Buy 2 Bottles

Never risk running out of Bovril. Buy two bottles and always keep one in reserve.

Bovril is one of the most important of all foods—not merely in emergencies, but for every day use. Bovril is the best of all hot drinks, and whenever a meal is wanted in a hurry, or extra nourishment is required, if someone should feel chilled or tired, give Bovril.

Always have BOVRIL in the House

LADY IRIS' MISTAKE;
— or the —
Hero of 'Surata'

CHAPTER XXIV.

He had won her, and his heart was full of joy and gratitude. What had he done that this, the best and sweetest gift in the whole world, should be his? It seemed to him that he should never come to the end of all that he had to tell her—of how he had loved her at first sight, of all his fears and doubts. They never remembered how time passed while they sat, by the silver lake. To both of them the after years brought their mingled burden of pain and pleasure; but life never again gave to them an hour so completely happy as this.

"I am sure it is growing late," said Lady Iris at last. "Why, the moon has sailed round to the beech-trees—look! And I hear no music! Oh, Captain Osburn, is it late?"

"My beautiful darling, do you think I can bear that formal address? Say 'Allan' and I will answer you."

"Allan," she whispered; and then he kissed her hand passionately. "Allan, is it late, do you think?"

"No, I hear laughter and voices," he replied.

"But we must go," she said.

"We will go when you have said something I want to hear, my darling. I find it difficult to realize my happiness. I want to hear from you again that it is true. Tell me."

She stood before him with the moonlight on her beautiful face and fair hair; she looked so sweet that he was dazed by her appearance. His face flushed, his voice was low and hoarse with emotion as he said—

"Tell me that you love me."

She laid her hands upon his breast and looked up into the dark handsome face.

"I love you, Allan, with all my heart."

"Now, you must say this—I promise to be your wife, to love you and you only all my life, to be true to you always."

She repeated the words after him, and then added—

"I promise you even more than this."

perist in saying that they thought Lady Iris would have looked higher. Congratulations poured in from all sides. It mattered little to the happy lovers who praised or who blamed. They lived in a world of their own, and the atmosphere of it was all love. All criticism was lost upon them; they cared only for each other.

Lady Arice and John Bardon were among the first who called to offer congratulations. Lady Arice was a little more gracious than usual; yet there was something in her manner that Lady Iris could not quite understand. She pressed her lips for one moment to the fresh and beautiful face of Lord Caledon's daughter.

"You have shown more sense than half the girls in England would have shown," she said. "You are noble enough to appreciate true merit in whatever guise you may find it."

The words had a strange sound, but Lady Iris answered—

"I have found it in very pleasant guise. Do you not think so?"

But Lady Arice made no reply. She had said all that she deemed was necessary.

"I need not ask," said John Bardon to Allan, "if the news is true. Your face tells me you are a happy man, Osburn. You have now a love for which many a man would have given his life."

"That I believe, and I am—I thank Heaven for it—a very happy and fortunate fellow," the young soldier responded; and he held out his hand to Bardon, who shuddered as he touched it. "I have to thank you for much of my happiness, John," continued Allan. "But for your friendship and for the kind manner in which you invited me down here, I should never have known Lady Iris. I shall never forget what I owe to you."

"You will owe me more by and by," said John Bardon to himself with a groan, and then aloud—"I must go and congratulate Lady Iris."

"John does not seem quite like himself," thought Allan. "That stately wife of his has just a touch of the shrew about her, and John knows it."

On the western terrace he did indeed look unlike himself as he ever took Lady Iris, who was walking with some of her visitors there. She saw that he wanted to speak to her, and she good-naturedly lingered until he joined her. In a blind confusion he saw a fair and exquisite face shaded by a broad hat, and a tall beautiful figure with floating blue draperies.

Lady Iris held out her hand to him, and the happiness that shone in her eyes seemed to strike him dumb with passionate pain. His face grew white, and the hand that touched hers trembled so that she felt it.

"I have to offer you my congratulations, Lady Iris," he said, in a hoarse voice.

"I thank you, Mr. Bardon," she replied, smiling up at him. "I knew you would be pleased, for you are one of Captain Osburn's best friends."

Third Government Formed in Ireland.

Valera Head of Republican Institution
Irish Peer Loses Ancestral Castle by Fire --- Miniature General Election in Canada --- Lloyd George Tumultuously Received at Glasgow.

BELFAST, Oct. 29. The castle, near Lough Neagh, of Viscount Massereene, Parliamentary Secretary to the Prime Minister of Northern Ireland, was destroyed by fire set by armed men on Saturday. Republican forces who were in the scene helped to save the castle. The fire is believed to be due to trouble between the castle and owners of the estate.

OTTAWA, Oct. 29. Writs were issued Saturday for holding bye-elections in five vacant federal constituencies, Lanark, Ont., Jacques Cartier and Megantic, Quebec, Gloucester, New Brunswick, and Halifax. Nomination day is November 20th and polling day, December 4th. The five contests coming to gether will be the first test of strength since the Government took office. With one fight in Ontario, New Brunswick, and Nova Scotia, and two in Quebec, the contest takes the complexion of a miniature general election and constitutes a test of strength throughout the Eastern provinces.

NEW IRISH REPUBLICAN GOVT.
DUBLIN, Oct. 29. A proclamation, signed by a number of irregular Army leaders now in arms throughout Ireland, was issued yesterday in the name of the Irish Republican Army, declaring the formation of a new Republican Government, with Eamon De Valera as the President. It is announced in a statement by the Republican Publicity Department, and that such Cabinet as De Valera and the Council of State might appoint is to be temporarily the Supreme Executive of the Republic.

LOYD GEORGE AT GLASGOW.
GLASGOW, Oct. 29. Mr. Lloyd George, pursuing his aggressive campaign, spoke at Glasgow on Saturday, which Bonar Law represents, and where Law on Thursday sounded the keynote of his appeal. He had a tumultuous reception, rivaling that accorded his successor in the Premiership. He spoke before five thousand people. Referring to the Coalition which had achieved victory in war and now was broken up, he asked an explanation of "that wanton act of sabotage." I am more perplexed than ever, he said, and I think the nation is perplexed. "This is not the time when we are doing our best, all of us, in order to extricate the nation out of its difficulties, that we should quarrel among ourselves. Bonar Law said it was better to split the nation than split the party, but that is not a good reason to give." Referring to the composition of the new Government, Lloyd George said the country required in the direction of the ablest men available, and some of these men, as a result of the action of the Conservatives, are not available.

Manuel's Enquiry Concluded.

200 FOLIOS EVIDENCE TAKEN.
The enquiry held before Judge Morris into the cause of the deaths of Thomas Anderson and F. L. Southgate, who were drowned by the upsetting of their boat when off Manuel's shore, on August 19th, 1922, concluded. There were nineteen witnesses called and examined and over two hundred folios of evidence taken. The enquiry was held under Section 22, Chap. 88 of the Consolidated Statutes, that provides for investigation into all cases of persons slain, drowned or suddenly dead, etc., and all depositions in connection therewith will be transmitted to the Minister of Justice for such further proceedings as may be required by law.

Unemployed Meet.

DELEGATION INTERVIEW GOVT. HEADS.
Saturday afternoon a number of unemployed met on the Parade Ground and appointed a committee of six to interview the acting Prime Minister as to the possibility of obtaining work. The committee visited Hon. Geo. Shea and also Hon. Dr. Campbell but were informed that the Government did not intend to start any relief work in the city for the present, as at this season of the year employment should be secured along the waterfront.

Wedding Bells.

HYDE-HEARN.

A very quiet but pretty wedding took place at the Goulds at 4 p.m. on Wednesday last, when Miss Margaret Hearn, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Hearn, of that place, and Mr. Thomas Hyde, of Bay Bulls, were united in the holy bonds of matrimony by Very Rev. Dean Tierney, of Petty Harbor. The ceremony was performed at the Deanery in the presence of the immediate friends of the contracting parties. The bride was attractively attired in a dress of Duchesse satin with pearl trimming and wore a black picture hat with flowing veil. She was attended by her sister, Betty, who wore a dress of sage blue crepe de chene. Mr. Arthur Hearn, of Bay Bulls, ably performed the duties of best man. Following the ceremony the bridal party drove to the home of the bride's parents where a reception was held when all did ample justice to the "inner man." On their arrival they were greeted with great enthusiasm by their hundreds of friends amidst showers of confetti and volleys of musketry. After the reception the young couple motored to their future home in Bay Bulls. Many valuable presents were received, the groom's present to the bride being a handsome cheque. The Telegram joins with the many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Hearn in wishing them many years of wedded happiness.—W.L.

Coal Boat Disabled off Channel.

S. S. KYLE TO THE RESCUE.

A message to the Reid Nfld. Co. from Port aux Basques was received this morning, stating that the S. S. Bethlehem, bound from North Sydney to Wabana, Bell Island, with a cargo of 2000 tons of coal on board, had been towed in there by the S. S. Kyle last evening, and safely moored at the Reid pier in a disabled condition. First news of the stranded ship was received at noon yesterday, when some fishermen came in from the grounds and reported that a large ship had sent up signals of distress, about three miles off Channel Head. The sea was very rough at the time and assistance was at once needed. So soon as the proper authorities had been informed of the matter, the S. S. Kyle which had been laying at the terminus wharf was at once despatched to the scene, this being at 2 p.m. In less than an hour, the disabled steamer was picked up. Owing to the very boisterous seas which were running at the time, much difficulty was experienced in getting a tow line aboard, but careful maneuvering, on the part of Capt. Stevenson, of the S. S. Kyle, this was soon effected. The towing of the ship was accomplished after a very trying time, and at 6 p.m. she was safely moored at the terminus wharf, Port aux Basques.

But meagre reports are to hand as to what the particulars are covering the accident. It is presumed that the steamer met with the full force of the gale after leaving North Sydney on Friday last, and being badly buffeted about received damages to her steering gear, lost her rudder, and was left helpless in a leaky condition, while part of her bridge was swept away by mountainous seas. S. S. Bethlehem has been chartered by the Dominion Coal Co. plying back and forth between Wabana, Bell Island, and North Sydney for some time. Her owners are the Atlantic Chartering Co. of New York, and her tonnage is 2600. The full extent of the damage is not known as yet. In the meantime negotiations are going on between the Reids and the owners as to salvage, etc.

ADDRESS ON FIRE PREVENTION.

This morning "Fire Prevention Week" was observed in this institution, at the request of Inspector General Hutchings, I.S.O., by an address on "Fire Prevention and How to Avoid Accidents by Fire," given by Mr. Geo. P. Williams. All the Spencians listened attentively to the speaker, and were greatly interested in the story of the great fire of 1892 and the citizens living in tents—the carelessness of handling matches, dangers of open grates, using of gasoline and kero oil before open flame, what to do when a building or clothing takes fire, first aid for burns, etc. The pupils executed a pretty musical march, entering the College Hall, and retiring to the various classrooms. The Principal Miss Cherrington, has already trained her school to fire drill and during the morning, without notice to the school, suddenly sounded the fire alarm and Mr. Williams timed the pupils coming out and the entire building was emptied in two minutes, including the kindergarten—all done class by class in a proper and orderly fashion.

Taking the Sting From Winter Colds

(Monday . . . . . Health Talk No. 7)
(By Wm. H. MacPherson, D.C., Ph.C)

Whenever the body is in what is called a rundown condition and it becomes chilled, the so-called winter cold appears. It may be merely a disagreeable stoppage of the nose, or it may be the forerunner of influenza or pneumonia.

The body does not get in a rundown condition without a cause. It will be found in such cases that a spinal disturbance is causing bad elimination of poisons and waste matter from the body. The lungs, the liver or the kidneys may be at fault, or all three may be affected.

The chiropractor locates the disturbed spinal bones, readjusts them to proper position, thus freeing the pinched nerve lines and restoring a full degree of power to the mental impulses that travel the spinal nerve lines to the organs affected. Health follows as a natural result.

International Fishing Schooner Races.

The Story of the 1922 Series Sailed Off Gloucester.

(Reprinted from Staff Correspondence of Morning Chronicle, Halifax.)

(By H. W. JONES.)
GLOUCESTER, Mass., Oct. 24.—To-night we pray for fishermen's weather. Bluenose, twice defeated, once officially, by the Henry Ford, will be at the starting line at ten o'clock to-morrow morning for the second official race of the International Schooner Championship series. The Henry Ford will be there, and then again she may not. If the sweet-lined Gloucester vessel is there and if it blows anything from a full breeze up, all the Canadians count on victory. But there are so many "ifs" about the present fizzle that we dare not count on wind. A piping nor-wester held here all day long, then died with the sun. The glass is rising to-night, and old Nova Scotia salts in Gloucester for the races shake their heads in doubt.

Meanwhile, after a day of perplexing changes in the situation, with Captain Clayton Morrissey, the Lower East Falmouth skipper of the Ford, and his crew of Nova Scotians and Newfoundlanders the centre of the turmoil, there appeared to be some possibility that Uncle Sam's schooner sulking at her dock to-day, would be on hand to-morrow. This morning Captain Clayton threw his first double bombshell of the day when he ordered his crew to put the fishing ballast, dories and gear aboard. "We're through with racing; get ashore. Maybe later we'll race the Mayflower, but no more Bluenose and committees for mine."

WAS PROBABLY A BLUFF.
The husky crew still grumbling over the Sailing Committee's "no race" decision of Saturday last, obeyed the order and in a few hours had put aboard three tons of iron, three tons of stone, a heavy anchor and chain, the hoisting engine and some of the kids. The ballast was so placed as to put the vessel well down in the stern.

As the deed of gift of the International trophy does not permit of a competing schooner reducing or adding to her ballast during the series, this automatically disqualified the Ford unless she removed the extra weight.

This statement secured from the Premier, who is following the contest with as much interest as the keenest fisherman in Lunenburg, or Gloucester, represents opinion that now prevails among sear minds here. High wrangling still rules at street corners, but fishing captains, business men and experienced sportsmen of this old city say that the Ford should be there to-morrow, and that Bluenose jinx worked overtime.

Bluenose's jinx worked overtime to-day. Her skipper, anxious to have his vessel's gouged shoe examined, had agreed last evening to Captain Morrissey's request for a postponement on account of his illness. Ford's skipper recovered overnight from his indisposition and this morning Angus, learning that his vessel could not be hauled out, as another craft would require the use of the slip for the day, wanted to race. There was nothing doing, so he had to tap his heels the live long day, and is compelled to send his vessel to the line to-morrow with no certainty that there is not something radically wrong with her under-neath.

Gloucester is inclined to treat the mishap to Bluenose's shoe as somewhat of a joke. They say there had their schooners of times touch bottom and that the Lunenburg's repeated groundings at her dock can have done her no harm. Confronted with the evidence of a slice of her shoe fished up by a keel hauling rope, they are mute. It may well be that the local vessels, with shoes of oak, can afford to take chances that the Bluenose, with her shoe of birch, would not like. It is recalled that the LaHave schooner Canada, when hauled out recently preparatory to the Nova Scotia races was found to have lost most of her shoe as the result of stranding somewhere during the summer. It may be that Bluenose will sail minus part of her shoe, with bolts sticking out and perhaps jagged sections pointing across her keel.

CONFIDENT OF THE BLUENOSE.
But, sheless or not, Bluenose is expected by Canadians here to do something worth while if the white caps are abroad in Massachusetts Bay to-morrow. They point with glee to her remarkable recovery on the close reach home, to the finish yesterday. They admit that the closer she lays to the wind the better she likes it, but the confidence that given a breeze she can show her heels to the Ford, is not leave her fast on the reach and trim her to a frazzle in the muzzler in the chop to windward.

Gloucester seemed glad that there was no race to-day. The Nova Scotia vessel's showing in the puffs yesterday was rather disturbing and there were many who reckoned that in heavier weather the challenger would

College Football.

ST. DON'S VS. BISHOP FIELDS.

The second game of the second round of the Inter-Collegiate football series was played between the St. Don's and Bishop Field teams at St. George's Field on Saturday afternoon. The match resulting in the former team decisively defeating the latter aggregation by a score of five goals to one. In a game that produced good football on both sides, while excitement reigned supreme from start to finish. The rosters with their college yell occupied foremost positions on the grand stand and kept up the usual "ra. ra." throughout the whole game. The outcome was indeed a big surprise to many, as on their former appearance the game ended in a draw, each having scored one goal. Saturday's result by the table of points shows that St. Don's have now a comfortable lead for the season's Championship. Should they win this year their Alma Mater will carry with them the happy distinction of annexing the championship for ten years in succession, a record which any college or university should indeed feel proud of. The brand of football displayed by both teams in Saturday's game was indeed a revelation to watch. Many of them would easily make several of our League players sit up and take notice. It certainly reflects on the championship of the part of the Masters who have always taken such a deep interest in the welfare of the boys.

THE GAME.

The game during the first half was brimful of many smart plays by both sides. Due to the advantage of a fresh westerly breeze behind them the St. Don's lads kept the ball in the Fieldian territory practically the whole period. The Fieldians only managed to get West on one or two occasions. Fress and Anderson making very feeble attempts on scoring. The St. Don's having the play to their advantage, proved to be more fortunate, having secured two goals to their opponents nil before the half time whistle sounded. The first goal was scored after five minutes of play by Donnelly on a pretty pass from Raymond Halley. Donnelly the diminutive centre forward, duplicating the trick some ten minutes later from a scrimmage in front of goal, it was a terrific shot. The ball was making its way for a counter just underneath the crossbar. Fitzgerald responded to the occasion, but he overbalanced himself and could not recover in time to clear. McGrath, the St. Don's centre half, played a splendid game during this half, time after time he ward off several Fieldian attacks.

SECOND HALF.

Upon play being resumed the Fieldian forces made a determined attack on the St. Don's goal for upwards of five minutes, but found Flynn and Fraser, the two stalwart backs, impenetrable. After the barrage had been lifted, the St. Don's forwards immediately took control, and in the first visit west scored No. 3, the leather having been sent past Fitzgerald by Fraser, the Fieldian goalie, who used poor judgement in casting it aside by a mis-kick. This took the pep out of the Blues for some minutes, when the St. Don's again came back and scored No. 4 and 5 in rapid succession, by clean, fast combination play, Cotter and G. Halley doing the needful. Play was confined to midfield towards the end of the game, the Fieldians having bucked up, had a slight advantage over their opponents. In a mix-up in front of the St. Don's goal, Nikosey handled the ball, the referee awarding the Fieldians a penalty kick, which was placed safely in the twine by Capt. Withers, scoring their one and only goal of the game. Play was of a give and take nature for the remaining moments of the game. The all over sounded leaving the St. Don's victorious by a score of 5 goals to 1. The teams lined up as follows:—

S.B.C.—Goal, Alex Collins; Backs, S. Fraser, Wm. Flynn; Halves, R. Halley, K. McGrath; T. Ryan; Forwards, Halley, J. Cotter, G. Donnelly, L. Nikosey, G. Fraser.

B.F.C.—Goal, Fitzgerald; Backs, Sheppard and Morris; Halves, Rendell, Lloyd, Eals; Forwards, Titford, Press, Withers, Long, Anderson. The table of points now stand as follows:

Team	P.	W.	L.	D.	F.	A.	Pts.
St. Don's	3	2	0	1	11	3	5
B.F.C.	1	2	1	1	9	2	2
M.C.	1	2	0	4	8	2	2

The Methodist and St. Don's are the contesting teams in the next game.

Another Victory.

Once more the "red duster" has been carried to victory, and the superiority of British seamen and shipping demonstrated in a manner beyond cavil. The International Race Committee are to be congratulated on their decision to disallow the absurd protests of the American Race Committee, and the award of the trophy and first prize to the "Bluenose. Regarding the protest entered on Thursday at Gloucester, that the sails of the Nova Scotian defender were made of duck of a finer texture than is generally used, we have made some enquiries, the result of which there is no reason in withholding. For some time past the Lunenburg fishing fleet owners have been importing an English cotton duck to be made into sails for their bankers. This duck is somewhat finer than the Woodberry and Ontario formerly used, and has become the standard for sails at that port. Possessing, it is claimed, more lasting qualities than the article of American manufacture, and will, in future, be universally used by Nova Scotian fishermen. So much for that. The other protests were equally absurd. It is a pity that these ever should have been made, but it is to the credit of the Governing Committee that they refused to entertain them for a moment. On last Saturday, when the first race was officially declared off, Captain Walters offered to give it to the Ford, and was perfectly satisfied that the challenger had won. In marked contrast to this was the action of the protestors, who evidently could not take the decisive defeat of their schooner like true sports. Last year when the contest was off the port of Halifax, there was not a hitch nor a misunderstanding in any of the arrangements. Not so in United States waters. But it is all over for this year, and though some little heat may have been generated over the outcome of Saturday's fiasco, there is no doubt that the real sailors of Gloucester accepted the defeat of the challenger in the right spirit.

Congratulations then to the gallant commander of "Bluenose," Capt. Angus Walters, and his no less gallant crew. They again carried the flag that braved a thousand years the battle and the breeze" to victory and honor, and nobly maintained the best traditions of sport in their winning. The sad tragedy that marred the successful finish cast a gloom over the events following the race, and in the midst of congratulations the flush of victory was toned down because of the sad ending of one of the crew of the Lunenburg, who was also a near relative of the master. The sympathy of everybody is extended to him, and to the other relations of the drowned man. The incident has prevented any further racing until the period of mourning has passed. Whether or not Captain Demone met with his death through foul play cannot very easily be determined. The circumstances under which his dead body was found show that there is something mysterious about the manner of his end. Enquiry may possibly elicit something upon which may be determined the actual cause, and other developments may show just how the body came to be in a dock back of a theatre. It was a deplorable finish to the brilliant victory won by Bluenose, in which the drowned man bore his part with other shipmates. The plaudits of the multitude will be somewhat repressed, when, instead of arriving home in his vessel, with flags flying in celebration of his victory, Captain Walters will be given the mournful task of accompanying the remains of his nephew by train, to be interred in the earth of his native place. And thus ends the 1922 series of International Fishing Schooner races for the Dennis trophy, retained by Canada for another year. The end was not quite so triumphant as the beginning, for the rejoicing over winning will be mingled with regrets that one valuable life was lost to no purpose, and amidst suspicious surroundings.

Vanguard at Port Union

SCHOONERS HAVE HARBOURED. Some eight or ten vessels of the fleet from Bonavista Bay are now at Port Union awaiting a favorable time to sail. It is understood that most of the vessels have left Westville, but have harboured enroute, as the barometer and weather signs indicated a storm, to-day's readings being from five to eight-tenths below twenty-nine. It is likely that the schooners at Port Union will be along this evening. The fleet left Westville last week but was obliged to put back owing to unfavorable weather.

Barr be discontinued, on payment of all costs of said G. M. Barr, including those occasioned by the discontinuance. Stephen G. Preble and The British Traders' Insurance Co.—This is an application on the part of the defendants to amend their defence. Mr. Bradley, for defendant is heard in support of the motion. Mr. C. E. Hunt for plaintiff is heard and asks for all costs occasioned by the amendment. It is ordered that the amendment be allowed upon payment of all costs occasioned by the amendment.

Schooner Violet J.

MAKES MAIDEN VOYAGE TO PORT. The schr. Violet J., owned by Ed. Jones, Little Bay Islands, arrived in port this morning on her maiden voyage. The schooner left Little Bay Islands on Tuesday last and met stormy weather, which necessitated making harbor at Twillingate. Leaving that port after the sailing of the Meigle, the vessel reached Port Union some hours ahead of the steamer. On the passage from Port Union very heavy winds were encountered, but the vessel proved an admirable sea boat and came through without the slightest mishap. The Violet J. was built at Little Bay Islands last summer by Mr. J. Hull, with 5 helpers. Work was started on the 10th of May and carried through with despatch, the craft being ready for sea some weeks ago. She has on board a cargo of 700 qts. dry fish. Everything on the vessel is spanking new and the workmanship was highly commended by a large number of people who viewed her at Job's Wharf, where she has hauled to discharge.

Grand Jury Summoned

MURDER CHARGES TO BE CONSIDERED. The Grand Jury has been summoned to be in attendance on November 1st. There are two indictments to be considered, viz. Kitchener Edwards for jail breaking, and Harley for an attempted burglary of the Neyle Hardware store. The Chief Justice will also address the jury on the case of Wo Fen Game, who is charged with a triple murder and also an attempted murder. This case will not be taken by the Grand Jury on this opening day, but will be given consideration on Thursday.

Sable I. Arrives.

S. S. Sable I., 40 hours from North Sydney, arrived in port this morning bringing a full cargo including 66 head of cattle. On the passage from North Sydney the ship encountered strong northerly winds with heavy sea. The following passengers arrived on the steamer:—A. A. Chisholm, W. Titters, J. A. Adamson, Mrs. Caldwell.

BONAVISTA MEETING A GREAT SUCCESS—PEOPLE THERE WILL STAND BY THE RESOLUTIONS. Special to Evening Telegram. GREENSPOND, To-day. Arrived 5 p.m. Saturday after being across to Bonavista in open motor boat with delegate, to lay fishermen's resolution before the people. Meeting held at Bonavista on Thursday night. Hall practically filled. Resolutions passed unanimously and ratified by signatures. Highest order prevailed. People determined to stand with us for freedom. Another enthusiastic meeting held at Newman's Cove on Friday night, where our delegate got a good reception, and after explaining resolutions, the people of Birch and Newman's Coves, with a spirit of determination, passed and signed the same, and moreover volunteered to take the matter up and take a copy to Amherst Cove, and get it signed. A more detailed account being sent by Prospero.

INTERESTING BIBLE STUDIES. The Cathedral Men's Bible Class meeting yesterday afternoon in the Synod Hall was largely attended. The series of studies now in progress are on the three first chapters of the book of the Revelation of St. John the Divine and have a special interest at this time, as they have something to do with the Near East situation. Both educative and instructive, these lectures are proving very helpful, their most attractive feature being perhaps the striking way in which they set forth the remarkable fulfillment of prophecy. The Epistles to the Ephesians has already been taken. That to the Smyrnae Church was the subject of yesterday's address. In order to enable the class to understand and to more easily follow these studies a special map has been prepared, to illustrate the lectures.

If out of town, ask your dealer for it. He has it, or can obtain it.

Magistrates Court.

Two young men, residing on Newtown Road, were charged with being drunk, and were released on suspended sentence.

A resident of New Gower Street appeared before the court this morning on the charge of being a loose and disorderly person, and the using of vile and filthy language towards one of the officers of the law whilst in the discharge of his duties on the 26th inst. Supt. O'Neill stated that the accused has not caused the police any trouble recently, and that on several occasions he had assisted the police in a number of arrests being made. The Judge spoke strongly on the filthy and vile language that has been going on in the city, giving the prisoner at the bar a sound lecture. He took into consideration Supt. O'Neill's remarks on his behalf, and allowed him to go on suspended sentence.

A man named Hurley for assault on a young girl, did not appear when called upon. A warrant was issued for his arrest. The matter will likely be heard before the court this afternoon.

A number of delinquents were summoned for refusing to pay their Poll Tax. Postponed until Wednesday morning.

For refusing to support his wife and child during the past twelve months, a man of the higher levels stood charged this morning. "Hubby" stated he would support the child but not the wife. Mr. J. Higgins acting on his behalf moved that the case be tried in camera. The evidence as stated by the husband in court was considered cancelled.

THE QUIET LIFE. I lead a sane and normal life, or strive to lead it; thus, I shun all argument and strife, all bitterness and fuss, and in my belt I pack no knife, for any human cuss. My neighbor Johnsing holds some views that I don't entertain, and now and then, in creek-shoes, he comes down the lane, exercise his vocal thews, his theosophy to explain. This Johnsing's an aggressive wight, he hankers for the fray, and we might wrangle round all night, and likewise half the day; but I remark, "You're doubtless right," to all that he may say. He soon grows tired expounding things, when I will not dispute; a little while the welkin rings, and then the blamed thing's mute; and on his way my neighbor swings, to bore some new suitout. It is no use to call on me, if one would seek a row, I sit beneath my Babylon tree, a wreath upon my brow, and raby though my winters be, I'm happy as a cow. I do not fret about my rights, nor yet about my wrongs; I spend my tranquil days and nights a-playing harps and gongs, and you will find no gayer wights among the surging throngs. They say there's sorrow in the land, they say there's sin, and care, but would these things be sogger' banned if I should rip and swear? Ah, no; I take my lute in hand and play a jim-crow air.

Canadian Corps Strikes First Blow for Capture of Passchendaele Ridge.

Through Mud, Fire and Inferno of Machine Gun Fire Third and Fourth Divisions Fight Their Way to Bellevue Spur.

For the Canadian Press by W. A. WILLISON, Canadian War Correspondent.

For his men than Currie for the Canadians. GENERAL ALLIED OPERATION. The first of the Canadian operations against Passchendaele Ridge was not scheduled for October 24, the actual date, but for an earlier day. It was part of a general Allied operation, with French, British and Australian troops. General Currie and his staff insisted that further time was essential, the adequate artillery support was vital to success, and that there should be no battle until every possible preparation had been made. No one can estimate what that consideration for the rank and file meant in reduced casualties during the bloody days that followed. While Corps Headquarters was deciding the scheme of attack and striving to perfect every detail of organization, the 4th Canadian Division, under Maj.-General Sir David Watson, took up its headquarters in the famous ramparts of Ypres, and the 3rd Division, commanded by Maj.-General J. J. Lipsett, found its headquarters along the canal. Brigades went forward to crawl into old dugouts in long-abandoned trenches, or to take refuge in such sinks as that dirty underground warren that marked the Wietse crossroads. Ahead of them again, in abandoned "pill boxes," were battalion headquarters; while artillery units and batteries and gunners and infantrymen of the rank and file lived with their subalterns and captains in concrete hovels. In soggy trenches and caves on the slopes of hills, in pits, in dirty trenches. There were, indeed, few trials of endurance that men did not endure, but they lacked little of them. Hereabout were Canadian graves. Near here gas had torn the lungs and brought the agony of death to many brave men on an April in 1915. Over the Passchendaele ridges, Canadian prisoners of war had gone to long brutal confinement in Germany. There was a debt to be paid. It was in all men's minds that the settlement would be soon, but there was no thought that the account would be lightly squared. This was grim business, even for Flanders. Bellevue Spur was the chief objective in the first Canadian attack. On October 12, such gallant troops as those of Australia and New Zealand had failed over this area. Canada should be familiar with Philip Gibb's description of their experience to appreciate better what her own troops did. Describing the Australian attack, the famous English correspondent said: "But machine-guns fire ceaselessly from the higher ground, from all masts of branchless trees, from shell craters beyond the reach of our men. . . . They were stuck in the swamps at Marsh Bottom . . . and in the bogs below Crest Farm. They plunged into these bogs. Bercely cursing them, struggling to get through them to the enemy, but the men could do nothing with their legs held fast in such slime, nothing but shout to comrades to drag them out. While they struggled German snipers shot at them with a cool aim, and the machine-gun hail of the deadly barrage lashed across the shell craters. Australian troops on the right made good and reached the edge of the hummock called Crest Farm. Some of them swarmed up it and fought and killed the garrison there, but beyond was another knoll with machine-guns and riflemen, and as our men came up to the top of Crest Farm they were under close and deadly fire. They would have held their ground here if they could have been supported on the left, but the New Zealanders were having a terrible time in Marsh Bottom and Bellevue, and could not make much headway because of the deadly fire which came down from the spur on which Bellevue is perched. All this time it was raining hard, making the ground worse than before, and the wet mists deepened, preventing all visibility for our aircraft working with the guns. Orders were given not to continue the second stage of the attack, because the weather was too bad, and the Australians on the right centre withdrew their line in order not to have an exposed flank."

DIFFICULTIES WERE TREMENDOUS.

Only those who saw that land can know how vital adequate preparations were to victory. Literally miles of soggy, shell-swept country had to be traversed by "duck-walks" to bring ammunition and rations to the forward area. Beliefs had to go by the same precarious routes. When the battle arrived, wounded and reinforcements would have to go backwards and forwards by just such paths until they, too, dwindled out and gave place to marsh and quagmire. The difficulties of establishing battery positions and finding secure foundations for guns were tremendous. In many cases tanks had to be employed. Straining teams and men were common sights; and once the battery positions were established, foundations had to be reconstructed constantly. Artillery men slept beside their guns in hovels made of parallel rows of mudbags with sacking for doors and tin for roofs. Crazy-looking structures they were, housing varieties of eager but unwelcome visitors, but providing some shelter against the cold and the rain. Ammunition dumps had to be established, casualty clearing stations had to be organized, and so forth, with a multitude of details all to be dovetailed and perfected. In two weeks, and in three operations, the Corps will capture Passchendaele. He detailed the plan of battle and outlined with precision its various phases. His quiet assurance of success was the most striking tribute that a commander could pay to his men. These men justified the confidence.

BATTLE OF PASSCHENDEALE.

At 5.40 on the morning of Oct. 26, the whole salient on a 10-mile front, from Houthout forest to Gheluyt, woke to the noise of thousands of guns. Never before, not even on the Somme, had there been such a concentration of artillery. For two hours, French, Imperial, Australian and Canadian troops waited in their trenches while the terrific bombardment continued, wiping out enemy trenches, demolishing his advanced positions, wrecking many of the strong points, sweeping his support areas, and disturbing his communications. German forward lines were marked by one long line of bursting shells. The Canadian attack was confined to a 3000-yard front, extending roughly from the Passchendaele-Zonnebeke road to Wallemolen. They had as their objectives Hillside Farm, Heine House, Augustus Wood, Laambeek, Bellevue Spur, Wolf Cope, and the higher land to the north-west. Over all this area, the gridded barrage of our guns sought out the enemy. In some parts of our line his reply to our fire was immediate and heavy, but the powerful concentration of our shells continued until the German artillery was largely demoralized, and when the moment came for our advance the marked decrease of enemy gun-fire gave unmistakable signs of his disorganization. Then our men "went over." On the right of the Canadian attack, the 10th Brigade advanced on a line roughly from Waterliden to the Passchendaele-Zonnebeke road. To the left, the 8th and 9th Brigades went forward against Laambeek, Bellevue Spur, Wolf Cope, and the higher land to the north-west. The infantry went over the top in waist deep mud, which an all-night drizzle had turned to little more than slime. Wallowing ahead with a spirit that nothing could daunt, they pressed forward victoriously on the right, winning their objectives after sharp fighting, and scoring signal successes which carried them to the dominating spur on the Passchendaele-Zonnebeke road overlooking Passchendaele, village itself. It was stern business, rendered more stern by the concentration of hostile machine-gun fire from Crest Farm and Duck Wood. But the attack was everywhere pressed home; indeed, our troops eventually pushed on to the southern corner of Duck Wood and obtained command over it, thus neutralizing the enemy machine-gun fire. Everywhere on the right the day was a triumphal one. On the extreme right flank our line was pushed forward to Decline Cope and in the general attack we had taken Hillside Farm, Heine House, and Augustus Wood, and gone beyond our objectives to Duck Wood.

CANADIANS VICTORIOUS.

On the left there was grim and bitter fighting. Skirting Marsh Bottom and the waters of the Ravebeek, our troops went forward to the slopes of Bellevue under sweeping machine-gun fire. For fourteen hours there was hard and bitter fighting for the spur and for Laambeek. But when it ended, the Canadians were victorious all along the line and in possession of all their objectives. The formidable Bellevue Spur was taken—that network of wire entanglements, redoubts and pill boxes; that veritable nest of machine-guns, fortified by all the defensive contrivances that German ingenuity could invent to defend what they considered a vital point in the Flanders defence. The Bellevue positions were held by the 11th Bavarian Division, which included the 3rd, and 2nd Bavarian Infantry Regiments. They believed their positions to be impregnable. They had been ordered to hold them at all cost. Captured documents, and the information taken from prisoners, also proved later that they had known beforehand that the Canadians had been moved up from Lens to take the position. Defences had been strengthened with the news. But their defence and their troops showed none of the demoralization of the German artillery, but fought hard and well—was unavailing.

COVERED THEMSELVES WITH GLORY.

The 52nd Battalion of the 3rd Division, New Ontario troops, had been selected to win the spur. On their right was the 43rd Battalion, Manitoba, and on their left the 4th Canadian Mounted Rifles from Central Ontario. The initial attack against the spur was checked. A Company of the 52nd, under command of C. P. J. O'Kelly, was called upon to fill the gap between the 43rd and C. M. R. B. Company following in support. Officers and men covered themselves with glory—and won imperishable renown for the region.

GERMAN COUNTER ATTACKS.

The first of the counter attacks, which A Company repelled, came at four o'clock in the afternoon, when the German Command sent two battalions against the tired but victorious Canadians on Bellevue Spur. The attacking force was swept away under a heavy withering artillery and machine-gun fire and routed with heavy losses, leaving no fewer than sixty prisoners behind them. Three-quarters of an hour later, enemy infantry thrown against Decline Cope, and our positions on the ridge dominating Passchendaele's village, were repulsed with severe losses. They came on again an hour later, only to meet with a more vigorous reception, that effectively broke down the offensive.

During the night the Germans again threw attacking forces against Bellevue Spur and Laambeek, but only to admit final defeat, and dawn broke with the Canadians successful all along the line. The first great task was done. But the twenty-four hours had been grim and costly, and men in that dawn looked back over the terrible land that they had won and marvelled; for it had been a battle even worse than those of the Somme. The very ground under their feet had menaced them. The yawning shell-holes everywhere—filled with water that concealed their depth—were the death traps for the wounded and the crippled who might slip into them. There was no command near to help. Indeed, there are stories of that dreadful day that are better not imagined and that will not bear the telling. It was a battle against enemy air elements, and not only the forward zone, but also the roads that ran from Ypres to St. Jean and Pottise, Wietse, Bridge House and Crest House, and so forward, were torn with shells and stained with blood before the day was old. For after the first attacks had gone forward the enemy began shelling the rear areas, endeavouring to cut off supports and disorganize communications. And down these roads the wounded went slowly in ambulances to casualty clearing stations, or limped bravely along the planks, here and there helping or being helped by German prisoners; while at the advanced dressing stations, doctors and orderlies were attending to friend and enemy alike. The prisoners on the whole were well built men of the physique of "shock troops" and all seemed well pleased to be out of the battle. They said they had been ordered to hold Bellevue at all costs, that their artillery fire had been overpowering, and that, forewarned of the Canadian attack, fresh forces, including the 11th Bavarian Division, had been hurried up to the Passchendaele front.

GREAT PRAISE FOR NON-COMBATANTS.

At Corps headquarters there was a great and quiet satisfaction that the day had gone so well, that the links of the machinery had held true, that the first venture had been made so successfully. Every arm of the Service had distinguished itself, and many were the good words said of the Canadian Red Cross and the Chaplain Services, both of which had co-operated admirably with the C.A.M.C. in relieving the suffering and wounded men and had provided hot coffee, biscuits, cigarettes and other comforts at forward stations and special stalls. So the Y.M.C.A. did its customary good work. And many a wounded man in transfer to the hospitals blessed these gentler services in their pain. But the battle had, only begun. The Canadian Corps had carried off successfully the first phase of the operations that on November 8th, at Passchendaele Ridge, was to be crowned with complete success.

Rotarians all, the great and small,
 Sure you are brave and true,
 May Heaven's blessings on you fall
 For all the good you do.
 St. John's admires you for your work
 You're praised by rich and poor,
 And from the cause you'll never
 Of that I'm certain sure.

March on, although the road be blunt,
 Which leads unto success,
 And God will help you bear the brunt
 And all your labours bless.
 The cause is good which you espouse
 'Tis noble, true and grand,
 A sublime feeling 'twill arouse
 All round your native land.

Trust Him, whose great all seeing eye
 Looks on us from above;
 Whose mighty power is always nigh
 Whose ruling law is love.
 Trust Him, and He will surely guide
 Your footsteps day by day.
 In calm and storm He's by your side,
 When others turn away.

Disdain to notice envy's darts
 No matter from what source,
 Let love abide in all your hearts,
 And by it shape your course.
 Be firm in all that you may do
 And time will surely find,
 That all you did was good and true
 A blessing to mankind.

To save the boy, and bring him up
 In virtues steps, you'll try,
 To drain from life's embittered cup
 The dregs, made of alloy.
 To keep them free of error's ways
 And help them on life's way,
 And when they grow to manhood's days
 They'll bless you day by day.

Yours is a noble brotherhood,
 Sprung from the choicest seed,
 Who dare deny that doing good
 Is not God's blessed deed.
 Be true to Him, and to your toil
 And you'll make no mistake,
 And Providence will surely smile,
 On all you undertake.

Sir Joseph and Lady Outerbridge will reside in Bermuda during the winter months. Lady Outerbridge left for there via Halifax by the S.S. Rosalind on Saturday last, while Sir Joseph will follow probably by the next Red Cross boat from here.

Mr. John M. Tobin, left by the S.S. Rosalind on Saturday for New York on a business trip. Mr. Tobin intends visiting Little Rock, Arkansas, for about a month, and will return home via Montreal, stopping off at that city for a few days.

Dr. W. H. and Mrs. Parsons were passengers by Saturday's incoming express, having spent an enjoyable holiday visiting friends and relatives in the city of Montreal.

Rev. Bro. J. Ennis, of Mt. Cashel, left by the S.S. Rosalind on Saturday last, enroute to New York, where he will consult a specialist for a slight ailment which has recently been causing him some trouble. The many friends of the Rev. gentleman are hopeful of a speedy recovery, and that an operation will not become necessary.

Miss Frances Ryan, a well known and highly esteemed lady of the East End, left by the S.S. Rosalind on Saturday for New York, enroute to Boston, where she will make her home in future. Until recently, Miss Ryan was Principal of the R. C. School at Quidi Vidi, but with feelings of regret, some time ago, she resigned her position to take up a more lucrative one in the land of Uncle Sam. Her scholars and friends alike were at the pier before her departure, and bade her good farewell.

Messrs. B. Boulois and Albert Kelly, General Dealers at Grand Falls, arrived in the city by Saturday's cross country express to purchase their supplies for the coming winter. They are remaining in the city for about ten days.

The many friends of Mrs. W. A. Munn, will be delighted to hear that she has rapidly recovered from the illness which overtook her sometime ago. Her ultimate recovery is now only a matter of time. Mrs. Munn arrived in the city yesterday from the summer cottage of the family at Holyrood.

Considerable time has elapsed since any notes appeared from Salvage, but seeing that W.J.L. has again come to the fore, at Trinity, it seems to be time for lesser scribes to imitate his motive—if not his style and throw reportorial ink about.

By the way, I suppose the recent "ad" in the Evening Telegram spells the end of Popy's Diary. Too bad! One can scarcely conceive how Popy's (the local) can manage to exist with the clothing 'manic' of his wife, if he has not some means of venting his feelings.

Mr. S.G. Faur, the well known tobacconist, who had been in the States during the past three weeks on business in connection with his new cigarette plant, which he contemplates operating in this city, was a passenger by Saturday's incoming express.

Mr. Faur states that he has secured the exclusive right to manufacture the world famous cigarette named the "Independent Mild" which is a household word all over the States and Canada to-day. He has already placed on order a large shipment of tobacco for the purpose, which he expects will arrive in the course of a few weeks, when operations will at once commence. The "Independent Mild" will be done up in a package of most dainty design, the colors, gold, dark blue, and light blue, make an exceptionally fine finish. Each pack will consist of ten cigarettes. "BATTLE OF JUTLAND" AND "BEHIND MASKS."

The Nickel Theatre offers an exceptionally well-balanced bill to-day. Dorothy Dalton makes her re-appearance in "Behind Masks," a picture of E. Phillips Oppenheim's famous novel, "Jeanne of the Marshes."

This is a beautiful picture. It has been well produced and Miss Dalton's support is all that the most exacting taste can demand. We recommend it to you as one of the season's best photoplay attractions.

The other feature is the much talked of "Battle of Jutland." This picture was produced from the official despatches of Jellicoe and Beatty under the direction of Major Gen. Sir Geo. Aston of the Royal Marines. After many months of work this film has been released a short time ago, and it has already aroused much enthusiastic interest wherever shown. See it at the Nickel to-night.

(Trade Review, Saturday.)

The following are the exports for this week totalling $1,745,000:

By S.S. Silvia 7175 tons to New York from Messrs. Kennedy & Co., The Kennedy Co., A. H. Carter, A. E. Hickman, H. H. Bowring Bros., A. H. Bowring, Core Trading Co., R. P. Bowring Co., Geo. M. Barr, W. H. Baine Johnston & Co., F. P. Bowring, Monroe Export Co., R. P. Bowring, Job Bros. & Co., and James S. S. Moss to Alicante, 23,000 lbs. from Messrs. Job Bros. & Co. to James Ryan, Baine Johnston & Co., C. F. Bennett, B. Bowring, Templeman, Bowring Bros., H. H. Bowring & Co., Nfld. Labrador Produce Co., A. H. H. Bowring, Monroe Export Co. and T. H. Bowring.

By schooner General from Halifax to Malaga. By schooner Mascon from Strong and Little Bay Islands 3550 qts. By schooner Otella from St. John's to Labrador Export Co., Foggo and to Oporto and by schooner Otella B. Crosser from the Union of Port Union, 1284 quintals.

The demand for Common Cod is improving and shipments from St. John's continue to be active. The S.S. Schem took 11,935 gallons to Halifax and last trip from Messrs. T. S. Baine Johnston & Co. and T. H. Bowring. The S.S. Silvia carried 29,285 gallons to New York. The S.S. Ebsary, The S.S. Agencies and the F. P. U. are making a total of 51,221 gallons. The local price is now about 10¢ per gallon according to quantity.

There is no improvement in the market. The quantity manufactured in Norway this spring has depressed the price but there are indications that their stocks are being fast. When we see such an active demand for Common Cod Oil for industrial purposes, an improvement in demand and price of Cod Liver Oil is almost certain, especially as the season is in their winter stocks. There was no Cod Liver Oil exported this week. It is estimated that the price of the Newfoundland product is half that of last year owing to low price prevailing in the beginning of the season.

Some enquiries have come from dealers here this week about herring. The market has improved a little and in spite of the new tariff against foreign herring there may be some money coming in to good split herring apart from the U.S. demand. Split herring is wanted for Canada and the West where the price has advanced to ninety cents a barrel. This is the price of Bay of Islands split very popular over the coast and as their catch is mostly split they will have to meet the high tariff. The price from the coast will probably be down to $1.50 a barrel or $2 at the best. There is some preparation going on even at the prospect of this poor figure. It is known that three of the Gloucester fleet are getting ready to go to Bay of Islands.

There is no change worth recording in the Pork market this week. Ham Butt still continues scarce at $22.50 per barrel wholesale in the city. There is a good movement of hogs to the packing centres from the western farmers and all the conditions make for a continuance of easy prices during the fall months. The St. John's receipts this week were: 375 barrels by the S.S. Canadian Sapper from Montreal and 391 barrels by the Sable Island, Fat Back and S. C. Clear are quoted at $28.75. Grocers Family Mess $38 and Spare Ribs $20.50.

The price of Family Special advanced about 50 cents per barrel in the local market this week. The quotations for the other qualities have not changed. Box Flank is $21.50; Ex-Family is $38.50 and Bonedless is $17.25. The importations by the S. S. Silvia this week were 250 barrels. The foreign market on grades is quite strong since the cold weather set in and as the export movement is increasing each week prices are expected to grow firmer as the season advanced.

The wheat market is quite strong this week, following the brisk exportation of the past month to European countries especially from Canada. Shipments of four to Newfoundland in the volume that is always obtained at this time of the year are consequently delayed and retarded so that supplies are now short and are 30,000 barrels under last year at this date. Most of the winter supply will have to come forward via Halifax after the St. Lawrence closes which route will make four 35 cents per barrel dearer. The quotation per barrel this week is $11.50 against $11.35 last week for leading brands. The S.S. Manoa brought in 10,803 barrels this week.

There is nothing worth while to report this week about the molasses situation. The market is very quiet and locally the Fall demand has not yet manifested itself as in former years in October. This no doubt is largely due to such a large number of Ash laden schooners being held up on price strike on the North side of Bonavista Bay. The quotation is still 30 cents for fancy per gallon, and 70 cents for Choice.

Following the trend of the foreign market the price of White American Granulated sugar advanced in wholesale hands from $11.35 per 100 pounds to $11.50 this week. The local market had been well stocked all the past two months which in order to make sales forced importers to sell under the cost of importation. Now that these stocks are getting exhausted a new readjustment of prices takes place to correspond with values in the foreign market and to the recent advance. The market at this advance is steady and next months importations may see additional strength.

Canadian farmers are complaining of the low price now prevailing and declare that there is no profit in potatoes for the grower this fall. As the crop is a record one there are poor prospects of the market improving this side of New Year. The local crop which is now harvested is a fair one but not as good as was expected especially in Conception Bay. The price in the outports is $2 to $2.50 and in St. John's $3 to $3.50 per barrel. This week only 85 sacks were imported.

The large surplus crop and the poor outlook for export makes the hay situation in Canada very discouraging from the farmers standpoint. The price in consequence keeps at a low range in the Provinces of from $17 to $18 for No. 2 Timothy with no great demand at these figures like in other years. Imports for fall requirements are now coming into St. John's every available steamer. The S.S. Manoa brought 120 bales last trip and the Canadian Sapper 580 bales from Montreal and Charlottetown. The local price is $40 a ton wholesale.

The Fall and winter supplies are now coming in from Canada. The S.S. Manoa on her last trip from Montreal brought in 1727 sacks and the S.S. Canadian Sapper 3456 sacks, total 16,723 bushels. Importers have evidently struck the lowest point in the market in their recent orders when oats dropped to 48 cents per bushel for No. 2 in Montreal. The local price is $8.60 for White and $3.50 for mixed per bushel wholesale.

Excavation Work Delayed.
MUCH BLASTING NECESSARY.

During the past three weeks a large gang of men under the supervision of Foreman Cook, have been busily employed on excavation work for the new Normal School, which will be erected on the Parade Grounds. The men employed had made rapid progress in their work up to a few days ago, when it was temporarily suspended, owing to their striking a huge bed of rock in the western section of the cut. Since then numerous sticks of dynamite have to be used for blasting purposes. The laying of the foundation will commence in about ten days time, after which the building will be rushed to completion.

Sar' Ann.

By HARRY M. MOORE.
(Red and Gun in Canada)

Draw up to the fire, comrades, and I'll tell you about Sar' Ann—You smile, but you're wrong—Sar' Ann was not a woman, although perhaps no woman ever got so close to the souls of men as did this bewitching contrivance to take life.

Sar' Ann was a rifle! Not a toy gun to be fondled by watery blooded, arm-chair, pseudo followers of the Red Gods, not a chattel to gather dust and rust and to be handed down in writing from generation to generation; not a meaningless object piled away under an aged-old accumulation of rubbish up in the attic somewhere. Sar' Ann was a rifle, a real, honest-to-goodness, dependable weapon, guaranteed to destroy absolutely anything that ever dared stand up before it.

Angus Delauche christened that rifle Sar' Ann.

Twenty years ago the backwoodsman, Angus Delauche, carefully picked Sar' Ann out of a hardware store window in an upper country village. Angus Delauche's small black eyes glowed with surprise and anticipation. The handsomely modeled walnut stock with a strip of white pearl in the side, the pistol grip, the hair trigger, the sights, the light forged steel barrel, the magazine—all, all were striking evidences of the advance of the times. Here was the latest in rifles.

Delauche raised the rifle to his shoulder and ran his eye along the sights. He pressed down the lever and snapped it up again. His trigger finger tightened firmly. The muzzle of the rifle swung down slowly. Angus Delauche grinned.

"Some gun!" he chortled to the clerk at his elbow. "How much money?"

"Ninety-five dollars," the clerk returned readily, and he added, "We will throw in a hundred rounds of ammunition."

Angus Delauche soberly stood the rifle up against the window while his thick, gnarled fingers pushed through his heavy, untrimmed brown beard.

"To much," he said.

But the clerk was not to be put off. Here was a good prospect. The clerk's soft, white hand dropped gently on Angus Delauche's shoulder and remained there while he got this off his chest:

"Angus, old timer, don't let this bargain slip away from you. If I could shoot as you can, this rifle would not be for sale for any amount of money. It is absolutely the last word in a rifle, as you can see for yourself. It was brought into this country by a tourist who accidentally shot himself up in the bush somewhere. As near as we can learn the man had this rifle fashioned to order for his wife at some factory across the line—" he picked the gun up and pointed to the strip of pearl in the stock—"See, there's his wife's initials. Now, look, Angus—this is a high power rifle with a point blank range of five hundred yards." See the shells are of the new type, bottle neck, loaded with smokeless powder—"

Angus Delauche perked up his head. "Smokeless powder, did you say? SMOKELESS powder? Never heard of such a thing—you mean to tell me there is no smoke—"

"There is no smoke, Angus."

Angus Delauche lifted the rifle to his arm again and studied the stock. "And what do you say them initials stand for?" he asked.

The clerk shook his head. "His wife's name, I suppose. Maybe Susan Ann, maybe—"

Angus Delauche jerked up. "Sar' Ann, by gosh, maybe, eh?"

That same afternoon with Sar' Ann under his arm, Angus Delauche was on his beaming way up country. And with the change of location from the hardware store window to the solitude of the big white pine and the moose, Sar' Ann began to make history.

In one year the keen point of Angus Delauche's hunting knife had made thirty-seven downward strokes on the left side of the understock. Every stroke indicated a deer. In one year the keen point of Angus Delauche's hunting knife pitted twenty-two holes on the right side of the understock. Fourteen of those pits indicated the deaths of fourteen moose, the remaining eight were Sar' Ann's tally for a like number of bear. Some killer, eh? Yep!

And what is more, in one year Sar' Ann's reputation had drawn the settlers from all parts of the country to Angus Delauche's cabin and there wasn't one of Angus Delauche's visitors who would not have given him one hundred per cent. on his investment or a year of his life to possess Sar' Ann. For Sar' Ann had taken on a distinct personality. Sar' Ann was not a wood and steel contrivance to speed a steel jacketed bullet on its death mission. No! Sar' Ann was a living entity. Such is fame, ut!

One morning while Angus Delauche and his wife were over in a back field planting a few potatoes, their only son—a ruddy, rugged inquisitive little chap of twelve, made bold to get thoroughly acquainted with that thing that threatened the peacefulness of the housewives of the district.

Gluing his eye to the muzzle, the lad's bare toe pressed that sensitive trigger. Sar' Ann belched fire and lead. The Recording Angel up above made a new entry in his voluminous Book of Arrivals. And Sar' Ann—Sar' Ann, the cause of the Recording Angel's new entry was as cold and clammy to the touch as that of the child who lay beside it.

After the funeral Angus Delauche hung Sar' Ann on two long spikes over the door, and for days fought it below. But! Angus Delauche's battle with himself was needless. He was saved all pangs of vengeance in punishing his pet.

Pete Lahey stole Sar' Ann!

Pete Lahey believed that if you can't buy a thing you want that the law was broad enough to cover the other recourse, that of stealing. So Pete stole Sar' Ann.

Turned down time and time again when he broached Sar' Ann's purchase, Pete shadowed the Delauche place. One day when Angus and his wife were over in back field hoeing the potatoes that they had planted when Sar' Ann bereaved them, Pete Lahey vaulted the old snake fence. And when Pete Lahey returned to the shadows of the pines Sar' Ann's muzzle protruded six inches below the left side of his coat. An hour later Angus Delauche discovered that Sar' Ann was missing from above the door, and because he had quarrelled with his rifle, he was pleased that it was gone.

But Pete Lahey's possession of Sar' Ann was not of very long duration. Pete would trade his soul for a bottle of red eye. Bull Heffernon furnished the bottle, Pete kept his caloused soul, but passed Sar' Ann over to Bull Heffernon and the height of land.

There is no telling the pleasures that Bull Heffernon might have enjoyed in Sar' Ann's possession had he kept away from Cassidy's.

Like Pete Lahey, Bull Heffernon had an insatiable thirst for the liquid that kicks, and as Cassidy's Stopping Place at the Basin Depot was the nearest oasis in the vast territory Bull maligned by calling it a privy of himself. Bull made straight for Cassidy's.

Perhaps Bull Heffernon was so enraptured by the possession of this wonder gun that he had suffered a lapse of memory; he should have known that the moment he stepped inside Cassidy's door he was as close to the scalped and the fuming fluid, I say Bull Heffernon should have remembered that he had rolled a shantymen in and Cassidy had caught him all! Bull must have been so completely tickled by having the famed Sar' Ann under his arm that he was too busy of thinking back. A big black barrelled from back of the bar, snatching to pieces on the way above his head was Bull Heffernon's first reminder that he had been some time in the remote past he ever dared put a foot in Cassidy's again he would never leave the alive.

Bull Heffernon jumped to as another bottle came his way eyes blazed like live coals of fire. A row of men aligned against the divided and crowded back to the on either side. Cassidy, black raze, was slowly raising a last barrelled pistol to the bar. But Cassidy was too slow. The Sar' Ann leveled, there was a gleam of an eye along the muzzle. Sar' Ann spoke. Cassidy there to his chest and tumbled down from view.

The rows of men along the bar broke to go to Cassidy's assistance but huddled back to their places again. Bull Heffernon was jerked a few short sentences.

"Stay where you are!" Cassidy what he has been looking for. "Sar' Ann speaks, something has to drop. You'll find me when I want me at the Iron Mine Gully. I won't give up without a fight, so come prepared. Haven't I a handy to mark up Sar' Ann's score. Will use my teeth and my bit into the stock. Then backing of the door he reminded them of the Indian's fighting ground in the open.

"When Sar' Ann speaks, something has got to drop. Good-night!" kicked the door shut with his toe.

Bull Heffernon knew better than permit himself to be surrounded by a shack at Iron Mine Gully. The Indian blood in Bull Heffernon's veins was still in the open.

Social Service Meeting.

PLEDGE FOR POLITICAL ASPIRANTS.

Last evening a largely attended meeting, under the auspices of the Social Service Standing Committee, was held in the Methodist College Hall. The chair was occupied by Rev. E. T. Holden, M.A., Pastor of the Congregational Church. Rev. H. A. Goodwin, Travelling Secretary of the Department of Social Services of the Methodist Church was the speaker. In his address he affirmed that where Prohibition had been won the liquor problem was dead, what prohibitionists had to contend with now was only its ghost. He spoke lengthily on the results that had accrued in the United States and Canada as a result of the abolition of the intoxicating cup, and showed that while there might be violations of the law, and efforts on the part of opponents to lessen the effect of the measure, the good that had accrued was incalculable. Towards the close, the speaker read the following circular which it is intended will be submitted to candidates in the forthcoming general election:—

St. John's, October 23rd, 1922.
"Dear Sir:—As you know a large body of people in our Dominion consider that the most important public question of the day is that of the enforcement of the Prohibition Act. In view of the approaching election, in order that all Prohibitionists may have guidance for their voting we respectfully ask you to sign the following affirmation. Lack of a positive affirmation will, of course, naturally be taken to indicate a negative attitude toward Prohibition.

Yours faithfully,
THE CONFERENCE STANDING COMMITTEE OF THE METHODIST CHURCH.

"If elected to the Legislature, I will

(1) "Support the maintenance and effective enforcement of the present Prohibition Act.

(2) "Vote for the enactment of the 'Rules and Regulations' as promulgated by the Governor in Council, October 23rd, 1917, the most important points of those regulations being the limitation of the amount of alcoholic liquor which might be supplied to any one person at one time and the limitation of the number of prescriptions and of the quantity of liquor which might be supplied by any doctor during one month.

(3) "Vote for the enactment of the finding of the Royal Commission on Prohibition in regard to the Controller's Department, namely the abolition of the office of Controller, the placing of the department under a Board of three members, a medical man, a clergyman and a business man, etc., who would have entire power over a general manager and all other officials."

The meeting closed with the Newfoundland Ode and Benediction.

Tasker Celebration.

CHILDREN ENJOY HEARTY TREAT.

Upwards of 300 children attended the annual Tasker celebration which was held on Saturday afternoon last in the Masonic Temple. During the evening the children had the happy pleasure in meeting Charlie Chaplin (Mr. F. Bussey), who evoked loud applause through the witnessing of his funny antics and most amusing personality. Mr. Wheeler, the Ventriloquist, and his doll, added greatly to the afternoon's amusement. A special feature of the affair was a moving picture, show entitled "Dog in the Manager," by Larry Semon, operated by Messrs. Young and Darby, to whom the thanks of the promoters were tendered. Supper was indulged in at 5 p.m. the ladies having left nothing undone to satisfy the appetite of the most exacting epicure. After supper the kiddies were each given a bag of candy and sent home, having enjoyed a most pleasant afternoon. At night a dance was held in honor of the lady workers. The G.L.P. Orchestra who provided the music for the children during the afternoon, remained, and discoursed some splendid numbers for the dancers. Upwards of forty couples took part in the dance which was kept up until 11.30 when the gathering dispersed. The 1922 Tasker celebration was voted a huge success, and everyone connected with the affair are to be heartily congratulated.

Bracelet Watches

A fortunate purchase during our recent visit to the foreign markets enables us to offer a most extraordinary value in High Grade Gold Filled Watch Bracelets. These Watches are fitted with a strictly high class 15 Jewel Lever movement and are in 20-year Guaranteed Gold Filled Cases. Small size—very neat—and thoroughly reliable. These Watches are regular and good value at $37.50, but as a result of this exceptional purchase we offer them at

$28.50

This is positively the best value we have ever seen.

A PROMINENT AMERICAN MILLIONAIRE SAYS:
"Early in my business career I made it a rigid rule to invest a third of my net yearly income in Life Insurance. Now, at age 55, and with an estate of a few million dollars, I can truthfully say that the third I invested each year in Life Insurance to-day constitutes the greater and best part of my estate."

YOU need more Life Insurance NOW. Let us "fit" you with the proper kind of Policy.
