BEAVER FLOUR

THE BLENDED FLOUR

Compare a Loaf of "Beaver" Flour Bread With One Made of Western Wheat Flour

You never realized what a difference there could be in quality. "Beaver" Flour loaf is compact like cake—the texture is fine—smooth, even, regular—the color beautifully white—the crust, a rich, crisp brown—the taste, real homemade. Western wheat loaf is full of holes—texture, coarse—the color seems gray compared with the snowy whiteness of "Beaver" Flour bread—and the flavor is almost tasteless.

"Beaver" Flour has a quality all its own, because it is a blended flour. It is Ontario fall wheat flour—with just enough Manitoba spring wheat flour to increase the strength and make the dough stand up in the oven.

It is this combination—arrived at by years of experimenting and testing—that gives "Beaver" Flour both quality and quantity.

It is because "Beaver" Flour is a true blended flour and made of the best wheat in the world, that it is equally good for bread and pastry, and best for both.

"Beaver" Flour is immeasurably superior to any western wheat flour for all kinds of baking. You can prove this to your complete satisfaction, the very first time you use it for Bread, Rolls, Biscuits, Cakes, Pies or Pastry.

WON AT LAST.

CHAPTER III.

"I doubt it, if you don't," I returned. "What sort of a fellow is he, Roger? Young or old, handsome or ugly, short or tall?"

"He isn't young and he isn't old; he isn't handsome to my mind, at any rate—and he isn't ugly, and he's neither tall nor short."

"What a list of negatives!" I said smiling. "What is he, then?"

"A frog, as far as I'm concerned," returned Yorke, lightly. "I don't like the fellow, Ned, my boy."

"So I see," I remarked; then more gravely—"What is his name? I have heard it, but it has slipped my memory."

"His name? Not so elegant as 'Edward Chavasse,' of the Mount," he said, laughing, "but a queer one enough in its way—'Fraser Froude.'"

"What a name!" I ejaculated. "Fraser? Was he christened that?"

"I suppose so. An odd name, isn't it? Comes of the alliteration, most likely."

"I don't like the sound of it, however it comes," I said. "Do you know what he is, Roger?"

"Gentleman—living on his means just now, I believe. They must be worth having if he intends to keep up Holmedeane."

"You're right. Why, with the exception of Chavasse and old Roxborough's seat, it's the biggest place in the county! You don't know what this man has been, I suppose?"

"No; but, from a few words he let drop to the doctor, he has been something in the stock-broking way, I fancy."

I made no answer; but I did not much like that piece of information. I do not think I have much of the Chavasse pride, but I do like to know who is who. The idea of a retired stock-broker, of whose antecedents nothing was known, being settled close to the Mount and our nearest neighbor was not by any means pleasant to me. His name, being settled close to the Mount and our nearest neighbor was not by any means pleasant to me. His name, being settled close to the Mount and our nearest neighbor was not by any means pleasant to me.

"Madame won't care much about that—eh, Ned?"

"You're right!" I said, emphatically. "I don't care much about it myself, in fact. How came a man like that to get Holmedeane, I wonder?"

"Paid for it," was the sententious reply.

"And does he expect to be received by the county?" I said, growing angry as I thought of it.

"Money balances a good many scales, oh unsophisticated innocent! In all probability he does."

"It will serve him right if he gets well snubbed for his pains, I think."

"Ah! Why? I haven't been sat upon to any great extent, my dear boy."

"What nonsense, Roger!" I said, flushing, and feeling vexed both with him and myself. Certainly I had not intended my words to bear that interpretation. "As though I meant that!" I added, reproachfully. "A gentleman is a gentleman all the world over."

"Particularly when his pockets are well lined," returned Yorke, dryly. "All right, Ned; you have not ruffled my dignity. As for Fraser Froude, I fancy you'll find the county will jump at him. A rich bachelor with a place like Holmedeane isn't an every-day find, you know."

"Oh, he's a bachelor, is he?"

"He is, and what is more, he informed them at the rectory that he was looking for a wife. Diarte recommended Miss Alice to set her cap at him; but she turned up her nose at the notion, observing that she hoped to find some one who didn't look like a Mephistopheles out for a holiday. Fraser Froude isn't in Miss Deeping's good books."

"Does he look like that?" I asked, laughing at the notion of Alice's definition.

"Humph—rather! He has a sinister look at times, and is not too sweet-tempered, if I can read faces."

I said nothing in reply; and for a few moments we walked on in silence. We were in the High Street now. Roger Yorke's words in reference to Alice Deeping had set me wondering a little. A whisper had been floating about the village lately to the effect that there was something between the young doctor and the rector's bonny daughter. It would not be much of a match for Alice Deeping, of course; but then, if Alice once took anything into her head, all Whittlesford well knew that by hook or by crook she would have her way. I looked at Roger as he walked beside me, at his frank, good-looking, sunburned face and broad shoulders, and thought that if I were a girl, I might find it very easy to forget that his pockets were but indifferently lined; and I could not help wishing that he had some of Fraser Froude's gold jingling in them. It had often struck me that in his heart Roger Yorke was too aubitious to rest content with his quiet career in Whittlesford.

"I wonder," I said, beginning a new sentence with my favorite phrase, and intending to frame a question which would certainly have included the name of the owner of Holmedeane if I had finished it, when on a sudden Roger's hand on my arm checked me. "Hush!" he said. "Speak of a fox and you'll see the tail of one. There he is!"

"There who is?" I asked, staring about me, but seeing no one.

"The very man of whom we were talking—Fraser Froude."

"Eh? Where?" I cried, staring harder than ever.

"Across the road by Bovere's shop—there; don't you see?"

I looked in the direction indicated, and then first saw the new owner of Holmedeane, the man in the stock-broking way, whose name I did not like. I took a long and searching look at him, trying to decide whether my opinion was anything like that hinted at by my companion.

Standing with his head bent a little as he looked jolly at the saddles and dog-collars in Bovere's window, he did not notice us; so I had a good chance of seeing what Fraser Froude was like.

He was a tallish man with a sharp, straight-featured face, very dark hair and eyes, and a long carefully curled black mustache; but it was none of these traits that struck me at the first glance. No; it was his extraordinary thinness. His dress was all black, and the long frock-coat clung about his spare figure like a veritable skin. There was not a rounded curve about him, from the long straight lines of his nose and chin to the longer, straighter lines of the thin white hand which hung ungloried at his side; and he had not a tinge of color either.

His pale face had a chalky look, which the blackness of his eyes and drooping mustache seemed to render more striking. For the rest, he had a keen, grave, rather melancholy expression, and might have been of almost any age between thirty-five and forty-five—later we learned that he wanted just a year of forty—and broiling hot as it was, he looked as cool as he might have looked in mid-winter. If there is one thing that I dislike more than another, it is a person who is cool when I am hot; and perhaps that is one reason why I decided that I did not much like Fraser Froude.

"Well, what do you think of him?" asked Yorke, in an under-tone.

"Humph! Not much! He is a queer-looking customer."

"I told you so. I wonder what he's mooning about here for?"

I had no time to reply, for Fraser Froude wheeled round just then, and his eyes fell upon Yorke. Whittlesford High Street is not the widest in the world, and in a moment he was across it and shaking hands with Roger with the greatest cordiality. Then he looked at me.

"Mr. Chavasse of the Mount, I think!" he observed.

I said, "Yes," of course, and he shook hands with me too. I was somewhat surprised to find that he knew me, and told him so.

"Oh, it goes almost without saying!" he said, showing his white teeth under his black mustache as his thin lips curved in a smile. "I have been at Holmedeane for a fortnight now—and I ken my nearest neighbors by sight the second day. Besides," and he smiled again—"I could hardly be long in Whittlesford without becoming acquainted with so popular a character as 'Mr. Ned.'"

Well, I knew that the Whittlesford folk liked me, but I did not want Fraser Froude to tell me so. I said that I wondered we had not met before.

"It is a pleasure that I have been anxious to enjoy," he returned, as pleasantly as before; "but I hesitated to present myself uninvited to Madame Chavasse. Perhaps I may now have the pleasure of calling at the Mount?"

I could not but say "Yes," and I said it, feeling that I had myself paved the way for his request. Still his ready smile and cool ease annoyed me somehow, and I felt that I did not and could not like the new master of Holmedeane. I wondered too how it was that he, a stranger, had already picked up the Whittlesford custom of calling my mother by the title of "madame." He brought it out as glibly as though he had been used to it all his life. We three stood talking for a few minutes more in the sunny High Street, and then Mr. Froude, saying lightly that he was keeping us, and that he had only been waiting while Bovere was repairing a saddle, shook hands with us both again, reiterated his hope of soon calling at the Mount, and, re-crossing the road, disappeared within the dusky little shop. Promising to look in at Chavasse later on to see to the ailments of the maid, Yorke parted with me at the top of the High Street, having about a score of patients to see in the vicinity, and I was left to go home alone, which I did, thinking a good deal of the new master of Holmedeane.

Special to The Evening Telegram.
NEW YORK, Jan. 2.
Edey, a retired Wall Street broker, shot and killed his wife to-day, and then took his own life at his country home at Hallport, Long Island.

LONDON, Jan. 2.
A St. Petersburg despatch to the Daily News, says that the removal of Grand Duke Michael, the Czar's brother, from the command of the Cossack Cavalry Guards, marks the Imperial displeasure at his recent marriage with Madame Sheremeta Tsvetkova. His banishment from the capital is intended to prevent the Grand Duke's appearance at the forthcoming celebrations of the ter-centenary of the Romanoff dynasty.

CHENG-TU, China, Jan. 2.
Three hundred Chinese soldiers were killed by a force of Tibetans near the border during a night attack. It is reported that the Chinese troops also lost six machine guns. The official reason given for the defeat of regular troops is that the soldiers, refusing to trust their commanders' knowledge of the country, became insubordinate. During the confusion which ensued, the Tibetans seized the opportunity of attacking the column, which they totally defeated.

NEWCASTLE, Indiana, Jan. 2.
Frank Dare, of New Lisbon, foreman of the jury in the Federal Court at Indianapolis that convicted the thirty-eight defendants in the dynamite conspiracy trial, has received a communication, threatening his life. The letter, which was not signed, was mailed from Chicago. It read: "This is to inform you that you will be planted under the sod within the next three months." Mr. Dare placed the letter in the hands of the prosecuting attorney, and the matter will be brought before the Federal authorities.

LONDON, Jan. 2.
Prince Albert, second son of King George, stood 64th in order of merit in a list of 65 persons who underwent examination for naval cadets last month. The newspapers comment on the standing of the Prince as evidence of the complete impartiality of the examiners.

Urgent Need of Doctor.

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir,—Please allow me space in your valuable paper to let the public know the way we are treated in North Harbor, concerning diphtheria. We cannot get a doctor. We have been doing all in our power, looking for a doctor and have got no one. Dr. Hogan made a short visit in the forenoon and left in the afternoon. That was not enough for a sickness like that. It seems as if our members are to blame. Pat Ryan and Albin Lineham went to St. Joseph's on the 26th and wired Mr. Morris and received a message from him to meet Dr. Chisholm at Whitbourne on the 27th. They went to Colinet to meet him. The millman came from Whitbourne. He did not come with him. He told him if he got a right message he would come. So you can see his our members are to be blamed or the Government. Last night at 11 o'clock, P. Ryan and A. Lineham came to my door, wet to the skin, after travelling from Colinet, looking for a doctor, six miles without any road, through the woods and nearly exhausted with hunger. P. Ryan gave out and A. Lineham had to spell him or leave him to die.

If this is not cruelty to Christians I know nothing then. If I could let them in to change their clothes it wouldn't have been so bad, but I couldn't, on account of diphtheria. I had to give them a cup of tea out by the door. Mr. Editor, it is more than bad for Peter Ryan to lose three sons and one daughter with sickness and with no chance for their lives. They have the sickness at Pat Ryan's and one girl dead and soon there will not be one left in the two families. If they don't get some medical aid. Anything is good enough for the Western side of St. Mary's Bay. It seems as if we haven't a road to walk on.

I remain,
Yours,

Hr. Grace Notes.

Welcome 1913, with your calm, peaceful bearing, beautiful bracing air, bright sun and smiles and good wishes exchanged by all our citizens.

The fierce storm that raged yesterday and in fact that has raged for the past week, died with the old year, and to-day all is calm and bright. May it continue to be so.

Large numbers of cattle could be seen this morning grazing in the different fields and apparently enjoying outdoor life as well as any of us. Quite a contrast from the state of affairs prevailing at this time last year.

The schooner Lucky Change drove from her moorings in yesterday's gale and drifted to the outer harbor going ashore on the south side, near the Black Rocks.

A large fishing boat owned by Mr. Wm. Sheppard, was lifted bodily by the force of the wind and taken from her winter quarters on the bank right across Water Street, near Noad St., and had smashed up. This occurred about 7.30 a.m. when the storm was at its worst.

The Conception Bay British Society met at its hall at 9.45 this morning and accompanied by its fine band and its smart-looking Juvenile Branch, proceeded on the annual parade. Before leaving the hall, the President read a message received from the Newfoundland British Society, conveying its best wishes for a successful year to the C.B.B.S. The line of march was up Water Street to Pipe Track Road, down Harvey Street to Christ Church, where a very enjoyable service was held. Rev. C. M. Sticking officiating. The brethren and the congregation generally entered heartily into the service. Leaving the church the Society proceeded on its way down Noad Street to Cathedral St., and back to the hall by way of Harvey Street. The band, under the leadership of Mr. L. Whitman, played suitable selections during the march. Returning to the hall, the President, Mr. Albert Rogers, made a short address in which he thanked the brethren for the large turnout and congratulated them on the delightful day. A unanimous vote of thanks was tendered to Rev. C. M. Sticking, Pastor of Christ Church, for the excellent discourse delivered to the body by the Rev. Gentleman this morning. A very hearty and unanimous vote of thanks was accorded Mr. L. Whitman for his interest in the band, he being its teacher, and sparing himself no trouble to make the band worthy of the Society and the town. The singing of the Doxology by the members and the playing of "God Save the King" by the band, brought to a close the annual church parade for 1912.

Right Side Up.

Though now and then our feet descend to byways of despair, we nearly always in the end land right side up with care. I've seen a thousand men declare that all was lost, there was no hope beneath the skies, this life was but a bust. And then next year I'd see them scot around in motor cars, each one a-holding in his snoot the richest of cigars. I've heard men at the wailing place declare they were undone; no more the cold world could they face, their course, they said, was run. Again I'd see them prance along, all bubbling with delight; whatever in their lives was wrong, became at last all right. And so it's foolishness, my friend, to weep or tear your hair; we nearly always, in the end, land right side up with care. Some call it luck, some providence, and some declare it fate; but there's a kind, overruling sense that makes our tangles straight; some gentle, watchful eyes that mark our movements as we roam; a hand extended in the dark to guide us safely home. In what direction do you vent? You'll find he helper there; we nearly always, in the end, land right side up with care.

Obituary.

At the residence of her son, at Matthews, on Dec. 31st, there passed away Mrs. Sarah Smith, relict of the late Robert Smith and daughter of the late John and Elizabeth Ford, of the Southside, at the age of 87. She was a very charitable woman, loved by all who knew her. When Rev. Father Morris was at Villa Nova she was his first call. J. J. Coaker, W. Ford, W. Ellis and J. Bartlett, her nephews, went out by yesterday's train to attend her funeral. She was buried at Long Pond by the side of her husband who died twenty-one years ago. She leaves 1 son and 3 daughters, one of whom is in Wales; 6 sisters, Mrs. Kent, Montreal, Mrs. Beck, P.E.I., and Mrs. Bartlett, Mrs. Ellis and Mrs. Axford of St. John's and a large circle of friends to mourn their sad loss. The Telegram extends sympathy to the bereaved family.

LONDON, To-Day.
The Turks continue to declare their concessions surpass any logical expectation, but now they cannot at any cost cede an inch more. On the other hand, the allies with unanimous voice and compact front maintain they would rather end the conference than renounce what they claim is due them, by right of their victories in war. The Turks emphasize the enormous importance of what they have ceded, which in reality is only what they have lost, for the opposite reason the allies belittle Turkish concessions, as they desire definitely to settle forever their differences with the Ottoman Empire. The real stumbling block is Adrianople. A compromise is suggested on the basis of autonomy of the Aegean Islands, guaranteed by the Powers.

New York, Dec. 21.—That the value of the estate of the late E. H. Harriman, financier and railroad man, is actually $70,000,000, instead of $130,000,000, as has been supposed, is admitted by experts who have been working for months upon the appraisal of the estate in behalf of the state controller, so that the precise amount of the inheritance tax due to state may be computed and paid.

It is said that the appraisal of the Harriman properties will show that his real estate holdings in New York, including the estate at Arden, will be about $10,000,000.

No precise figures of the railroad stocks, bonds and securities held by Mrs. Harriman were available, but the amount is conservatively placed at $50,000,000. The value of personal property is about $7,000,000.

Fattened For Cannibal Feast.

San Francisco, Dec. 26.—Guy de Villepion, a former teacher at a local academy, who arrived here yesterday from the West Coast of South America, told a tale of having been fattened for a feast by cannibals while attempting to cross from Ciudad to Buenos Ayres.

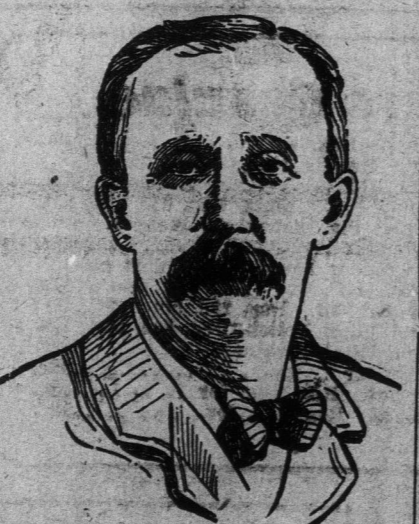

He escaped after many adventures and found his way to Callao. "They were strange people," he said, "and appeared to be half man and half ape. I have no doubt that they meant to eat me. I was mystified by all their kindness until I saw that it was all directed to the end of getting me fat. Then I thought I had better leave, and I did."
De Villepion was a newspaper correspondent during the Russian-Japanese war.

Now Feels Strong and Vigorous

And Fit for Any Amount of Work as the Result of Using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

Mr. J. Hurlbert, 23 James street, Bramford, Ont., writes:—I was very much run down in health and as a consequence my nervous system was very much exhausted. Close confinement at my work, I think, brought on the trouble. I started using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and by the time I had used up one box I felt a great improvement. The continued use of this preparation has thoroughly restored my system so that I feel strong and vigorous and fit for any amount of work. I have also used Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills and Ointment with splendid satisfaction, and recommend them at every opportunity. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cents per box, all dealers or Edmanston Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.

Mr. J. Hurlbert.

It is so easy to overlook the warning given by headaches, indigestion, failing memory, lack of power to concentrate the mind, irritability and worry over little things, that many a man does not realize his danger until on the verge of breakdown.

Like the writer of the letter quoted below, you can call a halt to the wasting process and restore vim and energy to the nervous system by using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. This great food cure has a wonderful record of cures.

Worst Stomach Trouble Ended.

No Indigestion, Gas, Heartburn or Dyspepsia five minutes after taking "Pape's Diapesin."

Every year regularly more than a million stomach sufferers in the United States, England and Canada take Pape's Diapesin, and realize not only immediate, but lasting relief.

This harmless preparation will digest anything you eat and overcome a sour, gassy, out-of-order stomach five minutes afterwards.

If your meals don't fit comfortably, or what you eat lies like a lump of lead in your stomach, or if you have heartburn, that is a sign of Indigestion. Get from your Pharmacist a 50-cent case of Pape's Diapesin and take a dose just as soon as you can. There will be no more sour risings, no belching of undigested food mixed with acid, no stomach gas or heartburn, fullness or heavy feeling in the stomach, Nausea, Debilitating Headaches, Dizziness or Intestinal griping. This will all go, and, besides, there will be no sour food left over in the stomach to poison your breath with nauseous odors.

Pape's Diapesin is a certain cure for out-of-order stomachs, because it takes hold of your food and digests it just the same as if your stomach wasn't there.

Relief in five minutes from all stomach misery is waiting for you at any drug store.

These large 50-cent cases contain more than sufficient to thoroughly cure almost any case of Dyspepsia, Indigestion or any other stomach disorder.

Tories No Longer.

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Mr. Editor,—Will you kindly allow me space in your valuable paper to make a few remarks respecting the feelings of the people of Beachy Cove. This is the beginning of a new year and by God's help I will try to begin it honestly—that I cannot do while I remain Tory.

I have always been on the side of Toryism up to the present. Of the eighty votes cast at the last election in this section of Bay Roberts, the number in favor of the Liberal Party amounted to no more than a dozen. The Grab-balls secured the remainder of the votes of this section. Now, Mr. Editor, is the other way about—all are for Bond and Coaker! with the exception of the few heeler who obtained jobs. There's no use for Piccott to come to Beachy Cove with his soft soap. We know of his serpentine methods. No! Piccott, we have had quite enough of you. What have you done for Bay Roberts? Stuffed it with promises.

Where are the docks and public buildings you promised us? I suppose those hard westerly winds that we've had during the year blew them to Harbor Grace with everything else. It seems to me that you are an excellent tool for the Harbor Grace members. Shame on you, Piccott! It was out of pity we gave you our votes. We knew you were not a fit person to act as our representative, but we thought you'd do your best. No wonder thinking people said we were mad. No doubt we were!

I fear it will require the utmost of Sir Robert Bond and his men to straighten things after four years of misrule.

Piccott, you put me in mind of the story of an old resident of this district: He said on the occasion of his losing all his shot on a day's sport he turned to go home but was soon surprised at the sight of a fox. He had been cobbling the day previous to his outing and some sparrowbills remained in his pocket. He used them as shot and nipped the tail of the fox to a tree whereupon the fox jumped out of his skin. He said to the fox "you may go that's all I want of you." Piccott! you are the same as that man; you get our votes and have no further use for us.

I hear that Morris is coming to select a site for a public building. Piccott is here—I suppose to prepare the way. "Jimmy" has left his busy office a day or two to meet and smile upon Sir Edward on his arrival. 'Tis great! And now, Mr. Editor, I am a poor, unlearned fisherman. Oh! that I had some education, I would shed those graballs' home. If there is anything to be built here, no doubt, their heeler will get the work done. Not the poor half-starved man. I would not accept a job of them. It is to build something equal to the Tower of Babel was their intention, and my work would last during its construction, for I believe a curse must follow their doings.

Come on Mr. Coaker, and give us the change. Give us the man of our choice, but give us the change. That is the sincere petition of the Beachy Cove Boys.

Three Children Perished In Home.

Ottawa, Dec. 26.—While Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Curran, of Edwards Station, Carleton County, were in the stable getting ready to come to Ottawa for Christmas dinner yesterday morning, their house caught fire and their three children, who were in bed, were burned to death. The children met death while the parents stood looking on, unable to do anything to save them.

The fire started at ten minutes after five and the house and contents were destroyed very quickly. Although Mr. and Mrs. Curran, and their neighbors made repeated attempts to break through the flames and carry the children to safety, they could not do so without losing their own lives. The bodies of the children and the baby, only two years old, were recovered later.

England's Anti Mormon Crusade.

London, Dec. 24.—Mormon missionaries have recently been rather active in Ipswich, and the extensive distribution of their tracts led to an unusually large assembly at one of their meetings last night.

The handsome young fellow—apparently a visitor from Utah, for he spoke with a strong American accent—who conducted the meeting was pitted with all sorts of questions, and as these were not satisfactorily answered the meeting was broken up. The Mormon visitor afterwards sought the protection of the police and though he was surrounded by several he was chased through the town and had to seek refuge in a fruiterer's shop. From this he was ejected, and he was afterwards conducted to his lodgings followed by a hooting crowd.

Stricken on Stage

Miss Margaret Hatch, Vaudeville Actress, Drops Dead While Playing.

Stamford, Conn., Dec. 25.—Miss Margaret Hatch, about 40 years old and unmarried, sister of Chas. Hatch, proprietor of a theatre at 63rd St. and Halstead Ave., Chicago, dropped dead on the stage of the Alhambra Theatre here to-night just before one o'clock while appearing in a vaudeville sketch. Death was due to heart disease.

Miss Hatch, it was said at the theatre, had been playing in vaudeville for about two years. The curtain had just gone up on her sketch. Miss Hatch entered and started to speak her lines. Then, clutching at her breast, she turned and staggered into the wings.

The male members of the sketch announced that the woman had fainted. The curtain was rung down and while a motion picture was substituted for the act, a physician, called hurriedly to the theatre, pronounced the woman dead. Little is known here about Miss Hatch.

Murder Done In Great Northwoods.

North Bay, Ont., Dec. 26.—On Christmas Eve in the great North woods a grim tragedy was uncovered which has all the appearance of murder, terrible and sordid. Teamsters engaged in drawing supplies to construction camps of the Canadian Northern Railway from the main line of the C. P. R. at Chapeau found the body of a man in the snow frozen. All around were marks of a struggle in the snow indicating that the man had fought for his life against odds.

On Length of Days.

By RUTH CAMERON.

The other day I chanced to come into conversation with a man who is nearly ninety years old. And if it were by the exercise of some rare virtue or wisdom that he had attained that age, he could not be any prouder than he is. He is not a man who has accomplished anything in the world; he is distinctly narrow and unintelligent and of a very crabbed disposition. The years have neither mellowed him nor given him wisdom. He is a stupid pupil in the school of life. "Well birthed and none the wiser." Moreover he is very sickly and only prolongs his existence by the exercise of fall kinds of precautions. And yet he thinks his ninety years something to be tremendously proud of! What queer folks we mortals are! What strange things we select to be proud of! Why, I know a young woman of twenty-five who is actually proud of the fact that she is incapable of doing the simplest household task. I know another girl who takes infinite pride in the fact that she can't bear to eat ice cream with a spoon but must have a fork. And then there's a man who plumes himself on the fact that he can find evil in anyone, and—but there, if I keep this up I shan't have any space left for my original subject. To return to the main road: Length of life is a blessing, the Bible says so. But how can anyone in his senses think it is to be compared with depth of life? There is a woman between seventy and eighty in our neighborhood who has prolonged a life of nervous invalidism for the last forty years by concentrating on the task of keeping alive and by sipping the very life blood of the rest of the family. Surely this woman would have had a better score to present to the Almighty Scorekeeper if she had really lived, even if by so doing she has shortened her years by half. Surely her length of life is not to be compared with the few packed years of a young man who recently died at the age of thirty after having educated his two sisters, placed his father and mother in a position of financial comfort for the rest of their lives, enjoyed several deep friendships, seen considerable of the world and influenced many lives for the better. If he had not lived so deeply he might have lived longer. Yes, and perhaps Beethoven or Shakespeare might have lived to be old men if they had husbanded their vitality and not poured it out into their work. But surely no one wishes they had lone that. Whether a man's life is long or short is a matter of comparatively small importance. A hundred years or thirty are mighty near the same in pastry. Prepare his filling as But whether a man's life is deep and wide and vital does count.— "Tis not the passing of the days Nor yet the hours we've told, But what we've DONE of good or ill That makes us young or old.

Couldn't Hit Himself.

The Rt. Hon. John Burns recently paid a visit to the political cockshy at Bearn's Court, London. This show is simply "Aunt Sally" brought up to date, for the figures with clay pipes in their mouths are named after certain political personages. Seven shots are given for sixpence; and of course, the usual prize of a packet of cigarettes or something similar is awarded for every broken pipe. Mr. Burns was entitled to throw at Lloyd-George, Mrs. Pankhurst, Keir Hardie, Will Thorne, or even mother-in-law, but he chose the effigy that was supposed to represent himself. Twenty-eight times he fired at his own image, and did not break a solitary pipe. Such marksmanship is simply disgraceful, and Mr. Burns will be well advised to indulge in a little practice in Battersea Park before he puts any more money down. He is still proud of his prowess as a cricketer, but if this is a sample of his "throwing in" then he must be numbered amongst the "rabbits."

However, the stall gained two shillings, and hopes to make more out of the incident, for the young lady in charge recognized the individual who was firing off the "boss" shots, and now there is a large placard: "Patronized by the Right Hon. John Burns, M.P."

LABOR DISSENTS FROM REIGN OF VIOLENCE.

Indianapolis, Dec. 23.—"Organized labor never did and never will approve of such a nation-wide reign of violence and terrorism as has been charged here," asserted Clifford S. Langsdale in arguing to the jury at the dynamite conspiracy trial to-day. Mr. Langsdale spoke particularly in behalf of W. Boert Brown and William J. McCain of Kansas City, Mo., both of whom were charged with having guilty knowledge of an explosion on a bridge in construction across the Missouri River. Orrie E. McManigal said he blew up the work in August, 1910, after James B. McNamara had visited Kansas City.

Austrian Emperor's Working Day.

"The Emperor Francis Joseph, who, although he has been working unusually hard during the present crisis, enjoys the best of health, has just made an alteration in his working hours, which throws an interesting light upon his habits of life," says Dr. E. J. Dillon, in the Daily Telegraph. "During the past forty years the Emperor has been accustomed to rise punctually every morning at four o'clock, and having devoted one hour to the requirements of the toilet, to sit down at his writing table and begin work. From his custom the Emperor never deviated, whether he resided at Vienna or elsewhere. "Recently, however, the Monarch has added half an hour daily to his working time. He now rises at half-past three every morning, commences work at half-past four, and retires to rest as before at eight o'clock sharp. When I was in Buda-Pesth his Majesty had already been some time carrying out the new programme, and received officials and dignitaries at a very early hour. In Schonbrunn Castle the windows of the apartments occupied by the Emperor and his suite are wrapped in utter darkness at eight o'clock every night, but now the lights begin to appear in certain rooms at three and half an hour later that whole palace wing is brilliantly illuminated."

Why Women Are Not RICH.

Man is a millionaire many times over in the possession of blood cells. Woman is not quite so rich, for scientists have proven that the normal man has five million—the woman only four and a half million to a cubic millimetre of blood.

A decrease in number of red blood corpuscles and a person "looks pale"—in fact, is anemic, the blood does not get the right food and probably the stomach is disordered.

Dr. R. V. Pierce found years ago that a glyceric extract of golden seal and Oregon grape roots, queen's root and bloodroot with black cherry bark, would help the assimilation of the food in the stomach, correct liver ills and in Nature's own way increase the red blood corpuscles. This medicine he called Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. By assisting the food eaten the system is nourished and the blood takes on a rich red color. Nervousness is only "the cry of the starved nerves for food," and when the nerves are fed on rich red blood the person loses those irritable feelings, sleeps well at night and is refreshed in the morning.

"I was attacked with a severe nervous disease, which was caused by a disordered stomach and liver," writes Mr. JAS. D. LAVELY, of Washburn, Tenn., Route 2, Box 38. "All my friends thought I would die and the best physicians gave me up. I was advised to try Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and derived much benefit from same. My case had run so long that it had become so chronic that nothing would effect a permanent cure, but Dr. Pierce's medicine has done much for me and I highly recommend it. I heartily advise its use as a spring tonic, and further advise all my people to take Dr. Pierce's medicines before their diseases have run so long that there is no chance to be cured."

Household Notes.

Squash custards are delicious for people who like the squash, but object to it in pastry. Prepare the filling as for pies and bake in custard cups.

In slicing bacon, place the rind side down on the table; cut only to the rind and when enough strips have been cut, slip the knife under them.

Peach stains can be removed by first wetting, then spreading cream of tartar on them and laying them in the sun before washing in the ordinary way.

A folding nursery gate is a great convenience for the busy mother when baby has to play alone. Also a little clothes horse is a handy thing for his clothes.

To make temporary napkin rings for visitors wind half-inch ribbon around brass curtain rings and tie the ends in small bows.

When a saucepan cover has lost its little knob or handle, push a cork part way through the opening and secure it by drawing a nail crosswise through the cork beneath.

A very good and nutritious soup for a family in which there are growing children is made with a beef or mutton stock foundation, thickened with barley and dried lima beans.

An easy way to boil macaroni is to put it into a wire flour sifter with a tin handle, and immerse this in a kettle of boiling water. When done, the macaroni is easily lifted from the water.

Mark the middle of your hat by a cross-stitch of colored thread inside the bandeau, where it will not be opened. Or a bit of ribbon may be sewed to the under edge of the crown.

housewife who has no maid. It should run easily on rollers. When a meal is to be served, move it close up to the range, place on it the food to be served and wheel it into the dining room.

For dusting the kitchen range nothing is better than a whisk broom covered with a piece of old black stocking. Dip the whisk in kerosene and let oil evaporate before using. Treated in this way, the brush will absorb the dust, not scatter it.

To clean the lace yoke of a gown without ripping it out, hold it over several thicknesses of Turkish towel, and scrub the lace with soft, clean toothbrush dipped in soapy water. The towel will absorb much of the dirt. Dry the waist on a coat-hanger.

To clean a fine upholstered chair have the chair well beaten in the open air to remove all dust. Have a quart of warm, dry bran and cover the chair thickly. Then rub the bran all over the brocade with a piece of dry white flannel, constantly replacing the used bran with clean. Brush well.

If the walls of a room are unavoidably damp and there is fear of spoiling the pictures upon them, cut several rounds one-eighth inch thick from an ordinary small cork. Then fix a round of this to each picture to be hung, using a tiny tack for the purpose. Then hang the pictures in the ordinary way.

Clothes closets should always be kept tidy, each dress, suit or coat on its own hanger. The ideal thing would be to have every garment well aired, pressed and brushed before putting it there. The brushing, especially, is important, as dust becomes ingrained in the garment if allowed to stay too long.

An excellent way to clean a carpet is put into a pail a small quantity of soft soap and two or three teaspoonfuls of ammonia. Pour in enough hot water to make a good lather, stirring with a stick. When the soap has dissolved, fill up with more hot water. Dip a scrubbing brush in the solution and brush lightly over the carpet, afterward rubbing with a dry cloth.

This rule holds good in most instances. In looking for trouble first find an affinity.

When a man says his baby waked the household but once during the night is he boastful or apologetic? There is a time in everyone's life when he becomes the publicity agent of union underwear.

The reply of Andrew Bonar Law that the Conservative party would not encourage Ulsterites to resist the Home Rule measure, is regarded as significant. It is thought in some quarters that the Government may take advantage of the present disension in the Unionist ranks on the subject of Tariff Reform, in order to obtain a clear mandate from the country on Home Rule, Welsh Disestablishment, Franchise Reform. It is regarded as quite possible that should the demoralization in Unionist ranks spread, the Government might dissolve the Commons and rush a general election in the course of February.

Shot Himself.

London, Dec. 24.—A retired police inspector with a reputation for bravery, was found shot in the cloak room of West Croydon railway station. He was William Mason, seventy-three, who was chief police inspector at Croydon twenty years ago. There was a bullet wound in his mouth and a revolver was clenched in his hand. In one of the pockets of his coat was found the brief note: "To my dearest one.—Broken down and a broken heart."

The dead man, it is stated, was greatly affected by the death of his wife three years ago, and last spring suffered a nervous breakdown.

He was promoted to the rank of chief inspector after an exciting adventure with four burglars on the Uxbridge-road. As he was riding on horseback he became suspicious of two men who were driving a cart, and was subsequently found to contain a large quantity of silver plate which had been stolen from the local rectory. Two other men were concealed in the bottom of the cart. Mason called upon them to stop but they refused. Then, getting hold of the horse's head, he backed the cart into a ditch, and tackled the burglars with his riding crop. Two of them he succeeded in binding to the car, but the other two escaped.

When he retired from the force he was presented with a clock and a cheque by the inhabitants of Croydon for a substantial amount.

PRESENTATION.—A deputation of citizens from the West End met Deputy Mayor Martin at his home last night and presented him with a handsome gold watch and chain. The recipient in a neat speech thanked the donors for their gift and assured them that he greatly appreciated it.

Death of Mr. J. Furlong

The New York World of the 23rd ult., contains a notice of the death at Brooklyn on the 10th, of December, of Mr. John T. Furlong, son of the late Hon. James Furlong of this city. The deceased was at one time in partnership with his brothers James and Lawrence and conducted a large dry goods business on Water Street, where Jackman the Tailor has his business to-day. Both of his brothers pre-deceased him. He was married to a daughter of Mr. Frecker of St. Pierre, and left this city many years ago for the United States.

Christmas at the Methodist Orphanage.

It was with great difficulty the worker on duty suppressed the excitement in the various dormitories on Christmas Eve, as she made her final rounds, with "Lights are off, Girls," for the night.
Mollie, the ever alert, and witty declared she was going to sleep at once because, then, the time would pass so very quickly, and it would be Christmas.

Think of it! Down stairs in the dining room 33 pairs of stockings were hanging waiting for Santa Claus arrival, and oh, dear, would he remember to come, and would there be enough! These and many other misgivings filled the minds of the sleepless occupants of the tiny cots in the great rooms.
Long before the rising bell sounded the next morning, the dormitories were alive with suppressed chatter. Would that bell never ring? At last its merry tinkle acted like magic in liberating the pent-up powers of speech, and 33 pairs of hands prepared a variety of dressing caesthetics to the rhythm of tongues.

It did seem so trying to the children to have to wait until after early morning recitations before they could obtain even a peep at those stockings, but, when they fled into the dining hall for breakfast they were well repaid for waiting, for one glance told them that Santa Claus had not forgotten, and there was plenty.

Oh, Dear, Blessed Santa Claus! If you could have seen the keen appreciation of all the lovely goodies in those stockings and those funny little prize crackers which give a Christmas stocking such snap you would want to visit us again next year. Next came dinner to which all did justice. Then games in the afternoon, and when bed-time came the happy, but still expectant family trotted off to bed to dream of to-morrow, for Santa had left word he would be back again to-morrow night.

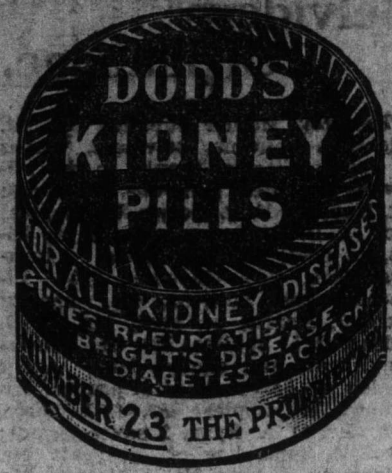

The next afternoon some Santa Claus "helpers" arrived and helped the "staff" trim the tree, while one or two others exerted themselves to entertain and keep the children out of the way.

About 7.30 visitors began to arrive and about 7.45 the children assembled to behold for the first time that tree with its profusion of lovely things in store for them all. Then in came Santa Claus himself "wonderfully natural" looking and intensely interesting. After he had been introduced to the audience the children rendered a programme consisting of pretty carols, recitations, drills and solos.

Then followed the distribution of gifts by Santa, who was assisted by Deaconesses Main and Warnell.

Among those present were Hon. James Angel, Revs. Matthews and Whitmarsh, Prof. Nichols, Mrs. (Dr.) Rogers, Mrs. Storey, Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Currie.

Potatoes.

BY H. L. RANN.

The potato is a thick-waisted, unemotional stimulant, which is served three times a day in 4,289 different styles, all of which taste alike to a man, who does not care for starch in its raw state. It is very useful as a tonic. After a lean boarder has strapped himself around four stout-limbed Early Rose potatoes at an evening meal, he will be able to pass a life insurance examination without sewing ten-pound weights into his trousers.

There are two kinds of potatoes—Irish and sweet. The Irish potato was born in Spain and was originally a cross between the odorous rutabaga and the low-necked squash. It was brought to Florida by an indigent Spanish explorer with a weak stomach, who also introduced to the fauna of our country the lovely potato bug. This explorer later took the potato to Ireland with him, but did not disturb the bug, which may still be seen on calm evenings, droopingly plying its nefarious trade and causing profane thoughts to rise in the breast of the planter.

The sweet potato is a southern product which is caused by applying a low grade of beet sugar to the roots of the Swedish turnip and mixing in a little butter color. It is a nervous article to trifle with at a select dinner, as it has a brittle husk which can be sprayed into all of the surrounding dishes without any effort whatever. It is a melancholy sight to witness the anguish of a butter-fingered guest who is attempting to keep up with the conversation and address a shag-bark sweet potato at one and the same time. As usually served the sweet potato is allowed to retain all of the water that came with it, but when prepared by an old southern mammy and garnished with bacon and greens it will cause the most hardened appetite to sit up and gasp for breath.

Potatoes au gratin are a French concoction which it costs $2.50 to mingle with, while the Saratoga chip is a leafy product, which is eaten with the fingers and a combined effort of the human will. The boiled potato is a

A Note From Musical.

Dear Sir,—I think it opportune right here, to make a reference to the music furnished by the C.C.C. band at Midnight Christmas Mass and also at St. Patrick's last Sunday. The rendering of the Gloria from Mozart's 12th Mass, was excellently performed, in fact, sublimely so. Masters would be puzzled to note a defect. Those young musicians are to be heartily congratulated and too much credit cannot be given to them and to Messrs. Bradshaw and Bulley, for such a high pitch of efficiency. Their record is now perfect, and we hope they shall continue to please a music-loving public, who are proud to boast of their C.C.C. band.

MUSICAL.
On Tuesday last a fierce hurricane raged at Portugal Cove. The residents there say it was the worst in fifty years and much damage was done to property, particularly to the dwelling houses. The wind blew so hard that several people had to leave their homes. The same night a lady, while returning from Fr. Gough's concert, was caught in the snow storm. She had a fearful experience and lost her breath. Eventually she became prostrated and fell on the roadside. She was picked up by some friends and brought home where medical and spiritual aid was given her.

A Note From Musical.

Dear Sir,—I think it opportune right here, to make a reference to the music furnished by the C.C.C. band at Midnight Christmas Mass and also at St. Patrick's last Sunday. The rendering of the Gloria from Mozart's 12th Mass, was excellently performed, in fact, sublimely so. Masters would be puzzled to note a defect. Those young musicians are to be heartily congratulated and too much credit cannot be given to them and to Messrs. Bradshaw and Bulley, for such a high pitch of efficiency. ### Mary Again.

ANOTHER BUDGET OF NEWS.
Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir—I do feel mad enough to say something, but I must not say it or everybody will know I am mad. But what am I mad about, some person will say? Oh that Harbor Grace correspondent of yours, who let my poor sister come here and did not think her good enough to mention her in his items, has the cheek to tell me that mackerel is fish and that fish cannot live in the country. What nonsense. Sure nearly all the ponds in the Island are in the country, and in every pond there are fish, good Newfoundland fish, of course not mackerel, but fish all the same. I don't intend to say much, but at Tom's suggestion I say that while your correspondent cannot boast of as many grey hairs in his head as Mary, still I'll bet a wager that he has more brass in his face. With these few remarks I dismiss him, and forget the whole thing.

Well, Mr. Editor, the Christmas season is now in full swing. Tom and I had a delightful time. We spent a day at Spaniard's Bay, and we had a long chat with one of the few Tories there. They never fail to try and coin something to keep their courage up, but this fellow thought he had something new, and something that would win a lot of votes for his party. "Look here," said he, "the only thing I hate is to have to wait three or four days after Polling Day to hear the result of the Poll. But Sir Edward is going to change all that. He has given the thing great thought, in fact he has been for several months trying to remedy the evil and he has at last hit upon a plan whereby the result of the Poll will be declared the same evening. Talk about Bond's Ballot Act, said he, it was never completed until Sir Edward took a hand in it." Well, Mr. Telegram, you may be all the money the People's Party paid for newspaper support for the past four years, that I was just boiling over by the time he finished this preamble. Well, said I, that is good news to me. I was at the Nickel at St. John's last summer when Mr. Rossley intimated that what he wanted should be quick, so no doubt that is where Sir Edward got the idea, and if I am any judge, and I am, then Sir Edward will get it good and hot and quick on the evening of the Election. Thanks, Sir Edward, for your thoughtfulness. Had you been so "quick" in reducing taxation, developing our coal areas, giving us, elective Road Boards, and a hundred and one other things during the last four years, it might have been better for you, when you come to give an account of your stewardship. Tom asked our Spaniard's Bay friend to tell us how much money the present Government has spent in picnics to their friends during the past four years, and although he seemed very intelligent before, he answered quickly by saying he did not have education enough to tell us. Well, Tom laughed, and I laughed, in fact we all laughed and so, like Mr. Rossley, our Tory friend of Spaniard's Bay got it good and "quick."

In conclusion, I am only going to ask all the fairminded people in this country, to consider well the state of affairs in this country now and compare it with that which existed from four to fourteen years ago and tell me is a dollar now as good as 70 cts. were then, or is it any better than 50 cents were then. Don't jump at a conclusion because Cousin George is in the Custom House, or some other relation in another position where the pay comes out of the revenue. My old man says the cost of living is made high by so many people living out of the Government, out of the revenue I suppose I should say, and even then they are not satisfied unless they can keep a shop or store, or run an hotel in the bargain. Our friend of Spaniard's Bay, had by this time got his breath again and he said: "Why there is not half enough Government officials to do the work required of them. The imports have increased so much under the present rulers that more Customs officials will have to be put on." He said he was sure of that, as he was promised a job. I asked him how many Government officials were to-day drawing the life-blood out of this little "garden of Eden," and I had to laugh again when he said, "Oh I have not got learning enough to tell you." Ha! ha! said Tom, you got it again good and quick.

The good Book tells us that after seven years of famine came seven years of plenty. But to my mind four years of famine will satisfy the Newfoundlanders and the year that is now drawing near us will see the tide of prosperity forcing its way around our shores, and the "clean out" Government will be forced to take a back seat.

Well, we are home again, Mr. Editor, and as this is a quiet night I thought I would jot my little experience on paper for your readers.

Before I close, I must tell you that Tom just brought in a pretty calendar from one of our up-to-date merchants and the first thing I noticed was "Coal a Specialty," but said I it would be better to substitute that

Great Opportunities for FIRST 1913 Friday and Saturday Sales.

Well, now that 1912 has passed and sunk into oblivion, with some there will be retained a memory of something which that year impressed them. With us it was a truly remarkable year, thanks to your hearty co-operation in participating in our sales, the success of which, we pride ourselves, lies in the fact that in conducting those sales we make it a point to place goods of quality pared to the smallest margin of profit to induce fast selling, and with our increased staff and the exceptional facilities our fine store affords, and the extra efforts which we intend to put forth this year, ought indeed to bring 1913 up to, and we might hope for a record one as 1912 has been, and is by us thus retained a memory of 1912.

Cable News.

Special to The Evening Telegram.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2. The World's production of gold 1912 was $5,000,000 greater than 1911, the total being $465,000,000, according to the preliminary estimate announced by George E. Roberts, Director of Mines.

CINCINNATI, Jan. 2. Eugene W. Dahl, travelling freight agent on the Grand Trunk railroad and his young son, were killed to-day when hit by a train on the Cincinnati-Lebanon Northern Railroad tracks at Pleasant Ridge.

HALIFAX, Jan. 2. The Governor-General has signed an order, commutating the death sentence of Hubert Grant to life imprisonment. Grant was sentenced to be hanged next Wednesday for the murder of Thomas Donaldson at Birch Cove, last May.

LONDON, Jan. 2. The possibility of an early general election is widely discussed to-day, in view of Premier Asquith's pointed question to the Unionists in the House of Commons, yesterday, when he asked them to declare clearly what their attitude would be if the Home Rule Bill were submitted to the electorate for approval.

DELHI, Jan. 2. The Viceroy of India, Baron Hardinge, is not recovering as quickly as was expected, from his wounds. The city doctors in attendance declare that he is suffering considerable pain, and remains in a feverish condition. A further operation, it is said, will possibly be necessary, in order to remove some fragments of the bomb which remain embedded in the flesh of the shoulder.

LONDON, Jan. 2. The Daily Telegraph quotes a rumour that the Ambassadorial Conference will temporarily suspend its sittings as Austria and Russia, acting on the advice of Britain, have entered into direct negotiations with regard to the delimitation of the frontier of Albania. A despatch to that journal from Constantinople says that the people of the Ottoman Empire are more hopeful of peace for two reasons, first because the Sultan has postponed his intended visit to the Tchatalja lines, and secondly because an understanding has been reached between Turkey and Bulgaria with regard to the despatch of food and medicines to Adrianople.

LONDON, Jan. 2. Peace negotiations will be broken off, according to Dr. Danfil, the chief of the Bulgarian delegation, unless the map which the Turkish envoys are now preparing, showing the proposed boundary between Bulgaria and Turkey should prove to be in accordance with the terms laid down by the Allies.

WILMINGTON, North Carolina, Jan. 2. The British steamer Alcazar, bound from Port a Pic, Hayti, for Philadelphia, went ashore early to-day at Cape Lookout. Her calls for assistance were picked up here by the Revenue cutter Seminole, which left for the scene, and will probably reach the Alcazar this evening. The Alcazar is 2,000 tons and sailed from Port a Pic on December 17th. She carries no passengers.

On Second Thought.

A woman's idea of an unparadise mistake is to have her crepe de chine gown referred to as chiffon.

If you save your money you will be called a "tightwad." If you scatter it you will be referred to as a "spend-thrift."

It is also demanded of a father that he be frugal and save money to set his sons-in-law up in business.

An Ohio clergyman says kissing is worse than wine. Tank Beverly says the clergyman's phraseology is inapt. "What he should have said," Tank maintains, is that "wine is better than kissing."

Now that it seems pertinent to ask, who put the alum in baking powder? No man believes the sign which reads, "This Means You," applies to him personally.

No man of fifty feels as young as ever, no matter how much he lies about it.

A man may admit his wife has her faults, but he is always ready to defend his bird dog against any aspersions that may be cast upon it.

A woman will forgive a man for whipping her, but she hates the one who steps on her skirt to her dying day.

When a man can restrain his indignation long enough to shed his coat the fight never comes off.

The Testimony of Facts!

From a letter published in the "Autocar" of Sept. 14th, '12, we notice that out of 13 Cars in a garage at Harrogate the following splendid tribute to

MICHELIN TYRES:

- 3 Cars fitted with 2 MICHELINS each out of 4 Tyres.
  - 2 Cars fitted with 3 MICHELINS each out of 4 Tyres.
  - 5 Cars fitted with 4 MICHELINS each out of 4 Tyres.
  - 3 Cars fitted without any MICHELINS at all, which shows out of 52 Tyres, 32 were MICHELINS. In other words, 61½ per cent of Tyres fitted were MICHELINS, the remainder being divided between five other makers.
- MICHELIN Beats Them All.
