P.E.I. ELECTION TRIAL

Druggist Indicted That Liquor Flowed Rather Freely.

CHARLOTTETOWN, P.E.I., April 20.—(Special.)—The election petition against Hon. L. McDonald (Lib.) began this morning at Souris before Judge Fitzgerald, Matheson and Morrison, K.C., appeared for the petitioner, and Attorney-General Haesler, for the respondent.

The figures for the election in all 200 witnesses are summoned for this case, and that against McLean, Conservative, the other member for the same district.

A motion to dismiss the case on technical grounds was denied by the judge. Important evidence was brought out from Mahon, a druggist, of Souris, who testified he kept $50 to $100 worth of liquors usually on hand, but had $500 worth at the election.

Evidence of treating in the presence of the Liberal candidates, McDonald and Hartz, was also given.

Halibut Poncher Caught.

VANCOUVER, B.C., April 20.—(Special.)—The Seattle halibut fishing schooner Levy Woodbury was captured by the government cruiser on Sunday, fishing for halibut in Canadian waters off Dixon entrance.

HIGH WATER MARK.

Within the last five weeks the circulation of The Sunday World has jumped from 4,000 to 7,000, the highest figure ever reached in general distribution. Despite the fact that an effort has been made to meet the demand, the supply has not been sufficient, and a still larger edition will be printed for the last four days. The figures for the last four weeks, given below, prove two things—first, that the public is appreciating more than ever Canada's great weekly paper as the best produced; second, that with such a circulation, and among such a class of people as The Sunday World reaches, there is no better medium for advertisers. Here are the figures. They tell their own story.

RETAILERS WILL REBEL

Object to Peremptory Demand of Wholesale Fruitmen.

War is about to be declared between the Retail Merchants' Association and the Toronto Fruit and Produce Association.

Recently the latter sent out a circular to all and sundry, advising them of certain terms of weekly settlement.

It was to be enforced hereafter. The retail grocers and butchers, who deal largely with the signatories to this circular, object to the peremptory demand which has been made.

Mr. T. R. and the Quebec bridge.

If we had desired to do so," he continued, "we might have avoided this addition to the public debt. We might have abandoned the eastern section of the transcontinental, and the government had done wisely in pushing on the work, and in borrowing money instead of granting land subsidies. The railway would soon become an interest-bearing asset."

Trade statistics, he said, naturally had been unfavorable. 1938 had been the banner year, total trade showing an increase of $100,000,000 over 1937. There had been a shrinkage of $23,000,000 in exports and $78,000,000 in imports for the year March 31, 1939. Total trade so far as it could now be estimated was $53,730,000, while for 1938 it had been $50,000,000. The great shrinkage had been in imports and in this respect Canada had come thru the panic much better than the United States.

The current year, which began April 1, could not hope to equal the prosperity of 1938 and several years must go before Canadian finances would again reach high water mark. The revenue estimates for 1939-40, however, predicted this would be exceeded.

Must Economize.

"It is evident," said Mr. Fielding, "that we must materially reduce our expenditures, and the latter course should be followed. The estimates for 1939-40 showed that the government was trying to economize. The estimates for 1938-39 showed that the government had been $89,412,868; for 1939-40, $80,078,624. As to capital expenditure, 1938-39 was $105,000,000; 1939-40, $100,000,000. The government, therefore, expected to get along with $22,000,000 less."

He urged the members not to press for public works. None would be carried on unless urgent and important.

He hoped that he would be able out of the current revenue for the coming year to pay all ordinary expenses and nearly all expenses for capital account, except the $20,000,000 required for the National Transcontinental.

Discussing his method of getting at surpluses, he said it was absurd to complain that because expenditures of the government exceeded the revenue in any given year there was not a surplus in any year. The method of keeping two accounts, one for ordinary expenditure and the other for capital accounts, was a practice established at Confederation and followed by all finance ministers.

Comparisons Odious.

Mr. Ames—"What is the established practice in Great Britain?"

Mr. Fielding—"We are talking about Canada."

Mr. Borden—"Does any other civilized country keep books like we do?"

Mr. Fielding—"No, but our conditions are different. A new country, especially a colony, must keep their accounts differently from an old settled country like England."

Mr. Borden—"How about Australia and New Zealand?"

Mr. Fielding—"I don't know and I don't care. I protest emphatically against Conservative newspapers putting all revenue in one column and all expenses in another column, and calling the excess of expenditure a deficit."

Canada had been a frequent borrower of late, but there were several causes, including: 1. Old loans maturing; 2. National Transcontinental Railway; 3. Quebec bridge; 4. Withdrawals from the Government Savings Bank; 5. Loans to the Montreal Harbour Commission; 6. Seed grain loan; 7. Falling off in revenue.

Borrowing of Money.

Mr. Fielding discussed at great length the various amounts borrowed in London, and what it cost the country. His last loan for six million pounds had cost in brokerage and commissions $600,000. He said that the government had borrowed $46,000,000 in the past year. "The burden is indeed greater," he said. "The per capita debt was only $45 as against $50 twelve years ago."

Mr. Fielding announced that deposi-

FIELDING FIGURES SURPLUS

many years has come to Canada. Finance money stringency has passed away; it is no longer a barrier to the progress of our country. The banks, which for a time had curtailed their accommodation, are now ready to aid every legitimate industry. The last bank statement showed that more money is being sent out into the various avenues of trade.

"This means a revival of business and with such a prospect surely we can say with gratitude for the past that we have every confidence in the continued progress and prosperity of our country."

Claims Surplus of $1,500,000.

Mr. Fielding declared that he was able to show a surplus of nearly a million and a half on the past year's operations, while the debt had been increased by $46,000,000.

Next year the country will pay out $11,000,000, but Mr. Fielding was unable to show what the revenues would total. He hoped there would be an increase, but said the figures would not reach town in 1939.

The most important figures presented were: Revenue, 1938-9, $34,352,581; ordinary expenditure, 1938-9, $33,000,000; surplus, 1938-9, $1,352,581. Expenditures, N. T. R., $25,500,000; Quebec bridge, $6,424,000; special expenditures, $17,300,000; total, $49,224,000.

Deduct surplus and sinking fund, $2,175,000; add to debt, $46,029,000; ordinary expenditure for 1939-40 (estimated), $50,078,624; estimate capital $39,411,150; total, $89,497,744.

Mr. Fielding said he would discuss three separate fiscal years, the first one ending March 31, 1938; the second, March 31, 1939; the third, March 31, 1940. The year before last (ending March 31, 1938) showed a total revenue of $34,352,581, while he had anticipated $36,000,000. Expenditures, however, had amounted to $37,641,451, estimate being $37,500,000. The net result had been very favorable. "The surplus revenues for the year ending March 31, 1938, were the largest ever, aggregating $57,543,811. The surplus had applied only ordinary expenditures, and there had been no special expenditures upon capital and special accounts aggregating $55,337,228. The large portion of this had been paid out of ordinary revenue, but in the net debt of Canada of $14,288,999. Had it not been for $19,910,000 spent on the National Transcontinental, the debt by March 31, 1938, would have been $4,378,999.

In the fiscal year ending March 31, 1939, the revenues so far shown amounted to $34,352,581, while the expenditures, as yet, had amounted to $37,641,451, a decrease of $11,500,000 from the preceding year. He had feared he would have to announce a deficit for the year ending March 31, 1939, but he said there would be a surplus of $1,500,000.

However, large expenditures would have to be charged against the surplus. Special accounts, substantially as follows: Upon National Transcontinental, $27,500,000; other capital and special, $27,500,000; total, $55,000,000, from which he was entitled to deduct a surplus of $1,500,000, also $1,670,000 paid into the sinking fund, leaving $46,029,000 added to the public debt.

How Surplus is Made Up.

Referring to the surplus of $1,500,000, it was in part arrived at by charging bounties to special expenditure instead of to revenue. If the bounties were deducted from revenue there would be a deficit, he admitted. The poor showing for the past year was in part on the account of the world-wide economic panic. Moreover, $22,000,000 had been expended upon the N. T. R. and the Quebec bridge.

If we had desired to do so," he continued, "we might have avoided this addition to the public debt. We might have abandoned the eastern section of the transcontinental, and the government had done wisely in pushing on the work, and in borrowing money instead of granting land subsidies. The railway would soon become an interest-bearing asset."

Trade statistics, he said, naturally had been unfavorable. 1938 had been the banner year, total trade showing an increase of $100,000,000 over 1937. There had been a shrinkage of $23,000,000 in exports and $78,000,000 in imports for the year March 31, 1939. ## Lewiston Bridge Endangered.

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., April 20.—(Special.)—To-night promises to be the most destructive in the history of Niagara River, the water is rising steadily and ice from Lake Erie is coming over the falls in large masses.

At property on both sides of the river is in danger and the Lewiston bridge can scarcely escape destruction.

Realizing the danger to life and property along the lower river, Customs Controller John A. Merritt communicated with the war department this morning with a view of enlisting aid from the government. Merritt went to Lewiston this afternoon to look over the situation there. Lewiston and the surrounding country is threatened with an inundation of the like of which has never been experienced.

The river has risen to an alarming height. The basement of Cornell's pavilion at Lewiston is reported flooded with water, and the tide is still rising. No small frame buildings within reach of the shore have escaped unscathed.

At Niagara-on-the-Lake the situation is also said to 1896 he (Foster) had borrowed £25,000,000, on which brokerage of £55,000 and commissions of £214,000 were paid, while the charges paid by Mr. Fielding in 1896, 1897 and 1898 included brokerage of £60,988 and commission £347,327. The best loan that Mr. Fielding had put on in 1897 was in millions of pounds of the Conservative government, which had established the credit of the country in the money market of England.

The heavy charges for loans were an indication of the strained credit of Canada. Mr. Fielding had made no arrangement when money was easier, whereas in Mr. Foster's time there were no underwriting charges, and he had made an arrangement with the Bank of Montreal to handle the loans at a rate of one-quarter per cent.

The Newmarket Canal, the Quebec Bridge and the G. T. P. were examples of the difference between the way this government operates and the way an individual would operate. The finance minister in the eleven and a half years of his holding office had taken out of the people in taxes $55,000,000, $23,000,000 more than the Conservatives took out of the people in the same time.

The Premier's Pride. The prime minister was "proud of Pugsley" and he had no doubt that he was also proud of his finance minister. No finance minister had so completely swallowed all his principles. Sir Richard Cartwright had stood to his fiscal colors. Mr. Fielding had taken out of the people's money, but he had not even had his right economy taken right to where his hatred of bounties? He was the champion taxpayer. He had taken rank as the champion scaler of the savings of the thirty depositors of the country by docking them one-half per cent, but that was not the only money-lender. No one had even fattened more the foreign lender, who had made it more pleasant for

Suggestions from the Great Cloak Department

WHAT to wear this Spring and where to get it.

Don't you think a Simpson suit looks thoroughly tailor-made?

If we charged more for style and distinction perhaps many people would realize for the first time that Simpson's garments are different.

But why not realize it and profit by it as well? We charge no more—perhaps less—than you pay for common-place things. But when you see ours—what a difference!

Do you know what it is—that difference? Just the added distinction of good taste—and a little more thoroughness of finish.

What People Say About Simpson's Dress Goods

No. 8—The Dressmaker

PROFESSIONAL Dressmakers should know the feel of quality and the in's and out's of fashion. Indeed many dressmakers of the city handle sufficient Cloth in the course of a season to rank on a par with that famous Modiste of whom it was said. "He could declare the color, weight and wear of a fabric with his eyes shut."

We have many friends among the dressmakers of this city. Perhaps no store in Toronto would like to claim more. This is what they one and all think about Simpson's Dress Goods, we feel very sure. At any rate it is what one of them said.

"Simpson's show the best of what other stores show, and exclusive things beside. You are safe in finding what you want there, because they have—everything."

We must make our little modification however to that statement. It is just a little too sweeping. We have everything of quality. But that includes all that our readers should ask.

SPECIAL SALE OF REMNANTS.

Housefurnishing Departments

New things for the Spring Campaign of Home Improvement

No. 2—Draperies

THE interior of a room nowadays is a subject of more artistic consideration than perhaps ever before. The merely formal, precise and frequently cheerless arrangements of the period known as the Victorian Era has been superseded. Taste, feeling and art have worked together to produce not only comfort and utility in a physical sense but an expression of these qualities, so that one's mind receives the impression of comfort as well as one's body.

However, that's deeper into metaphysics than we need go to impress you with the value of the assistance our Drapery Section can render you this spring.

We have largely additional space for draperies this spring. The assortment increases in proportion. We are particularly well prepared for treating casements.

Come and talk over your requirements with our specialists.

Silk Brocades, in all drawing room shades, has a pretty silvery finish, patterns large and small, the finishing touch of the reception room, full 50 in. wide, $1.50, $2.00 to $5.00 per yard.

Satin de Jean, a plain dull satin finished cloth, 50 in. wide, ideal for applique, is a good plain rich hanging and suitable for almost any apartment; can be procured in all colors and shades, at $1.35 per yard.

Velours, single and double face, width 50 in. This stable curtain material is carried in numerous greens, reds, blues and browns. See the velours with its accompanying cords and galoon trimmings, $1.50 to $5 per yard.

Tapestries, not the "self-same" designs, but the new well proportioned patterns. Some are direct copies of the quaint antiques, and are in neutral shades for the brown living room, and they are strong and definite, in all colors, 50 in. wide, $1.00-$4.50 per yard.

Moires, dainty novelties this year, not quite the same as last season, yet there is that same delicate charm that makes this material so popular; we are hanging them on walls, and daily receiving certain orders for all the different shades; cords and edgings made to match; 50 in. wide; $1.00-$2.50 per yard.

Monk Cloth, fine English woven Monk Cloth, not near jute, nor has it that burlap look that most of this class of cloth has; it is soft and woolly; all ready to be hung plain, but is more often stenciled, with case-ment cloth at windows and monk cloth at the doors, $1.25 and $1.50 per yard. Width 50 inches.

English Serges, olive, green and crimsons, 26, 34 and 72 inches wide, 65c, 75c, $1.00 and $1.25 per yard, an inexpensive dull wool drapery; can be used anywhere with a great degree of success; it has that good heavy effect wanted for portieres in large or small rooms.

Turkomans, a dull finished material, with a deep pile like velours, but has not the plush finish, yet is just as heavy, including gobelin blue, tobacco shades; greens, too, are effective; 50 inches wide, $1.50 per yard.

Armures, the present craze in New York for most rooms, really fine repped materials. Special appliques are woven and dyed for the different shades, and applied as one might fancy. We also sell a fine repp with a silk and satin stripe, in greens, greys, pinks, champagne and French yellows, 50 in. wide. Cloth, 65c to $2.00 per yard. Galoons, 20c to 50c per yard.
