His imprisonment lasted nearly a month.

Its most famous occupant, however, was undoubtedly Charles Bradlaugh. On making his appearance in the House, after being elected for Northampton, he was neither permitted to take the customary oath to make a special declaration in its place. Despite the Speaker's ruling Bradlaugh armed himself with a Bible and proceeded to administer the oath to himself. On being requested to withdraw he refused to do so, whereupon he was arrested by the Sergeant-at-Arms and confined in the prison.

In addition to the infringement of rules regarding Parliamentary procedure and behaviour, a member may be confined in the prison for impugning the honour of another mem-mitted to attend church, in the company of a House of Commons messenger and a plain-clothes man.

As a result of their statement that a certain committee was subject to bribery, two members, Mr. C. E. Grissell and Mr. J. S. Ward, were declared to have committed a breach of this rule, and the Speaker ordered their appearance before the Bar of the House.

One of the two, Ward, was apprehended at once by the Sergeant-at-Arms, who escorted him to the Clock Tower prison, where he was kept for a week. At the end of that time his chief complaint was that the chimes were too deafening.

The other member, however, fled the country, being ultimately arrested at Boulogne, whence he was brought to London and imprisoned in Newgate.

In addition to M.P.'s, newspaper editors are liable to be imprisoned in the Clock Tower if by the publication of statements in their papers they suggest bribery or corruption against any member. They may first be summoned to the Bar of the House to apologize, and if they refuse to do this their detention in the Clock Tower prison may be ordered by the Speaker.—Pearson's Weekly.

Be Wise in Time.

It has long been apparent that the aim of Mr. Coaker is to handle the export fish business of Newfoundland on communistic principles. He looks forward to the day when the Government of the dominion shall be the only exporter, and the merchant-exporter be discarded as an unnecessary middleman. When that time arrives, he proposes to be the Government—as he is now—and therefore the only exporter. The Union Export Company will be the agent of the Government to collect and ship, and he will be the Company, as he is now. There will be no competition in that aimed for day, and the producer will have to sell for the price Mr. Coaker decrees, and his Company will have the profit he fixes.

There are men in the fish trade here so blind as to the portents of the times, that they are actually helping along the day of their own destruction as independent traders. In their short-sighted greed, they are even now advocating the use of public money and public credit to purchase "Labrador" for the present relief of the market and the ultimate share they hope to reap of the profit from this rape of the Public Treasury. But have they asked themselves this question, "if it be wise to buy a quantity of "Labrador" with public money, why not buy ALL fish that way?" If they and Mr. Coaker now use public money for such a partial purpose, why should they not use it to buy ALL the catch next year? If it be proper to buy two hundred thousand quintals of fish with public money, or on public credit, why will it not be equally proper to buy all the fish that way and throw the exporter-merchant into the discard for all time. The lesson that certain merchants are assisting Mr. Coaker to teach, in their insensate folly, may be too well learned for their comfort hereafter.

It is time for the public to arouse up to the defence of their liberties. We have it on well authenticated report that another step in Bolshevistic Government is really about to be attempted, by the use of power autocratically to place the control of fish more completely in the hands of Mr. Coaker, not as a Minister of the Crown, but as the head of a Trading Company. Public money or public credit is to be used to put the control of "Labrador" into the hands of certain exporters, chief amongst whom will be the Union Export Company, which will be placed in the position to make a great profit for a group of shareholders, at the risk of ALL the taxpayers of the colony. Let these, latter, therefore, be wise in time. The warning is given.

Notes and Comments.

How progresses the proposed raid on the Treasury?
Old H.C.L. is supposed to be at the peak, but the way it looks to us, he must have caught his pants on it and can't get down.

Plaintiff: The Star and Advocate's only defence of Mr. Coaker's mad regulations is personal abuse of the editors of the Opposition Press.

Commercialising the Revenue is the very newest thing in administration. Why not turn it into one great Co-Operative Concern, entirely?

The most valuable printed work in the world is the copy of the Bible printed at Malax in 1482-86, and commonly known as the Mazarin Bible.

Wife: "What was that noise I heard at one a.m. this morning, Alexander?"

Her Husband: "Me, my darling, falling asleep!"

The reported conspiracy to make Warren Premier, appears to have aroused the ire of the Star. You are wrong again, brother! The Telegram never suggested that Willie R. would receive its support.

A contemporary says, "It is no surprise to learn that people are refusing to purchase Government sugar, infested (and infected) with rats and vermin. The health authorities should be alive to their duty and take action immediately. The condition of this sugar shows a glaring breach of the Pure Food Laws.

The word "magnet" is believed by many people to be derived from the name of the city of Magnesia in Asia Minor, where the properties of the lodestone are said to have been discovered. It has, however, been asserted that the word comes from Magnes, the name of a shepherd who discovered magnetic power by being held on Mount Ida, in Greece, by its attraction for the nails in his shoes.

For years the Greek immigrants to America have been nearly all males. Now women are coming. Photographs and descriptions of eligible brides are sent from Greece so that prospective husbands may make a choice, and the fair ones chosen are then shipped as per order. The waiting men go in scores to meet the ships and to serenade the incoming women. A Greek liner which arrived the other day, was completely surrounded by small boats filled with musical swains playing jazz and opera airs on violins, concertinas and guitars. The liner could not proceed till the police boats had made a passage for her, says a New York message to the Daily Graphic. The "mail order" brides crowded the decks, while their future husbands tried to identify them. There were so many of the same name that great confusion ensued, and in some cases the men literally fought for the prettiest girl. A hundred weddings took place at the Greek churches in New York, recently.

S.S. Clyde reached port last night from Port Union towing up the motor boat F.P.U. The Clyde which last week took to the northward flour exclusively for the Union Trading Company, will take general freight this trip. The steamer which has been taken off her regular route will probably get away from here to-night.

Could Not Make Sale.

In all the downpour of rain this morning a fisherman with a yaffle of "Labrador" codfish under his arm travelled the town to find a purchaser without any success, up to noon hour. The fish was wrapped in paper and both the fisherman and his parcel presented a depressed appearance.

Consorzio Adamant.

Messages received in the city to-day by several fish merchants indicate that the Italian Consorzio, absolutely refuse to buy fish through Hawes & Co., adding further that the Consorzio is able to supply their needs with purchases from Iceland and Norway. A big effort is being made to have the Advisory Board cancel the agreement with Hawes and permit exporters to sell through their own agents. If this latter course is adopted reliable business men say, "it is the only hope of doing successful business with Italy."

Arraigns the Opposition.

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir—I have read the interesting letter signed Democrat that appeared in Monday's issue of the People's Paper, and avail of the opportunity to compliment the writer upon the manly independent note that he has struck and trust that it will resound throughout the entire country.

Democrat designates Coaker as an impudent shameless Autocrat, and every lover of freedom will endorse his fearless statement. In his paper, the Advocate, of Saturday's issue, Coaker referring to the "Clubs" incident plainly tells the public that he is going to do just as he pleases. He is continually belling this into our ears, and he knows that he can do so without running any risk of an uprising against his policy, because of the miserably weak part that is being played by those men of the Opposition Party, who seem to be also least all pluck since their defeat last fall. Where is Fox now, is he gone asleep, or is he content in seeing Coaker play ducks and drakes with the people? Where is Mr. Walsh, member for Placentia? Is he perfectly satisfied that he has fulfilled his obligations to his constituents, and is now resting on his oars? Where is Joseph E. Bennett? Can he not do something to give the people opportunity to voice their disapproval of tyrant rule? Crobie and Cashin are apparently taking no notice, evidently believing in the policy of giving Coaker sufficient rope, where he will hang himself. But do they realize that before this happens the people interests will be strangled. Higgins, too, is apparently as dumb as a door nail and while his constituents down the shore are worrying over the terrible conditions of trade that faces them, he is also awaiting something to turn up that will bring Coaker to his senses. Oh for the days of Whiteway and Bond, men who would have this country aroused from end to end on occasion of this kind. Maybe as your esteemed correspondent intimates—Messrs. Cashin, Crobie, Higgins and Fox are dead politically, if so then let these speak up and tell us the truth. This is no time for shilly-shallying. We want true men, fearless men, real leaders, who can bring this country back to independence and not as it is to-day a country ruled by an Autocrat, who is surrounded by flimsy men who are afraid to open their mouths to utter a word against him.

Your truly,
Nov. 2, 1920. INDEPENDENCE.

North West Coast Protest Steamship Service.

The people of the North West Coast are complaining bitterly of the coastal facilities given that important section of the country. Indignation meetings have been held and some strongly worded resolutions passed of one of which the following is a copy:

"The people desire to draw attention to the many imperfections of the last trip that some fishermen have experienced. The condition of things on this part of the coast has never been worse than it is at the present time. The fishery has been a disastrous failure, and the people of these settlements (Daniel's Harbor and Parsons Pond) are amongst the greatest sufferers on the coast, the position being last time that some fishermen have expressed their intention of not depending on the industry for a living next year. Under these conditions, and at this time of great anxiety for the fishermen and traders, they naturally expect those responsible for coastal transport to do everything in their power to make life on the coast more tolerable and business easier. Without going into particulars they desire to express the opinion that these settlements have been seriously neglected by both vessels. In the case of their last trip to the coast yesterday and the Sebastopol to-day, both without calling. The Sebastopol passed Cow Head, Parsons Pond and Daniels Harbor just before daylight when there was a perfectly smooth sea and amongst the passengers ready to embark was a fisherman's widow and her six small children, one of many cases of extreme hardship which could be enumerated in connection with the inexplicable conduct of those responsible for the running of the steamers. The business of these settlements is being gradually destroyed as a result of bad and unreliable transport and the people think they ought to receive more courteous and business-like treatment at the hands of those in command. They will always remember the good work and extreme courtesy of Capt. English when in command of the Ethie in 1918-19 and regret that they have to complain of an inefficient service at a time when two steamers are being maintained at much greater cost to the country. This is merely a protest; it is for the Government to arrange things that these settlements shall not continue to suffer an injustice."

War Memorial Unveiled at Port Saunders.

The monument erected at Port Saunders to the memory of Privates Ambrose Ellis and Reuben Perry, who volunteered and died in the war, was unveiled on Wednesday, October 27th, at 10 o'clock.

The monument is of the form of a pedestal of pure white marble and is the work of Mr. J. D. Henry, St. John's. It was subscribed for by local residents assisted by generous contributions from English and American sportsmen, for whom Ambrose Ellis and his much respected and well-known foster father, Mr. Abram House, had acted as guides. It stands in a conspicuous position on a most suitable site given by Mr. House, who also directed the work of erection. The ceremony was attended by most every inhabitant of the port and the gathering was increased by the crews of two schooners which lay at the wharves.

The proceedings were opened by Mr. Archibald Lindsay, who presided. He said the stone symbolized loyalty to King and Country, for which these two young heroes of the place had given their lives, and he expressed the earnest hope that the people would value and protect this tribute to their memory.

Mr. George Wilton then performed the first public act as Stipendiary Magistrate. In unveiling the monument he said it was a great honour to be present and to be able to join with the people of Port Saunders in a public expression of their appreciation of the heroic manner in which these two volunteers went out and died in France. They were true volunteers sons of Newfoundland and he would always remember with feelings of pleasure that his first public duty after his appointment as magistrate had been associated with the unveiling of such a beautiful memorial.

He knew the people well enough to know that they would cherish the memories of the two boys who had died and care for and protect the monument which had been erected to show future generations that those who knew them appreciated their bravery and realised what was due to them when they made the supreme sacrifice.

The Union Jack which covered the monument was then removed amid solemn silence, many of those present being deeply affected.

Mr. J. D. Henry said his duty was to ask those present to show by a silent uplifting of the right hand their appreciation of the generosity of those who had contributed to the memorial fund, particularly those friendly visitors who had sent generous contributions from far-away countries. It was the wish of the people that the monument should be unveiled in the year of its erection and nothing could be more appropriate than the able performance of the ceremony of unveiling by the new Stipendiary Magistrate. To Mr. Abram House, the patriotic foster father of Ambrose Ellis, the superintendent of the work of erection had been a labour of love. Mr. Henry hoped that once every year the teachers of both schools would encourage their scholars to place memorial wreaths at the foot of the monument and that the day would never come when the people would cease to look upon that small raised-in site as one of the most sacred spots in Port Saunders. Like the previous speakers he spoke feelingly of the sacrifice made by the two boys, of the place, and touched on some of the results achieved by their great sacrifice while serving in the ranks of the small, but world-famous, Newfoundland Regiment.

Here the entire company stood in solemn silence with uplifted hands and after Mr. Abram House, standing near the monument, had made a few remarks, speaking of his love for the boy he had lost, the proceedings came to an end, the simple but most suitable ceremony having lasted some thirty minutes.

The monument bears the following inscription:

To the memory of Private Ambrose Ellis who gave his life for his King and Country. Killed in action April 13th, 1918. Also, Private Reuben Perry who gave his life for his King and Country. Died of wounds received in action December 25th, 1917. "Nobly they died while doing their duty."

A False Alarm.

A crossed wire was responsible for an alarm of fire being rung in at the Central Station at 9 o'clock last night. The gong sounded several times without giving a definite number so the firemen did not go out. During the night the broken wire was located and the system was again put in first class condition.

Bishops Hr., Salvage Bay, Nov. 1, 1920.

Editor Evening Telegram. Dear Sir.—We heard much last fall of interference by the Cashin Government with the free will of the people as to local Boards and local moneys. I want to tell you how the Cooker party has treated this place.

I had been Chairman of the Road Board here for about four years. Last spring I received printed forms of notice from the Department of Public Works, and immediately made them public. On the day appointed, an Election of a Road Board took place. Five men, including myself, were duly elected, two being Union men, three non-Union. A few days later I received the following letter:

Dept. of Public Works, St. John's, Nfld., June 10, 1920.

Dear Sir.—It is being reported from reliable sources that the Election of Road Board conducted by you at Bishop's Harbor, was improperly conducted, and we have now instructed Ambrose James, J.P., of Glovertown, to give due notice and hold another election.

Yours truly, (Sgd.) W. B. JENNINGS, Minister Public Works.

Mr. James Moss, Bishop's Hr., Salvage Bay.

I telegraphed to ask in what respect the Election was improperly conducted, and received the following reply:—

Dept. of Public Works, St. John's, Nfld., June 16, 1920.

Dear Sir.—We are dealing with the matter you mentioned from this end, and have already issued our instructions, and feel under no obligation to thank you for telling us to do this by telegram, which will be a cost to the revenue of 65c. In future when you have matters of minor importance to report to the Dept. of Public Works, please do so by letter.

Yours truly, (Sgd.) W. B. JENNINGS, Minister Public Works.

Mr. James Moss, Bishop's Hr., Salvage Bay.

The next thing that occurred was that Mr. James, J. P., of Alexander Bay, came here at 7 o'clock one night, and presided at noon next day at a meeting which went through the form of electing a Board, the members of which were all Union. No public notice was given of this meeting, as required by the Law, and none of the people of Sallor's Island, for instance, had any knowledge whatever of it, while members of the Board previously elected, and their supporters, refused to vote or otherwise acknowledge the legality of the proceedings. Mr. James' attention was called at the meeting to several illegalities in his proceedings, but he refused to pay attention to objections. I wrote after the meeting to the Minister of Public Works, explaining and protesting, but he made no reply.

The new Board has been recognized by the Department of Public Works, and has been authorized. I understand, to spend the road grant. The law has been broken, the Minister has acted like a tool of the Union, and the free will of the people has been disregarded.

Yours truly, JAMES MOSS.

(NOTE—The above is a report of a characteristic proceeding. The Minister should have replied to the Chairman, pointing out his error, if any. The letters to the Chairman are simply churlish. Mr. James was not legally appointed. The recognized Board has no proper authority, and is merely a partisan committee.—Ed. Telegram.)

Klarck-Urban Co.

IN "THE FORTUNE HUNTER." A sparkling comedy with every member of the cast at his and her best is "The Fortune Hunter," presented by the Klarck-Urban Dramatic Company at the Casino Theatre last night to a capacity house. First nighters were not disappointed. The theme of the play as given in the advance notices had aroused great interest and right worthily did the members of the Company act their various parts. Two and a half hours of most appreciative enjoyment were spent by the audience, and the laughter and applause bore testimony to the wit and humour of the portrayed characters. The play embraced every member of the Company, and right well was the imitable Harden Klarck, supported by his associates. As a mirth provoker "The Fortune Hunter" is without equal and with Miss Maisie Cecil, starring, and the versatile Thomas Brower backing up, the four acts go with a swing from start to finish. The reproduction to-night should not be missed. The C.C. C. Band is always present and its music is an additional delight. "Potash and Perimeter" will be presented on to-morrow and Thursday evenings.

MINARD'S LINIMENT FOR GARGET IN COWS.

A Question for His Honor the Speaker.

Editor Evening Telegram. Dear Sir.—Myself with many others in this town are wondering what time the Improvements Hon. W. F. Penney shouted so loudly about last fall are going to commence. There are houses in this town to-day on Water Street which cannot get connected with the water service on account of no ferrule taps in stock or some lame excuse of that sort. What about the six thousand dollars we were informed were cut out for the Improvements?

Yours truly, E. P. GOFF, Carbonear, Oct. 28, 1920.

Young Peoples' Entertainment

The young people of George Street Church were entertained at a Caud Cannon supper in the basement of the church building last night, and a very pleasant evening was enjoyed by those present. A short programme had been arranged, consisting of the following items:—

Address—Rev. D. B. Hemmson.
Piano Solo—Mrs. Hemmson.
Song—Mr. Whiteway.
Piano Solo—Mr. Gordon Christian.
Recitation—Miss Estelle Barnes.
Address—Mr. Horwood.
Song—Mrs. Gordon Christian.
Address—Mr. C. R. Steer.

Following this Caud Cannon was served, after partaking of which games were played until near breaking up time, when tea was handed around, the festivities concluding with Auld Lang Syne and the National Anthem.

Field College and Orphanage Draw.

A most interesting football match was played on Saturday afternoon between an eleven from the second division of Bishop Field College, and the Church of England Orphanage team at Shannon Munn Memorial Grounds. Early in the first half C. Press scored for the Feldians, who had the better of the game, although Kane should have equalised from a penalty kick. The second half was keenly contested and a few moments before the final whistle blew Sanson scored for the Orphanage from a good centre by Kane. The game ended one all.

To-morrow, Wednesday, evening, at 8 o'clock, a lecture will be given on "Missionary Scenes in Many Lands." This will be interesting and instructive to all who are concerned about the development of missionary work. An admission fee of twenty-five cents will be charged.

Caud Cannon Entertainment

A very enjoyable affair was held in the Lecture Room of Cochrane Street Church last evening, when the Girls' Club (recently re-organized) and the Young Men's Association held a Caud Cannon Supper. Presidents Wilson and Dwyer were in charge. The following programme added greatly to the success of the affair:—

Piano Solo, Mr. G. Pretty; Instrumental Duet, Misses Amy and Nellie Maunder; Club Swinging by a squad of girls and Miss Vasey; Vocal Solo, Miss Wylie; Reading, Miss G'Hea and Mr. H. Young. Caud Cannon supper was served at 10.30, the witch appearing with the magic cake. Fortunes were told and a jolly time spent until time to go home was called.

A skin you love to touch

You, too, can have this charm

No matter what other charms you have, they count for little unless you have the greatest of all charms—a clear, fresh skin.

An authority on the skin has said: "Whatever your difficulty is, you can remedy the trouble, if you will only give your skin intelligent care and attention."

The following treatment brings the blood to the surface and stimulates the small muscular fibres. Begin it tonight and see how it will improve your skin.

Just before retiring, wash your face and neck with plenty of Woodbury's Facial Soap and warm water. After rinsing your face with warm water, rub a fresh lather of Woodbury's into your skin, using an upward and outward motion. Do this until the skin feels just a little sensitive. Then rinse the skin well in warm water, then in cold, finishing by rubbing for thirty seconds with a piece of ice. Always be careful to dry the skin thoroughly.

Make this treatment a regular habit, and in a much shorter time than you would imagine, your skin will take on the greater loveliness that it can have.

Get a cake of Woodbury's Facial Soap and begin tonight the treatment your skin needs. You will find Woodbury's on sale at any drug store or toilet goods counter in the United States or Canada. A 25 cent cake will last a month or six weeks.

Englishmen With Foreign Titles.

People were surprised recently to read that the Spanish tenants of the Duke of Wellington had gone on strike. As a matter of fact, the Duke of Wellington holds peerages in no fewer than four different countries. In Spain he is Duque de Ciudad Rodrigo; in Portugal, Marquess of Torres Vedras and Dour, and in Belgium, Prince of Waterloo.

There are just a score of our peers who hold foreign titles and what is more curious—double that number of English people who, while at home they have no rank at all, yet in other countries are Lord this or Lord that.

That rather retiring nobleman, the Duke of Richmond, is Duc d'Aubigny in France; the Duke of Marlborough is a Prince of the Holy Roman Empire; the Earl of Clancarty (lately deceased) was Marquess of Heusden in Holland; while if Lord Bridport goes to Italy he rises several steps in rank and becomes Duke of Bronte.

Another important Italian title owned by a Scottish noble family is that of the Dukedom of Mondragone, the holder of which is Earl of Newburg, and a descendant of the Baronets of Callender and Kennaird.

Still a third Italian title, a barony is held by the English family of Heath. The late Baron Rothschild was an Austrian baron years before he was raised to the British peerage.

Count Bentinck, whose title is Dutch is descended from the first Earl of Portland. The family have had Royal permission to use their title here.

Lord Dundonald is known in Brazil as the Marquess of Maranhã, an honor conferred upon his famous ancestor, the great Admiral Cochrane. There is even a Russian peerage in the possession of one English family, the barony which was conferred upon Dr. Dimsdale in 1712 by the famous Empress Catherine.

Rats Put Cat to Flight.

Swarms of rats, made savage by starvation, a means instituted by quarantine officials to eradicate them, have attacked and put to flight a large cat family and otherwise played havoc aboard the steamship Leviathan, formerly the German liner Vaterland.

Since the Leviathan has been tied up at a Hoboken pier her rodent population has multiplied into legions and infest her eleven decks and intricately-subdivided interior. Fumigation was found impracticable by officers who sought to remove them, and starvation tactics were employed several weeks ago, no particle of food being permitted aboard.

After the feline army was gone, the rats attacked the ship's furnishings, luxurious leather cushions, panels and other fittings being gnawed beyond repair.

Quarantine officers say, however, that the end is in sight. In their battle for life, they declared, the rodents would destroy one another.

From Slavery to Wealth.

Born a slave, and now reputed to be one of the wealthiest and most respected negroes in the South, David T. Howard, 71, of Atlanta, Ga., last week celebrated his golden wedding anniversary and made it occasion to give some advice to members of his race.

Beginning on a legacy of $150, left by his former master, Howard now owns a business rated as the fourth largest of its kind in the city, and financial institutions readily make loans on his name.

"I never wasted time, never went in for wild oats, never saw a baseball game, and never danced a step—had always attended to my business," said Howard. "No social equality for me; no sane thinking negro wants it."

The United States negro to-day, Howard said, wants better justice in courts, better accommodation on railroads, and more schools for his children. "Too many silk shirts and too much good time," said he, "were the cause of racial unrest."

Oxford Letter Aroused Controversy

A heated controversy has been aroused in England during the past week over a letter signed by 57 members of the Faculty of Oxford University to educators in Germany and Austria, urging them to "assist in the hastening of an amicable reunion which civilization demands." Dean Inge, of St. Paul's, in a speech before the Church Congress, supported the peace move with the statement that "I don't think any impartial verdict in history will acquit our late enemies of waging the war atrociously, but they think we are waging a peace atrociously, and I am terribly afraid they are right. It is absurd to treat everyone living between the Rhine and Danube and the Vistula as if he personally was responsible for the sinking of the Lusitania. It is our policy to heal the wounds of war not to keep them rankling." Oxford students and professors who refused to endorse the letter denounced it as unrepresentative of general opinion there. The letter may lead to unexpected international complications, as it is considered by the French press as uncalled for and is likely to have a detrimental influence on Anglo-French relations.

Bride's Home to Be All Black.

Calling marriage "a tragedy for which the world must be adequately prepared," Germaine de la Boleisiere of Paris, French artist, has designed a black apartment in which she and her prospective husband will spend their honeymoon. The nine rooms of the apartment are covered with black, some with black velvet, others with satin, linen or wallpaper. Curtains and portieres are black. Black the furniture, black the bed, black the sheets, black the tableware. The bathtub is a huge block of black marble. The bride's trousseau is a mass of black chiffon and chintilly lace, while she has sent notes written with white ink on black paper informing her friends that only black-clad persons will be received.

Nameless Soldier to Repose in Westminster.

Great Britain plans to pay tribute to her soldiers who died in the great war by placing the body of an unidentified soldier alongside those of her kings, statesmen, illustrious poets and warriors in their final resting place in Westminster Abbey. The approval of King George and the Archbishop of Canterbury, according to reports, has been obtained, and the selection of a nameless hero and the burial site are being made.

The grave will be indicated by the inscription: "Here lies an unknown soldier who fell in the war of 1914-1919."

Simultaneously with burial on November 11, at the celebration of the armistice anniversary King George will unveil the cenotaph memorial to the Britons who fell in the war which has been erected in Whitehall. The unveiling will take place shortly before the firing of cannon at 11 o'clock, when the armistice began two years ago. Silence will be observed for two minutes throughout the British Isles.

The Prince's Marriage.

(From the London Times.)
The keenest public interest centres around the Prince of Wales, and though there is the strongest desire to respect his privacy, the public watch him with almost parental anxiety. Everywhere fervent wishes for his health and prosperity are the staple of conversation. It would be strange if the topic of his marriage were not very often on the lips and near to the hearts of his countrymen and countrywomen. He is twenty-six, and the marriage of the Prince of Wales is inevitably a matter of deep public concern. We desire to speak of it with proper reticence, expressing, within these bounds, what we believe to be the real anxiety of the country that he should make a wise choice. The war, in this as in most other things, has, we believe, wrought a change in public opinion, which—here and elsewhere in the Empire—would, we are convinced, be strongly averse from the thought that there should be any compulsion upon the Prince of Wales to make a marriage of policy. For him, within the comparatively narrow limits that his position must impose upon him, the British peoples would wish a marriage of true happiness; and this, it is our way to believe, means a marriage of inclination. It follows naturally that the hope for him is that his wife may be one of his own race; for, though there have been fortunate exceptions, it is certainly true that marriages of policy with Princesses of foreign birth have not always had the primary condition for happiness. Farther than to give expression to this national wish for the Prince we shall not go; adding only that we doubt whether there is now the need that there may have been before the war to limit the choice of the Prince to the circle of the Blood Royal.

Telephone to Communicate With Dead

All Paris is stirred by the statement of Thos. A. Edison that he has invented a telephone to communicate with the dead. The opinion of Camille Flammarion, the noted French astronomer and scientist, is as follows:

"Edison's apparatus need not be a chimerica. I admit I do not understand what substance he will use to establish the connection between the corporal bodies of this world and the astral bodies of the other. Solenium, perhaps, but it seems to me that even the smallest human brain, or the brains of any living creature, dog or cat, would be more sensitive than any metal or metalloïd."

"If our heads, within our skulls, we already have the instrument which enables us to communicate with the dead. No human invention will ever surpass it. We don't know how to use it yet. But that will come in time."

"For the soul exists, survives after death. Matter is but a clothing of the spirit. Nothing disappears—everything changes."

"Our dead are still living. They see us. They hear us. In many cases they are still interested in terrestrial matters, and sometimes are able to convey signs of this interest in us."

"As a scientist I cannot affirm that the soul is immortal. But I do affirm that the soul lives long after the body is dead, and that in time man will be able to control the fluids which make communication between the realm of death and life possible."

Other Dealers.

Will Ask Same Assistance as Sugar Men.

Ottawa, Oct. 26.—Claiming that it is just as reasonable to give aid to other branches of merchandising which have been "interfered" with by the Board of Commerce, retail clothiers and shoe dealers will expect the Government to give them financial assistance if similar support is given the sugar refiners in Canada, as is anticipated. This attitude was expressed at a meeting of the executive of the Ottawa Branch of the Retail Merchants' Association held this morning to discuss various matters in connection with Ottawa branch affairs, and embodied in a resolution which will be put before the first meeting of the branch for endorsement.

Miss Pankhurst Wrote Letter to Lenine.

London, October 26.—Sylvia Pankhurst, the militant suffragette, in a letter which she wrote to Nikolai Lenine, the Bolshevik Premier and which is in the hands of the Government, is said to have made this interesting comment:

"I expect six months' imprisonment. I have considered the hunger strike, but I am afraid that weapon has been destroyed, since the Government is letting the Irish hunger strikers die."

Miss Pankhurst was arrested last week charged with publishing seditious literature. She was admitted to bail pending trial.

Several years ago Miss Pankhurst was among the first of alleged offenders against British law and order who went on hunger strikes after they were arrested and secured their release from prison.

"You know my father had a nervous breakdown when he was my age."

"AND what has that to do with you?"
"Well, I have been worried a lot lately, and feel that my nerves are playing out. Besides, I believe that nervous troubles are hereditary, and I guess I am doomed."

"Now, old man, the sooner you get rid of that idea the better. You may inherit a nervous temperament, but not disease of the nerves. It is up to you to take care of yourself, and not allow your nervous system to become exhausted."

"But I am afraid it is too late, so far as I am concerned. My nerves are all shot to pieces. I am restless and fidgety, cannot sleep at night. Everything seems to worry me, and I cannot stand it much longer."

"Why don't you go away for a while and take a good rest?"

"Simply because I cannot. My business requires my constant attention."

"Then I will tell you what to do. Go to your druggist and buy a dozen boxes of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. I will guarantee that by the time you have used it you will feel like an entirely different man."

"Oh, I have been taking medicine enough from my doctor, and what good has it done me? Perhaps I have had a night's rest occasionally as a result, but certainly no permanent benefit."

"That is just the point. You have sought relief by deadening the nerves instead of restoring them. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food works on an entirely different principle. It forms new, rich blood, and nourishes the depleted nerve cells back to health and vigor."

"That sounds good to me."

"Because the Nerve Food works in this natural way you cannot expect much change after the first box or two. It takes a little time to build up an exhausted nervous system, but if you have a little patience the results will make it worth your while."

"I will follow your advice, for I have been terribly oppressed of late by the hopeless outlook. I know you would not recommend Dr. Chase's Nerve Food unless you felt sure it would restore my health, so I shall do my part and give it a thorough trial."

enterprises. It is said that he erected a tombstone for A. DOG at Fort Union the past summer which cost the value of fifty quintals of fish. The money would be better spent if he gave it to some poor fisherman, who is the victim of his insane Fishery Regulations. Oh, men of the North! awake from your slumber. Can't you see the breakers ahead. Take the bridge yourselves; ring her full speed astern, before she strikes the rocks.

Grafter No. 3 is the little innocent Willie Warren. He only gets $5,000 in salary from the Government, but he has appointed himself to a Commission in London, where he has been on a picnic all summer, and for which the taxpayers of poor old Newfoundland will have to pay thousands of dollars. Oh, yes, Willie has been enjoying life in the great metropolis. While his constituents in Fortuase Bay are being driven out of the country by arbitrary laws, while Hon. Mr. Warren is enjoying the latest hit at some fashionable London theatre, the men who sent him to the House of Assembly to safeguard their interests are being deprived of the birthright which is free trade. How long, O Lord, how long?

Grafter No. 4, Hon. W. W. Halfyard, one of the men who vowed never, never, never! to accept public money, or public office of emolument, but, like his Boss he fell for the spoils of office and the handle to his name. He only draws $5,000 from the Government as salary, about twice as much as men like the Hon. H. J. B. Woods; he no longer denounces Reids and the merchants, and I understand he is not opposed to attending a dinner at Government House now. Ah, no! $5,000 can make lots of change.

Grafter No. 5, W. H. Cave, Minister of Shipping, another $5,000 man. The men of Bay-de-Verde will deal with him later on.

No. 6 is Walter B. Jennings, Esq., the member for Twillingate; he like his Boss, swore never to accept public office, but as the just man falls seven times a day, perhaps Mr. Jennings cannot be blamed for following the lead of Coaker, and falling for a $5,000 job. Consistency thou art a jewel.

No. 7 is my fellow-townsmen, Hon. H. J. Brownrigg. He is another one of the reformers, who was loud and long in his denunciation of graft and grafters last fall, but he was the man who as soon as he got in charge of the Finance Department saw to it that he would get twice the salary that his predecessor Sir Michael Cashin drew; $5,000 is the amount Mr. Brownrigg draws from the Government. St. John's West will have a word or two with our Finance friend later.

No. 8 is Mr. Brownrigg's would-be colleague, Hon. Dr. Campbell. Poor Campbell! He couldn't get elected to the House of Assembly, so he couldn't get $1,000 seasonal pay; but he gets $4,000 as Minister of Agriculture and Mines; he gets $250 as a member of the House of Lords; he has had two months' holiday to visit his home in Canada at the expense of the men who paid $3.00 for salt this year to cure their $6.00 fish, and to try and get enough of it to purchase food for their families; with four $20 per brl., and everything else sky high. The Hon. Dr. has also had $50,000 of the people's money to spend amongst his Canadian friends in the purchasing of horses, cows, bulls, rams, pigs, goats, dogs, cats and any other animal he thought fit to introduce to us. When the bills are placed on the table of the House, as my friend Mr. Abbott would say, there will be something doing. I hope that the genial doctor didn't purchase a camel. I don't think that the country needs another just now.

Now, Mr. Editor, I think it about time we got busy and looked around us. These eight men whom I have mentioned, draw salaries amounting to about $50,000. Their combined picnic expenses will be another $20,000, that is $70,000, or the value of about 12,000 quintals of fish at present prices.

Then take a look around the city and we see scaffolding on all the Government public buildings, so as heaters can get a grab out of the chest. Then let us consider the Sugar Scandal. Where we are compelled to pay 30 cents a pound for sugar by the Government, and men like Hickman are not allowed to sell us sugar for less. Then to crown all, Coaker rule has dragged us down, and now asks us if we need medical treatment in the General Hospital, an institution which was built and equipped by our own hard earned money, to pay a dollar per day, and if we cannot do so, go to a magistrate and swear that "we are paupers."

If Bolshevism, Trotskyism, Leninism or any other ism is worse than the ISM that is ruining Newfoundland, I would like to hear of it.

Come, ye patriotic sons of Terra Nova! Arise, ye better than the Best. To the fore all men who intend to try and live in our native Newfoundland. Organize and rescue our country from the destruction which is fast approaching us. Let us show the spirit of our forefathers by organizing a mass meeting in Bannerman Park and march to Government House and appeal to his Excellency, the representative of our beloved King, to use his prerogative and dismiss from office the greatest

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir,—Your correspondent "Democrat," in to-day's issue, has formally opened the campaign, or let me put it, that he has started an agitation which will not terminate until the present Coaker-Reid Confederation gang of irresponsibles are driven from office. Yes, Democrat, there are thousands of good, honest patriotic Newfoundlanders who, fell for the catch cries and false promises of Squires and Coaker last autumn, but they are now very sorry for assisting these office seekers to get their clutches on the public treasury; and before it is too late, they are praying that a chance may be given them to assist in rescuing poor old Terra Nova from the destruction which is certain if Coakerism is allowed to rule. So friend, Democrat, the spirit of our forefathers is not dead. It is only slumbering, and your letter has gone a good way towards awakening it. And now, Sir, I am going to assist you in doing so, and I feel certain that other Newfoundlanders who intend to try and live in our native country and who are anxious to see our country retain its prized independence and again become prosperous, will also assist you. Let us organize! God knows it's time. When the Cashin Government went out of office a year ago, they left behind them in the treasury, nearly three millions of dollars of a surplus. Where is it to-day? Brother Newfoundlanders, it was our money, left in the treasury in trust for us, but we have been brutally betrayed and our money has been scandalously squandered. Look out on the harbor and you will see a useless warship which is a disgusting sight to all honest men. There is where some of our money went. Go up to Sir John Crosbie's premises, and what sugar the rats have left represents more of it. Oh! fellow countrymen, arise in your might and protest against this criminal waste of public money.

"The Grafters must go" was the war-cry of Squires, Coaker & Co. last fall. Yes, Mr. Editor, and the grafters did go. Now, Sir, let us see where. For convenience I will quote them numerically:

The Grafters-in-Chief is R. A. Squires; I will call him No. 1. He went into the dual offices of Prime Minister and Colonial Secretary. Where honest, patriotic Newfoundlanders filled these positions for $2,000—Sir Robert Bond did the work and did it well for $2,000—Squires takes $9,000. His picnic to England, Farnce, Italy, etc., will cost thousands more, and his fee for assisting Warren will be, God knows how much. Is this graft! Oh, fellow citizens, awake!

Grafter No. 2 is Coaker—the loud-mouthed demagogue, who, when he was in opposition, used every word in the Slang Dictionary denouncing the merchants, the Reids, the clergy, and all and sundry who dared to question his deeds. Now let us have a peep at the Honourable W. F. Coaker. He is no longer seen wearing a blue guernsey or common clothes; ah, no; he no longer denounces the Reids, ah, no; he no longer calls the merchants blood-suckers, ah, no; he is now "one of the aristocrats," he draws $5,000 salary from the Government; he is now Boss of the Reid Co.; he is Acting Premier, and I suppose he makes a nice bit of money out of the F.P.U.

Dominion Sports' Night.

During the past couple of weeks quite a number of local athletes have taken up practice for Dominion Sports night which takes place in the Prince's rink, Nov. 22nd. It is learned that Bell Island and Grand Falls are sending four men each to take part in the different events whilst competitors from other places will also take part. The different colleges are taking a deep interest in the sports, and interesting contests are looked forward to. It is hoped that the boys from the different city orphanages will be allowed to participate in the college events as there is some good material amongst them and it would add to the programme to have them included. His Excellency the Governor, who in his early days was an active athlete, is taking a great interest in the sports especially in the college events.

CARPENTIER AND DEMPSEY ARE MATCHED.

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—Jack Dempsey and Georges Carpentier were matched here to-day to fight for the world's championship. The number of rounds, the place of battle and the exact date are subject to discussion of the promoters who are to inform the principals at least sixty days before the contest. Each fighter receives a 25 per cent. right in the moving picture profits, the other 50 per cent. going to the promoters. The fight will be conducted by Tex Rickard, Charles Cochran of London, and Wm. A. Brady, the latter representing Cochran's interest. The contract was agreed to after a long conference to-day at which were present the joint promoters, Jack Kearns, manager of Jack Dempsey, and Francis Desamps, manager of Carpentier, and four lawyers representing the various interests involved.

While Tex Rickard and his fellow promoters refused positively to disclose the amount of the purse to be given the pugilist before the formal signing of the contract to-morrow, it is known that including certain percentages it will approach $500,000. This is far in excess of any previous purse, the record being held by Rickard's contract with Jess Willard and Jack Dempsey, whereby Willard received $100,000 and Dempsey $27,000 for their fight at Toledo on July 4, 1919. The division of the purse will show Dempsey receiving more than Carpentier, in the role of challenger and holder of the European heavyweight title.

Site for the Bout.

While the promoters are understood to be planning to hold the bout here in Madison Square Garden, ample provision is made for the shifting of the contest to another city in case opposition arises from any source. Under the contract it will be possible to hold the fight in Canada, Mexico, Cuba or the West Indies. The site of the fight will not be finally arranged for some time.

Many managerial and legal obstacles had to be overcome before the match could be made, because of the various contracts which one or the other of the pugilists had previously signed. Carpentier was under an iron clad contract to Charles Cochran, of London, not to sign with any other promoter before January 1, 1921. Rickard has held Dempsey's signature to fight for him for some months to come, unless the two promoters joined forces. This was finally accomplished by Brady, who had acted in the capacity of Cochran's United States representative until the latter arrived here recently to complete the details personally.

Big Prices for Tickets.

While it is understood that the promoters are counting upon a record gate in order to carry the burden of the huge purse involved, the moving picture receipts are expected to prove the greatest revenue in the long run. It has been estimated that if the bout is held in Madison Square Garden, box seats around the ring-side will sell for nearly $200 each with other seats and positions ranging downward in proportion. The total receipts from the moving pictures of the fight, especially should Carpentier win, will be worth millions abroad where he is a European hero. While films could be taken of the contest in the Garden, the pictures could not be shown throughout the United States until the present laws are changed.

Carpentier will leave for France within the next ten days to spend the Christmas holidays with his family, but it is part of his plan to return to the United States early in the New Year and begin training for his contest with Dempsey. Neither boxer will be permitted under the contract to compete in the ring previously to the coming battle although exhibitions of short duration will not be prohibited.

Willard Side-Tracked.

The signing of the agreement for

Windsor Table Salt
THE CANADIAN SALT CO. LIMITED

the Dempsey-Carpentier contest will side-track, temporarily, at least, plans for a return bout between Dempsey and Willard. The bout was tentatively scheduled for about the middle of March, and Willard was preparing to begin training in the near future for a chance to regain the title he lost to Dempsey more than a year ago. At the offices of the New York State Boxing Commission here to-day it was stated that no official notice of the arrangements for a bout between Dempsey and Carpentier had been received there. None of the commissioners were at the office, and Secretary White was unable to say if any immediate action would be taken by the commissioners in regard to the match.

SAYS DEMPSEY WILL NOT FIGHT ABROAD.

Jack Kearns has reiterated his denial that Jack Dempsey, world's champion heavyweight boxer, would go to England to defend his title, with the declaration that he knew of no inducement that could persuade either himself or the champion to go across the Atlantic for a long time to come. He told friends that he did not believe there was enough money in England to arrange a bout between Dempsey and some of the aspirants to Dempsey's championship.

This announcement by Dempsey's manager set at rest the current rumors both here and abroad that the champion would journey abroad within the near future. This rumor has been persistently growing in England, and recently a cablegram was received from England asking whether there was any truth in the report.

When the cablegram was shown to Kearns he promptly denied having any negotiations under consideration which would take him to England.

"It may be true that fight promoters abroad are trying to arrange a bout between Dempsey and Carpentier, but if they are I have not been acquainted with their plans. I have heard nothing from England that would lead me to believe that a bout is being arranged. I do not believe that there will be anything done along this line in the near future," said Kearns.

"I have several matches in view right now and we may have something definite to announce about the next fight after Election Day."

It is understood that several inviting offers have been made to Kearns by English promoters who tried to get Dempsey to meet Carpentier or Joe Beckett, the English heavyweight, in England. After his announcement to-day it is extremely improbable that he will consider any offers to engage Dempsey in a world's title bout abroad.

TOM COWLER MAY TACKLE WELLS.

London.—Tom Cowler, the Cumberland heavyweight, who first came to London as a raw novice some years ago, after being unearthed at Whitehaven, where he worked in the pit, is promised matches with Dick Smith and Bombardier Wells, and should he make a good showing against both, we may hear of him clamoring for a match with Joe Beckett for the English championship. To induce Smith and Wells to take notice of him, Cowler had to keep shooting out challenges for some time, and he felt sore at being ignored, but seemed to have forgotten that although he stayed 15 rounds with Frank Moran last Easter Monday, he made a very miserable showing. Another such display would put him on the shelf as a "heavy" not worth watching, so for his own sake he should make up his mind to do better next time.

The chance exists for him to get into the running for championship honors, and perhaps, if he had taken the game seriously in pre-war days, he might have distinguished himself long ago. It is worth mentioning that he came near to being matched with Billy Wells when the latter was champion, but he made the mistake of figuring in an exhibition with Billy at Sheff-field, and (Cowler) was little better than a novice, was outboxed by him. News of this came to London, and in consequence, the prospective encounter for the title did not materialize.

BIG FIGHT FOR HAVANA, CUBA.

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—The fight between Jack Dempsey and Georges Carpentier for the heavyweight championship of the world will be held in Havana, Cuba. It was announced here to-night. Selection of Havana as the scene of the contest was made by Tex Rickard, Charles B. Cochran, and Wm. Brady, who stated they had received an offer of such proportion from a syndicate of Cuban capitalists, that it was finally decided the championship battle would be staged in Havana.

Details of the match have been agreed upon and the actual signing of the articles of agreement merely await the arrival of a representative of the Cuban syndicate. He is expected to reach this city within a week and upon his arrival definite arrangements of the contest will be made.

Poultry Show at Bell Island.

The first exhibition of the Bell Island Poultry Show closed last Friday night at 10 p.m. with the distribution of prizes as per list in our columns to-day.

The show was well attended and the great interest shown proves that the Islanders are going to have a bigger list of exhibits next year. We congratulate President Hughes and his Committee on the result. This exhibition has also had the patronage of Hon. Dr. Campbell, Minister of Agriculture and is part of his new plans of the new Agricultural policy. The Bell Islanders have great confidence in Hon. Dr. Campbell's ability and highly approve of his programme of pure bred poultry and pure bred stock generally for Newfoundland. A silver cup had been promised to the Bell Island Poultry Club by Hon. Dr. Campbell for their next show to the exhibitor winning the most number of prizes on Barred Plymouth Rocks.

The Newfoundland Poultry Association of St. John's will hold their 5th annual show on December first, second and third, in the C.L.B. Armoury, St. John's, and many will visit the show and secure birds for next year's breeding—Q.

Harbor Grace Notes.

Mrs. E. Coffin (nee Miss Elsie Tetford), of St. John's, arrived in town last week to visit her mother, Mrs. Robert Tetford, sr., who has since passed away.

Mr. W. H. Greenland of Coley's Point, Bay Roberts, is in town to-day in connection with his schooner "Nevis," which is here to go on dock, after discharging part of her cargo, if it is thought necessary.

Capt. Abraham Kean's schooner "Little Princess," which had been damaged while on the floating dock St. John's, was towed here on Friday night last by the S.S. Cabot and is now on dock having repairs effected.

Mr. William Pike of St. John's was in town last week on a short visit to his grandmother, Mrs. Z. Simmons.

The funeral of the late Mr. Charles French, which was largely attended, took place on Saturday, when all that was mortal was laid to rest in the Methodist Cemetery to await the resurrection morn.

Mr. T. O'Neill of the Majestic Theatre, St. John's, was in town on Saturday.

Mr. L. A. O'Brien of the Cable Staff here, having spent a most enjoyable holiday, is now back to town again.

Doctor W. S. Goodwin and his assistant, Mr. Edwin Whiteway, arrived here on Thursday from Bonavista, Shoal Harbor and other places nearby, where they had been attending to business for the past few weeks.

The death occurred at her home, Harvey Street, on Saturday morning last of Jessie, wife of our respected townsman, Mr. Robert Tetford, sr., Contractor. As stated in Telegram on a previous date, Mrs. Tetford at the first part of the summer went to St. Anthony to visit her daughter, Bessie (Mrs. D. Moore), and while there became very ill. Later in the summer her husband went there to accompany her home, and together with her daughter, she came here on the S.S. Prospero, just a week ago, hoping that on her return to the old home she would rally again, but God did not will it, and she gradually sank until the end came. Besides a husband and one son, Robert, residing here, she leaves to mourn five daughters, Mrs. Don Moore of St. Anthony, Mrs. Eva Coffin of St. John's, and three others living in the U.S.A., as well as three sons living in either the U.S.A. or Canada. The funeral which took place yesterday, Sunday, afternoon, was very largely attended, when all that was mortal of a loving wife and mother was laid to rest in the Methodist Cemetery.

"Peace perfect peace, death shadowing us, and ours;
Jesus has conquered death and all His powers."
This very sad and unexpected event is a great blow to the sorrow stricken family, and the town extends to them sincere sympathy in this hard trial.

Mr. Wm. L. Orr, representing Messrs. J. B. Orr Co., Ltd., of St. John's, is in town to-day.

If a Testator

although seeing the benefits to be derived from a Trust Company's administration, hesitates about canceling any appointment he may have already made, the Montreal Trust Company can be named to act with the Executor or Executors already appointed. In this way the Trust Company co-operates with the Testator's appointees in the administration of the Estate. This plan is very acceptable when the Testator's wife is named as Executor. Few women have the necessary business training to enable them to carry on the administration of an Estate, but with the co-operation of the Montreal Trust Company the Testator's wife can be appointed with full assurance that the Estate will be well looked after.
