

PLANS WERE CAREFULLY LAID FOR ATTACK ON MR. PUGSLEY

Still Another Telling Exposure by St. John Telegraph of the Disgraceful Attempt To Ruin the Minister of Public Works.

St. John, N. B., Oct. 15.—As further confirmation of the plot to ruin the minister of public works if he would not buy the Mayes dredge at an enormous price, the following letter of Hon. C. J. Osmond, ex-Speaker of the New Brunswick Legislature, and one of the most prominent men in the province, is of intense interest. The Telegraph tomorrow will publish the following letter from him:

"Albert Manufacturing Co., Hillsborough, N. B., Oct. 14, 1908.

"To the Editor of the Daily Telegraph, St. John, N. B.:

"Dear Sir,—I notice in your issue of today that my name is mentioned as one to whom Mr. Mayes spoke regarding his dredging troubles. Therefore, perhaps, you will permit me to confirm the minister's statement that I had been approached by Mr. Mayes, and further to state that on Tuesday of last week I met Mr. Mayes (with whom I have been acquainted a number of years) on King street, and after an exchange of civilities he poured into my ear the whole story of his dredging trouble, explaining his association with Mr. McAvity in the dredging contract, and producing also an agreement between Mr. McAvity and himself, under which Mr. McAvity was to have some share in the contract, and under which he stated that he had already paid to Mr. McAvity upwards of $30,000. He also stated that he had paid certain moneys to Hon. William Pugsley (I think) mentioned the sum of $2,500, leading me to suppose that this payment to the minister was in order to secure his influence in Mr. Mayes's favor in connection with dredging matters.

"I asked him if he could not get more dredging to do if he so desired, and he replied that he did not wish

Labor Workers Held a Big Meeting For the Purposes of Organization

Friends of Mr. J. A. McCandless Rally to His Support Last Night

An organization meeting of the London Labor party was held in Musicians' Hall, 428 Richmond street, last night, and a number of names added to the various committees.

The meeting was attended by fully 50 workers, and the evening was given over to arranging committees and posting the new ward workers on their duties.

Mr. J. W. McCandless, the Labor candidate; Mr. Joseph Marks, and Mr. J. D. Jacobs were among those present.

In answer to a number of questions from ward workers, Mr. McCandless explained that the present campaign would be almost entirely an educational one.

Circulars issued.

The Labor party will rely chiefly on campaign circulars and cards containing the platform of the Labor party. The circulars read as follows:

"INDEPENDENT LABOR PARTY.

"Dear Sir,—Your co-operation and assistance are required in the present electoral campaign to elect J. W. McCandless, the candidate of the Independent Labor Party, to represent the wage-earners of London in the Dominion Parliament. We cordially invite you to call at our headquarters, Musicians' Hall, No. 428 Richmond street, and get in touch with our committees and the campaign.

"We want volunteer workers.

"Every man can do a little for the cause. We desire to place this invitation into the hands of every wage-earner in the city. Will you kindly accept it? We really do want you with us. Come up and feel that this is your battle, and accord us your advice and support. Yours truly,

"JOS. T. MARKS.

"Secretary, Election Committee.

"N. B.—Every male, 18 years of age or over, union or non-union, no matter what his calling may be, is eligible to membership in our party, to hold office, or to run, if selected, as its candidate.

Mr. McCandless and Messrs. Marks and Jacobs made short addresses to the committee, and urged that every effort be put forth to make the campaign a successful one.

The speakers expressed themselves as most confident of the outcome, and urged unanimity in the party.

No date was set for a public meeting, and it was not decided whether or not to hold one.

Seven Killed by a Premature Blast

Fort Collins, Col., Oct. 15.—Seven men are dead, and twenty-three others injured, some fatally, as the result of a premature explosion at the Ingleside Line quarry, 18 miles from here, this afternoon.

All the injured were removed to the hospital at Fort Collins on a special train.

The blast went off in the face of 40 men. Many of them were hurled 200 feet. The explosion was heard for miles around. Ranchers and their wives for miles around rushed to the scene and gave succor to the injured.

A Mother's and Children's Close Call

What might have been a very serious accident occurred last night at the home of Mr. Mahlon D. Yorke, 63 High street, South London.

Mrs. Yorke was engaged in putting down some preserves, and her three little children were playing in the kitchen with her.

In their play the children got under the table, and one of them jumped up suddenly, with the result that the oil lamp and a number of sealers of preserves were thrown to the floor.

The lamp exploded, but fortunately several sealers of preserves were broken by falling on the floor, and the burning oil was partly quenched.

Some of the articles in the room caught fire from the blazing oil, but were speedily extinguished before any great harm was done. The children were uninjured, but received a bad scare.

Spine Injured by Fall on a Walk

Willie, the 5-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Hallam, of 570 St. James street, is in Victoria Hospital in a very serious condition, as a result of being thrown down on a cement sidewalk a few days ago while playing with some boys.

It appears that the little fellow was

Run Over by Locomotive—Unhurt

Toronto, Oct. 16.—"I am tired of life, and that's why I did it." This was the explanation of William Laidlaw, a young Scotchman, 30 years of age, when he was picked up near Don on the C. T. R. tracks this morning. Laidlaw has been out of employment, and deliberately threw himself in front of a shunting engine in charge of Engineer Walter C. Farrance, as it

Former Mayor of Ingersoll Injured

Mr. M. Buchanan, formerly mayor of Ingersoll had his hip fractured in a serious accident which happened at Windsor last night.

Mr. Buchanan was standing waiting for a car and when it drew up he went to get on. Before he could do so, however, some person drove by at a furious rate, and the buggy struck him and knocked him down. He was picked up and it was found that his hip had been fractured. Mr. Buchanan was brought to this city this morning and was taken to Ingersoll in the baggage car of express No. 3 this morning. He suffered very great pain, but was deeply grateful to the local railroadmen who made him as comfortable as possible in the baggage-room at the Grand Trunk station while he was waiting for the train.

MORE ROORBACKS FROM THE ENEMY

Another Bunch of Fake Stories and Misrepresentations About To Be Issued.

Ottawa, Oct. 15.—The Opposition's plan of campaign by means of affidavits, fake stories and misrepresentations of all kinds, which has developed rapidly this week, will culminate next week in the issuing of more campaign roorbacks similar to the Mayes affidavit and the charges in connection with the National Transcontinental Railway issued yesterday. These two were exploded so promptly and effectively that further Opposition "bombshells" are being held back till the last moment, in the hope that time will not be given before polling to refute the slanders. Information to this effect has leaked out of the Tory camp, and some sample roorbacks intended for exploitation next week are now known in advance by the Liberal organizers.

The attack on the National Transcontinental will be continued next week by the issuing of a poster by Charles J. Smith, of the firm of Smith & Frenible, contractors, Winnipeg. The poster is covered with photographs, cartoons, affidavits, etc., assailing the Laurier Government as a "scab government," and appealing for the support of the Labor vote on the ground that the workmen on the National Transcontinental are inadequately paid and their interests not protected by the labor department. Mr. Smith has sent out a circular letter to Conservative candidates and others, in which he warns them that he does not want the posters "distributed until Monday, 19th inst., except in lumber or railway camps, where they can be posted or distributed on Friday and Saturday, the 16th or 17th inst., as I anticipate they will cause a furore among the workmen of the country, and if made public too soon will give the Grits a chance to counteract the effect by some misrepresentation, which has always characterized their methods. We only need the Labor vote to win."

CONDUCTOR CLARKE MET TERRIBLE DEATH

Foot Caught and Car Wheels of His Train Pass Over Him.

Hanover, Oct. 15.—Chas. P. Clarke, conductor of a mail train, met a terrible death this afternoon. While switching the mail train off the main track to make way for the rebound express he slipped in between the cars to uncouple them. In some way his foot caught and the car wheels passed over him, mangle him in a fearful manner. He leaves a wife, but no children. His parents live in London. His father and brother are also railway men. He lived about ten minutes, but was unconscious.

Conductor Clarke is a son of Engineer Charles Clarke, of 588 Oxford street, and had lived in West Toronto for some time. During the summer he was employed on construction work near Walkerton and had temporary headquarters in Hanover.

AFFECTING SCENE AT G. T. R. DEPOT

Mr. A. Mascari, Ill With Consumption Leaves for Italy.

An affecting scene took place at the Grand Trunk station this morning when Mr. A. Mascari, who has been in business in this city for some time, left for his home in Calabria, Southern Italy.

Mr. Mascari while in Canada contracted tuberculosis, and had not enough money with which to return. The Italians of London took up a subscription for him and obtained $240, and this was further augmented by aid from a concert given in his honor from which he received $150 more.

This morning a large number of his friends gathered at the station to bid Mr. and Mrs. Mascari farewell, and wish them a successful journey.

Mr. and Mrs. Mascari sail from New York on Saturday on the steamer Abruzzi.

Left the Village in a Rig and Have Not Since Been Heard Of—Several People Heard Them Driving Madly Out of the Place.

High Constable Hughes has returned from Appin, where he went yesterday to investigate the robbery of Rosser's general store there on Thursday night.

Mr. Hughes found in the store near where the safe was blown open a coil of fuse ten feet long, indicating that the thieves left in a hurry after completing their work.

In order to deaden the sound of the explosion which occurred at midnight they covered the ruined safe with valuable rugs and a bear skin coat. The coat had a history, for several months ago it was stolen and later recovered by the high constable. When the nitroglycerin used to open the safe was exploded the coat was almost destroyed, a large hole being blown through one side of it.

Robbers Drove Away.

It has been learned that the cracksmen drove into Appin late on the night of the robbery, and that they drove rapidly away in a northerly direction after committing the robbery.

A number of Appin residents heard the explosion, but did not investigate the matter, although they heard the robbers driving madly out of town immediately afterward.

A peculiar feature about the explosion was that while the door of the safe was blown to atoms the papers contained in the safe were not injured in the least.

The constables are working on the case, but they have little or no ground upon which to work.

BENNETTS ARE BRANCHING OUT WILL ADD TWO NEW THEATRES

New York Theatre Builder in the City Conferring in Regard to Houses in Saginaw and Bay City—Others in Contemplation.

The Bennett Theatrical Enterprises Company will probably add several new theatres to their present large circuit.

This afternoon a conference was held in the company's headquarters between the directors and Mr. S. S. Horn, representing the firm of E. C. Horn, theatre builder, of New York City. It is the intention of the company to build new theatres in Saginaw and Bay City, Mich.

The company has also the franchise in Toledo, Ohio, and in Grand Rapids, Mich.

With these four theatres added to the present circuit, composed of London, Hamilton, Montreal, Ottawa, and Quebec, the Bennett Theatrical Enterprises will be one of the largest of its kind in America.

Those present at the conference were Major Beattie, T. H. Smallman, J. C. Duffield, John Pringle and C. W. Bennett, the general manager.

As Usual a Woman Was in Case Young Man Fined $10 for Assault

Committed Upon Another Young Fellow, Who Said Things About Him.

George Mordin, a young man from East London, was fined $10 and $20 costs by Magistrate Love this morning for assaulting and wounding Albert H. Craig, another young man.

The assault occurred on Dundas street last night and was alleged to have been made to a young lady about Mordin. According to Craig's story he was set upon by a gang of young fellows and badly beaten. Magistrate Love denounced the assault by the gang as a most cowardly one and said such rudeness must be stopped at once.

Too Much Fire Water.

Ernest Orr, a young man who had never been in court before, was arrested last night at his wife's request as he came home drunk and started in to smash all the furniture.

Mrs. Orr was granted a separation order at her request and agrees to support herself as long as she does not have to live with her husband.

Fined $5.

F. C. Harding, the young man who was found guilty last week of exceeding the speed limit, with his motor bicycle, was fined $5.

One bicycle rider paid $1 for riding on the sidewalk. Several first-timers were allowed to go.

London Nurse Gave Up Her Life In Effort To Save New York Doctor

Pathetic Story in Connection With Death of Miss R. J. Evans, of King Street.

A dispatch from New York says: "While Dr. Wm. T. Bull, the eminent cancer specialist, lay ill and growing weaker in his home at 35 West Thirty-fifth street, last night, from the same dread disease, word was received that Miss Rebecca Evans, who had suffered nervous breakdown, as the result of nursing him during his present illness, was dead in London, Ont. The melancholy coincidence deeply affected members of the eminent surgeon's household.

"For the last thirteen years Miss Evans had been secretary and office nurse for Dr. Bull. She was taken ill several weeks ago, and went to her home in London, where she was prosecuted by the news that Dr. Bull had grown worse.

A Loyal Nurse.

"Dr. Bull was operated on five months ago for a growth in his throat, which proved to be a cancer. Both his wife and Miss Evans were indefatigable in their attentions to him, and it was in a very large measure due to hard work that Miss Evans' health broke down.

"Miss Evans was born in Ontario 40 years ago. She entered St. Luke's Hospital Training School for Nurses in 1893, and was graduated two years later.

"Since that time she had been with Dr. Bull, and when he became ill she took care of him until her strength failed.

A Londoner.

The Miss Evans referred to above was a daughter of Mr. John Evans, of 487 King street, and died on Wednesday last at her father's home. She was a sister of Mr. Thomas Evans, passenger and freight agent for the Michigan Central in this city.

New Station and Siding at Hyde Park Grand Trunk To Make Improvements

Officials Left Today To Make Necessary Arrangements.

Superintendent Gillen, accompanied by Roadmaster Ferguson, and Mr. George Mitchell, arrived in the city last night and left this morning for Hyde Park, where they selected a site for a new station and made arrangements for the building of a new siding.

Traffic on the Huron and Bruce has been very heavy of late and the need of more room to accommodate the cars has been felt for some time.

The new station, it is understood, will be built at once, and will be a

FOREST FIRES IN MICHIGAN TAKE TERRIBLE TOLL OF LIFE

A Relief Train, Crowded With Refugees From the Town of Metz, Derailed in Midst of Flames and at Least a Score Have Perished.

Detroit, Oct. 16.—A dispatch to the Journal from Millersburg, about 20 miles north of Metz, states that seventeen people were burned to death with the Metz relief train, and that fifteen skeletons have been found in the burned wreck of the gondola car, which made up part of the relief train. The dispatch says that the train ran into a burned-out culvert, which was the cause of its derailment.

Among those who perished are Mrs. Cicero and her three children; Engineer John Kinville, of Alpena, and another member of the train crew escaped with their lives by creeping along the track on their hands and knees. They were terribly burned, however. It is reported from there that Kinville is blind from his burns, and will die. The other man will live.

Caught By the Fires.

The reports received here say that after the relief train had been loaded with people and goods at Metz it started north, but was unable to get farther than Hawkes. Then the train was headed south for Alpena. At Nowia Station the fire had burned through a number of railroad ties, weakening the track, and it is reported that the rails spread, derailing the relief train, which was then destroyed by fire. It is not positively known what became of the people reported to be on the train, but what information has filtered in here says that they are believed to have

Women and Children Burned.

Detroit, Oct. 16.—Reports to both the Detroit News and the Detroit Journal from Alpena state that it is definitely known that fourteen persons were burned to death in the relief train from Metz. These were principally women and children, who were cooped up in box cars, the only ones available when the train was hurried out of Metz. It is reported from Alpena that sixteen coffins were sent north on the train which left early this morning. Reports of greater loss of life than fourteen are current at Alpena, but it is impossible as yet definitely to confirm them.

Detroit, Oct. 16.—A report which reached this city at 9:15 says it is reported at East Tawas that the loss of life by the burning of the Metz relief train may reach 200.

Inquest Failed to Fix the Blame For the Death of Fireman F. Ryan

Verdict Brought in That Evidence Was So Contradictory Nothing Was Established.

The inquest into the cause of the death of the late Fireman Fred C. Ryan was concluded before Coroner MacLaren last night, the jury returning the following verdict:

"That Frederick Ryan came to his death at Victoria Hospital, London, on Oct. 9, from injuries received on the Grand Trunk on Oct. 8, by two engines colliding.

"Owing to the evidence being of a contradictory character, we are unable to fix the blame for the fatality."

The Evidence.

Switchman Morley Blackwell was first called, and stated the duties of a switchman in the yards. He had not seen the accident, and could throw no light on how it occurred.

Yard Foreman Boucher testified that the engineer on the freight engine should have been able to see the yard engine. To a jurymen witness said the yard engine should have stopped to let the freight pass, if the switch were turned against it. No one saw the switch turned.

The Switch.

Frank Casson, a yardman, stated that when he saw the switch after the accident, it was set for Walker's main line. The freight engine passed the yard engine between Colborne and Burwell streets.

Locomotive Foreman Hay stated that a yard engineer's duty was to observe carefully all switches, and see that they were properly set before he goes over them. To Mr. Gordon witness stated that there was no need of Fireman Ryan going out on the running board to light the front lamp. Had Fireman Ryan been in his place, he could have seen the freight engine coming up the main line, and it was his duty to inform the engineer, who, if he were in his place in the cab, could not see it.

The evidence of Engineer McCabe of the yard engine, Engineer Burrell of the freight engine and Dr. F. P. Drake was taken at the first session.

A Million Dollar Fire at Chicago

Chicago, Oct. 16.—The International Salt Docks, the Calumet elevator, the offices of the Elgin, Joliet and Eastern Railway, and two steamships were destroyed early today in one of the most spectacular fires Chicago has had in many a year.

The loss, it is estimated, will reach $1,250,000.

Starting in one of the salt docks the fire spread rapidly until it covered an area of nearly five acres and sent up a volume of fire that could be seen all over South Chicago.

LIBERAL CANDIDATES BUSY

to the Liberal party which has done so much for the oil industry in the past and will give the Liberal candidate a big vote on Oct. 26th. If he breaks anywhere near even in that place, the return of the Liberal candidate is certain.

Mr. Macdonald's Address.

The address of Mr. J. A. Macdonald of the Toronto Globe at Windsor on Wednesday night created a most profound impression and has assisted Mr. R. F. Sutherland materially. He dealt with the issues of the day in his own impressive manner, and many votes were made for the Liberal candidate. Sutherland looks good.

Dr. Mearns Hurts.

Dr. Mearns, of Woodstock, who is doing splendid work for the Liberal candidate, Mr. E. W. Nesbitt in North Oxford, met with an accident at Princeton on Wednesday evening. His ankle was turned and he will be laid up for some time.

Meeting at Eden.

Mr. T. R. Mayberry and Mr. W. V. Rutherford addressed a large gathering at Eden on Wednesday night. This is in the center of a Tory Township, but the electors turned out in large numbers to hear Mr. Rutherford who delivered one of his best speeches. He is a speaker of more than ordinary ability, and his speeches are always of a high character. He is gaining ground daily, and there are many indications that Liberalism will come into her own in East Elgin. Mr. Mayberry delivered a fine address pointing out why the farmers should support the Laurier administration which had done so much to improve the conditions of the agriculturalists in Canada.

The Chatham Meeting.

One of the features of the Chatham meeting, held in behalf of Mr. H. S. Clements, the Conservative candidate, was the appearance of Dr. Shadd, a colored speaker from Regina. He had been brought all the way from the west for the special purpose of securing the colored vote in Chatham. During his speech, however, he threw a bomb into the audience by admitting that in the west there was no doubt that Sir Wilfrid Laurier would have a good majority of the seats after the election. He admitted that the sentiment west of Lake Superior was in favor of the Liberals, and that the Conservatives could not hope to win in the great west. This is not news to the Liberals, who know the conditions. The result of Dr. Shadd's admission was to thoroughly disconcert Mr. Clements' following, who have been told that Borden would sweep the west.

Election Notes.

A solid Middlesex for Laurier! Kent will do its duty, and on Oct. 26 it will be Mr. D. A. Gordon, M. P. for East Kent, and Mr. A. B. McCole, M. P. West Kent. The Conservatives boasted some time ago that there would be two Tory members from Essex county. However, they do not boast so much just now, as Sutherland and Clarke are a hard pair to beat. They are the right stamp of men for Essex. Dr. C. O. Fairbank, the Liberal candidate for East Lambton, is keeping up the good work, and is making a splendid run. The Conservatives are not taking any chances on the election, but are keeping very close to their constituency. There are many Conservatives who are fearful of the result. The Liberal candidate is a clean man, of more than ordinary ability, and will make an ideal representative.

West Middlesex.

There have been stories circulated to the effect that Mr. W. S. Calvert, the Liberal whip, will have some difficulty in winning the seat, but such reports have no foundation. Mr. Calvert is backed by a united party, loyal, and in good fighting trim. The popularity of Mr. Calvert has not lessened one whit, and his large personal following has increased by his fair and just treatment of all his constituents. Mr. Calvert is addressing many meetings, and is showing how the great record of the Laurier Government has been of untold benefit to the farmers of Canada. He is being ably assisted by Mr. J. C. Elliott, M. P. P., who is doing yeoman service for the Liberal cause. The indications are that Mr. Calvert will increase his majority.

North Middlesex.

Encouraging reports come from North Middlesex. Mr. Alex. Smith, the Liberal candidate, is working industriously, and is being supported by a large number of Conservatives. The townships of McGillivray and Lambton, and his immense popularity will give him large majorities, and he is gaining strength in the other parts. It was thought that the township of Biddulph, the home of the Conservative candidate, Mr. Jos. Doyle, would slump somewhat, but the latest reports state that such is not at all likely, and that Mr. Smith is gaining ground there.

East Middlesex.

No better fight is being put up by any candidate in the Dominion than by Dr. Routledge in East Middlesex. In him the Liberals have an ideal candidate, and his immense popularity will make him a very hard man to defeat. He is working hard and is meeting with encouragement all along the line. When in the provincial house he was always alert to the interests of his constituents, and now he is doing his best for them. The electors of East Middlesex are not ungrateful to him, and will loyally support him on Oct. 26. He is the man for East Middlesex.

North Perth.

In North Perth, Liberals have a strong candidate personally to go up against in Alex. McLaren, also a former adversary majority of two or three hundred. However, Mr. McLaren's connection with the riding is now merely political. He has laid down a bank, but he spends the most of his time in Ottawa and Toronto, where his business interests are located. The Liberal candidate, Dr. J. P. Rankin, is a resident of Stratford, and is a strong candidate personally. It is expected that, outside of Stratford, the candidates will break about even, so that the Stratford results will decide the issue. In this city at the last election, Mr. McLaren had upwards of 500 majority over Mr. Mabey, who is now chairman of the railway company. Mr. G. H. McIntyre will likely be elected in North Perth. He is addressing many meetings, and as he is backed by a loyal and hard-working lot of Liberals as can be found in Canada, he is certain to be returned. He held a fine meeting at One Day, 2c.

Accused of absconding from the local workhouse, a middle-aged widow explained to two Preston magistrates that she had received an offer of marriage by letter. The prospective husband renewed his offer in the court. The bench fined her 1s and wished her luck.

The board of guardians for Wandsworth, Hackney, Battersea, Lambeth, Southwark and St. Pancras are offering upwards of £1 each for the arrest of 1,025 husbands who have deserted their wives and children.

The authorities in the village of Holywell, Flintshire, have decided to sell an old fire engine which they possess. It is said to be 750 years of age, and is probably the oldest fire engine in the kingdom.

The death of Mr. Nugent Murray Whitmore Daniel, one of the few survivors of the Old East India Company, occurred recently at Tat-y-Bwlch, Merionethshire. Born in 1832, Mr. Daniel served in the Bombay presidency for twenty years, was at one time under secretary to the Government, and at the time of his retirement was serving as Judge at Ahmednagar. He married in 1859 Lady Agnes Knox, daughter of the third Earl of Ranfurly, who survives him.

A movement has been initiated which it is hoped may lead to the carrying out of an extensive scheme of internal waterways for Somerset and Devon. Some such scheme, which then aimed at connecting Bristol and Exeter by canal, was propounded many years ago, but nothing came of it, through the railway companies becoming too powerful. As the first step towards the realization of this idea it is now proposed to develop the Exeter Canal, which is the oldest ship canal in the kingdom.

A Yorkshire curate, aged 64, in office within a short distance of Leeds, has married the daughter of a workman at a foundry at his former parish, where he was the curate in charge. She is 18 years of age. She was formerly engaged at a factory, and became a teacher under the Leeds education authority, and was carefully educated at Leeds and Buxton for her future position in life. When the parties fell in love, two years ago, she was engaged in Sunday school work.

A cyclist, riding from Taunton to Bath, Somerset, had an extraordinary experience. His machine passed over a snake three feet six inches long, the reptile becoming entangled in the spokes of the front wheel. The rider was brought down, and when he tried to extricate the snake the latter put out its venomous fangs and hissed spitefully. Eventually the reptile was dispatched, and the cyclist rode off with it on his machine, and is having it preserved as a reminder of his exciting experience.

Further discoveries of the Roman town of Corstophium, near Corbridge-on-Tyne, were mentioned at a meeting of the Newcastle Society of Antiquaries. Professor Laverfield, of Oxford, who presided, remarked that in his opinion they were the most important ever made in Britain. As for the Roman masonry, he had never seen such fine masonry, and there was ample evidence that the site was even larger and more important than had been supposed.

Australia, the land of oddities, animal, vegetable and mineral, has few more curious creatures than the giant cranes—often five and six feet in height, with beautiful blue-grey plumage—which are called native companions. These huge birds mate for life, and, as mates, are singularly and touchingly devoted to one another.

Successful objection has been made by the medical and scientific men of Berlin to the form of the proposed memorial to Virchow, which is not a statue of Virchow, but introduces as the chief group a symbolic representation of his lifework, in the form of a struggle between a giant and a fabulous beast, while on a pedestal a medallion portrait of Virchow is placed.

In the production of soft coal, Bohemia at present occupies the second place among the countries and principalities of Europe, Germany standing first. The total output of Bohemia, which was 942,836 tons in 1896, amounted to 20,075,330 tons in 1906, or an increase of twenty-fold. Of hard coal Bohemia furnished in 1906 a little over one-third of the whole production of Austria, its output amounting to 4,738,034 tons, of which 76.21 per cent were consumed in Bohemia itself.

ence was caused at Market Drayton, Shropshire, by a swarm of bees, which settled at the entrance of the post-office. For a considerable time the public were able to gain admission only with difficulty, and the staff were inconvenienced through the intruders coming inside. However, a local gentleman eventually destroyed them with gunpowder and paraffin.

Reversing the usual order of things a burglar has broken into Pentonville, London, prison, and the warden has lost a shield upon at billiards. Each year the trophy is competed for among the officers engaged in London prisons, and Pentonville carried off the trophy last time. The shield was on the wall of the billiard room in the officers' quarters, but disappeared one night recently. Two sets of billiard balls are gone, too.

The writer of this letter was fortunately enough to learn about Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Food and tells his experience for the benefit of other sufferers from diseases of the nerves. Mr. Wm. BLACKMAIL AND SLANDER.

If there is one politician in Canada who ought to hang his head in shame, his name is Hazen, and he is the prime minister of New Brunswick. He publicly charged Mr. Pugsley with receiving, while minister of public works, the sum of $2,000 from a dredging contractor who had done work for Mr. Pugsley's department. Such a transaction would have been criminal, and if the charge were proven it would drive Mr. Pugsley from public life.

The charge has been disproved out of the mouth of Mayes, who made the accusation. Mayes now admits that the payment was made in 1905, two years before Mr. Pugsley entered the federal Parliament. In his affidavit, as printed, the date of the transaction was given as Oct. 16, 1907, but he describes this as a typographical error. Mr. Pugsley has since asked to see the affidavit, but has been refused. The mistake, whether accidental or contrived, served the purpose of the slander-mongers, and Mr. Hazen's charge was flaunted from one end of the country to the other.

Mr. Pugsley has shown that the money was paid him for legal fees. He had acted as Mayes' counsel in several important suits, and had been his adviser for many years. When he became Minister of Public Works, Mayes presumed on old friendship by endeavoring to sell his dredge to the department at a price $49,000 in excess of the appraisement of the departmental engineer. Of this sum, Mayes offered to throw $20,000 into the Liberal campaign fund. Mr. Pugsley has produced the correspondence on the subject, which shows that he absolutely and curtly refused to pay a cent more for Mayes' dredge than the valuation of the expert. When Mayes resorted to threats and blackmail, he was ordered out of Mr. Pugsley's office by Mr. Pugsley himself.

Mr. McAvity, Mr. Moore, Mr. Osman, nearly everyone to whom Mayes made his threats, understood him to intimate that the $2,000 affair happened when Dr. Pugsley was Minister of Public Works—in 1907, not in 1905. How could he have conveyed this impression, how could it have been corroborated by his affidavit as read and printed, if he had not desired, by bringing the old transaction forward two years, to strike at Hon. Mr. Pugsley's integrity as a Minister of the Crown? Mayes' plea of a typographical error strongly resembles the device of a man seeking to escape after being caught in an evil act. Once the accusation was public and going over the wires to every part of Canada, once the slander was well started, did the politicians who launched it then decide that it was safe for Mayes to call attention to the "error" as to the date? It looks that way.

The rest of the story is very clear. Before Mr. Pugsley went to Ottawa Mayes got a profitable contract for dredging, being the lowest tenderer. Mr. McAvity was his partner in the enterprise and was entitled to and in time received a percentage of the profits. But Mayes clamored for extras, fought with the engineers, and finally made so much trouble that Mr. McAvity cut loose from him, saying that course too strongly suggested blackmail. The Mayes contract was finished in time, and then the contractor set about two things: to collect the extras which the engineers would not allow, and to sell his dredge to the government through Mr. Pugsley. As time passed and Hon. Mr. Pugsley would not give Mayes what he wanted and repeatedly proved that he would not be either bought or bullied, the Minister and others began to hear threats of "exposure."

The evidence at hand goes to show that Hon. Mr. Pugsley and his associates, throughout the course of these occurrences, were both honest and courageous. Their honesty and their courage kept them clean. Can that be said of Mayes and the men who have used him in their base attempt to stampede the voters? They have been "hot with their own petard."

AS TO THE MILITIA.

In their report submitted during the last session of Parliament, the civil service commissioners cast some reflections on the militia administration. The Inspector-general of militia, Major-General Lake, has sent to the commission a memorandum dealing in detail with the mis-statements contained in its report.

One assertion of the commissioners which has been put to use by Conservative campaigners is that the number of staff officers has of late been increased beyond all reasonable limits. This the major-general emphatically contradicts, pointing out that the commissioners merely assumed the truth of an allegation frequently heard, while neglecting to inquire as to the actual extent and nature of whatever increase there has been or the reasons therefor. He shows—and the fact is of significance—that while commanding officers hold differing views as to organization generally, all the general officers which Canada has had have agreed in advising that a reorganized and augmented staff was necessary. Generals Herbert, Gascoigne, Hutton, O'Grady, Haly and Lord Dundonald in turn complained of the inefficiency of the staff, and during the term of each the number of officers at headquarters was increased. When Gen. Gascoigne took command the number was four; Lord Dundonald left it with twenty. When Gen. Hutton succeeded to the command in 1893 he pressed on the department the need for this staff, "which," he said, "constitutes the brains and motive power of the army," and he further declared that "there are no military administrative departments at present in existence." These views were shared by Generals O'Grady-Haly and Dundonald.

Gen. Lake says, in answer to the commissioners' contention that a large increase in the headquarters staff had been made as a consequence of the inauguration of a militia council in 1903-4, that the sole increase since that time has been the addition of three officers, viz., a chief of general staff, a director of operations and staff duties, and a director of training. Some rearrangement of previously existing appointments has been made to render the organization conform generally to that of the imperial army headquarters at the war office. During the period, as a result of the South African war, the war office general staff has grown from 32 to 63 officers.

To the allegation of the commissioners that the increase of staff in connection with higher commands has been excessive, Gen. Lake points out that when Lord Dundonald assumed command in 1902 the district staff totalled 24, while now the command and district staff together total 29. The combined total of the headquarters commands, and district staffs today amounts to 53, yet the commissioners speak of them as about 220. On Jan. 1, 1893, with a militia establishment of 34,330 of all ranks, the combined total of headquarters and district staffs was 32. This year the militia establishment is 57,718. In 1892-3 there was no army service corps, army medical corps, ordnance corps, army pay corps, corps of military clerks or signallers. Without many months of organization such a force was useless for active field work. Gen. Lake challenges a comparison of the utility for service of the forces of that time and today, although the increase of staff is almost exactly in proportion to the increase in numerical strength.

Gen. Lake compares the proportion of staff officers to men (peace time) in Britain and Canada, as follows: Britain, 1 to 1,060; Canada, 1 to 1,110. If the numbers which would be mobilized for war are considered, the Canadian proportion would be 1 to 1,920, as compared with 1 to 1,250.

The Inspector-general further points out that the cost of the military side of the headquarters of the Swiss army is nearly double that of the Canadian, notwithstanding the lower rates of pay current in Switzerland, and that country's system of universal service.

OUR FOREIGN TRADE.

As a rule Opposition speakers in the present campaign fight shy of the important question of the vast increase in Canada's foreign trade. Those who do venture to make reference to it usually draw misleading conclusions. For instance, Mr. Borden, in the course of a speech at Cobalt the other day, declared that trade flourished through imports of goods which ought to be produced in Canada, and added: "Meddle a little more with the tariff; destroy the industries of Ontario, and the country at large, and you will have a foreign trade even in excess of the present figures."

While no one questions the statement that much of the enormous expansion of Canadian trade has been due to an increase in imports, Mr. Borden should remember that of these imports a large proportion were goods of a kind that Canada cannot produce, but which the general prosperity of the Canadian people enabled them to purchase. True, there were other classes of goods imported that might be produced here, but they were the means of protecting the Canadian consumer against the unjustly high prices that would have been exacted under the Foster tariff. As the Toronto Star points out, even the import part of our foreign trade was both proof of and aid to Canadian comfort and development.

Another fact which Mr. Borden overlooks is that profitable commerce must consist largely of exchange. For instance, if ships are to carry Canadian products to other markets, they must bring us other goods or make double charges, which will, of course, come out of our profits. He should also bear in mind that a great proportion of our foreign trade is the marketing of our products, which is essential to our success.

But it is not imports alone which have increased under Liberal administration, as the official trade returns show. In the last year of the Conservative Government Canada's exports amounted in value to $121,013,852; for the last fiscal year they were $280,066,606, or more than exports and imports combined in the Conservative year named. In last year's foreign trade were included the following exports:

Farm products	$121,171,199
Mineral products	39,177,133
Forest products	44,170,470
Fishery products	13,867,363
Factory products	25,507,124

This is evidence enough of Canada's sound commercial growth, and it is folly to belittle it.

"Keep the Rascals Out."

The Opposition must be in a desperate state in New Brunswick when it calls a blackmailer to its aid.

It seems that every time Roblin, Bowser, Hazen, Hanna or Reaume opened his mouth he put his foot in it.

The Minister of Public Works refused to be bullied, bribed or blackmailed.

The Opposition press fires the bullets against the Transcontinental Railway, but the men who make them are afraid to disclose their identity.

London Liberals would help Mr. Beattie by staying away from the polls. The logical course is to go to the polls and vote against him as the candidate of the Slanderbund.

Why should the workmen vote for a candidate of the Federal Opposition, under any circumstances? And especially why should they vote for him when they have a candidate from their own ranks?

In July our local contemporary described Hon. George Graham as an excellent administrator and a friend of the people. The election has superseded, and our contemporary now finds him a dub and a fakir.

THE LABOR CANDIDATES.

Hamilton has set the pace in Ontario in the matter of electing labor candidates, and now that Toronto and London have decided to each send a good man to represent them in Ottawa, the Ambitious City doesn't propose to come in behind. Hamilton laborites have done the trick twice already, and they can make it three straight. The voters who elected Stodolme can just as easily elect Landers, all they have to do is just vote the same way as before. O'Donoghue, Landers and McCandless in the House would make the monopolists sit up and think a whole heap.

Mrs. Talkum—Marvelous! Do you know, when I first saw it, for a full minute I couldn't speak.

WANTED THE EVIDENCE.

"Darling, I mean to prove my love for you, not by words, but by deeds."
"Oh, George, did you bring the deeds with you?"

NOT AN ELECTION DODGE.

[Toronto Courier.]
Canada has started in on rural mail delivery. The Conservatives have been agitating for it and taunting the Government for not being enterprising and considering the dweller in rural districts. The Government were steadily, though quietly, investigating the subject. They were preparing schemes and plans and possibilities. Apparently it suited their ideas to keep the Conservative Opposition agitating and talking until it would be thoroughly pledged to this extension of public service. Then when the plans were all ready, the Postmaster-General announces that Canada will inaugurate a new system of rural mail delivery. The plans are brought down, all perfected. The officials commence to talk, and it is seen that they know all about costs and scores of other details. And the Postmaster-General gets the credit.

SIMPLY AWFUL.

[Cleveland Leader.]
D'Aubist—Do you think by battle-pictures, as have been put out to it, all the poignant horrors of war?
Krittick—Oh, yes; it's the awfulest thing I ever saw.

THE LETTER THAT KILLETH.

[Westminster Gazette.]
It is on record that Lord Denman established his great reputation at the bar by securing an acquittal in a famous case on the ground that a certain farm described in the indictment as "proprietors of a silk and of a cotton lace manufactory," it having been ascertained that they made both silk and cotton lace.

In 1857 a Judge quashed an indictment for murder because it was referred to the jurors as "on their oaths," instead of "on their oath."

In yet another case the Judge held that the omission of the word "ewe" was sufficient to invalidate a conviction because the word "ewe" as well as "sheep" was used in the statute.

In 1841 Lord Cardigan was indicted for firing on Capt. Tuckett in a duel. He was acquitted because the captain's Christian name was wrongly entered in the indictment.

In another case about the same period a legal document was invalidated because the letters A. D. were used instead of the words "In the year of our Lord."

BOURASSA THE REACTIONARY.

It will be noticed that the men whom Mr. Bourassa honors with his active support are the reactionaries who are against modernism in every form. He volunteered his support to Mr. Giroux, who, as an alderman, was a leader against permit-the Montreal to have a public library. That is the kind of ally that Mr. Bourassa is after, for behind such men there is an all-pervading influence that can without showing itself, make or mar a career. For the same reason those who desire the spread of enlightenment and who wish to see our people hold their own as befitting to the century in which they have to live, will be found opposed to such men as Mr. Giroux, and consequently on the opposite side to Mr. Bourassa.

A BRACING CLIMATE.

[Hamilton Spectator.]
Life must surely be strenuous in the West. Here's our old, mild-mannered friend Dan McGillicuddy, who was once prosaic enough to be counted a worthy citizen of Godrich, under arrest in Calgary on a charge of criminally libelling the editor of the Eye-Opener. The Eye-Opener, remember!

DISCREDITED IN CANADA'S METROPOLIS.

The only paper supporting the Opposition in Montreal is the Gazette. The Star, formerly the "Conservatives' best supporter," is denouncing the retirement of Mr. Foster, and Mr. Borden refuses to purge the party by his sacrifice.

TURN ON THE TAP.

[Montreal Herald.]
"Please turn on the tap" is a motto to make Zandrak and Zandrak jealous, and to make the writer of the letter to "Dear Lefurgue" turn green with envy.

FOSTER FUNNY FOR ONCE.

[Woodstock Sentinel-Review.]
Mr. Foster declares that Mr. Borden is the man to punish the black sheep. This is funny. The Montreal Star, which has shown its friendship for the Opposition leader in more ways than one, has been calling in language as emphatic as it can command on Mr. Borden to drop Mr. Foster, and has pointed out to him the absurdity of conducting a purity campaign with a man like Mr. Foster for a lieutenant. The Toronto News, which may now be regarded as Mr. Borden's chief newspaper supporter in Ontario, and now that Mr. Foster as "a man of such remarkable obliquity of vision, and such a superb 'equality of nerve,' that he had become an added burden to the Conservative party. In the face of all this, what does Mr. Borden do? He proceeds to give Mr. Borden a certificate of character! Oh, yes, Mr. Borden is the man to punish the black sheep, a man after Mr. Foster's own heart, in fact.

SUPPLEMENTING NATURE.

[Judge.]
Fatherly Christianity (surprising young parishioner in curl papers)—Why don't you leave your hair as it was meant to be, my child? If nature had wanted your hair to curl she would have curled it for you.

Offended Young Lady—When I was a little girl she did, sir, but I suppose she now thinks I am quite old enough to do it for myself.

Gushing Young Woman (to baronet at garden party)—Oh, Sir James, I hear you have an acetylene plant, and I simply adore tropical flowers!

POSER FOR THE JUDGE.

[Lippincott's.]
A colored woman of Alexandria, Va., was on trial before a magistrate of that town charged with inhuman treatment of her offspring. Evidence as clear as the woman had severely beaten her youngest, aged some nine years, who was in court to exhibit his battered condition.

Before imposing sentence his honor asked the woman whether she had anything to say.

"Kin I ask yo' honah a question?" inquired the prisoner.

The judge nodded affirmatively.

"Well, then, yo' honah, I'd like to ask yo' whether yo' was ever the parent of a perfectly worthless culled child."

WEDDING OF POPULAR NEWSPAPERMAN

Mr. H. C. Berkeley Takes unto Himself a Bride.

A pretty home wedding took place at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. J. Burgess, Denison avenue, Toronto, on Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock, when Miss Pearl Leah Soper, daughter of Mrs. Burgess and the late Joseph Soper, and grand daughter of the late E. H. Gustin, of London, Ont., was married to Mr. Herbert Conyns Berkeley, of the Telegram staff, and second son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Berkeley, Brighton, England. Rev. Dr. Turnbull, of West Presbyterian Church, performed the ceremony, and Miss Beth Whitacre played the wedding march.

The bride was given away by Mr. J. Burgess, and she wore a dainty white Empire gown of voile and lace, with pearl embroidery, and carried a bridal bouquet of lilies and roses. Her bridesmaid, Miss May Brady, of Balmy Beach, was in cream velvet, with bouquet of pink roses. Mr. Donald Beaton acted as best man. Later in the evening the happy couple left for a short honeymoon before taking up their residence at 846 Euclid avenue, the bride wearing a brown Directors' suit, with hat to match.

Mr. and Mrs. Berkeley are at present in London.

Stanfield's Underwear

A Talk by the Maker to the Wearer

(Chapter 2)

Shrinking The Wool

In its natural state, wool consists of long, curly, silky fibres, dotted with tiny prongs or branches. These prongs, when wet, interlock with the long strands and pull together, to protect the sheep from rain and dampness.

When wool is woven, the same thing would happen, were it not for the Stanfield process, which makes the prongs on each strand of wool lie down until the knitting is finished.

Stanfield's Unshrinkable Underwear is made absolutely unshrinkable by this special process, invented and perfected by the Stanfields. It is the only method of treating wool, which renders it unshrinkable and uninjured.

One way of getting rid of the prongs, is to burn them off by plunging the wool into a tank containing lime. As the prongs are a part of the wool, naturally the lime will "eat" the wool as well as the prongs. This is why some imported, and some Canadian-made "Unshrinkable" Underwear won't wear. It has been treated with lime in the effort to make it unshrinkable.

The illustrations above, show wool under the microscope both before and after going through the Stanfield process. They show that all the prongs that make it shrink are made harmless, BEFORE the Underwear is woven. And as there is no "shrink" in the wool, there can be no "shrink" in the Underwear.

Every garment, bearing the Stanfield label, is sold with our standard guarantee of "Money Back If It Shrinks."

All sizes from 22 to 70 chest measure. The label tells the weight—RED label for light—BLUE label for medium—BLACK label for heavy weight.

DUEL OVER A DOG.
Hartford, Conn., Oct. 16.—A dispute over a dog resulted in the murder by stabbing at Glastonbury last night of Michael Wierdak, aged 30. Two men are in the local jail charged with the crime, and two others are held as witnesses. The accused are Peter Ruha, aged 54, and John Saverock, aged 28. Ruha is married, and all four men are Hungarians of Glastonbury, as was Wierdak. It is said that last night Wierdak called on Ruha and told the latter that Ruha's dog had bitten him. Wierdak demanded, it is said, payment of damages, and also that the animal be disposed of. A quarrel is then said to have occurred, the outcome of which was Wierdak's death.

CHAPTER XXII

An Old Locket.

When they were alone again Stella turned to her husband. He had not spoken since that one speech that had sent the blood to her cheeks in tell-tale confusion.

"Clifford," she said quietly, "I have had a note from Lady Mary asking me to go and stay with her for a few days; do you mind if I go?"

"Mind!" he said with a savage laugh. "What use would it be if I did? Have you any regard for my wishes or my opinion, that you should ask that question? You keep a dog that I object to, and also a beggar girl because, I suppose, they are both links with that artist chap, Jasper Tennant who made love to you behind my back."

"You have no right to speak like that," Stella replied proudly. "I don't recognize your authority in things that concern only myself. I am your wife, and so far as I can I obey you, but I don't allow anyone to treat me as a mere plaything, especially if they are innocent domestic details that do not interest you!"

As he looked at her cold, white face and read the scorn in her blue eyes a sudden rage sprang up in his heart. He saw that for once he had met his match in the pliable girl he had married by a trick, and for a moment he felt a great longing to crush that spirit as he had crushed another woman's in the past.

"I don't wish you to stay with Lady Mary!" he said harshly, "she probably has that chap Tennant staying with her, and I don't intend my wife to meet a man who has made love to her in the past! Do you understand?"

She flung back her head with a scornful little laugh.

"I understand that your reason is an insult, and one that I will not debase my womanhood by obeying."

"Then you defy me!" he said slowly, watching with angry sullen eyes the face of the only woman he had ever loved, and whom his own conduct was only driving further from him.

"I refuse to obey you when your objections to my seeing my oldest friend are couched in such terms!" Stella said coldly. "I will certainly go to stay a few days with Lady Mary."

"And probably see that posing artist chap?" he sneered savagely.

A vivid flush stained her sweet face, but her eyes met his so frankly and clearly that his own fell before them.

"If I meet Mr. Tennant I shall certainly speak to him," she said quietly, "he is a friend of mine."

"You mean he is your lover—that he has been in love with you all the time, and you with him?" he cried savagely, his self-control slipping from him for the moment as the smoldering hate bubbled up against the man who had won the love he had failed to buy.

"I knew it all along, and I made up my mind to keep you from him, and I did! I married you while he was in the city, and he has been here since."

"You can't deny it!" she said in a low voice. "You know that I am right and oh! how I hate you for it! How I regret that I ever let myself believe that he could be silent all that time when he knew that I was waiting for a signal that would change my whole life!"

"All's fair in love and war!" he said sullenly. "Besides, I have not admitted that I am responsible for Tennant's accident! You made up that on your own initiative."

"You can't deny it!" she said in a low voice. "You know that I am right and oh! how I hate you for it! How I regret that I ever let myself believe that he could be silent all that time when he knew that I was waiting for a signal that would change my whole life!"

lie's slim figure stood on the threshold. She cast a nervous glance at him and hesitated.

"Well, what is it?" he said, curiously. She held out her hand, and he saw a letter in it.

"Mrs. Hawke asked me to bring you this," she said quietly. "She has gone out."

He snatched the letter from her and tore it open. It was brief and to the point.

"I am going now to stay with Lady Mary. It will be a prolonged visit, and unless you like no one need know that it is anything more. Later on, when my plans are definite, I will send for Lottie, and you shall be rid of everything personally connected with me. Till then, may I ask you to give her shelter? She will not get in your way, and I have at present nowhere to take her—Stella."

That was all, but as he read it Clifford Hawke bit his lip till the blood came. She had gone—left him—and they had been married only a couple of months. He had betrayed himself, and this was the result of his own folly. He glanced up and caught Lottie's grave wistful glance fixed upon him.

"What are you staring at?" he said harshly. "Are those the manners my wife taught you?"

The girl flushed hotly.

"I am sorry," she said quietly, "but you looked ill, Mr. Hawke, and I thought I might be able to bring you something."

He looked at her more closely. What did she mean? What did this meek-eyed girl with the soft voice know?

"I am quite well, thank you," he said curtly. "You may go. I suppose you know what to do till—till Mrs. Hawke sends for you?"

She nodded.

"Yes, thank you. But are you sure I can do nothing for you? You do look ill, really."

He smiled grimly. It was a unique experience for him to be pitied, and by a street beggar whom his wife and that "artist chap" had picked up. He looked at her more closely. He had always felt a curious antipathy for her—she reminded him of a fragment in his past that he was always trying to forget, but never succeeded in doing so. Suddenly he caught his breath sharply and stepped forward. Round the thin girlish neck was an old gold locket, battered and shapeless, with two initials intertwined on it.

"That locket looks old!" he said slowly. "Where did you get it from?"

Lottie raised her hand and touched it tenderly.

"It was my mother's," she said gently. "She put it round my neck when she was dying, and—"

But she paused suddenly. The great financier had given a curious little cry, and stumbling forward had fallen in a dead faint at her feet.

CHAPTER XXIII.

An Unexpected Meeting.

"Mr. Smith"—or Paul Steinway—put down the cigarette he was smoking, and gave a laugh of triumph.

"There, I think I have Mr. Clifford Hawke pretty well fixed up," he muttered. "In a very short time now I shall have my revenge! My enemy, who would gladly have seen me burnt to death, and probably knows more about the affair than anyone else, will come to the end of his little run, and 'Mr. Smith' will have accomplished his object in life."

He rose and looked out of the window. He had taken a flat in the Albany—Clifford Hawke's old place—and smiled grimly as he thought how he had prospered since that day when he had first called on the rising man of finance. He had passed under many bridges since then, and now held the helm in his own hand. Presently he took a letter from his pocket, and read it for the third time that morning.

"Dear Mr. Smith," it began. "Just a line to tell you that my cousin's husband is now alone. His wife has left him—though the affair is not supposed to be known—so the doubts you had about spoiling her life with him need not be considered now. I advise you to act at once. He is a desperate man, and given time, will find a way out of everything.—Yours, L. F."

He read the letter carefully, and then folded it and put it away.

"So she advises my acting at once," he mused. "I wonder why Miss Frant is so eager to have me do this. Is it disappointed love for the man or hate of her cousin? She is a strange character, quite unlike that of little Lottie Bond. I feel somehow that that little girl would not like me to work out a plan of vengeance against anyone. She is as sweet and gentle as the other fine lady is hard and bitter."

He began to fill his pipe, and presently was making notes in a small pocketbook. So intent was he on this that when he had finished he was startled to find that it was almost time to keep an appointment in the city.

He glanced at himself in the mirror over the mantelpiece. No one would take him for the thin, half-starved man who a few months ago had called on the financier, Clifford Hawke, to try and obtain a billet in his office. He had grown a beard and mustache, and his figure had filled out with good living.

"No one would know me," he muttered; "I shall escape recognition, except when I meet Clifford Hawke."

A few moments later he was walking swiftly down Piccadilly, and as he crossed the road by Regent street, he collided suddenly with a man, who turned and stared at him.

"I beg your pardon," he said hastily, then he gave a cry, and clutched the other man's shoulder.

"Cardew!" he said hoarsely. "Then you were not burnt, after all!"

The face of the man whom he called "Cardew" flushed with surprised joy.

"Good heavens! It's old Steinway!" he cried. "Why, man, the papers said you were burnt in the fire—and you thought I was. What a comedy of errors!"

"Come to the Criterion and have a drink," Steinway said, "and tell me what you've been doing. If you only knew the hours I've spent regretting that I sent you back to sleep at that place!"

When they were served with their drinks, Steinway said again—

"Now fire away. How have you been existing since I last saw you?"

PLAY REUNITES LOVERS

Pathetic End of Stage Romance Brings Young Couple Together.

Kankakee, Ill., Oct. 15.—Real life melodrama yesterday changed the course of events in three lives. It cost Jacob Otten, a wealthy Chicagoan, a bride and brought together two loving Kankakee hearts which had formerly been as one, but which, for a year, had been doing their beating independently.

George Heyen, a well-to-do young farmer living near here, and Miss Lizzie Boener, daughter of a neighboring farmer, attended the Bijou Theatre in this place last night. Up to a year ago they had been sweethearts and were engaged to marry, but a lovers' quarrel separated them, and for one year they had not met. Neither knew of the presence in the theatre of the other till they met, face to face, after the curtain had fallen.

Pretty Miss Boener, 17-year-old heart pit-a-patted terribly and forced tears of sympathy to her eyes when the stage lovers quarreled. It was so like her own case, all but the ending, which was one of the "and they were married and lived happily ever afterward," kind.

"Wasn't it fine?" remarked Heyen, by way of saying something.

"Yes," sighed Miss Boener, "especially the ending. That's the way all quarrels should end."

"Would you? Do you mean it?" asked Heyen, excitedly, as he grasped her hands.

"Yes," declared Miss Boener, forgetting that she was to marry Jacob Otten of Chicago, 48 years old, but wealthy, next week. "Yes, I mean it, George, if you do."

This morning the young people, accompanied by their parents, appeared before Justice O. H. Mead and were married.

ALAS, POOR HOWARD

Gould Has to Struggle Along on $400,000 Per Year.

New York, Oct. 15.—That Howard Gould's income was formerly $600,000 a year, but since the business depression of last year it has been reduced to $400,000, and that he has lost $300,000 this year, was stated by his counsel in an argument before Justice Bischoff today. These figures were given in opposing an application by Mrs. Katherine Clemmons Gould, wife of Howard Gould, who is suing him for alimony, for an increase in her alimony from $25,000 a year to $120,000. To support her application Mrs. Gould asserted that her husband's income was $600,000 a year. Delaney Nicoll, counsel for Mr. Gould, replied that while this was once true Mr. Gould says it is not so now. Mr. Nicoll also asserted that Mrs. Gould's career for many years had been one of unbridled extravagance, and that last year she received from her husband $224,000 and that from 1899 to 1906 Mr. Gould gave his wife $766,50

THE RAID ON THE TIMBER PUBLIC DOMAIN GIVEN AWAY

Politicians Who Got 23,987 Square Miles for Nothing Between 1878 and 1896.

Members of Parliament, Senators and Camp Followers in the Deal—A Vivid Contrast Between the Policies of Former and Present Administrations.

Driven to desperate methods by their many abortive attempts to discredit the Government of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, its enemies have had the audacity to compare the administration of the timber lands under a Liberal Government, with the manner in which the timber lands were administered by their government when in power.

No comparison more disastrous to the Conservative party could have been made, and none more welcome to the Government. The facts have only to be stated for the people to pass judgment upon them, and that judgment will undoubtedly endorse the policy of the Liberal Government, and it cannot fail also to carry a severe condemnation of the Conservative administration.

LOOTED THE TIMBER.

The Conservative Government for eighteen years regarded the public domain, lands and timber, as a perquisite to be divided amongst Conservatives, senators, members of the Government, members of Parliament, defeated candidates, party workers, and prominent supporters of the party generally throughout the country. There was no regard for the public interest, no care exercised to secure fair compensation to the treasury in exchange for valuable concessions. The prevailing idea was to take advantage of the power they had, and give the property of the people to members of the Conservative party.

No sooner did the Conservatives gain power in 1878, than the process of looting commenced. With each succeeding year the raid on the timber continued until the year 1883, when the acme of cupidity was reached, and a veritable scramble occurred. During that year Conservative politicians divided among themselves, free of cost, no less than 10,326 square miles of timber limits covering 6,608,640 acres of land, the property of the taxpayers of Canada. During the year 1883 there were 212 timber limits disposed of making a strip of forest 33 miles wide, and reaching from Ottawa to Toronto; or a strip three miles wide extending from Halifax to Vancouver.

This hungry horde secured the vast tracts mentioned above absolutely free of cost. Not a cent was demanded or paid. The men in charge of public affairs divided the property of the people among themselves at the rate of 22,500 acres a day for 300 working days.

THOSE IN THE GRAB.

The following is a partial list of the men who grabbed the timber of Canada during the one year, 1883, without paying a cent for it:

Thomas Birkie—50 miles.
Former Conservative member for Ottawa.

These are examples, showing a few only out of the 212 who secured free timber limits from the Conservative Government in the year 1883 alone.

BOLDER EACH YEAR.

The following shows how the rapacity of Tory politicians grew, and how the demands of their supporters were satisfied:

In 1881, 21 timber limits were granted; area, 955 square miles.

In 1882, 98 timber limits were granted; area, 4,642 square miles.

In 1883, two hundred and twelve timber limits were granted; area, 10,326 square miles, free.

In eighteen years, from 1878, until the Conservatives were driven from office in 1896, they disposed of no less than 23,987 square miles of timber limits, an area equal to 18,766,080 acres. Of this quantity 23,987 square miles, equal to 15,351,680 acres, were given away without one cent of equivalent going into the treasury.

VIVID CONTRAST.

Compare the above with the record of the Liberal Government. In eleven years since 1896, when the Liberals came into power, they have alienated only 6,456 square miles, or 4,131,840 acres, and for this they have received the sum of $528,878, or an average of $81.92 per square mile. In addition to this, the ground rent amounts to $30,000 a year, and there is also a stumpage imposed of 50 cents a thousand feet.

In other words, the Conservatives gave away for nothing in one year,

BRITISH DIPLOMAT HERE

Sir James Rennell Rodd is Visiting Canada.

Toronto, Oct. 15.—Sir James Rennell Rodd, G. C. V. O., K. C. M. G., C. B., a diplomat prominent in his Majesty's service and writer of many noted works in prose and poetry, arrived in Toronto from Montreal yesterday morning on his way to Niagara Falls and Washington. His trip is of a purely recreative kind, and has no political significance.

Although this is Sir James' first visit to Canada he is a man who has had much to do in the conduct of Imperial affairs in the other parts of the British Empire. One of his most noteworthy accomplishments was when at special envoy to King Menelik of Abyssinia in 1897 he brought about the good understanding between the African monarch and Great Britain, whereby not only were trade relations made mutually better, but an alliance was formed against the Mad Mullah. On his expedition to King Menelik's court, Sir James was accompanied by a force of picked men of the army, including one officer, the tallest man in the British army at that time. Sir James has been engaged in the British diplomatic service in many countries, including Italy, Greece, France, Egypt and Sweden. He also saw active service in Zanzibar and won medals for his gallantry.

SPORTING NEWS OF THE DAY

QUOITING, BOXING,
FOOTBALL, GOLF, CRICKET

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 15, 1938.
The shades of night were falling fast,
As through this subduing village passed
A Kike who bore mid snow and ice
A banner with this strange device:
"Wee-e-ah."

He pleaded with the passing throng
To help the goodly cause along;
He pleaded long and pleaded loud
Unto that dazed and saddened crowd,
"Wee-e-ah."

But no one seems to heed his call,
And no one cared a thing at all,
And none would play a nickel for
The emblem of a losing war,
"Wee-e-ah."

"I'm long upon my stock," he cried,
What time his losing trade he plied.
"Now I deserve some recompense;
Here, take the bunch for thirty cents."
"Wee-e-ah."

LEO COSTELLO, the classy local third-sacker, who next year will perform with the Buffalo Eastern League team, is as interesting a conversationalist as he is a ball player. Costello dropped into The Advertiser office today on business, and modestly admitted that he was to be "tried out" by the Bisons next season. "I am going south with the team," he said, "but, of course, I don't know how I will make out after the training trip."

COSTELLO recently put in two weeks with the Bisons, and his experiences were most interesting. "They don't jolly a young player at all," said he. "Instead, the newcomers' nose is put to the grindstone, and he is told to 'do something.'"

"I REALLY CANNOT see much difference between the Eastern League fielding and the average good city league variety," Costello continued.

A Double Bill at Tecumseh Park
Fast Baseball and Rugby Contests

Mooney Gibson Will Catch for London Against Chatham.

With even fair weather the stands at Tecumseh Park tomorrow should be packed, for seldom if ever in local baseball and rugby history have attractions approaching those scheduled for tomorrow been offered on one day's bill of fare.

Mooney Gibson, will, of course, be the chief attraction, and Londoners will have an opportunity of seeing him in action for the first time since his advent into the big ring, the king bee of the Pirate backstop department.
Gibson's little son will act as mascot for the London team, and it seems certain that Chatham, even with Jack Miller, formerly of St. Thomas, on the slab, is due for a grand bumping.

Next on the list of stars comes Leo Costello — modest Leo — who will play third base. Costello has signed with the Buffalo Eastern League for next season, and he has already worked out two weeks with the Bisons here.
Costello will make good if any local player can. He is a natural ball player and has the class.

"Ruby" Cochrane, the star slugger of the popular east end league, is another player who is worth looking at,
and while he is not a graceful fielding player, "Ruby" can poke the ball to almost any corner of the lot he cares

Local and Foreign Sporting Notes

Dan McEwen and his famous charge, the Bel, will receive a big reception when they arrive in London next Tuesday evening. Mr. Entrikin of Tavistock, the owner of the Bel, will also be here.

At four o'clock Tuesday afternoon a procession led by the Bel will be formed in Victoria Park, and every local horseman is requested to turn out and make the affair a big success.

In the evening a banquet will be tendered to McEwen in the Dufferin block, and at least 150 guests will be invited.

Arrangements are being made for the dual junior athletic meet between the members of the local Y. M. C. A.,
and the Boys' Club of St. Thomas.
The meet will probably be held Oct.
24.

Longboat, the great Indian runner,
last night took a cramp at Simcoe,
and was beaten in a three mile race by Dextador and Green, who had been given handicaps of 450 and 150 yards.

Miss Margaret Curtis, present national golf champion, yesterday defeated Miss M. B. Adams at Philadelphia, for the president's cup of the Huntington valley club by 3 up and 2 to play.

Tommy and Harry Smith, Charlie Masson, Fred Thropp and other Ottawa hockey players will this year play in Pittsburgh.

A meeting of the Interprovincial Rugby Union is being held in Toronto today to investigate the charges of professionalism preferred against Ryan and Smith.

Jockey Truebell, who rode for Seagram years ago, and was suspended, has been reinstated, and will ride at Landonia.

Melvin Sheppard, the New York middle distance runner, who did so well in England, has retired from the cinder path.

Gallagher, the great Leamington gold-

Briefs

"but it was different with the pitchers, who, of course, were superior to the home-grown brand."
"Rube Kissinger and the rest of the Buffalo twirlers impressed me as being almost as fast as the major league slab artists, and they naturally had me guessing at first until I became accustomed to facing their speedy slants."

THE CLEVER THIRD-SACKER stated that a beginner in Eastern League company found little time for anything but work, and that but little encouragement was offered until the player had shown undisputed class.

"The old-timers sometimes jolly one another along," said he, "but the 'cubs' gets nothing but sharp commands until they make good."

COSTELLO ADDED that the Buffalo players regarded Keenan as one of the fastest infielders in the business, and deplored the fact that he wasn't a better stickler. "We tried to get Jo Jo out to play with us tomorrow, but he is working now, and couldn't get away."

BIG JACK McHUGH, the versatile first baseman of the McClarys, who was a team mate of Costello, was scheduled to play tomorrow with the London team, but he has accepted a position in Toronto, and therefore cannot be on hand. Costello regards Mc-Hugh as a first baseman of class, and thinks that if given the proper chance under capable management, he would make good in the Eastern League.

"JACK WOULDN'T OBEY orders at all when working under Captain Jimmy Bell," said Leo, "and oftentimes when told to hunt, he would try to knock the cover off the ball. He'd get all that taken out of him inside of a month with the Bisons, and if I make good myself, I am going to try and get him on the team on trial."

to—especially when the bases are filled and a drive means runs. London East will be in attendance in a body, and will root for its clever first baseman.

In addition to the stars mentioned there will be our clever little backstop and out gardener, "Tootie" Jeffries, accompanied, of course, by Brother Chester (Nig) Jeffries; Eddie Jackson, always a hard worker; Freddie Ball,
one of the best shortstops London has ever known; Algie Gatedelle, the "meteor" in right garden; and either
"Jeshy" Clarke, or Smith, the east end league star, on the bench.

Cap the above lineup off with the veteran and ever popular Abbie Johnson as umpire, and it can be seen that a trip to Tecumseh Park tomorrow will be well worth while, even if only for the sake of renewing old acquaintances with the boys who have helped him to the London team, and as a stirring little baseball center.

And we mustn't overlook the rugby game, either. The Londoners have been hammering away all week, getting ready for Dundas, and if the Valley-ites win Saturday they will have to travel faster than they did a week ago.

The lineup will be changed considerably, and among the new players will be Grafton, at halfback—one of London's weakest positions.

The baseball game begins at 2:30
sharp, and the rugby contest at 3:45.
Twenty-five cents admits to both games, and either one of the struggles will be well worth that alone.

DEATH OF CAPT. BRUCE.
Guelph, Oct. 15.—Capt. George Bruce for the past 35 years one of the leading business men of the city, is dead, aged 73 years. He long served on the city council and on the board of education.
Had Capt. Bruce lived a day longer he and his wife would have celebrated the 50th anniversary of their wedding. Believed the widow, four children survive.

TWO CLUBS AFTER REILLY

Famous Shortstop Receives Offers
From New York and Chicago.

New Haven, Conn., Oct. 16.—The
New York Highlanders and the Chicago White Sox both are after Barney Reilly, the famous Yale shortstop who coached the varsity last year, because he was barred from playing because of summer baseball playing the year before. Scout Irwin of the New York team has made him an offer and Comiskey has sent a representative on to see him. Reilly's friends say he likely will accept the Chicago offer.

THE ARENA

New York, Oct. 15.—Billy Delaney, manager of Al. Kaufmann, the California heavyweight, last night informed Johnny White, manager of the National A. C., that he would let Kaufmann meet the winner of the "Kid" McCoy-Jim Stewart bout, and White has decided to put on that contest three weeks from Friday night.
Delaney had intended to only have Kaufmann fight one battle here, and then hike back to California, but as Kaufmann can get more bouts here than he could out on the coast, he has decided to stay here for some time.

Charley Harvey and Jim Buckley, the local promoter, will meet today to clinch a match between Tommy Murphy and Owen Moran, to be decided at Buckley's new club, the New Polo
A. A., which will hold all its important contests at Sulzer's Harlem Park in the future. In trying to clinch this match Buckley might have decided to substitute Moran for Joe Gans, who is stated to meet Tommy on Oct. 23.

Leach Cross, the local lightweight,
and Willie Fitzgerald, the "Fighting Harp," are going to battle again. This will be the third time they have exchanged wallop. They were matched last night to try conclusions in a six-round bout at a stag to be held by the Colin A. C., in the Clermont Avenue Rink, in Brooklyn, on Tuesday evening, Oct. 27. Fitzgerald is still confident he can beat Cross, and on that account the match was arranged.

Joe Thomas, the clever California
middleweight, left today for Stratford, Conn., where he will begin training for his six-round fight with Sailor Burke, which will come off at the stag of the Fairmont A. C., on Nov. 11. For the first two weeks Thomas expects to do considerable road work and shadow boxing, as he intends to reduce from nineteen to twelve pounds. If Thomas beats Burke he will be matched to box Hugo
Kelly before the same club.

Owen Moran, the English pugilist, is so pleased with the treatment he has received in this country that it is hardly probable he will return to England.
"How long are you going to stay here, Owen?" he was asked last night by a friend at the Colin A. C., in C. C. in Brooklyn. "I intend to remain in America twelve months," replied Moran,
"and at the end of that time I might decide to stay here for good."

GOOD SOCCER GAMES
SCHEDULED TOMORROW

Saturday's soccer games in the local league promise to cause a decided change in the standing of the teams, for it is reported that some of the weaker teams have strengthened wonderfully since last Saturday.

Three games in all will be played,
as follows:
Chelsea vs. Asylum — At Asylum grounds.
Normal School vs. Queen's Park A.
C.—Carling's Heights.

North Enders vs. All Saints—Car-ling's Heights.
The first two games will begin at 3 p.m., and the third one at 4:30.

The standing of the league at present is:

LONDON BOWLERS
WIN AT ST. THOMAS

West and Karrys, the two local turnders, last night visited St. Thomas, and defeated Barnes and Darke, of that place, by a comfortable margin.

The scores:
Karrys 138 179 212 154 169 185
West 217 206 225 210 194 213
Barnes 150 191 230 144 181 179
Drake 228 185 131 203 203 170

THE CUBS ARE ALL
GREAT BASE RUNNERS

Wouldn't it be great to have a team of base-runners of the Cubs' stamp? Just think what a source of worryment such a team would be to opposing catchers.

The Cubs are the nearest approach to such a team. Of course, all of them are not as speedy as the Georgian. Probably Artie Hoffman is the only one who is as fast as foot as Tyros, but each and every one of eight of them can hit the earth in much the same manner as the Georgian.

Probably never in the history of baseball have eight such proficient sliders played on the same team at the same time.
Sheffield, Hoffman, Schulte, and Chance are all of the same school, the Chance school, and it is to be regretted that all teams do not boast of the same kind.

Each and every one of those Cubs slides in practically the same manner. If a throw to squeeze him is a little high, he slides in front of the fielder, and if it is low he slides around. One can't help but marvel at the fact that each one of the Cubs is as polished in hitting the earth as is the other.

STEEL NETS MAKE TORPEDO USELESS

Experiment Shows Invention To Be Good Protection for Battleships.

Newport, R. I., Oct. 15.—According to tests made in Narragansett Bay this afternoon, the new steel nets, constructed for the purpose of protecting battleships and other ships of war from torpedo attacks, were proven to be capable of withstanding the attack of even the newest type of Whitehead torpedo, "Mark five," as it is known in the navy.

The torpedo boat Morris, in command of Lieut. Babcock, was sent out from the naval torpedo station this afternoon to make the test, a net having been previously stretched at a protected point in the lower bay. One of the new torpedoes purchased a short time ago by the Government in England, was used.
At ranges varying from 1,200 to 1-600 yards and with the torpedo geared up to forty knots an hour.

At this terrific speed the torpedo was sent at the net and in each instance, according to report, the missile failed to puncture the net or damage it to any great extent.

Winners Yesterday.
At Toronto—Risk 3 to 1, Black Hawk 6 to 5, Bridon 2 to 1, The Globe 6 to 5, King Thistle 3 to 1.

At Belmont—Court Lady, My Grace,
Stamina, Delirium, Hilarious, Nimbus.

The Simcoe street school soccer team yesterday lost to the St. Georges by 1—0 in a fast, well-played game.

Walde, of the winners, kicked the only goal.

Tommy Burns a Society Lion

Canadian the Man of the Hour happening was by no means remote;

in fact, it was well within probability." Another prominent sportsman looked upon Burns and Jeffries as the two most genuine champions of the world since the time of Mace, because they had not drawn the color line, as had some other champions.

Burns spoke.
At the Sydney Referee office Burns made a speech. He was a good deal surprised at the heartiness of his reception, he said. He had travelled many thousands of miles to come to Australia, and had heard in his own country that the Australians were the greatest sports in the world. He was quite satisfied that after the way he had already been treated, he came out to fight the best of the white boys, but he would give one colored boy named Johnson a chance later on.
(Loud cheers.)

Burns' training quarters at the Gunyah, Darling Point, were in great request not only by the stronger sex, but also by the ladies. They were entertained to afternoon tea on the lawn and were extremely interested in the champion's work. And not only did the ladies visit Burns at his training quarters, they actually addressed communications to H. D. McIntosh, director of the Scientific Boxing Company, Limited, inquiring whether they would be admitted to the contest between Burns and Squires at the Stadium, Rushcutters' Bay, Sydney—which seats 30,000 people—and asking to be reserved seats. The booking for the contest appears to have bordered on the remarkable, one-third of the seats being applied for within twenty-four hours of the plans being shown, and that with £5 charged as the top price.

Reception Given.
Ald. English, who presided at the formal reception given to Burns at Bateman's hotel, said that, as evidence of the good-feeling existing between Squires and his twice conquered, the Australian heavyweight had walked three miles to catch a train at Newcastle, so as to be among those welcoming the world's champion. The speaker assured Burns that the latter would find the Australians thorough sports, no matter how the battle ended. Other great Australian sportsmen spoke in the same strain, and Mayor Wynne drew a big round of cheers when he said: "There was an agreement, signed, and lying at the office of the Sports and Amusements, Limited, which provided for a meeting in Australia between Burns and Johnson under certain conditions. Such a Tigers' pelts at reduced prices! See any of the sportsmen, Brinn, Reubach, Overall, King, Chance, Evers, Finkler, Steinfeldt, Schulte, Hoffman or Chubb. Prister all out.

No wonder Jennings wants to trade his infield for a live one. The inner works failed to show a great deal, except in the last couple of games, when the tussle was as good as lost.

Good reason the Chicago rooters are such a bunch of "bugs." Who wouldn't enthusiasm over an aggregation such as Chubby Charles Murphy has corroded?
That outfit would look pretty sweet either on the Polo grounds or at the Hilltop.

Jennings made his greatest mistake in leaving Summers in so long in the first game. Had he thrown in Donovan in the fifth, he would undoubtedly have got the jump, which just about means the whole thing in a world's series.

Donovan may have had a sore arm, but it's ten to one his head was more painful than the wing when he watched his team mates fall down several times when bright opportunities presented themselves.
Bill did all that was expected of him. He stole on the mighty King, only to be marooned.

We must admit at last that Wolverine fans are not as game as the team for which they were pulling. It was an exceptionally warm and sunny day on Wednesday, but the crowd at Detroit was the smallest that ever watched a world's championship.

Detroit has now had two chances. Both times Jennings' men fell down lamentably.
Let us hope someone else will get a crack at the Cubs next fall, if that team is to go on winning the National League pennant forever. By the way, it seems pretty near time for a little exclusive party in New York.

The Windy City motorist who tried to break all long-distance auto records from Chicago to Detroit in time to be in on the killing, only to arrive just too late,
is as much to be pitied as a Detroit fan.

Think the guy who "nicknamed" the baseball teams was a nature faker.

"Hope springs eternal." The Tigers are surely improving. They got a tie first time, but better still, they won a victory on the second attempt. At this rate, they should cop the world's championship in 1915 if they are fortunate enough to win the pennant each year till that time.

Some of the western scribes have it that they will be war in the American League.
They claim there is bad blood between President Ban B. Johnson and Frank Farr, owner of the Yankees. It is hoped that Ban is ruffled because the Hilltop owner intends turning over the management of the ill-fated team to George Stallings, with whom Johnson is a bit premature, as Mr. Farrell has not as yet definitely announced any selection for next year.

Toronto Authorities Decide to Put an End to Student Disturbances.

Toronto, Ont., Oct. 15.—In consequence of the disturbances created down town by the students yesterday in their parade before the annual Varsity games, the board of control this morning gave stringent instructions to the police, which, it is hoped, will have the effect of preventing such

HAPPENINGS OF A DAY IN BUSY EAST LONDON.

Annual Distribution of Prizes In St. Mary's School, East End

Pleasing Event Took Place This Morning—The Prize Winners.

The annual distribution of prizes to the pupils and ex-pupils of St. Mary's school, Lyle street, was held in the school this afternoon at 3 o'clock. Among those present were Senator Coffey, Mr. Phil Pocock, Mr. D. O'Sullivan, and Fathers Aylward, White, Goetz, O'Neill, Tobin and McKee, Dr. Mullan, and parents of the pupils. The presentations were made by Rev. Father O'Neill, the superintendent of separate schools of the city, and prizes were awarded according to the standing secured by the pupils at the June examinations.

The school girls and boys provided an excellent programme, the feature of which was a drama by Misses Irene Wilson and Teresa Graham.

The Prize List.

The following is a list of students to whom prizes were awarded:

His Grace Archbishop McEvoy's medal was won by Master Stuart A. Murphy, for gentlemanly conduct. The Dromogole medal, for highest standard, was won by Master Eugene McGuire.

CITY WILL OFFER PACKING CO. A SITE

Ald. Rose says the concern will locate again in London.

According to a statement made by Ald. Rose this morning, it is highly probable that the Canadian Packing Company, whose plant was burned down a short time ago, will locate in the East End as the city will offer the company two sites, one situated near the Pegler property, south of Trafalgar street and the other opposite the sewage farm, down the river.

If the company accepts either of the offers it will most probably select the one in the East End. It is out of the city limits, but within a stone's throw of Trafalgar street, where the proposed interconnecting line was to have been built when the rolling mills and McClary's plants were located in that section, some years ago.

It is said that the plant would not be objectionable, as with proper sewage connections which would be afforded all by-products would be carried away.

Should the plant be located at the point in question, the interconnecting line would be built, thus forming a connection with all roads entering the city.

ALD. ROSE THINKS WELL OF LABOR MAN.

Says Mr. McCandless is sure to be elected.

Ald. Rose, who was elected on the Labor ticket, and who figures prominently in labor circles, states that they are figuring on electing Mr. McCandless, their candidate, by a substantial majority.

He is making a strong canvass, and all labor men are working hard for a victory.

"With the united backing of the Labor party we can carry anything," said Ald. Rose, "and the party is in very good condition at present."

EAST LONDON MAN WON MAYOR'S MEDAL

For the best collection of Pigeons at the Western Fair.

Mr. J. A. Hatton, the east end pigeon fancier, has received the medal presented by Mayor Stevely for the best collection shown at the Western Fair.

The prize is a very beautiful one, and was carried off by a showing of about 350 birds. Mr. Hatton has the reputation of carrying the best collection of pigeons in Ontario.

Labor Man Makes a Vigorous Canvass

Both Major Beattie, the Conservative nominee, and Mr. J. W. McCandless, the Labor candidate, are engaged in a personal canvass of the city.

It is not probable that any public meetings will be held by either side.

Mr. McCandless is a hard worker, and is making a vigorous canvass. He is visiting a number of the shops in the city, and is coming into personal contact with the workmen, who are not slow to offer their support.

The party is now completing the work of organization, and it is expected that

Methodist Church will be present at the meeting of the board of works on Thursday evening next, in order to obtain a brick crossing in front of the church, at the corner of Hill street and Hyatt avenue.

The members of the church have been agitating for the crossing for some time, but have had little success. The road is a sandy one, and is in bad condition.

The deputation was to have attended the meeting this week, but as it was held on Wednesday evening, instead of the regular night, they were unable to do so.

WORK ON THE NEW BRIDGE IS PROGRESSING.

Structure Being Erected at the Foot of Smith Street.

Work on the new bridge crossing the Thames at the foot of Smith street is progressing satisfactorily, and it will be ready for use within a few months.

The bridge will be a very substantial one, and will have accommodation for pedestrians and drivers.

DUNDAS CAR STRUCK LOCAL BAKER'S WAGON.

But in This Instance No Damage Was Done.

The delivery wagon of a local bakery was struck by a Dundas street car at the corner of Dundas and Adelaide streets at noon today, the vehicle and outfit escaping any serious damage.

The driver apparently did not notice the approach of the car until it was too late to avert a collision. The motorist pulled his car up and came to a stop after pushing the bakery wagon along and smashing the rear wheels.

EAST END NOTES.

Rev. J. W. Baird, of Hyatt Avenue Church, returned last evening from Blenheim, where he attended the funeral of his brother David. The deceased died Tuesday and was buried yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Rev. S. N. and Mrs. Hazen, of Centennial Methodist Church, returned from Clinton last evening. While there Mr. Hazen assisted Rev. W. E. Kerr in the nuptials of Miss Emma Rathwell and Leonard E. Weir, both of Clinton.

An angler named Foley made a fine catch at the Clay Banks last evening, when he pulled in a pike weighing over six pounds.

Among the aldermanic possibilities for the coming municipal elections is Mr. Henry Pocock, of 28 Redan street. A number of Mr. Pocock's friends have requested him to enter the field, but he has not as yet decided. Although a Liberal in politics he may run as an Independent.

The many friends of Mr. J. H. Glass, who had his right foot so seriously burned in a fire in British Columbia in August last, will be glad to know that he is now convalescing at his home, 881 Dundas street, and hopes soon to be able to walk without the aid of crutches.

Private Moir Is a Model Prisoner Makes No Trouble for the Officials

Governor Carter Speaks Well of the Wolsley Barracks Soldier.

"We have little or no trouble with our prisoners, especially Pte. Moir, the alleged murderer," said Governor Carter of the county jail, today.

"The usual punishment for disobedient, disorderly prisoners is the dark cell, and we haven't had a man there all summer."

Moir is the quietest prisoner the county jail ever contained, and it is seldom that he even speaks to his fellow-prisoners.

He is not moody, but is reserved almost to taciturnity.

"Moir is a polite, and apparently refined young man," said Governor Carter, "and if all the prisoners were of little trouble as he, our task would be an easy one."

The chief occupations of the prisoners in the county jail is sawing wood, keeping the lawns surround-

The Dark Cell.

At times prisoners have in the past refused to do manual labor, but without exception the dark cell always proved effective cure for laziness and stubbornness within the prescribed 72 hours of solitary confinement on bread and water allowed by law.

Offending prisoners are allowed no blanket or mattress in the dark cell, although the floor is of wood. At intervals the stubborn one is asked if he is ready to go to work, and as a rule, a half a day in the dark, almost totally unlighted dungeon brings a prisoner around to his senses.

In the summer time the prisoners get up at 6 o'clock and go to bed at 8. In the winter the hours are from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m.

Among the offenses for which prisoners can be confined in the dark cell are the use of bad language, idleness, defacing jail property, disobedience of orders and common assault and disorderly conduct.

Fortune Telling Is Not Popular Here

Fortune-telling as a business will not be encouraged in London, although a Detroit man wrote Inspector McCallum asking for particulars about establishing a business here.

The inspector read the epistle, and as the man asked what the outlook for business was here, he responded over it.

He consulted P. M. Love, and they read the statutes on the question, which imposed a heavy fine as well as a year's imprisonment on those who peeped into the future at so much per peep.

So he wrote the man, saying that the climate in London was not healthy for those looking into the future via the palm route, or by cards, or through tea cups. He added conviction to the statement by noting that four or five persons have been separated from considerable sums of money for the practice.

London is deprived of another growing industry by the interference of the law.

A PRESENTATION TO A DEPARTING OFFICER

At the regular meeting of Court Robin Hood, No. 59, C. O. F., held last evening, Chief Ranger Bro. Alex. Currie resigned his office, owing to his intended removal from the city.

Bro. Andrew Templeton was elected to the chair, and in a few well-chosen remarks expressed the great regret of the members at losing the services of a highly-esteemed and earnest-working brother.

Bro. W. J. Element also spoke highly of Bro. Currie's valuable services to the court, and complimented him on his ability in the discharge of the duties of his office, and on behalf of the court presented him with a leather suitcase, wishing him God-speed and every prosperity in his future life.

Bro. Currie replied very feelingly, thanking the brethren for the gift.

Liberal Whist.

The weekly whist match of the South London Liberal Club will be held in the Clubrooms this evening. A very fine prize is up for competition, and it is expected that a big crowd will attend.

Last Friday evening one of the largest crowds of the year was in attendance, and it is fully expected that the crowd will be much larger tonight.

HIS THIRD ACCIDENT

A Toronto Motorman Has Unfortunate Series of Accidents.

Toronto, Oct. 15.—John Kidney, an old man, living at 148 Spadina avenue, was struck by an eastbound Bathurst street car at the corner of Spadina and Front streets a little after noon today, and probably fatally injured.

A coincidence about the accident is that it is only a week ago yesterday since the fatal collision between the Bathurst street car and the freight train a block east of today's accident, and also that the same motorman, J. Dalton, had charge of the car on both occasions.

This motorman, by a strange coincidence, is the one who had charge of the car which killed the little McKee boy on Bathurst street in April last. He is given an excellent report by his divisional superintendent.

"A series of accidents does not necessarily mean anything," said a street railway official today. "We had one man who figured in accident after accident. In none of them was he found culpable, but he became so impressed with his ill-fortune that he finally refused to take his car out."

BOTHA WAS HUMOROUS

Told How Naval Guns Spoiled Plans of Young Boers.

Durban, Natal, Oct. 15.—At a dinner to the delegates to the union convention last night, Lord Selborne said, using a golf simile, that they must expect to encounter numerous difficult bunkers, but he had no doubt the ball would be skillfully extricated.

General Botha, speaking in Dutch, created amusement and enthusiasm by his reference to Sir Percy Scott, who was present. He said Sir Percy had sent naval guns to the front "when we were trying to get Ladysmith, and they were too much for us. Sir Percy disappointed our young Boers, who were looking forward to sea bathing and banana eating on the coast."

It is expected the conference will last three months, the people of Natal wishing to give it every chance. Probably the chief point will be whether representation in the proposed union shall be on a basis of votes or population. The latter would discriminate against the pioneering population of Rhodesia and the Transvaal.

Injured in Wreck.

Miss Althea Hoson, of Parkhill, who was injured in the wreck on the Grand Trunk near Allandale last night, is a niece of Dr. Owens of this city.

A NEW UNIFORM BILL OF LADING

Has Been Adopted by the Grand Trunk Railway.

Shippers are greatly interested in the new uniform bill of lading which the Grand Trunk recently decided to adopt. The bill is in two parts, as follows:

1. One form for use in connection with what are termed "straight" consignments, consisting of the bill of lading, shipping order and memorandum acknowledgment.

2. One form for "order" shipments, consisting of the order paper uniform bill of lading (to be printed only on yellow paper). This form shall be used only for order consignments. It will not be permissible to accept order shipments on straight bills of lading.

A supply of these standard forms will be furnished all shippers on request.

MIDNIGHT DRIVERS FRIGHTEN PEOPLE
Crumlin Residents Are Up in Arms Against Nocturnal Gallopers.

Two unknown drunken men driving a team terrorized the citizens of Crumlin, several miles east of here, for several hours Tuesday night, and several cases of broken fences and gates are said to have resulted.

The two men apparently were bent on scaring the people, for they drove up and down through the place yelling and driving at full speed.

Once a loud crash was heard, and it later developed that the hilarious midnight visitors had run into and broken a gate leading into one of the houses.

The Crumlin people are up in arms over having been kept awake practically all night and will, it is said, give the midnight visitors a warm reception on another occasion.

LECTURE ON HISTORY OF CIVILIZATION
Earl Barnes Last Night Addressed a Large Audience in St. Andrew's Hall.

The first of a series of lectures on "The History of Civilization," was given by Earl Barnes, under the auspices of the London Froebel Society, in St. Andrew's lecture-room last evening before a large and appreciative audience.

Mr. Barnes took as his subject last night, "Oriental Beginnings, Workers and Dreamers," in which he discussed the earliest races known to be civilized. Mr. Barnes gave a most interesting account of what is known of the early history of the Egyptian peoples, who dwelt along the Nile.

The work of archaeologists is continually adding to the knowledge we have of these people, and the lecturer discussed the life of the ancients as it is shown by the remains unearthed. The tribes that dwelt along the Tigris and Euphrates Rivers are best known among the ancient peoples after the Egyptians. The writings that are extant show that the Egyptians had good systems of government, and the same seems to be true of many of the other early peoples, although, perhaps, in a lesser degree.

The Egyptians were a people of some account long before the Jews had risen to any great prominence in the world's affairs, but they gradually gave way before the rising power of the Jews, and the Jews take their place as the leading nation. In speaking of the Jews today, Mr. Barnes stated that no nation had ever been so widely scattered, and in many cities of the world there are more Jews than there are in all Palestine.

Rev. Dr. Ross, of St. Andrew's Church, presided, and conveyed to Mr. Barnes a hearty vote of thanks for his interesting lecture.

TISSOT'S FAMOUS BIBLE PICTURES
Shown to a Large Audience in First Methodist Church School Room.

Tissot's famous Bible pictures were shown before a large audience in the schoolroom of the First Methodist Church last night by William E. Dyer, of Toronto, leader of the organized Bible Class Societies of Canada. The entertainment was given under the auspices of the Sunday school of the First Methodist Church, and proved to be one of the most attractive ever held in Wesley Hall. Tissot painted about 140 Bible pictures from actual scenes in the Holy Land, and the pictures were reproduced in full size by Mr. Dyer. In addition, Mr. Dyer showed a number of pictures of the Big Sunday school convention held recently in Louisville, and these also proved most interesting. During the evening solos were rendered by Miss Beatrice Hunt and Miss McDonald, and were greatly enjoyed. Superintendent R. I. Watson of the Sunday school presided.
