CHECKS ON TUBERCULOSIS

Ways to Prevent a Spread of the Dread Disease.

Proof That It is Not incurable-Public Not Concerned So Much in Dr. Koch's Theory as How to Prevent and Cure.

New York, July 30 .- The Sun has a special cable from London, bearing on the tuberculosis congress and Dr. Koch's remarkable statement that consumption cannot be communicated from cattle to human beings. The correspondent thinks too much attention is being given to Dr. Koch's theory, since the world is mostly concerned in the main problem of how to cure and prevent phthisis. The conference swept away the still lingering belief that consumption is incurable, physicians certifying to many authenticated cases of cures of well-developed tuberculosis. This alone constitutes tidings of great joy to mankind. The congress has also demonstrated the infectious nature of the disease, and experiments have proved that dust floating in the air, in houses where consumptives live, contained infec-tious material derived from a patient. Given the cause of consumption, the congress has furnished many ways to prevent its spread. One most important precaution suggested is the necessity of ventilation, experiments having been made to show that deaths from phthisis correspond exactly with the degree of overcrowding.

From these and similar studies it appears that consumption may be diminished by general measures with-out dealing with the victims themselves, and that the removal of the source of mischief is the most direct and efficacious means. The first practical step toward this is the system of notification introduced in America, and since adopted by a few towns in England. The discovery of a case is preliminary to the effective use in hospitals and dispensaries of sanitary measures and even of popular instruction. When cases are disclosed they are visited, and steps are taken according to the circumstances. Persons are instructed how to minimize the infection, and the premises are disinfected when necessary. Bad cases are removed to a hospital or sanitarium. In English towns only voluntary notification has been adopted, and probably is sufficient to effect a great improvement. Notification is one of the measures recommended by the congress. Then follows the treatment of the sanitariums. This occupied a great deal of attention, and some instructive details were given of the system in Ger-many by which sanitariums are provided and maintained for working men by sick insurance societies. The value of these institutions was indorsed by a resolution. Sir John Burdon Sanderson, who moved it, explained that the sanitariums required were those for the poorer classes. not necessary that the patients should be completely cured, but only so far restored that they would be able to

Finally, and this was the most important feature of the congress, every speaker denounced in uncompromising language the dangerous and disgusting habit of spitting in public places. There is good reason to believe that it is only owing to the cleanliness of the English as a nation in this respect that the mortality from phthisis is lower in this country than in any other. RESULTS OF THE CONGRESS. The New York Journal, in a London dispatch, says: The final results of the great tuberculosis congress can be summed up as follows: 1. Tuberculosis sputum is the main agent in the conveyance of the virus of tuberculosis from man to man. Indiscriminate spitting should therefore be suppressed. 2. It is the opinion of the congress in London that all public hospitals and dispensaries should present every outdoor patient suffering from phthisis with a leaflet containing instructions in regard to the prevention of consumption, and should supply and insist upon the proper use of a pocket

3. The extension of the system of notification of phthisis cases should be encouraged in all districts where this fall and winter, and mail order efficient sanitary supervision can be

Big Western Daily Says Over Five Hundred Ex-Londoners Will Attend Reunion.

The Chicago Sunday Tribune, July 28, has a splendid reproduction of a photograph of the officers of the London Old Boys of that city, similar to the one which hangs in the city hall. The London Old Boys' Association, says the Tribune, met at the Grand Pacific Hotel last night and completed arrangements for the third annual excursion and reunion at London, Canada. The reunion will be held on Aug. 5, 6 and 7: Members of Old Boys' associations from various cities in the United States will be present.

The Chicago association was late in deciding to attend, owing to being unsuccessful in procuring satisfactory railway rates, but a party of 500 is expected to go from here. The association has chartered a special train, which will leave over the Michigan Central railroad on Aug. 4. at 6 o'clock p.m. and run to Lendon without change. A rate for a four-day side trip to Buffalo has been arranged. Thomas Weston, president of the Chicago association, has been a resident of Chicago for twenty years. C. D. MacPherson, first vice-president, came to Chicago sixteen years ago. Henry J. Strong, second vice-president, left London for the west over 30 years ago, and has resided in Chicago for 25 years. William A. Small, secretary-treasurer, has resided in Chicago for 22 years, and for six years has been record writer in the probate court.

SIR LOUIS DAVIES' APPOINTMENT Ottawa, July 30.—Sir Louis Davies' appointment to the supreme court bench, which will take place before many weeks are over, would, in the ordinary course of events, create a vacancy on the joint high commission. But it does not follow that there will be any vacancy in the present case. Sir Louis is so thoroughly conversant with the matters before the commission that his disappearance from the court would be a serious loss to the Canadian section. His appointment to the bench would not interfere with his acting as a commissioner, and the government, in its wisdom, may see fit to continue him in the latter capacity in order to retain the benefit of his knowledge and his counsel.

A GREAT LOTTERY!

The United States Government Disposes of 13.000 Homesteads-Some 167.000 Persons Interested in the El Reno, O. T., July 29 .- One of the greatest lotteries in history was bcgun here this morning. It was conducted by the Federal Government in disposing of 13,000 quarter section claims thrown open to settlement on the Kiowa-Comanich reservations. No public event in years in the southwest has attracted so much attention as this one—the initiation of a new method of disposing of government lands. One hundred and sixty-seven thousand persons, each with one chance in thirteen of winning a homestead, watched the event here or at a distance, for the applicants came from every state in the union.

The drawing took place on a platform built for the purpose in the open air a few blocks from the center of El Reno. Situated at the foot of several small hills, which formed a perfect ampitheater, the platform was the cynosure of thousands of eyes. People occupied almost every inch of the space around about, and every movement of the government officials on the small space below was watch-ed with the most intense interest. El Reno yesterday cared for fully 15,000 people, and the trains that came in during the night and morning, doubled the number. Hundreds of others are still bound this way.

Pittsburg, Pa., July 29.-Everybody is on the qui vive tonight in strike cir-cles and the coming conference of the leaders of the two contending forces is looked forward to with mingled hopes and fear. Hope, however, predominates and peace is confidently expected by the majority of those interested. Whatever points are to be discussed are known only to the officials of the association and the corporation. One of the most apparent facts in the status of the strike today was the determination of the strikers to raise no ground in their struggle while peace

CATARRH.

Catarrh is a system disorder which requires local as well as general treatment. You get this if you take Powley's Liquified Ozone. It acts beneficially on all the mucous linings of the body; stimulating, healing. Regular doses taken internally build up the system. Used as a spray it dries up the discharge quickly.

Mr. Fox, of Bolton, Ont., had an especially disagreeable form of catarrh. His recovery was remarkable. This is his own version of it:

You say "Ozone is life." Those are the truest words you ever uttered. For several years I have been troubled with catarrh in the head, and I have tried a catarrh in the head, and I have tried a number of remedies, which gave me no relief. Finally it settled in my throat and stomach. My doctor failed to do me any good, and I can safely say that death was staring me in the face. I was induced to give Ozone a trial, and the result was marvelous. In two months' time I felt better and weighed more than I had for the last ten years. suit was marvelous. In two months time I felt better and weighed more than I had for the last ten years. I can say that the catarrh in my head and throat was completely cured, and my stomach set in order once more. This happened in February, 1900. Furthermore, I would dwell on the merits of Ozone. This spring I got a heavy dose of quinsy in my throat. I went at once to Mr. Rutherford and got some more Ozone. In a few days I was completely cured of the quinsy, thanks to Ozone. I would also recommend it for taking dandruff out of the head or scalp. In fact, I cannot speak too highly of Ozone. I have induced several people to use it for various diseases, with good results. I will be pleased to answer any questions as to the merits and healing powers of Ozone. the merits and healing powers of Ozone. (Signed) ROBT. FOX, Bolton P. O. Most of the officials of the association expressed confidence that the strike is near an end. WOULDN'T WORK NON-UNION

Tuberculosis and Cowardice.

The recent tuberculosis conference has raised the subject discussed to a topic of world-wide interest. Thanks to the cable and the press, the discussion reaches not only the medical profession, but the rest of the world as well.

The net result of the conference has been to throw out a cheerful signal of hope to all, in regard to the general preventability of consumption and the curability of those who have or in the future may have tubercular

The Dominion and every Province might well take cognizance of this question, for if it is wise and important to spend hundreds of thousands of dollars in getting immigrants, it must be equally wise and important to spend thousands of State money in preventing and limiting that which decreases our population and reduces the average working years of uncounted human beings.

It is unwise, however, in our zear, to allow ourselves to be carried off into the region of scare and panic; and it is only due to those harassed with any degree of tuberculosis, that the press should enforce the need for courage, consideration, and common Christianity in relation to those so situated. We are glad, accordingly, against any tuberculosis quarantine adjusted to feelings of panic. We quote from a great organ of the healing profession, "American Medicine." That journal says:

"When the medical profession discusses the infectiousness of tuberculosis, it must be done calmly, and not with that heat of passion that will lead the general public to believe that we class this disease with smallpox as to degree of contagiousness. The newspaper press is especially prone to misapprehend or to misrepresent medical opinion upon this subject. They allege that they have made propositions that have in reality never been made; this results in gross misapprehension by the general public of the real attitude of the profession.

"A consumptive is a comparatively safe person to associate with, if he knows how to dispose of his sputum. Consequently, he is not a menace to society as is a person who suffers from either smallpox or diphtheria. He does not need to be isolated, because the danger of infection can be prevented by much milder measures.

"Isolation is, moreover, only practicable for diseases of short duration. The municipality or the State can afford to pay the expense of shutting up a smallpox patient for from four to six weeks, since it is known that the contagion will be at an end when the period of isolation has ended. But no man knoweth how long a period of isolation might be necessary for a consumptive. Many tuberculosis patients lead a fairly active life for from ten to twenty years; the vast but few for less than six months. The simple problem of maintenance of the consumptives of any community would be one that would try the genius of the greatest publicist and fin-

"Again, it would only be fair to apply the rule to all infected persons, if it is to apply to any. Now, the difficulties of early recognition of tuberculosis are well known to the intelligent physician. It would be impossible to catch infected cases early in the disease and subject them to restrictions. It is at once apparent from the consideration of these plain facts that a quarantine for tuberculosis is not only impracticable, but absolutely impossible. This fact ought to be well understood; with the quarantine proposition put absolutely out of the question, it ought to be possible for us to consider calmly, rationally and without concealment the necessary educational methods that will ultimately enable us to control the spread of infective material and lessen the dissemination of dis-

We must not relax, of course, in any reasonable efforts, especially in the preventive line, against tuberculosis. As the sputum is the chief means of infection, indiscriminate spitting must be suppressed by education, by public opinion, and by law. Sanitaria for cases needing isolation will be ex- civilized cookery.

tremely useful and necessary. - Overcrowding in districts, and in homes, must be actively discouraged. Sufficient air space for health and ventilation must be insisted on, in all living rooms, halls, schools, and workshops.

But meantime, those troubled with tuberculosis must not be unchristianly and cowardly treated as lepers and pariahs. Owing to the lack of science and sanitary appliances in the Middle Ages, one is not surprised to read of the panic which, in times of plague. caused neighbor to abandon neighbor, and children to abandon parents. But our boasted enlightenment of the twentieth century must be shallow, our courage and Christianity but a thin veneer, if we do not behave with more humane feeling than the panicmongers of the Middle Ages.

The great journal we have quoted is clearly right in saying that the unchristian attitude of complete ostracism is unnecessary from the standpoint of those who have an average amount of commonsense and a little courage and humane forling.

Summer On the Farm.

While those engaged in various vocations in towns and cities are seeking respite from their regular work by a short summer vacation, there is one class of people at least who must work early and late during the hot months of July and August. That is the farming class. The two months mentioned comprise the busiest time in the whole year for the farmer. That is the time when he is called upon to reap what he has sown. After the spring seeding, about the first of July, he has hay to cut and care for. This must be done in season-while the sun shines, so to speak, and none with less than the farmer's instinct can divine the exact time when having operations should begin. Then follows the wheat, and shortly after it the oat harvest, which must be handled with dispatch in order to escape rain. A shower or two is considered a good thing, but an excessive rainfall on the outstanding wheat crop would mean great loss to the agriculturist. Near the end of August, or in the beginning of September, comes the harvesting in some sections of the bean crop, the raising of which is really the staple industry among farmers of the counties of Kent and Essex. This is perhaps the most difficult cereal to handle of all. It needs almost constant attention from the time of sowing to the time of harvesting. Should there come a heavy rain followed by cloudy weather, when the bean crop is lying on the ground to give prominence to an article in bunches, it would be a matter of considerable loss in dollars to the own er of the crop. A summer spent in the country is ail that is needed to impress anyone with the arduous duties connected with the life of the agriculturist, especially at that season of the year. He is forced to obey the injunction, "Early to bed and early to rise," and is, to follow the rhyme, as a general thing, followed by a measure of health and wisdom, whether he is blessed with a superabundance of wealth or not.

However, the lot of the farmer, notwithstanding his pressing work, is not such a hard one after all. He indeed holds an enviable position. While we in the cities are sweltering in the heat. and closed in on all sides by tall buildings, the farmer in the open fields, in his shirt sleeves and broad-rimmed hat, is hardly affected by the heat at all. We often pity him, but our tears are needless; in fact we hope he and heated discussions concerning the shirt waist man.

With "the green things growing," the maturing crops and golden harvest the farmer may be said to walk hand in hand with Nature. And to one who holds communion with her visible forms, Nature is never dull. The seasons come in turn with kaleidoscopic beauty-a sort of never-ending variety. It is in the winter, however, that the long vacation comes for the farmer: for him, at least, whose specialty is grain growing.

When it is also considered that notwithstanding the vast aggregations of capital we hear so much about, the greatest share of the world's wealth majority for two or three years, and is derived from the soil, we see how important it is that the farmer's son should consider the matter seriously before he makes a decision with regard to leaving home.

There is a protest against French words on menu cards. A correspondent of the Westminster Gazette kicks out lively, as follows: Sir.-I wish you could be induced to take up the cudgels on behalf of a stand in favor of the English tongue in place of bastard French in regard to matters of food. We can hardly take up a food list anywhere nowadays but we have a horrible hash of French words and phrases, intermingled with English, that often means nothing. The menu-better call it "grubcard"-is supposed to explain what there is to eat: but in nine cases out of ten it tells you nothing of the sort. It simply gives you some Hottentot jargon designed to obscure rather than enlighten. No one admires the French language and French literature more than I do, because in both we have such perfect clarity and lucidity. But the French of the bill of fare-cooky French! Really now that we are an imperial race, and have found it out, we ought to put an imperial foot upon the suggestion that the English tongue is not capable of expressing every thought, every idea, and every item and combination of

be any doubt at all on the point.

We have asked the question, What is Canada doing? We know Canada has many first-class medical men; good medical colleges; and that it is not fair to expect our busy medical men, busy with their practices, busy in keeping read up to the times, to carry on many experiments as well. We think Canada, as a country, should conduct its share of experiments.

The medical men of the world have

It is the duty of Canadians to Canada to see that Canada's medical men are equal to the best. The means to conduct original investigations should be provided. The best men we have should be engaged in it, and Canada be able to give to the world its share of the advantages to be derived from such investigations. Germany gives the world much through this source Let Canada not be second in anything. Anything any other nation can accomplish, Canada can accomplish also. We suggested this some time ago, and pointed out that the medical profession had no prizes such as the legal profession had in its judgships wherewith to award its expert men, and that if we had the machinery for the purpose, the men selected might regard the honor much as the legal profession does a judgeship. The cost would not be great. The benefits might be incalculable.

The Dominion and Provincial Governments should think out some method of making it financially possible for our Canadian bacteriologists and medical men of talent to enter the race of research and discovery on equal terms with the brains of other coun-

The home is a church within a church, a kingdom within a kingdom, a world within a world. When things go right in the home they go right everywhere. The great discussion regarding tuberculosis is interesting the world. It is to be hoped that Prof. Koch is right in his view as to the uncommunicability to human beings of disease through milk or meat of animals affected by tuberculosis. Whether right or wrong, it is the duty of everyone to see that pure milk and food only is supplied. At the same time it will be welcome news, if confirmed, that tuberculosis is not carried in the milk. Milk is such a splendid food; the very life of many; it is a pity there should

THE POPE'S BIG MAIL.

A Berlin newspaper publishes some curious details respecting the letter bags of the principal European sov-ereigns. THE PROGRAMME AT SPRINGBANK.

List of Entertainments for This Week.

Dancers, Singers and Other Specialists Will Make the Time Pass Pleasantly at the Park.

The street car company and the public, too, saw last week, the results of good attractions at Springbanknightly crowds at the park, filled seats in the amusement stand, satisfaction ond best man at the wedding. A supall round. So it will be again this plementary invitation was sent out to week; and the company is putting on the best possible service to bring the people home expeditiously.

The only member of last week's list of performers who has been retained tionist, whose boneless body has caused endless talk. He is truly a great contortionist-one of the best ever seen here. Areno's manner is in his favor, and his performance is more pleasing than the average. His development of natural abilities in his line are remarkable.

What is most pleasing about these programmes is their variety. If you don't like comedy you may have singing or something else-the company caters to all tastes. For instance, this week the musical portion of the programme will be supplied by two famous singers, men of good reputation, who have been popular wherever they have appeared. Alfred D. Sherrock is a baritone who has appeared in the large cities of the states, and is said to be a very fine singer. He is also a comedian of re-

Judging by the success that he has achieved in other places there is little doubt that he will be popular in this city. The programme each night will be opened by two eccentric juggling comedians Ozav and Delmo. They introduce a new double juggling specialty, which, it is said, is as extremely laughable as it is elever. More comedy, more singing, more dancing will be supplied by Pigott

A ROMANCE

OF THE WAR Two Bruce County Farmers Meet Death in

Soldier From Transvaal Will Take His Friend's Place at a Wedding.

Fought in Africa to Win Health and a Bride-There Captured and Reported Dead-Other Suitor as Best Man.

Providence, R. I., July 30 .- (Special to Chicago Tribune.) — The return from the dead of Frank Leontine Hicks, a soldier for love in the Transvaal, has materially changed the programme for the wedding on Aug. 12 of Miss Viola Porter and Thos. D. Windsor, of Rockland. The wedding will take place at the scheduled time, but Hicks, who has just returned from South Africa, will be the bridegroom instead of Windsor, who has accepted the position of best man. David Broadley, who was to have been best man, takes the place of chief usher.

This extraordinary matrimonial shuffle is the result of a promise on the part of the bride's father, made to Hicks.

ILL-HEALTH THE BARRIER. Three years ago Frank Hicks was clerk in the office of the Pennsylvania Railway Company at Pittsburg The smoke of the city affected his lungs, and he came to Rhode Island in search of health, obtaining employment as a shipping clerk. Here he met Miss Porter, and soon they were engaged. The girl's father, however, objected to the match, and would not allow his daughter to risk her future with a husband whose early death might be expected. The young people were not to be balked, and they were making arrangements for a clandestine marriage, when the plan was discovered, and the young woman was sent away to St.

Louis to live with her aunt. Hicks' earnestness so impressed the father that he consented to give the boy a chance. The war with Spain was on, and Hicks was told that if he would enlist and could endure a campaign his survival would be regarded as a clean bill of health.

The next day the young lover presented himself at the recruiting office in this city. He passed the preliminary examination and was sent to the camp of instruction at Quonsett Point, There the medical examiners rejected him. His prospective father-in-law was confirmed in the wisdom of his course. LOOKS TO SOUTH AFRICA.

The Boer war broke out and Hicks went once more to Mr. Porter. "May I have Viola if I go through a campaign in the Transvaal?" he asked.

The old man made quick reply. "If you can undergo the hardships of soldiering out there, you can stand anything," said he. "My promise shall hold good."

Before Hicks started on his journey across the world he was permitted to see his flancee. At the old homestead in Rockland they renewed their troth, and to the land of the burghers Hicks | 30 feet high, into the shallow creek. made his way. Enlisting with the Boers he developed into a stalwart fellow before he had been six weeks chasing the British over the hills. Then he was Cronje's band. ANOTHER ASKS GIRL'S HAND. Time passed, and a new suitor appeared in the person of Windsor, who had been the intimate friend of Hicks. He, too, had been a soldier, having served with the regulars in the Philippines. Finally the girl gave him permission to speak to her father, Porter would not consent to the marriage until more time had been given for the absent Hicks to turn up. "I gave that boy my solemn word." he said, "and I would like some positive proof of his death before I give Viola to another.

Miss Porter was grateful for the thought, and was glad to have the marriage postponed, as her heart was still with Hicks. She had candidly told Windsor of this, and he had agreed to surrender all claims to her in the event of Hicks returning or being heard from as alive before Aug. 12. But no word came, and finally the arrangements for the wedding were made. The usual invitations were issued and preparations for a journey to St. Louis were begun. Last Thursday evening Windsor and his prospective bride were sitting on the piazza talking of Hicks when the wanderer ap-

Porter summoned Windsor to him and called his attention to the agreement touching the return of Hicks, who he said had a prior right to his daughter's hand. Windsor, rejoicing at his friend's escape from death, declared that although it broke his heart to lose the girl, he was confident that her happiness would be greater with Hicks. Then he voluntarily offered to be secthose invited, giving an explanation of the change of bridegrooms.

TRIED AS A DESERTER. The fortunes of Hicks after he fell into the hands of the British were drathis week is Areno, the contor- matic. He was charged with being a deserter from the English army, and was taken before a military tribunal where he was identified by a sergeant of the line as having deserted at Lynd-burg a year before The pride that Hicks manifested in telling how he became a soldier for convinced the tribunal that he was what he represented himself to be, and he was sent back to prison. While at St. Helena Hicks wrote a letter to Lord Roberts, telling him how much depended on him to return to claim his bride. Lord Roberts gave orders for the prisoner to be brought back to the Cape in the next vessel touching there.

The order was sent, but for some reason it was not acted upon. Lord Roberts returned from England and Lord Kitchener commanded in his stead. To Kitchener, Hicks wrote a similar letter, and it touched the heart of the grim soldier of the Soudan. He reminded by a staff officer of Lord Roberts' intentions, and a short time after the officer in command at St. Helana was directed to release Hicks and send him to England as early as possible, on his agreeing not to take up arms against the English during the war.

This condition is so frequent, but how seldom noticed even by fond parents. Give her Ferrozone, then watch her appetite improve, her cheeks and lips grow ruddy, her step elastic, her spirits buoyant. All this simply the result of eating and digesting enough, making blood, and thereby strengthening the nerve and brain power. Ferrozone gives a woman's strength to weak girls. A KICK OR TWO.

In view of the home coming of the Old Boys, a citizen said to The Advertiser today, attention might be drawn to a few glaring necessities around the old town. The first was the dirty condition of the asphalt pavement. Could not the water commissioners spare enough aqua pura to give this one good washing, he asked? In the second place, he said, the street cars are in much the same state as the asphalt. His other kicks were that Victoria Park needs mowing and its flag pole needs a flag.

STILL WAITING AND WATCHING!

For the Results of the Steel Men's Conference.

Participants Had Nothing to Tell When the Conference Adjourned at 12:30 for Lunch.

Pittsburg, Pa., July 30.-That the great steel strike would be declared off before the close of the day was the general impression here this morning, and the general feeling of exultation manifested was the best indication that both sides were glad that an amicable agreement of the differences was in sight. The hour fixed for the meeting of the general executive board of the Amalgamated Association was 10 o'clock, but an hour earlier President Shaffer was conferring with the western members of the board, and at 9:40 o'clock the entire committee was called together. Immediately after the committee had filed into the room the doors were locked and a sentinel placed outside. If the deal is approved, there will be a conference with the combine offcials. Little doubt is entertained, however, that the action of President Shaffer and Secretary Williams will be ratified. WHAT IS A UNION MILL?

The important question to be decided is what constitutes a union mill. The Amalgamated people claim a mill is union as soon as they have secured a foothold in it. On the other hand the steel people argue that a mill is not union until at least a majority of the skilled workmen have joined the Amalgamated organization. Upon the settlement of this question, it is thought, will hinge the settlement of

Then Secretary Williams read a long typewritten document, which is sunposed to be the proposal of the steel corporation officials. After this there was a discussion participated in by all of the vice-presidents and trustees. Shaffer frequently had the floor, but not a word can be heard.

At 12 o'clock Garland left the conference, but nothing could be learned from him. He hurriedly went up the street.

UP TO LUNCH TIME. 12:30 p.m.-The conference adjourned for lunch to meet again at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon. Just before the adjournment there was loud laughter. When the men came out they were apparently in good humor, but they were silent when approached on the question of the proposed set-

Montreal, July 30 .- The Star's London cable says: Much interest is excited over Lord Mountstephen's gift of £40,000, the annual revenue of which is to be applied towards the augmentation of the stipends of over twenty ministers of the Church of Scotland in the counties of Aberdeenshire and Banffshire, whose parishes are situated in the vicinity of Lord minister will benefit to the extent of

CHAPTER XVIII.

CHAPTER XVIII.

Sir Kenneth remained in court long enough to hear Jem Burns acquitted of the grave charge against him; then he went back to the Boynton Arms, ordered his phaeton, and while the horses were being put in, snatched up some refreshment and a few minutes' conversation with Sergeant Winall and his "learned brother," who were loud in their encomiums on Andree Lancaster's conduct. "It was a terrible ordeal for her," said the junior counsel; "sspecially when she is necesarily anxious about her husband. You know him, I suppose, Sir Kenneth?" "He is one of my most valued friends," replied the young baronet; "one of the best feliows living. Unfortunately—it may be fortunately—he was called to Paris just as the siege was declared, and we have had no tidings of him since." "Poor young thing," said Sergeant Winall; "it must have given her terrible agony of mind. Are you going to the station, Sir Kenneth? We leave at once." They drove to the station together, and tound the excitement and confusion there very great. People spoke of an accident, of which greatly exaggerated accounts had spread among the travelers and would-be travelers who were besetting the officials at every turn with qustions and appeals.

"It is only a mile of two down the line," said the stationmaster, who looked worn and harrassed. "The up-train from Falmouth. I shall be heartily glad of your assistance gentlemen."

And the two barristers and Sir Ken-worn and harrassed. "The up-train from Falmouth. I shall be heartily glad of your assistance gentlemen."

And the two barristers and Sir Kenneth needed no further pressing, and drove as fast as Sir Kenneth's pair of chestnuts could take them to the scene of the disaster, where the assistance they could give was eminently wanted. The sufferers from the collision were about twenty in number, but the injuries in many cases were very severe. The nearest shelter to the accident was afforded by a row of laborer's cottages, and a large barn belonging to a wealthy farmer in the neighborhood, which had been turned into a temporary hospital, and was not ill adapted for the purpose.

Sir Kenneth found that Mr. Jenkins had already arrived on the scene; the news of the accident had been brought to him at Boynton, and he had started at once. One or two other medical men were there also, and all had their hands full.

were there also, and all had their hands full.

The scene was a very painful one: the moans of the wounded, the shrieks of those who were more frightened than hurt, the sobs of women and children mingled with the rapid orders issued by the officials of the railway, and the doctors' firm, kindly tones.

Sir Kenneth soon found employment. Mr. Jenkins, all his sarcasm gone now, his face full of softened fee'nag entreated his help. He had an amputation to perform on a poor young fellow; it was a forlorn hope, and the lad wished it tried. Would Sir Kenneth come and give him, the young man, the support of his arms? they had no chloroform, not a minute could be lost.

Sir Kenneth went at once. The patient lay in one of the cottages, and when they reached his bedside he seemed almost dead.

"Clypton many change doctor" he goid.

most dead.

"Give me a chance, doctor," he said, feebly. "I'm too young to go just now. Never mind the pain, give me a chance." Very skillfully Mr. Jenkins proceeded to perform the operation, which the lad bore well; and when it was over, and the lad comfortably settled, the surgeon's weary face resumed a look of relief.

"I think he will do," he said, as they left the cettage. "What a miserable business this is. I am hoping though that there will be no more lives lost."

"How many have been lost as yet?" the young baronet said, lifting his hat to let the cool air fan his brow in order to get rid of the sickening sensation the distressing scenes had caused.

"But one," was the reply, "he was quite dead when extricated from the debris—a gentleman, one of the few first-class passengers injured at all. He must have been killed, instantanguist. Come this a gentleman, one of the few first-class passengers injured at all. He must have been killed instantaneously. Come this And the surgeon led the way into uninhabited cottage where the body of the dead man had been laid. It was a man between 50 or 60 years of age, with dark, handsome features; his appearance, the clothes he wore, the diamond ring of great value which gleamed on one of the stiffened fingers, seemed to betoken wealth and position.

Donaldson turned away with a sigh.

"His face seems familiar," he said, musingly. "Who can it be?"

The surgeon found his attention claimed in another quarter, and Sir Kenneth sat down to recover his equanimity. At the same minute a handsome, soldierly-look-ing young fellow rode up, sprang from his horse, and throwing the reins to a boy who stood near, hurriedly approached Kenneth.

'Excuse me," he said, with an appearance of great agitation, "I arrived at Boynton ten minutes ago. My father was to meet me here from Falmouth. He may have come by this train. Will you kindly tell me where the injured persons have taken?"

Kenneth conducted him to the barn, and as they passed down the line of suf-terers, the expression of anxiety on the new-comer's brow appeared to lighten.

"Thank you, he said, with a sigh of re-lief when the survey was over, and they came out into the fresh air again. "My alarm was groundless; he has not come. alarm was groundless; he has not come. I have been traveling all day," he added, "and I am thoroughly tired, which I suppose aggravated my fears, but"—and he gave a little laugh—"I was terribly nervated by the beautiful and the gave a little laugh." I was terribly nervated by the beautiful and the same ous. Can I be of any use here?" he went on, after a moment. "I am a soldier, and every soldier is a good nurse you know. I have had some experience lately, too. I have just returned from France."

Quick as lightning a thought flashed into Sir Kenneth's mind, and swifter than the answering thunder-real assected.

Thousands of women who had been great sufferers, have learned that suffering was unnecessary after using Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. THE COLONEL FOOLED.

Col. De Ray Williams, N. W. M. P. (formerly of London), left Regina on Saturday for Carnduff, where the C. P. R. strikers were assuming a threatening aspect, says the Regina Leader. He was accompanied by Corp. Callaghan and Constable Piper, and picked up a posse of men on the way. The affair turned out a "fizzle," and Col. Williams returned home on Monday.

Muscular Strength. Muscular Strength.

There is this to be borne in mind in these days, when so many young men are giving so much attention to muscular development, in gymnastic and athletic exercises, that there cannot be permanent muscular strength where there is not blood strength.

Hood's Sarsaparilla gives blood strength, promotes digestion and assimilation, and builds up the whole system.

NO FOUNDATION FOR THE RUMOR

Rev. Mr. Sowerby Has Not Been Called to a Hamilton Church.

It has been rumored in Hamilton that Rev. Dr. Sowerby, pastor of the Talbot Street Baptist Church, would receive a call to the James Street Baptist Church, as Rev. J. L. Gilmour's successor. The church officials, says the Hamilton Times, say that there is absolutely no foundation for the statement. The pulpit supply committee has arranged for preachers up to the middle of September, and Rev. Dr. Sowerby has merely been engaged for one Sunday.

CONTRACTORS ARE HAVING DIFFICULTY

Cement on Springbank Dam Must Be Roughened to Admit of Progress-

To the board of water commissioners, which met yesterday afternoon, Engineer More stated that the contractor at Springbank dam was meeting with much difficulty. Only the plaster face of the dam is being replaced-it was damaged by the heavy ice in the spring-and to do this the concrete must be roughened, an extremely hard thing to do, as it has become as hard as granite. It will take six days to complete the refacing. Engineer Moore recommended that a 4-inch main be laid on Mamelon street from the Hamilton road to Layard street, upon Hyatt Bros. signing an agreement to pay annual water rates to the amount of not less than $10; estimated cost $125. The engineer also recommended that the 8-inch centrifugal pumps at Springbank he repaired; estimated cost $35. A communication was received from the trustees of the First Congrega-tional Church, asking that the commissioners discontinue the service for the large organ and remove the meter, as they had decided to adopt their premethod of supplying power.

Filed. The trustees of the Aged People's Home applied for a second service pipe to supply one of the wings of the building. The secretary was instructed to advise them that the board would place the pipe as they desired to a distance of 20 feet free. Several complaints of one kind and another were referred to the engineer or secretary to report upon.

SHOULD REPAIR PARK FOUNTAIN

FUNERAL OF THE LATE MR. The Masons' Gift to the City Has Been Neglected.

"That drinking fountain near the band stand in Victoria Park is simply a disgrace to the authorities," said a citizen to an Advertiser man this morning, "and once upon a time it was a thing of beauty. Your readers will remember," the speaker continued, "that some time in 1882 a body of Masons presented the fountain to the city. In connection with the gift a very pretty ceremony was held. Many prominent people took part in it. For a time care was bestowed upon the ornament, but for some reason or another, or perhaps gross carelessness the fountain has been allowed to fall to pieces and become a nuisance. Generally around the basin the ground resembles •a miniature frog pond that children delight to paddle barefooted in. People have to be very ing mission work in China. During thirsty before they'll wade through such a puddle, but they do in spite of the uninviting appearance of the whole outfit. Why, the water in the basin is positively ill-smelling. The inside is covered with green slime from the stagnant water, and the cups are thrown in this after being used. The basin contains dead leaves, dirt, sand and stones, and it's not very inviting to look at when a fellow's perspiring and very thirsty. The top used to have a pretty ornament, but something that resembles an inverted tin can does duty now. The first thing that strikes me is that somebody has knocked the present on the head. Let somebody be ordered to put the fountain in decent repair. In its present condition it's a disgrace, and a danger to the health of people using the
