LADY IRIS' MISTAKE;
— or the —
Hero of 'Surata'

CHAPTER VIII.
"I envy the flowers that are dying in your hands, Lady Iris," he said. "Will you not say one kind word to me before I leave you—one that I may live on until I see you again?"
She noticed that he was deathly pale; and his emotion and the passion that trembled in his voice startled her. She tried to speak calmly.
"I thank you very much for your kindness and attention," she said. He bent his head still lower.
"Is that all, Lady Iris?" he asked.
"That is all," she replied.
He seemed to take courage. Drawing one of the fading roses from her bouquet, he said—
"I shall keep this, even if you are angry with me, in memory of the happy hour I have known yet."
Before she could answer him the carriage rolled on; and he was left standing bare-headed under the stars, intensely happy, intoxicated with his passion, and dead to almost everything, thinking only of her.
"I shall win her," he said to himself, with an exultant laugh, and she shall be a queen. There shall be no one in the world like her; she shall have jewels as for an empress. My beautiful darling, your proud face shall soften for me, your sweet eyes shall brighten and droop for me! Shall I ever dare to call her 'Iris'—Lady Iris Bardon? Shall I ever dare to call her 'darling', to call her 'wife'?"

From that moment he gave himself up to the maddest passion that had ever filled a man's heart. He resolved that he would win her, no matter what it cost of what happened; he did not sleep for thinking of her. He had never ventured yet to call at Fayne House in the hope of spending an hour with Lady Iris; but he would do so that very day. He would go in the afternoon, and would then begin his wooing.

"If I win her," he said to himself, "I shall be a good man; if I lose her, I shall grow reckless and go to the dogs."
Six or seven hours later he sought his sister, upon whose loyalty he knew he could depend.
"Marie," he said, "I have news for you. You must not speak of it yet, as it is unknown to anybody but myself. You must not ask me how I learned it; but I know it is true. Sir Fulke Glyfard has made Lady Iris an offer of marriage!" He did not see how the fair face blanched and the firm lips trembled. "This is no great news, of course," he continued; "we all expected it. The wonder is to come."
"She has accepted him?" said Marie quietly.
"No, my dear—she has refused him. Can you imagine that, Marie? Refused him. And the fellow is so vain, that I believe he thought no girl could say 'No' to him."

"Refused him, John? Are you sure? People credit such absurd rumors," she cried.
"It is quite true. She has refused him; and he leaves England next week."
"Leaves England?" she echoed, while her lips grew paler. "Are you sure of that?"
"Yes—and it is a good thing too; nothing could be better for him. Traveling will teach him his proper level; he thinks too much of himself. And now, Marie—are you listening?—I want to tell you something. I love Lady Fayne, and I have set my heart on winning her. I must tell you—I must tell some one, or my heart will break with the weight of its secret. I love her so dearly and so deeply that my love almost maddens me!"
She looked at him in deep concern.
"I am sorry to hear it, John," she said—"sorry indeed; for she will never love you."
"How do you know that? Why do you dare to say that?" he cried, so fiercely that she shrank from him, pale and scared. Still she was not to be frightened from telling him the truth.
"I am sure of it, John," she said. "Do not give yourself up to such a cruel delusion. She is too proud; she would not marry you if you were ever so much richer. She would not indeed, believe me!"
"And why not?" he cried. "Pray tell me."
"Because you are not well-born," she replied. But he laughed scornfully.
"I will make her marry me; I will force her to love me, or I will kill her!" he cried, and his sister shuddered at his words.

CHAPTER IX.
John Bardon now devoted himself heart and soul to the winning of Lady Iris. In vain his sister pointed out to him that she who had refused some of the best offers in England would not be likely to marry him. Like Lady Clyfard, he had some vague idea of her character; and he knew that she would never fall in love in a commonplace manner, that there must be something unusual he believed would be found in himself, for he was different in every way from the "glided youths" who surrounded her. He felt sure of success, and laughed at Marie's warnings.
"When did a great love ever fail?" he would say. "It is the dwarfed puny feeling people call love that fails, not a great passion like mine. I shall win her, Marie, you will see."
Lady Iris was rather surprised when she saw John Bardon enter the drawing-room at Fayne House.
"I am fortunate to find you at home," he said. "You gave me permission to call sometimes upon you, because we are neighbors when we are at home. I want you to give me some advice; you were kind enough to say that you were interested in my career."

She had repeated more than once of those well meant but rather imprudent words. There was no help for it; she could not unsay them. She bowed, and he drew great encouragement from her manner.
"You do not know how happy those words made me," he went on; "I have thought of them ever since. And now I want to ask your advice; since you said that you were interested in my career, it has become more precious to me than ever."
"You must not attach too much importance to my words," she said, blushing at the seeming vanity of her speech, and almost hating herself for having to utter it.
"No," he answered, with a bright smile; "you shall not take from me the happiest memory I have, that of your own kind words. I want your advice, and I am sure you will give it to me. I have health and strength, and plenty of money at command, tell me for what career you think I am best fitted, and I will pursue it with an ardor that shall make even you wonder at me."
The softness vanished from her face, all the pride and hauteur returned to it. Still she would not be unkind; she thought of Sir Fulke's face, which was so full of pain when she rejected his suit; she would try to be kind and gentle to this man, although his presumption was hard to tolerate.
"I do not see how I can, Mr. Bardon. To give advice as to a career one must know the person to whom the advice is given; and I do not know you well."
He winced at the words spoken by the lips so devotedly, they pierced him like a dagger.
"You were so good as to say that my career interested you, will you tell me why?"
"Will you be offended with me?" she asked, laughing a little, "if I tell you the truth, or rather will it annoy you?"
"Nothing that you could do or say, Lady Iris, would ever annoy me," he replied; "but I must say that I should like to know why you used those words, why you said you were interested in my career."
She looked up at him with laughing eyes.
"Because you are so earnest, so full of energy, and particularly because you will have so much money. I am sure you will not know what to do with it all."
(to be continued.)

Useful Hints.
For dusting carved furniture a painter's brush of moderately stiff bristles is most useful.
Never leave the jam spoon in the jam, or the fork in the pickles, or the verjuice will result. The habit is a most dangerous one.
To remove the odour of fish from silverware, add a spoonful of mustard to the washing-up water.
To keep flies off windows add a little paraffin to the water with which you clean the glass.
A good deodoriser for the sickroom is a little essence of cinnamon placed in a shallow dish, and allowed to evaporate.
If it is necessary to store silver for a time, wrap each piece in paraffin paper. When you have occasion to unwrap it, you will find that each piece will be as bright and shiny as when laid away. The wax paper excludes the air and prevents tarnishing.

With the Terrible Turks.
SOLDIERS WHO LUST FOR BLOOD
Whatever the final outcome of the renewed contest between the Turks and the Greeks may be, King Constantine's soldiers will have good cause to remember their unsavoury contact with the Nationalist troops.
The Turk lives for fighting. He loves the fray and lusts for blood. Peace has no attraction for him; an uneventful existence bores him. Whilst soldiers of other nations fight with bravery and with sacrifice, hoping for the ending of the conflict, the Turk anticipates with disappointment the day when he will lay down his arms.
The Greek is naturally lazy, and has little stomach for prolonged warfare—the comparison between the two types engaged in the present campaign enables some forecast to be made as to the result of the contest in Asia Minor.
A Battle-Won Paradise.
Many Turkish soldiers hold to a belief that inspired the heroes of the Mad Mullah to hurl themselves to certain death—that to die in battle is to expiate their every sin, and thus secure immediate entry into a glorious hereafter; and this conviction robs them of all fear. They feel that by being killed in the fray they have little to lose and much to gain, and thus it is that they fight with a zest that makes things decidedly uncomfortable for the opposition.
The commissariat arrangements in the old Turkish Army were of a very low order, and those of the Kemalist forces are said to be even less efficient. However, it is certain that this factor will not debar him from parrying his hated enemy, the Greek.
A daily ration of a Kemalist fighter consists of a small loaf, a Lard of beans, and about half a pint of olive oil distributed every morning.
Turk's Only Terror.
Although he scorns death in battle on account of his belief, the Turkish soldier is terrorized at the mere thought of losing his life in captivity or of being shot as a spy. To pass from the world in either fashion is to be debarred the privilege accorded to those who die fighting; entry into Paradise is dependent on just those factors that decide the fate of those who have never even battled. Perhaps this is why such stringent means have to be adopted to retain captured prisoners of war, if there is the slightest opportunity of escape, it is seized. Some remarkably clever schemes have been employed to retain freedom, and it is a popular assumption that "a Turk is never captured till he is dead!"
During the Great War the Allied Command in the East, congratulated themselves when Ahmed Pasha, the notorious spy, was caught and sentenced to die; he had been the means of upsetting many a well-laid plan. Ahmed, however, did not die! The night before his execution, guarded by frequently relieved sentries, he made himself comfortable in his little "cage," which, the season being warm, was placed out in the open. As soon as it was dark he made a bed of straw, then covering himself with a blanket, and still wearing his cap, apparently went to sleep. When a soldier went to wake him on the morning of what was to be his fatal day, all that was found was a bundle of bedding shaped like a man, an old cap placed where the head should be, and a blanket—Ahmed had disappeared, although how he managed to elude the notice of his guards has never been found out.
Evasive Nurl.
Nurl Pasha, brother of Enver Pasha, was one of those prominently associated with the terrible massacres in Armenia, and was as well a very inconvenient enemy during the late war. He also was captured, and extraordinary precautions were taken to prevent his escape. He was held in captivity in a South Russian area occupied by British forces, and notwithstanding the fact that his chances of getting away were absolutely hopeless, he was watched night and day by an ever-present officer and two guards. One evening, when the prisoner was taking exercise, a band of armed men suddenly appeared, killing the two sentries, and hustled the captive away. How the plan of escape had been pre-arranged, how Nurl had held communication with the outside world, was a mystery at the time, and has been a mystery ever since.—Glasgow Weekly Herald.

The Sheriff.

For years I have cavorted along the Great White Way, while creditors exhibited and begged me for their pay. The butcher and the baker were always on my trail, the sor did undertaker insisted on some kale. In winter and in summer, across the vales and hills, the coal man and the plumber were chasing me with bills. And oftentimes my pastor would read the riot act. "You've headed for disaster," he said, with splendid tact; "you blow your coil for rubber tires and gasoline, for patent jack or snubber, and this is base and mean; for all the time you're owing to every merchant till, and everywhere you're going Turks Endeavoring to Amplify Terms.

Great Rejoicing in Constantinople... Balfour Says Massacre Impending in Smyrna... Kemalists Invade Neutral Zone.

NATIONALISTS CANNOT ACCEPT ALLIED TERMS. CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 25. Hamid Bey, representative of the Ankara Government in Constantinople, declared to-day that the Allied invitation to the peace conference could not be accepted by Turkish Nationalists on the terms laid down. 'We cannot accept the Allied terms because they propose to demilitarize the Sea of Marmora and part of Thrace, which would prevent us bringing our troops from Asia to Europe,' said Hamid in a statement to the correspondent. 'Neither can we accept literally the condition that our army shall not advance within the Peace Conference is progressing. It would so circumscribe our movement that the enemy would have an ample opportunity to prepare for a fresh attack, and would give the Allies a chance to complete their land and naval reinforcements in the event that the Conference failed. We have already admitted freedom for passage of all vessels through the Dardanelles, but we are not prepared to define in what authority of body control shall be vested. That question must be settled by conferences between the Turks and the Allies.

ed. The general opinion among Allied officials who understand the psychology of the Turk is that Mustafa Kemal will accept the Allied conditions. Major General Frederick E. Maurice, for a long period during the war Chief Director of military operations at the War Office in London, and now military expert on London newspapers, said to a correspondent to-day: 'The war is over. Kemal will accept the Allied proposals with reservations. He is just as anxious for Peace as the Allies but one mustn't take him too lightly. Kemal has an army of 180,000 that may be regarded as fighting troops. It would take a good deal to defeat the Kemalists, but I am so confident of peace that I am leaving for England in a few days.'

TURKS OCCUPY EREN KEUL. CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 25. The Ankara Government has officially announced that the Kemalists' divisions totalling three thousand men have occupied Eren Keul.

SUBMITTING TO NATIONALISTS. CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 25. It is reported here that the Grand Vizier has notified the Kemal Government that the Constantinople Government does not desire to embarrass Ankara and that the ministers, therefore, are prepared to tender their resignation. It is expected Mustafa Kemal will send a Governor General to Constantinople.

NOVA SCOTIA'S COMPETITORS. HALIFAX, Sept. 25. The International Fishermen's Trophy Trustees confirmed tonight the previous decision to bar the Boston schooner Mayflower from competing for the cup. Five schooners have entered for the Nova Scotia championship races when the entries closed tonight. There are the International Champion, Bluenose, the Mahaska, Margaret K Smith and Alcala, all of Lunenburg, and the Canada, Shelburne built but fishing out of LaHave. The Mahaska was launched this spring and the Smith on August 10th.

SOUTH AFRICA'S REPLY. PRETORIA, South Africa, Sept. 25. The Union Government's reply to the British appeal for support in the Near East was published to-day and said that the position had materially improved, so that there was no longer need for the Union's active intervention. Premier Smuts explained that the delay in replying was caused by the fact that he was in an inaccessible part of the country.

MASSACRE PENDING IN SMYRNA. GENEVA, Sept. 25. The Earl of Balfour brought before the Assembly of the League of Nations to-day information from his Government which he said showed that a great calamity was threatening the Greek and Armenian refugees in Smyrna. He said Great Britain was ready to give fifty thousand pounds to a relief fund and appealed to other countries to contribute. The Assembly was much affected by Lord Balfour's appeal and by the reports from British sources that a massacre was impending at Smyrna. According to the British report the massacre has been set for September 30.

CONSTANTINOPLE REJOICES. CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 25. The city is in full cry of exultation over the announcement that the Allies are prepared to return Thrace to Turkey. The city is a riot of flags. Prayers from minarets rendered thanks to Allah that Thrace has been restored.

TURKS AGAIN INVADE NEUTRAL ZONE. CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 25. Turkish cavalry armed with machine guns returned within the neutral zone at Chanak to-day. General Harrington, British High Commissioner, instructed the Nationalist representatives here to request Mustafa Fash to order their withdrawal. Failure to comply within a reasonable time would fall upon the heads of the Kemalists, the instructions said.

BRITISH COLUMN TAKES UP POSITION. LONDON, Sept. 25. Reuter's Correspondent at Constantinople says the force of Turkish cavalry which withdrew yesterday from the Chanak zone returned to-day, the number being estimated at two thousand. A British column has taken up a position halfway towards Eren Keul ready for eventualities.

CANADIAN CATTLE. CALGARY, Sept. 25. Great Britain will import most of Canada's stock cattle to the extent of approximately a hundred and twenty thousand annually, when the Canadian cattle embargo is finally removed, according to a statement of William Shapman, President of the Livestock Traders Association of Great Britain, upon arrival here with a business associate.

A DASH FOR FREEDOM. CORK, Sept. 25. Thirty-nine irregular prisoners, being held in the county jail here escaped by tunnelling to a claustrated ventilating shaft from which they reached a manhole in the road, outside jail. Only two were recaptured.

LEAGUE COUNCIL AGREES. GENEVA, Sept. 25. The assembly of League of Nations to-day made finally effective the recent decision of the council for an increase in the Non Permanent Membership Council. The assembly adopted the Council's recommendation raising the number of such members from four to six. GERMANY GIVES VOTES. PARIS, Sept. 25. The German Delegation, to-day, delivered to the Reparations Commission here, notes for approximately ninety million gold marks, in payment of August and September fifteenth allotments due Belgium.

Big Fisheries Development Scheme for Anticosti Island. It is rumored that Mr. Gaston Menter, owner of Anticosti Island, who is now sojourning there with his son and Mrs. Menter, Jr., and the Governor and General Manager, Mr. Martin Zede, has evolved a very big programme for the further development of the island and its natural resources. Mr. Menter believes, and he is quite right in coming to this conclusion, that the island of Anticosti is in the midst of a rich, virgin fishing area, the development of which can be made into a very flourishing industry. It is said that some fifty fishermen and their families will be located on the eastern end of the island with the most modern fishing paraphernalia at their disposal. Cold storage houses will be erected and two fine boats will be purchased to carry on a ferry system between Gaspe Basin and the island, which service might even be prolonged into the winter months, as one of the ferries will probably be an ice-breaker. By connecting with the mainland at Gaspe, the distance for the transportation of fish, freight, passengers, etc., will be reduced to a few hours. If this proposition is carried out, it will certainly inaugurate another large industry for the Gaspe coast and bring Anticosti into closer touch with the Canadian mainland.

If these ferries are established between the eastern end of the island and Gaspe, it means that the distance between New York and the island can be made within forty hours, which would afford Mr. Menter an opportunity of forming one of the greatest hunting and fishing preserves in the world. There are thousands of deer, bear and other big wild game on the island, the shooting of which would prove a huge attraction for thousands of American sportsmen. It would not be a case of shooting the big game, but 'paying' for the privilege of plucking out your heads from herds of thousands of deer, bear, caribou, etc., not to speak of the salmon and other deep sea fishing attractions of the surrounding waters. The purchasing of two new boats will probably result in the disposal of the present ship now engaged in service between Quebec and the Island. It is said that Mr. Menter's inability to find a market for his fish in Quebec has had much to do with the change of transportation facilities for handling his fish and other products to be shipped via Gaspe, providing a proper terminal site for a cold storage plant and other warehouses can be obtained in Gaspe harbour.—Quebec Chronicle.

Diplomatic Victory.

The Turks, with the assistance of France have won a diplomatic victory over Britain. The return of Turkey to Europe agreed to by Premier Lloyd George must be regarded as a triumph over the British Prime Minister, whose ideas and wishes in this direction were altogether antagonistic to any restoration of Turkish power on the European side of the Straits.

Icelandic Trawler in Port.

HAS 75 TONS FISH.

S. S. Skallajrimur, 1 1/2 days from Grand Banks, arrived in port this morning for coal and supplies. The ship is an Icelandic trawler and hauls for 75 tons or about 1,500 qts. salt bulk fish. Owing to poor fishery in the North Sea the trawlers, both Icelandic and French, came out to the Grand Banks, and as in this instance they met with much success. Another Icelandic trawler is expected in port for supplies in a day or two.

Lost Four Fingers.

WORKMAN'S HAND CAUGHT IN SAW.

George Locke, an employee of the Horwood Lumber Company, met with a serious accident this morning which resulted in the loss of four fingers. While engaged in his work at the mill, his hand was caught in one of the saws and the fingers were completely severed. The injured man was taken to the drug store of Mr. Peter O'Mara where the wounded hand was bandaged. He was afterwards removed to the General Hospital.

Copper Ore Shipment.

REVIVING OLD INDUSTRY.

As well as noticed by our shipping column to-day, Messrs. C. F. Bennett & Co. are making a shipment of copper ore from the Tin Cove mines by the S.S. Elizabeth R. The ore is being shipped to New York, but the present state of the market does not return much remuneration. It is quite a while since copper was exported from this once famous mine, and it is hoped that the present shipment of about 3,000 tons will be found profitable, thus making a continuation of the industry possible.

Motor Car Accident.

MACHINE TURNED TURTLE.

Last night a well known victualler, resident of Nagle's Hill, came near being killed when his motor car was ditched near Cook's farm and turned turtle. The car broke through a steel wire fence and turned over in a field, smashing the wind shield and pinning the driver. Fortunately several people returning home discovered the man's predicament and rescued him, none the worse for his experience.

HIS DIARY.

Sept. 25th.—Up betimes and to the office in mighty bad humour. From despatches out of England I learn how Constantinople is given back to the Turks, and this angers me mightily, seeing how all that were killed in Gallipoli did but have their lives wasted, and the Dardanelles will be no longer free, even if the Turks promise it. Anon to the Majestic play-house and see there the picture of the Three Musketeers, but I greatly disappointed, seeing how D. Fairbanks did make a buffoon of D'Artagnan, but in other particulars the picture a mighty fine one.

EMPLOYMENT AT BARACHOIS FOR 150 MEN.

Employment for 150 men is being provided in a lumber mill which an American firm has erected at Barachois, Bay St. George. The crops at St. George's this year have been very good, and although the fishery was poor the people are fairly well off on the whole.

Partridge Berries Plentiful.

LARGE SHIPMENT EXPORTED. This season partridge berries are very plentiful around Bay de Verde and Old Perilous, and the people there are, as a consequence, able to earn ready money with which to purchase necessities. Already some hundreds of barrels have been packed and families have earned as high as eight dollars per gallon. Buyers pay twenty cents per gallon and so numerous are the berries that a man can hand pick 14 gallons in a day. The Sable I. sailing to-day, took nearly a part cargo of these berries and on the previous trip over one thousand barrels were carried.

TO-DAY'S MESSAGES.

TURKS WILL ACCEPT CONDITIONS CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 26.

The reply of the Turkish Nationalist Government to the Allied peace note has been completed, and comprises the acceptance of conditions laid down at the Paris Conference, according to Enver Bey, side to Mustafa Kemal, who has just arrived from Smyrna. The Nationalists, however, insist upon their right to conduct military movements during the progress of the Conference and also demand admission to a meeting of all the Allies and the Ankara Government including Russia, Persia and Bulgaria. An Armistice Conference will be held at Mudanya on or about October 2nd, provided the Turkish reply to the Allied peace note is accepted, according to a decision of the Council of Allied Commissioners held yesterday afternoon at the British Embassy, attended by Hamid Bey Turkish representative. Hamid asks pledges from the British that positions around Chanak be not reinforced during the progress of negotiations.

SULTAN MAY ABDICATE.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 16. The Sultan is said to be in a state of complete collapse, and indications are growing that his abdication is imminent. His entourage are beset by fears, and one by one they leave the palace, where violent epithets, said to have been used by Mustafa Kemal in newspaper interviews, regarding the Sultan have caused painful dismay.

OTHER NEAR EAST FACTORS JOIN ISSUE.

ATHENS, Sept. 26. Premier Triantafyllidis is planning to strengthen his cabinet will further by proposing the creation of a National Ministry, representing all parties, and including Venizelos, who would serve as special envoy in entente capitals. Public opinion in Greece is aroused over a reported mobilization of Serbian forces near the northern frontier of Greece, together with the activities of Bulgarians, and the opinion is expressed that Jugo Slavia and Bulgaria plan to take advantage of Greece's present plight to occupy Macedonia, and thus secure outlets on the Aegean Sea.

TURKS VIOLATE NEUTRALITY.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 26. Simultaneously with their occupation, yesterday of Erin Keul, it is learned that Turkish Nationalists also took possession of Kum Kaleh, at the mouth of the Dardanelles. The occupying forces consisted of cavalry. The seizure of these places constitutes a violation of the neutral zone of the Straits.

DISCUSSING A SUCCESSOR.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 26. The Sultan was stirred by deepest emotion when his brother-in-law, Damed Ferid Pasha, left suddenly for Switzerland without bidding him farewell, and nationalist circles freely discuss possible candidates for succession to the imperial throne. Prince Selim, nephew of the Sultan appears to be the favorite choice.

TRANSLATION OF EX-PREMIER'S REMAINS.

OTTAWA, Sept. 26. With simple ceremony, attended by a few former friends, the remains of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, were yesterday removed from their original resting place in Notre Dame Cemetery to a vault built underneath the spot where a monument will shortly be erected to his memory.

POSSIBLE!

LONDON, Sept. 26. The diplomatic correspondent of the Daily Telegraph, according to a Reuter despatch, says that in League of Nation circles Canada, Australia and New Zealand, also neutrals among the smaller powers, strongly favor the direct remission to League of Peace Conference of the entire Near East problem. They think Turkey will more readily accept such terms, as anti-imperialists recognize the League's disinterestedness.

HOPING FOR THE BEST.

LONDON, Sept. 26. An optimistic view is being taken in Cabinet circles of the second invitation of the neutral zone, on the Asiatic side of Dardanelles, announced in Constantinople despatches, and the opinion is expressed that the Allies proposal for a Peace Conference had not reached Mustafa Kemal before the latest advance occurred, or that it was the work of uncontrolled irregulars.

Autelope Breeding.

The Canadian government has a herd of 100 antelope at Nemeikan, Alta., making the most successful experiment known of breeding them in captivity. The last herd at large numbers only 200 and they are rapidly disappearing.

CORRECTIONS.—In the Note of Thanks published in the Telegram yesterday an error occurred. The item read "Mrs. E. J. Correll and family," it should have read "Mr. E. J. Correll and family."

FINED $200.—Charged with common assault on his 15 year old sister-in-law, an additional charge of criminal assault having been withdrawn, a resident of the Blackhead Road was fined $200 and costs in the Magistrate's Court yesterday afternoon.

FUNERAL TO-DAY.—The funeral of the late Henry D. Carter took place from the residence of his son, Mr. C. B. Carter, 42 Queen's Road, this afternoon. A large number of citizens attended. Interment was in the Church of England Cemetery.

RECREATION HUT.—The new Recreation Hut at the Sanitarium, for the erection of which the W. P. A. donated $7,000, is now under construction and will be ready for use before the winter sets in. Three Memorial Windows will be placed in the building.

STOLE A LADDER.—A city police pleaded guilty in the Police Court to-day to the larceny of a step-ladder. He had borrowed the ladder and sold it afterwards. A fine of $2 was imposed. Several civil cases were heard by the Magistrate this morning.

Like Mother's Make.

There was a worried look on the grocer's face as he rushed halloo down the street and ran up the steps of Acacia Villa.

"I'm sorry to say there's been a slight mistake, Mrs. Grumble," he panted. "You ordered two pounds of oatmeal yesterday, and by mistake my apprentice put up some sawdust that our grapes came packed in!"

"Oh," replied the lady, "then I reckon my 'husbun' must 'ave got through with 'art a pound o' wood for breakfast!"

"You don't mean to say that he ate it?" gasped the man in the apron. "Course 'e did," was the reply.

The lady leaned back on the doorpost, and for three minutes indulged in a laugh that brought all her neighbors to the scene.

"Wal, that's right-down funny," she observed with a laugh.

"Many" queried the grocer, "Yus, funny! 'Ere we've been married thirteen years, never first of August, and Charles 'as come first me a compliment till this mornin' at breakfast, when bluest if 'e didn't pass 'is plate for another go o' that sawdust, an' told me it reminded 'im o' the porridge 'is mother used to make!"

BORN.

On Sept. 11th, to Mr. and Mrs. L. Young (nee Elsie Ellis), Provost, Alberta, a daughter.

DIED.

On Monday, the 25th inst., Ambrose Dwyer, aged 81 years. Funeral to-morrow at 2.30 p.m. from his late residence, 12 1/2 Prospect Street.

Prize Fights Becoming Popular in Mexico.

MEXICO CITY.—As recently as 2 years ago a former heavyweight boxing champion attempted to make his popular in Mexico and failed. Today the sport is intensely popular and the bouts which are held regularly every Friday night in Mexico City attract crowds that fill the Fronton, a huge structure in which the Spanish game of pelota is played. The promoters are so enthused over the prospects of the fight game here, that they are planning a combination gymnasium and arena, and they have already set up a school for boxers in which Mexican youths are given free instruction in stunts. These students, in return for their instruction, furnish all the preliminaries to the main bouts and that they do well is attested by the fact that the popular verdict has always been that the youngsters are better than the older principals. Textiles have been sent to several well known boxers in the United States inquiring as to terms for a fight here, and the word has been passed around that the game is looking up in Mexico, because during the past few weeks there has been a great invasion of "ham and egg" fighters who are perfectly willing to be hustled around for a few rounds in return for a few regular meals. Persons who have watched boxing rise and fall in popular fancy here say there is more interest now than ever before. For the first time Mexican boys are being taught to box and their cleverness is undisputed. The Mexican spectators are also commencing to learn the game, and the job of a referee is not the hazardous task it was a few years ago when an unpopular decision usually meant gunplay.

Sympathetic Scents.

LET YOUR PERFUME REFLECT YOUR PERSONALITY.

Most girls and women are fond of scent. Not all use it in the way it should be used. A scent should, properly, reflect a woman's personality.

Violet scent speaks of saintliness and shyness. It is a scent for a girl just beginning life, not for the fully-developed woman. Far better for her to use a scent that reflects the mysteries of the East if she wishes to carry her personality with it.

The scents of the wild wood flowers, the jasmine, the hyacinth, and bluebell, are for the fresh-lipped, rosy-cheeked country girl. They remind you of quiet country lanes, of wind-swept downs and deep woods. They certainly do not go well with high-heeled shoes and silk stockings—but rather with brogues and tweeds.

Rose scent for the town girl—that is the proper perfume. It manages to convey the impression of the countryside, and yet seems to be quite at home on the girl who spends her life in the busy streets.

Lavender-water is a nice scent, but only one woman in a thousand has a right to use it. Lavender speaks to you of old-world gardens, of white-haired old ladies with lace caps, of clear fires and clean hearths. Lavender-water is an old lady's scent. Her suits to perfection. Besides, she possibly has the secret of making it herself. But it certainly is not the scent for anybody and everybody.

And when you come to weigh it up, town girls have a big range of scents to choose from. There are "synthetic" scents that seem to blend together the perfume of every known flower. They are suitable for the town girl. Let them leave the country scent alone, and let the country girl leave attire of roses and such perfumes to the woman of experience.

Easily Satisfied.

D. W. Griffith, the famous cinema producer, is a good teller of funny stories. One of his best yarns concerns a man who acted comedy parts for the "movies."

Strolling down to the studio one morning he met a man whom he knew and stopped him.

"Look here," he began, "I understand that you said in the club last night that I have no sense of humor. Now, a remark of that kind, made publicly in the presence of other people, is very damaging to a man in my position. After all our years of friendship I should have imagined—"

"Here, hold on!" interrupted the other. "You are altogether mistaken. I never said you had no sense of humor. What I said was that you had no sense of honor."

"Ah," beamed the movie man. "I thought there must be some mistake. But if there, old chap! I felt certain you'd never run a pal down behind his back."

He Never Had.

A camera man, working for the educational department of a film company, met an old farmer coming out of a house in the town where he was working and said—

"I have just been taking some moving pictures of life out on your farm."

"Did you catch any of my labourers in motion?" asked the old man.

"Yes, I did," replied the camera man.

The farmer shook his head reflectively, then said: "Science is a wonderful thing!"

Pope Calls to Jews in Hebrew Language.

PIUS XI, ONE OF THE FOREMOST SCHOLARS OF HEBREW IN EUROPE.

NEW YORK.—The democratic manner and linguistic ability of Pope Pius XI, were the subject of comment by Joshua Goldberg, of this city who arrived from Oberlin, Ohio, yesterday on the Mauretania. Mr. Goldberg told how he made arrangements in Rome to have ten young Jewish theological students received in audience by the Pope.

The party was ushered into the presence of the Pontiff without ostentatious ceremony. The Pope received the members with a smile. After bestowing "his blessing" the Pope, chatting with the students for twenty minutes, speaking in Hebrew.

Pope Pius has been a student of the Hebrew language and history for many years. As a young priest he studied the language under the direction of Rabbi Alexander di Fano of Milan, one of the greatest living authorities on Jewish literature, theology, and history. Later, when the present Pontiff had been made Librarian of the Ambrosian Library at Milan, he again studied under Rabbi di Fano in order to perfect himself in some details of the language. Rabbi di Fano is the authority for the statement that the Pope is one of the foremost scholars of Hebrew in Europe.

A Touch of Poetry.

A beautiful touch of poetry relieved the somberness of Michael Collins' obsequies. While the Requiem Mass was proceeding, there was a stir in the silence of the cathedral and a messenger boy walked up the central aisle and handed to General Mulcahy a single lily. The general took the flower solemnly, raised it tenderly to his lips, and laid it on the bier of the hero, where it stood out against the sable velvet like a star in the blackness of night. It was from Kitty Kierman, Michael's broken-hearted sweetheart—a flower symbolic in its exquisite purity of the love she bore the dead patriot.—Catholic Register.

Holland Leaves to Feed Hungry Russian Children.

MOSCOW.—Holland, which cared for thousands of under-nourished German children during and since the war, volunteered recently to nurse back to normal several thousand Russian children if the Soviet government would bear the burden of transporting the youngsters to the Hague. The Bolsheviks have agreed to the proposition. This is the first time that the Soviets have accepted help of this kind from foreign countries.

This Machine Catches Crooks.

A MECHANICAL SPY THAT LISTENS AND TALKS.

Recently a suspected "crook" working in London, was neatly trapped by the aid of a dictagraph, an instrument by means of which sounds are transmitted from one room to another. It is, in effect, a scientific mechanical spy, that listens and talks.

The type of dictagraph used by Scotland Yard is a combination of microphone and telephone. The microphone intensifies sound to such an extent that the footsteps of a fly crawling across a piece of paper are plainly audible.

It consists of a tiny flat vulcanite disc, which can be concealed anywhere in and about a room. It picks up the slightest sound and transmits it over a concealed wire to the detector in a waiting room in another part of the building, where it arrives greatly magnified.

Scores of criminals have been trapped by the aid of this ingenious little instrument, and in one case a murder was prevented, the sibilant cry of a woman being overheard just in time.

Dictagraphs are also in use on some of the trans-Atlantic liners, in order to trap those pests of the modern travelling hotel—the professional card-sharps.

These gentry usually travel in pairs, and mostly they are known by sight to the chief stewards, who take care to allot them double-berth cabins fitted with specially installed instruments. They can then be overheard laying their plans, and their prospective victims are privately warned beforehand.

Some of the big hotels, too, have dictagraphs secreted in their smoking-rooms and bars.

The instruments are connected with the hotel's private telephone exchange and the operator there can listen undisturbed to the conversation of suspects in such places, even though, as is usual, they speak in undertones, or even in whispers.

Boiling Cracked Eggs.

If you accidentally crack an egg before boiling it, the following hint will be found sure and useful—

First boil up your water, then wrap the cracked egg in a paper bag. Before screwing up the neck of the bag, be sure you drop a quantity of salt in the bottom of the bag, and place the egg in it so that the salt completely covers the crack.

As soon as you place your egg in the boiling water a skin will form over the crack, and thus prevent any loss of the yolk or white. Boil for the usual time, and when you lift the paper and egg from the water with one hand, use a spoon to steady it with the other.

What Are You Giving.

A young clergyman, who was spending a holiday in a small, out-of-the-way town, went to the local barber to get a shave. The barber showed a friendly interest in the stranger, who was not in clerical dress. "Stranger here?" asked the barber. "Yes." "Travelling man?" asked the barber. "No." "What are you doing here?" "I am supplying the pulpit," said the parson. "What with?" said the barber, who apparently had never heard the term before. That question set the clergyman thinking, and well it may cause us all an anxious thought.

He Spoke Feelingly.

The teacher was giving a few general questions to test the intelligence of his pupils.

"How many races are there?" he asked.

"Two," replied a small boy, who had been feeling the cane some time previously.

"Two! Well, what are they?" "Please, sir, teachers and pupils."

"What do you mean, my lad, by saying teachers and pupils?" queried the teacher.

"Please, sir," was the reply, "the teachers are the 'canine' race, and the pupils are the 'feline' race."

How Does "Billy" Know?

Premier "Billy" King, as The Toronto Globe affectionately designates the bachelor Prime Minister of Canada, upon his recent visit to his home town, made public the fact that among his many sterling qualities he includes a profound knowledge of women in general. For a single man, whose acquaintance with "the sex" should be, according to the proprieties at least, well limited, "Billy" appears to have been making the ladies the subject of rather close observation.

As in the case of those "bachelor girls," as the modern old maid is now described, who regard themselves as the highest authority upon the rear-end of children, and who so generally offer advice to ignorant mothers, much weight should be attached to "Billy's" description of the type of girl who makes the best mother of great men. The women of Canada should receive with respect the opinion of Canada's first bachelor. But how does "Billy" know?—The Sentinel.

Apes in Siam Detect Counterfeit Money.

The people of Siam are very fond of keeping monkeys of various kinds as pets. Owing to their close association with human beings, these creatures become very intelligent. One of the most remarkable things about these monkeys can do is to test money. In Siam, there is a large amount of counterfeit money, perhaps more than in any other country in the world. As a consequence, the lot of the merchant is a difficult one. They have, however, surmounted the trouble to a large extent by making use of apes to test the coins. Sitting by the side of each merchant is to be seen a solemn-faced ape. Every piece of money handed to his master is at once given to the ape. The animal tests the coin with his teeth. If it is good he throws it into the money box; if it be bad he flings it to the ground. The strange part about the business is that no white person has yet been able to discover how the apes tell the good money from the bad. The mer chants politely refuse to explain how the creatures are trained to carry out this useful office. The only sure thing about the affair is that the ape never makes a mistake.—St. Nicholas Magazine.

The New Novel

By James Oliver Curwood.
Never has Mr. Curwood written a more virile, gripping or swiftly moving story than "The Country Beyond," in which he tells of the love of Jolly Roger, the outlaw, for Nada the "foster-girl" of Jed Hawkins and of their enforced separation through the tracking down of Jolly Roger by Cassidy of the Royal North West Mounted Police. "The Country Beyond" which is packed with thrills is one of the most spacious and fascinating stories that has yet come from the pen of this brilliant writer. Price $1.50.

Pipeless Furnace.
The Hecla

If there is one thing more than another that is essential to comfort in a home it is proper heating. There are five factors in heating a home and all should be given consideration.
First—Amply warmth in each room.
Second—Pure healthful air.
Third—Economy of fuel.
Fourth—Durability. A lifetime of service.
Fifth—Convenient ease of controlling or regulating heat. Clearing out ashes.
This is the measure of a perfect heating system and all these the HECLA PIPELESS FURNACE will give you.

Gorgeous Mormon Temple.

A LUXURIOUS PALACE—BATHS OF BEAUTY.

How two literary men on a walking tour in Western Canada stumbled unexpectedly upon a brand new Mormon settlement in the heart of the wilderness, is amusingly told by Mr. Stephen Graham in "Tramping with a Poet in the Rockies."
The name of the settlement, the first of its kind in Canada, is Cardston, and, although it is of quite recent origin, its founders have already built a Mormon temple that was practically completed at the time of the author's visit.

Fortunately it had not been consecrated, and the two Gentiles were therefore allowed to look over it. Their Mormon guide spoke in a rich Cornish accent, strewing the floor with his allusions.
"Wherever we locate," he said, "we build temples. This is the eighth Mormon Temple. The ninth is now building in Phoenix, Arizona.

"The edifice is of stone," he proceeded, "and the foundations of rock and concrete. There's not five dollars worth of wood in the whole construction. All the wood you see is hickories."

The temple, says Mr. Graham, proved to be the last word in luxury and modern convenience. In the most elegant club in London, Paris or New York I have not seen such luxury and sensual comfort as was in this splendid building in the rough wild west.

Every room was tiled with precious woods. The baths and robing rooms were the canopies for initiation and sealing are prepared, were worthy of a Sultan. The lounge and one piece carpets suggested a material heaven.

They were shown a vast font reposing on the life size figures of 12 oxen, the symbols of the twelve tribes of Israel. This font was the centre of a stately chamber with galleries running round it. From the galleries the friends of the candidates could watch the ceremony of immersion. The font was large enough to baptize whole families at once.

There were several women of the party that were being shown round, and one of them timidly asked the guide: "Is the water cold?"
"Cold?" said the guide ingratiatingly. "Oh no! It's warmed. It's just-I should say about the temperature of warm milk."

"Oh, oh!" There was a chorus of approval from the women, who evidently been considering the whole matter from a purely personal point of view.
Noticing this, the guide proceeded to dilate upon the baths, which, truth to say, were pretty elaborate.

"Ere's the men's section," he explained; "over there's the women's. You natchurally bathe first of all when you enter the temple, and remove every speck of dust or dirt from your body. And ere are the robing rooms where spotless garments is waiting for you to put on. You walks all in white, wherever you goes in the temple, and when it 'as been consecrated no folks will ever go in it in ordinary clothes like you an' me today."

It was all very interesting and impressive, but unfortunately Mr. Graham put some questions to the guide concerning polygamy, causing that individual to close his mouth more tightly than the proverbial oyster.
When the two friends bade him good bye he would only give them his left hand.

"A left-handed shake!" said the author's companion meditatively, as they went down the steps. "You know what that means amongst Canadians?"
"No."
"It means: 'Go to Hell!'"

Laugh and Live Long.

By a SPECIALIST.

While there's a laugh, there's hope. That's what I always think when I am attending my patients, even when their case is supposed to be hopeless by their friends.

If you want health and long life, get the laughing habit. I love to see a patient chuckle. Why? Because mirth kills disease. On the other hand, depression poisons the system, and makes a bad case worse, and a mild case difficult.

If you get the laughing habit you are getting a better tonic than I could ever give you.
Your favorite motto should be, "With mirth and laughter let old wrinkles come." You may be naturally serious and inclined to look on the dark side of things, but your case is not hopeless, you know. You can gradually develop a cheerful disposition, and a sense of humour. Try to follow these hints and you'll soon find life very much worth while.

Don't be too dignified to romp and laugh and take an interest in young people, or even old people with young dispositions. Treasure up those little things that make you grin and chuckle, that appeal to your sense of humour.

Have you noticed how catching a laugh is? Laugh and look at a friend, and probably he'll laugh too. Make a hobby of telling good, witty stories, and make it a rule never to allow a day to go by without passing on a laugh and enjoying a chuckle yourself.

Robust men and women are those who see the funny side of life and can't bear to keep it to themselves, and they don't need the doctor so often as the man who is too "dignified" to be "silly."

You can't think of two things at once—you are thinking cheerfully you can't worry over those little troubles and pinpricks that come to all of us at times.

Marked Coins.

You have often read in reports of trials how "marked" coins placed in a drawer were afterwards found "in the possession of the accused," and perhaps you may have wondered how coins are marked in such a way that they can be recognized again.
The simplest method is, of course, to make tiny scratches of a given shape upon them; but this way of doing it would never deceive the wary old hand, who is usually quite wide enough awake to look out for them.

Something much more subtle is required. The coins used are coated as a rule with a chemical compound which discolors the fingers of anyone who is mischievous enough to pick them up. The acid which it contains makes a stain so deep and so lasting that no amount of scrubbing will remove it; several days, in fact, must pass before it will wear off.

The detective who uses coins "marked" in this way soon obtains a working clue by keeping his eyes on people's fingers, for everyone who has handled them will show the tell-tale stains.

All He Wanted!

When little Johnny reached the mature age of three, and was about to discard rompers for manly knickerbockers, his mother determined to make the occasion memorable. The breakfast-table was laden with good things, as the newly-dressed child was led into the room.
"Ah," cried the proud mother, "now you are a little man!"
Johnny was in ecstasies. Displaying his garments to their full advantage, he edged closer to his mother and whispered: "Mum, can I call pa Fred now?"

A Change of Frost.

In the Advocate a change respecting the Fish Market situation, has again presented itself and a call to Hon. J. C. Crobie and other exporters to meet on a consultation has been made in the editorials. Of course realising that the ill-fated Regulations caused the present export depression, the writers, who all the summer have been advocating co-operative marketing, seems to be in a fool's paradise and an admission of inability to cope with the marketing problems becomes apparent. Perhaps Mr. Boone could enlighten the Advocates as to the proper course and advise the mediums of spiritualism to bring up a formula of by-gone days from our forefathers, or maybe political hypnosis will reveal some method of persuading the buyers across to take our fish as ordered, from the glaring headlines which occasionally loom up on the Advocate's front page. No doubt some of the writings have had an effect on great markets and fishing nations abroad, and even if Newfoundland cannot be located on the great chart sheets of European make-up, yet a stray Advocate may have found its way into the consumers' hands in fishbusting centers, and though fish is mostly needed yet perhaps news of co-operative marketing might appease some appetite who can relish newspaper diet only.

Instead of such scribbling talk why not advise ways and means which can be accomplished or let the Fish Exporters export their own fish in their own way providing the trade of the colony profits thereby. It seems that combines in the exportation of our products unless thoroughly organized, will only cripple instead of build up new markets. Demands on independent buyers do not sell the article but often turns the customer to other sources, where restriction and regulation is not governed by the long time exporters of fish in Newfoundland.—Twillingate Sun.

Bishop to be Tried On Charge of Heresy.

The first steps in a trial for heresy of Bishop William Montgomery Brown, Bishop of Arkansas, retired, were taken Wednesday, September 13, at the General Convention of the Episcopal Church, Portland, Ore. If the trial is held, it will be the first trial, it is said, of a bishop for heresy in the history of the American Episcopal Church. Trials for misconduct have been held in the Church of at least two Bishops, but none for heresy. The appeal to the House of Bishops came from the Diocese of Arkansas, signed by A. E. Lyman-Wheaton, Clerk of the Council. The resolution was to the effect that:

"Whereas, William Montgomery Brown, late Bishop of this diocese, has, in his late published work, 'Communism and Christianity,' renounced the Christian religion, the teaching and traditions of the Church, and has said in said work that he denied the divinity of Christ, and has published to the world the awful dogmas that constitute the basis of our Sacrament of the Holy Communion of bread and wine, thus denying the Sacrament of the Supper of our Lord;

"We therefore, demand of and recommend that the House of Bishops take the necessary steps and action to bring the said William Montgomery Brown to trial for heresy, to the end that he may be deposed from the sacred office of a Bishop of the Church and stripped and unroofed of the priesthood."

Moving Pictures to be Shown in Lhasa.

LONDON.—Thibet, it is hoped, will not much longer be the land of mystery, nor will the great outside world, it is expected, continue to be the great land of the unknown to the Thibetans. They are to be offered an opportunity of seeing, on the movies, something of the wonders to be found in the vast world beyond Thibet. In exchange it is hoped they will allow cinematograph pictures to be taken of the wonders of Thibet for people to other lands to see. A cable just received in London announces the arrival in Calcutta of the members of the British Buddhist Mission to Thibet. They have begun the long and difficult journey on foot through the Himalayas. On their way to Darjeeling the mission visited the Bodhi-tree (the "Tree of Intelligence"), the sacred fig tree, under which, according to Buddhist tradition, Buddha was sitting in contemplation when he attained the perfect wisdom. A film is to be taken of the tree and of the pilgrims visiting it, and it is hoped to show these pictures to the Dalai Lama in Lhasa itself. Films of wild animals and the various aspects of the outside world are also being carried in order to offer to the highest Thibetan authorities the first cinematograph exhibition ever given in their famous city. One of the objects in displaying the wonders and possibilities of moving pictures is to secure permission for making film records of the country and its people.

When men like Archbishop Curley of Baltimore and Bishop Turner of Buffalo, from intimate study on the spot, speak of conditions in Ireland, the rest of us should give respectful attention. Speaking of the Treaty and the Irish Parliament, his Grace of Baltimore, said recently in Dublin: "It seems to me that the Irish people have determined their form of government by the majority vote of their representatives in Dail Eirann, approving the action of their plenipotentiaries at London. Don't Scratch Teeth

Beautify them in this scientific way

Don't try to whiten teeth by use of harsh abrasives. The enamel, if you harm it, won't come back. Polishing agents should be mild, as in Pepsodent.

Combat the dingy film. Do it as millions now are doing—in this scientific way. Then the prettier teeth you see everywhere now will come to you and yours.

The cloudy film

Your teeth are coated with a viscous film. It clings to teeth, gets between the teeth and stays. When not combated, it forms tartar. Film absorbs stains, making the teeth look dingy. These cloudy teeth rob millions of much beauty.

Film also holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay. Germs breed in it, and they with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea. Thus most tooth troubles are now traced to film.

Ways to end it

Film has been the great tooth problem. Old methods did not end it. So well-brushed teeth discolored and decayed. Tooth troubles have been constantly increasing. Now dental science, after long research, has found two ways to fight film. Able authorities have proved their efficiency. Careful people the world over now see and feel the results. A new-type tooth paste has been created, made to meet modern requirements. The name is Pepsodent. These two film combatants are embodied in it for daily application.

Five new effects

Pepsodent brings five effects which science now demands. One is to multiply the starch digestant in the saliva. That is there to digest starch deposits on teeth before they ferment and form acids. One is to multiply the alkalinity of the saliva. That is Nature's agent for neutralizing mouth acids—the cause of tooth decay. It leaves the teeth as highly polished that film less easily clings.

All five effects come from every application. So film, starch and acids are constantly combated. Forces are created which night and day fight enemies of teeth.

To countless homes, all the world over, this has brought a new era in teeth cleaning. The results will be life-lasting.

Send the coupon. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the viscous film. See how teeth whiten as the film-coats disappear. The results will surprise and convince you. Cut out the coupon now.

A scientific way to combat film—to keep teeth whiter, cleaner, safer, without harm. Now advised by leading dentists everywhere.

"Doug's" Latest Picture Greatest Ever Produced.

"The Three Musketeers" Places Fairbanks in Class by Himself as Actor-Producer.

The audience at the Majestic Theatre yesterday was transported backward into the ages a distance of three hundred years through the medium of Douglas Fairbanks' current picture, "The Three Musketeers."

The story, based on Alexander Dumas' greatest novel, has to do with the plot of Cardinal Richelieu to bring about the downfall of Queen Anne of Austria who with King Louis XIII, ruled France in the Seventeenth Century. Being the power behind the throne, Cardinal Richelieu was jealous of the influence exerted by the Queen. In order to discredit the Queen, the Cardinal conspired to involve her in an affair with the Duke of Buckingham, prime minister of England.

His plot was frustrated through the heroic work of D'Artagnan and his loyal friends, the three Musketeers, in the most amazing series of adventures, duels and thrills that have ever been pictured.

Douglas Fairbanks' work as D'Artagnan entitles him to a position on the topmost rung of the ladder of fame. He is more restrained, by far more dramatic than in anything he has ever done before. His love-making is of the sort that rings true; it is neither silly nor over-done. The scene in which he comes to the Queen exhausted but with the jewels he was sent to recover is one of the most dramatic and realistic ever seen on either stage or screen.

Marguerite De La Motte's work in the part of Constance, the little seamstress who was the Queen's closest companion, and who was also in love with the intrepid and resourceful D'Artagnan, is one of the most naive interpretations this clever little actress has ever given us.

Every other part is splendidly cast. Most notable among the players are Adolphe Menjou as King Louis XIII, Mary MacLaren as Queen Anne, Nigel de Bruiler as Cardinal Richelieu, Thomas Holding as the Duke of Buckingham, Barbara La Marr as Milady de Winter, Boyd Irwin as Rochefort, Lon Poff as the gaunt, spectral monk, Father Joseph; Willis Robards as De Treville, captain of the King's Musketeers, and Leon Barry, George Slegmann and Eugene Pallette as the three Musketeers.

The Potential Value Of Figures.

Probably you remember the old story of the man who objected to a blacksmith's charge for shoeing his horse. "Very well," said the smith, "will you give me a farthing for the first nail I drive, a halfpenny for the second, a penny for the third, and so on?" The man agreed, thinking that he was making a good bargain.

Supposing that there were five nails in each of the four shoes, how much do you think the last one came to? No less than 1,048,576 farthings, or £1,092 8s. 4d!

When you come to doubling a thing over and over again the increase is amazingly rapid after the sixth or seventh step. The tenth doubling gives 512; the thirteenth 1,073,741,824; the 60th, 1,152,921,517,406,846,976—a truly appalling string of figures.

You see from this how a cold, influenza, or any other disease caused by microbes becomes worse so rapidly once it has started. Most microbes double themselves once in a day, and so a cold that starts in the throat reaches the 20th step in five hours, the 30th in six and a half and the 60th in fifteen.

Can you wonder that a cold is bad when you realize that your body contains a microbe population equal to a thousand million times the whole human population of the earth?

Prizes for the Elimination Race.

To date two entries have been received for the Nova Scotia Fishermen's races of Halifax, the winner of which will go to Gloucester to defend the International Fishermen's trophy. These are the speedy Blue-nose, Capt. Angus Walker, of Lunenburg, 1921 winner of the cup, and the Canada, Capt. Joseph Conrod, which competed in last year's series, finishing second in the first race and bringing up the rear in the second. Canada has many admirers, who say that she was not in her best trim in the 1921 contest and may make an altogether different showing this year.

Entry of the schooner Mahaaka, commanded by Captain Mack, and built at Lunenburg this year by Smith and Rhuland for W. C. Smith and Company, is hoped for. The Mahaaka has many friends in Lunenburg and elsewhere who regard her as a dangerous rival for the Blue-nose and who look forward to seeing a contest between these two splendid vessels.

At a meeting of the Nova Scotia Race Committee yesterday afternoon, it was decided to revise the prize list as follows: $5000 and the Nova Scotia Trophy to the winner; $1000 to the boat securing second place in the series; and $800 to the schooner finishing third. The winner, going to Gloucester, will receive, if it is understood, the $5000 voted by the Dominion Parliament and at Gloucester she stands to receive another $2000 if she loses or $3000 if she wins—Morning Chronicle.

Rural Route No. 1, Mascouche, Quebec. The Minard's Liniment People. "Sir—I feel that I should be doing a wrong if I neglected to write you. I have had four tumors growing on my head for years. I had them cut off by a surgeon about fifteen years ago but they grew again till about three months ago I had one as large and shaped like a lady's thimble, on the very place where my hair should be parted, and it was getting so embarrassing in public that it was a constant worry to me. About three months ago I got a bottle of your liniment for another purpose and saw on the label good for tumors. Well I tried it and kept it for exactly two months, with the result that it has entirely removed all trace of the tumor, and were it not that they had been cut fifteen years ago, no mark would have been seen. I have not been asked for this testimonial and you can use it as you see fit.

Medicine Men.

In all times some degree of healing power has been ascribed to the priesthood. Medicine men, mystery men, shamans, or, by whatever name they might be called, were to be found in every tribe of North American Indians. Some of these knew the medicinal qualities of roots and herbs and practiced rude surgery, and others were "fakers." A medicine man of the Colorado river, says John G. Bourke in an article on the Apache medicine men, would cast a bullet in a mold containing a small piece of paper. The healer would have an Indian fire this bullet at him and the lead, because of the paper, would split into pieces and do him no harm. Another would secretly fasten the end of a roll of sinew to a twig, swallow the ball and hold the twig between his teeth. After the sinew had softened and expanded "because of the heat and moisture of the stomach" the magician would astound his friends, Bourke says, by drawing out yard after yard, declaring he did not need intestines, and was pulling them all out.—Adventure Magazine.

Just Folks
By EDGAR A. GUEST.

THE OLD-FASHIONED FATHER.
They tell me I'm old-fashioned, And I fancy that I am, But when meals are four-hour rations And the baby wants to cram Just a little in between 'em, And declares it with a cry, Then I want to contravene 'em, "Let her eat her fill," says I.

Oh, I know the rules of science, And its edicts just and terse, And I bow in meek compliance To the doctor and the nurse, It is wise, there's no denying, To be thoughtful in her care; But when hunger starts her crying I would fender her, then and there.

Now they tell me that a baby Cries to get her exercise, And I must admit that maybe Infant science very wise, But when she is exercising For a full straight hour or more, And her yells are louder rising, Then it's time to walk the floor.

Oh, they tell me I must never Swing her gently to and fro, Or I'll be her slave forever, And she'll keep me in the noose, Now they seldom let me hold her, For they're fearful as can be, That I'll ride her on my shoulder Or will bounce her on my knee.

I'm an old floor-walking father, And a bouncing dad am I, I'm old-fashioned, sure, my neighbor, 'Tis her up than let her cry, And I feel an urge compelling, Though they tell me it's unwise, To do something when she's yelling, And to fender her when she cries.

"WHY GIRLS LEAVE HOME" A TRULY GREAT PICTURE.
The Warner Bros. production "Why Girls Leave Home" which is now showing at the Nickel Theatre most decidedly comes under the head of "big pictures." Not only because it is of greater length than the average screen product or because its settings cast and other adjuncts to the story are on a most elaborate scale but because it is big in theme and direct in treatment. "Why Girls Leave Home" goes right at the heart of the problem and does not deviate in the slightest from its purpose of presenting a clearcut and constructive story that reveals not only the reasons but skillfully suggests a correction of them, a masterpiece.

Strange as it may seem, the suave polished villain of popular conception is not the main reason, in fact he is a negligible quantity. The real reason "Why Girls Leave Home" is mainly "the parents." The producers of the pictures have selected two specific instances which, because of their wide contrast, cover a wide range. These two stories develop side by side through a most masterly construction of the scenario and afford solid entertainment every minute.

Anna Q. Nilsson heads a superlative cast which contains the names of over a dozen very prominent photoplayers who under the capable supervision of Harry Rapf and W. S. Nigh offer a series of character portrayals that are true to life.

Beautiful photography, elaborate settings and action every minute make "Why Girls Leave Home" a masterpiece.

Double Murder

AT NEW BRUNSWICK, N.J., OF A MINISTER AND HIS CHOIR LEADER.

New Brunswick, N.J., Sept. 20.—The inquiry into the killing last week of the Rev. Edward Wheeler Hall, rector of the Church of St. John the Evangelist, and his choir leader, Mrs. Eleanor Reinhardt Mills, wife of the church sexton, was centered to-day in investigating a theory that an abandoned farm-house near the spot where the bodies were found on Saturday night have been used by the slain couple as a trysting place.

Prosecuting officers of Somerset and Middlesex Counties, whose Grand Juries yesterday began a formal inquiry into the double killing, were expected also to cause the arrest of one person on a short warrant charging suspicion of murder. No intimation was given as to the identity of the person to be arrested.

A Kingdom With an Army of Three Men

The kingdom that "died" but never was conquered; the kingdom with the smallest standing army on record, three men; the kingdom of Nualolo, behind its walls of mountain and turf in an almost forgotten corner of the island of Kauai, is being "rediscovered," says an Associated Press despatch from Honolulu.

This ancient domain, the only part of Hawaii which King Kamehameha the Great could not bring under his empire when he routed all other rivals in battle and united the islands, has been reopened. A rope ladder once again dangles from the Nualolo cliffs in the identical place, fastened through the same holes cut in the rocks by the Hawaiian warriors of long ago.

The Kingdom of Nualolo is on the northwest coast of the island of Kauai of the Hawaiian group, in the heart of a wonderful precipice section which rises abruptly from the sea in almost perpendicular cliffs from 2500 to more than 4000 feet in height. It comprises nine valleys, three large and six small, each ending at the sea in a precipice.

There are only three practicable ways of getting into this old domain. One is by a dangerous trail upward from the ocean front, a second is by another and steeper trail over the mountains from the landside and the third and easiest is by rope ladder from Nualolo beach, and thence over a narrow, winding path cut out of the rock, where a misstep means a fall to death. The latter route recently has been reopened by the placing of a new rope ladder where its predecessors hung many years ago.

When Nualolo maintained its independence in the face of the advances of the Great Kamehameha, before the days of high explosives and airplanes, three men only were needed to keep its gates. An old Hawaiian, named Ku, has given the following graphic description of Nualolo's simple but effective method of defense:

"One guard sat at the top of the Honopu beach precipices with a pile of rocks at his side. Only one enemy at a time could climb the trail, and in case of attack the guard dropped a stone on the head of each enemy as he appeared from below, or smashed his fingers with a rock as they clutched the overhanging ledge.

"At Nualolo, where the trail is up a ladder, one guard was stationed at the top of the ladder with a stone axe. As each hostile head appeared the axe came into play.

"On the Kamalle trail from above on the land side, a guard with a pole waited with a niche in the cliff out of sight of the approaching enemy. When the latter came within reach along the narrow pathway the guard would give him a shove with the pole and a 200-foot drop did the rest."

Looked behind their barriers of towering mountains and pounding surf, the people of Nualolo developed a system of agricultural irrigation which remains to this day as a tribute to their industry and engineering ability.

According to Dr. H. E. Gregory of the Bishop Museum, Honolulu, no finer irrigation system ever has been worked out by the Hawaiians than that of the ancient valley kingdom. Every available foot of the steep valley was made productive.

Very few persons have been able to get into the old kingdom during the past three-quarters of a century, but the recent placing of the rope ladder near Nualolo beach is expected to end Nualolo's decades of isolation and reopen its historic terraces and trails once again to the foot of man.

No Decision in Mayflower Case.

The designer of the Mayflower, Mr. W. Starling Burgess, and the Trustees of the International Trophy, had an interview recently re eligibility of the American vessel to compete in the Cup Series. The Conference ended at four o'clock, the Trustees issuing the following statement:

"The Trustees of the Halifax Herald's International Fishermen's Trophy had an interview to-day with W. Starling Burgess, designer of the schooner Mayflower. Mr. Burgess presented plans of the schooner, and explained why he and the owners of the Mayflower considered her eligible to compete in the International Race. The various points presented were carefully recorded; questions were asked by the Chairman and other members of the Board.

Mr. Burgess requested the opportunity of filing with the trustees further data bearing on the question, and when that is received the trustees will carefully weigh all the evidence and file their decision with the committee at Gloucester, at whose request the interview with Mr. Burgess was held. Until the decision is made no information will be volunteered, either by Mr. Burgess, the Chairman of the committee or any of the trustees, as all realize the importance of combining reports to official statements."

Was Griffith Poisoned?

Free State authorities have examined the body of Arthur Griffith and found traces of poison, says a Dublin cable. A doctor and two nurses are said to have been arrested. The news is said to have been suppressed by Dublin censors.

Only a few hours after the announcement on August 12 that Arthur Griffith was dead Dublin began to teem with rumors that he had been poisoned. Reports were circulated that he was a victim of a plot by enemies of the Irish Provisional Government, who hoped that his death would prove a coup to thwart the Anglo-Irish treaty by removing the Free Staters' most powerful leader.

To oust the present government, bring back Irish troops and deprive Ireland of the freedom already won, is the motive of the irregulars as interpreted by Archbishop Curley of Baltimore, now in Ireland.

He asserted that most leaders of the irregulars were acting from pique, jealousy and disappointed hopes; that they had been imbued with bolshevistic ideas and had no conservative programme. — British-American.

What Smyrna Means to Britain.

GRAVEST SITUATION SINCE 1914: MAKE FRIENDS WITH TURKEY; IRAK AND INDIA.

By LORD ISLINGTON, G.C.M.G., D.S.O., P.C. (Evening Standard.)

From the point of view of the British Empire, the situation which has arisen through the capture of Smyrna by the Turkish Army is the most serious by far since August, 1914.

It is impossible to overestimate the gravity. Almost the whole of our Eastern possessions are involved.

It is difficult to give anything in the nature of a positive opinion, but we may safely assume that the Turks are much less inclined to be reasonable in discussing their position among the nations than they were at the end of the war, when we had them beaten.

What they will ask for I cannot say, but it will be very much more than they were prepared to accept before the signing of the Treaty of Sevres.

It is also reported that they wish the unconditional return of Adrianople and Constantinople; and they will certainly expect to retain Smyrna.

As Smyrna is an integral part of the Turkish Empire, and one of its chief ports, it would be against human nature for them to assent to the appropriation indefinitely of that territory.

We may resign ourselves to the permanent evacuation of Greece of Asia Minor. We made a profound mistake in ever permitting the Greeks to go there.

What the final Turkish aspirations are on the Sea of Marmora remains to be seen. Whether they will be satisfied full will depend on the degree of unity there is among the Allied Powers.

THE WHIP HAND.

The first thing to be done is to invite Turkey to a conference of the Powers. And there must be no dissent among the British, French, and Italian plenipotentiaries who go there. Otherwise Turkey has the whip hand.

Unfortunately the same post-war policy that alienated Turkey has led to an estrangement with France. Owing to our long delay in negotiating peace, and owing to the fact that we have played at supporting another nation in her aggressive intentions, France has taken her own course in the East, and, as with Turkey, the difficulties of arriving at a permanent settlement are ten times greater than they were at the beginning.

Nevertheless, we must get into line with France and with Italy. The Turks have always been ready in the past to work with us on friendly terms—I do not attempt to justify their entry into the war, the history of which we all know—and as you cannot separate the Turkish Empire from the Moslem world it becomes more and more apparent every day that we must endeavour to revert to the old policy.

But it is very probable that, in view of the present military situation, Turkey may be in an unreasonable frame of mind.

She may ask for things which it will be impossible for us to concede. She may ask for a return to the status quo in respect of her European territory, including the Dardanelles.

This would be absurd. The Dardanelles ought to be an open waterway for the traffic of the world, and it is as much to the interest of France and Italy as it is to Britain that this should be so. That is one important reason for a united front.

IF WE DO NOT MAKE FRIENDS.

As for the territorial question, there is a portion of Thrace which is mainly Turkish in population—to which the Turks therefore have a right. And as Adrianople is a natural part of the Turkish Empire, I, for one, should not deplore its return to Turkey.

Without a unity of aim with the other Allied Powers, what is the position? As matters stand at present, if we do not make friends with the Turks, and that pretty quickly, they will obviously attack us in our most vulnerable spot, Mesopotamia.

That will mean either the raising of a very big army, and the consequent reorganization of the whole of our national finances, or a lamentable and ignominious capitulation.

At the end of the war, when we held a supreme position, when, owing to our conquest of the Turkish armies and our prestige in the East, we had a powerful voice in the concert of nations, we ought to have determined on a satisfactory peace with Turkey.

We could have enforced upon her then proper safeguards for the non-Turkish minorities within the Turkish Empire, which, of course, is one of the cardinal factors in the whole situation. We shall find the attainment of that object extraordinary difficult now.

Think what it would mean for us to enforce our authority on a hostile Turkey by armed might. The regular army is quite inadequate. We should have to recruit another new army.

In the face of our unemployment here, our heavy taxation, and the paralysis of industry which that taxation has caused, no party would stand for a minute at the polls if our policy were to hold by force of arms these places in the East. In any case, I do not believe it is militarily or politically possible and consistent with a sound financial position at home to hold that vast territory of Mesopotamia, even without a war with Turkey.

AND PALESTINE!

Mesopotamia is not the only one in which Turkey is in a position to damage us. There is Palestine, where, as in the Turkish Empire, our policy has been to try to force an alien form of government upon the people. The fall of Smyrna will bring that policy to an issue.

Ninety per cent. of the population is Arab, and the Arabs are Mohammedans. Is it realized at home how closely the peoples of the Moslem world are in touch with each other? Whatever may be said of the efficacy of a Zionist "home" in any part of the world, Palestine is not the place for it.

Then there is the question of the Arab community under the King of the Hedjaz (on the east coast of the Red Sea). The Turks may have something to say on that point. The King of the Hedjaz has never been recognized by the Caliph; and there is in the Moslem world that mystical reverence—partly racial, partly religious—for the Caliph, which has always reposed in the Sultan.

That question will have to be dealt with; though there is no reason why we should try to depose the King of the Hedjaz, who rendered us very signal service during the war and assisted materially in defeating the Turks.

We are bound to maintain him if we possibly can.

"WITH ONE VOICE."

Again, will India remain unaffected by the triumph of the Turks?

Many of our troubles in India have been a kind of backwater of what has been taking place in other areas. It is no good saying the disaffection there is a thing faked-up by agitators. Agitators do play their part, but the foundation of the trouble is not created by them.

I believe we can keep India in a state of contentment more easily by not occupying Mesopotamia, if at the same time we alter that policy outside India which is causing the unrest within it.

I would not say the position in the East is hopeless. It is very serious, and has been made "an open house" so by a policy which has either been one of "drift" or, when active, has been utterly wrong.

We have got to go into this serious new position with two big facts in our mind:—

1. That we are a great Moslem Power and must work in harmony with those other Powers which count in the Moslem world; and
 2. That the financial position at home is serious. The Allies must speak with one voice.
- If they aim at a reasonable, broad-minded and generous settlement, it will be difficult for the Turks, even now, to resist them.

If the Allies talk in different voices, and in conflict with one another, there will be trouble.

Blew Top of His Head Off.

FORMER MANAGER OF THE ROYAL BANK AT YARMOUTH TAKES HIS OWN LIFE AT NASONWORTH, N.S.

Fredericton, N.B., Sept. 26.—Frank Chute, formerly Manager of the Royal Bank of Canada at Yarmouth, N.S., but who had been suffering for some time from a severe nervous breakdown and had recently been released from a sanitarium, committed suicide late yesterday afternoon by blowing the top of his head off with a high-powered hunting rifle at Nasonworth, York county.

He had been staying at Mrs. John E. Morgan's home on a farm there following his return from an institution in Ontario in the hope that a restful change at a quiet place would have a beneficial effect upon his condition. When last seen alive, he was sitting in the house about 8 o'clock yesterday afternoon playing cards, having been in the habit of spending much of his time at solitaire. Mrs. Morgan went to a neighbor's house and her son also left the place for the time.

Apparently Mr. Chute took a high-powered rifle, which was one of three guns in the house and went out to a clump of bushes alongside a fence nearby, put the end of the barrel of the rifle to his head and pulled the trigger, blowing the top of his head off.

He was 49 years of age and leaves a widow and three children. He left the Bank about a year ago.

A good plain cake is often the foundation of a delicious dessert. Here is an excellent recipe for such a cake: Mix in order, 1 pound fat, 5 cups sugar, 1 dozen eggs, 4 cups milk, 2½ pounds flour, 6 tablespoons baking powder, and 1 tablespoon vanilla. Bake in a sheet in a moderate oven for 1½ hour.

Rules for Fishermen's Races Amended.

International Committee Trying to Keep Event Purely Fishermen's Battle -- The Outlook at Present.

In the course of time the International Fishermen's races will be an institution attracting world-wide attention. The trustees of the Dennis trophy are exerting every effort to enforce the obvious intentions of the donor and keep the races strictly honest. The building of the Mayflower is considered by many a breach of the rules, if not in actuality, then at least in spirit, but the trustees, in the face of a difficult situation, have indicated that the races must continue to be honest-to-God fishermen races.

The idea of an international fisherman contest was inspired more or less by the ludicrous display of seamanship in the international yacht race a few years ago—an event that seems to be perpetuated for the sole purpose of affording Sir Thomas Lipton an inexpensive medium of advertising. That event was not a competition of seamen representative of either Great Britain or the United States and that they were tolerated and followed so long induces a feeling of disgust akin to that inspired by that odious spindle-legged lap dog that milady totes around with her.

Whether or not the trustees, of whom H. R. Silver of Halifax is chairman, will eliminate the Mayflower from the international event, yet remains to be seen. While the Mayflower has proved her seaworthiness and her ability to catch fish on the banks, few will argue, even in the United States, that she would have been built on her present plans were it not for the attraction of the Dennis trophy and purse. The trustees know this but they must also feel the ticklish position they are placed in because of the Mayflower's adherence to the letter of the rules.

THE RULES ARE AMENDED.

Whatever may be their decision in the matter they are making provision for the future. Changes in the rules were adopted at a meeting of the international committee held in Portland, Maine, July 22, and recommendations forwarded to the trustees indicate a strong decision to prevent these contests from developing into mere sporting events.

One of the most important of the new regulations limits the crew on each schooner taking part in one of these races to thirty members, exclusive of the observer, and provide that all of them must be men who gain their livelihood as fishermen. The shortening of the time limit of the race to seven hours instead of nine, as formerly, is a chance tending away from sport and toward sea-going efficiency. The new division of the prize money, which the winner will get $3,000 and the second $2,000, instead of $4,000 and $1,000 respectively is another evidence of a strong desire on the part of the trustees and the committee members to preserve a wholesome balance in all the aspects of the races.

The same spirit was shown in the adoption of a suggestion that the placement rule be worked out and submitted for consideration that will tend to prevent building of extreme types of schooners which could only result in the trophy races becoming sporting events instead of races between real sea-going fishing vessels. One defect of a displacement rule is that it offers the temptation to designers to try to evade it, but after the experience of the Boston syndicate which built the Mayflower nobody is likely soon to attempt another such evasion by building a fishing schooner with the lines of a yacht.

Mr. Silver has stated that the question of the eligibility of the Mayflower has not yet been considered by the trustees, but in justice to all concerned there should be a decision one way or the other before the American elimination races are pulled off. If the Mayflower wins in the primary event and is then ruled out she will have been put to a lot of useless expense and, furthermore, the situation across the border will be complicated, for what schooner would then compete? Possibly the Gloucester race committee has come to an understanding on this point. Also there may be forced upon it the necessity of conducting another series of elimination races.

In the meantime the Mayflower's plans have been forwarded to the trustees at Halifax, having been requested by that body for examination.

THE U.S. ELIMINATION RACES.

The American elimination races are to be held off Gloucester October 12, 13 and 14. The vessels that will fight it out for the responsibility of wresting the trophy from Nova Scotia will be the Mayflower, Elizabeth Howard, Yankee, Henry Ford and L. Parquhar, Mrs. R. J. Hickey, and S. A. Dunton. The Gloucester folk are lamenting the loss of the Puritan upon which they were pinning their faith. Now they are turning to the Henry Ford but they wish she was a bit longer. The Elizabeth Howard, they fear, is too heavy.

In the races of the last two years some of the contenders have utilized the services of amateur sailors for starting and light sail handling but this will be prohibited by the amended rules, which, as stated above, call for 100 per cent. bona fide fishermen.

THE CANADIAN PRELIMINARIES.

The races in Canadian waters are to be run between the fifth and tenth of October outside Halifax harbor. Meetings have been held recently in the Board of Trade rooms, Halifax, for the purpose of arranging details. It is not known definitely what vessels will be entered but the chief contenders will be the international champion Bluenose, and the new Mahaaka, launched from the yards of Smith & Rhuland, Lunenburg, this spring, and which gives much promise. There is some newspaper talk that the recent launch Margaret K. Smith from the Smith & Rhuland yards, may be entered, but she does not appear to be eligible because of having not yet stood the test of a practical fisherman.

The question was raised at Lunenburg whether the Bluenose should compete with all comers in the eliminations this year. The view was advanced that she was the champion and should only be called upon to contest the right of defending the cup with vessels she has not already beaten. Mr. Silver, however, definitely rejected this idea. The cup, he said, is held only temporarily by the winner and, as a matter of fact, the Bluenose owners have already been requested to return the trophy to the trustees. There must be elimination races each year, says Mr. Silver, and the winner of these events will be the one to represent Canada in the international contest. That's right. That's as it should be.—Canadian Fisherman.

Kemptville Murderer to Hang Nov. 24th.

JUDGE CHISHOLM'S SENTENCE.

YARMOUTH, Sept. 22.—Judge Chisholm, in Yarmouth, at noon to-day, sentenced Omar F. Roberts, found guilty on Wednesday of the Murder of Flora Gray, to be hanged on November 24th next before seven o'clock in the morning. When the prisoner was asked by Prothonotary Pelton if he wished to say anything as to why the sentence of death for the crime he had committed should not be passed, the prisoner replied that he did not, but he wished to thank the Crown for the fairness of the trial they had allowed him, the Judge for his great consideration shown during the proceedings, and finally to his counsel for the effort he made for his defence, and he hoped they would all stand before the one great Judge at the final day.

Judge Chisholm then addressed the prisoner, stating that he had been convicted of the murder of Flora Gray, and that he was sentenced to hang on November 24th next, you shall hang by your neck until dead, and may God have mercy on your soul.

The prisoner took this sentence very coolly, maintaining the same attitude which he had shown all thru the proceedings and on his return to Yarmouth Jail he was asked how he was feeling, and he replied: "Better, as the sentence I got was what I deserved, and what I expected."

The Next War.

Another war would mean something more than agony, tearing in threads the bodies of our brother men; it would mean the degradation of life itself to a level where it could do such things. It would mean the ruin of "all ordered and human life."

But wars are prepared; wars are provided for, cultivated, nursed, expected, awaited—and then one day the kerorene is lit, the dynamite is exploded, and hell is to pay.

Are we getting ready to kindle again the volcano of that hell on earth?

"BE A SPORT."

There are certain phrases in our language which by long use under certain conditions have acquired a power over the mind and an influence over the course of their lives that they have no real right to.

Such a phrase is "be a sport." I know a man, who by inheritance and by reason of having had an easier life than the average, is possessed of an abundant energy. He is absolutely irresistible in his pursuit of a good time—tennis, golf, swimming, dancing. He rushes from one to the other in his moments of leisure and calls on all his friends to follow him. And when they, without his astounding energy, sometimes hang back, he always tries to spur them on with that phrase: "Oh, be a sport, come along."

He lets himself be dined.

He has one neighbor, a young professional man who needs to use wisely every ounce of his energy if he is to hold his own and win through to success. This man studies his energetic neighbor and wants to keep up with him. Furthermore, like many others, the young professional man is easily influenced by the implied reproach in that term: "Be a sport." He goes over and over again he lets himself be drawn into spending strength beyond what he can afford and selling his next day's work. If he hangs back and doesn't think he ought to let himself in for a one block party or three or four sets of tennis on a hot afternoon, his energetic neighbor slaps him on the back and says, "Oh, come on, be a sport."

Guilty of Murder.

Jury out only short time and returns verdict against Omar Roberts.

(Acadian Recorder.)

Omar P. Roberts, the 48-year-old trapper and guide, was found guilty at Tuskot of the murder of his nineteen-year-old housekeeper, Flora Gray, at his hunting lodge at North Kempville, Yarmouth County, on the night of August 28-29 last, by a jury under Mr. Justice Chisholm. The prisoner was remanded for sentence until the last day of the present term. The trial of Roberts occupied the entire day. At 5.32 the case was given to the jury, and at 5.53 the verdict was returned. New evidence introduced at the trial included the testimony of Ranson Randall, 15 year old friend of the murdered girl, as the prisoner threatened to "cuff his ears," on an occasion some days previous to the tragedy, when he suggested to Roberts that he permit Flora to remain in his company a half hour longer, and a startling confession was made by the prisoner to Allan M. Gates, merchant and a Justice of the Peace at Kempville, two days following the tragedy. Roberts was lodged in jail on Tuesday, August 20. On the following Thursday, Gates interviewed the prisoner. Roberts blurted out that he had committed the crime with which he was charged; that there was absolutely no hope for him, and that it was his desire that the law should take its course with as little delay as possible. Gates professed, he said that the prisoner should not talk to him as he was doing, that he (Gates) was an officer of the law, and that anything he might say would be used as evidence against him. Roberts declared that he did not care. He insisted that he was guilty. Gates said he agreed that there was not much hope for the prisoner in this world, and then asked him: "What about the next?" Omar replied he did not know. Gates then reminded Roberts of a good turn he had done a sick friend during the preceding winter, and recalled the forgiveness accorded the dying thief on the Cross of Calvary. This seemed to help the old man.

Then he made a clean breast of the affair adding to the details of the previously published confession that after he had knocked over the lighted kerosene lamp in the gasoline besprinkled bedroom, he had heard Flora scream and waited till she ceased to scream, and then proceeded to arouse the neighbourhood. Roberts then said, Gates testified, that his mind was not very clear and suggested that the witness return to the jail the following Sunday, when he would be in a position, he thought, to tell the whole story.

Ralph Ring, swore to delivering 46 gallons of gasoline to the prisoner, a few days before the tragedy.

Roberts had to be assisted in and out of the dock. He listened attentively to the address of O. B. Jones, who had been appointed by the Crown to defend the prisoner.

Mr. Jones' contentions were that a confession need not invariably be regarded as conclusive evidence to guilt. The evidence showed that the prisoner had been deeply affected by the death of his wife just one year ago yesterday, the date of his arraignment; that he had grieved for her ever since, and that with wife gone, love gone, and finally his property destroyed, he might have assumed responsibility of a crime that he had not actually committed.

He concluded by calling upon the jury to give the prisoner the benefit of any reasonable doubt they might have in the matter.

J. J. Power addressed the jury on behalf of the Crown and Mr. Justice Chisholm charged the jury.

Imprisonment for Life.

SENTENCE METED OUT TO ONTARIO FARMER WHO MURDERED HIS FRIEND.

Chatham, Ont., Sept. 20.—At 1.30 this morning, Clayton Croft, farmer, charged with the murder of his friend and benefactor, Gustave Noel, was found guilty of manslaughter by a jury which retired at 10 p.m. yesterday.

Justice Lennox, in sentencing Croft, said:

"The jury finds you only guilty of manslaughter. I have seen no great exhibition of callousness than you have exhibited here during my term on the bench. I find no mitigating circumstances. You are a young man of intelligence. You schemed and plotted to get possession of this simple man's property. There is no doubt in my mind that you planned the crime, and I must impose a sentence of imprisonment for your natural life in Kingston Penitentiary."

The prisoner took the verdict with eyes flashing defiance at the Judge. Only a few minutes before he had been reading a newspaper while awaiting the return of the jury.

On a charge of forgery, to which Croft pleaded guilty, his Lordship imposed a sentence of ten years.

Seek Way to Make Sunspot Harmless.

The Western Union Telegraph Co., which was damaged to the extent of a quarter of a million dollars by a sunspot in May of last year, is now developing a system of precautions against sunspots like that of the mariner and farmer against the weather.

The sunspots shower the earth with heavy electrical currents, producing the electrical storms which now and then paralyze telegraph, cable and telephone service. Arrangements have been made with the United States Naval Observatory for a regular bulletin service on the condition of sunspots. Whenever a new one appears on the rim of the sun and starts to move around where it will be in a position to volley the earth with electrical showers, notice is sent from the observatory to the Western Union officials. In return for this service the Western Union is preparing to collect information on the large scale on electrical currents, their strength and direction, and their apparent connection with sunspots.

Sunspots occur in eleven-year cycles. The present year is near the middle of the cycle, or, in other words, when the sunspots are few, the year was a time when few sunspots were normally due, so that the sunspot, or cluster of spots, which caused the great electrical storm on May 15, 20 and 21, was quite unexpected. It is only since telegraph and telephone wires and cables have been used that electrical storms of this type have made any great damage. Human beings, so that records of sunspots have been made, but that of last year is by far the worst that ever occurred, when measured by damage to electrical apparatus.

It burned out fuses and short-circuited apparatus all over this country, caused fires in Europe, and probably caused one in the New York Central yards in this city. At least cables, so badly that the Western Union had to send out a repair ship to put them in good order again, and President Newcomb Carlton of the company estimated that the cost would be $300,000 or more.

After this experience Mr. Carlton decided to keep a systematic watch for such storms and to minimize their mischief as far as possible. Just what precautions can be taken to keep the sunspots from interfering with service and damaging apparatus has not been made public.

Stray currents with voltages as high as 1,000 were reported in last year's storm.

Sunspots have caused very little damage since that time, but in a year or two the sun will begin to enter the spotty period when the tie-up of telegraph and telephone service by this cause would normally be much more frequent.

While the Western Union and other companies may save a good deal of money by preparations, science may be even a greater gainer by the cooperation of the telegraph company, because the statistics which it can collect about earth currents may do much to solve the problem of the composition of the sunspots, the aurora borealis and the earth currents which interfere with wire service.

The exact connection between the three is not known. Large sunspots sometimes appear without any perceptible effect on the earth. When they move around near the centre of the sun's disc, some of the showers of electrons which are shot into space hit the earth, which is a pin-point target in space. If an observer could look at it from the sun, the aurora borealis filled the sky over North York and as far south as Southern California during the sunspot and earth-current trouble last year. The aurora is nearly always very vivid when the sun is very spotty near the centre and earth currents are usually at their worst. It takes about two days, according to Sir Oliver Lodge, for a shower of electrons leaving the sunspot to reach the earth.
