LOST A DAY BECAUSE EMPRESS OF IRELAND CALLED AT HALIFAX

The West Suffers Because the Government Yielded to the Sectional Cry of Halifax—The Claim of St. John as the Direct Mail Port Established Beyond Question—What Will the West Do About It?

MONTEAL, Nov. 24.—(Special)—The Over Sea Mail, with cabin passengers for the Orient, the Canadian North West and the Pacific Coast, which landed by the Empress of Ireland at St. John on Friday night, passed Montreal early this morning and should reach North Bay about 2 p. m. today.

The Empress had rather a rough passage and was delayed by having to call at Halifax with the mails, where she encountered fog.

Had the steamer gone direct to St. John her passengers would have been in Montreal on Friday night about the same time as the mails reached Montreal by way of Halifax, and the Ontario passengers would have had one more day's journey.

THE TIMES NEW REPORTER

BIRDIE IS SHOCKED. The lovely Miss Birdie McWhat is quite indignant because of the statements made by the tenor in the lecture at the York Theatre.

"I think you're just as horrid as you can be," cried Birdie. "The idea of mentioning such creatures to me!"

"Well," observed Mr. O'Hoo, "they all have a beginning, you know."

The timely arrival of Mr. Peter Binkley, Jr., enabled Birdie to appeal to that gentleman for a confirmation of her views.

"You are perfectly right," declared Mr. Binkley, Jr., who had just come from the club. "The man's an ass."

What right has he to dictate to society? It is absurd in fact.

"Pete," said Mr. O'Hoo, with apparent irrelevance, "you've been eating cloves."

Moncton's Mayor Has Declined to Occupy Chair for TENNYSON SMITH

TENNYSON SMITH

He is Symptomatic With Temperance Campaign But Will Not Preside at Meeting in Church of Minister Who Criticized Him.

MONCTON, Nov. 24.—(Special)—The temperance people of this city have about completed their program for E. Tennyson Smith's campaign here next week. A view of the recent stir in Scott Act circles is likely to create more than usual interest. Probably some feeling has been aroused by the attitude of the mayor in refusing the invitation to preside at the opening meeting. His unwillingness, however, is stated, one not desiring the post of honor rendered him on account of any opposition to Mr. Smith's campaign, but rather takes exception to presiding in a church whose pastor recently sharply criticized some of his public utterances.

The opening meeting is to be held in Wesley Memorial church and Pastor H. E. Thomas in a sermon a short time ago in the city council and the Scott Act, took occasion to pay his respects to a remark made by the mayor. In consequence of this criticism, it is stated by the committee arranging the programme for Mr. Smith's campaign in this city, that the mayor has declined to act as chairman at the meeting in Mr. Thomas' church.

TO EXPORT N. B. APPLES

A Company Said to be in Process of Organization for this Purpose.

It is reported that the New Brunswick Government department of agriculture has been authorized to export apples in bulk to the United States. The apples to be exported are of the variety known as 'New Brunswick' and are of a fine quality. The exportation of apples is a new venture for the province, and it is expected that it will be a profitable one.

AUCTION SALES

At Chubb's Corner today Auctioneer Lanvalum sold under a decretal order issued out of the supreme court in equity, the Dunn property situated at Grand Bay, in the parish of Lunenburg. Quite a number of lumbermen and mill owners were at the auction, and some lively bidding took place. The first bid was $5,000, then another five hundred, and so on until it reached $8,000, at which price it was knocked down to Jarvis Wilson, Jr. The property contains about 240 acres, more or less.

THE COUNTERSTROKE By AMBROSE PRATT Author of "Vigorous Daunt, Billionaire." (Continued) "But who are they, these figure-heads?" "They often change," said Madame with a frown. "When they outlive their period of usefulness they die. The present living ones are: first, my husband, you know him, I think--(she smiled)--the other is Yusuf El Hilloff, a Russian-Turk, and a natural son of Prince Skoboleff. He was once Grand Vizier and is still a trusted friend of the Sultan." "Humor says he has another accomplishment, Kate. I have heard it whispered--a mighty lady-killer." "Madame gave him a burning glance. "I know your meaning, Frank, but you are wrong. The man is a brute, and I hate him. He missed me when I was quite a child, and in my father's house." "But your father, Kate?" "Laughed when I told him and bade me run away and play. I was just fifteen, and that was my first lesson in the school of life. Do you wonder that with such able tutors I have become what I am?" There surged into Cressingham's heart a flood of warm and generous pity for the woman. "Had you no mother?" he whispered. "The shock her head. "I never knew myself and my husband, who was just then too useful to kill, for I depended on him for my food." "Really, Kate?" "Yes, it's truth time now." "How did you get away from the Sea Hawk?" "The Prince sent some men with a forged letter. Went off in a wooden-headed boat. He let me go without a question. Frank--" "Yes." "You look simply dreadful--handgaped up like that. Your lips are all puffed out, and black, and oh, your eyes--you are, ugly so ugly!" "Thanks," drily. "I want need a mirror now that you've told me all I might see in it." "Yes, you're dreadfully ugly," continued Madame, with a grimace, "but it doesn't alter me a bit. I still look away, Frank--I still love you, dear!" The door closed upon her, but next moment it opened a little, and she peeped shyly through the crevice, her face charming with an expression of timid, almost pleading coquetry. "Say you don't love that girl, Frank!" Cressingham shook his head, and Madame, interpreting in her own favor his equivocal response, kissed her hand to him and departed with beaming eyes. In ten minutes Cressingham was sleeping like the dead, and he did not wake until eighteen hours had spun their unceasing fibres round his heart and the stars of another night were burning brightly in the moonless heavens. The steamer had stopped; perhaps it was the rest from travail, the sudden calm succeeding the ceaseless thundering and shuddering of the screws that recalled him to his senses. The cabin lamp was lighted, and his clothes, nicely brushed and folded, rested on the couch, while a deck chair by the bedside held a tray of dainty edibles and a flask of wine. He felt still sore, but already infinitely better, and hungry as a hunter. Dressing quickly, often smothering a groan in the operation, he made a hearty meal and drained the flask, reflecting wistfully that even should he be proceeding to his death it were just as well to die with a full stomach as an empty one. He tried the door afterwards, half-doubtfully, but it yielded and he went on deck. The night was cloudless and marvellously mild and a balmy wind just fanned the world's surface with a tender, caressing touch, laden with faint, sweet memory-arousing odors. Cressingham noted with surprise that the masts of the yacht had disappeared, and that her funnel had been extraordinarily reduced in size. They lay in a tiny harbor, scarce a mile across, composed of two circular, narrow and low-lying strips of land that stretched out from the mainland like two embracing, anxious arms, and almost met to seaward. The mainland was mountainous, but no other feature could be distinguished in the dark. "The coastline in the bay," mingling with the waters deep in the shade, was indiscernible, but half way up a mountain close at hand a group of lights twinkled and suggested the outline of a house of large dimensions, perhaps a castle. Cressingham, lost in contemplation and conjecture, was startled by the placing of a hand upon his arm. It was Madame. "Yonder is Attala," she said; "my home. What were you dreaming of?" "Of your father, Kate. How do you suppose he will receive me?" "Like the equilly gentleman he is. Do you wish advice?" "Indeed, I heed it badly, don't you think, no?" "Then treat my father as he treats you. He will receive you kindly in the first place, but if he should by chance continue kind, pretend to like and to admire him. Like all great men, he is very vain. Ah, you smile at me, he is a weakling for all things English, in fact, you will not always--he is great at all events in crime." "Forgive me, Kate, and thanks for your advice, but tell me frankly is it likely he will do as you suggest and take a fancy to me?" Madame surveyed him anxiously, and shook her head. "I'm afraid not, dear. I'd like to say yes--but I think otherwise. You see, he adores beauty both in men and women, later you will understand and discover, but he hates ugliness or deformity just as ardently, and he will not permit a creature to approach him that is not near perfect. If my infernal husband had not so brutally ill-used your face, he would have been sure to like you, for he has a weakness for all things English, in spite of the fact that your country gave a home to his old enemy. You see the French so hate the English, and have suffered so much at the hands of your countrymen, that father cannot help but feel a little kindly to the English." "I see--well, I shall be prepared for his aversion. Do you think he will kill me?" "I shall not allow him to if I can help it. Do you think I want to lose you, Frank? Why, I may have to spend years on this wretched little island. It would be death in life alone." Cressingham smiled at the solidness of her speech, but the reply that trembled on his lips was never uttered, for the Captain interrupting him led them to a gateway and thence into a little steam launch that puffed alongside the yacht. The water swayed gently with a long, steady, gliding swell, its surface unbroken by the slightest ripple, and the boat sped onwards with surprising speed. They landed at a small stone jetty, where Madame dismissed the sailors and bade Cressingham only attend her. They climbed arm in arm a gentle slope for some short distance from the jetty, then came to a narrow stone stairway leading abruptly upwards to the ledge. Step by step they ascended till, on a level, half the height traversed, they found a resting terrace and seats of carved wood. Halting a little while for breath they recommenced the journey, and in twenty minutes reached a flat edge of rock, fifty feet square, from which the stone wall of an old half-timbered medieval tower stood straight above them to a dizzy height. Behind the tower stretched a straggling granite mansion that seemed built right into the mountain's heart, for huge crags jutted threateningly above its castellated tops, crags whose fall seemed momentarily imminent. A wide granite flagged path led from the steps around the tower which brought them soon onto a splendid marble porch whose outer doors stood open and whose inner doors were glorified with long and broad panels of rich stained glass. (To be continued.)

Dr. Arnold Fox returned yesterday from St. Stephen and Woodstock. At the latter place he gave a recital on the Cassin organ in St. Luke's Anglican church Wednesday evening. The church was filled, many being glad to find standing room. Among others who took part in the programme were Mrs. George Hare, of Woodstock, who was formerly Miss Grace Manning, of this city, and who will be remembered as the possessor of a voice of exceptional purity and power, and who filled an important place in musical circles here. Another soloist of ability was Mrs. Ainey, of Woodstock. Mr. Fox expects to open the new organ in the Presbyterian church, Woodstock, with a recital soon.

FROCK FOR LITTLE GIRL. The sketch depicts an easily made little frock suitable for a small girl, the design being appropriate for either woolen or cotton material. The little dress pictured was made of fine dark blue serge made with a pointed open neck to be worn over a guimpie. The sleeves were open cuffs, the edges of which--as well as the edge about the yoke--being scalloped in Wedgewood blue silk. The yoke and undersleeves were made of white tuckled lawn and fine embroidery and were separate from the dress. These guimpies are also very pretty made of fine allover embroidery or yoking, and several should be supplied so that the soiled set can be easily replaced.

St. Luke's church Y. P. A. gave a most enjoyable concert in the vestry of their church last evening. Rev. R. P. McKim was chairman, and the programme consisted of selections by a quartette, solo by Dr. Nason and Messrs. Taylor and Seges; recitations by Misses Smith and Adams and Messrs. Jackson and Farmer; club swinging by Messrs. Leatham; banjo solo by Mr. Fortney, and readings by Mr. McIntyre and Miss Grace Lew. The serving of refreshments concluded a very pleasant evening. Premier Tweedie and Hon. Messrs. Pugsley, Partrix, Sweeney and Jones attended a meeting of the Provincial Hospital commissioners yesterday, when contracts for supplies for the Provincial Hospital were awarded. J. S. Gibbon & Co., and G. H. King secured the contracts for coal; T. Collins & Co., groceries; Kane & McGrath, meats; Coll Brau, soap; Phillips & Watson, butter. Mrs. E. K. Fairweather and family wish to thank many friends for sympathy and kindness in their recent bereavement.

ST. JOHN WINS The steamer Empress of Ireland been permitted to come direct to St. John her passengers would have been in Montreal on Friday night about the same time the I. C. CHRISTMAS AT HAND We are within four weeks of Christmas. The time is more too long in which to make those plans and preparations which mark the season as one of good will and good cheer. The merchants whose announcements will be found in the pages of this paper from day to day are prepared to do their part, and the tempting displays in shop windows are a revelation to the prudent and timely customer. This should be a cheerful Christmas in St. John. This year now drawing toward its close has been a busy one, and much money has gone into circulation. But however great the general prosperity, there are always the very poor and there are also those wards of society in various institutions to whom Christmas means nothing if it does not bring the glow of sympathy and the evidence of that spirit which He manifested whose birth the day commemorates.

THE HOME A sermon is seldom of more timely interest than that by the Rev. A. B. Cohee, on the subject of the Home, which is printed in today's Times. No fact in the social life of this city is more obvious than that a very large number of homes are not ordered according to right rules of conduct. This, whatever its cause, accounts for the prevalence of youthful delinquency, exposed so frequently, and so publicly on the streets and in the police court. A little heart-searching might therefore lead to a more serious regard for the grave responsibilities of parenthood. A correspondent, in a letter to the Times yesterday, expressed the feeling that the home-life of today is not as effective in its influence for good upon the boys and girls as the home-life of years ago. Whether this be a fact or not, there is need of a new consecration of many parents to the sacred duties involved in parenthood. As the preacher points out, however, a certain number of homes, whether it be due to bereavement, unsympathetic natures, selfishness, extreme poverty, or other cause, cannot easily be ordered on right lines, and therefore there would still be a percentage of failure. As he also points out, there are also failures in well-ordered homes, and there are cases where the most devoted parents are faced to grieve over the waywardness of their children. But it is as obvious as the disagreeable facts about youthful offenses, that if the parents generally entered more heartily into the home life, and into the feeling and worthy aspirations of their children, there would be less temptation on the streets for a great host of young people in this city. There would still remain the need of provision outside the home for healthy exercise and entertainment for those to whom the thought of home brings up visions only of wretched surroundings, family bickerings, deprivation and an utter lack of loving sympathy. No man or woman can go into another's home and lay down rules of conduct, but the manifestation of sympathy and the influence of a good example may do much, and social service in many ways may be made to meet and largely overcome existing evils.

AGAINST YELLOW JOURNALS

As already announced, the government of Canada has notified the United States government that the postal convention will be adopted next May. A Washington despatch by the Associated Press last evening gave this explanation, from the officials of the United States postal department: "The United States post office department has recently received notice from Canada that the publishing business is developing rapidly in that country, engaging a large office force. In considering the question of granting publishers statutory privileges, it is noted that owing to the immense number of publications in the United States and the imperfect character of the means of prevention, there are many United States publications which would not be allowed statutory publishers' privileges if published in that country. This fact, coupled with the published statement that number have been excluded, produces friction and dissatisfaction. "The Canadian office has, therefore, given notice under article 13 of the convention of 1888, of the abrogation of the postal convention between the United States and Canada six months from date (Nov. 17, 1906). "Under the convention as amended in 1904, the despatch which Canada has given notice from time to time of the exclusion from its mail of quite a number of periodicals published in the United States, except at higher rates of postage. The United States has not found it necessary to take such action as to Canadian publications, except in one or two cases.

FIGHT MONEY

The following interesting comment on the financial situation is from a New York paper: "The general outlook is for a steady demand upon banking resources the world over. In our own country there must be financed with fresh capital in the coming year known requirements of little less than $500,000,000 for railroad building and industrial construction. Such gigantic undertakings as Pacific Coast extensions by four roads at the same moment, one of them in Canada; the electrification of important parts of probably three great railroad systems; the construction of immense industrial plants like that of the Steel Corporation at Gary, Ind., impose an enormous burden upon resources already fully employed in maintaining the routine requirements of unprecedented trade activity. Mr. Hill last week assured us that to handle the present traffic properly, we needed at least 100,000 miles of additional track, and if the cost of constructing and equipping this mileage be put at the low figure of $85,000 per mile, striking illustration of the magnitude of the task of financing railroad construction in this country is presented. There is nothing in the European situation at the moment to warrant belief that money there will be otherwise than tight for a long time to come. There are in eight many demands upon the London market, including those for the nationalization of the Irish railways, for South America, and for its part in the national loans which seem to be in sight. Similarly, Paris must be prepared for another great Russian loan, along with the resumption of impending money requirements that permanent ease in our own money market is not to be reasonably looked for.

THE HOME

The Times on Monday will publish the first portion of an article by Rev. R. Mathers on the "boy problem." As one who has to do with boys, in a very real and effective manner, Mr. Mathers is well qualified to discuss this subject. Mr. Tenyson Smith is not quite satisfied with the press of St. John. It is quite clear, however, that Mr. Smith is thoroughly satisfied with himself and his methods. Congratulations, brother.

Cured her Father's Drunkenness by a Simple Remedy.

She was her father from a drunkard's grave. Free sample of Samara's Tonic Prescription checks his drinking and leads to a complete cure. "It seemed hopeless to keep father from drinking and we all felt the disgrace. When I was a child I was at my worst and I tried to get him to try Samara. I was then offered a free sample treatment and that remedy was tasteless and could be taken secretly. I determined to try the treatment. I was glad every day which I gave him in his tea, cured him, and I am pleased to say he never touches whiskey now. How glad I am that I wrote you and how happy we all are together. Father says that he could never have stopped drinking of his own accord." Free Package particulars, testimonials and price sent in plain sealed envelope. Correspondence strictly confidential. ETERNAL GOODNESS

I walk with bare, bushed feet the ground I tread with boldness and: I dare not fit with me and bound The love and power of God. I know not what the future hath Of marvel or surprise, Alas! some dead and dead His mercy underlies. No offering of my own I have, No word by which to prove; I can but give, as gifts His gave, And plead His love for love. And so he do the silent sea I wait the muffled oar; No harm from him can come to me, On ocean or on shore. I know not where His islands lift Their fringed palms in air; Beyond His love and care, I am, as I am, here. -John Greenleaf Whitier.

IN LIGHTER VEIN

IN BAD SHAPE. "I heard your new stenographer boasting that he can work the typewriter like lightning." "That's about right; when he gets through with the job it looks very much as if lightning had got its work in on it."

THE LAST WORD.

"Aw, gon, alkis," said the British soldier, attempting to end the argument; "but a soldier during a Kansas drought; 'the parson's oiler' ter pray fur rain."

AN UNOBSERVING MAN.

Gerald--Shall I speak to your father? Geraldine--Have you found out who the head of the family is?

QUEER.

"We're going to have 'investin' services up to the church today," said the first farmer during a Kansas drought; "the parson's oiler" ter pray fur rain."

MARKING PLEASANT.

"Alfred," said Mrs. Gayboy, "the pastor is coming to make a call this evening, and I want you to treat him with proper respect." "Great Scott, yes!" answered Mr. Gayboy. "What do you want me to do?" "Don't talk about any of the things you are interested in."

EXPERIENCED.

Country Deacon--Our salary is $400 a year and we give you two donation parties. How much do you want? Clergyman--Call it $350--and leave out the donation parties!

DOUBTFUL ENCOURAGEMENT.

"How do you like your new automobile?" "I'm worried. The man that sold it to me said that it would last longer than I would."

WHERE SHE IS POPULAR.

"Does your wife dress to please you?" "She says she does, but I think from the size of the bills she dresses to please the dressmaker's milliner."

THE BUY-SHOBLEM.

St. John, N. B., Nov. 23, 1906. To the Editor of the Times: Sir--I noticed in the issue of your esteemed paper on Saturday last interviews with Magistrate Ritchie, Chief Clarke and Captain Jenkins on the boy problem.

The statement by the chief of police to the effect that "very few escape" is ridiculous. There is the tax yard gang for instance, how many robberies were committed by them without an arrest? Phillips & Foley's dry goods store, J. V. Russell's shoe store, Edw. McDevie's and D. M. McDevie's meat stores, Brown's bakery, Kee & Burgess', J. D. McAvity's, J. Sinclair's and many other stores were robbed without the chief's "finest" getting hold of the culprits.

The burglars are now little fellows, between the ages of nine and fifteen, but with the authorities cannot end their string of robberies. Stories like the above came out in the Higgins trial, when Go-deped confessed to over a dozen robberies and was given a term in the reformatory. If the youngsters who are now committing the robberies were rounded up and given a long term in the reformatory there would be no thefts or disorderly conduct. The same boys are the thieves, who break windows, throw stones and are otherwise disorderly. Some boys arrested are not bad, at least those locked up for disorderly conduct, and being arrested ruins their reputation and they keep on the downward path. These proven guilty of theft should be given a term of four years or thereabouts in a place where they would be obliged to attend school. Healthy boys certainly cannot be gotten into their homes before nine o'clock. I mean those between the ages of twelve and sixteen. All uncles twelve ought to be in before eight o'clock in winter and sunset in summer. Hoping to see this in print, I am, "AN EX-BOY."

AN INTERESTING CASE

At the beginning of the circuit court next Tuesday an interesting case will come up, when Michael McDade, editor of the New Freeman will sue Mrs. M. A. Finn for about $2,800 for services rendered in connection with the business affairs of her late husband, and also for consultation with a number of the family. It is said that Mrs. Finn offered $1,400 in settlement. Mr. McDade said that the case was not in a position to speak about it for publication. W. H. Trueman is attorney and D. Mullin counsel for Mr. McDade, and E. S. Ritchie is attorney and John Kerr counsel for Mrs. Finn. If the case comes to trial it is said that L. A. Curry, K. C., will be associated with Messrs. Kerr and Ritchie.

TENNYSON SMITH--AN IMPRESSION
When I received instructions to "do" E. Tennison Smith, the noted temperance orator who for a week has been electrifying large audiences by his forcible, very forcible, talks on the question which is rapidly becoming even in St. John the greatest problem of the people of this age to grapple with, I felt very much like the man Mark Twain tells about who was struck by an express train--I didn't know just where I was at.
I had previously held the belief that I had all the surface indications of an honest man and would hardly, from appearances, be the individual selected from a group of ordinary mortals as a vendor of gold bricks or an agent for fictitious stocks. Furthermore, from what I had heard of the gentleman in question I had reason to suspect that he would not be an easy subject "to do" in any way and I differed.

Then it was gently explained to me that I was not expected to relieve the gentleman's mind, but rather to quiet, by listen to one or more of his addresses, to see him in action, and by keeping my eyes and ears open and my grey matter working to absorb some impressions of him and afterwards record them for the instruction or amusement of those who had heard Tennison Smith and I have seen him in action. I have profited thereby, and the predominant impression I formed of him was that of a man who had reached the stage of an exceptionally fine actor.
He lacks just one thing--and that is a voice. Unfortunately his voice, which is sympathetic and full of quality, is so weakly that he is obliged to speak too high and the reason of this is that he is a great actor is not there.
What he lacks in voice he makes up in magnetism. Why that man is simply bubbling over with it. He fairly excites and carries many in his audience. He has a way of speaking, even if one does not agree with him, one is impelled to listen to him with the closest attention. It is impossible to deny that that magnetic voice of his grips the audience and compels a hearing. And how he talks! When he gets fairly warmed up by his subject--and he has the faculty of warming very quickly--the words fairly flow from him in an uncheckable stream. In spite of this his enunciation is periodically clear, and although he is probably one of the quietest talkers ever heard in St. John yet he avoids stammering his words and is always coherent. In fact, he is so clear that the great speed of his utterance is lost sight of. So much for his manner of speech. Now for the man.
Tennison Smith is a man of dynamic, abundant energy from crown to toe. Of slight physique, he gives evidence in his addresses of the proper use of his physical powers. He seems to be forcing himself and at the close of his meetings there is an evident effort to subjugate the elements of physical activity. Of such men are the great workers of the world made and among such men do the saints and reformers of the world work. And no offence to Mr. Smith is intended; but he is a notable example of the man who will continued to labor at a severe mental task until he either completes it or succumbs. His physical powers may rebel, but his mental powers will never give in, driving, driving until something breaks and a rest is enforced.

And this is not an imaginative analysis, for it requires but a careful observation of the man at his best to make clear his principal characteristics. What he says he means and believes, and he is thoroughly in earnest in his work. To him there can be no half-way measures. The liquor traffic as he sees it is a national all-levelling demon, and the men who are engaged in the sale of intoxicants are villains of the deepest, blackest dye.
No one who has heard him can doubt his courage or his singleness of purpose. He has an end to achieve and this end is all he sees. The arguments he advances in favor of prohibition are not always clear and most of them are antiquated, but that he has the right end of it there is no shadow of doubt.
In this Mr. Smith possesses all the advantages of every other man who ever talked temperance from a public platform. He is a fairly good speaker, there is no cogent argument which can be used against him with any shadow of success.
But it is as a story teller or mimic that he excels. He is certainly a wonderful artist when he comes to graphic recitation. He is hardly eloquent with him, for George E. Foster or Rev. Joseph Hector (The Black Knight), both of whom have been here before, are far his superiors in this regard; and those who heard Dr. A. A. Spokoin in his introductory address at the St. John's early meetings ever that St. John's veteran parliamentarian has nothing to learn from Mr. Smith from the standpoint of eloquence. But it is as a teller of stories--for his illustrative, well chosen stories--that he excels. Witness the pathetic tale he told the other night of the heart broken wife of a man who had been injured into death in a factory. His depiction of the situation of that poor woman, whose very heart-strings were torn by harrowing grief, was one of the finest things ever presented on a platform in St. John. Again, his conception of the imaginary tug-of-war between the forces of temperance and intemperance was a wonderful piece of realism.
As a mimic he is a master. Never has a more ludicrous and at the same time pathetic characterization of an intemperate man been given here than some of the types affected by Mr. Smith. In this connection it may be fairly said that his valuable assets in his art were the valuable assets of his film on the vaudeville stage. As a character actor he would be a great asset to any theatrical troupe.
For his address, it may be safely said that when his element which he eliminated from his mind, he left the residue is composed of just those people whom one would expect to see at a temperance lecture. There are few, if any, surprises. There are the same old faces, the stalwarts who have fought the temperance cause for years, who will continue to fight to the end, and who would be in the ranks of temperance workers even if St. John had never heard of Tennison Smith.

A BANQUET FOR THE MARATHON WINNER
SACKVILLE, Nov. 23--Mr. Allison senior class '07 gave a banquet at the university residence last night in honor of the late Mr. Herbert G. Atkinson, winner of the Marathon road race in St. John. A tempting menu was served, H. W. Outerbridge, presiding. At the close of the supper the following toasts were proposed: The King, by the president, responded to by "Salve Rex"; the Honored Guest, by J. M. Clouston, responded to by Mr. Atkinson; the Ladies, H. G. Black, responded to by Miss Alice A. McLean; Our Next Merry Meeting, by G. S. Patterson, responded to by Misses Kate Lawrence and Mabel Dixon. The singing of Auld Lang Syne brought the evening to a close.
A very successful meeting in the interest of the Bible Society, was held in Main St. Baptist church, last evening. Excellent songs were given by the choir, under the direction of Rev. G. M. Campbell, and Rev. J. L. Dawson.
Mrs. F. W. Thompson and two children, having gone to Winnipeg where they purpose spending the winter.
Murdoch J. McLeod, deputy provincial treasurer and chief of the excise commission, with his wife, paid a visit to Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Williams, Bridge street, this week. Mrs. McLeod is a sister of R. C. Williams, manager of the Bank of Nova Scotia here.
The annual meeting of the Sackville and Westmorland Agricultural Association will be held in the curling rink on Monday at 1:30 p. m.

Mrs. H. A. Powell returned last evening from a brief visit at St. John.

Are You Often Bilious?
Read This and Learn How to Prevent Attacks.
Biliousness is merely a term applied to conditions that exist when the body is overloaded with bile.
The complexion turns yellow, eyes look dull, pimples, blotches and eczema break out. Headaches are over present.
Biliousness has two great causes, constipation and defective liver action.
When Dr. Hamilton's Pills are taken they not only correct the bowels, but act directly on the liver, regulating its bile secretion.
Unlike ordinary medicines, which purge and give temporary relief, Dr. Hamilton's Pills remove the condition which causes biliousness; then permanent cures are effected.
Dr. Hamilton's Pills do cure biliousness and liver ail under all circumstances.
We prove this by the statement of Mr. Fenwick Lashington, of New Harbor, N. S., who writes: "Three months ago I had no copulation of ever before, and it periodically bilious attacks. They were preceded by dizziness and dreadful headaches. If I stooped over my head would swim and a nauseous feeling, crept into my stomach.
Dr. Hamilton's Pills fixed up my liver, and made me a well man in six months. Today I enjoy a good appetite, excellent digestion, and the best of health. Dr. Hamilton's Pills did it all."

The Menace to the Dairyman
(From the World's Work)
The truth about tuberculosis in dairy cattle has not till now been told. We had been lulled by Dr. Koch's assertion that bovine consumption is not transmissible to human beings. Now it appears that Professor Koch's dictum was a hasty conclusion. Worse than that, it was a fatal conclusion. For not only is tuberculosis now known to be transmissible, but the contagion from cattle is more virulent than contagion from a human being.
The bald statistics of tuberculosis are among the most awful facts of life. Of every herd of range cattle for beef, two every herd that feeds our infants and our sick, from ten to ninety in every hundred are infected. And of every man, woman, and child of the human race, one in every seven is infected with the contagion. These facts suggest the menace of consumption, and especially of the part that dairy cattle play in its spread. Fortunately for the peace of our world, the methods of eliminating tuberculosis in cattle have been perfected. Unfortunately, these methods are too generally ignored, although there are hopeful signs of a growing use of them.
J. N. Sutherland, C. P. R. freight superintendent, went to Montreal last evening. Yesterday was the twenty-fifth anniversary of the wedding of the city chamberlain and Mrs. Sandall. They were the recipients of many hearty expressions of good will and pleasant wishes.

There's no "Shoddy" in Hewson Tweeds
As mentioned in the first of these talks, in Hewson Tweeds only choice, pure, raw wool is used.
"Shoddy"--coming from worn-out worsted, rags and clippings--consists of short, broken fibres with a breaking strain of 1/4 to 1/2 pound. There's no elasticity, no life to it. It's dead and worthless.
Hewson Tweeds, with their long, sound, pure-wool fibres, have a breaking-strain of 3 1/2 pounds. Try the scale-test for yourself and see the difference.
When one realizes that 90% of the so-called woollen goods contain cotton and shoddy, it is well to know what brands are pure wool. A well-known expert states that in the "heavy woollen district" of Yorkshire, there are dozens of manufacturers who never buy a single bale of raw wool, and yet are known as leading manufacturers of woollen goods.
The best of shoddy is made from the sweepings of tailor-shops and the empyings of rag-bags. The worst is woven from the rotten, cast-off rags of beggars. This is the actual statement of the report given at the last convention of The International (American) Live Stock Association.
Apart from the danger of disease contained in unsavoury shoddy materials, there is no economy whatever in buying such fabrics. They won't wear--and they'll never look right.
But Hewson Tweeds wear long and well--pure, soft, rich, clean wool to the last--each thread having from 7 to 14 times the strength of a thread of shoddy.
Don't take any risk. Don't buy goods that have no trademark. Look for the Hewson brand of quality. Insist on your dealer supplying it--for it means pure, beautiful, all-wool. If he will not get these beautiful, strong tweeds for you, send us his name, and we'll be glad to mail you samples, at the same time getting him to stock up in Hewson Tweeds.

THINGS ARE ALL RIGHT

One day the Hare and the Giraffe met on one of the paths in the forest, and they had scarcely saluted each other when the Hare complained:

Met in the path. "And get on to the man over there!" replied the Giraffe. "When he has walked until he is weary he can sit down on a log and look just as graceful as when on foot. If I should attempt to sit down and cross my legs and smoke a nickel cigar every animal in the forest would get up and howl in ridicule!"

At that moment there was a great commotion at a point not far away, and it was soon learned that the Fox had caught his tail in a trap as he wandered. The Giraffe was about to remark that the Hare would not have been caught in the trap, when a man who has just sat down to read and smoke sprang up with: "Whoop! By the great horn spoon, but I must have sat down on at least half a bushel of 'em, and by tomorrow I won't be able to get out of bed."

Moral: "If you had been provided with a long, bushy tail like the Fox's," remarked the Giraffe to the Hare, "you would now be in the hands of the hunter." "And if it had been possible for you to sit down on a log," replied the Hare, "you would be now dusting for the nearest drug store for a remedy for horned stings. That chap hit about 15 of 'em in a bunch, and all of 'em got used at the same time."

HE RAN FOR OFFICE

"No, I am not a fugitive from justice, and the sight of a policeman does not give me a chill," said the steady and honest-looking old man on the rear platform of the street car. "I am headed for the country to hide myself for a month, but there is no crime connected with it, simply ran for office."

"Oh, I see," replied the other. "That I stole sheep." "That I embezzled money." "That I was down on education." "That I once robbed a widow." "That I burned a barn to get the insurance." "That I beat my children and kicked my wife." "That I was a turncoat in politics and a liar in business."

"That I crippled a man in Maine and murdered one in California. All this and more was urged against me and I was wiped off the face of the earth, as it were, and, as I said, I am retiring to the country to think things over and get a fresh introduction to myself. After 15 or 20 days I shall perhaps have the nerve to come back and face my family grocer, who has been giving me 14 ounces for a pound the last two years, but cut me dead before the campaign had fairly started."

JOE KERR.

"Yes, I ran. They wanted me for sheriff of the county. They came to me by the dozen to say that I was honest and would make a good man for the place and that the opposition couldn't say a word against me. When they had made me believe that it was my duty I accepted the nomination."

THERE IS A CHANGE

"All this talk about the life insurance companies might have grown stale except for one thing," said the man on the suburban car who had just been consulting his memorandum book. "I refer to the life insurance canvasser. There was a time when an average of five per day called on me at my house or office, and they were the hardest men in the world to get rid of. It has been two whole manias now since I have seen one, and he didn't have a bit of the old-time gall about him. He came into the office so quiet and humble that I thought he wanted a place as gardener. When I asked his business he fidgeted around for a spell and then replied: 'Mr. Blank, do you believe in life insurance?'"

"Under certain conditions, yes." "I am an agent for the Blank Life Insurance Company. If that company could show that it had been honest?" "Yes." "Had been honest and straight, and its president hadn't been paid a salary four times too large?" "Yes." "And he hadn't wrung all his relatives into a good thing and paid them double what they were worth?"

THE KICKER

"Last summer, when I got my two weeks off," said the salesman, "I went to a resort on the Connecticut shore. Say, now, but it was great. The price was moderate, the hotel cleaner than a pin and such meals I never ate before. The service was good, the beds fine and I just sat down and wondered how the hotel man could do it. Even the flies and mosquitoes had a hint to keep away and leave us in comfort. Kick? Why, I'd have soon thought of kicking against the Wall of Gethsemane at 30 cents a day."

"And what happened?" was asked. "Well, after the third day a nice looking old chap arrived, and somehow I set him down as a kicker. He waited just one day and then he called me aside and opened out. He just cussed high and low and tore things to pieces. When I could get in a word edgewise I spoke of the meals and the service and the beds, but he went off with more cusswords. Then I referred to the cheap prices and the free boating at night, and he fairly howled as he

THE HOME CIRCLE

Made-over Gowns - - - - - By Dorothy Dale

The designs this season are particularly well adapted for making over a gown, as one of the most favored modes is the so-called "skeleton" bodice, where the sleeves and under blouse are entirely of lace. Some of these frocks have the material of which the skirt is made, used as shown in one of the drawings on this page, the fabric in this case extending around under the arms, the front and backs being joined as in any ordinary waist. This design may be adapted in various ways and is suitable for both light and dark materials, while the other illustration to the right of the page requires even less material, but is most desirable for a light-colored gown where the contrast will not be so decided between the lace of the yoke and sleeves and the material of the gown.

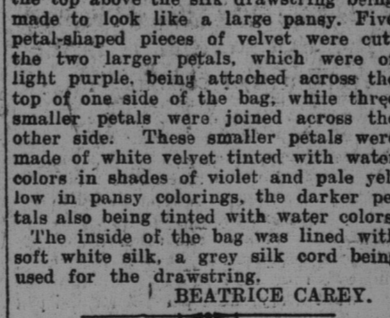

Really, the material itself counts for far less in a gown just now than does the individuality expressed in the trimming, and as lace is so much used for entire sleeves and deep rose portions of the bodice, most of the material of a made-over frock can be reserved for the skirt. The skirt, however, must of necessity be full about the lower part to have the required outline, but tucked panels, plaits and various devices may be contrived to bring the skirt "up to date" and if the gown is of light color for evening wear, panels formed crosswise, ruffles of lace set on from just below the hip line to the bottom of the skirt, give an excellent effect.

The model was of broadcloth, the lace underbodice being of Valenciennes in combination with heavier lace. The sleeves were of allover val, trimmed with two-inch ruffles to match. A band of the heavy lace being used as a cuff just below the elbow. The yoke was made of heavy lace in which frills of the original gown may be saved to do service for the bodice of the re-made frock.

A Homemade Opera Bag

A bag for opera glasses makes a very pretty and useful gift. The illustration showing one of very novel style. The model, which came from Paris, can be easily copied, and would be pretty in almost any coloring. The bottom of the bag was cut to follow the outline of the glasses, as shown in the drawing. In this bottom piece was made of looking glass, which was glued to silk-covered, padded cardboard cut the same shape as the silk lining the bottom of the bag. The bag was made of dark grey suede, the top above the silk drawing being made to look like a large panoply. Five petal-shaped pieces of velvet were cut, two larger petals, which were of light purple, being attached across the top of one side of the bag, while three smaller petals were joined across the other side. These smaller petals were made of white velvet tinted with water colors in shades of violet and pale yellow in pussy colorings, the darker petals also being tinted with water colors. The inside of the bag was lined with soft white silk, a gray silk cord being used for the drawstring.

Onion Broth.—Parboil six large onions, slice them and toss in one cup of butter with salt, pepper and some parsley. Add one and a half table-spoonfuls of flour and one quart of white stock, made from fish or chicken, also one pint of hot milk. Press through a sieve and serve with slices of toast.

Thanksgiving Recipes - - - - - By Sara Cranford

Blaque of Oysters.—This recipe requires one quart of fair-sized fresh oysters, one quart of rich milk or cream, eight soda crackers rolled, a teaspoonful of beef tallow, or less if the extract is very much condensed; a generousful of finely minced celery, two tablespoonfuls of butter, worked into an equal amount of flour, the yolks of three eggs, teaspoonful salt, and one-half a teaspoonful of pepper, with a sprinkle of cayenne. Chop the oysters, put them into the stew pan with their own liquor, the celery, beef extract, crackers, salt, pepper and a little parsley. Boil slowly for 20 minutes then rub through a sieve until all the moisture has been pressed through. Return to stove, add milk and simmer again for ten minutes. Set back and very carefully stir in the beaten yolks of the eggs, serve at once.

Roast Turkey.—Procure a plump, young 12-pound turkey that has been singed. Draw the turkey being careful not to break any of the internal organs. Rub in several waters, putting a teaspoonful of baking soda in the next to last. Wipe dry inside and out. Rub the inside with a little salt and stuff.

Chicken Salad.—Cut cold chicken into half-inch dice, using both light and dark meat. Moisten it with French dressing. Chop tender celery into small dice and mix it with the chicken, using two-thirds as much celery as there is of chicken. Mix the whole with mayonnaise. Form it into a mound. Cover the mound with mayonnaise.

Mince Pie.—Half a pound of suet, half a pound of raw beef, one pound salt apples; chop each finely and separately. Take half a pound of well-washed and dried currants, half a pound of seeded raisins, half a pound of citron cut into small bits, half a pound of brown sugar, half a pint of New Orleans molasses, one ounce of salt, half an ounce of mixed spices (mostly cinnamon), one-fourth an ounce of grated nutmeg, juice of one lemon and half a pint of cider. Mix meat, suet, salt and apples; then add apples, brown fruit, then cider, and last of all the sugar. Bake the day before, between two crusts of puff paste.

Pumpkin Pie.—Select a sweet pumpkin; they are small in size and of a deep yellow color. Cut in halves, remove the seeds, cut in rings, remove the rind and then cut into small pieces. Steam until the pumpkin is soft and the water nearly evaporated. A slow fire is needed for the last part of the process, which is quite lengthy. Press the pulp through a sieve. To each cup and a half of prepared pumpkin add one cup of milk and a half a cup of rich, sweet cream, scalded; one egg well beaten; a generous half cupful of sugar and one-fourth a teaspoonful each of salt and mace. Mix together thoroughly. Bake slowly between thick crusts of puff paste.

Renovating House Furnishings - - - - - By Beatrice Carey

Every year or so it is generally necessary to make changes in one's house furnishings, but to do this economically is often a vexing problem. Chais covers and table covers, hangings, etc., can, however, be cleaned very satisfactorily if they are not too much worn and faded, and soiled carpets can be dyed with excellent results. Indeed, if the floor of a room is covered with a pale, colorless carpet, such as was the fashion some years ago, it will be found that the effect of the entire room will be much improved if the rug is sent to the dyers and colored a rich crimson or a clear dark green or blue, as is best suited to the other furnishings.

The charge for dyeing the carpet is not large, the cost being about 25 cents a yard, and especially in the thick pile carpets, such as Wilton or Axminster, the results are very good. In selecting materials for furniture covering it is really false economy to buy cheap materials, as the quantity required for the average chair is very little and the cost for doing the upholstering is just the same, whether the material cost $1 or $6 a yard. Always buy such fabrics with a view to their wearing quality, and, although some very artistic and pleasing designs can be found in the cheaper stuffs, as they are mostly made of cotton they are apt to fade and wear out within a year or so. Two dollars and a half a yard is the cheapest velvet that is safe to use as a furniture covering, although the cheaper quality may be used for draperies. In a room where the walls and hangings are plain the furniture coverings may be figured, but be sure to select patterns in which the colors are artistically combined. Always avoid the cheap figured corduroys, harshly colored, tapestries or pressed velvets, and do not have your entire set of furniture covered alike. The fashion now is to have each piece of furniture done in a different material, coloring and design, although a careful harmony should be in evidence as to the color scheme. The favorite materials are silk brocade, silk and wool tapestry or velvet. Upholsterer's velvet is also much used and comes in almost every color and shade. It is very serviceable and does not show marks as readily as velvet. Some clever housekeepers upholster their own furniture, which is, of course, a great saving. The work is really not difficult, unless the piece is done in tufted style, and if desired a tufted chair or sofa to be recovered can have the hollows filled in with little pads of raw cotton, the whole then covered with a layer of sheet muslin, so that the new material may be put on perfectly plain. In renovating the furnishings of a room, unless the room itself is suitably decorated as to the walls and woodwork, the best results cannot be gained. Still, many a housekeeper will allow ugly woodwork or an inartistic, characterless wallpaper to mar the effect of excellent furniture because of the expense of repainting or re-papering. Painting, of course, has to be done by a professional, but even then the expense is not large if an inexpensive wall covering is selected. I have seen very charming rooms in which the walls were hung with paper that cost but 15 cents a roll, and at this price a room can be done for $6 or $7, including all charges. As to the woodwork, ready-mixed paints can be bought which are easily applied and a room done in ugly yellow pine or too bright colored cherry can be completely metamorphosed by going over it with mahogany stain or white enamel.

EXPLAINED. (Houston Post). "Now, what do you suppose possessed Howard Gould's sister-in-law to marry a Chinaman?" "Well, I have heard that the Chinese are good cooks, and cooks are mighty hard to get."

In the heart of one of the least-known countries—British Guinea—is a mountain called Roostina, the top of which only two parties of white men have ever yet attained. This mountain is an immense tableland, with absolutely precipitous cliffs, 3,000 feet high on all sides. The only way of approach is by ledges running right under a gigantic waterfall, which leaps from the summit of this terrible rock.

"77" Humphreys' Seventy-Seven Cures Grip and COLDS

"There's nothing so bad for a Cough as 'coughing.' Coughing is like scratching a wound; so long as it is done, it will not heal. When it is done to cough draw a long breath through the nostrils; hold it until it is in the air cells. The nitrogen thus inhaled always the desire to cough again, the throat and lungs a chance to heal. The use of 'Seventy-seven' will aid nature in her efforts to recuperate.

ACROSS THE CONTINENT WITH THE CHINA MAILS

Over Seas Limited Left Sand Point at 6.23 Last Night -- Empress of Ireland Safely Docked But Found too Long for Her Berth--The Landing of the Mails.

The Empress of Ireland, of the C. P. E. fleet, with the China mails on board, docked at Sand Point yesterday afternoon of five minutes before 5 o'clock, and at 6.23 p. m. the Overseas Limited, with the first class passengers and the mails, left on the race across the continent to Vancouver. The big ship presented an imposing sight as she came up the harbor under her own steam, and as she slowed down and waited for her tow on nearing Sand Point, the waiting crowd were able for the first time to obtain a true estimate of her proportions. The Cruiser took the tow rope and the Lord Kitchener was attached to the stern. As she cleared the corner of No. 3 berth, several of those waiting at the wharf exchanged greetings with their friends on board, and the portholes were peopled with immigrants anxious to see what was going on. The pontoons, about four feet wide, and then moved against the wharves to prevent the hurricane deck coming in contact with the grain conveyor, and there was much groaning and grunting as the timbers of the vessel slowly drew alongside. Notwithstanding the precautions, the forward part of the deck touched the conveyor at one point and a piece of timber was torn off and was sent crashing into the slip. At this point it was noticed by many of the spectators that a bark was occupying the upper part of No. 3 berth, and much surprise was expressed at its removal before the arrival of the Empress, especially as it quickly became apparent that owing to her great length the steamer would not be able to berth properly until seven full allotted spaces at berths 2 and 3. As events proved, about seventy feet at the stern of the big ship was left overhanging the harbor line for want of room, in consequence of which considerable difficulty was experienced in placing the general plank at the after hatch for the removal of the baggage. At the first attempt the stern deck narrowly escaped injury. The delay was generally concealed, made considerable difference in the departure of the special. The unloading of the mails at the bow was at least half completed before any baggage was sent over the side. The presence of the objectionable bark was also the cause of the first class passengers being obliged to remain on board until the unloading of the mails was almost completed. The side hatch by which they should have alighted was immediately opposite the grain conveyor, and made the placing of a gangway impossible. Had the Empress been able to occupy her allotted space it is believed all these difficulties would have been avoided. The handling of the mails was watched with much interest. The first consignment of parcel post mail was sent over the side and down the gangway at 4.57 o'clock. It was enclosed in a strong wooden box iron lined and on reaching the wharf was rushed across the warehouse and into the mail car at the other side. A constant stream of mail bags was sent over the side, and followed the mail bags which numbered 497 and in three

Boils and Pimples

Red Rash, Eczema, in fact any skin disease, disfigures the complexion because the bowels are constipated--or because the kidneys do not rid the system of waste--or because the skin itself is unhealthy. Ointments, salves and soaps are useless. Because the trouble is with the blood.

Owing to defective action of bowels, kidneys or skin, the blood becomes laden with impurities. It is these impurities--deposited by the blood--that make boils, pimples, and painful, disfiguring skin diseases. It is because the trouble is with the bowels, kidneys or skin, that FRUIT-A-TIVES cure these diseases.

Fruitatives

act directly on the eliminating organs--correct their irregularities--strengthen them--and thus clear the skin and make the complexion clear and soft. If you have any skin trouble--or any ailment with constipation, liver trouble, biliousness, headaches, indigestion, rheumatism--cure yourself with Fruitatives. They are made of fruit juices and tonics--and never fail to cure. (See a box or 6 boxes for $3.50. Sent on approval of price if your druggist does not handle them.)

IN THE LABOR WORLD

The eleventh annual convention of the International Seamen's Union meets in Boston, December 3.

The employees of the great printing house of Deane & Leisure, at Toronto, Bellingham, are on strike.

Denver, Colo. Trades and Labor Assembly recently started an open fight against the department of commerce and labor to secure a law for the protection of the unemployed.

The United Mine Workers have elected fifteen members of the next Pennsylvania legislature.

The Australian Steamship Owners' Association has agreed to accept a 25 per cent. of the Federation Seamen's Union for increased wages.

The clerical force of the Maro Island Navy Yard sent a signed petition to Secretary Blandine, recently requesting an increase of twenty-five per cent. in salaries.

The miners locked out at the Hebrons colliery in New South Wales have decided to appeal to all industrial unions of the Commonwealth for financial support.

Emigration companies of Japan are preparing to send 200 laborers to the Hawaiian Islands by next June. Six thousand young men are in Yokohama ready to embark.

By direction of President Roosevelt, Mr. J. Edin Foster has been detailed by the department of commerce and labor to investigate the condition of woman and child workers throughout the country.

Kruskaloff, who was president of the executive committee of the Russian Workers' Council, and fourteen leaders of the council, have been sentenced to exile in Siberia and the loss of all civil rights.

A statute prohibiting the employment of a child under 16 years of age longer than ten hours in any one day has been declared to be an entirely proper and valid exercise of the police powers of the state by the Oregon Supreme Court.

The pope maintains a mosaic factory in the Vatican. Here the artists work in a gallery lined with 20,000 lockers in which repose sticks of silica of all the myriad varying shades required to reproduce the tints from canvas.

Delayers representing 330,000 conductors, brakemen and firemen on the forty-five railroad systems west of Chicago, met in Kansas City recently to determine what demands for wages shall be made on the roads.

A machine that will burn coal into the firebox of a locomotive at the rate of 220 pounds a minute, if necessary, will dispense with the labor of firemen on many of the engines of the Chicago & North Western road.

Members of the Independent Labor party in Pennsylvania are pledging to vote for every candidate at the coming elections who does not promise to endeavor to secure for the people a fair share of the total profits of the mine.

The wages of the anthracite miners in Pennsylvania for the current month will be 7 per cent. above the $4.20 basis. This round the constituency, while the professor, after one scholarly address, related to the evolution of his study and meditated on a forthcoming lecture to the students of Columbia. In Springfield, Mass., the new measure of Hampshire County is a new highway, or was until a year or so ago. He was elected to the city council as a job, but displayed unexpected ability. He was the only republican on the county ticket who was elected. Another curiosity is Julius Hauser, a baker, who has been elected treasurer of the State of New York on the Democratic ticket, which appears to have elected every candidate but the Republican nominee. Hauser was chosen as candidate because the Republicans had nominated another German.

THE HUMOROUS CONSTABLES. In Missouri the most desirable of the minor offices is that of constable, and contests for the position are usually keen. In one St. Louis district Joseph L. Brooks was elected, although he never made a speech or did any campaigning. He just appeared at the meeting and sang. As he sang well, having been with the Primrose and West Minstrels, and later with the Grand Minstrels, he was nominated by election. In Indiana a constable was elected who weighs about 30 pounds, when "bought" by the other party. This was a joke, and one that has been repeated seven times. The midwife, who stands about 6 feet 6 inches, promises to become a crusader.

THE HENCHMAN AND HIS CHIEF. Another humorous incident was furnished in the City of New York, where an east side policeman named George took a friend and henchman to the borough president to arrange for his appointment is 3 per cent. higher than the October wages, and even the rate ever was under the sliding scale.

All district attorneys in the United States have been instructed by Attorney-General Moody in a circular letter to enforce strictly the provisions of the eight-hour law as applied to laborers and mechanics employed on public works.

The Panama Canal Commission has given a final "no" to the demand of the ten different classes of skilled labor on the zone for increase of pay. As a consequence many men have quit their jobs. The ten hour day has been declared on the canal work for alien laborers.

All the big mining companies of the Butte district have agreed to advance the wages of underground miners 25 cents a day, beginning Nov. 15, making the pay $3.75 for a shift of eight hours. About 10,000 underground miners will be affected by the increase.

First Assistant Postmaster-General Hitchcock says that the sum recommended for an increase in the salaries of post-officers will prevent the promotion of about 75 per cent. of clerks in the grade below $800, about 50 per cent. of the clerks receiving $800 and $1,000, and about 40 per cent. of those receiving from $1,100 to $1,200, and about 30 per cent. of those receiving over $1,200.

Railroad building in the Niemi Valley, China, is more destructive to human life than ever was the case with the work on the Ichang Canal in the United States. Consul T. Hayes, of Nanking reports that the death rate in that valley is 70 per cent. of the total number of men employed, and that the work is suspended and the men removed during the summer rains.

The latest development in England's struggle between employer and employee is Sir John Bingham's offer to subscribe $50,000 to fund a fight against the death rate in that valley. Sir John the head of one of Sheffield's greatest engineering firms, sees no escape from tremendous labor troubles and urges the manufacturers to join hands in a fight to the death.

From an estimate published in the weekly journal of the Central Committee of the Social-Democratic Trade-Union of Germany, it appears that a remarkable increase has taken place in the membership of trade unions in the German Empire. The number of members rose from 1,469,025 in 1904 to 1,822,949 in 1905, an increase of 23.77, or 25.35 per cent. during the year.

The American Society of Equity, the recently organized farmers' union, has practically affiliated with the American Federation of Labor. The society is credited with a membership of 1,000,000 and claims to represent one-seventh of the population of the United States. Federation committee recommended a plan whereby the federation and affiliated bodies will demand union farm, garden and orchard products, while the farmers will demand union work, which will not only raise their prices, but will also raise their wages.

ELECTION HUMORS IN UNCLE SAM'S LAND

(Mac) and (Empire). In the recent election conviction that the voters of Kentucky were remarkable decided to vote for the Republican ticket. Some men were elected to various offices just to show the delight of the disappointed by their constituents. Others were chosen because no one else wanted the job; they had been elected to "keep 'em" in their places. It is a pity that the Americans do not take their elections very seriously, except in the election of a president. It is a pity that such as that for the governorship of New York. Doubled in size in three years. AND NOW OPERATE PRIVATE FREIGHT CARS. The Mooney Biscuit and Candy Company, Limited, Stratford, Canada, is the fastest growing business in the Dominion. Started in 1903, more ovens were necessary in nine months. In eighteen months, another wing was added to the original building, increasing the floor space by 18,000 square feet. Building operations now under way will double the size of the Mooney Bakeries and Candy Manufactories, and give a total floor space of from 150,000 to 200,000 square feet. The illustration in the upper left corner shows the enlarged works when the addition is completed. True to their policy, of adopting latest methods, the Mooney Biscuit and Candy Company, Limited, have had built and now operate, their own private freight cars. This company is the first in Canada to adopt this economical and rapid system of shipments. Mooney's "Perfection Cream Sodas" -- are now known all over Canada -- and this new line of freight cars will still further keep the name constantly before the public.

WILL BE THE GREATEST OF ALL THE EXPOSITIONS

Jamestown Ter-Centennial, Commemorating America's Three Hundredth Anniversary, to be an Elaborate Naval, Military, Historical, Educational and Industrial Celebration.

Of all exhibitions held in the United States since the Philadelphia Centennial in 1876, the Jamestown Ter-Centennial to be held on the shores and waters of Hampton Roads, near the cities of Norfolk, Portsmouth and Newport News, Va., April 20 to November 30, 1907, is to be the most unique, and in originality and novelty will completely eclipse all previous expositions. The celebration commemorates the most important event in history--the founding of the first English-speaking settlement in America, at Jamestown, Va., in 1607, when Captain John Smith established a village from which has grown America, with nearly one hundred million population. The celebration will show the remarkable position attained by the United States in history and education, together with the marvelous industrial development and commercial expansion during these hundred years. Contemporaneous with the exposition will be held on the waters of Hampton Roads the greatest naval parade since ever witnessed in the world, in which every type of war vessel from the smallest of all foreign nations will participate. Another attractive feature will be the international military encampment in which detachments of troops of European countries will unite with the soldiers of the United States in a series of drills, manoeuvres, parades, etc. The site of the exposition is located within twenty minutes' ride of the Tidewater cities of Virginia, reached either by trolley or steamer, and nature has combined with the ingenuity of man in making a beautiful and picturesque spot. The grounds cover more than 400 acres, with

ARE YOU SUBJECT TO HEADACHE?

If you are, and have never tried Burdock Blood Bitters, it will pay you to profit by the experience of others and give it a trial. A healthy stomach, rich acting liver and bowels that properly perform their important duties, will render anyone free from headache. If these organs are not in perfect condition, headache must follow. The proper course is obvious--restore the stomach, liver and bowels to health, and headache cannot exist. For this purpose no medicine equals BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS.

BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS

It removes the cause of the headache by its splendid cleansing, strengthening and tonic properties, whereby the entire system is brought into healthy action. Miss Collins Dabal, Lettler, Mass., writes: "I suffered for fifteen years from sick headache. To the advice of a friend I owe my complete cure, and it is with great pleasure that I testify to you that I have not suffered since using your wonderful remedy, Burdock Blood Bitters. I can recommend it as an efficacious remedy for sick headache, which caused me so much misery. Price $1.00 per bottle or 6 bottles for $5.00 at all dealers."

THE HOME

SERMON PREACHED BY REV. A. B. COHOE IN BRUSSELS STREET CHURCH, SUNDAY EVENING, NOVEMBER 18th, 1906.

THE PERSISTENCE OF JUVENILE CRIME INDICATES THAT THERE ARE VERY FEW FAULTS IN THE LIFE OF OUR CITY. MOREOVER, THERE IS A FIRM CONVICTION THAT NO ATTEMPT TO REMEDY THESE FAULTS WILL BE SUCCESSFUL WHICH DOES NOT RECOGNIZE THE POWER OF THE HOME.

THE POWER OF THE HOME. Various explanations have been given of the evident influence of home life upon society. It has been the custom to find the most adequate explanation in the iron laws of heredity. These give startling expression to the stern way in which the sins of the parents are visited upon the children. In all probability there has been over-statement here. But there is at least very good indication that the physical antecedents of the child give certain stern predictions of his future life.

Moreover, the parents call forth the initial activities of the child. They determine in large measure what habits shall be made. They control the outlet stimuli which call into life the inward impulse. The child lives in a world of their selection, and must respond to that world; for it is the only one he knows. That world is what the parents really are not what they sometimes say. Until the child breaks the bond of the home, that world is almost absolute in its control.

And ever afterwards the home continues to be the constant and potent factor in the lives of most of us. It is there that we receive the chief inspiration for the work we do. It is the spirit that exists there that most deeply influences us in our living. What the home is that largely the child will be, and that, also, the man will continue to be.

A RIGHT FOUNDATION. If this be true, if the home is the most potent factor in the life of society, then there can be no question but that it ought to be founded in harmony with the highest moral purpose. It will not fulfill any very high moral purpose unless it satisfies the romantic impulses of the persons forming it. But it may satisfy these impulses and yet be charged with no significant ethical import. If the home is to fulfill its full function in society, its constituent members must not only accept its personal associations, but must also assume its social responsibilities. Its spirit should be the spirit of the law of love, and its method should be that of service and sacrifice.

Without such a spirit, complete success is impossible. Even with such a sacrifice, difficulties insuperable are certain to be encountered. A few practical observations may not therefore be out of place at this time.

READ AND BUTTER.

Whatever height of development we may attain, our life in this world rests on a very evident foundation. A man must eat. If, therefore, any man elects to become responsible for the social well-being of a family, he must acquire capacity for supplying that family with the material necessities of life. It is not wise that abundance which an exaggerated state of living would demand. But it is necessary that, by prudent foresight, he should secure himself that he possesses ability to earn enough to re-responsibly provide for those for whom he is responsible. The temptation very frequently comes to boys and young men to accept what appears to be a large wage for doing a very mechanical and perhaps a very easy task. A desire for spending money, for a dainty job, for relief from study, for independence, very frequently leads a young man to reject the opportunity of acquiring skill in a useful art or trade. A man cannot expect to assume with ability a man's responsibilities unless he possesses the power and the ability to do a man's work.

Moreover, there is no greater social evil than that which impairs the earning capacity of the head of the family. With whatever complacency we might regard the degeneration of the individual drunkard, it is impossible to fail to be aroused to the social iniquity of a traffic that derives its income from the sensibilities of women and the food of children.

The spending of an income is almost as important as the earning of the income. The spending is very largely the task of the wife and mother. The social usefulness of many a home is seriously injured by impetuosity in this direction. The present tendency is to take pride in making much money by a very few things. The happiness of many a home depends upon the ability to spend wisely. The amusing extravagance of the daughters of indulgent parents often leads to the gloomy incompetence of a wife and mother.

THE HOUSE. The family must live in a house. Unfortunately for St. John, most of its people live in flats, and in rented flats of this kind. Still more unfortunate, most families must absolutely deny themselves both a backyard and a front lawn. The inventor of flats may have been a student of economy, but he certainly was not a lover of children. The constant reminder of the narrowness of the people above or below is a continual source of childish pleasure. The restrictions of the flat, added to the absolute absence of a yard, render the life of the child a very serious problem. The city of the future ought to have a central portion where bachelor men and women, and childless married folk, might live. It could be composed of six-story flats, each with a separate house, and a liberal allowance of grassy lawn and loamy garden for the free use of the children. In the meanwhile, if you must rent a flat, rent one so fit for the family.

THE FURNISHINGS OF THE HOUSE. The house should be furnished for the use of the family. Many people have the unfortunate habit of furnishing the home very largely for the use and admiration of other people. Infrequent callers are entertained in spacious and elaborately decorated rooms, while the permanent residents use whatever happens to be left over. They rarely trespass within the forbidden territory. The best of the home belongs to the visitors; the rest of the house belongs to the family.

The house should be furnished for the whole family. The house must have the comfortable furniture touch before it will become a home. It ought to be a woman's home. But it ought also to be a man's home. There ought to be a room for a couch built for "old comfort" rather than for exquisite appearance. A room furnished so that a man reluctantly leaves it at night may not be inviting to the afternoon caller, but it will minister much to the happiness of the home.

The boys ought not to be left out. In fact a house that is too good for the boys of a family, is too good for the family. Get a simple room furnished with more durable furniture. Put carpets on the floor that you can afford to wear out. Anxiety over a boy is more realizable than anxiety over a corpse. He is of more value than many carpets. Constant prohibitions in the house enhance the fascinations of the street. Let the family live in the house.

THE LIFE OF THE HOME. The life of the home will become the life of the home when each member enters sympathetically into the life of every other member. The responsibility rests primarily upon the father and mother. The spirit which they breathe will in most cases become the spirit of the family. If they selfishly seek their own, a healthy home life will be impossible.

The absolute failure of the home of the selfish mother is too manifest to need comment. The mother who is persistently absent from her family, or insistently selfish when she is present, drains the home to failure. There are but few cases in which womanly instinct does not lead to a certain degree of individualism. Most men look back with feelings akin to reverence to the loving service of a good mother. But all men are not good fathers. Consequently it becomes easy for the man of the home to allow the press of business, or the attractions of the city, to take him out of the family, and thus an absence will appear later in the life of the boy. In most cases it will take the earnest and united effort of both the father and mother to retain the interest of the children in the life of the home. The problem is not impossible of solution. It will involve careful attention to apparently unimportant details.

READING. Attention must be given to the reading matter provided in a home. The books and papers that parents ordinarily provide for themselves are not always interesting or profitable for children. Such papers as the Youth's Companion, St. Nicholas, The Boys' Own Annual, and The Glad Oven Annual, will go far toward making the evening in the home attractive to the boys and girls.

GAMES. Many fathers, unfortunately for themselves and for their children, get too old to play games. There is no brighter spot in the child's life than when the busy parent takes time to play, and play well, a child's game. It may result in a less accurate knowledge of the meaning of the words of the Bible, but it will give the child the joy of the game and the joy of the father.

CONVERSATION. There is a prejudice against "walking shop" in the home circle. But there does not seem to be any better way of keeping the family relations than by bringing the experiences of the day into the conversation about the evening. A man may feel that he ought not to let the family worry over his difficulties, but the family will get to know him better and love him more if they know his life problems. The account of the child's day at school may seem to be trivial, but it offers an opportunity for conversation which ought not to be neglected. Let the family talk over its problems and those of its individual members.

THE BOY PROBLEM. The boy problem very largely persists because fathers do not know their boys. There is usually an utter lack of comradeship. The boy very frequently regards his teacher or the preacher better than his father. The father knows all about the temptations and sins of youth. And yet the difference of pride usually keeps him from anything like that comradeship which would make it possible for him to talk to his own boy. Many fathers punish severely, but they are fathers in name only. They never get near enough to their boy to talk to him in a brotherly fashion. Mothers can do much. But the boy problem will continue to exist as a very serious problem until fathers begin to spend some thought in seeking to lead the boys past the "fairy tale."

There is no promise of absolute success. Much honest effort may seem to be fruitless. Outside influences often prove too strong for home ties. The children of parents of the most devoted and Christlike spirit sometimes wander. These homes have failed and will fail. There are homes where the mother gives herself up to selfish indulgence, and the father becomes a byword and a reproach. These homes have failed and will fail. HOPE. But for all these is hope. Let the father of devoted never lose faith. The Heavenly Father is strong where earthly parents are weak. Those of you who have paid heed to the words of the household of God know that devotion and usefulness is more frequently rewarded by success than by failure. Those of you who have discarded the hope of selfishness may, perhaps, never overtake the past, but it is given to you by the mercy of the Great Father to begin anew. Hold fast the household fire. Let the spirit of Jesus inspire you to lives of service and action. Let the life of the child remain in your estimation its original value. Forget the things that are behind and with faith and hope and joy press forward to the things that are before.

Know this assuredly, that no life has a right to call itself Christian which fails to render full service to the life of the home.

A CRIPPLE CURED

Helpless and Bent with Rheumatism—Cured by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

"I was a helpless cripple. I was bent in form and could not straighten up. Crutches were my only means of moving about. I tried every medicine, but they all failed until I began using Dr. Williams' Pink Pills—they cured me." George Schaw, of Elbert Beach, N. Y. made the above almost startling statement to a reporter a few days ago. Mr. Schaw is now a well built man, strong and broad shouldered. Like thousands of other Nova Scotians, he is a fisherman, and is consequently exposed to all kinds of weather, just the conditions to set the rheumatic poison in the blood at work. Mr. Schaw adds: "It is impossible to overrate the severity of the attack. The crutches were locked in my back and right hip. I had to quit work and was mostly indoors. There was a time when I never expected to see the inside of a house again. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills straightened me up again, not only that, but they made me the strong heavy man you see me today. I can now do any kind of work. My legs became so stiff that in order to move at all I had to use crutches. Finally the doctors decided that I was incurable, but I had to try one more thing. I continued to suffer day and night, and then came the turning point of my life. A friend from a distance came to see me and it was from him I learned that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills were a great cure for rheumatism. I have never been troubled with rheumatism or lame back. I can tell you my neighbors were all astonished at my cure; they had all thought I would always be a cripple."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cure rheumatism by going straight to the root of the trouble in the blood. They make new rich blood that sweeps out the poisonous acid and soothes the jagged nerves. That is how they cure all troubles of acid in the blood, such as asthma, indigestion, neuritis, St. Vitus dance, general weakness, and the special ailments of only girls and women folk know. Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

MARATHONS WILL HAVE HOCKEY TEAM. The Marathons will have a hockey team and a strong one, if one may judge by indications. A meeting of the executive will be held this afternoon to make arrangements. Negotiations are on for the securing of a rink.

Speaking of the matter yesterday, Frank White, president of the Marathons A. C., said: "We will have some real good material we have some real good material we will play hockey in the winter. There are all that hockey players about who are waiting for a rink. I am sure that we will have a number of good hockey players applying for a rink. I am sure that we will have a number of good hockey players applying for a rink. I am sure that we will have a number of good hockey players applying for a rink."

As an example of the interest shown in the question of the rink, the Marathons A. C. spoke of the recent of the Star Athletic Club. The rink will be built on the site of the old rink. The rink will be built on the site of the old rink. The rink will be built on the site of the old rink.

Remember to flour well both the hard and rolling pin when rolling out the paste. If the fruit for pie is not ripe, it should be stewed with sugar and then allowed to get cold before being put in the crust. If put in warm it will make the pie heavy. Butter the tin well before putting in the under crust; burned or lardy crusts are most distasteful and unwholesome. In cold weather the pie should be placed on the mantel of the range or in the oven for a minute before being served.

Sweet apples are not meant for pies; the regular sour cooking apples have a much better flavor when cooked. Sweet apples, when cooked are most insipid. Cranberries and gooseberries should be stewed with sugar before being put in the paste. It is better to put too little than too much sugar in the pie, for it may be added at the table if necessary. Mince pies are always made with a top crust, and if made the day before eating should be heated before being eaten. The stones of peaches, plums or cherries should be extracted before the fruit is put into the pie. Peaches should be halved or quartered. An inspection of the N. B. Southern Railway line was made yesterday by Engineer Simmons, of Ottawa, for the railway commission. The N. B. The Question of Absorption is a most important one for bakers, and one which should be seriously considered by all. A strong, rich flour, which absorbs a great deal of water, is more satisfactory, inasmuch as, pound for pound, it will make more bread than a weaker flour, and with less trouble. Consequently it is more economical. All bakers who are desirous of reducing their expenses, and increasing their profits proportionally, should use our "FIVE ROSES" and "HARVEST QUEEN" brands. These are strong, rich, Manitoba Flours, especially suited to fill the requirements of the bakery trade, and which will be found more economical than any ordinary brands on the market. She was wild with pain. From Willow Creek, Ont., Miss E. Dichel writes: "A few years ago I was crushed with pain and got lumbago; it was like a steel rod piercing my back. I had crutches and was just wild with pain. I applied balm soaked with Nerville's to my neck and rubbed on Nerville's for the lumbago. That rubbing relieved and in a few hours I was well. No other liniment could do this." It's the penetrating power of Nerville's that makes it superior to all other liniments. Nothing beats it, 25c. at all dealers. To be Raised to the Dignity of the Canadian Cardinalate. Montreal, Nov. 23—(Special)—La Patrie publishes a letter today from a correspondent in Rome giving what is declared to be reliable information that Monsignor Mathieu, rector of Laval University, will be soon elected to the dignity of cardinal. It is declared that the nomination will not be made at the coming consistory, but will be delayed to coincide with the celebration of the third centenary of the foundation of Quebec in 1608. Mrs. Robert Fritze, of Turco, arrived in the city yesterday and is the guest of Mrs. J. Alfred Clark, 88 Queen street. Wesley White and Harry Ryder left for Edmonton, Alberta, last evening and they will probably locate there.

KEY OF THE FIRST JAIL Two Valuable Curios Owned by Solomon McConnell of This City.

The old jail was erected early in the last century, and Clarence W. R. states that it was a low structure and was situated in the neighborhood of the present north end station.

Mr. McConnell obtained the ancient relic about three years ago from James Tyzick, who safe-guarded it for 50 years. Mr. Tyzick has his place of business in the rear of the dye works on Elm street.

The other relic is over two hundred years old, and is a beautiful engraving in mahogany wood of a man, woman, horse and dog. This ancient piece of relief work was brought from England, and there is a great history in connection with it. The engraving is supposed to represent a noted Englishman, who went out hunting one day and who fell ill and when in a dying state was given assistance by his brother-in-law, who happened to find him. The kind of clothing represented in the engraving shows plainly that it is a very ancient piece of work.

Mrs. G. Wilford Campbell, who has been at Clifton Springs for some weeks, has returned home much improved in health.

CHIEF AND MAGISTRATE

Attorney General Pugsley Says Their Dispute is a Most Regrettable One.

There is a persistent report upon the street that among the matters to be considered by the provincial government in the near future would be the long standing dispute between the police magistrate and Chief of Police Carter. It was further reported that the absence from the province of Attorney General Pugsley, head of the law department of the province, was the only reason why this matter had not been discussed before.

Dr. Pugsley arrived in the city from Montreal by the L. C. R. yesterday afternoon, and this morning a Times representative called and asked him if the provincial government would take any action in the matter. He said it had not yet been brought officially to their notice but declined to discuss it further.

Speaking for himself he expressed the opinion that the attitude of each of these public officials to the other was a very regrettable one. He could not say what the attitude of the government toward either or both might be.

Dr. Pugsley was not prepared to announce when the next Legislature will open its session.

That the attorney general is a very busy man was forcibly illustrated by his remarks when the Times man called at his office. A large number of callers were waiting to interview him on various matters and his time was apparently more than occupied.

Business Notices Don't miss seeing the new line of overcoats J. N. Harvey is showing at special prices before you buy. They are real beauties in fit and style. The variety is very large. Read his ad. on page 4 of today's Times.

On Monday morning at 8.30 o'clock M. R. A's annual pre-holiday sale of brand new dress goods will commence. This is a well established and popular event, not a clearance, but a sale of out-of-season stock, but a Christmas one. It is a chance for every regular patron to look forward to with the expectation of saving good dollars.

AN EYE OPENER. If the ordinary school teacher would take charge of the system of accounting used by very large manufacturing concerns, for testing each workman's earning capacity, he should have his eyes opened to the methods used by the Curran Business University, for training its three hundred students to the limit of their earning ability. The system of paying the pupils to the limit of intuitive practice for their personal benefit, instead of pushing some high-sounding system of shorthand and business, in text-book form, for the benefit of publishing houses, has placed the Curran Business University, with its splendidly equipped employment bureau, first on the list with business houses, where reliable office help is required. This school employs highly trained experts to superintend its inner workings and obtains its instruction from the law office and business house district.

LADIES' BLACK CLOTH COAT SALE Macaulay Bros. & Co. make in to-night's Times a special offer in ladies' long black beaver and furs cloth coat. It is just the season to look after these special bargains, when they are offered in new up-to-date garments.

Page seven is a very new part of the Times; possibly the God Bond Section has something to do with it. Just turn to page 7 and read what William Young has to say about his famous shoe.

THAT HOPKINS PROPERTY In the matter of the estate of the late Mrs. Joseph Underwood, who died in Boston and whose heirs are supposed to be in this province, the Times told yesterday of Mrs. Robert McConnell, 603 Main street, claiming relationship and also referred to William Young, letter carrier for further information. Mr. Young said that he could not remember Mr. Hopkins speaking of a brother William, but Mrs. Young states that she frequently heard him refer to his missing brother, Mrs. Rogers, of Montreal, a sister of Mrs. McConnell, has been written about the property.
