"The increase in suicides and insanity is doubtless due to the grip, which, being followed by nervous exhaustion, superinduces melancholia and then suicide. In the case of weak-minded people, who require only a small force to throw their intellects out of balance, the nervous exhaustion supplies that impulse, and insanity is the result. I have noticed the increase in suicides, both abroad and in this country, and it seems to me to come hand in hand with the grip. But this is only an off-hand opinion." the first quarter of the year, find it to be 25

KEMMLER'S CASE

To Be Argued Before the United St. Supreme Court May 19.

Washington, D. C., May 6.—Reger M.
Sherman yesterday made application in the United States Supreme Cours for a writ of habeas corpus for Kemmler under sontence of death by electricity, pursuant to the order of Judge Wallace, of New York. The court denied the application for a writ of habeas corpus, but informed Mr. Shermen that on May 19 the court-would hear a motion for a writ of error in the case. This will permit the whole record to be brought here and the case argued. The court follows the precedent established in the Spies (Anarchist) case. The court will hear the application on its next and final session of the term on May 19. Should the application be denied as in the Anarchist case it ends the matter, but should it be granted it simply defers for about a year its final disposition, the case having to come up again in a more extended form.

BUFFALO, May 6.—Yesterday morning a writ of habeas corpus was served upon District Attorney Quinby and others interested in the case, including Warden Durston, to produce Kemmler before County Judge Day at Auburn on Saturday next. The writ was granted by Judge Corlett and was obtained by Charles S. Hatch. It is issued to dispose of the question as to whether the Warden of the State Prison at Auburn can legally execute Kemmler. A stay of execution was some time ago asked upon the same ground, Mr. Hatch urging that nobody but the Sheriff of Erie county could execute his client.

LONDON, May 6.—David Stephenson, father of Mrs. Birchall, who has just arrived from America, was seen yesterday at the offices of the London and Northwestern Railway at Euston. He seemed cheerful, and said he had left his daughter at Niagara Falls with her sister, where both will remain until the trial of her husband is over. He had wished to bring her home, but she insisted on remaining, and he honored herfor it. He denied that his daughter was taking steps to obtain a divorce, and he wished to state that she ntterly refused to consider any such action till after the trial. He added that he could not but admire the treatment accorded to his daughter in America, which had been marked throughout by great delicacy. As for himself, he had nothing but gratitude for the kindness of American railroad men toward him. He refused to discuss the subject of Birchall's guilt or innocence. He thought his daughter's actions showed what she thought of the latter. He had engaged the best lawyers, and had done and would do still his duty by his daughter's husband.

Another Version of the Peters Trouble. To the Editor of the Advertiser:

In referring to the paragraph in your paper of 5th inst in which my name appears 1 beg to make the following statement: I lived on the place in question, the Peters homestead, all my life up to March last. Part of the land attached to the house belongs to me and part to my brother, John Peters. I had my crops and stock raised on my own land and purchased with my own money, stored there. In my absence John took possession of the house and locked me out and then he put a man and his wife in possession with instructions not to let me in when I returned, but I had my hired man there looking after my stock all the time and I was there frequently myself. I did not want possession of the house or anything belonging to John. I was there on Saturday and made arrangements with a man to remove the stock Monday morning and put them out to pasture on my own land. I took Adolphus Stinchcombe and Graham with me to assist me, but when I got there I found John with Constales Allen, Crawford and two other men and they refused to let me take my stock. Young Stinchcombe was there to assist me and was no more a trespasser than I wae, and this summoning of him for trespass shows John's vindictiveness has got the better of his judgement. Thanking you. Mr. Editor, for this space in your paper, I am William F. Peters.

ILDERTON, May 6.—A large and orderly meeting was held here last night in the interest of Mr. T. H. Purdom, the Reform candidate.

Mr. John A. Mr. A. D. Hardy spoke with much effect in reply, explaning the secret ballot matter, and dealt generally with the Government's policy. His humorous retorts were much relished.

Mr. John Rosser then made a short speech, also replying to Mr. Leitch.

Mr. Purdom then took up the other charges, showing that it was absurd to blame the Government in connection with the case of Leitch vs. the G. T. R., in which the principal witness against the plaintiff was Mr. George Moncrieff, the Conservative M. P. for Lambton, and whose evidence went to show that the train had stopped a sufficient time at the station, and in any event it was only a private lawsuit. He replied also upon the charges in c meetion with the Agricultural College and the seed wheat swindles, pointing out that those who lost by the seed wheat notes did so because they expected to make more out of their neighbors, and went into it with their eyes open, and that no legislation could protect a man foolish enough to purchase under such circumstances. He closed by reviewing the acts of the Administration, and was frequently applauded.

At the conclusion three rousing cheers were given for the Queen, the Mowat Administration and the Reform candidate. The audience maintained the best of humor throughout.

Fishery Overseer Pollock has been at Sarnia for several days looking after the fishing interests. Several of the larger and more wealthy fishing firms have been in the habit of fishing for pickerel during the close season, which is from April 15 to May 15. The Overseer has decided that they are doing so illegally. The fishermen claim that they have permission from Mr. Parker, of the Sandwich fish hatchery. The Overseer had Messrs. Steed and Hitchcock before the Mayor of Sarnia, when it was shown that they were transgressing the law in catching fish during the close season, but the defendants proved that they had special permission from Mr. Parker, of the Sandwich hatchery, to fish for pickerel during that time, they in return for that privilege supplying him with spawn from the pickerel. The Mayor held that he could not recognize the authority of Mr. Parker in this matter. The law was clearly laid down. The defendants were fined $10 and costs. Two hours after the Intellege stream from of Mr. Parker in this matter. The law was clearly laid down. The defendants were fined $10 and costs. Two hours after the trial the Overseer received a telegram from Mr. Tilden, Deputy-Minister of the Department, asking for a copy of the court proceedings. It is claimed that some of the poorer fishermen are debarred from fishing privileges enjoyed by some of the wealthier firms.

WEST HURON.

GODERICH, May 5.—The Liberal Convention for the West Riding of Huron today, was largely attended, 126 delegates attending out of a possible 138. After the examination of the credentials the meeting was called to order by President Garvin, who explained the object of the gathering. The following resolution was submitted and earried unanimously:

That this convention has learned with the submitted and carried unanimously:

That this convention has learned with the deepest regret of the retirement of our ableand well-tried representative, the Hon. A. M. Ross, from political life, after having served us faithfully for the past fifteen years, during which time his course has met with the universal approval of the Liberals, not only of West Huron, but of the whole Province, and on behalf of the Liberals of West Huron we ender him our cordial thanks for the able, looset and satisfactory manner in which he as bifilled the duties of his office.

Hon. A. M. Ross, on coming forward, was enthusiastically received, and made a short but vigorous address. He explained that he had not left the Government because he was not in harmony with his col-

For the seven years during which he had been la the Government he had known little or nothing of the pleasures of home life, having been necessitated to be absent attending to his duties to a greater extent than his personal inclinations wished, and as he was now growing in years, he believed it was only right that the honor in opposing a man like the Hon. AILSA CRAIG, May 5.—The Conservatives of North Middlesex held another meeting here to-day, at which W. H. Hutchins, of Parkhill, received the call of the convention. In reply to Mr. Blake, Sir John Macconaud promised to fix a day for its consideration. The West Middlesex Tories Ashamed of Their Man-Morgan Refuses to Meet the Minister of Education in Public Debate—He "Ain't No Speaker."

[From a Special Correspondent.]

WAEDSVILLE, May 5.—John Morgan, the Tory candidate for West Middlesex, was here the other day amusing the people with a sort of a Dutch auction of his pledges and principles. On pressing an elector for his support, the gentleman told Mr. Morgan that he would like to hear him (Mr. Morgan) and his opponent discuss the political questions of the day on the platform before pledging himself. "Oh," saled Mr. Morgan, "you know I can't talk with Mr. Ross; I ain't no public speaker." A nice man this to advocate the principles of honest and economical government on the floor of a legislative hall. If Mr. Morgan "ain't no public speaker." A nice man this to advocate the principles of West Middlesex can hardly afford to send the gentleman to Toronto for his good looks alone.

The Tories here are heartily ashamed of their man, and take no pains to conceal their disgust. Not one of them came fortheir disgust. Not one of them came for their disgust. Not one of them came for the came the middle of the sound the point of the century it was to the political prodivities, and in the British House of Commons Mr. Bradlaugh and Mr. William O'Brien are almost the only members who officet that particular form of headgear. WIARTON Ecno (neutral): "From an independent standpoint, we think that while we have a Conservative Government at Liberal Government in the Provinces. We have no hesitation in believing that Mr. Mowat will be victorious in the ensuing npaign. The Toronto World asserts that he will be defeated; it made the same assertion in 1886, and Mr. Mowat's majority was doubled.

MR. WAITE, of Buffalo, the celebrated English architect who designed the Canada Life Insurance Company's offices, the Toronto Mail building and the new Parliamentary buildings, has just been commissioned to proceed with the plans of a new $100,000 building, to be erected for the use of the Bank of Hamilton in the city of that BOSTON licensing authorities have abolished bars, and the men who want drink will have to sit down to it. The rednosed people will likely indorse the idea. We doubt if the abolition of bars and the provision of drinking rooms, will be an improvement. In old world lands the drinking habits of the people are fostered by just such an arrangement.

THE man who could not carry his own township in the last municipal election thinks he will succeed in defeating Hon. G. W. Ross. He is a first-rate traducer of the Minister, but he must not take the electors of West Middlesex for fools. He cannot give his support to the friends and patrons of the timber boodlers and pose as an "independent" candidate at the same time. Mr. Morgan is cunning, but his still-hunt is doomed to failure.

THERE will be 91 members in the new Legislature. The number is now 90, but the district of Nipissing, the far north territory of Ontario, will have a member in the next House. His name will be Laughrin and his home Mattawa. He will support the Mowat Government, which has done so penalty or to suffer or incur any reduction much to husband the resources of Ontario. If Macdonald and Meredith had their way, timber grabbers of the Rykert stamp would be in control of one-half the timber limits of the Province to-day.

THE Toronto correspondent of the Montreal Witness says there need be no doubt as to the position of Rev. Principal Caven, esident of the Equal Rights Association of Ontario. "Though he is in favor of abolishing separate schools," says the correspondent. "he knows that this car the Ontario Legislature and he will not accomplishing an impossibility. He is a supporter of the Mowat Government as well as a personal friend and fellow churchman of the Premier. They attend the same Presbyterian Church every Sunday."

likely that there will be any split in the Reform vote in North Oxford in the ensuing election. Many Reformers favor a local representative, but not because they have lost confidence in Mr. Mowat or his Government. They believe that the political prizes should go to men resident in the riding who have a more intimate knowledge of the requirements of the people than any outsider, no matter how able and prominent he may be, can possibly have. They are, however, unwilling to endanger Mr. Mowat's prestige in the country by pressing their views at the time of a general election and all will give Mr. Mowat their cordial upport. Mr. Mowst has now occupied the seat for half that time. It is the feeling of confidence in his ability and uprightness by his supporters that has rendered opposition to him impossible.

We congratulate the electors of West Kent on the choice of candidate for the Legislature which they have made. Dr.

Canada exported 14,028,993 dozen of egg to the following countries from the Provinces named:

To Great Britain— Fleming is a man who is honored and respected by all who know him. As Mayor of Chatham, he has had a preliminary experience that will stand him in good stead in the Legislature, to which we are assured the majority of the electors intend to send him. There will be nothing underhand about his conduct in or out of the House, about his conduct in or out of the House, which is more than can be said about the late representative. Mr. Clancy is making a desperate canvass, and is especially strong in his appeals to sectional interests in the community. This has generally been his method of doing business. We all remember how Mr. Meredith sent him into West Lambton last fall, and the dodge which he attempted to fall, and the dodge which he attempted to work there. The Tory leader himself was at his wits' end what course to pursue in that contest, and he retired into his shell to await developments, while his organs blackguarded him as "a leader who cannot lead." They told the truth. But Mr. Meredith knew what he was about. He lead." sent Mr. Clancy into West Lambton to see it, by dosing the Catholic from Mr. Clancy's co-religionists, and thus win the election. The Clancy expedition—though partially successful—failed, and Mr. Meredith, in desperation, took another tack. In West Kent Mr. Clancy is using hoodwink the people, but we may expect that Dr. Fleming and his friends will see to it that the electors are made fully cognizant of the wonderful acrobatic feats which their member and his leader have been performing within the last few months. Our correspondent at Chatham says that the Liberal Convention augurs well for victory. It was attended by more than double the delegates who attended the Tory gathering that brought out Mr. Clancy; that portends success.

West Kent will be redeemed 1

THE WORKING CLASSES. In the hard times preceding the general election of 1878 Sir John A. Macdonald developed into a very anxious friend of the workingman, even to the extent of accepting testimonials from laborers and artisans Ottawa, it is just as well that we have a who were represented as having a struggle to earn bread for their families. He was full of gracious promises in those days of what he would do for the working classes if only he was restored to office again-plenty of employment, bringing back the tens of thousands who had gone to the United States, free breakfasts, protection against oppression by employers, etc. Well, he as been back in office now nearly twelve years, and workingmen have ceased to ask for the redemption of one of his old promises. None of the tens of thousands who had gone to the United States "in search of the employment denied them at ome"-to use one of Sir John's stock phrases-have been induced to come back. On the contrary, the people who have left Canada for the United States in the past eleven years are to be numbered by hundreds of thousands instead of tens; the United States authorities half way, the the cost of living is much higher than it formerly was; there are no free breakfasts, and workingmen have long ago ceased to clamor for factory laws or legislation of any kind in their interest. They have seen a Royal Commission appointed to inquire into some matters affecting their interest; but they know now that its main if not its sole purpose was to provide employment for a few clamant political laborers, and that there is no intention to give laws that would be of any practical service to them. For anything of value they have long ago learned to regard the Ontario Government as their true and only friend, as shown by the Mechanics' Lien Act, the Employers' Liability Act, the Factories Act, the Railway Accidents Act, the Co-operative Associations

Act and several acts to facilitate the collection of wages. There is also a provision in the Franchise Act, which enables a workman to take two hours on polling day to record his vote without making himself "liable to any of wages, provided that if so required he may afterwards make up for his absence by an hour of extra work. The collection of statistics of labor and wages, long ago promised by the Dominion Government, has been for five or six years carried on by the Ontario Government, to the general satisfaction of the working classes, and the information so furnished has more than anything else enabled them to compel the Dominion Government to desist from bring-

Canada last year Ontario produced nearly 10,000,000, receiving therefor over $1,500. 000, the total sum received from tario domestic produce being $2,156,725. wiseacres now in power at Ottawa seem to have thought differently. The electors of that riding with a verbal version leaders have all along protested of his infamous manifesto "Facts for the that they favored reciprocity with of his infamous manifesto "Facts for the Irish electors," he could secure a solid vote the United States—not complete reciprocity, it is true, but reciproc That includes in natural products. That includes farm produce. This year they took a new course. They imposed duties on many articles that are admitted free into the first the one dodge and then the other to hoodwink the people, but we may expect selves to be hostile to reciprocal trade of any description. Meanwhile a member of Congress had introduced a tariff measure into the United States Congress, making provision for a great increase in the duties on various articles imported into the States. It also provided for the levying of taxes on articles hitherto imported free, among other things being eggs. There seemed to be little chance for the success of this bill before the every section was well represented, and the Tory leaders at Ottawa resolved to abrocampaign was entered on with a unanimity | gate the provisions of their tariff bill agree ing to reciprocity in certain articles of gar-den and farm produce. The hostile atti-tude of Minister Foster, and the declaration of more than one Tory leader that Canada wanted no reciprocity in farm products, had the effect of stirring up the United States restrictionists to demand that the increased taxation on agricultural products entering that country should be put in force. It is here where our egg-producing friends come in.

A duty was at one time collected on eggs entering the States. Then Canada sent but a few hundred thousand dozen eggs over the border. Since the duty was taken off, the trade has increased by leaps and bounds until now, as we have seen, it runs away up into 14,000,000 of dozens! If the proposed duty of 5 cents a dozen is put on, it will be practically prohibitive, and the farmers may have to ac cept 5 or 6 cents a dozen for their eggs. Seeing that our Gov ernment at Ottawa is determined to take no steps looking to securing complete reciprocity in trade with the United States, and that the piling up of taxes on import is likely to continue until we have a Gov ernment at Ottawa which will offer to mee egg buyers scarcely know what to do. In past years they have bought eggs all through the summer at a fair price, shipping what could be sold to advantage, pickling and storing the remainder. were shipped to the States in the fall. This year they buy only for present needs, and are not pickling for the future for the reason that they fear the duty of cents a dozen may be imposed at any moment. Our correspondent will now under-stand how the egg combine originated and who is responsible for it.

THERE were rumors in London commer cial circles last week that the great oil wells of the Caspian are beginoil wells of the Caspian are begin-ning to show signs of exhaustion, and this report caused censiderable uneasiness in Batoum. The English Consul at that port says the rumor has undoubtedly risen solely from the circumstance that, though the quantity of crude oil produced last year ex-ceeded that of the year before by 1,250,000 tone prices are rising. He says also that tons, prices are rising. He says also that there are other petroleum fields along the Caspian which will be available whenever Caspian which will be available whenever the present district begins to fail, but that there are no indications of this contingency yet, since, besides the many still productive well sat Baku, there are three fountains at the place spouting with unabated force and yielding daily the enormous quantity of more than 5,000 tons.

ask for a warrant, what can you do to keep me quiet?"
Suddenly the virago stopped as though she were shot, and her fierce countenance froze into an appearance of terror, as well it might. Mr. Quest, who had been sitting listening to her with his hand over his eyes, had risen, and his face was as the face of a fiend, alight with an intense and quiet fury which seemed to be burning inwardly. On the mantlepiece lay a sharp pointed Goorka knife, which one of Mrs. D'Aubig a's admirers, who had traveled, had presented to her. It was an awful looking weapon, and keen edged as a razor. This he had taken up and held in his right hand, and with it he was advancing toward her lying on the sofa.

"If you make a sound I will kill you at nce," he said, speaking in a low and husky voice.

She had been paralyzed with terror, for like most bullies, male and female, she was a great coward, but the sound of his voice roused her, and the first note of a harsh screech had already issued from her lips, when he sprang upon her, and placing the sharp point of the knife against her throat, pricked her with it. "Be quiet," he said, "for you are a dead woman."

She stopped screaming, and lay there, her face twitching, and her eyes bright with terror.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria. When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.

"Now, listen," he said, in the same husky voice. You incarnate fiend, you asked me just now how I could keep you quiet, I will tell you; I could keep you quiet by running this knife up to the hilt in your throat," and once more he pricked her with its point. "It would be murder," he went on, "but I do not care for that. You and others between you have not made my life so pleasant for me that I am especially anxious to preserve it. Now listen, I will give you £350 that I have brought, and you shall have the £250 a year; but if you ever attempt to extort more, or if you molest me, either by spreading stories against my character or by means of legal prosecution, or in any other way, I swear by the Almighty that I will murder you. I may have to kill myself afterward—I don't care if I do, provided I kill you first. Do you understand me, you tiger, as you call yourself? If I have to hunt you down as they do tigers, I will come up with you at last, and kill you. You have driven me to it, and, by heaven! I will. Come, speak up and tell me that you understand, or I may change my mind and do it now," and once more he touched her with the knife.

She rolled off the sofa on to the floor and lay there writhing in abject terror, looking in the shadow of the table, where her long, the same in the shadow of the table, where her long, the same hasd Children, she gave them Castoria. For half an hour or more the woman remained thus, the bag of money in her hand. Then she struggled to her feet, her face livid and her body shaking.

"Ugh," she said, "I'm as weak as a "Ugh," she said, "I'm as weak as a "Ugh," she said, "I'm as weak as a "I'

Beside, if I blow on him he'll put me in chokey and I shan't be able to get anything out of him, and when he comes out he'll do for me." And then losing her temper, she shook her fist in the air, and broke out into a flood of language such as would neither be pretty to hear nor good to repeat.

The Squrre was as happy attending to the various details connected with the transfer of the mortgages as though he had been lending £30,000 instead of borrowing it. The great George was happy in the unaccustomed flow of borrowed cash, that enabled him to treat Janter with a lofty scorm not unmingled with pity, which was as balm to his harassed soul, and also to transact an enormous amount of business in his own peculiar way with men up trees and otherwise; for had he not to stock the Moat farm, and was not Michaelmas at hand?

I used one bottle, and the permanent manner in which it has cured and made a new man of me is such that I cannot withhold from the proprietors this expression of my gratitude."

An Early Morning Call.

This morning about 1 o'clock Sergeant Jenkins and a posse of men raided a house of ill-fame on York street kept by a woman named Carrie Hermer. In addition to the keeper the officers caught her daughter Mary, Alice Taylor, her brother, Fred Taylor, John Maloney and Wm. Spragg. When the police entered the house the man Taylor jumped from a window about eight feet from the ground and was nabbed by an officer standing underneath it. At the Police Court the two Harmers were remanded for a week and the others were discharged.

The attendance was about 25 more than formerly, and instead of a deficit of $17 53 there was a balance of $86 13. An increased number of certificates had been issued during the year and two silver medals were given at the May examination. In addition to the evening classes, afternoon classes in oil and water colors had been established and were well attended.
