

FRENCH CONTINUE TO ADVANCE

Lord Robert Cecil Urges Sending of Aid to Czecho-Slovaks Enemy Rush Reserves to Army of Crown Prince

FRANCO-AMERICANS STILL ADVANCING

Throw Back Enemy Forces Between Fossoy and Reully, and Retake Ground Towards the Marne; 100,000 German Reserves Rushed to Scene

Paris, July 20.—The Germans have been forced to bring up 100,000 reserves to the army of the German Crown Prince as a result of yesterday's fighting and the French and Americans after fluctuations have been able to strongly fortify the newly gained positions southwest of Soissons, says Marcel Hutin in The Echo de Paris.

Paris, July 20.—French and American troops are continuing their advance between the Aisne and Marne, according to an official statement issued by the War Office today. South of the Marne the French have thrown back the enemy between Fossoy and Reully and have re-taken ground towards the Marne.

London, July 20.—What the Germans are going to do on the battle front from Rheims to the Marne to the Aisne is the question which occupies most of the military and educational commentators in the morning newspapers. While it is conceded that General Foch's brilliant counter-stroke has as deprived the Germans of initiative in the Rheims sector and has used them serious damage, it is universally assumed that the positions in that area cannot be stabilized without much further severe fighting.

Warning is given to remember how the German surprise attack at Cambrai was afterwards countered by the Germans.

On the other hand the view that the enemy cannot do much more between the Aisne and the Marne has its representatives and these look for the withdrawal of the Germans from south of the Marne to re-organize their line. A third speculation refers to the probability of the enemy striking a fresh violent blow in some other district and it is assumed generally that the attacks will fall on the British railway.

It is recognized everywhere that the Germans have power to concentrate strength that will tax the Allies to the utmost. Notwithstanding their reverse the Germans are believed to have at their disposal thirty divisions and unless these are beaten the situation of the Allies, must, it is contended, be one of suspense and anxiety affording no ground for over-optimism or excessive confidence.

Confirms Word of Death. Paris, July 20.—German aviators have dropped a note into American aviation camps confirming the death of Lieut. Quentin Roosevelt.

London, July 20.—British bombing squadrons again have invaded Germany and have gone beyond the Rhine. An announcement from the Air Ministry says that bombs were dropped on the railway station at Mannheim and the blast furnaces at Heidelberg on blast furnaces in the Saar district and on a powder factory at Oberdorf, the latter having been bombed yesterday.

Our bombing squadrons again were active during the night of July 18-19. At the Benz works at Mannheim, the railway station at Heidelberg and the blast furnaces at Thurbach and Wadsworth were attacked. At the Benz works a fire broke out.

A hostile aeroplane was attacked near the Benz works and a direct hit. Two engines were hit by bombs, brought to a standstill and then subjected to machine gunfire.

On July 19 the powder factory at Oberdorf in the Saar, south-west of Stuttgart, was attacked. Bombs were observed on the buildings on the factory. All our machines returned safely.

THE LENGTHY FRONT ALONG WHICH THE ALLIES COUNTER-ATTACK THE GERMANS. French and American troops have made an attack from the west on the enemy in the Soissons-Rheims salient between Pontigny and Bellou. Both of which places are shown on this map, which is used because of its geography and not because of the battle-line, which is not up-to-date. The Germans since Monday have advanced across the Marne almost as far as Conde and to a point four miles south east of Chailly. They also are well across to the east of Champlatt and Chaumauzy. The shaded area north west of Chateau Thierry is ground retaken by the French and Americans a month ago.

SEND AID TO CZECHO-SLOVAKS, ADVICE OF LORD ROBERT CECIL

London, July 20.—Lord Robert Cecil, who has just left the post of Minister of Blockade to become assistant Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, in an interview with the Associated Press, has urged the necessity of the Entente Allies sending aid to the Czecho-Slovak forces along the trans-Siberian railway. "The presence of Czecho-Slovak army in Russia at this time, I believe, one of the miracles of history," Lord Robert declared. "We have before one of the greatest campaigns of the world plunged into such an appalling state of disorganization that nothing like it is known in modern history—situation so unprecedented that the world seemed merely to stand against, so that there is absolutely no chance left to leave the lump and small hope remains of preventing the Russian people from being overwhelmed by a terrible series of economic disasters during the coming winter."

GOVERNMENT ACTS ON HOUSING PROBLEM

Makes Appropriation of $2,000,000 to Aid Municipalities to Build Workmen's Homes

Government action looking to the alleviation of the shortage of workmen's houses in the Province was announced by Sir William Howland yesterday afternoon. An appropriation of $2,000,000 has been set aside by the Provincial Government which will be available to both rural and urban municipalities at the interest rate of five per cent. Municipalities can at once avail themselves of the loan. It is understood that occurrence, having passed Sackrider's car just a moment before. He saw the cow, standing almost in the centre of the road, although chained to the fence. He had seen it on other occasions also, and believed its presence on the road to be dangerous. Sackrider at the time of the accident was not going faster than twenty miles an hour, the witness was positive.

Witness was not going very fast at the time. George Bennett, who was in the side car of Smith's machine, corroborated the latter's evidence, although he had not seen the accident until the automobile had overturned. The Crown attorney next called George Wallace, the owner of the cow, but the latter expressed a wish to be excused from giving evidence, which was granted.

After fifteen minutes' deliberation, the jury returned the following verdict: "That the deceased came to his death by the negligence of the owner of the cow in question, in having the same tethered too near the public highway."

Coroner Pissette summarily dispensed with the services of two jurymen who arrived a few minutes late.

Working men and women on easy terms of payment. (c) Where the house and land are rented, the monthly rental shall not exceed $25.

The building scheme of each municipality, including the plotting of the buildings on the land, the plans of the houses, the form of construction, the location of the land to be developed, shall be approved by the Government of Ontario.

The period of the loans above mentioned shall be for a term of twenty years, or for such less period as may be decided upon by the municipalities and the government.

The municipalities shall not charge against houses erected under proposed scheme more than 5 per cent, either in respect of the money received by way of loan from the government or money contributed by the municipality.

The Prime Minister said that the more investigation he made of the housing problem and the more convinced he became that it was the most important that appeared to him, and the more he realized the necessity for immediate action. Sir William promises that any legislation which may be necessary at the next session to legalize any proceedings of municipalities in connection with housing will be passed.

John Willison said further: "In so far as the present situation has been brought about by the war, it might well be considered a war problem, and that its solution, along with other war problems, rested with the Federal government. It has also been argued with much force that so far as it is not a war problem, it is largely, if not entirely, an industrial and national one, and that so far as public credit might be required to meet the situation, the responsibility rested with the Dominion Government. The Government of Ontario is strengthened by the position of the Minister of Finance has been called upon to take in controlling the bond flotation of Provincial Governments and municipalities."

"I pointed out when the committee, of which you are head, was formed, apart from whatever responsibility may rest upon the Federal Government, in my opinion the matter is largely a municipal one. The problem, however, is a most urgent one, and no time should be lost in a discussion as to where the primary responsibility rests. There should, in my opinion, be both a (Continued on page four)

YANKS ADVANCED UNDER HEAVY FIRE

Participated in the Advance on Front of Soissons--Chateau Thierry Yesterday; Move Well Organized and Faultlessly Executed

By Courier Leased Wire. With the American Army between Aisne and the Marne, Friday, July 19.—Night, by the Associated Press.—American troops participating in the Allied advance of about a mile and a quarter on the Soissons-Chateau Thierry front late today went forward against strong machine gun fire over ground covered with German dead.

From a hill east of Domniers, about six kilometers southwest of Soissons, the correspondent saw the Americans going into action. The advance was well organized, and the system worked well from one end of the line to the other. Under barrage fire from 75's and 55's, infantry and machine gunners advanced through ripening grainfields, trampled by the retreating Germans Thursday, and reached their objectives, according to schedule, despite the fire of the German machine guns. The bombardment of the big German guns was feeble at this point.

The Americans started from a point just west of the Paris-Soissons road, near the shell shattered village of Missy-aux-Bois, advancing nearly a kilometre before the Germans began to reply with their big guns to the Allies' barrage. Missy-aux-Bois lies in a valley and the Americans were advancing upgrade toward the east. A few tanks were here and there preceding the infantrymen. As the Americans progressed, the enemy barrage fire increased.

The hillsides east of Domniers, over which the Americans advanced, were dotted with dead. The entire region was well within the German lines until after the Franco-American offensive on Thursday. One quickly dug-up trench had been filled with German bodies. They were marked by the gunners who had been caught by the terrific fire of the Allied artillery. In many places the German dead were in piles, while a trench on the crest of a hill contained more than 100 dead.

U-BOAT SINKS U.S. CRUISER

Warship Torpedoed Fifty Miles Off New York by Hun Sub.

VISIT NO SURPRISE

New York, July 19.—German submarines appear to have renewed operations off the American coast. The United States armored cruiser San Diego was sunk north from the entrance of New York harbor today. Circumstantial reports reaching here indicate that she was torpedoed.

There were also reports to-night, though not confirmed, that other ships had been attacked, one being described as a coastwise passenger ship.

Whether there had been a toll of lives taken on the San Diego was not known at midnight. Two steamships which are proceeding to an unnamed port have aboard 1,156 officers and men. These are in addition to the one officer and 30 men previously reported killed. This leaves 217 of the 1,444 men aboard unaccounted for. The men are said to be in good condition and so far as known none was injured.

The San Diego was sunk at 11.30 a.m. about ten miles southeast of Fire Island light, which is off the Long Island shore, about 50 miles east of the entrance to New York harbor and on the marine highway of trans-Atlantic ships bound in and out of the port.

Although the Navy Department announced that the cause of the loss of the San Diego had not been determined, information received from reliable sources in the afternoon indicated that submarines had been operating off the coast and that she had been torpedoed. There were rumors that the cruiser had been in collision, also that she had struck a mine, but reports current where survivors landed on the Long Island shore bore out the indications that a German submarine had been responsible. Inhabitants of Bayshore and Babylon said that they heard gunfire and explosions at sea shortly before noon. The 320 officers and sailors came ashore in three boats between 5 and 7 p.m. at Point O'Woods, which is on a remote sand spit. They were held at a coastguard station where enquiries were barred.

Twenty-five minutes after the Franco-American advance began, the rattle of German machine guns could be heard in the distance, but it did not affect the Americans who only appeared more eager to progress.

The officers had to caution the men not to proceed beyond the barrage in accordance with the schedule. The German machine gun fire continued, but a short time and as the Americans could be seen steadily pressing forward, the rattle dwindled and finally stopped.

Missy-aux-Bois was deserted by the French presents before the Germans came, the village having been torn from east to west by shell fire in previous fighting. Not one wall or any stone building are standing. To the north and south of Missy-aux-Bois are two other deserted villages, one of which every building is in ruins. The fields in this section are covered with grain ready for the harvest. Many rusty tools and implements are standing just where they were left when the alarm came.

When darkness settled over the battlefield, the Americans still maintained their advance. The guns in the rear were pounding away, guarding them through the night.

SERIOUS COMPLAINT. Secretary Frank of the Water Commission stated this morning that serious deficit in the supply of water is being caused by people letting their lawn hoses run all night. If this practice does not stop immediately the water for lawns will be shut off entirely and a serious penalty inflicted.

FARMER BLAMED FOR THE DEATH OF W. SACKRIDER

Negligent in Tethering Cow Too Near Highway, Says the Coroner's Jury

ACTION MAY FOLLOW

Responsibility for the death of Wilford Sackrider, killed in a motor accident on the Paris road on Wednesday night, was placed by the coroner's jury yesterday afternoon upon George Wallace, farmer, the owner of the cow which was tethered near the road and to avoid which Sackrider made the fatal turn. Dr. Dunton of Paris and Mr. Fred Smith of this city both testified to having frequently seen a cow in the road at the spot in question and felt that its presence there constituted a danger to motorists. The evidence showed clearly that it was in an effort to avoid striking the animal that Sackrider lost his life, and an action against Wallace is likely to follow. In view of this, the latter was excused from giving evidence at the inquest.

Mrs. Sackrider, the widow of the deceased, was the first witness called. She was dressed in deep mourning, and wore a patch over her right eye, which had been burned in the accident. On Wednesday, she stated, she had gone to Paris with her husband, in their car. On the return journey the fatal accident occurred. A cow, tethered to a long chain, was standing in the road, and to avoid it Sackrider steered to the left hand side, with the result that the car slid into the ditch and overturned. The witness and her two-year-old child were pinned beneath the machine.

Sackrider was a munition worker employed by the Dominion Steel Products Company, but at the time of the accident was on his holidays. He had formerly worked in Paris, and was accustomed to driving his car on the Paris road.

Cow Often on Road? Dr. Dunton of Paris next took the stand. He had been called to the scene of the accident, and on his arrival had found the car propped up. Sackrider was dead, his chief injury having been a fractured skull. He could not understand how the woman and child had escaped with minor hurts. The road was in poor condition at the spot where the accident occurred. Witnesses had often seen a cow tethered there, he believed, that the animal belonged to Mr. Wallace, a farmer. From the position of the cow when he arrived, he believed, that it must have been going at 6000 speed.

Cow's Presence Dangerous. Fred Smith, of 258 Wellington street, a motorcycleist, witnessed the

What Society is doing

A Letter From Home.
What is it that we long for, when away across the foam?
What is it that reminds us of that little spot called home?
What is it keeps in memory all the dear ones left behind?
What is it keeps that picture ever bright before our mind?
A letter from home.

What is it that's so cheery in the dug-out's pale dime light,
When shells outside are falling, and Fritz "strates" with all his might?
What helps us to forget him as the weary hours go by,
And in some muggy corner in some comfort try to lie?
A letter from home.

What makes us think of Blighty, and the days before the war?
What makes us think of dear ones we are here fighting for,
And praying God to guard them till this cursed war shall cease,
Then meet again together, when the call shall sound for peace?
A letter from home.

DEVOTIONAL READING—Luke 11:9-13.
ADDITIONAL MATERIAL FOR TEACHERS—Psalms 145:1-4; Matthew 7:7-11; 11 Corinthians 12:8-10; James 4:3-4.
PRIMARY MEMORY VERSE—Jehovah is high unto all them that call upon him. —Psalms 145:3.
STORY MATERIAL—Matthew 14:28-31; Acts 12:12.
INTERMEDIATE, SENIOR AND ADULT TOPIC—Why and how to pray and the results.

Prayer ought to be a matter of great concern to every believer (Psalms 145:19).
Prayer is a matter but little understood by Christians; in fact, only as divine aid is given can we really pray. The range of prayer is from the depths of the soul to the very thoughts of God. There was something about the praying of Jesus that so impressed the disciples that they requested him to teach them to pray (Luke 11:1). We nowhere read of them asking him to teach them how to preach. Praying is more important than preaching. No one is fit to teach or preach who does not know how to pray. May each one enroll at once in the school of prayer with Christ as our teacher. He is a most willing and capable teacher. In response to the disciples' request he outlines the following principles of prayer:

I. The Right Relationship of the One Praying (Luke 11:2).
1. Filial—"Father."
In order to pray to God, the suppliant must be a child of God. God is a Father, and he bestows sons and daughters upon those who believe in his children. This relationship can only be entered into through regeneration. Not all men have a right to say, "Our Father," when addressing God. Only those who are children of God by faith in Jesus Christ can so address him. It is not only professing to be children but living like God's children. Children have rights and privileges which are denied to others.
2. Fraternal—"Our Father."
God has more than one child. His children are bound up together in nature and interests. Even in our secret prayer we should address him as "Our Father," which is a recognition of the interests of others, alongside of ours.

II. The Right Attitude in Prayer (Luke 11:3).
1. Reverent adoration.
As children we have certain privileges, and yet holy reverence becomes us. We should hallow his name; we should adore him as the eternal God.
2. Loyalty.
When praying to God we should come with the spirit of loyalty which cries out "Thy kingdom come."
3. Submission—"Thy will be done."
We should have no will of our own regarding the rule of God. We should let him direct us in all things.

III. The Right Spirit (Luke 11:3-8).
1. Dependence—"Give us our daily bread" (v. 3).
We should realize that not only what we have, but life itself is ours by grace of him, and that he is able to do for us exceedingly abundantly above all that we ask or think.
2. Faith—"Forgive us our debts" (v. 4).
We should come to him realizing that we have sinned, and cry unto him for forgiveness. Our hearts should be so filled with love for others that we will forgive those who sinned against us as God is willing to forgive us.
3. Boldness and Confidence—"Lead us not into temptation" (v. 4).
Because we are God's children and realizing the depravity of our nature, and the consequent tendency to practice that which displeases him, we should shrink from that which, if indulged in, would dishonor him.
4. Intercessory (vv. 5, 6).
The man who asks for bread did not ask for himself, but for a friend. Prayer which pleases God is unselfish in its requests.
5. Perseverance (vv. 7, 8).
Prayer which pleases God and gets results is importunate, perseveres until the object is achieved.
6. Encouragement to Pray (Luke 11:9-12).
1. God's promises (vv. 9, 10).
True prayer cannot fail of an answer, because God definitely promises that every one that asketh receiveth, he that seeketh findeth, and to him that knocketh it shall be opened.
2. The example of an earthly father (vv. 11-13).
No father will give a stone to his son who asketh for bread, or a serpent instead of a fish, nor a scorpion instead of an egg. God is infinitely more willing to answer the prayers of his children than earthly parents are to give good gifts to their children.
3. The True Goal of All Prayer (Luke 11:13).
God's gift is himself in the person of his Holy Spirit. All those who practice the principles which Jesus taught in this model prayer shall be blessed with the gift of the Holy Spirit, God's best gift to man.

NORFOLK NEWS

NEAR TRAGEDY AT SIMCOE CROSSING

Simcoe, July 20.—(From Our Own Correspondent).—Driving a Chevrolet touring car eastward at the "Townline" crossing yesterday at 2.30, Wm. Turvey of the Gore general store failed to notice the approach of a southbound trolley. He was caught on the starboard bow and the front of the auto was considerably smashed. The motorman brought his car to a standstill at the moment of impact. There were two children with Mr. Turvey in the auto.

The trolley was blowing the usual long whistle from the subway to the crossing, but the road east of this crossing is walled up so much with a hill on either side that Mr. Turvey did not hear the signal.

It is generally claimed that this is an exceedingly dangerous crossing for eastbound traffic. Mr. Turvey knows the trolley schedule well, but had doubtless forgotten at the moment. It is a good crossing to stop and listen at.

Since the roses came in bloom the local Courier scribe has been handed the following posies from a local Weekly; our acknowledgments follow:

June 13—A "bluffer." June 20—A "muddler." June 27—A "scribbler." July 4—Nothing doing; donor off celebrating.

July 11—Absent at the lake side. July 18—An "influenza" artist. Now, that the sweet peas are a-blow, we have hope for a continuation of the receipt of these office desk bouquets.

They drive away the noisy hum-drum of the daily round of duties, and it is really very pleasant to get them while one is still in the body.

We confess, however, a suspicion of inconsistency on the part of our dear friend, as we scan the list.

Odd Ends of News. A phone report received in Simcoe at noon yesterday told of an unknown man found somewhere about "Teeterville," demented and damaging garden vegetables by tearing them out of the ground. He had killed a woodchuck and was eating the flesh thereof raw. He was brought to town during the afternoon by a member of the county constabulary and committed to jail for 15 days as a vagrant, and was identified as David Robins, eldest son of the late Job Robins, of Windham. It is stated that he had been recently liberated from Woodstock jail.

The funeral of the late Minnie McInally of Hamilton took place yesterday morning, on the arrival of the mail train. The bearers were Isaac McInally, Edward McInally, John Osborne, Wm. Schuyler, Geo. Kellum and Alex. R. Dean. Rev. M. S. Fulton officiated. Burial took place at Oakwood. Deceased was a sister of John McInally of Simcoe, and Cameron McInally of Woodhouse.

Andrew Renew, an old man living with James Hazard, near Rockton, died on Thursday, after one day's illness.

William Newman died yesterday morning at his home on the Andrew Smith farm, Charlotteville, in his 53rd year, after a lingering illness from liver and heart trouble, and though the family were entertaining no hope of his recovery, he did come rather unexpectedly. Mrs. Delbert Howick of Victoria, is a daughter, and there are two sons, aged 19 and 23 left with the mother on the farm. The family came from England about five years ago. Unless some blight strikes the potatoes, Norfolk will have a bumper crop, and this county is not much troubled with blight, except in late crops. Everywhere the present outlook is splendid. The automobile West street crossing last week, has been turned over to the Ford garage here. An inspector for the company was in town a day or two after the accident, and it is quite probable that a settlement will be made with the owner without recourse to the courts.

Wants a Jury. The young man, Osborne, who was charged with stealing a dog chain and two martingales from a Tyrrel farmer, appears before Magistrate Gunton yesterday and pleaded not guilty, and elected to be tried by jury. He was defended by John Porter. The informant regarding the Frank Coates, his former employer in town.

Evidence went to show that the dog chain was found in a manger in the owner's stable. The martingales have not yet turned up. Leaving the court, the informant spoke disappointingly regarding the trend the case had taken.

A farmer sold potatoes from door to door on Wednesday at 50 cents a peck, which he said was quite enough for them. He told one lady that he thought lower prices would help in the war. The same man had good fresh dairy butter at 40 cents and fresh eggs at the same price.

Raspberries are firm at 20 to 25 cents per quart basket. Some of us have seen them sold in wooden pails 17 pounds net, at 35 cents a pail. The pick is splendid this year, but another rain would be of considerable advantage.

Mr. Marston's "Gore View" farm south of Waterloo, contains only about 20 acres, but there is probably not another 20 acres in the county so well husbanded to the last available square foot. And the return looks promising.

Press Photographs. Mrs. W. E. left today for a trip to Toronto and points east. The following are encoined at Fisher's Glen: From Hamilton—Mr. and Mrs. W. MARKETS

The following comment on the market situation as regards food stuffs appears in Canadian Grocer this week: Featuring the markets for the week are the announcements of new prices on jams, dried fruits and early canned fruits and vegetables. The general tendency is upward, jam prices showing a sharp upward trend to higher levels than had been expected, due, it is said, to the exceedingly high prices which had to be paid for fruits.

Prunes are higher, with reports pointing to the Government as being largely absorbed by this source. Choice peaches are also higher for the government and other grades offering to the trade show a fairly sharp advance. Apricots and seedless raisins opened about the same as last year while seed raisins will range at least 1c. up. Laid-down costs in Canada will be enhanced owing to the new schedule of packing charges which has increased freight rates and heavy rate of exchange.

Montreal—The markets are without any notable change, this is unusual this week. The new prune prices are out, and along with this announcement comes another indicator for the government and other States government has indicated its own wants.

The canned goods trade has kept remarkably active in view of the fact that the season is so well advanced. Tomatoes are running low and are not being offered at all by one jobber. Corn, too, is scarce. Peas, beans and lentils in fair supply, but it is thought that there will be less old pack to meet the new than in previous years.

Market Take Two. Price changes are few and are confined to some revisions on mill feeds, advances for strawberry jams, and a few other items. There has been also a firming tendency on figs in mats.

Demand is heavy for starches and is better than usually obtains for the summer season. The use of these is somewhat stimulated by the scarcity of other starches.

Coffee markets are firm and strong, as also are those of tea, with a strong likelihood of advancing prices being made, particularly for coffee. The reports concerning damage to the growing crop of coffee in the South are taken here with reserve until facts are available.

Interesting features of the week's markets are covered in the opening paragraphs of the summary in the references to jams and dried fruits.

The coffee situation continues one of extreme firmness, though the question of supplies locally appears to be better than in some instances. Reports are in and stocks generally are ample for the demand. Further reports of serious crop damage in Brazil continue to come along, although these are discounted in some quarters.

A better feeling in regard to teas is noticeable and a demand for the better grades seems to be springing up. Australian buying in the Java market is again in progress and has further strengthened the tone of tea from that source.

Peanuts are easier in Southern markets, and this may be reflected here in future shipments. There is every indication that the quantities of these will come along as required. Stocks of all nuts locally are fair, and manufacturing interests are fairly active. Orders placed to arrive are largely sold, and in view of this stocks on hand will be absorbed quickly enough.

Sugar continues rather a scarce commodity though no serious shortage is reported as yet. Some shipments are coming along, and the general feeling seems to be that supplies to carry over the preserving season will be available.

Winnipeg—The sugar situation here is looked upon as satisfactory. Both grades seem to be springing up, and the brokers indicate that the people are by no means starving for want of sugar.

Rolling oats is in great demand, in fact it is intimated the demand exceeds the supply. Millers have been pushing these hard as a substitute for wheat, and in view of the high price of the grain an advance would not come as any great surprise. The demand for wheat flour is normal. Stocks of feed are becoming light, and reports from country points indicate premiums are being paid to secure supplies. Barley is enjoying a heavy demand to offset scarcity of mill feeds.

New prices on dried fruits are higher than had been expected on prunes and peaches. Apricots will be somewhat lower. Greek currants are arriving in good volume. They are reported good quality and are selling much lower than Australian.

THE SITUATION. The Crown Prince, who started out with such confidence a few days ago to have Paris dangling at his belt, finds himself and his forces brought up with an exceedingly rude jolt. The brilliant counter-attack in which French and American troops participated has not only stopped the Hun advance, but also made them exceedingly anxious on their own account. More towns have been captured, Soissons may soon fall, 17,000 Germans have been taken prisoners, 360 cannon and vast supplies have fallen into the hands of the Allies and in many respects more important almost than anything else, the railway communications of the foe have become badly menaced. On all hands the master stroke is rightly acclaimed as still further illustration of the genius and the faculty of knowing when to strike, possessed by Generalissimo Poch. At the same time amid all the warranted rejoicing, the warning is issued by the military authorities that the foe, although taken completely by surprise, may be expected yet to make terrific endeavors for a come-back. Without any doubt that will prove to be the case, but the crisis can safely be regarded as passed. The Allies have demonstrated that the great world bully can be held at his ultimate finish in only a matter of time. The job in all likelihood is yet going to take a considerable period, but no one now doubts that it will be completely and effectively accomplished.

CLEARED THE AIR. By the majority decision of the Supreme Court the right of the government to cancel military exemptions by order in council has been established and the attempt to hold up Canadian effort has failed. It was from first to last a most unworthy effort with much more of legal technicality about it than patriotic purpose. As a matter of fact precedent has shown that the habeas corpus act can be superceded when the public welfare so demands. Thus during the last session of the Parliament of the Province of Canada in 1896, at the time of the Fenian Raid, a bill suspending the Habeas Corpus Act—29-30 Victoria, Chapter 1—was carried through both houses in time to admit of the Governor-General assenting to it before he retired from the delivery of his opening speech from the throne. The Habeas Corpus Act was again suspended by Act of the Dominion Parliament—33 Victoria, Chapter 1—and section 3 gives power to the Governor to suspend the Act. The following is a copy of this section: "The Governor-General may, by proclamation, and as and so often as he may see fit, suspend the operation of the Act, or within the period aforesaid, again declare the same to be in full force and effect, and upon any such proclamation, this Act shall be suspended or of full force and effect, as the case may be. It may be that in the present instance there will be an appeal to the Privy Council but such will be most inadvised. The net result is that the Dominion with regard to the furnishing of man power will continue to "carry on" and this is as it should be. In fact it is hard to imagine how any man with red blood in his veins can feel otherwise, and thank God the would-be slackers in this regard are in a very marked minority.

NOTES AND COMMENTS. The Hun is on the run. That baseball edict is well calculated to still further move Uncle Sam to do his part in an early completion of the war. The Ontario Government has come to the fore with a practical offer of help in connection with the housing problem, and the decision is one which does Premier Hebert and his colleagues infinite credit. Canada is very properly in this fight to a finish, habeas corpus or no habeas corpus. Diamond artists will have to help carry on in order to assist in the job of making Hun-hopes carrion. Rev. John W. Andrews, superannuated Methodist minister, died at his home in West Lorne. He was born in Belleville.

YANKES WENT OVER THE TOP WITH A YELL. Did Not Even Wait for the Usual Artillery Preparation. RUSH OVERCAME FOE. The Americans Co-Operated With French Forces in Launching Drive. TANKS IN FIGHTING. By Courier Leased Wire. London, July 20.—(Via Reuter's Ottawa Agency)—A dispatch from American headquarters dated last evening reads as follows: "A large number of American storming troops co-operated with the French this morning in a powerful offensive. A number of tanks participated in the rush. The Germans resisted very feebly. Here and there stubborn fighters were encountered, but they were quickly vanquished by the American bayonets. The Americans went over the top with a yell, not even waiting for the usual artillery preparation. "The enemy was surprised by the attack everywhere, an attack that was more successful particularly in the region of Soissons, where the first objective of the Allies was reached. "The whole operation turned out to be even more successful than had been looked for. The Germans were so completely surprised that officers were captured in the line, and one man was taken while cutting rye in the fields behind the front lines. "Heavy thunderstorms and violent rain last night enabled the storm troops to take up their positions unobserved, and may account for the enemy's lack of vigilance. Numerous prisoners were taken in the first hour. The French battalions advanced in a dashing fashion and crossed the River Savieres waist deep, singing. "The operation hitherto may be judged as a big diversion on the flank of the enemy's main operations. The enemy was taken by a view to arresting the German offensive towards Epornay, Montargis and Rheims. It is the first time since the 21st of March that the Allied command has taken the initiative on such a great scale. This is doubtless owing to the tactics of wearing the enemy down. "The whole of the German left flank is menaced. The enemy must bring up troops from the Marne front, or leave them in danger. "The Americans are trained to the last notch and behaved like veterans. There was the least hesitation in the Infantry and the artillery. Light and heavy guns were moved up swiftly, and the retreating enemy forces were literally deluged with shells. "The reserves and tanks did all that was expected of them. They proceeded or accompanied the Infantry, clearing many places that escaped the artillery. Hastily organized enemy counter attacks here and there were all broken up before they could be put into effect. The fighting will likely become heavier as the German reserves arrive. "After passing the morning's objectives the Americans and British launched a second attack at noon and swept on so fast that the cavalry was thrown in later in the afternoon. "All headquarters to-night are well inside the territory that was captured in the morning. "The Americans south of Soissons until now counted 2,500 prisoners and 60 guns. They also captured an immense amount of material, including a number of airplanes which the enemy were unable to remove. Many prisoners have not been counted. The Americans north of Chateau Thierry captured more prisoners and an equal amount of material. The attack has progressed so far that the enemy in the vicinity of Chateau Thierry is in a risky position. "The American troops are greatly elated and received warm thanks from the French command. The Infantry, clearing many places that escaped the artillery, even more dashingly in its nature than the morning onslaught. Only here and there did badly frightened German attempts to make a stand and the Americans rushed these with revolvers, rifles and bayonets. "The great importance of today's successes became clearer hourly. On the left wing our troops have captured the high plateau overlooking Soissons from the southwest, and have cut, or have under fire, the Soissons-Thierry highway, which is the main feeder to the enemy front on the Chateau Thierry sector. "The Soissons-Villers-Cotterets railway has also been cut. "Several infiltration movements were effected by the cavalry riding through the gaps of the enemy's retreating lines and establishing themselves in villages further ahead. The haul of men and guns is the largest made by the Allies in one day since the battle of Malmesdon last October."

PARIS Y.W.C.A. GARDEN PARTY. Held at Home of Mrs. Dunn, And Attended by a Large Gathering. OTHER NEWS OF PARIS. Mrs. E. R. Sayles, Baptist Church Worker, Called by Death.

PARIS, July 20.—(From Our Own Correspondent)—The Y. W. C. A. garden party held last evening on the beautiful grounds of Mrs. Dunn, last night was a decided success in every way. About 8 o'clock the Dufferin Rifles Band of Brantford arrived and gave several selections on the way to the grounds and then they were in charge of a capital musical program was rendered. The famous Maple Leaf Quartette of Galt, who are so well known here, assisted with the program, all their numbers being received. The grounds and booths were prettily decorated with flags of the Allies and bunting. The various booths and tables were liberally patronized and Mrs. Dunn was in charge of the refreshments. A number of friends kindly placed their autos at the disposal of the ladies in conveying the passengers to the grounds and their numbers were appreciated. The whole proceedings were a success from start to finish, the sum of nearly $240 being realized. We might mention that Mrs. Dunn's kind friends arranged for the Maple Leaf Quartette, while Mayor Robinson kindly furnished the Dufferin Rifles Band. The thanks of the executive are due to Mrs. Dunn for the kind use of her grounds and for the large number of citizens in town and vicinity that the death was so much appreciated. Mrs. Elizabeth Burgess, who passed away at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. Burgess, at Drumbo early this morning. The late Mrs. Sayles was of the late Elder Pickle. After her marriage they settled just north of Paris Station on the Sayles homestead, where they remained for over 40 years. In 1889 they moved to Paris and resided on the corner of Capron and Jane streets, where her husband passed away some 22 years ago. The late Mrs. Sayles was a member of the Baptist Church and took an active part in all its branches. There is left to mourn a family of eight children, Nicholas, of Blue Lake, Soisson, of Brantford Township; Frank in Nevada, Jacob, of Denver, Col.; Thomas, of Key Lane; Arthur, of Paris Junction; Mrs. John Houghton, of Ontario; and Mrs. Burgess, of Drumbo. The late Mrs. John A. Smoke was also a daughter. The funeral will take place to-morrow afternoon from the residence of her son, Thomas, to the Paris Station. A quiet wedding took place at St. James' Rectory this afternoon, when Rev. R. J. Seton-Adamson united in marriage, Miss Rosa Mary McDonald, to Mr. Thomas William McDonald. After the ceremony they left for the States and upon their return will reside on Elm street. About 10 o'clock this morning a fire was discovered in the picker room and dye house in connection with the Winsey mill. The new auto truck made a quick run in response to the alarm and within a few minutes two lines of hose were laid. The water pressure was good and enabled the men to throw two heavy streams into the interior of the building, where the fire was, and soon had the same extinguished. Spontaneous combustion is thought to be the cause of the outbreak. The firemen did good service. A hundred new books arrived in town this week for the public library, and are being placed on the shelves. Gilbert Howard, who was arrested in Toronto, has been brought back to town by Constable Stewart. He was charged with the possession of a named Sydney Lee for the theft of a watch and other articles from the boarding house of Mrs. Pettigrew. Howard's home is at Simcoe, and although only 15 years old, has been in trouble before. Lee has not yet been captured. Lieut. Dermot Evans of the 52nd battalion, Canadian Infantry, son of R. D. Evans, Brandon, Man., has been invalided home from France.

GOVERNMENT. (Continued from Page 1.) operation and action by all parties concerned. I recognize that the task before your committee is a difficult one, and that you will no doubt require considerable time for thought and consideration before making your final report. I feel, however, that in the meantime the matter should be taken up energetically by every municipality where the situation is such that it is necessary to take up the matter in its deliberations. I think it well to point out that the Government is prepared to introduce in the next session of the Legislature and urge the passage of legislation authorizing municipalities to enter into the housing business in such manner and upon such conditions as may be deemed advisable. "As far as I can learn the great difficulty of the moment is the lack of money for building purposes, on terms that will permit of the construction of houses that could be sold or rented at rates that workmen can afford to pay in order to help in the situation the Government is willing to supply municipalities with money for the construction of workmen's houses, up to the first of January, 1920. "The Government will introduce at the next session of the Legislature whatever legislation may be necessary to carry the scheme herein suggested into effect, and to ratify any by-laws or proceedings properly taken by municipalities in the meantime, with a view to taking advantage of the proposed scheme. "I want it clearly understood that the plan I have suggested is only intended as a temporary one, to assist in meeting the pressing emergency with which we are confronted, and must not be considered as an admission of responsibility on the part of the Province, or in any way relieving the Federal Government, municipalities, employers of labor, and citizens generally, from whatever obligations may rest upon them to provide a satisfactory solution of the whole question. The object of the Government is to lend some assistance, regardless of where responsibility rests, with the hope of stimulating effort on the part of all parties concerned. Houses for Farm Laborers. "There is one phase of the housing situation that has not been specially brought to the attention of the public that nevertheless is important and demands consideration, namely: houses for farm laborers. The offer suggested would extend to rural as well as urban municipalities, and the Government will be glad to give consideration to any suggestion your committee may see fit to make for further or other assistance of the Government to stimulate the erection of proper homes for farm labor, either on the farms or in suitably located communities. "In discussing the Government announcement with the papers yesterday, Sir John Willison said that since the appointment of the Housing Committee its attention had been given almost solely to solving the financial problem. Conferences were held with the Prime Minister from time to time to consider the problem, with the result of yesterday's announcement. In answer to circulars sent out to municipalities, the committee had been informed that the housing problem is acute (in addition to Toronto) in: Spult St. Marie, Galt, Galt, Brantford, Welland, Sarnia, the border cities, Midland, Hawkesbury, Paris and Sudburr. Yesterday the City Clerk of Welland advised that 600 houses were needed in that city to provide proper and adequate accommodation. In many other places the housing situation could be said to be serious. Sir John said on the committee will consider the housing problem from every side, but Sir John expects the report will be completed before the next session of the Legislature so that the Government can pass necessary legislation. Sir John believes that the municipalities will take readily to the scheme. Sir John believes that under the Government plan private firms may secure part of the loan providing they are endorsed by the municipality. Special Committee Formed. "The Government's announcement follows closely upon the formation of the special committee. About six weeks ago a deputation representing the Toronto branch of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, the Board of Trade and the Trades and Labor Council approached the Government and asked that some action be taken. The committee which is dealing with the whole problem is composed of Sir John Willison, C. Frank Beer, Rev. Peter Bryce, E. J. B. Dineen, Ald. Joseph Gibbons, M. J. Haney, H. C. F. Jones, Capt. E. H. Moran, H. McKnight, Thomas Roden, H. C. Scholfield, H. H. Williams and Prof.

Margaret Garrett's Husband. By JANE PHELPS. "I'd like to have some people in for the evening soon, Bob. Some night when you surely will be at home." "What—you said?" he asked. He hadn't been listening. "I said that I would like a few people in for the evening some night soon when you will be at home." "Up—yes all right," he said his mouth full of hot muffs; his eyes of amusement. "Just Cotton people." "Who would you have?" he asked and pleased at even a slight show of interest, I replied. "The Indians, of course. Mrs. Farnsworth and that niece, Mr. Lansing, Mr. and Mrs. Bolton. You know I went there to tea and—well I hadn't thought of it before, but we might ask John Kendall and his cousin." "Suff yourself, but I thought you didn't like John. You told me once that he spoiled everything for you." "I have exercised a woman's privilege, and changed my mind. But I never know him really. He was so nice the other night I have been mistaken in him." "No more than you have been in all my friends," he replied with all the old bitterness. "I thought best to make no reply, but asked him to name a night when it would be convenient for him so I could send out my invitations." "Make it next Wednesday, and don't make a formal affair of it. I know you'll give them something good to eat, you always do. But don't try to amuse them in any way

"He had thought me incapable of engineering anything which would interest people like John Kendall and some Wells I was sure he had them in mind when he spoke, as he well knew the others—save Mrs. Farnsworth possibly—were simple people, and so easily entertained. "Some day I'll prove to you that I can do things," I muttered as I watched him swing down the street. "That is, if you'll let me," I added, as I thought how frail was the tenure I had upon him. "Wednesday was Nellie's day out, so I sought her at once. "I am giving a little company Wednesday night Nellie, and shall need you to wait. Will you go out on Tuesday instead?" "Of course, Mrs. Garrett. And if you'll pardon my saying so, I'd be willing to give up going out altogether to help you have company. It's good for you to be alone so much. "Thank you Nellie, but you can go Tuesday perfectly well." "I was very fortunate in my help. Nellie, the nurse and waitress was an exceptional girl, fairly well educated. Della too was absolutely devoted to the children. But both of them simply worshipped Bob. Just why, I never could explain, save that he always spoke kindly to them. But I was seldom with them yet I realized they cared much more for Bob than for me. I was unfortunate in that people did not care for me—even the servants, I thought bitterly. Monday—in the Depths.

Was Stroke by Which Foch Transformed Battle Positions

By Courier Leased Wire London, July 20.—(Via Reuter's Ottawa Agency)—The stroke with which General Foch transformed the battle position is welcomed by the newspapers as equally surprising and brilliant in its results. It is perhaps the most cheering news the Allies have received since 1914.

Even the most optimistic, over the extent of the German defeat east of Rheims, were hardly prepared for the dramatic speed with which Foch's strategy developed. Experts compare it to the battle of the Ourcq in 1914, when Manoury prepared the way for the great victory of the Marne. None of the previous brilliant episodes of the war have given such solid ground for confidence as this double operation of defense under attack. Nevertheless warning is uttered against any over sanguine anticipation. The outpointed enemy will certainly resist violently against the menace of his whole position on the Marne, and General Foch, now that he has reached the enemy communication may contest and hold the territory without attempting to push the advantage further.

Rue Railways Blocked Paris, July 20.—(Havas Agency)—Reviews of the fighting in the Allied counter offensive, printed by the Paris papers to-day, lay stress on the interference with the enemy's railway communications, occasioned by the speedy allied advance.

"Our progress southwest of Soissons," says The Echo de Paris "prevented the enemy from bringing in to action his reserves over the railways in the vicinity of Laon, near Chateau Thierry, around Rheims and along the Aisne. He expected to secure results from the use of these reserves."

In reviewing action between the Aisne and the Marne, The Petit Journal says:

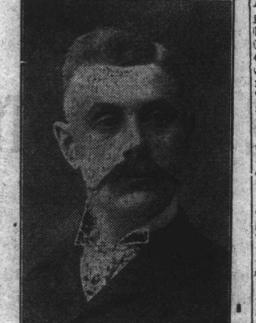

"An advance was realized on the entire 45 kilometre front of the attack of between five and ten kilometres. Between the Aisne and the Ourcq the advance of three kilometres by General Mangin's army, reported in yesterday's official statement was completed within one hour."

"South of the Ourcq, the attack was launched at 5.30 o'clock by the troops of Generals De Goutts and Stern. After desperate fighting, in which the Americans on our right acquitted themselves gloriously, our front was advanced between three

IS APPOINTED TO BOARD OF REVIEW

Capt. Dr. C. C. Fissette Will Sit on Board of Examination

The Toronto Military District now has four Medical Boards of Review. Announcement was made last evening of the appointments to the fourth board. They are: Lieut.-Col. Henry Bascom, Oshawa, President; Capt. C. C. Fissette, Brantford, and Capt. R. J. Gibson, Sault Ste. Marie. This new board will sit for the present in Toronto along with the first board appointed. The third board, which was appointed in June, will shortly be transferred to Hamilton. The second board to be appointed was a travelling board, and it will be recalled to Toronto almost immediately, but will shortly leave on a new itinerary. The Medical Boards of Review which have been sitting at the armories have been swamped with work, and the new board will help to expedite the re-examinations of men ordered by the Registrar's Department. Dr. Fissette has served for year in command of a large hospital district in England.

TABLES TURNED BY FOCH'S STROKE

London, July 19.—The initiative in the Champagne is now in the hands of the French. The tables have been completely turned by General Foch's brilliant stroke and the whole German situation between Soissons and Rheims is endangered. The Germans, it is contended, will have to fight hard to stave off a rout and to extricate themselves. This means that the Entente Allies definitely have settled with the Crown Prince and have completely neutralized his group of armies. It is stated that he will have all he can do to extricate himself from his present position. In the past week the Germans have used more than thirty divisions, of which number 23 were from the general reserve. The us-

WOODSTOCK BEATEN IN FARCE GAME

Semi-Pro's Walked Away With Last Night's Encounter 16-7

FIELDING WAS POOR

The semi-pros' encounter with Woodstock last night, which started off with every indication of being a fairly good ball game, developed into a travesty when the locals shoved five runs across the plate in the six inning, and added two more in the seventh, taking the game by the score of 16-7.

Harvey Muir was in the box for the winners, and while not equal to Downes of London who twirled a week ago, he had little difficulty in holding the visitors throughout. Only in the seventh did they threaten seriously, when four men crossed the plate. Mitchell and McKelvey also starred for the home team, the former driving out two two-base hits and a brace of singles, while the latter lifted one over centre field fence, notched a safe single and pulled off a sensational running catch in centre field, in addition to purloining two sacks. Jimmy Bradley was also in the fore with three clean hits and a nice catch of Small's foul to his credit. Meadows, in left field, forced the visitors, came through with four bingles.

After Woodstock had scored once in the first, on Meadows' single and Burke's error, the locals came back with four. Orcutt walked, Bradley hit safely and Burke drove out one which Vince grabbed but could not handle. Mitchell followed with a smashing two-bagger, and McKelvey cleared the sacks with a circuit clout over centre field fence. Woodstock added another in the third, when Meadows again singled, was advanced by Rowe, and scored when Sears let a throw get away from him at first. Brantford promptly replied to the bet, Mitchell uncorking a second two-bagger, and McKelvey and Kaufman each coming through with a clean single. Another was added in the fourth, when Orcutt got a life on Dingwell's error and scored on Burke's infield out, after Bradley had singled. Pullen, for Woodstock, crossed the plate on Meadows' third hit, in the fifth inning. Brantford, in their half, again showed two across, and, just to prove their superiority, five more in the sixth, when Orcutt, Bradley, Burke and Mitchell hit safely in succession and Bryce and Dingwell aided by contributing a misplay each.

Woodstock came back in the 7th, and made a desperate bid to even the score, driving in four runs. Orcutt and Mitchell booted grounders by Vance and Pullen respectively, and then the visitors opened up their heavy artillery. Rowe inaugurating the barrage with a single, Bryce following with a double, and Dingwell adding another single. For the remainder of the game, the visitors were powerless. Bryce replaced Vance in the box in the eighth, and disposed of Brantford one, two, three in the eighth, aided by the co-operation of his team-mates, but the game was as good as over then. ## FIRST BATTALION CRICKETERS WON

Defeated Second Battalion, C.O.R., at Niagara by 26 Runs

Niagara Camp. The first game of the new Camp Cricket League took place on Tuesday and Wednesday nights, between the 1st Battalion 2nd C.O.R. and the 2nd Battalion 2nd C.O.R. of Brantford on the 1st Battalion 2nd C.O.R. pitch, resulting in a win for the 1st Battalion C.O.R. by 26 runs, after a most astonishing finish.

The 1st Battalion 2nd C.O.R. batting first on Tuesday night totalled 132, chiefly on account of the good batting of Sergt. Brozek, who going in fourth wicket down, stayed until the last and made 85, in which he made one 4 and fifteen 3's. S. M. Davis took 7 wickets for 48 runs, and Q.M.S. Winyard took 3 for 50.

The 2nd Battalion C.O.R. opened their innings on Tuesday night with three-quarters of an hour left for play. With the score at 14 Sergt. Roberts was clean bowled by Corp. Skitt, after having made 5. Sergt. Stokes and S.M. Davis then played out time and by careful and steady cricket had made 54 between them before stumps were pulled.

Continuing on Wednesday with the score at 54 for 1 wicket, things looked very rosy for the Brantford boys, but, oh! the beautiful uncertainty of cricket. Sergt. Stokes and S.M. Davis continued to play excellent cricket, and the score stood at 86, when Sergt. Stokes was bowled by Pte. Edwards for a very well played 48, in which not a semblance of a chance was given. The ruck then commenced and no one could do anything against Pte. Edwards and the whole side was dismissed for a total of 106. Pte. Edwards taking 7 wickets for 48 runs, Corp. Skitt 2 wickets for 32 runs, and Sergt. Major Brown 1 for 12 runs.

This is the first defeat the Brantford boys have suffered and we hope the last. The score: 1st Battalion 2nd C.O.R. 132, 2nd Battalion 2nd C.O.R. 106. Capt. Church, c and b Winyard 2; Sergt. Mellor, c Franklin, b Davis 4; Corp. Skitt, b Winyard 4; Pte. Edwards, b Stokes, c Davis 7; Col. Belson, c Dunn, b Winyard 3; Sergt. Brozek, c Allen, b Davis 68; Capt. Wiley, b Davis 5.

accepted as the national sport and is for many workers and business men the only opportunity for outdoor relaxation and enjoyment was treated as a serious one. But the secretary declared times were not normal, and that other means of recreation could be found and that: "The non-productive employment of able-bodied persons, useful in the national defence, either as military men or in the industry and commerce of our country cannot be justified."

No statement was forthcoming as to just what steps will be taken to meet Mr. Baker's view that the scope of the work-or-fight regulation should be enlarged.

Washington, July 20.—Professional baseball players of draft age must work or fight immediately, and the draft regulations may be changed soon to include theatrical performers and moving picture players and employes among those who seek new jobs or face induction in the army.

Secretary Baker settled the question, so far as baseball is concerned, yesterday, in an unqualified decision, holding the same a non-productive occupation, and saying, so far from amending the regulation to exempt ball players, he believed the scope of its provisions should be so enlarged as to include other classes of persons whose professional occupation is solely that of entertaining.

Legitimate theatrical performers were specifically exempted in the original work-or-fight order of Provost Marshal General Crowder, and a recent ruling placed in this class actors and skilled men employed in producing moving pictures.

Ainsmith Appeal. The secretary's decision was given on an appeal in the case of Edward Ainsmith, veteran catcher of the Washington Americans, whose deferred classification on account of a dependent wife and child recently was revoked by a local draft board.

All arguments against the ruling and in favor of a suggestion that the regulation should be modified in favor of the national sport were swept aside by Mr. Baker. He held that baseball as a business does not differ from other civilian peace time industries which must make sacrifices in the stress of war, and, moreover, that it is by no means certain that so many players are of draft age that the organization will be disrupted.

As to the claim that baseball players having devoted themselves to the game are not fitted to adequately support their families by labor in other lines, he said, it is quite inconceivable in view of the fact that ball players are men of unusual physical ability, dexterity and alertness.

The point that baseball has been which Mr. Balfour was the chief speaker, the scheme was warmly endorsed and a committee was appointed to raise funds to further the campaign.

After dealing with various objections, especially the contention that the scheme would lower university study, give it an almost sordid aspect and have a narrowing effect, Mr. Balfour said the course of study proposed would widen the view of those engaged in commerce. Some persons seem to think that the infinite activities of the commercial and industrial world are beneath the notice of highly educated and intelligent men. A more profound mistake does not exist.

The Foreign Secretary declared there are few subjects having so many aspects of interest. The making, transporting and marketing of goods and the financing of their distribution form a subject so profoundly complicated that a man not needing to earn a living and having no idea of gain might well devote himself from a purely scientific viewpoint to this great study. Commerce touches the science of social organization, diplomacy and the relations in every aspect.

"How can such a study have a narrowing effect?" Mr. Balfour asked in conclusion. "The university will do a great work if it can carry out such a scheme."

SIDELIGHTS OF THE STAGE AND SCREEN

"LOVE'S CONQUEST"
 Mrs. Lina Cavallieri, one of the reigning queens of the operatic stage and widely known as "the most beautiful woman in Europe," will be the much envied possessor of an array of jewels, which few women possess. It is said that these jewels approximate $1,000,000 in value and consist of pearls, diamonds, rubies and other precious stones in vast variety. Most of these gems will be worn by her in her portrayal of the Duchess Gismonda in "Love's Conquest," which will be shown at the Brant theatre next Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

The beauty and talent of Mrs. Cavallieri, which added to her fame as diva, are employed to the finest advantage in this superb photo production. She is seen as Gismonda, an Athenian Duchess, masterful and beautiful, for whose hand and riches the neighboring nobles are vying. She spurns all offers of marriage and devotes herself wholly to affairs of state and the care of her four year old son.

When through the trickery of Prince Zaccaria, one of her suitors, this child supposedly falls into a well, where a lion is confined, the grief-stricken mother, vowing under the shadow of a curse to marry the man who saves her child. She renounces her vow when a simple huntsman of plebeian birth rescues and returns the boy to his mother's trouble ensues. How this simple huntsman finally wins her love for him and publicly espouses him, is told in a series of highly dramatic situations, filled with thrills.

Mrs. Cavallieri is splendidly supported by capable players, his visits being Courtenay Foot, who has been seen as Almerio, the plain hunter, day. William Duncan, the director and star of "A Fight for Millions," has been given the title of the strong man of the screen, principally because of the extraordinary feats of strength which he displays in his work. There is another and a real reason however, for his being given this title. Before he went on the stage, Duncan was a n athlete, and his prodigious strength is revealed in his extraordinary physical endurance.

"THE MAD LOVER"
 The success of Robert Warwick, considered as one of the two most popular dramatic actors on the screen, has been nothing short of marvelous. He was brought into motion pictures as the star in "The Dollar Mark," by William A. Brady, and since that time has made successive hits in "The Man of the Hour," "Alias Jimmy Valentine," and numerous other productions.

His latest is "The Mad Lover," written and produced by Leonie Perrett, Europe's most famous director, which will be shown at the Rex Theatre on Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Supporting Mr. Warwick is a company headed by the beautiful and gifted Elaine Hammerstein, whose work in "The Artful Case," another of Warwick's triumphs, made her one of the most appealing actresses before the American public.

"The Mad Lover" is aptly described as the romance of a modern Othello, the principal characters, that

MUSIC in the Home

MUSIC WON AN ELECTION.

A mayor in one of the largest cities in the United States told the other day that music won an election for him. He said: "When my first election took place our city was very equally divided between the different parties, and at my first election I was almost not elected. There were so few votes that we didn't know for some time—and I am not quite certain yet. But the next time I came along, and in an equally divided town, I carried the town by fifteen thousand majority. And I think no little was done in that majority by the people who loved music and heard our symphonies and attended our band concerts and our open air concerts, and our community sings, and because that was what was being done for their entertainment, amusement, instruction and uplift."

CHILDREN SHOULD BE TAUGHT TO STUDY SERIOUSLY.

It is necessary for children to be serious in their musical studies. It is of no use to teach a child to make his fingers flexible enough to play for uncle and aunt and to please the guests of the house; this only caters to youthful vanity and lessons appreciation of great achievements. Children should be taught music to broaden their views, to enlarge their sympathies, to add to their emotional expressions, to increase their capacity for joy, to make their souls warm and tender.

you that counts. In other words don't seek to ornament children's minds with a musical decoration, but seek to enlarge their spirits with the wealth of beauty that music can bring to them. But let them strive for it themselves.

WAR PRISONERS AND MUSIC.
 Prisoners of war must have something to do, some activity to take up their time and employ their energies. The one thing to which they react, the one thing where the language question does not enter, is music. In these camps are gathered together men of many races, every rank of life, every degree of education, and speaking all the tongues of the civilized world. The one thing in which they should be urged to get together in common fellowship and gain mutual comfort is music.

AMATEURS SHOULD BE ENCOURAGED.

With every pupil you should determine the purpose of study. A course of study may need to be modified by this. A student that aims for high musicianship coupled with a desire to enter the profession, should receive different treatment from one who only wishes to use music as an accomplishment. The professional aspirant should take up every sort of study, and should, for future use, be made familiar with various standard etudes. Although this is also the best training give an earnest amateur student, yet many of them do not desire it, and the attempt of many teachers to force it upon them is not always advisable. The amateur should be urged to do his or her work thoroughly, however, but there are even cases where this will not work, but only result in losing your pupil. The contention made by many that they love art and wish to make themselves familiar with its fundamental principles, and be able to practice it in a humble way for their own pleasure, and sometimes that of their more intimate friends, is a thoroughly laudable one. The answer made to this by many teachers that in these days reverses often come with great suddenness, and that ever "it should do his or her work with sufficient thoroughness to be able to fall back on it as a means of livelihood in case of necessity, is also perfectly true, but no teacher can dictate to any pupil what shall be his conduct. Getting ready for future emergency rests entirely with the pupil. Hence amateur study from its own standpoint deserves every encouragement and consideration as regards outline of instruction and work.

VALUE OF MEMORIZING.
 If the student finds memorizing difficult, he should add another half or full hour to his practice time, to be spent in this branch of his work. Added to all this task of establishing a repertory, the musician must keep himself on a plane of general culture equal to that of members of any profession. This requirement on the part of the musician makes of the task of music study the most exacting, the most difficult of all branches of professional culture, for with the requirements of the mastery of the Science of Music, there is the stupendous task of mastering the technical difficulties of practical musical art, with the absolute requirement of many hours of daily practice.

THE SINGER AND HIS AUDIENCE.

When a master singer, with an accompanist at the piano who sees eye to eye with both the singer and the composers, and makers of the songs has arranged a suite of programmes of carefully adjusted and arranged master pieces, and the room has been filled, and the first chord rings its invitation, then hope springs in the heart that for one brief hour life is going to seem worth while.

"A FIGHT FOR MILLIONS"
 A Fight for Millions, the big Vitagraph aerial photoplay, which has been booked by Manager Moulde of the Rex theatre to start on July 25-26-27, calls attention to a trio of very remarkable men. One is a business man, the second is an author and the third is an actor.

Albert E. Smith, the president of the Vitagraph company, and Cyrus Townsend Brady are the authors of the forthcoming fifteen episode thriller and William Duncan, one time physical culture expert, wrestler and all-round athlete, is the star.

Mr. Smith's chief business is the management of the Vitagraph company, the pioneer film organization of this country, and in this capacity he attends to the production of millions of feet of film weekly, engages all the players, buys new plays, looks at thousands of feet of completed film weekly and does a score of other things, details of the gigantic business which has grown up under his supervision. Mr. Smith, however, is a man of remarkable versatility, and in his younger days was on the stage.

Cyrus Townsend Brady started out to be an officer of the United States Navy and was graduated from Annapolis in 1883. Subsequently he engaged in railroad work and finally became an Episcopalian clergyman. He was chaplain of the First Pennsylvania Volunteers in the Spanish-American war, and many of his writings have to do with the military and naval history of the United States. He is probably one of the best known of American authors to of a virile, young American who prefers the outdoor life on his country estate to that of the clamor of the city, who killed his wife in a fit of jealousy, is portrayed by Mr. Warwick.

Miss Hammerstein plays the role of the wife who is neglected by her husband. Always a forceful actor of exceptional ability, Warwick's pictures have always been looked upon as the best, but in "The Mad Lover" he outdoes all of his previous efforts and is seen to a better advantage than ever before.

The story is presented in such a way and contains so many thrilling situations that it has proven one of the highest drawing cards of the season. It is of a wealthy young bachelor who marries a beautiful girl, whom he meets by accident.

After the marriage, the husband turns to his own habits of hunting and leaves his bride alone, a fact which causes her considerable unhappiness. They continue to grow farther apart and the coldness between them increases, when an aunt of the bride arrives and noticing their condition, invites a number of friends, in an effort to cheer up her niece. While the company is there, a performance of "Othello" for a charity fund is given. One of the guests falling in love with his hostess (Desdemona) arouses the jealousy of her husband, who is playing the part of Othello, who, when the opportunity arrives, wreaks vengeance on her by slaying her.

"THE TENDERFOOT"

With Alfred Henry Lewis to furnish the story and William Duncan to direct the scenes, the leading character in "The Tenderfoot," a Vitagraph five-part Blue Ribbon Feature, is to be seen at the Rex Theatre Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. The time of the picture is in the early '80's, before the women of this land had dared to hint to themselves that they would one day wear skirts that come only to their boot tops or cherished such an immodest idea as halting one of their sex riding astride. The costumes of the women in the cast are consequently quite amusing, especially when worn in a western settlement and setting as this is, such a marked contrast to the wardrobe of the modern cowgirl. All these details of production have been well arranged by the director, and the queer assortment of types to be found in a Lewis' story are adequately portrayed.

"The Tenderfoot," as the name implies, is a gent from the east whose arrival in Wolfville is a source of great mirth to the inhabitants of that free and easy burg. The object of this hilarity has come west to live down the pain in his heart caused by the cruel maiden born in the shadow of Bunker Hill. "The Tenderfoot" doesn't amount to much until his lady love reaches Wolfville and cold shoulders him again. He then fills up on firewater, whips the toughest man in town and becomes a regular fellow. The eastern maiden tries her smiles on an Indian brave and finds that the redskin claims that her actions have made her his square. The man with the pain in his heart saves her from an awkward notion by fighting and killing the Indian and trying off his companions. But with his chance of character has come wisdom and he does not marry the lady from the east. A no-nonsense take-a-good-bath-when-you-can-get-him western girl turns the trick.

William Duncan in his dual role of director and actor displays his usual efficiency, and Carol Hollaway is particularly well played by Florence Dwyer, Joe Ryan, Walter L. Rodgers, Charles Wiselock, Hattie Dusik and Fred Forrester.

WILLIAM S. HART in "Shark Monroe" AT THE BRANT MONDAY, TUESDAY, WEDNESDAY.

"SHARK MONROE"

In William S. Hart's new photoplay, "Shark Monroe," an Arctarctic picture directed by himself under the supervision of Thomas H. Ince, and written by C. Gardner Sullivan, there are some remarkable story scenes. Mr. Hart plays the part of "Shark" Monroe, a hard man of the sea, and in a wonderfully realistic storm scene he works his way out to the end of the bowsprit and a rescued young man from death. Heavy waves beat over them but Monroe clings on grimly, and finally brings the unconscious man back to safety. This is only one detail of many which makes this photoplay a most remarkable production. The story deals with a young woman and her dissipated brother, who had themselves penniless in Seattle, when on their way to the far north, and in response to her plea for passage, Monroe takes them on board his sealing schooner, "The Gull," and they proceed northward. The beauty and purity of the girl stir the latent love in Monroe's heart and when she saves him with a rope's end, one day after he had snuffed her brother for refusing to perform his duty, he recognizes in her the mate chosen for him by an angel. He follows the pair to the frozen north and rescues the girl from the clutches of a fratfler in women and ultimately wins her love.

In "Shark Monroe" which is to be displayed at the Brant Theatre next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, Mr. Hart evidences his directorial ability in the highest degree. He is admirably supported by excellent screen players, chief among them being Katherine MacDonald, Joe Singleton, George McDaniels and Bert Holde Sprout.

GUARD BABY'S HEALTH IN THE SUMMER

The summer months are the most dangerous to children. The complaints of that season, which are cholera infantum, colic, diarrhoea and dysentery come on so quickly that often a little life is beyond aid before the mother realizes he is ill. The mother must be on her guard to prevent these troubles, or if they do come on suddenly to cure them. No other medicine is of such aid to mothers during hot weather as is Baby's Own Tablets. They regulate the stomach and bowels and are absolutely safe. Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

WEST FRONT AS SEEN BY AN AMERICAN OFFICER

Former Brantford Boy Writes Interesting Letter Home After Visit to the Firing Line — The Allied Troops Play Fairly to a Conclusive End

Base Hospital, A.E.F., France, November 25th, 1918.

An officer connected with one of the U. S. Hospitals in France, writes a very interesting letter of his two weeks' visit to the front line trenches.

The writer is a Canadian, an old Brantford boy and the son of a well-known K.O. I have just returned from the front line. I was sent up for two weeks' intensive instruction and spent one of the weeks living in the front line trenches. On the whole it was quite a wonderful experience. As you will be interested I will start at the beginning.

We left at 11:40 Saturday evening and fortunately were able to reserve two places for the journey which was to consume most of the night. Going to the train early we were nicely located when two British Officers came in and claimed the other two places. The younger of the two—by my name, was such a man or boy as one would imagine a Shelley or a Rupert Brooke to be made of, about twenty-one, keen, clear headed, and with a wonderfully alert mind. He had been in the war since August, 1914, was wounded three times but "like Johnny Walker—still going strong."

About 4:30 a.m. we pulled into a large town and representing in all its attributes the backwash of an army. It was still very dark when we got off the train and made our way to the station Y.M.C.A. for a cup of tea. Here we saw the soldiers for the first time in numbers. Hundreds passing to and fro, some off to the front, while others were just off on leave. Every type and form of soldier was there. Probably, when you were younger you "looked" through "image-makers" where every turn of the eye-piece made a different pattern. Well, here was a Military Kaleidoscope of the most diverse patterns. At 6:30 a.m. we embarked again on a train and at 8:30 entered a town that was once a German base. If you could imagine some Titan taking a coarse comb and "combing" all the countryside, you may conceive of how we found this place. Not a root on a single house with a single wall standing; not a wall which was not being "ringed" and "ringed" gone. Not a woman or child left to grace the streets. The only echo being the cadence of the soldiers' hob-nailed boots. Here one very interesting thing happened. In the village church a huge hole had been torn in the floor and looking through this into a crypt or cellar, we could see the skulls, and some of the "just skulls" were very thoroughly dry and the story current was that they were some of the martyrs of the French Revolution, when one of the popular enemies of the revolutionary vengeances was the guillotine. This was of extreme interest as pointing to the cyclic recurrence of atrocities. We presented ourselves to the designated authority, and after a splendid breakfast just as fine as I could obtain at the N. Y. Yacht Club (only for less money) we were off to the front. As we drove along this road our driver pointed out various localities, some of local or particular interest and now and then he would say, "That's a Whizz Bang" or "There's a Lizzie," or "It's a bit as some heart-sinking detonation would ring the air. We were soon to be well acquainted with them, but at this time I thought the driver singularly endowed with knowledge and in addition envied him his sang-froid. Frankly I was "scared as the devil". A short distance on we were given gas masks and a steel helmet which weighed four pounds when you started, but, it increased in weight some tenfold or more. When I surveyed my travelling companion fully equipped I started with surprise and unconsciously exclaimed "and for this we came to war."

Continuing our journey, we landed up at our first station. Here we met the real British stuff—the British officer—it has been my experience to meet a few super men of English or British extraction, but never have I met a collective body of finer men; more generous men, more gallant men in my life. From the moment we "hit the night" they were prototype of kindness. You say, "You were an officer and the latest ally." True, but we lived with these men for over two weeks, knew them intimately, saw two of them killed and all the time it was distinguished and disinterested consideration for others. We had lunch—a fine lunch—good food, plenty of it, and the conversation was one where you could hear the "bright mind answered bright mind." Here we saw the first extensive attempt at camouflage or protective coloration. It has been developed almost to a science, particularly by the French.

From this place we were taken to a Field Ambulance. We arrived at sundown. In front of us a "grand" example of French road-building and a cluster of trees. The tonnage was hanked, as it were, on the edge of a small wood and looked from the hilltop like some Lilliputian White-city. At mess dinner we met one of those keen, alert Englishmen who has made the name of Great Britain synonymous for Colonization. Colonel S. . . . was a cosmopolitan, had travelled all over the world and knew New York thoroughly. It was over pine coffee we discussed the war and our part in it. We learned all about the "Somme" offensive of last year and heard the interesting narratives of local combat. While enjoying this delightful hour, the big guns began to boom, a low-tone rumble, called "drum fire" because each succeeding detonation follows its predecessor so rapidly as to be likened to the roll of a drum. All at a time we heard the faint "whirr" of the aeroplanes and were informed that this was a favorite time for the "Hun" to come over the lines and bomb hospitals. With many faces we finally left our host and wandered to our own hut with mingling emotions of gloom and an impending sense of disaster. Arriving at our hut, we found our baggage all opened up, our beds made and everything in tip-top order. A custom, and a good one, in the English service is the institution called "Batmen." These fellows are ordered to the officers, and are men unfit for first-line fighting but very useful as cooks and valets. Most of them were so employed in civil life before joining the army. The efforts made to protect and conserve the health of the officers, and an outstanding feature of all the units I visited. We awoke about six a.m. after a profound sleep. Somehow our fears went to sleep also.

In a day or so we moved up to the line. We were told on the way up that the sector to which we were going was very quiet, that only rarely did they work up a "strafe." What a usual word the Germans gave us when they devised "strafing." From now on we ceased to be human, but became giant moles, crawling sleeping, living, sure-footed ten to forty feet as the occasion required. With our steel helmets, box respirators, gas masks and a stout cane, we walked from . . . to the line. After an hour and a half, we entered a sunken road. The of guns was incessant. It was just dusk. It seems most of their "strafing" becomes accelerated at night. Overhead were many aeroplanes. Amid the screech of shell-whirr of aeroplanes, "pop" of anti-air guns, we were ushered into our quarters. We received a royal welcome, and the usual salutation was "America, have a drink!" The English and particularly the Irish and Scotch officers could not understand why we were not permitted to take a drink. I told them all alcohol was tabooed in the U. S. army by a promulgation of the President and that I could only join them in lime juice. This night we did not sleep. We were entombed about thirty-five feet beneath the ground. The air was moist and chilly. When the Hun would fire his "Whizz-bangs" the whole earth would rock. At six a.m. our batman—bless his memory—arrived with a cup of hot tea. A shave by the limping rays of a tallow candle; a wash by saturating an entire towel in a bucket of water and a "slap and a dash" over the body completed our toilet. Ascending, we made our way amid a glorious burst of sunshine to the mess-dug-out for breakfast. All shades of Epicureans; oatmeal, coffee, ham and eggs, a herring nicely fried, toast, jam, biscuits, and marmalade. At eight o'clock we went on a tour of the first line trenches, walking down the sunken road, we came to the first trench. Surmounting it stood a sign: (hand pointing) "This way to the war." We entered the trench and after numerous turns and wanderings came to the very front line. From an outpost we watched the Hun behind his own lines. He (boche) was doing a little heavy gun firing and numerous fragments of shell dropped near us, a few hot as they fell. Aside from an attack, raiding party, or direct hit, life seemed to be fairly safe where we were. A story going the rounds at this time will bear repeating: Colonel (to sentry): "Do you know the defense scheme for this sector of the line, my man?" Sentry: "Yes, sir." Colonel: "Well, what is it?" Sentry: "To stay here and fight 'till I'm dead, sir." We spent a week here and some of the real happenings I will reserve telling you until I see you. At the end of the week, we returned to the so-called main dressing station, about three miles behind the line. On the way back I had an unusual thrill: Shortly after lunch, accompanied by a runner (guide) I started for . . . We had very little to disturb us along the open road. By taking the so-called lower road, we kept fairly well out of sight of the Hun's artillery, and arrived in safety at the sunken road. I thought this was the second road and sent my runner back. Unfortunately was only on the first, as I discovered to my sorrow. I proceeded along the road upon the assumption that in about one hundred yards I should come upon the headquarters of the Brigade. I soon discovered that I had entered unfamiliar territory and as I walked through the various streets of the dug-out community, I knew I was "in wrong." An impending sensation, that something was going to happen came over me. While thinking what could happen, I was brought to a sudden state of suspended animation by a shrill, incisive order, "Halt." I stopped quite suddenly; a sentry approached me, with a gun and bayonet fixed in a position for disembowelling. "Who are you?" he asked. I am Major . . . U.S.A. "What are you doing here?" "I have been temporarily attached to the . . . for two weeks and am making my way back to . . . This is not the way to . . . Where is your runner? Where are your orders?" I told him I had sent my runner back because I thought this was the . . . headquarters and here were 55 per cent of the output of the seven big Maxwell plants is war work!

Every one of these plants is doing its patriotic duty—100 per cent.

We are frank to say we believe that is equally true of our competitors—we have yet to learn of a single shirker in this industry.

If there is anything more our government desires done, we will tackle that too.

Meantime, and for the very reasons set forth above, we deplore the loose statements of panic-preaching publicists throughout the country.

These would close down the third-largest industry in America on the grounds that it is a "non essential" industry.

No other industry is doing so much outside its regular sphere—doing it so willingly, doing it so rapidly and doing it so honestly as is this very motor car industry.

For a ship builder to make a few more ships; or for an ordnance plant to make more guns is only to develop their normal business.

But for a motor car factory to make ships entire and in part—and guns—and shells—and fuses—and caterpillar tractors—and mine anchors—and airplane motors, wings and other parts—that is doing things.

This industry is doing all that and more.

Detroit, the very center of the motor car industry—an inland city and one where, in normal times, we had no war industry—now is doing more war work than any other city in America.

And in our regular line we are also helping more than any other class of business men to solve the transportation problems at home and abroad for we not only transport a very large percentage of our own raw material and finished product on its own wheels, but every truck—yes, and every passenger car too—helps by thousands of tons per year in carrying, formerly done by the railroads.

Loose talk is harmful at any time—it is particularly serious just now.

Let other industries do their part—do a tithe of what the motor car industry is doing—and they will be going some.

Meantime your own transportation problem, accentuated as it is by the war activities and the war prosperity of the country, can best be solved by an efficient, economical, reliable Maxwell Motor Truck.

Rippling Rhymes

By Walt Mason.
HOT DAY REFLECTIONS.
Somewhere a HEYD is digging pathways through the snow, and handing out the language weed, while pulling icebergs from his beard. His feet are frozen in his shoes, and he has chilblains in his thighs, his breath is freezing as it flies, and icicles are on his eyes. Alas, his fate is dark and grim, I shed some pity tears for him. Could he forsake the arctic storm, and come down here where he'd get warm, how glad and grateful he would be, how he would chortle in his glee. Somewhere, on grim Spitzbergen's shore, the natives throb out nevemore. They know not what it is to sweat, rheumatics is their one mate bet. If they go out to get some food, their ears are frozen up, for good, and presently they're unawares assaulted by some polar bears, and eaten cold, without a sauce to make them less a total loss. Their wives and organs are ready go to seek the fragments in the snow, and meet a frightful fate, methinks; they're sobbed by a wolf or lynx. How glad and grateful he would be, if he were here, to get some food, and presently they're unawares assaulted by some polar bears, and eaten cold, without a sauce to make them less a total loss.
