BEFORE THE SENATE SAYS BURNS TO THE COLONIES

Appeals to Gallantry of Electors to Prevent Reform—Morley Gives Figures to Upset Claims of Colonies as Customers.

London, Jan. 9.—(C.A.P.)—Right Hon. John Morley, secretary for India, in his campaign speech to-night disputed the contention of the tariff reformers that the colonies were owing any attention to disparage the influence and claims of the colonies, no pointed out that India took £46,000,000 of British goods, but India was not a colony, Germany took £26,000,000, the United States £12,000,000, Cape Colony with £12,000,000 and Canada with £10,000,000.

"Life," he said, "is harder for the huge populations of the great towns than with the populations of the colonies. If there had to be any sacrifice to make a new fiscal arrangement it is not the people here that ought to be called upon to make it. But I do not believe any colonists desire for an instant to have a preference on grain and wool if it will make life harder for their kinsmen here. The imposition of a tariff must raise the price of foreign goods, and its effect would be to raise the price of home products to the same level. The consumption of goods would decline, thus employment would be less, wages lower and everything dearer."

"Sponsor" on Girls.
Right Hon. John Burns, who is the sponsor of the bill, said that if the colonies might benefit, but it would be at the expense of seven hundred and fifty thousand working women and girls in London, who were struggling for a living. The colonies ought to be too proud to sponge on the industry of the mother country. "I appeal to you," he added, "as gentlemen, as gallants, to stand between the colonies and the depreciation of comfort tariff reform must bring."

Value of Land.
Right Hon. H. H. Asquith, chancellor of the exchequer, said there could be no greater ally than the colonies in the affairs of the Dominion that we can abandon our just position. There are in the other provinces legitimate ambitious men who aspire to be ministers, but we cannot believe that they wish to secure their promotion at our expense by replacing one of our ministers.

First Election Jan. 12.
London, Jan. 9.—(Associated Press).—Some changes are involved in the arrangements for the first election of the House of Commons, which will take place on Jan. 12. It is expected that the Conservative party will be successful in securing a majority, but all four candidates for the position of leader are expected to raise this question of leadership.

Some twenty-five elections in various districts will be held on Jan. 13, including all the districts of Manchester, in which city former Premier John Chamberlain is running. Churchill is running in the constituency of Northampton. Junior lord of the treasury, chief secretary to the treasury, and chief secretary for Ireland, also are among the candidates for election. Jan. 15, the day of the election of the House of Commons, will be held in many outlying divisions of the country, the results of which will show the drift of the popular vote.

FURNITURE MAN CONTRADICTS ARCHITECT'S DENIALS—POOL FORMED FOR CITY HALL TENDER

Why an Account Was "Written Off."

There was no lack of interesting news to-day, developments at the office of the Office of Special Investigation, J. F. Wildman, manager of the Office Specialty Company, and W. B. Rogers were a pair of witnesses whose joint admissions seem to make it clear that there was in fact a pool formed in connection with the City Hall furniture contracts. Mr. Rogers appears to have taken the initiative in the matter for the reason, as given that both contracts were called for, and that no single firm could make a tender on all the lines required. A way out of the trouble was devised by Mr. Rogers, who asked other firms to submit partial tenders at rock-bottom figures, upon which basis he would submit a tender in bulk. By the arrangement made a pool was formed, and Mr. Rogers agreed to divide up the profits on the contract for supplying chairs.

Comments of a Banker: The premier journalist of this morning happens to be a Canadian bank manager.

Mr. Byron Walker would be one of the foremost literary and scientific men of the country.

Mr. Walker is an extraordinary combination of the financier and the student; and the only complaint that can justly be made against him is that of the man who is in the fire.

The year's history of the Bank of Commerce, as set forth in the dry but eloquent statistics of the annual report, is in itself a valuable commentary upon the day's national progress.

Mr. Walker's report is a special method of keeping in touch with the general affairs of the communities among which his journalistic instinct is conspicuous.

Mr. Walker offers one or two admonitions to his fellow-countrymen. Optimism, induced by good times, he says, is fraught with great danger, and he hopes that "everywhere in Canada the men who did not hesitate to incur debt because they believed in the future will now hasten to get out of debt before they consider what new expenditure the still further removed future will justify."

Mr. Walker does not profess to forecast the future, but all through his address he is a running stream of anticipatory matter from which one naturally deduces his views as to what is likely to happen.

World-wide peace is a most valuable asset for Canadians. If after the final loans caused by the Russo-Japanese war are placed we have a long inter-national quietude the value of money in Europe will gradually decline, turning a most favorable effect on the ease with which money can be obtained for Canadian enterprises, and on the cost of the fixed charges upon those enterprises.

Unless China renounces her bad treatment of the western nations, Canadian trade will be gradually declining, and the purchasing power of the individual Chinaman and Japanese may be very small, the aggregate of the demand for wheat, flour, timber, railway supplies, etc., will be very large.

Last year, the world had $1,000,000,000 less to pay with by way of exchanging commodities than for the previous year, and increased the unfavorable balance between exports and imports to $65,000,000.

We are, therefore, putting a heavy mortgage on the future, which we can help largely to reduce by manufacturing in our own country iron and steel products, which last year we imported to the value of nearly $40,000,000.

Canada should reconsider the modus vivendi arrived at after the rejection by the U. S. senate of the Chamberlain-Bayard treaty. We should withdraw from United-States vessels fishing off the Newfoundland coast the privileges which enable them to undersell us in their markets—a withdrawal which would save the way for the accession of Newfoundland to the Confederation.

Do not be too positive as to the side extent of silver-nickel-cobalt ores in Northern Ontario; even the several million dollars' worth will be taken from veins already discovered. A satisfactory method of treating the exceedingly refractory ores may soon be discovered, and in readiness for that event steps should be taken to treat the ore in Ontario, instead of in the United States. There will probably be an attempt to create a mining and a mining stock boom in the spring, but wise men will not encourage it.

The prosperity of manufacturers and of the real estate should induce employers to build their houses for their men.

The rise in the cost of building and house rent is a matter of great concern, for, when hard times come, as come they must, there will be a sharp adjustment in some direction, because, clearly, the wage-earner will not be able to continue to pay such rents as are being paid now by the workmen in our larger cities.

Last season's heavy losses on the St. Lawrence route are deeply disappointing to most Canadians, whether due to obstructions, to navigation, or to the incompetence of pilots.

There is little use in spending money and energy in the development of railway systems of this part of Canada unless we can be sure that the communication by sea is as perfect as is humanly possible to make it.

Western farmers will receive this winter from $700,000 to $750,000 for their grain crops, grown on a very small proportion of the available area already sown.

The final disposal of the surplus of wheat to our ability in the not distant future to supply Great Britain with her requirements in cereals.

A wonderful feature of western development is the production of winter wheat. This year 1,500,000 bushels were grown in Alberta, a sample of which took the gold medal in the Portland exhibition.

In the Swan River Valley, where a few years ago it was thought that the work of land for some years was extending over four years has proved that winter wheat can be grown in Northern Manitoba.

Western farmers must give more attention to raising hogs and poultry and to dairying along lines which have been successful in Iowa, Minnesota and other states.

Eastern Canadians should realize that in Manitoba alone there are over 2000 miles of railway. Land companies have been materially advancing their prices.

Land speculation is inevitable, but trouble must come when an entire community is trying to increase the value of its land by means of other or an uncomfortably large number will wish to sell at the same time, and grievous loss would result.

Too much speculative building in Winnipeg. Also the payment of debts is better than in 1904, there is a surplus of about $100,000,000 for those who extend credit to be much more careful in the future.

The growth of the City of Vancouver is as startling as that of Winnipeg, Calgary and Edmonton, but the number of people in British Columbia is only about the same as in Toronto.

The general manager has a special method of keeping in touch with the general affairs of the communities among which his journalistic instinct is conspicuous.

Mr. Walker offers one or two admonitions to his fellow-countrymen. Optimism, induced by good times, he says, is fraught with great danger, and he hopes that "everywhere in Canada the men who did not hesitate to incur debt because they believed in the future will now hasten to get out of debt before they consider what new expenditure the still further removed future will justify."

World-wide peace is a most valuable asset for Canadians. If after the final loans caused by the Russo-Japanese war are placed we have a long international quietude the value of money in Europe will gradually decline, turning a most favorable effect on the ease with which money can be obtained for Canadian enterprises, and on the cost of the fixed charges upon those enterprises.

Unless China renounces her bad treatment of the western nations, Canadian trade will be gradually declining, and the purchasing power of the individual Chinaman and Japanese may be very small, the aggregate of the demand for wheat, flour, timber, railway supplies, etc., will be very large.

Last year, the world had $1,000,000,000 less to pay with by way of exchanging commodities than for the previous year, and increased the unfavorable balance between exports and imports to $65,000,000.

We are, therefore, putting a heavy mortgage on the future, which we can help largely to reduce by manufacturing in our own country iron and steel products, which last year we imported to the value of nearly $40,000,000.

Canada should reconsider the modus vivendi arrived at after the rejection by the U. S. senate of the Chamberlain-Bayard treaty. We should withdraw from United-States vessels fishing off the Newfoundland coast the privileges which enable them to undersell us in their markets—a withdrawal which would save the way for the accession of Newfoundland to the Confederation.

Do not be too positive as to the side extent of silver-nickel-cobalt ores in Northern Ontario; even the several million dollars' worth will be taken from veins already discovered. A satisfactory method of treating the exceedingly refractory ores may soon be discovered, and in readiness for that event steps should be taken to treat the ore in Ontario, instead of in the cause. No public man should seek a public office for a relative, and no public official charged with duties in the public interest should allow any of his relatives to be connected with the committee that must pass on his appointment.

A member of parliament who asks a minister to appoint a relative, has sold out his constituents.

Another thing that must constantly strike the observer, whether at Toronto or Ottawa, is the intimate relations that often exist between public officials and private corporations.

If you see the officials and clerks of parliament and of the legislature traveling on railway passes and being directed by managers and directors, you can depend upon it that the corporations will not get second best in any business that they may have with these officials; and once an official goes so far as to let a relative become a pensioner of some sort or other on any corporation his usefulness to the community is gone.

Appreciation of Silver: Of special interest to Canada, in view of the recent silver discoveries, is the fact that they have been made at a period when the market value of that metal touched the highest point in a decade.

In consequence of the huge demand occasioned by the Far Easters for the ordinary requirements of India could not be met with difficulty and for the first eleven months of 1905 the imports fell short of the normal amount by 20 million ounces.

Last year the price of silver in the London market rose to 54 cents per ounce, and it is not at all unlikely an even higher figure may be reached in the near future.

Contrary to a prior belief, his appreciation in the value of silver has not been followed by any marked increase in the production. This is somewhat surprising since any movement of this character usually stimulates output and induces the reworking of areas previously found unprofitable.

There is no doubt that the area absorbing much more silver than they did and as no indication can be found that the burden now resting upon gold will be lightened, continued higher prices for the "pale and household drudge" seems inevitable.

The Canadian discovery all the more valuable and renders a proper mining law urgently imperative.

It is a quiet day when the city hall inquirers don't turn up a little bit of a sensation.

Yes, Attorney-General Poy is a Policeman, and he has not been caught sleeping on his beat.

If the Kingston candidates spend no money the chances are neither will they get elected.

Kingston candidates have agreed to dispense with all illegal inducements to voting at the by-election on the 29th.

And the chances are there will be an exceptionally light vote.

A no-bribery election in Kingston will be such a departure that the candidates might just as well appoint a small committee, with an equal number on each side to do the voting.

Two Mimico Fires: Editor World: It is an old saying that one fire breeds another, and nothing makes this clearer than the two fires which broke out in the Mimico district on Monday.

World Office, Tuesday Evening, Jan. 9.—The local market continued in its more normal condition today, and spots of daily speculation were less frequent than yesterday. The larger volume provided for liquidation of the market more attractive to traders who had been, as yet, excited by speculative movements made today by the addition of a new stock to the market. Speculative enthusiasm was not so rampant as yesterday, but has not warmed the trade took place in the shares and only one trade took place in the shares and only one trade took place in the shares and only one trade took place in the shares.
