

THE HERALD. WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 4, 1895. PUBLISHED EVERY WEDNESDAY. SUBSCRIPTION—$1.00 A YEAR. JAMES MCISAAC, Editor & Proprietor.

During the month of July the patrons of the dairy stations in this province received $38,577.86 for the milk furnished during that month. That is quite a large amount of money to be put in circulation among our farmers at a quiet season of the year.

Friday last was declaration day in Westmorland, N. B. The majority for Powell was officially declared to be 764. This does not include part of one of Moncton polls, rejected because of the returning officers' irregularity, in which Powell had a two to one vote.

The wheat crop of Canada will this year exceed that of Great Britain by several million bushels. The British yield is estimated at 46,811,000 bushels as compared with 60,995,000 bushels last year, while the Canadian crop will reach 52,000,000 bushels, or about 10,000,000 more than in 1894.

The Quebec Legislature will meet for the despatch of business on October 25th. The deficit this year will be $160,000, as against $230,000 last year, and Premier Tasson hopes to have the balance on the right side by another year. The expenditure for the first time in many years will be under $4,000,000.

An imperial order in council prohibiting pelagic sealing in the vicinity of certain Russian Islands is founded on an act passed in the last hours of the Rosebery administration. The order does not bring into force nearly all the restrictive regulations which the British government had power to put to promulgate. This is regarded as indicating the breadth of Chamberlain's colonial policy. Great things are accordingly hoped of the new colonial secretary.

The correct fiscal statement of the United States Government receipts and expenditure during the past fiscal year is made public. The total receipts are placed at $819,390,075.11. The expenditures are $859,195,298, of which $141,395,227 are for pensions. During the past three years about $5,000,000 have been added to the credit of the sinking fund, but prior to that date the least amount added in any one year to this fund exceeded $37,000,000. The exact deficit for 1895 is stated at $43,941,589.61.

In the British House of Commons on Thursday, Mr. Joseph Chamberlain, Secretary of State for the Colonies, asked leave to introduce a bill for the purpose of removing all doubts as to the validity of the Act of the Dominion of Canada respecting the Deputy Speaker of the Senate. He explained that this bill was prepared by his predecessor and that there was no doubt of the validity of the Act, but it was best to make the matter certain. Mr. Chamberlain also said that he was not aware that the matter had been made a party question in Canada. The bill eventually passed its first reading, and the second reading was fixed for Friday.

—St. John Sun: The Montreal and Toronto press accounts for the election of Mr. Powell by the "railway vote." Mr. Powell got his largest majorities in parishes which had no railway vote. The Telegraph says that "it is a French majority." But several purely French districts gave majorities for Mr. Killam, and though Mr. Powell probably got a majority of the French vote his English majority was far larger. Mr. Powell got a majority of the railway vote, a majority of the agricultural vote, and a majority of the vote of the commercial and professional classes. He obtained a majority of the English vote, the French vote, and the Irish and the Scotch vote. He had a majority of the Protestants and a majority of the Catholics.

In our obituary column will be found notice of the death of Hon. Joseph Pope, at the age of 92. Mr. Pope was born at Plymouth, England, in 1803. He came to this Island in 1819, and with his two brothers, John and William entered into business as merchants and shipbuilders. In 1830 he was elevated to the Legislature from Prince County, retaining the position for 23 years. During that time he was twice Speaker. He was appointed a member of the Executive in 1839, and held a seat therein for 14 years. In 1853 he left the Island intending to go to Australia; but did not go beyond Liverpool, where he remained for 15 years, returning to the Island in 1868, from the time of his return up to 12 years ago, he held public office almost continuously. Both he and his two sons, the late Hon. James C. and William Pope, were prominent and active participants in the politics of our Province.

LABOR DAY CELEBRATION.

A GRAND DAY'S SPORT.

LABOR DAY CELEBRATION. Splendid Bicycle Races. The sports charged with the carrying out of the programme of sports arranged for Labor Day, deserve the thanks of the community for the manner in which they discharged their duties. The sports were among the best held in this city, and they were witnessed by an immense throng. There were over 2,000 present at the races in the afternoon—the grand stand being well filled. The weather was charming and everything augured well for successful sports—and such they proved to be, beyond cavil. Shortly before noon the bicyclists assembled at their club room, on Water Street. At twelve o'clock they started in procession, through the principal streets of the city, headed by the Citizens' Band, in a carriage. There were over fifty cyclists in line, and the procession presented a fine appearance. The streets through which they passed were lined with spectators.

Shortly after one o'clock the races commenced. The first event on the programme was the one mile road race. The contestants were Cook, Caldwell, McArthur, Mollison and Harvie. Just after starting a mishap occurred, by which Harvie was thrown from his wheel, and Caldwell broke his handle bar; consequently they were both out of the race. The race was a pretty one, and was won by Cook, with McArthur second and Mollison third. Time, 2:47. The quarter mile championship bicycle race, in two heats was next. There were eight starters in the race, viz: Unsworth, Saunders, McArthur, Prowse, Cook, Mollison, Caldwell and Grady. In the first heat Unsworth led from the start, and won the race in 36 1/2 seconds with Cook second and Prowse third. In the second heat Unsworth repeated his performance of the first heat, coming in ahead, with Prowse second and Cook third. Time, same as the first heat, 36 1/2. This left Cook and Prowse equal for second place, necessitating their racing off. This they proceeded to do, and the race was a very pretty one. They came under the wire together in 38 1/2. Consequently the heat was declared a dead one, and the contestants had to race again. By this time the race had created no little interest and excitement. When they were sent off, Cook led and maintained his position to the finish, winning second place in the race. Time 43 seconds. The half mile championship bicycle race, brought out Unsworth, Prowse, Davies, McArthur, Cook, Mollison, Harvie and Caldwell. Unsworth won the race in 1:13 1/2, with Prowse second and Caldwell third. For the two mile championship race, Unsworth, Prowse, Cook, Davies and Caldwell lined up for the start. Unsworth won in 6:13 1/2, with Prowse second and Cook third. In the one mile championship race, Prowse won with Unsworth second and Davies third. Time 2:54 1/2. The three mile championship race was a pretty one and was keenly contested by Unsworth, Cook, Davies, Prowse, Mollison and Caldwell. Unsworth was the winner in 9:33 1/2 with Caldwell second and Prowse third. Prowse, Caldwell, Cook and Mollison were the contestants in the five mile championship race. After occupying various respective positions during the ten laps, Caldwell won the race, with Cook second and Prowse third. Time 14:48 1/2.

Between these champion bicycle races, other races and a tug-of-war were sandwiched in. The other bicycle races were, a two mile handicap; half mile race for boys under sixteen; Morgan and Wright race, one mile in the open; and in the latter race only two entered, Davies of Charlottetown, who made the mile in 2:46, and Caldwell of Summerside, who scored 2:43, and won the prize; a pair of bicycle tires. The boys' half-mile race was won by Pickard of Charlottetown, with Grady of Summerside second, in 1:21 1/2. The slow race, of one hundred yards was won by Trev Taylor, with Grady of Summerside second. This was a very amusing race. Whoever toppled over had to take the lead, and the hindmost won the race. There were four starters in the two mile handicap. Prowse was at the scratch, Davies 100 yards in advance, Harvie 150 yards, and Whittle 200 yards. Prowse was coming up well on the others and was pretty sure of the race when he met with an accident on the third lap, by which he was thrown with great force to the ground. For some time it was feared he had been injured; but he came to and mounted his wheel again; by this time, however, the others were too far ahead so he withdrew. Harvie won the race, Davies second and Whittle third. Time 5:40 1/2. The most exciting race of the day was between Mr. Morse of Chicago and Mr. Unsworth. Mr. Morse, it appears, announced his willingness to race the best man on the ground, and young Mr. Unsworth pluckily accepted the challenge. Morse was slightly in the lead from the start. Coming down the home stretch, Unsworth made a beautiful spurt, with a determination to pass the stranger. He did not quite succeed; but he so lessened the distance between them that Morse was declared the winner by a foot. There were three foot races; 100 yards; a quarter mile, and a half mile. In the 100 yards W. A. Edmonds was first, Robert McLean second, and Patrick Duffy third. Time 10 2/5 seconds. Edmonds also won the quarter mile race, with Hurlie McGregor second, and Philip Egan third. Time 5:25 seconds. In the 200 yards Hurlie McGregor, Edmonds was also first; Hurlie McGregor second, and D. J. McDonald, third. Time 29 1/2 seconds. The half mile foot race was captured by Louis McMillan; Philip Egan second, and A. Gaudet third. Time 2:08 1/2. The tug of war was between a team of Charlottetownians and a team of all-comers. The ten all-comers won. In the quarter-mile horse race, the Rollo Company were the winners, in 1:11 1/2; Hook and Ladder Company second, 1:21 3/4; Ramblers third, 1:22 1/2.

VACATION TIME. It is at hand and is gladly welcomed by all, especially those whose duties in life have caused them to greatly run down their system to meet the requirements, physical and mental, forced upon them. With these and others, it is important, whether at home, at the seashore or in the country, that some thought be given to diet, and as further assistance to Nature, a good building-up medicine like Hood's Sarsaparilla had best be resorted to. If the digestion is poor, liver deranged and frequent headaches seem to be the rule, Hood's will change all this and enable everyone to return to their homes and business with a refreshed state of mind and bodily health.

WHY is our store crowded with customers when many other stores are nearly empty?

WHY are we doing the largest business Just Now in our 21 years experience?

WHY do hundred of the best dressed ladies on P. E. Island recommend their friends to deal with us?

WHY are we selling goods so remarkably cheap just now?

WHY is our store so upset just now?

BECAUSE

We are having the interior of our store put in excellent shape to receive an immense stock of New Fall Goods. The painters, carpenters and white-washers are hard at work. Every bargain we got this summer we gave our customers the full benefit of—did it pay us? Well, we should say so! Crowds of customers prove the popularity of our store and our bargains.

The Rosary.
By THOMAS D'ARCY MCGEE.
"Bring hither to me my Rosary!"
Cried the lovely Lady Anne,
As by the sick bed where he lay,
For her dear lord she began
To count her beads one by one,
As the hours of hope and life sped on.
"Jesus save us!" cried a knight
In the pagan forest lost,
No star to lead his guardian light,
No morning track or post.
"Jesus save us!" and forth he drew
The Rosary, salvation's clew.
Brainers and feverish with care
In Armanah's chamber deep,
The scholar knelt all night in prayer;
Thought would not let him sleep,
Till the problem all entangled, he
Unwound them on his Rosary.
When fever broke the Atlantic sea
Around the quivering bark,
And the scowling crew with mutiny
Made the scowling sky more dark,
Columbus calmly tells his beads,
Nor mutiny nor tempest heeds.
Oh! I soon not then the plous poor,
Nor the Rosary they tell;
Ere the Faust was born nor men grew proud
To read by the light of hell,
In noble and in humble hands,
Beads guided souls to heaven in bands.

Life on the Alaska Mission.
By REV. FRANCIS BARNUM S. J.
Whenever it is desired to convert the casino into a bath-house, the logs covering the great central pit are rolled aside. A large fire is kindled, soon the interior becomes like an oven, the smoke and sparks pass out through the ventilator, and at night the casino resembles a miniature volcano. When the fire has burned down sufficiently, the ventilator is closed, and the men enter their vapor bath. After they have been in the heat as long as they desire, they rush out and take a plunge into the water or a roll in the snow, according to the season. The barabaras, or private houses, are constructed on the same general plan as the casino. They are somewhat smaller, and have only one very broad divan around; as they are never used for the vapor bath, they are without the fire hole. Several families generally occupy the same barabara. Sections of the divan are allotted to each, and these are frequently curtailed off by large straw mats, called tupiaks. These strips of straw carpet are beautifully woven by the women, and resemble the matting commonly used in the United States. Whenever we stop at a casino, one of these mats is always spread for us in the place of honor. The Alaskan natives probably the dirtiest race of beings on the earth. In their dress, habitations and diet they are utterly filthy. There is nothing too foul for them to eat. They are always covered with dirt and vermin, and their houses are truly like pig-sties. None of them can approach you unawares, as you are sure to smell him from afar. After Mass the atmosphere of our little chapel is sickening, while in the casinos it is actually overpowering.

Native Dress.
An Alaskan costume consists of a fur parki and a pair of long boots. The parki is a long loose garment made of skin and is provided with a capacious hood, which is bound along the edge with a strip of the longest fur which they can obtain, that of the wolf being the most desirable. When the hood is drawn over the head, the long hairs of this band project outwards, and thus it shields the face from the torture caused by the flying snow of the winter storms. In our parts of Alaska many wear parkis made of the skins of the wild geese. A person dressed in a new goose parki appears as if he had just been tarred and feathered. These goosehide garments are not very durable. They are easily torn, and besides, the feathers are continually dropping off. The little room which serves as our chapel, is so littered after every service with the feathers which have been shed by the congregation, that it resembles a hen-house of the temperate zone. In very cold weather the natives wear a second or over-parki made of fish skin, although this is a stiff and noisy article of dress, yet it possesses one great advantage, that in a case of necessity the wearer can eat it. This proves the superiority of Arctic attire, for no broadcloth overcoat would ever serve as a lunch. Of course we wear the native dress, except when we are at home; our parkis are of squirrel or deer. Our over-parkis however do not follow the native fashion, for they are made of blue jean. The women wear a long parki with the edges rounded in front and behind, and as an additional precaution against the cold, they run a quill through the nose. The native boots are long and usually made of the skin of the common hair-seal, which is very unlike its famous fur-bearing cousin; the soles are flat and cut from the tougher parts of the skin. A wisp of straw is placed within each boot, and that is renewed as often as necessary. When travelling, a pair of over-boots of the same style are worn. These native boots cannot be surpassed for warmth, comfort and durability. Many of the natives wear during our warm interval, parkis made of common cotton drill, which they obtain at the trading posts of the Alaska Commercial Company. Two yards is the exact amount required, and not a shred of the material remains when the parki is finished. The drill is measured by being stretched along the arms from the finger tips. When they come to the mission trade for fish, etc., if they want drill, they always prefer that one of our Brothers, who is very tall, should serve as the unit of measure. In wet weather the natives wear a splendid waterproof which is called an Emaranetik. The Russians termed it Kamjeka. It is an over-parki composed of narrow strips of membrane dexterously sewed together, with a peculiar water-tight stitch. It requires some practice to put on an emaranetik without injuring it, for when dry, it shrinks and becomes stiff; but it regains its pliability as soon as it is exposed to the dampness. The membrane most used for these waterproofs is the entrail of the beluga, or to use the native term O'tok. The word beluga, which is the Russian name for the great sturgeon, is used here to designate a large species of porpoise, which is perfectly milk-white and which abounds in Behring Sea. There is an universal taste for jewelry among our natives; all are very fond of adorning themselves with earrings. The nose-ring is confined to the gentler sex. They pierce a hole through the nasal septum large enough in some cases to admit an ordinary lead-pencil, and through this they pass ivory ornaments. A few large blue beads strung on a wire forms the common every-day nose-gay. Both sexes wear labrets and there is great variety in the style of inserting them. The women pierce two holes in the lower lip near the base of the eye teeth, while the men insert their labrets close to the corners of the mouth. Often

These librets are very heavy and the weight distorts the features and impedes the articulation. A fashionable Eskimo gentleman adorned with a full set of labrets, together with the regulation strap of black paint across his forehead, and three streaks of paint down his chin, resembles a patient suffering with some new kind of boils.

At Alaskan diet is peculiar, let us cast a glance over the Eskimo menu, and while I present the dishes, you, well, you can lead your nose. We need not mind the more simple articles of diet, as they are walrus, but only the entrees. The first, and most highly esteemed of these, is a fragrant dainty, justly termed Tupitcherat (from the radical tupchartok, to stink). It is always made during the warm season at the time of the salmon fishery. The preparation, which is extremely simple, is as follows. A hole is dug in the ground close to the entrance of the barabaras, and this is filled up with raw salmon heads. After ten days of exposure to the sun, the hole presents a lively sight, for the fish heads are in constant motion. A few days longer to allow the worms their full growth, and then the family gather to the banquet, and not a vestige of the putrid meat will remain, "but the scent of the roses will cling to it still. The next dish is also a favorite, equally fragrant and equally simple in its preparation—boiled eggs. The eggs commonly used here, are those of the wild geese. Our natives distinguish two varieties, which they have never succeeded in winning their way to popular favor elsewhere. The first are those collected soon after the arrival of geese. These "green" eggs are then exposed for a long time to the genial rays of the sun, until they become sufficiently added to suit the native taste. The second variety is somewhat more gamey, and consists of eggs expressly selected later on, just at the period when mother geese was considering that her sedentary life was almost concluded. I have watched (of course from the windward side) a group of bon vivants gathered around a fire, devouring half-cooked rotten eggs, and constantly adding more to the pot, until they were so completely gorged, that like drunken men they would fall over, one by one, and "Jeep. Kamamakoi" comes next; compared with the others, it will appear delicious. It is a mayonnaise, consisting of stale fish roe macerated with salt, and then mixed with flavoured with stale seal oil. Turnitok is the next, and very similar in composition. In place of roe, the raw livers of a small species of codfish are mixed with the berries and seal oil. We are now ready to present our menu—Akutok, the choicest of all Eskimo delicacies. This Arctic ambrosia is composed of salmon-bones, seal oil and deer tallow; these ingredients are boiled together, and when cool they are mixed with snow, a refreshing compound worth a frank with some of your ice cream. This glance at the diet of this country, "the upper circle" will convince you that my account of their odoriferous properties is not strained.

As might be imagined, their foul food causes much sickness among them. Whenever anyone is even slightly indisposed he will come directly to us, so we always keep a quantity of medicine at the mission. Castor-oil is of no use whatever, for we cannot convince our benighted invalids that it is a nauseous remedy and not a delicious foreign cord. We have to limit a dose to four table-spoonfuls, and only one dose at a sickness, relapses included. An old fellow, called Avonok, happened to have a slight attack of the usual complaint (it was about the egg season), and came to us for treatment. It was Avonok's first introduction to castor-oil. In the transport of delight he unwarily exclaimed, ashetok! (splendid!) His complaint at once assumed a chronic form, with no prospect of recovery. He came twice a day, and then three times. Unfortunately for him, the "ashtetok" betrayed him, so we changed the treatment, and administered a tomato can of strong opium salts, which immediately wrought a cure. Strange to say, these people never use salt, and have no relish for anything saline. Pills present the same difficulty as castor-oil, our patients obstinately refuse to take them—for they will persist in slowly chewing up the delightful little bonbons. I let them "chew" till they finish the sixth, after that, if more medicine is needed, it is opium salt, in spite of all entreaties. Missionaries here must expect a great deal of medical practice. It is very important and serves, moreover, to weaken the popular confidence in the turoks or sorcerers, who are called on to perform their grotesque antics over the sick. In our vicinity, the adherents of the old school of therapeutics have gradually disappeared. Invalids no longer seek relief from a bal masque, or hope for benefit from the sedative influence of the drum and rattle. No description of the Yukon country is complete without some allusion to the insect plague, and it may be said that no description can do justice to this subject. During the summer season, by day and by night, indoors and out, afloat and ashore, the affliction continues without cessation. Clouds of midges penetrate everywhere, and ordinary netting is perfectly useless as a safeguard, for these insects pass through the meshes without the least difficulty. Out-of-doors one is completely stung at their mercy. They fly into the eyes and lodge under the lids; they cluster in the ear, crawl up the arms and down the neck, in fact, omit no chance of causing intense annoyance. Jersey mosquitoes, A. bronck and South Atlantic Coast sandflies must yield the palm to Yukon midges and musquitoses.

THE BOOT AND SHOE RECORDER OF Boston is publishing a series of prize essays written by shoe clerks giving their views on "What Constitutes a Good Salesman." The issue of 31st July contains essay No. 27, by Mr. Richard J. Walsh, with Waterbury & Rising, St. John, N. B. After making some general reference, the writer declares that the four principal qualifications are: Willingness to work, sobriety and perseverance. Under these headings Mr. Walsh writes with a thorough acquaintance of the subject. The essay shows considerable literary merit, bears favorable comparison with the papers already published, and altogether, is a notable contribution to the discussion. It is the intention of the Recorder to publish this series of articles in book form, as soon as they are completed. The same paper contains a review of essays contributed last year entitled "If I Had Three Thousand Dollars," and the review says of Mr. Walsh in the article he "makes us proud that in the ranks of retailer of shoes we have one possessing of much literary ability and marked modesty." Mr. Walsh is the first Vice-President of Branch No. 134, C. M. B. A., of St. John.

well founded, but the men who have killed seals during the close season are to be criminally prosecuted by the government. Two vessels, the Sophie Suberland and the Bowhead, have already been seized, the latter being in the hands of a United States marshal. A number of sealing men met and it was decided to appeal the case of Bowhead to the secretary of the treasury.

Ex-Senator Tabor, of Colorado, a millionaire, built an opera house at Leadville, which he meant to be finer than that of Denver. Having engaged an artist to decorate the walls with frescoes, he found him one day finishing a portrait of Shakespeare in the place of honor. He asked him who this was, and was told Shakespeare. He then asked who Shakespeare was, and being told that he was the greatest poet and dramatist that ever lived, he said, "has he ever done anything for Leadville?" "No," I think not, replied the artist, with a sigh. "Then paint him right out and put me in," was the brutal reply; and with a still deeper sigh, the artist complied.

The various Protestant missionary Boards that have been sending apostles to work in the Turkish Empire have a grudge to entertain against Rear Admiral Kirkland of the United States Navy. He is commanding the European station, his own ship being the San Francisco. While in London the other day he allowed himself to be interviewed on the religious troubles in Turkey, and the reporter remarks that "whenever he speaks upon the subject he is emphatic in his condemnation of the missionaries in Turkey. He says that he has found that one of the most prominent Sunday school teachers in Smyrna spent three years in the penitentiary at Hillsburgh, Pa., and that, taken together they are a bad lot. The cause of all the trouble, Admiral Kirkland asserts, is that, relying upon the protection of the American Government, the missionaries defy the local laws, and do not merit the dispatch of a war ship at every appeal made by the missionaries, most of which appeals are not true."

Children Shrink from taking medicine. But they are eager to take what they like—Scott's Emulsion, for instance. Children almost always like Scott's Emulsion. And it does them good. Scott's Emulsion is the easiest, most palatable form of Cod-liver Oil, with the Hypophosphites of Lime and Soda added to nourish the bones and tone up the nervous system. The way children gain flesh and strength on Scott's Emulsion is surprising even to physicians. All delicate children need it. Don't be persuaded to accept a substitute. Can be properly suited at our establishment. We never had a greater variety of superior cloths than we are showing to-day. The man who can't find exactly what he wants must be very hard to please. By the way, do you know why the clothing made by us looks so well and wears so well? It is because we employ none but the best skilled workmen, who have orders to do exactly what they want, and we are one found putting inferior work on a garment, does not stay long at work for us.

"LIKE PRODUCES LIKE."
The Reason Why Carter's Hazzard's Improved Turnip Seed is the Best:
Our supply of Hazzard's Improved Turnip Seed is grown exclusively for our own trade by Messrs. James Carter & Co., the Queen's Seedsmen, London England. This is the leading seed growing establishment of Great Britain. We supply to this firm yearly a few pounds of the true genuine stock of Hazzard's Improved Turnip Seed, contracting for the growth from this stock of a certain specified quantity, and when harvested we take the whole of it. No other firm in Canada can buy a pound of this seed except from us.
OUR HAZZARD'S IMPROVED COSTS US MORE THAN ORDINARY STOCKS. A firm of world-wide reputation, such as James Carter & Co., of London, does not need to contract at low prices; their prices are high but they are experts in seed growing, and we can depend on having the best that can be produced.
We cannot risk our business reputation by handling doubtful seed, however cheap; and no farmer can afford to risk his valuable acres by sowing poor turnip seeds, however cheap. Buy Hazzard's Improved Turnip Seed in our sealed packages, and you have the best in Canada. The price is 45 cents per lb.
HOME GROWN HAZZARD'S IMPROVED.—We have had grown for the past two years near Charlottetown, our choice seed of the true Hazzard's Improved, and we believe it is better than even our English stock. We call it "Carter's Home-Grown Hazzard's Improved." It is sold only in sealed packages at 40 cents per lb.
The above named strains of Turnip Seed, and also Carter's Prize Winner Swede (40c per lb.), are put up only in sealed cardboard packages, 1 lb., 1/2 lb., and 1 lb. sizes, and each package bears our name and address.
For sale by our authorized Agents in all the leading trade centres of P. E. Island, and at our Seed Store, or will be sent by mail, postage paid, on receipt of Price.
