THROUGH WHOLE GERMAN LINE WERE IT NOT FOR MACHINE GUNS

Stirring Story of Battle Brought Home By Wounded Soldier

ATTACK WAS NOT A SURPRISE TO GERMANS

Had Brought Up Strong Reinforcements Before Fighting Began—This Man Remembers Only Two Orders and Then Was in Dash at Enemy Trenches

London, Oct. 1.—Relatives and friends of British soldiers who have taken part in the fierce fighting of the past few days have begun to receive letters from the front.

Further comments of wounded arrived at London at midnight. A picturesque story of the fighting at Hooge was told by one of these men, a territorial with six wounds in one arm, inflicted by a type of bomb known as the "whistle-bang."

"But never," he declared, "could I have imagined the awful havoc caused in the German trenches by our artillery. It was not followed by an infantry attack."

"In the Champagne district, our fire put a definite check to a German counter attack in the vicinity of Maisons de Champagne."

"The number of prisoners made yesterday evening during our advance to the north of Massiges is 200, including six officers."

SHHELLS HURLED IN STADY STREAM. Paris, Oct. 1.—A resident of the region, who has just arrived in Paris, says the "great offensive" was expected because the French military authorities had ordered the evacuation of all villages situated within a few miles of the firing line.

Second Contingent Have First Baptism of Fire

Ottawa, Oct. 1.—The second division of the Canadian troops has had its baptism of fire. In the trenches since last Saturday it has been in action though, from what has been received at Ottawa, the engagement was not severe and the casualties are stated to be few and what they are will pass through the ordinary channels.

Further Gains Made Today By French In Artois District

Hand Grenades Again Found Effective in Attacks on Trenches—British Consolidating the Gains Made

Paris, Oct. 1.—In the great battle in the Artois district, the French have made further progress, by means of attacks with hand grenades on German trenches east and southeast of Neuville. Announcement to this effect was made today by the war office. The report continues: "Two German counter attacks have been delivered, one against a fort which we conquered yesterday in the forest of Givenchy, the other against the trenches to the south of Hill 119, where French troops had installed themselves. Each one of these attacks was conclusively repulsed."

"To the north of the Aisne, near Souilly, the enemy conducted a violent demonstration against our trenches. The firing of their artillery and their infantry was not followed by an infantry attack."

"In the Champagne district, our fire put a definite check to a German counter attack in the vicinity of Maisons de Champagne."

"The number of prisoners made yesterday evening during our advance to the north of Massiges is 200, including six officers."

ENCOURAGING REPORT AT RED CROSS MEETING

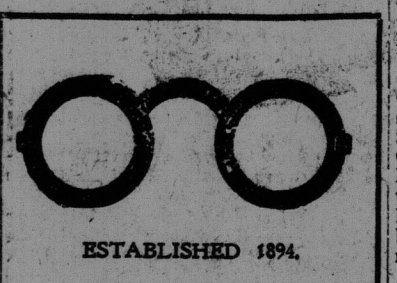

Annual Session Today — Miss Walker, Secretary, Reviews the Work

An encouraging report was presented this afternoon at the annual meeting of the local branch of the Red Cross Society, Mrs. John McAvity presiding. It was that of Miss Walker, secretary, in the absence of A. C. Sifton, treasurer.

John, Halifax and Charlottetown. For the larger sum of money which was received we must thank Baird & Peters and staff, Sup't. Bridges of the Teachers' Association, St. George's Society, Omnesse Patriotic Fair promoters, Knights of Columbus, Sons of England, Retail Merchants' Association, Order of Elks and many others who have given us the privilege of forwarding through our society the gifts among them the since the Club, the Nurses' Association, Mr. and Mrs. James P. Robertson, Miss Joyce Halloway, Miss Kathleen Sifton and the several chapters of the Daughters of the Empire.

It is with no idea of comparison between the large and small contributions of money that some are mentioned. We feel that the confidence which comes from the knowledge of the small sum regularly cannot be too much emphasized. This feeling was the basis upon which the present campaign was instituted whereby several hundreds of our prominent citizens will allow a regular amount to be deducted from their pay on our work with a feeling of much greater security.

Our report was not complete without mention of the work done by Mr. Hutchinson in Brookline, of the relief of the Serbians by the Knights of Columbus. Miss Walker, as secretary, reported that since the last annual session, several regular meetings had been held. The first meeting in December was in the present quarters generously donated by the Bank of N. A.

THE FUNDS

The total amount of money subscribed during the first twelve months of the year to the Canadian Patriotic Fund in New Brunswick was about $160,000. Of this amount the city and county of Saint John subscribed considerably more than any other city in the province.

The amount received during September, 1915, was $8,022.58, against $4,088.45 in August. The amount paid out in September was $10,756.49, against $10,675.65 in the previous month.

It is estimated that the least possible amount required to carry on the work for the next twelve months is $200,000 and if any extra battalions recruit in the province it will be $250,000.

ST. GEORGE'S SOCIETY GUN FOR THE 26TH, COMFORTS FOR MEN OF BATTALION

The amount of money realized by St. George's Society for the purchase of a machine gun has been more than anticipated. Enough has been sent to England where it has been received by the Royal Ordnance Factory, London to be the purchase of a gun and the balance remaining given to the Captain E. A. Morrison, who was in command of the 26th, and who is now curing comforts for the members of that unit.

Royal Society of St. George was requested to arrange for the purchase of the machine gun, and very courteously carried out the arrangements in connection with the war office. The further request has been made that if possible a new gun be given to the 26th, an order placed for having a plate attached to the gun showing by whom it had been donated.

SAVE THE BABES English Authorities Take Grip on Slum Life Problem Because of War Casualties

The war is sapping the manhood of the nation; save the babies. This cry is invading England today and almost for the first time in history the government and municipal authorities are giving the subject earnest attention. The terrible toll of the battlefields, which the casualty lists printed in the newspapers emphasize each day, has begun to make England think about the future of the nation.

Medical authorities are giving hints to mothers through the press, and systematic investigations of infant life in the slums are bringing forth remarkable revelations. England's slums are the worst in the world and England's new "baby campaign" has brought this fact home to the government and people.

These, according to the investigator, are some of the contributing causes of the excessive infant mortality in England's slums, and all of these half-perceptions are kindred to appalling conditions of filth and ignorance. London's slums are dirtier than any others, it is said, and if an infant lives through the first six months it can live through anything.

The fathers of these slum families are laborers, hawkers, beggars, cripples, porters, odd-work men, thieves and the usual raffia. The mothers are charwomen or engaged in like occupations. But the fathers have largely disappeared from the slums.

"They have gone to war. The wives have encouraged them to enlist, in many cases because the government's separation allowance comes to more than the husband can normally earn. With the money, the majority of the women drink, raise babies to die, or are neglected. Moreover, they often pawn the scant few household things for drink. The notification of births often comes to the authority in the handwriting of children, apparently dictated by the mother and a committee of relatives. Here is a sample of these notifications:

"Present at birth, mother and lady what makes the tea, we don't know her address. Say father was present so he don't know about it so please excuse him but mother knows. It was a still born and not in the according to the regulations please to say if it was not I don't think."

At his home in Sheffield Jarvis Estabrooks died on Sept. 22, aged eighty-two years. He leaves his wife and two sons at home, three brothers are W. Carey Estabrooks, of Scotchtown, and James E. Estabrooks, of Grand Manan; and three sisters are Mrs. Hestis of Upper Gagetown; Mrs. Annie Thompson, of Manquik Lake and Mrs. David W. Brooks of Connecticut. He was a son of Deacon Jarvis Estabrooks and a grandson of Rev. Elijah Estabrooks.

A squad of recruits were getting rid of some ammunition on the morning of the other day, and the sergeant in charge began to use strong language as the firing proceeded and the target remained untouched.

"What! Missed again?" he roared, as an unfortunate recruit cut up the dust for the seventh consecutive time. "I don't believe you could hit a furniture van."

"O, you needn't crow, sergeant," retorted the recruit; "you missed a train yesterday."

Annie—It was awfully dark where we met under the tree, and the first thing I knew he'd kissed me.

Fannie—I wouldn't be angry about it, but I don't think he'd save time if it had been in the daylight.—Judge.

GERMANY DOWN TO LOOSE CHANGE Reserve Capital of Men Has Been Spent HILLAIRE BELLOC'S VIEWS Figures German-Austro Losses At 5,000,000 Men - Reserve Now Small and Composed of Poorer Fighters

According to the New York American, Hillaire Belloc is the foremost military writer in Europe. Since he is an Englishman, and has from the beginning predicted the triumph of the Allies, it may be assumed that the New York American, whose proprietor, Mr. Belloc, is a passionate pro-German, did not bestow this title upon him without due cause.

The article to which particular reference is made was written in the face of statistics available up to Sept. 1. What has happened since then has served only to prove that Mr. Belloc's calculations were correct. A month ago the Teuton allies were in sight of their last resources, that they were on the verge of their original capital, 12,000,000 soldiers, and had not more than 2,000,000 to draw upon.

PROPERTY TAX FOR PATRIOTIC FUNDS Montreal, Oct. 1.—A by-law to authorize the raising of funds for patriotic purposes by a tax on property owners of the city was presented by Ald. McLagan, chairman of the Finance Committee, at the meeting of the Westmount council, held last night and unanimously passed its first reading. It will come up at the next session to be read for the second and third times.

TRAGEDY IN CAFE Somerville Girl Shot by Man, Who Then Ends His Own Life

Chicago, Oct. 1.—Double death followed a lover's quarrel in a cafe in Clark street. A man shot a woman who refused his plea for reconciliation, then shot himself. THE UPPER HOUSE DOING ITS SHARE

The House of Lords is a House of Mourning

400 MEMBERS ON SERVICE

Scarcely a Noble Family But Mourns the Loss of a Member - What War Records Show

Lord Lansdowne's words that the House of Lords is now a house of mourning are likely to be emphasized when the casualty lists of the recent fighting upon the British front are published. Among those who have fallen we are sure to see the name of some nobleman, perhaps of many, among the British officers who have been in the late action. More than 400 members of the upper house have enrolled for service since the war began, and there is hardly a noble house in the kingdom that is not mourning some member who has been killed in action or is numbered among the missing.

"So gallant has been the showing of the peerage," says a "Veteran Diplomat" in the Philadelphia Ledger, "in these hours of national stress and peril that little is likely to be heard in the future of the former popular clamor for the abolition of hereditary honors. Demagogues will never again be able to predicate Great Britain's ills as useless members of the commonwealth or to assert that they failed in their duty or obligations to the Empire."

It is only the other day that Gen. Lord Longford, fifth earl of his line, was killed at the head of his brigade on the Gallipoli. He was the head of the house of Pakenham, which has been settled in Ireland since Cromwell's time. He was one of the largest landowners of Dublin, and a man of great wealth. Lord Longford had been regarded as bearing almost a charmed life, which he risked again and again since the war began. His heir is a thirteen-year-old boy.

Another representative of a noble house to fall a few days ago fighting against the Turks was the Hon. Charles Lister, only son and heir of Lord Ribblesdale, a brother-in-law of Mr. Asquith. His eldest brother died for his country some years ago in Somaliland. He makes another of the long list that may be seen in the British papers by whose death a line or a title becomes extinct.

A very sad case was that of the Viscount Wendenover, a nineteen-year-old subaltern in the Royal Horse Guards, who died of terrible wounds inflicted at Mons. He was the only son of Lord Lin-

OUTWARD BOUND

(From the London Times) [By An Officer Who Has Since Fallen in Gallipoli]

There's a waterfall I'm leaving, Running down the rocks in foam, There's a pool for which I'm grieving, Near the water-cresset's home.

While the midnight watch is winging, Thoughts of other days arise, I can hear the river singing, Like the saints in Paradise.

colnshire, better known under his early title of Lord Carrington, now in his 72nd year, who had been married nearly twenty years before an heir was born to him.

The Grenfell Family. The Grenfell indeed have been the losers of the Grenfell family, which is represented by several members in the upper house. Lord Deborough, the famous athlete, has lost both his elder sons, and is left with a fourteen-year-old boy to inherit his estates.

Lord Mianck is grieving for the loss of his eldest son, who held a commission in the Coldstream Guards. The late Viscount Mianck was the first governor-general of Canada, and was a descendant of the family that restored the British throne in 1688. Lord Ranfurly has lost his eldest son and two of his brothers.

There are several others that might be mentioned, but a paragraph must be devoted to those peers whose fate is unknown and who are recorded among the missing. The most prominent of these is the fifth Earl of Erne, a man of most striking appearance, who stood four inches more than six feet. He was seen to be surrounded by a band of Germans who had disguised themselves as British.

Great their happiness who seeing, Still with unblemished eyes, Kin of theirs who gave them being, Sent his agonies that made them wise.

Shall we also be as they be, Mingled with our mother clay, Or return no more it may be, Yet who had knowledge, who shall say?

Though the high gods smite and slay us, Though we come not whence we go, As the host of Metellus, Come there many years ago;

Regiment, and the Earl of Ranfurly, head of that historic house of Knox which furnished the great reformer to the Church of Scotland in the reign of Mary Queen of Scots. Lord Ranfurly's eldest son bore the title of Viscount Northland.

Then there is Lord Redesdale, whose eldest son, Captain the Hon. Clement Freeman Mitford, belonged to the 10th Hussars. Lord Redesdale is the most wonderful landscape gardener in the British Kingdom. He wrote that the ruins of which he acquired in Japan, where as Bertie Mitford of the Victoria Cross in the present war, was killed in June after having been twice wounded. His twin brother, Capt. Riversdale Grenfell, the international polo player, met his death about Christmas time, and it is said that Capt. Francis from that time forward felt that he would die upon the field of battle.

The first British peer to fall in action was young Lord Howard, of Tipperary, and he was among the very first of the original British expeditionary force to lay down his life upon the soil of France.

Some of the peers who have already lost their heirs in the fighting in Flanders, France and the Gallipoli are Lord Yarborough, whose eldest son, Lord Worsley, held a commission in the Royal Horse Guards, the Earl of Ayrfield, whose son, Lord Guernsey, fell in action as a captain of the Warwickshire

SINGS PRAISES OF LLOYD GEORGE

Isaac F. Marcross Describes Gigantic Task Performed HAS CENSUS OF RESOURCES

British Industry Mobilized as Never Before and All Classes Now United For Victory, Says American Writer

Great Britain's mobilization of her industrial forces for war purposes, her financial soundness, and a new spirit of democracy, born of the willingness of rich and poor alike to make sacrifices of both blood and money, are the most impressive phases of the war as seen by Isaac F. Marcross, a magazine writer, who has returned to New York after several months' study of British financial conditions.

Mr. Marcross has talked with many of the English bankers and with Lloyd George, Minister of Munitions, and those who are the best engineers in the country. He thinks the whole picture of the war is resting. The most amazing thing about it all, according to Mr. Marcross, is England's unconcern, which he thinks has been misinterpreted as apathy by many when in fact it is the British way of bucking up.

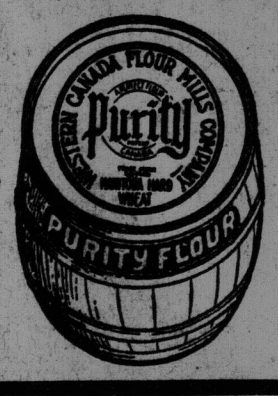

"The making of munitions is the biggest thing of the war today," Mr. Marcross said, "Lloyd George has built up a powerful organization. He has brought to his aid the best engineers in the country. English industry has been mobilized as never before. The only shortage of men is in the cotton districts. The great Midlands are one great beehive of industry. The factories there are running twenty-four hours a day."

"One of the most important services of the new minister of munitions is the taking of a census of all resources, not only of material and of the industrial output, but also a national registration showing what every man, woman and child can do, Lloyd George's department has a record of every scrap of iron and steel in the country."

"The government has built thirteen new factories and has bought another 100. Besides those there are hundreds of controlled factories. The method of dealing with the controlled factories is this: The government goes to the owner of the factory and says: 'Your output is many times a day. The government will take them all and give you a fair profit. War has the first call on industry, whether it is making shells or making shoe-strings.'

"One mistake of the war is in sending many skilled workmen to the front. Conscript will prevent all that. It will not only give England munitions,

Always the Same PURITY FLOUR

Day in and Day out. Week in and Week out. Year in and Year out. Always the same.

but will provide for a continuance of her industries after the war.

"So far as Great Britain is concerned, this is a money-is-no-object war. She is not only the richest of the nations at war, but she has made extraordinary financial preparations. The big thing that impresses me is her extraordinary soundness, her financial integrity. Money is plentiful, wages are higher, and labor is scarce."

"Up to several weeks ago England had never learned the use of wallets. Formerly she carried her money around in gold. Now she is using paper money currency and hoarding her gold. The ingenuity of the country is now being taxed to find wallets. The bankers are determined to see the war through at whatever cost and the nation is adjusting itself readily to the enormous war cost."

"The sacrifice of the rich not only in money but in blood, is making a new feeling of the masses towards the classes. Bankers, capitalists and employers are sending away their sons to fight in the trenches. From some families whom I visited four or five sons had gone to war in many cases the sole heir of some great banking or industrial leader had gone away. After the war a great problem will be to find new leaders to take the places of those who were the natural successors to leadership, but who have fallen in the field."

"During his stay in England, Mr. Marcross collected from Sir James Barrie, Sir Arthur W. Pinero, Sir James Alexander and Haddon Chambers many facts relative to the earlier part of the life of Charles Frohman. Mr. Marcross is collaborating with Daniel Frohman on a life of Frohman whose death, Mr. Marcross said was regarded in London as an irreparable loss to the drama."

In three days President Stanley of the Cleveland Railway Company signed "John J. Stanley" 10,000 times to papers which will be necessary for conducting the railway company's business for the next month while Stanley is at the San Francisco Exposition.

CONVICT SHOT BY POSSE

He Had Killed Oregon State Penitentiary's Warden—Three Revolver Battles With the Authorities

Albany, Ore., Oct. 1.—Otto Hooker, an escaped convict, who shot and killed Harry Minto, warden of the Oregon Penitentiary at Salem, and probably fatally wounded J. J. Benson, city marshal of Jefferson, is dead of wounds suffered in a revolver battle. Hooker was discovered in an unoccupied house. A posse surrounded the house and demanded that he surrender. Hooker replied with a volley from a revolver. As his fire was drawn in another direction, a member of the posse crept to a window and fired a bullet through the convict's lung. The convict escaped from a road gang on Monday. Warden Minto, with a posse, encountered him a few miles from Salem that night. A revolver fight ensued, in which Minto was killed. As Hooker fled through Jefferson, Marshal Benson fought hand to hand with him, and was shot with his own weapon, which Hooker had wrested from him. Hooker had served a year of a sentence for burglary. He had been regarded as a model prisoner.

MRS. MOHR HELD FOR TRIAL ON TWO INDICTMENTS

Providence, Oct. 1.—Mrs. Elizabeth F. Mohr, wife of Dr. C. Franklin Mohr, who was shot and killed on the night of August 31 last, was indicted on two counts in court here, one charging her with being an accessory before the fact to the murder of Dr. Mohr and the other accessory after the fact to an alleged assault with intent to kill Miss Emily G. Burger, the doctor's secretary who was with him at the time he was killed. The first indictment also named three negroes, Cecil Victor Brown, Henry Spellman and George W. Heals, each of whom was charged with murder. In the second indictment all three were charged with assault with intent to murder Miss Burger. The four defendants were arraigned and pleaded not guilty. Each was held in $20,000 bonds, $15,000 on the first indictment and $5,000 on the other.

Advertisement for Beecham's Pills. Headline: MILLIONS PLAY GOLF. Text: The total number of men and women who play golf is greater than the total number of men and women who watch and play baseball, according to the Cleveland Plain Dealer. Golf is becoming a national game in the United States because both men and women can play the game. Baseball has its devotees only in the masculine ranks. Women can watch the game, but few can understand or play it. Baseball is too strenuous for the person who does not play regularly. Many play until they reach twenty-one. After that they quit the game as a regular form of exercise and pleasure, unless they go into the professional ranks. But golf is a game for all ages. The old as well as the young can play. It gives one as much fresh air as does baseball, and it keeps one healthy without straining the muscles. Those who could afford to play baseball can afford to play golf. It is not much more expensive. A set of golfing clubs, balls and other equipment does not cost much more than a baseball uniform, a half dozen bats, spiked shoes and other baseball paraphernalia. There are in the United States today something like 600 golfing clubs allied with the United States Golfing Association. That represents a golf population of at least 500,000. That is only a small part of the army of golfers. In every city where there are public links there are many golfers not associated with golfing clubs. They play either on the public links or on the private links at the invitation of some friend who happens to be a member of a club. There are between 2,500,000 and 3,000,000 golfers in America today. When the big cities have completed their proposed public links the golfing army will be perhaps increased 2,000,000. It is estimated that there are about 200,000 golfers in New York city and vicinity, while there are about 800,000 in the state. Pennsylvania has about 400,000 putters. Even for the spectator golf has beneficial results. At a baseball game the Physicians have used these tablets for over twenty years, in the treatment of colds, fevers and grippe, and have found no other remedy more useful in these conditions. Anti-kamnia Tablets are so inexpensive, so pleasant to take, so satisfactory in their results, and so useful in all conditions where there is pain, that A-K Tablets should always be kept in the house for the time of need. Many of our ablest physicians obtain perfect results in grippe and colds, by cleansing the system with Epsom salts or "Aristolida", a very good cathartic, putting the patient on a limited diet, and administering one A-K tablet every two or three hours. This treatment will usually break up the worst case in a day or two, while in milder cases, ease and comfort follow almost immediately. These tablets are also unexcelled for Neuralgia, Rheumatic Pains, The Pains of Women, Intoxication and Insomnia. All druggists have them. Genuine A-K Tablets bear the A-K

Boston, Sept. 30—At the Red Sox office it is calculated that there are seats for about 88,000 at Braves Field for the world's series games, although previous estimates put the number about 46,000. Of these 88,000 seats, 24,000 will be reserved. There have been more than 20,000 applications for seats already. There will be about 2,000 seats in the right centre field bleachers and about 1,000 at the end of the first base stands, all of which will be placed on sale at 50 cents each, which, with the 10,000 unreserved seats in the third base stand, will make a total of something like 14,000 not reserved. Motor Cycle Race Arrangements are now being made for a motor cycle race on Thanksgiving afternoon along with the 20 mile bicycle race for the Dunlop trophy. There are several motor cycle riders in St. John and several more in Halifax who are anxious to compete and arrangements are being made to have the two events take place on the same afternoon. These races will take place in Rotheys avenue, formerly the Marsh road and as the street cars are now running over what was formerly part of the course, followers of the game will be able to witness parts of it with very little difficulty. Foot of Halifax, who a few years ago was winner of the Dunlop trophy on a bicycle, is now using a motor cycle and is one of the boys from Halifax who is anxious to compete. All that will be necessary will be a fine day for a good afternoon's sport.

Lewis' Victory. Ted Lewis, English lightweight, showed again at the Atlas A. A. Boston, on Tuesday night that he was a better boxer than Jack Britton of Chicago, for he again got the award in their twelve-round bout. Lewis outscored Britton so much that Britton's manager, Danny Morgan, acknowledged that Lewis was entitled to the decision. The bout was not so good as their previous one, for Britton did not appear to have his old punch and evidently lost power by doing too much training and getting down to the weight—138 pounds. Elly Hoche of New York had been selected as referee when the match was made, but Britton would not stand for the arrangement, and Dan Lane, president of the club, acted as the referee, while two newspaper men officiated as judges. They were unanimous in giving the decision to Lewis. Most of the battling was at long range and Britton was the aggressor in most of the rounds, while Lewis led in seven rounds. In the other rounds the boxing was about even. Lewis was as speedy as in his previous meeting and he showed that he had power in his left, for he put Britton down with a left hook on the nose. Britton hooked the left to Lewis' stomach a few times, but the blow did not appear to have much force behind it. In the fighting, Lewis had the better of it. Both tried repeatedly with their rights but good blocking prevented most of the punches from reaching the jaw. Those Britton landed did not appear to bother Lewis. After the sixth round Lewis worked hard to get the better of Britton, but from the 10th to the finish made Britton look bad. Lewis put Britton down in the 11th and tried hard to win by a K. O., but Britton blocked off his punches so well that none reached the right spot. The programme for next week calls for a twelve-round bout between Charley White and Matty Baldwin, an eight-round go between Joe White and Patsy De Luca and six-round preliminaries between Pat McFarland and Cy Goodwin and Charley Sheppard and Pat Carroll.

HIGH SCORES MADE ON BLACK'S ALLEYS For many years Boston has been termed the "home of candle pin bowlers," but if the local pin fall artists continue to put up the high scores during the winter which they have since the opening of local alleys recently they stand a good chance of winning some similar title. Although the season is only practically beginning one record has been broken on Black's alleys and another came within the danger zone. Since last Saturday some exceptionally high scores have been made on these alleys and the statement made at the first of the season that before the winter was over new records would be replaced the old seems to be no mere boast. The following is a list of the bowlers and their scores: Saturday—W. Gambin, 148; Monday, Clarence Lunney, 120, 125, 127 (new three string record); Thomas Wilson, 134, 132, 120; Wednesday, B. Gilmour, 143; A. Corey, 120, 120, 128; Wednesday, A. Corey, 124; T. Cosgrove, 120; Thursday, R. Miller, 120. GOING HOME IN THE "WAGON." It Was at Least Better Than Riding Shack's Bar. Nothing is impossible if you know the man at the desk. Yes, even the desk behind that sturdy oak rail in the main office of the police station. Once upon an election night a newspaperman sat up late compiling pluralities and writing smooth statements for the friends of the official-elect to peruse on the following afternoon; so late, in fact, that when he started for home the owl car had departed. The jitney bus was unknown then. It was a long walk—and he hated to go home in the dark. Reaching for the phone he called up the station. "Hello," he called. GOTHIC THE NEW ARROW 2 for 25c COLLAR IT FITS THE CRAVAT The minister while on a visit to a neighboring parish was justly proud of having induced Sandy, the local blacksmith, a confirmed old toper, to sign the pledge. Having occasion again to visit the district, he took the opportunity to call on Sandy to see whether his pledge was still holding good. "Yes," replied Sandy to the minister's anxious inquiry, "I havena touched a drop of anything for a whole month. I never thought I could have done without so lang." "Well done," replied his reverence, with very evident satisfaction. "I suppose you find you can save a little now?" "Aye," said Sandy, "I've saved me enough to buy me a braw oak coffin w' brass handles, and if I'm teetotal for anither month I'll be in it."

GERMAN PAPERS ARE NOT SNEERING NOW
New Offensive Admitted to Be of Great Importance—"Extraordinary Efforts"

Amsterdam, Oct. 1.—The fighting on the western front occupies much space in the German press. The Lokal Anzeiger says:

"It cannot be denied that the new offensive of the enemy is of the greatest importance. The enemy obviously is making repeated efforts to gain, at last, a decisive success. How long he will be able to maintain his efforts is uncertain, but we must expect that the heavy fighting will continue."

The Vossische Zeitung says:

"The severe fighting has reached the sixth day without slackening. This confirms the opinion already expressed that this time we have to do with extraordinary efforts."

"In view of the bitterness and indefatigable severity of the daily repeated attacks, we must come to the conclusion that this offensive surpasses all previous operations of the kind. It shows methodical and careful preparation, which can only be explained by a firm determination to force a decision."
