THE WORLD AS IT IS. The world is not so bad a world As some would like to make it; Though whether good or whether bad, Depends on how we take it. For if we scold and fret al! day, From dewy mora till even ; This world will ne er afford to man

An antepass to heaven. This world in truth's as good a world As e'er was known to any, Who have not seen another yet, Of whom, are very many; And if the men and women too Have plenty of employment, They surely must be hard to please

This world is quite a clever world, In rain or pleasant weather, If people would but learn to live In harmony together; Nor seek to burst the kindly bond By love and perce cemented, But learn that best of lessons yet, Always to be contented.

Who cannot find enjoyment.

This world were then a pleasant world, With pleasant folks within it; Each day in pleasantness would pass To all who thus begin it. The host of nameless grievances, Brought on by borrow'd troubles, Would prove a frothy troop indeed,
