THE COURIER.

MONDAY, OCTOBER 7, 1850.

The habitual abuse of the Americans, which disfigures the columns of many Colonial journals, because Slavery is apheld by the South, does no credit to the candor and impartiality of the writers. That the institution of Slavery contains many features which are revolting to the feelings of those who have never visited the Tropics, and gather their knowledge of the working of the system, and the disposition of the slaves, from system, and the disposition of the slaves, from and we should esteem it a sed minfortune, if any thing we said or did could aid, even remo ging so grievous a calamity; but our knowledge of human nature leads us to believe that the tales of severity on the part of the masters are check the impulses of the cruel, and the majority of the chief slave-owners are conspicuous for their humanity, intelligence, and solicitude for the welfare of the negro. The bitterest foes to emanipation are not the wealthy slave-owners, but that class known as the mean Whites in the South, who dread the competition of negro labor. Our object, however, is not to embark in any discusion as to the working of the system. We admit with our contemperaries, that slave-holding is to be deprecated; but we differ from them when they utter sharp reproaches against the American nation because they tolerate the evil. It is an easy matter for a man to sit before a comfortable fire, and canvass and criticize the conduct of others; but ask for a remedy, require him to sugmode of curing the disease of which he implains, he is silent, or replies in a strain of buffoonery. Historical references make known the fact that slaves were imported from Africa into America as a profitable traffic, in which Bristol, as well as other English towns, largely participated; that the trade was pursued-not a ion of the Colonists, but in actual dehance of their wishes and requests—to enrich English traders; and thus the thirteen Province were flooded with cargoes of the captured negroes The Revolution but perpetuated the wrong in-flicted upon the colored race; yet we have not een any attempt by the ablest censors of the historians to elucidate the problem by which the negro could be emancipated with social interests. The conduct of England in free ing the blacks of the West India Islands, furnishes no analogy by which we can arrive at a correct onclusion as to the operation of such a measur ments, upon a limited scale, and upon a favorable locality, have ended in the absolute ruin of the West India interest, without elevating the black man to the paths of civilization. English philan thropy might cost some twenty millions; but it may be fairly assumed, that had there been three millions of African slaves in England, as there are now in the United States, she would have hesitated long ere she turned them loose upon society. The mere cost, calculated at the West India value, would have been eighty millions; but a more serious consideration than the mere money part of ection would have checked legislation. Such is, virtually, the condition of affairs in the Republic, and no man has yet pointed, out a reasonable and practical mode of abating the evil. The Americans are not insensible to the exigencies of their position. They have purchased terhave colonized and protected it; yes, were standing all the allurements presented, the colored race are markedly reluctant to turn their faces towards their natural resting-place. They cling, with an unseemly tenacity, to the Northern cities, and strive to extort sympathy, while they neglec their obvious duty. Even in Castada a siekly sentimentality has grown up; we must, foreaoth, make free grants of land to negroes, while we turn a deaf ear to the sick and poor of our own race, and refuse them our waste lands, unless purchase with their toil. The amalgamation of the race is repugnant to the dictates of nature, and revolting to our sense of decency; it is inexpedient and unnatural, and even if practicable, would but tend to our degeneracy. The operation of the Fugitive Slave Bill will induce many a panting heart to seek refuge on this soil. We shall rejoice over their escape, and aid them to secure the reward of industry in this haven; but the negro sho be taught that the legitimate field for his exertions is the land of Africa, and thither he should be counselled to turn his steps. Whatever knowledge of civilization he boasts, whatever his acance with the arts, the sciences, and literature, they can be invoked with far greater advantages for the progress of his own race on his own soil, than here or in the United States. He wastes his energies and his intellect when contending with a people who look upon him as an alien, and as a nu sance. We may have indulged in expressions which may sound harsh and unkind, but truth is not always palutable. We cannot change the work of Providence—distinctive marks have been impristed on each race, and each most fulfil its destiny. The Americans who deplore

rious must turn to Europe to select the guilty. No wonder Montreal is falling into ruin and day ay—there is a lack of energy, a want of that applies were to be imbued, which we do not think can be mer No women states in a lack of energy, a weat of that open them is a lack of energy, a weat of that open them is a lack of energy, a weat of that open them is a lack of energy, and also the late Tetu's Hotel, as alonging apartments for the interest visitors shortly expected amongst us to the location of the seats; promeoned, three interests a seat west of accommodation.

of when I last wrote you on the subject. It turns out that claims, which, while is other hands, the Government had decided to be bad, were admitted after they had been purchased by Mr. Roblin. he affair was exposed in one of the public prints ere yesterday, and the Government organ of this ng has not a word to say on the subject.
question having been raised whether Mr. Rineks, by accepting the Chairmanship of the Ennowment Board, het vacated his seat 1—the Globe replies, that the services will be performed ratnitously by the Minister. I do not think the wer at all satisfactory. Whatever Mr. Hineka may for the moment intend to do in regard to re-muneration, it is quite clear that the office cannot permanently be rendered honorary. If Mr. Hincks, with the concurrence of his colleagues, has appointed himself to an office which, when-ever he shall retire or be driven from politics, will yield him a good salary, this kind of introduction will, to all intents and purposes, he are ap-pointment to an office of profit. As it has been stated, on the part of Mr. Hincks, that he does that, by the spirit of the Independence of Parliament Act, he has vacated his seat. An election in Oxford, however, might just now be an awk-ward affair, which Mr. Hincks will take precious good care not to encounter. Dr. Ryerson has gone to England, at the expense of the Province, to purchase books for the Normal School; at least that is the ostensible object: but it is not unlikely that he is desirous of seeing how the land lies, that he may be enabled to steer his bark in the right direction, should any breeze spring up on the sea of Canadian politics. The greatest apparent cordiality exists between the Doctor and the Cabinet; there seems to be a mutual determination to forget the ntagonism of former days, and the colleagues of Legion," the lion, have lain down with Leonidas, the lamb. Whether the Government have entrusted Mr. Ryerson with any political business, I have not been able to learn. Whatever may be the object of this mysterious mission, it is clear that no earthly necessity existed for his going to England to purchase books, which any one of the dozen booksellers in the city could just as well have ordered. Two hundred pounds were voted by Parliament to defray the expense of this mission-which may be regarded as a very neat little job. For nearly a quarter of a century Dr. Ryerson has been a man of some political influence, which he owed to his connection with a americally rather important religious denomination. His last political act was a deadly struggle with the disbanded Baldwin Cabinet of 1843. To such an extent was the reciprocal hostility carried, that several Members of the present Cabinet, in prospect of success at the last Election wowed rovenge. The Doctor was to be dismissed. This was passet, remised to some of the constituencies. That the threat has not been executed is not because the Ministry love, but because they fear, their late antagonist and present quasi-colleague. He has gained a complete triumph over them. He has been able to compel the Government to adopt Bills that he has named to procure an increase of salary, and to get a trip to Rurope at the public expense.

About £15,000 have been subscribed in the city owards the Toronto and Lake Heron Railroad The present direction is likely to tall through. Much prejudice exists against Mr. Capreol, who possesses great energy and indomitable perseverance, but who, notwithstanding, is not the man to inspire confidence. At a private meeting of those interested in the enterprise, held a few days ago, tion to get rid of Mr. Capreol was pretty plainly hinted. He was present, and bea determination to hold another, and then to can-

The only important political incident of the week has been the discovery of an Orleanist plet. The documents connected with which, while they do not appear to implicate any persons, afforded Paris and London papers food for very long adita-plication for the vacant Chair of Practical Anntomy in the University. It is alleged that they took him it would be useless for him to apply, as they had determined upon a particular appointment. It is certainly improbable that any Government should give such an answer, and I cannot, therefore, help regarding the story as a fiction or an exageration.

In the Toronto Industrial Exhibition, which is still open, there are some things note-worthy. There are some yeary fair specimens of demestic systimet and carpets. The weolless are very good; indeed the blasikest could not easily be beat. There is probably too large a preponderance of facey work for an exhibition probably does not some up to that of last year.

The Epiacopal Convention has been organized, and elected the Rev. Mr. Wyatt, of Baltimore, President, and the Rev. Mr. Howe, of Philadelphia, Secretary. No other business was transacted There is a large concourse of people in the city, and strangers come by every conveyance to the convention and State fair.

As many gentlemen were on their way to the fair of the American Institute, the first impression was, that a magnificent specimen of fire works had been sent from the steamer, but its distance, and changing hoes, quickly dissipated such an idea. The explosion, however, was not entirely anlike the mingling lights of an immense sky rocket.

The writer of the above has examined the wonders of the heavens with great interest—watched the accentric movements of meteors, and at different times, and at sea, in both factures, so that a from the hills of the tropical isles, has beheld many interesting and impressive sights, filling the mind with sentiments of sublimity and awe; but never has it fallen to his favor to witness an exhibition in the heavens as truly beautiful, so strikingly mysterious, as that of the last evening. A traveller, and scientific gentleman, who has given much time to the practical study of the heavens, &c., and was by my side in time to see most of the phenomens, pronounced it we meteor of most extraordinary character.—Cor. Where is Liberty 1—A gentleman, to all appearance, whose skin is not as dark as some "white" free men, called upon a legal friend of ours yesterday, and stated that a short time since he fled from the slavery of South Carolina to the free hills of Massachusetts, where he was lold he would find protection, and enjoy liberty; but recent events caused him to fear his liberty; but recent events caused him to fear his liberty; he learned that persons claiming him as their property, were in search of him; he wanted to know of our friend what he should do to retain and enjoy the liberty he loved so well.

"Flee from Massachusetts, nor stop until your fleet are upon the Monarchial ground of Queen Victoria, where you can enjoy freedom," was the reply, "for Massachusetts furnishes no legal safety for you."—Boston Bes.

The increase of tonuage of vessels, observed in 1849, over the tonuage of 1850, arises from the cause of a different mode of classification. This year's tonuage is commercial to higher than the host's register.
