BOOM OF CANNON MARKS OPENING THIRD SESSION OF PARLIAMENT

Brilliant Scene in Ottawa Today When Earl Grey and Party Galloped Up Parliament Hill.

DOMINION'S PROSPERITY REFERRED TO IN THE SPEECH FROM THE THRONE

Reference Also Made to Canada's Navy—Construction of the Transcontinental Railway Is Also Satisfactory—New Contracts for the Quebec Bridge.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Ottawa, Nov. 17.—Today the boom of a cannon came from Nepean Point, and Earl Grey, with a Dragoon escort, clattered through the east gate and up Parliament Hill to the cheering of a gathering of the citizens of Canada's capital, who were out in force to see the third session of the Eleventh Parliament of Canada opened.

Earl Grey was seated in an open carriage in full uniform with a uniformed aide at his side. The thoroughbreds, under the urging of the postillions, stepped smartly, and whirled the carriage to the official entrance of the Parliament Building on the Senate side, where a scarlet guard of the Governor-General's Footguards were drawn up, with a band at one side of the square, which had but half-completed the musical welcome when his excellency disappeared within the building, leaving the crowd and the guards to blow upon their fingers for a half-hour until his return.

Great Crowd Present.

Within the Senate chamber every seat was occupied. Wives and daughters of members and senators were grouped in at each side, with representatives of the churches in their ceremonial robes, foreign counsels in their uniforms, and judges of the supreme court in their official robes of scarlet and ermine, seated on the traditional wool-sack.

The senators were seated in chairs in the centre, forming a sombre contrast in their black clothes to the brilliancy behind them. The Senate chamber has been in the hands of decorators during the recess, and has blossomed out in gold and purple, the walls being most elaborately decorated. The whole formed as attractive a picture as could be found anywhere. The galleries, high above the floor, packed with ladies in evening dress, gave a finishing touch to the scene.

The Ceremony.

Earl Grey took his place on the vice-regal throne at the head of the chamber surrounded by his aides in full uniform, and attended by Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Sir Richard Cartwright in Windsor uniforms. Speaker Kerr, in his official garb, was seated at one side.

The usher of the Black Rod was sent for the Commons, who were waiting the summons in the green chamber. The orthodox three knocks were beaten on the door,and with three low bows to the speaker, the Black Rod approached and delivered his summons, declaring that His Excellency the Governor-General was in the Senate chamber, where he desired the immediate attendance of the members of the Commons. With three more bows he backed out, amid the applause of the democratic commoners.

The sergeant-at-arms shouldered the bigb rass mace, adjusted his cocked hat, and swung off for the Senate chamber, the speaker wheeled in behind him, and the members followed. At the bar of the Senate, the speaker of the Commons took his place, the members crowding behind. The gentleman usher of the Black

IMPORTANT PLANS HAVE DISAPPEARED

Original Documents of Water Commissioners Cannot Be Located.

BADLY NEEDED JUST NOW

Specifications in Connection With Hydro-Electric Construction Work Mysteriously Vanish.

There are a number of papers missing from the city hall that would be of great assistance to the water commissioners at the present time, in connection with the hydro-electric construction operations.

Manager Dark and Superintendent Alford have the lay-out in their minds, but it has not been reduced to paper, and no person seems to know what has become of the original plans and specifications that were drawn up for the commission.

Engineer Glaubitz is the only one who has his original documents intact. When his part of the work is completed he will turn them over to the water commissioners.

"There is almost a total absence of plans for this work," Head Engineer Van Cleve informed the water commissioners. "It is absolutely essential to the successful management of a department that proper plans be at hand all the time. We have scarcely any, and it will take some time to prepare a complete set."

There were specifications in the beginning. Where they have gone to nobody seems to know, and why they should disappear is just as deep a mystery.

It will take considerable money and a great deal of time to replace the lost papers.

NO LIQUOR ON LODGE TABLES IS RULING OF THE DEPARTMENT

A Far-Reaching Decision Which Will Affect Institutions All Over the Country—The Temperance People Gain a Big Point.

Toronto, Nov. 17.—From now on no liquor may be placed upon the refreshment tables of secret, fraternal or other societies without making the individual members liable to prosecution for breaking the liquor license act. This is the view taken by the Ontario license department of a recent decision in the courts, and yesterday definite action was taken by the department upon the case in point. Some weeks ago the caretakers of one or more of the public buildings were warned that they must be careful in permitting the consumption of liquor, but they had no idea that the order meant the barring of intoxicants from the refreshment tables of secret societies.

A second circular was sent out yesterday to the caretakers of all the public buildings (about one hundred in number) in Toronto defining clearly the law upon the point.

Owen Sound Case.

The department is acting upon a decision given by Judge Widdifield at Owen Sound in the case of Beckett vs. Cahoon, and is of far-reaching importance, for it will have the effect of stopping the supply of liquors by fraternal and other societies to the membership.

The case was tried at Owen Sound, and was an appeal from the decision of the magistrate, who dismissed the case. His honor ruled that a room in which eight men were found drinking came within the act, and a conviction and fine were recorded.

The action taken yesterday by the department is the outcome of complaints that certain societies were favored by the inspectors in the enforcement of the law. It was claimed that certain bodies preferred to

FIGHTING MEDS ARE SUSPENDED; LEADERS MAY BE DISMISSED

Lectures in First Two Years Discontinued Indefinitely As Result of Yesterday's Tussle Between Sophs and Freshies.

The ranks of the unemployed were largely augmented this morning as a result of the glorious scrimmage between the freshmen and sophomores of the London Medical School yesterday afternoon. Students of the first two years to the number of 80 have been indefinitely suspended as a result of the fracas.

From information received, it is understood that the tussle was a good one, but there was no damage done to the furniture or the building, and this fact may tend to mollify the ire of the authorities, and make the suspension of short duration.

The faculty will meet tonight, and decide upon the length of time that lectures will be discontinued.

Lectures Are Off.

"Yes, lectures have been discontinued, in the first and second years," said Dr. Waugh, the registrar. "The students have been suspended indefinitely. The faculty will hold a meeting tonight, and decide how long the suspension must last.

"The matter has become quite a serious one. In fact, it has become so bad that we have had to take drastic measures. We cannot allow this sort of thing to go on."

"Will an example be made of the ringleaders?" he was asked.

"That is a matter for the faculty to decide," answered Dr. Waugh.

It was rumored that some of the leaders in the row would be suspended for several weeks, perhaps dismissed.

"There was little damage done by the students, except to themselves," Dr. Waugh declared when questioned in reference to that matter.

"I do not think the suspension will last very long," said one professor. "The boys had to expend some of their surplus energy, and they did it. However, discipline must be maintained, and a suspension will do the boys no harm. It will give them time for quiet communion with themselves, and allow them to catch up with their studies."

NIAGARA POWER TEST MONDAY TRANSMISSION LINE CONNECTED

Current Is Being Brought to the Transformer Station in East London, But There Are No Wires as Yet to Bring It Into This City.

Niagara power will be turned on at the Hamilton road transmission station on Monday next. This will constitute the first test of the power for this city.

Yesterday the transmission line was finished to the last tower, just outside the station, leaving only the connecting wires to be strung.

This morning this section was completed, and the plant is all ready to receive the energy.

The line will be thoroughly inspected and everything made ready for the big test on Monday next.

The city's distribution system is being rapidly completed. Another carload of material was shipped yesterday from Hamilton, and it will be ready in a day or two for erection.

BIG CHEAP POWER CAMPAIGN LIKELY FOR THIS DISTRICT

The Grand Valley Railway Said To Be Selling Energy to Municipalities East of London and May Take a Hand in Local Situation.

London may be included in the campaign for cheap power about to be inaugurated by the Grand Valley Railway, running from Brantford to Galt. It is stated that the company is offering a large block of energy to the municipalities in that section of the country, and it is likewise rumored that they will contnue to run the line through to London, and include this city in its programme.

It cannot be learned who is behind the Grand Valley Railway, but it is understood that some large interests have obtained control of it during the past few weeks.

Part of the system from Brantford to Paris is included in the line that would run from Hamilton to London, and it is possible that within a very short time power will be offered to the municipalities between this city and Brantford.

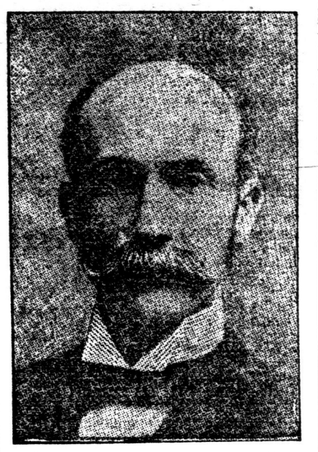

A Mysterious Deal.

Some mysterious deals are in contemplation at the present time, in which the London street railway is said to be prominent.

It is reported that the local road will be the centre of a big system that will not only form a network of radials out of London, but will furnish light and power, and develop industries in this city and neighborhood.

"There is a big deal under way," said a gentleman in close touch with the situation. "The Grand Valley is entering on a campaign for power customers, and they apparently have a great deal of energy at their disposal. If that power is transmitted to this section of the country, as I confidently expect it will be, then there will be competition that will considerably effect power rates in London. There is something in the wind, and developments may be expected shortly."

DISSOLVE BRITISH PARLIAMENT ON THE 28TH OF NOVEMBER

LORD LANSDOWNE,
Leader of the Conservatives in the House of Lords.

Apparently Inspired Statement Thus Fixes the Date.

HOUSE OF LORDS AWAKE AT LAST

Upper Chamber Is Now Out With a Scheme to Reform the Peers.

[Associated Press.]

London, Nov. 17.—An apparently inspired statement issued today fixes Nov. 28 as the date for the dissolution of parliament.

The Government, it is asserted, designs to pass the budget before appealing to the country, the debate on the financial measure proceeding in the House of Commons while the Lords are discussing the veto bill.

That the "Irish Dictator" will figure largely in the Unionist campaign was indicated by the excitement at the annual conference of Conservative Associations at Nottingham this morning, when Henry Chaplin, Unionist member of parliament for Wimbledon, and former president of the local government board, in an opening speech denounced the Government, who he said was handing over the rule of the country to "the sworn enemy of England, who, with the gold of foreign millionaires aspires to dictate our destinies."

London, Nov. 17. — Pending Premier Asquith's official statement before Parliament on Friday, small hope is entertained of clearing up the involved situation which has resulted from the sudden change introduced by Lord Lansdowne's call for the veto bill.

The feature which stands out in the present position of the parties is that the House of Lords finally has awakened to the absolute necessity of undertaking self-reforms. The radical leaders view this late repentance with the utmost suspicion, and it remains to be seen whether it will eventuate in an agreement which the abortive veto conference failed to achieve.

The parliamentary lobbies yesterday were full of rumors of all kinds that the King had refused to give the prime minister guarantees to increase the number of peers sufficient for the Government's purpose in reforming the House of Lords; that the ministry would resign; that another party conference would be held.

Plan for an Election.

Nothing definite, however, is known beyond the fact that all preparations are going on for a general election, and best-informed opinion tonight believes that, as the Government declines to accept any amendments to the veto bill, Lord Lansdowne, who consulted this evening with Mr. Balfour and other leaders, will either decline to proceed with the bill, or the House of Lords will reject it on the second reading on Monday, and that the dissolution of Parliament will be announced next week.

Lord Rosebery, in the House of Lords yesterday, after declaring that the House stood in a very grave position, announced his intention to ask for facilities for the discussion of his plan for the reform of the House. It is believed that the Lords will proceed immediately with the debate on this question.

After meetings of the Privy Council and the cabinet in the afternoon, the Earl of Crewe introduced the veto bill

BUILD A HOME CANADIAN IDEAL

Author McArthur Suggests a Basis for Loyalty to Country.

TALKS TO CANADIAN CLUB

Tells of the Home-Hunger of the Pioneers Who Cleared the Wilderness.

Mr. Peter McArthur, of Ekfrid, the well-known Canadian journalist and author, was the guest of the Canadian Club at their luncheon at noon today and delivered a very fine address on "The Ideals of the Pioneer."

In opening his address, Mr. McArthur declared that he had no particular message. While he was born in Canada he left the country long before he became a Canadian.

"This is a paradox that may be difficult for you to understand," he stated. "It is due to the confusion of the ideas of the old pioneers. They came to Canada to make homes for themselves, but Canada was never their home. I was not brought up as a Canadian. At the open fireplace I was taught loyalty to England and the crown, but nothing was ever said of Canada. I was brought up as a Scotchman, and if need be I might address you in Gaelic. They wanted homes, but the home was not here, but there. I have recollections of these pioneers at eventide, and they would look back to the old home across the sea. So I began to think of the old land as my home. In time I went back to see my heritage, and it was then I learned that I was an alien, that my name was in Canada, that I was a Canadian.

A Foreigner in London.

"My disillusionment began in London, the seat of empire. That was before press conferences, and the propaganda to bring the colonies closer to the crown. In my daily contact with the man on the street, with whom I struggled for my daily bread, I learned that I was a foreigner. With others, I found that I was a man without a country. Then I realized what Canada meant. I felt homesick for Canada. I felt that my flesh was needed in this country. I knew then that I was born of this soil.

The Land of Homes.

"There should be Canadian clubs in every village in this country to teach the people of the greatness of this land.

"I spent some time in studying the immigration literature for 100 years past to the present. In the early days, when the Canada Company was first organized, this literature expressed one great fact—that Canada was the place where homes could be made. Now the literature puts great store by the fact that Canada is the place where men can get rich. It is true that many men have got rich in this country, but why parade this ugly fact?

"I have spent some time in endeavoring to find a basis for loyalty to Canada, something upon which all Canadians, no matter of what nationality, could stand. We cannot be French-Canadians, Scotch-Canadians, Irish-Canadians or any other sort. We must be Canadian-Canadians. I feel that the fields where I work, with indifferent success, perhaps, are consecrated to an ideal—the building of a home. That was the idea that moved the pioneers. That fact cannot be reiterated too often.

"In search of homes, they came to Canada, the Promised Land. With the torch and the axe, they cleared their pillar of smoke by day, and their pillhomes in the wilderness. With their pillar of fire by night, they were marched into the Promised Land, just as

Mr. Harry Clissold Goes Back Into the Days of Sixty Years Ago and Tells of the Entry of the First Locomotive Into London.

Mr. Harry Clissold, president of the Bakers' Helper, published in Chicago, who is a former Londoner, and brother of Mr. Edward Clissold, for many years a member of The Advertiser editorial staff, writes as follows:

"Let me thank you for the picture of the old Union Schoolhouse, and the words concerning its history, which were printed in a recent number of your paper. It is the privilege of the oldtimer to 'reminisce,' and the photograph easily starts interesting memories. What a day that was for the old town, when the Union School was opened! Before, the pupils were housed in buildings of all sorts and conditions, in different sections of the town. My own first experiences of school life were centred in the common school taught by Robert Wilson, in the old Mechanics' Institute building, then located on the brow of the hill, just southwest of the court house, with "Bailey's School' close by. Another common school was located on Richmond street a little north of where the Catholic Cathedral now stands, but on the west side of the street. Another in the east end of town, the exact location of which I cannot recall.

"We had a great procession when the new school was ready for us. The teachers and pupils from the different schools—glad to leave the old quarters and eager to enjoy the new—marched around the streets, with band and banners, and filed into the fine large new 'Union' school building, to be assigned to our rooms, to begin school life over again under different conditions. The 'wings' in the picture do not look natural to me. The central portion is all that I knew, and that brings up the faces of teachers and scholars in a troop. The two Wilsons—Robert and Nicholas, Peter Murtagh, and soon Mr. Hunter. And the boys! But space and time forbid even the mention of their names. As 'Ned' O'Brien said to me a little time ago, here: 'They and we belong to the Ancient Order of Old Boys,' and very few of us are left.

"Another day stands out in my memory, associated with the old building—that was the day the first locomotive appeared in London. Most of us had never seen a railroad engine or train, and we watched with keen interest the laying of the track a block or so away from the school. One morning, while busy with our books (supposedly), we were startled by a sound new to nearly everyone in the room—the whistle of the locomotive. Mr. Wilson (Nicholas), told us what it was, and without ceremony the school building was emptied in short order—scholars and teachers rushing pell mell over to the tracks to see the new wonder. I've seen many a locomotive since, but that one! Oh, my—

"Pardon the garrulity of old age. Yours truly,

"HARRY CLISSOLD."

METHODIST PASTORS TO EXCHANGE PULPITS

Rev. Mr. Malott Goes to St. Marys and Rev. Mr. McCamus Comes to Colborne.

Rev. F. E. Malott, of the Colborne Street Methodist Church, has accepted a call to the St. Marys congregation. This will mean an exchange of pulpits with Rev. D. N. McCamus, who has been called to Colborne Street pastorate. Each pastor will continue in his present charge until the close of the conference year next June. St. Marys Methodist Church is one of the most important in the London Conference and has a membership of nearly 700. Rev. Mr. Malott, who is now in his fourth year at Colborne Street, spent four years in Victoria Avenue Methodist Church, Chatham, before coming to London.

BLONDIN IS GUILTY OF MANSLAUGHTER

Made Dramatic Appeal to Jury Declaring Shooting Was Accidental.

L'Original, Nov. 17.—After being out until nearly midnight, the jury brought in a verdict finding Alfred Blondin guilty of manslaughter in the first degree for the killing of Dr. Empey. Blondin made a dramatic appeal, in which he declared with tears in his eyes that the shooting was accidental. He said that he had called Dr. Empey and was putting away the shotgun when it exploded.

This was in contradiction to the dead physician's dying statement that Blondin deliberately shot him.

Edmund Meredith, K. C., of London, for the crown, addressed the jury this afternoon, Mr. Meredith hinting that the crown would be satisfied with a manslaughter verdict.

Judge Britton charged strongly against the prisoner, but pointed out to the jury that they could return a manslaughter verdict if they believed that the prisoner did not intentionally shoot Dr. Empey, but had been careless in handling the weapon.

Blondin's wife and four daughters were in the court when the jury brought in a verdict and broke into tears.

MAY BOND STUDENTS IN FOUR HUNDRED DOLLARS

Meds May Be Compelled to Guarantree Good Behavior Before Being Reinstated.

It is understood that the faculty of the Western Medical School will demand that every student must put up a bond of $400 to insure good behavior for the rest of the term, before they will be reinstated.

This is the result of the fracas that took place in the school Wednesday, and for which the students of the first and second year were suspended.

The students are now under bond to the extent of $100, the amount of their fees, but they claim that Wednesday's affair did not prejudice their agreement.

In order to avoid a repetition, the faculty will decide, it is rumored, to place the bond at $400, with a clause covering all such disturbances.

Palpitation of The Heart.

When the heart begins to beat irregularly or intermittently, palpitate and throb, skip beats, beats fast for a time, then go slow as to seem almost to stop, it causes great anxiety and alarm.

The least excitement or exertion seems to affect it.

Many people are kept in a state of morbid fear of death, become weak, worn and miserable, through this unnatural action of the heart.

To all such sufferers Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills can give prompt and permanent relief.

Mrs. John Thompson, Mill Cove, N.B., writes:—"Just a few lines to let you know what Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills have done for me. I have been troubled with weakness and palpitation of the heart; would have severe choking spells, and could scarcely lie down at all. I tried many remedies but got none to answer my case like your pills did. I can recommend them highly to all suffering with heart and nerve trouble."

NUMBER THREE FAVORS LOCAL FIRE ENGINE

Recommends to Council That It Be Purchased If It Passes the Test.

At the meeting of No. 3 committee held last night it was decided to recommend to the city council that the fire engine of the Canadian Fire Engine Company of this city, be purchased providing it would stand a satisfactory test.

Messrs. Robert Angus, D. H. Gillies and J. H. McMechan, who represented the company, stated that they were willing to submit the machine to any trial that was thought necessary. After some discussion as to who would be the proper persons to make the test, the majority decided in favor of Inspector Howe and Assistant Engineer Wilson, of the Underwriters' Association.

Fire Chief Aitken complained that some of the hydro-electric cables interfered with the fire alarm wires, and it was a matter that should be adjusted. On Sunday last all South London was cut off for a time.

Manager Dark and Superintendent Alford were present and they explained that in many cases the electric wires did conflict with the fire alarm system, and that it would be necessary to make some changes in the latter. The electrical department could not touch the wires, but they were willing to pay the whole cost of the change.

"This matter could be arranged without coming to us," said Ald. Jeffries. "I move that Chief Aitken take the matter up with the Bell Telephone Company, and have the wires changed to suit the electrical department."

This motion carried.

There was no other business before the board with the exception of a few accounts.

Those present at the meeting were Ald. Ashplant, chairman, Ald. Rose, Ald. Fitzgerald, Ald. Jeffries, Fire Chief Aitken, and Secretary Baker.

OPPOSE A CHANGE ON RIDOUT CARS

Many South Londoners Would Find It a Serious Handicap.

The proposal to change the Ridout street cars to run the other way is causing some uneasiness to those residing in the south and southwestern portions of South London, for whom the present route is a great convenience.

The present service insures a quick entry into the city, with the chance of only one delay, at Thames street, and as the great majority of the people in these portions of South London are compelled to reach their places of employment between 7 and 7:30 a.m., the direct service, as at present constituted, means to them a great deal, and it is hoped the city council will fully look into the matter before making any change.

"The people have had a taste of the Beaconsfield avenue service," said one of the residents from South London today, "and everybody was glad when the cars were directed to run as at present, which is the only feasible way with one track. Reversed, there will be a chance for three hold-ups, and those who work with the check-in system, in order to get to their place of employment on time will either have to walk to the belt line, or tramp into the city. We have tried the two systems, and, with the addition of one car, the present way would be perfect."

A big petition will be presented to the members of No. 1 committee, which meets Friday afternoon, asking that the cars be allowed to run as at present.

SOUTH LONDON MAN WINS AT BIG SHOW

Awarded First Prize For Asters at Syracuse State Fair—A Successful Amateur.

Quite an enviable record was made at the big Syracuse, N. Y., State Fair in September by W. H. F. Bartlett, of Garfield avenue, who is one of London's cleverest amateur gardeners.

Mr. Bartlett received word yesterday that he had won the first grand prize of $30 on 72 blooms of asters; second prize on Mikado White and Daybreak, and fourth on Violet King.

The extent of the competition can be judged from the fact that the South London man's entry was the 442nd, and in the face of such keen rivalry, Mr. Bartlett is to be congratulated on his success against growers from all over the United States and Canada.

In the city garden competition this summer, Mr. Bartlett took first prize in No. 1 ward, and at the Western Fair he won eighteen prizes with twenty entries in flowers of various kinds.

ROOSEVELT CAN'T COME

Too Busy to Accept the Invitation of the Canadian Club.

Colonel Theodore Roosevelt will not address the London Canadian Club.

Word was received from the ex-President of the United States yesterday in which he stated that it was impossible for him to accept the invitation, owing to the press of other business.

In his letter he declared that he receives thousands of such invitations, but that it is physically impossible for him to accept more than one in a hundred. If he increased the proportion it would be impossible for him to do anything else but deliver addresses.

However, he thanked the Canadian Club for their very courteous invitation, and expressed the hope that at some future time he might be able to accept an invitation to speak here.

FIRE IN RESIDENCE DOES MUCH DAMAGE

Electric Wires, Short-Circuited, Start Blaze in Attic.

Fire did about $1,500 damage to the residence of Mr. C. M. R. Graham, 554 Waterloo street, shortly after 8:30 o'clock last night.

Mr. Graham had occasion to go to the storeroom in the upper part of the house, and found the attic ablaze.

He was unable to telephone from his own residence, as the wire had been burned, and it was some time before the fire department was notified.

When they arrived the upper part of the house was ablaze. The chemical engine was used, but the flames were too strong for that engine, and a stream of water was turned on the building.

The house had lately been renovated, and the water did great damage, both to furniture and fixings. The loss on the house is estimated at $500, and on the furniture, etc., at $1,000. It is covered by insurance.

The blaze is supposed to have been caused by a short circuit in the electric wires in the upper part of the building.

Frederick Villiers.

A fairly large and fashionable audience greeted Mr. Frederick Villiers, the noted English war correspondent, at the Grand Opera House last night, when he lectured on his experiences in a score of wars.

Mr. Villiers was suffering from a bad cold, which affected his lecture somewhat, but even with this handicap, he proved himself to be most interesting.

He dealt with many of the famous campaigns, the Egyptian, in which Lord Kitchener achieved great fame; the South African war, the Russia-Japan campaign, dealing particularly with the siege of Port Arthur, and the more recent Moroccan struggles.

The Seventh Regiment turned out in force, and the band, under Bandmaster Slatter, rendered an excellent programme of music during the evening.

Mr. Goodwin Tonight.

Mr. Nat C. Goodwin will be the attraction at the Grand Opera House tonight, and will give for the first time here his new comedy, "The Captain." Mr. Goodwin, judging from all reports, has obtained the best comedy that he has had for years. The scenes of the play are laid in Manila, Mr. Goodwin being cast as a militia officer who is forced to impersonate the regular officer. It is easy to see that the complications ensuing should be most amusing.

An Indian Play.

An unusual illustration of thoughtfulness for the play itself, rather than individual honors, is to be found in "The White Squaw," the romantic American drama that will be seen at the Grand Opera House on Friday, Saturday, and Saturday matinee, Nov. 18 and 19. The real illustration is Miss Della Clarke, the author of the play, who appears in the leading character of the cast, that of a girl of white parents, who is reared to believe she is an Indian. The period of the play is just a century ago, in what was then the wilderness of Michigan, and the people who vivify her story are all picturesque. In arranging her cast Miss Clarke made selection of persons who, like herself, had been stars or the featured actors of other productions. Seats now selling.

The Last Visit of Bernhardt.

Western Ontario is to be privileged on Thursday, Nov. 24, at the Grand Opera House, London, to view the greatest actress the world has ever known, in three of her marvellous characters, the art of a lifetime really brought to one's door. That this will be the last time Madam Sarah Bernhardt will ever be seen in this country goes without saying—the mortality table would certainly settle that. The present tour will vastly differ from that which kept her in the limelight five years ago, when, in order to include many of the principal cities, she was forced to play in tents, tabernacles, skating rinks and many nondescript buildings, without the aid of any scenic surroundings.

Great thought has ben centred on madam's repertoire here, and will include the efforts of the distinguished French poet, Rostand, by the second act of "L'Aiglon," which shows the Bernhardt as the Duke de Reichstadt, the weakling heir of the great Napoleon; Dumas' world-wide Camille, a character in which Bernhardt has captured the civilized world, and which will always live in the history of the stage, the fourth and fifth acts being compressed in one; concluding with Emil Morau's version of "Jeanne d'Arc"—the Maid of Orleans—which shows the inquisition and the trial of France's greatest personage in history.

Mail orders for the engagement are now being received and filled as received, when accompanied by check or money order, payable to theatre. The tickets are immediately sent out, the mail orders taking precedence over the regular box office sale, which opens Monday, Nov. 21. The curtain for the Bernhardt engagement will rise at 7:45 precisely. Rates on all railways.

Splendid Bookings.

Manager J. R. Minhinnick, of the Grand Opera House, has received notice that Mr. A. J. Small, has completed the bookings for the first half of December, and the list of attractions for that period is an imposing one. Among those already dated are "The Little Damozel," Dec. 3; Grace Van Studdiford, Dec. 5; Albert Chevalier, Dec. 8; "The Lottery Man," Dec. 9 and 10; Maude Adams in "What Every Woman Knows," Dec. 12; "The Thief," Dec. 13, and Mme. Sembrich on Dec. 14. This will provide entertainment for two weeks that would be difficult to duplicate. The appearance of Maude Adams will be her first in London, and she is sure to be greeted by a large house.

Want To See Bernhardt.

There has been a great demand for seats for the performance of Madame Sarah Bernhardt here on Thursday, Nov. 24. Requests for seats have come from a score of other places, among them Sarnia, Strathroy, St. Thomas, Woodstock, Ingersoll, Palmerston, Clinton, Goderich, Stratford and St. Marys.

"From present appearances, we will have a fine house," said Manager Minhinnick. "Madame Bernhardt plays in but three towns in Canada, Montreal, Toronto and London, and Mr. Small saw to it that we got fair treatment in this. I think Londoners will appreciate this."

Winnipeg, Man., Nov. 16—The board of control, after hearing from the city solicitor today the legal aspects of the proposal to proceed against the C. P. R. to collect taxes on their property, owing to the alleged failure of the company to provide adequate stockyards, as required under the exemption bylaw, decided to await the annual convention of the Live Stock Shippers' Association before taking action. This will open in Winnipeg on Dec. 7, when it is expected that serious complaint will be made as to the condition of the C. P. R. stockyards.

TROUBLE BETWEEN SPAIN AND VATICAN

New Obligatory Military Regulations Threatens to Cause Complications.

[Associated Press.]

Madrid, Nov. 17.—The new project of obligatory military service now under discussion in the Senate threatens to complicate the relations between the Spanish Government and the Vatican further, as it does not exempt either the secular or the monastic clergy.

The Bishop of Madrid, voicing the clerical protest, which characterizes the bill as the most anti-clerical feature of the Ministerial programme, declares that it violates the canonical law, authorizing ecclesiastical immunity, and is especially offensive in that it would deplete the ranks of the clergy.

The measure also arouses a protest in a section of the press on the ground that instead of abolishing the abuses of the old regime, under which substitutes could be purchased, which was the cause of the rising in Catalonia last year, it authorizes a system whereby recruits may be discharged after several months' service by the payment of an indemnity, thus continuing the discrimination in favor of those possessed of money.

REFUGEES ARRIVE

Priests Forced to Flee From Portugal Now at Montreal.

Montreal, Nov. 17.—Four Jesuit refugees from Portugal, headed by Father Diaz, have arrived here, and are staying at the Seminary of Immaculate Conception. Father Diaz has stated that the new Portuguese Government is furious at the order, and will make every effort to expel it from Portugal completely. He said he hoped that things would be better in the future.

WOMEN DISAPPROVE OF THIRD DEGREE

Meeting of National Women's Christian Temperance Union Held.

Baltimore, Nov. 16. — Mrs. Lillian M. N. Stevens, of Portland, Maine, was enthusiastically and unanimously re-elected president of the National Women's Christian Temperance Union at the annual convention today. Mrs. Stevens reappointed Miss Anna A. Gordon, of Evanston, Ill., vice-president at large. Her appointment was promptly ratified.

The use of "third degree" methods in extracting confessions from persons accused of crime was condemned in a resolution offered by Mrs. Hester T. Griffith, of Los Angeles, Cal., and adopted. Those in authority everywhere are urged to bring about its immediate and final abolishment.

ONTARIANS ABROAD

Graduates of the O. A. C. Hold Good Positions in the States.

Toronto, Nov. 16.—Mr. C. C. James, deputy minister of agriculture, returned today from Washington, where he has been attending the International Conference of Farmers' Institutes. A notable feature of this conference from the Ontario point of view was that the representatives of five of the state departments of agriculture were Canadians, and graduates of the Ontario Agricultural College at Guelph. They were A. M. Sewell, Georgia; G. I. Christie, Indiana; F. B. Linfield, Montana; H. J. Morgan, Tennessee, and C. K. Graham, Virginia. Mr. Sewell, one of these, was elected president to succeed Mr. George Putnam, of Toronto, who presided at this year's meeting.

IN BAD FIX.

Cordova, Alaska, Nov. 16.—Eighty-three persons, comprising the eight passengers and crew of the wrecked steamship Portland, which was beached in the mouth of the Katalle River on Saturday, are stranded on Katalle Island. Few persons live on the island and the food supply is small.

The telephone line, the sole means of communication with the island, went down today and the stranded passengers are entirely cut off from the outside world.

LONDON, THURSDAY, NOV. 17.

THE BRITISH CRISIS.

There is a too hasty assumption in some of the cable dispatches that the weight of the crown has been thrown into the scale against the Asquith Government.

There is nothing to warrant this inference in the happenings to date. The bill to abolish the absolute veto power of the House of Lords, adopted by the House of Commons early in the year, has been merely sent to the Upper Chamber. This is the normal procedure. The Government had decreed it before the death of King Edward, followed by the veto conference, interrupted the regular course of events. The crisis will not be precipitated until the House of Lords rejects the bill. Not until then will the Government or the King be obliged to show their hands.

The prime minister has pledged himself to ask the King to guarantee to create peers in numbers sufficient to force the veto bill through the House of Lords, but it has been always assumed by himself and his supporters that the King may with strict impartiality demand another appeal to the country. The King can be reproached only of he refuses to bow to the will of a new House of Commons, elected on the issue of the veto. All that can reasonably be demanded of him now is that he will consent to a new creation of peers if the ministry is sustained in a general election. If he refuses this request, the Liberal party will not again take office until he yields. He might summon the Unionists to form a government, but unless a Unionist cabinet could muster a majority in the House of Commons, the King would have no alternative but to again dissolve Parliament in the hope of a Unionist victory. George the Fifth has been much misunderstood if he places himself in such a predicament.

The will of the electorate must in the end sweep all obstructions before it. The absolute veto power of the House of Lords is one of these impediments which must give way. The monarchy is too wise to identify itself with a lost cause.

MUNICIPAL GOVERNMENT.

Mr. Henry Vivian, the British member of Parliament, who addresed many Canadian audiences in furtherance of the town-planning idea, has been commenting unfavorably since his return to England upon municipal conditions in the Dominion. The most self-complacent Canadian will admit that the reproach is deserved. Municipal government is notoriously a failure in both the United States and Canada. In this country its weakness is not corruption, but incompetence.

Mr. Vivian expressed his surprise, when in this city, at the one-year aldermanic term. "You will never have good government," he said, "so long as you adhere to such a practice. The average councillor has only begun to familiarize himself with his duties in a year's time." A three-year term, in his opinion, is an indispensable step toward improvement. Even in England not many desirable men could be persuaded to offer for municipal service if they had to seek re-election every year.

It is commonly urged in favor of a one-year term that it enables the electors to oust an inefficient representative before he has time to do much mischief. This is a very negative virtue. That the question is viewed in such a light by many people is no compliment to municipal councils generally. In this city we elect our water commissioners and school trustees for two-year periods. There is an implied reflection upon the aldermen in not placing them on the same footing. If we are not prepared for radical changes, we can at least effect this one reform. One-third of the council could be renewed every year, so as to keep it in touch with public opinion. It would prepare the way for a further change—the creation of a small executive, leaving the council as a legislative body. In The Advertiser's opinion, all cities must eventually come to the plan of government by a small paid commission. Until that time is ripe, why not make the best of the present system? The three-year aldermanic term would be a move in the right direction.

A "REORGANIZED" OPPOSITION.

There is a flourish of trumpets over the "reorganization" of the Ottawa Opposition. Simultaneously comes the announcement that Mr. Foster will remain the desk-mate of Mr. Borden. Evidently the "reorganization" is merely an attempt to enforce stricter discipline, and means no change in the spirit or ideals of the party. Mr. Borden has not had the moral courage to disown his discredited lieutenant in Ontario and his rebellious lieutenant in Quebec. It is apparent that the Opposition sees in the Nationalist movement a favoring wind to which it intends to cautiously trim its sails. A party that has been in the dead calm so long welcomes any breeze, no matter in what direction it blows.

After the last election there was an outcry against Mr. Foster from a portion of the Conservative press. Rightly or wrongly he was held responsible in some measure for the party's defeat. The London Free Press declared that unless he vindicated himself in the courts his public usefulness would be ended. He brought an action against the editor of the Globe and failed. From that decision he has entered an appeal which he dropped a few days ago. Today the journals which called for his rehabilitation by the courts or his exclusion from the party councils are exulting over a party "reorganization" which leaves Mr. Foster in his old place.

The secretary of state is told that he may save money by curtailing the blue books. Probably he would be accused of suppressing information if he did.

Those who are advocating an elective Senate in Canada are thinking only of the Senate. A more powerful Senate means a less powerful House of Commons.

The high meat prices have forced the German Government to permit the free importation of foreign live stock. This is at least an admission that the consumer pays the duty.

The Liberal party of Canada would not consent to have the Senate's power of veto practically destroyed.—Toronto News.

It would certainly consent if the Senate acted as the House of Lords has done.

The city of Toronto offered to buy out the Toronto Electric Light Company at $130 per share. It was a generous offer, and the shareholders can have no grievance if they are pinched by the competition of Niagara power. If the directors were not pretty confident of their ability to stand the competition they were not treating the shareholders fairly in refusing the offer without consulting them.

So prominent a British statesman as Lord Macdonald, with a long and splendid record as on administrator in India, said the other night in discussing the federation of the United Kingdom: "Generally the nucleus of the Canadian Government was the federation of the four original provinces, but since then four new provinces have been added, and a fifth is on the way to incorporation." Lord Macdonald is not as well posted on Canada as we expect imperial statesmen to be in these days.

NOT A "MUM."
[Toronto Star.]

Hon. J. S. Duff will open the Horticultural Show, but, with a full knowledge of that Fallon incident, he will not be able to refer to Hon. W. J. Hanna as "one of the prettiest 'mums'" on exhibition.

TEDDY NOT THE FIRST.
[Springfield Republican.]

Other statesmen have been subjected to the harrowing experience. Mr. Reed, in 1890, made a trail of stump oratory which, after election, was blazing from end to end with the fires of Democratic victories. Mr. Bryan again and again has demonstrated that the tracks of his whirlwind tours run red with the glow of his opponents' bonfires, after the votes have been counted. It was Mr. Roosevelt's turn.

MR. DOOLEY ON TARIFF REVISION.
[Mr. Dooley (F. P. Dunne).]

"There was a gr'reat struggle over canary bur-rd seed. Riprisintitives iv th' Chicago packers insisted that in time canary bur-rds cud be taught to eat pork-chops. Manny siuitors thought that th' next step wud be to take th' duty off cuttle-fish-bone, an' thus strhike a blow at th' very heart iv our protictive system. But Sinitor Tillman, who is a gr-reat frind iv th' canary bur-rd, an' is niver seen without wan perched on his wrist, which he has taught to swear, put up a gallant fight fir his protegees, an' thousands iv canary bur-rds sang with a lighter heart that night."

WARY WINSTON.
[Montreal Herald.]

Winston Churchill is evidently a firm believer in that grand old adage which reads, "Twice armed is he who has his quarrel just, but three times he who gets his blow in fust."

THE UNDERWORLD OF LONDON.
[London Morning Leader.]

I say it is impossible to look into the depths of London and preserve a spirit of cheerful optimism. The ghastly contrasts of wealth and poverty are too tragic to justify the exercise of hope. One must be a madman to see any ground for hope in the London that exists. This city is still a city of dreadful night to every man with any imagination. It is an offense to the reason, an outrage to the spirit. It would be immoral to acquiesce in the existence of so hideous a caricature of human justice. It is necessary to repudiate London with all the force of one's manhood and to say that it is an intolerable and unendurable nightmare of cruelty and selfishness and oppression. In order to go on living in London it is necessary to harden your heart and to forget. Otherwise you would lose your reason. And that is precisely what London does. London manages to go on living simply because London hardends its heart and forgets.

STRATEGY.
[Puck.]

Wild Duck—Now, then, fellers, make a noise like a gasoline motor, and those fool hunters will think we're aeroplanes!

SHAVIAN WIT.
[From G. Bernard Shaw's Latest Book.]

Mrs. Whitefield is a little woman whose faded flaxen hair looks like straw on an egg.

Even the top of Mr. Roebuck's head is polished; on a sunshiny day he could heliograph his orders to distant camps by simply nodding.

Roebuck believes in the fine arts with all the earnestness of a man who does not understand them.

DYSPEPTICS OF THE FUTURE.
[Toronto Star.]

A tabloid biography of certain children now attending Toronto schools could be written in three phrases:

Bad teeth.
Imperfect mastication.
Chronic indigestion.

And only a dyspeptic knows what that means. Many a disposition has been permanently soured by reason of stomach troubles which had their origin in half-chewed food.

It was an alarming state of affairs which was disclosed by an examination of pupils' teeth in a couple of the city schools. Of the first 30 children examined only one had normal powers of mastication. A lad with twenty teeth had all defective. The best set of teeth had eight cavities. It is predicted that 98 per cent of Toronto school children will be shown to have defective eating apparatus.

AN ELECTION TRICK.
[Ottawa Free Press.]

One of the tricks by which the Nationalists won the election in Drummond and Arthabaska is told by Le Canada. Two men, armed with large books and many pencils, called at the farmhouses, and, asserting that they were census takers, asked the woman of the house if she had any sons. On her replying that, for instance, she had three, and asking the reason for the question, she would be told, "You must answer truthfully, madame. You must give us the age and the Christian names of your sons, for you must know that the election which is being held has for its object the ratification of the naval bill. We have two vessels ready, and as soon as the election is finished, if the electors decide in favor of the navy, it will be naturally from counties favorable to war that we will recruit the men for the two battleships which are waiting to take them across the sea to England."

KEEP NOT FOR ME.
[Success.]

Keep not for me the brave, bright face
you carry through the day—
The world's face that must not bear a frown—
But rather let me see the tired eyes, the blue turned grey,
The lips unstrung, with corners droping down;
Ah, let me gaze away the pain, when none but I may see;
To those less dear your noble largess—just your grief for me!

A BIT SLUSHY.

Laura Jean Libby says: "For the girl who has a lover, the day flits by on golden wings, for 'somebody's coming when the dewdrops fall.'" A bit slushy under foot today, is it not?

MEREDITH AND BYRON MANUSCRIPT
[London Daily News.]

On Dec. 1 Messrs. Sotheby will offer for sale some autograph manuscripts of George Meredith and Byron. The former belong to Miss Nicholls, Meredith's nurse and attendant during the last seven years of his life, and include every book, whether in prose or verse, published by the great novelist between 1880 and 1909, with the exception of "Lord Ormont and His Aminta," and certain odes on French history. There are, for instance, "The Tale of Chloe," "The Tragic Comedians," "A Conqueror in Our Time," afterwards called "One of Our Conquerors," "Diana of the Crossways," "The Amazing Marriage," and, in the section of poetry, that serio-grotesque essay, "Jump-to-Glory-Jane," the earliest version of which is headed "Jane the Jumper."

As some will recall, Mr. Pierpont Morgan acquired a few months ago from Meredith's gardener, Mr. Frank Cole, autograph versions of "Lord Ormont," and two other works.

Byron autographs are worth many times their weight in gold; indeed, the ten volumes picked up in Greece by the agent of Mr. Pierpont Morgan form the only extensive collection in existence. A descendant of the poet now offers for sale the only known autograph of the "Ode to Napoleon Bonaparte," written in 1814. There are numerous differences between the MS. and the published version which have not been observed by Byron's editors.

INGERSOLL HONORS MARATHON RUNNER

Great Gathering at Presentation Made To Samuel Wade.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Ingersoll, Nov. 17.—Further honors were accorded Sammy Wade, the winner of the Oxford Marathon for 1909 and 1910, when a large number of his admirers and friends assembled in the Oddfellows' Hall last night, and gave him a handsome silver cup, accompanied by a very complimentary address, to which the recipient made a very appreciative reply.

Mr. Alby Robinson, of Woodstock, the donor of the Oxford Marathon trophy, was present, and took part in the proceedings. Mayor MacKay presided, and an interesting programme of speeches, songs and music, was rendered, and made a very enjoyable evening for all who were present.

Walter R. Bloor, an old Ingersoll boy, formerly a teacher at the Nancekivell school, on the Culloden road, has recently been appointed associate professor of biological chemistry in a large educational institution in St. Louis. Ingersoll boys invariably make good when they go abroad.

Ingersoll postoffice statistics, as published in the last report of the Postmaster-General, show that during the postal year ending March 31, 1910, the gross postal revenue was $13,-06 88; number of money orders issued, 2,488, representing $23,153 75; commission received from the public on money orders, $168 53; number of money orders paid, 2,675; amount, $31,-211 24; amount of postal notes paid, $5,281 99.

There are four special organizers working in the community at present, in keen pursuit of candidates for membership in four different fraternal societies. Over twenty citizens are more or less actively engaged as agents for various fire and life insurance companies.

The first of a series of mothers' meetings for this season will be held in St. Paul's Church next Wednesday, at 3:30 p.m. All having a desire to donate something are requested to send their donations to the church early in the afternoon.

Yesterday Mr. John Thompson, of Charles stret west, celebrated his 82nd birthday by holding a family reunion at the home of his granddaughter, Mrs. F. Bradbury, Concession street. Quite an assemblage of relatives attended, and the venerable guest of honor received many cordial congratulations and kind wishes for a continuance of good health.

W. C. Davidson, of Ingersoll, was married to Miss Beatrice Lumley, of Glencoe, yesterday.

William McBain, the well-known drygoods salesman, has transferred his services from Northway & Co. to J. E. Boles.

MR. GOING DENIES MAKING THREATS

Hamilton Methodists Are Stirred Up Over Remarks of Aldermen.

McCOMBE WAS SARCASTIC

Says Ethical Standard of Some Hamiltonians Is About a Foot High.

Hamilton, Nov. 16.—On Monday night Ald. Forth and Mayor McLaren offended Rev. C. J. McCombe, who is holding revival services at Zion Tabernacle, and incidentally, as the minister said yesterday, gave Methodism in this city a slap in the face. Yesterday, in a report of a conversation between himself and Rev. A. H. Going, the pastor of Zion Tabernacle, it appeared that Ald. Forth had offended the pastor. The reports to which Mr. Going took exception appeared in last evening's Spectator.

Mr. Going Speaks.

Mr. Going, speaking at Zion Tabernacle last night, said that Methodists in the city needed to be thoroughly aroused as the enemy of God, the devil, was attacking them. He then said that he desired to allude to comments that had been made in an evening paper and to a report which stated that he had threatened an alderman with a loss of the temperance vote because of the attitude he had adopted in regard to some remarks made by Rev. C. J. McCombe in that church. He did not know who wrote the article and the comments—whether it was Mr. Forth or a reporter of the paper in which it appeared, but he desired to say that he made no such statement or threat. Continuing Mr. Going said: "I would have been foolish to have made such a threat. I have no power to switch the temperance vote. If I was a political boss, I might have, but I am not How could I threaten him with a loss of votes I do not possess? Because of the stand Ald. Forth took in the council on Monday night and because of the slap he gave to the temperance cause of the church to which I belong, I told him that he could not have my support if he ran for alderman again. I also told him that I should be compelled to work against him and to use all my influence to that end. I will allow no man to insult my church without feeling that he has had me to contend with right from the drop of the hat. I have witnesses of what I said to the alderman, and I have asked the city editor of the paper in which the article appeared to make a correction. I am going to see that something is said about it."

McCombe Sarcastic.

Rev. C. J. McCombe did not speak last night, but his brother did, and dealt with the story of Sodom and Gomorrah.

In the course of his remarks he said the ethical standard of some people in Hamilton was about a foot high. As to anyone who called one of the children of God a freak, it were better that a millstone were hanged around his neck and that he were cast into the sea, he said.

OPERATOR SUICIDED

Wireless Man on Steamer Dominion Jumped Overboard in Midocean.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Montreal, Nov. 17.—Upon the arrival of the steamer Dominion from Liverpool it was learned that her wireless operator, F. Sharpe, had committed suicide shortly after the boat sailed. He was missed on Sunday, Nov. 6, and a search made it certain that he had jumped overboard and suicided. It was his first voyage.

Considerable uneasiness had been felt as a result of the usual wireless messages not being received from the boat, and the cause was not learned until the Dominion arrived.

OPPOSE RECIPROCITY.

Kingston, Nov. 16.—The board of trade has declared its opposition to reciprocity with the United States. It calls for a tariff in Canada's best interests and for preferences with the mother-land and with her colonies at all times, however, preserving Canada's industries. The board also opposed a better waterway on the Rideau Canal.

Eczema is Not Fatal

BUT ITS TORTURE INCREASES AS IT SPREADS OVER THE BODY UNTIL IT MAKES LIFE A BURDEN. IT IS CURED BY

Dr. Chase's Ointment

So many have eczema of one form or another and do not know it. The constant itching annoys them, but they scarcely realize how the disease is gradually spreading and becoming more aggravated.

Particularly during cold weather, when exposed to sudden changes and dampness, this ailment becomes more severe, and during the night, when the body is warm, suffering is intense and sleep almost impossible.

There is cure in the use of Dr. Chase's Ointment. This healing, soothing preparation brings almost instant relief from the distressing itching.

In the course of a few days the healing process sets in, and it is only a question of time and persistent application of the ointment until cure is effected.

Mr. Fred W. Clark, Petworth, Addington County, Ont., writes: "My mother had eczema in both legs for about twenty years. She doctored for a long time, and tried everything for it, but got no relief until a friend advised her to use Dr. Chase's Ointment, which she got.

"She found that Dr. Chase's Ointment gave her great relief, so she got some more and continued this treatment faithfully, until now she is entirely cured of eczema. I don't think anyone could have this disease worse than she did."

Dr. A. W. Chase's Ointment, 60 cents a box, at all dealers or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto. The portrait and signature of A. W. Chase, M. D., the famous Receipt Book author, are on every box of his medicine.

CATHOLICS ASSAIL PORTUGAL LEADERS

Societies Federation Denounces Braga's Attitude Toward the Church.

New Orleans, Nov. 16.—Principal among the resolutions adopted at the concluding session Wednesday of the annual convention of the American Federation of Catholic Societies was one of denunciation of the administrative officers of the new republic at Portugal and of commendation of the state department in Washington for delaying recognition of the new government.

Horror was expressed at the "barbarous inception" of the new republic. President Braga and his associates were scored for their alleged persecution of Catholics, especially according to the resolutions, their harsh and insulting treatment of nuns and monks, and the Government was declared to be founded on injustice and ungodliness.

Following the adoption of the resolution and the election of officers, the federation adjourned to meet next year in Columbus, O.

The National Educatinal Association was denounced "for attempting to set up in this country an educational trust as a menace to individual liberty and to the primary rights which every American citizens enjoys of choosing the kind of education which he may wish to give his children."

Opposes Lecture Courses.

The federation declared against the substitution of ethical teaching for religious training in schools and colleges, protested against Bible reading in public schools, deprecated the use of public funds or of public buildings for lecture courses in philosophy, literature or science, urged the establishment of more parish schools and demanded "some equitable compensation" for the secular education given in Catholic schools.

Congress was urged to amend the postal laws so as to include within the scope of prohibited literature books, papers, writings and prints which outrage religious convictions and contain scurrilous and slanderous attacks upon the faith."

Discrimination against the employment of Catholics in the public service because of their religion was condemned. The furtherance of mission work among the Indians and negroes was urged.

A. F. L.'s Aims Indorsed.

In connection with the announcement of President Feeney that for the first time the federated Catholic societies were represented by two fraternal delegates, the confederation of the American Federation of Labor now in session at St. Louis, resolutions were adopted expressing sympathy with every legitimate effort of organized labor for a living wage, reasonable hours, protection of life and limb, workmen's compensation and decent and helpful conditions in the home, shop, mine and factory.

The evils of child labor were deplored, as was the "traffic" in divorce.

Catholics everywhere were urged to make prompt and vigorous protest against the publication of every newspaper or magazine article offensive to the church, and to withdraw support from all such publications whose management paid no heed to written or oral protests.

World Press Body Urged.

The establishment of an international Catholic press association was indorsed.

The concluding resolution follows:

"We protest against propagandas which embitter the workingman, preach a gospel of class hatred, of confiscation of private property, make marriage a mockery, deny paternal rights and responsibility, and proclaim state control and even ownership of the child."

The new vice-presidents elected were: Julius A. Coller Shakopee, Minn.; C. W. Wallace, Columbus, O.; John T. Kelley, Milwaukee, Wis.. New members of the executive board elected were: Henry Wessling, Boston, and F. W. Keckonkamp, Quincy, Ill.

NO LIQUOR IN LODGES

engage rooms in certain buildings which did not come under the ban. The complaints were investigated, and it was decided that every building in Toronto should be treated alike, and the caretakers held responsible not only for the acts of the owners, but also those who were tenants or who rented rooms.

The circular sent out by Mr. Joseph Johnston, chief license inspector, is as follows:

The Circular.

"Owing to complaints recently received of the illegal consumption of liquor at meetings of various societies or associations in public halls in the city of Toronto, it has been thought necessary to call your attention to the provisions of section 53 of the liquor license act, which are as follows:

"'53—(1) Any unincorporated society, association or club, any member, officer or servant thereof, or person resorting thereto, that sells or barters liquor to any member thereof, or to any other person without the license therefor by this act required shall be held to have violated section 49 of this act, and shall incur the penalties provided for the sale of liquor without license. R. S. O., 1897, chapter 245, section 53 (1), Edward VII., chapter 46, section 4.

"'(2) The keeping or having in any house or building or in any room or place occupied or controlled by such club, association or society, or any member or members thereof, or by any person resorting thereto, of any liquor for sale or barter shall be a violation of section 50 of this act.

Holds Members Responsible.

"'(3) Proof of consumption or intended consumption of liquor in such premises by any member of such club, association or society, or person who resorts thereto, shall be conclusive evidence of sale of such liquor, and the occupants of the premises or any member of the club, association or society, or person who resorts thereto, shall be taken conclusively to be the person who has or keeps therein such liquor for sale or barter, and any liquor found upon such premises shall be liable to seizure in the manner provided by this act. R. S. O., 1897, chapter 245, section 53 (2-3).'

"You will observe that the provisions of the last sub-section are very stringent, and it is hoped that you will realize the necessity of aiding the officers to enforce the law in this respect so as to avoid any further complaints."

ADVERTISES WEDDING THAT TOOK PLACE 1864

Veteran Who Lost Marriage Certificate Seeks to Protect Wife.

New York, Nov. 17. — Bingham-Lawrence—On July 3, 1864, by the Rev. Samuel Currey, Sarah C. Lawrence to George W. Bingham.

This announcement of a wedding 46 years ago, appeared in Wednesday's papers. Mr. Bingham, a civil war veteran, explained that he had placed it in the papers because his wife accidentally burned their marriage certificate several years ago. He is getting old and fears that after his death his wife might have trouble in producing proof of their marriage to obtain the soldier's widow's pension of $12 a month. A lawyer advised him to guard against such a possibility by advertising his marriage and having witnesses to swear that the advertisement had been inserted.

THE WOMAN'S CORNER

Cynthia Grey's After-Supper Talks

A NEGLECTED ART.

With all the progress made in the arts in this country, there is one art so sadly neglected that only a few of the inner circle know it is an art. Yet, a knowledge of it bears tremendously upon the happiness of many lives. I refer to the gentle art of living in other people's houses.

Don't you think it is an art? It is one of the fine arts, albeit one which may be mastered without money or instructors. The key to an understanding of it is sympathy—that sympathy which enables you to put yourself in another person's place. Sympathy is by no means a universal attribute of the human mind, and it is one of the latest virtues to develop, being almost wholly lacking in children. But it is capable of cultivation, and the rewards which it brings with it more than compensate for all the labor of acquiring it.

A third party coming into a home, especially in a position of dependence, brings potent possibilities of misery both for herself and the home, since a home is complete before she enters, and any outside inuflence may disturb its serenity.

Enter a home feeling that you are a dependent and for that reason will be neglected; enter it feeling resentful that you will be outside the inner circle of the family affection; enter it demanding to be always present in the bosom of the family, and to have your voice heard in its councils—and you are certain of misery.

Enter it feeling that you are blessed in having friends or relatives who open their doors to you; enter it remembering that your presence there means a certain sacrifice of the family privacy, made in your interest, for which you should be grateful and conduct yourself accordingly—and your presence may be a blessing to all.

Those who have mastered the fine art of living in other people's houses will remember to be of service to the mistress of the house in every way possible without officiousness; they will endear themselves to the children of the family, and so relieve the mother of care. They will absent themselves when the husband and father is at home, and they will be considerate in speech and action of the prejudices of those whose bread they eat.

And, most of all, they will remember to throw oil upon troubled water when the family serenity is threatened.

But, pshaw, what's the use? Nobody can master the art of living in other people's houses but the wise, and they need no instruction.

DOMESTIC HINTS

Many lovers of pumpkin pies object to the flat taste of the canned article. Pumpkins, gathered before frost is heavy, the stem coated with sealing-wax, and stored in a dry place can be kept from one season to another, and the flavor is not impaired in the least. The secret lies in gathering them before the frost, and in excluding the air by coating the stem.

Cheesecloth makes a serviceable and sanitary dishcloth; its absorbent qualities and the fact that it is so easily kept white and clear make it especially desirable. A yard of cheesecloth dampened with a few drops of paraffin oil makes an excellent dustcloth.

For a fancy salad, cut red peppers into shreds and sprinkle over the chopped lettuce and garnish with sliced olives, curled parsley and celery tips.

A housekeeper says that before blacking the stove she rubs soap on her hands, just as if she was about to wash them, and lets it dry. This seems to prevent the polish getting into the pores, and after blacking the stove the hands are easily washed clean.

If brasses are rubbed with vaseline after a cleansing, and then polished with a soft duster, they will not readily tarnish.

Stains in table linen may be easily removed by plunging the articles in pure boiling water. Soap and water would have the effect of fixing the stains.

FASHIONS

A pretty afternoon dress recently seen was a black and white striped marquisette over Persian silk.

There is a fad for small hats, but the dress hat is still of the large type.

One of the newest scarfs is of a heavy silk net lined with chiffon and has gathered ends finished with tassels.

Velvet and tapestry handbags are the fancy of the season.

Tailored suits of white corduroy are extremely smart.

Venise lace is used upon many of the handsomest jabots and neck frills instead of Irish lace.

A coat of bright cerise is popular for evening wear, and is made of chiffon or moussenne with semitone embroideries and a touch of black somewhere for a relief.

Something novel in fur trimming is the use of a small fur animal as a shoulder strap over one of the shoulders of an evening gown. The gown is trimmed with bands of matching fur.

Braid is one of the most popular suit trimmings of the season.

Author of "The Stowaway," "The Message," "The Wings of the Morning," Etc.

"It is full time you knew what I have done for you!" he hissed venomously at Alec. "Stampoff and your mother and I, alone of those in this room, are aware of the fraud that has been perpetrated on the people of this country. You are not King of Kosnovia. You are not my son. Your father was a Colorado gold miner to whom your mother was married before I met her, and who died before you were born. For the sake of his widow's money I gave her my name, and was fool enough to fall in with her whim of pride that you should be brought up as a Prince Delgrado. I suppose Stampoff urged your mother to reveal the facts to that chit of a girl who has addled your brain, and she, fortunately, had sense enough to see that you cannot continue to occupy the throne five seconds after it becomes known that you are a mere alien, that your name is Alexander Talbot, and that I, Michael Delgrado, who married a foreigner in order that I might live, and permitted an American child to be reared as a lawful Prince of my house, am the lawful King."

The little man strutted up and down the room in a fume of indignation, and evidently felt fully justified in his own esteem. Ever selfish and vain, he fancied that he had been the victim of a cruel fate, and he read the sheer bewilderment in Alec face as a tribute to the master stroke he had just delivered.

But his self-conceit wilted under the contemptuous scorn of his wife's gaze, which he chanced to meet when his posturing ceased.

Alec looked to his mother for some confirmation or denial of the astounding statement blurted forth by her husband. But she had no eyes for her son then. The wrongs and sufferings of a lifetime were welling up from her heart to her lips. The agonized suspense of the last few minutes had given way to the frenzy of a woman outraged in her deepest sentiments.

She relinquished the chair to which she had been clinging, and faced the diminutive Prince with a quiet dignity that overawed him.

"So that is how you keep your oath, Michael!" she said. "When I forgave your infidelities, when I pandered to your extravagance, when I allowed you to fritter away the wealth? bequeathed to me by a man whose fine nature was so far removed from yours that I have often wondered why God created two such opposite types of humanity, time and again you vowed that the idle folly of my youth would never be revealed by you. Twice you swore it on your knees when I was stung beyond endurance by your baseness. No, Michael," and her voice rose almost to scream when her husband tried to silence her with a curse, "you shall hear the truth now, if I have to ask my son as a last favor to his unhappy mother to still that foul tongue of yours by force!"

For an instant she made a wild appeal to Alec. "Your father was an honorable man," she cried. "For his sake, if not for mine, since I have forfeited all claim to your love, compel this man to be silent!"

The belief was slowly establishing itself in her son's mind that the incredible thing he was hearing was actually true. Nevertheless, he was temporarily bereft of the poise and balance of judgment that might have bewildered him to adjust the warring elements in his bewildered brain. It was a new and horrible experience to be asked by his mother to use physical violence against the man he had been taught to regard as his father.

He had never respected Michael Delgrado—he could acknowledge that now without a twinge of conscience that had always accompanied the unpleasing thought in the past—yet, despite the gulf already yawning wide betwen them, his soul revolted against the notion of laying a hand on him in anger.

But he did stoop over the spluttering little Prince and said sternly, "You must not interrupt my mother again! You must not, I tell you!"

Such was the chilling emphasis of his words that Delgrado's loud objurgations died away in his throat, and the distraught Princess, with one last look of unutterable contempt at her royal spouse, faced the other occupants of the room.

"I did harm to none by my innocent deception," she pleaded. "I was very young when I married Alec's father, who was nearly twenty years older than I. We were not rich, and we were compelled to live in a rude mining camp, where my husband owned some claims that seemed to be of little value. But from the day of our wedding our fortunes began to improve, and, in the year before my son was born money poured in on us. That small collection of wooden shanties has now become a great city. The land my husband owned is worth ten thousand times its original value; but, unfortunately, when wealth came, I grew dissatisfied with my surroundings. I wanted to travel, to mix in society, to become one of the fashionable throng that flocks to Paris and London and the Riviera in their seasons. My husband refused to desert the state in which his interests were bound up.

"We quarrelled—it was all my fault—and then one day he was killed in a mine accident, and I, scarce knowing what I was doing fled to New York for distraction from my grief and self-condemnation. My son was born there, and in that same year I met Prince Michael Delgrado in a friend's house. To me in those days a prince was a wonderful creature. He quickly saw that I was a prize worth capturing, and not many months elapsed before we were married. I had all the foolish vanity of a young woman, unused to the world, who was entitled to call herself a princess, and it seemed to my flighty mind that the fact of my son bearing a different name to my own would aways advertise my plebeian origin; for I was quite a woman of the people, the daughter of a storekeeper in Pueblo. I cast aside my old and tried acquaintances, placed my affairs in trustworthy hands, and, when we set up an establishment in Paris, my infant son came to be known as a Prince of the Delgrado family.

"Once such a blunder is made it is not easily rectified; but during many a sad hour have I regretted it, for Michael Delgrado did not scruple to use it as a threat whenever I resented his ill conduct. At first a trivial thing, in time it became a millstone round my neck. As Alec grew up, it became more and more difficult to announce that he was not Prince Alexis Delgrado, but a simple commoner, Alexander Talbot by name.

"There, then, you have the measure of my transgression. It was the knowledge of the truth that drove that dear girl, Joan Vernon, from Delgratz this evening, because General Stampoff would not scruple to reveal the imposture if he failed to secure the King's adherence to his projects."

"God's bones!" broke in Stampoff. "I made him King, though I was aware from the day of your wedding that he was not Michael's son. King he is, and King he will remain if he agrees to my terms."

"Go on with your story, mother," said Alec, softly. "I think I am beginning to understand now."

"What more need I say?" wailed the Princess in a sudden access of grief. "I have squandered your love, Alec, I have ruined my own life, I have devoted all these years to a man who is the worst sort of blackmailer—a husband who trades on his wife's weakness."

She turned on Prince Michael with a last cry. "I am done with you forever!" she sobbed. "I have born with you for my son's sake, but now you and I must dwell apart, for my very soul loathes you!"

She sank into a chair in a passion of tears, and Alec bent over her. He spoke no word to her, but his hand rested gently around her neck while his eyes travelled from Michael's grey-green face to Julious Marulitch's white one.

"I think we have all heard sufficient of the Delgrado history to render unnecessary any further comment on my decision to relinquish an honor that, it would appear, I had no right to accept," he said. "I have gained my end, though by a strange path. Will you please leave me with my mother?"

The one man present who felt completely out of his depth in this sea of discord took it upon himself to cry pathetically: "The door is locked, your — your Majesty!"

"Ah, forgive me, Monsieur Nesimir," said Alec, with a friendly smile. "I had forgotten that. And, now that I come to think of it, I still have something to say; but we need not detain my mother to hear an uninteresting conversation. Pardon me one moment, while I attend to her."

AMEND RAILWAY ACT

Toronto Commissioners Wants Jurisdiction in Regard to Commutation Rates.

Toronto, Nov. 16.—Controller Spence strenuously but vainly opposed in the board of control today an application to the Dominion Government for amendments to the railway act giving the board of railway commissioners broad jurisdiction to compel railway companies to issue tickets at commutation rates from and points within a reasonable radius of the city of Toronto. Mr. Spence would favor asking that no discrimination in rates be made against Toronto, but he was sure all the members of the House of Commons, except those for Toronto, would oppose the application, and that the old cry of "hog town" would be raised. The other controllers favored making the application, and the clause was carried.

Ottawa, Nov. 16.—The city engineer has recommended that Mr. W. F. The scheme upon which he is to report is an outgrowth of the Canadian Pacific plan for closing a section of the canal and constructing a tunnel between the two depots.

WOULD PUT AN END TO OPIUM TRAFFIC

Chinese Will Petition to Have Present Treaty Abrogated.

[Associated Press Dispatch.]

Washington, Nov. 16.—What is described as a "monster appeal," is being drawn up by the Chinese, urging Great Britain to abrogate the treaties with China which permit British interests to engage in the opium trade. Word to this effect has been received here by the International Reform League from its field secretary in Peking. The petition, which the cablegram intimates will be a document of enormous proportions, will be submitted simultaneously to the British and Chinese Governments.

There are two treaties in existence between China and Great Britain, the first being signed by the two countries in 1842, and the second, which admitted France on equal terms with England, being signed in 1858. While practically all the nations of the world have joined in a cruisade on the opium traffic, it is declared that it is still far from being abolished, although it does not flourish as in the past.

It is charged that the existence of the treaties in question afford legal excuse for British and French citizens to engage in the traffic in China. It is to remove such excuse that the Chinese petition is being drawn, it is declared, for presentation to the Governments in London and Peking.

FATALLY INJURED WOULD SQUARE DEBT

First Thought When Man Recovered Consciousness Was for Friend.

[Associated Press.]

New York, Nov. 16.—Seven men were injured, three so seriously that they will probably die, when the automobile in which they were returning downtown from the Walsh-Keller boxing bout in Bronx borough, collided with a trolley car in Harlem. None of the occupants escaped injury.

George Stivers, a downtown businessman, was dragged under the car for 30 feet, and was picked up in a dying condition. Charles Larkin and James Buchanan, neighbors of Stivers, were also probably fatally hurt. Everybody in the car tried to jump when it was seen that a collision was inevitable, and the other four men managed to get partially clear.

Stivers' first thought when he recovered consciousness for a moment was for an obligation due one of his companions. Calling Thomas Lee, owner of the New England Hotel, and one of the less seriously injured members of the party, the dying man said:

"Tom, I owe Buchanan $975, and he hasn't an I. O. U. for it. If I die see that he gets it from my estate."

The automobile was completely wrecked.

WOMAN BRINGS SUIT.

Detroit, Nov. 16.—For the time-being Mrs. Victoria Dray has diverted her attention from Arthur Wellington Draper, to John D. Kuppenheimer, Prince of the Island of Bu. Besides asking the latter's arrest in Toronto she has commenced slander suits against Kuppenheimer and his private secretary, A. Reginald Von Keller. Both suits are for $25,000.

HAD A CLOSE CALL.

Toronto, Nov. 16.—F. H. McGuigan, jun., son of Mr. F. H. McGuigan, had a close call from being badly injured when a handcar on which he and Jas. B. Eaton were riding, was struck by an auto. Both were thrown from the car. McGuigan sustained an injury to his knee and Eaton a severe scalp wound.

Scores of restless, crying babies, upon examination, are found to be suffering from some form of skin irritation or "heat." Don't let baby suffer when Zam-Buk will cure!

Often, too, in winter, the little ones suffer from chaps on the chin, hands, or other parts of the body. Zam-Buk applied after the bath, and at intervals during the day, will prevent all trouble.

Mrs. L. Wood, of 475 Alexander avenue, Winnipeg, says: "I have proved the value of Zam-Buk when applied to children's sores. Some nasty sores broke out around my baby's mouth, and despite all the preparations used, they refused to heal. I took him to St. Boniface Hospital, and he remained there for two weeks. At the end of that time he was no better, and we again took him home. I was then advised to try Zam-Buk and obtained a supply. The effect of the first few applications was very gratifying, and a little perseverance resulted in a complete cure."

DISPUTE BETWEEN LABOR ORGANIZATIONS

Old Trouble Between Americans and Canadians Breaks Out Afresh.

[Associated Press.]

St. Louis, Nov. 16.—The dispute between the American Federation of Labor and the Canadian Trades and Labor Congress, as to terms on which they are affiliated, broke out afresh today. The terms have not yet been accurately defined.

P. M. Draper, secretary of the Canadian organization, introduced a resolution making the Canadian body co-ordinate with and independent of the federation. Many of the American officials wish to admit the Canadians under the status of a state federation.

The resolution was referred to a committee.

Victor Berger, of Milwaukee, socialist congressman-elect, issued a statement, in which he denied he was preparing a contest against the re-election of Samuel Gompers as president, or planning to capture the organization for the socialist party.

The socialist delegates are holding meetings to discover how much strength they could muster, and decide on the expediency of introducing a resolution embodying the indorsement of socialism.

Montreal, Nov. 16.—The conference between Grand Trunk officials and representatives of the firemen has been concluded, and a satisfactory arrangement in regard to wages has been made. The men will be given an increase, but how much has not as yet been given out.

This ends almost all the wage discussions for the coming year, the C. P. R. having made a new agreement with their firemen last August, covering the eastern lines. The negotiations on western lines, which afe affected in the present movement in the Western States are being conducted in Winnipeg.

ALL WERE LOST

Cannibals Killed Scientists Who Were on Solomon Island Expedition.

Victoria, B. C., Nov. 16.—A mystery of fourteen years, concerning the fate of the Austrian scientific expedition from the ship Albatross, in the Solomon Islands, is cleared up by the finding of the remains of the expedition in the Solomon Islands. The discovery was made by Dr. Northcott Deck, of the South Sea Evangelical Mission.

News of the finding of the remains of the party from the Albatross was received today by the steamship Zealandia, from Australia. The expedition from the Albatross was headed by Baron Von Nordeck, and included Lieut. Budick, Midshipman DeBeaufort and nine sailors. Dr. Deck found evidences of a massacre on Tatuve Island, and from the natives learned the details of the slaughter.

The Austrians, according to the natives, were surprised by the blacks. Baron Von Nordeck was tomahawked by a savage, who crept up behind him. The sailors fought off the blacks after several were wounded, and made camp where the baron died.

During the night the camp was again attacked, and only three of the men escaped. They made their way to the coast, without learning the fate of their fellows, who fell into captivity.

Remnants of the remains cast aside after a cannibal feast leads Dr. Deck to believe that the captives fell a prey to the inhuman practices of the savages.

NATIONAL MUNICIPAL LEAGUE.

Buffalo, Nov. 16.—Reading and discussion of papers upon a wide range of topics relative to civic welfare occupied today the sessions of the eighteenth national conference of the National Municipal League in this city. The general subject of "City Finances, Budgets and Statistics" was considered in several papers. Dr. Willoughby, of the United States census bureau, discussed the necessity for consideration of the correlative of the financial and physical statistics of cities.

Connors, who is about 30 years old, and wears long shaggy hair, refused to make any reply to questions put to him, and was remanded for a week to allow of an examination being made into his mental condition.

ONTARIO'S CROP BULLETIN ISSUED

Fall Wheat Is Classed As Better Than Average Yield This Year.

TOBACCO CROP WAS FAIR

Fodder Supplies Are the Heaviest in Some Years—A Poor Fruit Season.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Toronto, Nov. 17.—The following statement of crop conditions in Ontario on the 1st of November, based upon the returns of a large number of correspondents, has been issued by the Ontario Department of Agriculture. It is the final crop bulletin for the year.

Fall Wheat—While a number of correspondents speak of the yield and quality of fall wheat as being the best for years, others complain of the grain being less plump than usual, owing to dry weather at the time of filling. Taken as a whole, however, fall wheat may be classed as better than the average crop.

Spring Wheat—Less spring wheat is being grown than formerly, goose wheat being the variety chiefly raised. The crop was fully up to the standard this year in every respect.

The New Fall Wheat—An increased acreage of wheat has been sown this fall, and as most favorable conditions existed at seeding, and since that time, the crop is now looking more promising. In fact, some correspondents express a fear that the young fall wheat may have too much top for entering the winter. Only scattering mention was made of injury to the crop by Hessian fly, wire-worm, or other insects. Sowing ranged from the last week of August to the first week of October, the bulk of the crop being put in during the first and second week of September. Dawson's Golden Chaff is still the favorite variety of fall wheat, Red Clawson and over forty other varieties following.

The Grain Crop.

Barley has turned out well, taking the province over. The sample was generally plump, and while some discoloration was reported, that is not now considered a serious drawback, as most of the barley raised in this province is fed to live stock.

Oats—Oats were rather short in the straw, but the heads were well filled with grain of good weight, and where the crop was not knocked down by rainstorms just before cutting, it was an unusually good one. On account of wet weather when harvesting, oats were harder to gather than in the case of the other spring grains.

Rye—This grain is not largely raised in Ontario, but where grown it is classed this season as from fair to good.

Peas—This crop has been somewhat discouraging to most growers this year. The vines suffered from drouth, and a green aphis also affected them, and as a result the pods were but poorly filled in most cases. The pea weevil was also reported in several localities.

Mixed Grains—Correspondents are hardly as enthusiastic over the growing of mixed grains as they were a year ago. It is claimed by some that it is difficult to get the various grains to properly ripen together; but others still point to the advantage of a greater production by the combination. Mandscheuri barley and Daubeney oats are still the favorite mixture, while some prefer to add peas. Peas and oats, and oats, barley and peas, also have their advocates.

Corn—While spring conditions were unfavorable for this crop, the summer and fall were ideal for its growth, and the term "splendid" is sometimes used by correspondents in describing the result. Corn escaped fall frosts almost entirely, was well cobbed, and matured in excellent condition both for husking and the silo.

Beans—Beans may be described as a medium crop, the early planted fields doing better than those put in late, which were caught by rainy weather at harvesting.

Buckwheat—Some fields were caught by early frost, and there was also injury from rain at the time of cutting; but the crop generally may be classed as an excellent one, as to both yield and quality.

Cloverseed—Ontario farmers are paying more attention than formerly to the raising of cloverseed. The season has been a favorable one for this purpose, and the general results have been satisfactory. There were only a few complaints of midge, and these were chiefly from the western part of the province.

Roots.

Potatoes—This crop is credited with a large average yield, and many of the returns speak of their excellent quality. There are some complaints of rot on heavy soils, however, and also among some potatoes in cellars. The crop was dug and housed under ideal weather conditions.

Turnips—This class of roots has done better than was expected when correspondents reported in August. There will be a fair yield, and although as a rule only medium in size, the quality of turnips is in general first-class. A few remained to be pulled as returns came in.

Mangels—A good crop of mangels of excellent quality is reported, and all were safely placed under shelter by the end of October.

Carrots—Carrots are not largely raised as a field crop, but where grown this season they were a success.

Sugar Beets—These roots are increasing in popularity for feeding to live-stock. They were a good crop where grown, and were all harvested as correspondents wrote.

Tobacco.

This crop ranges from fair to good so far as yield is concerned. On high land growth was checked by drouth early in the season, and hail in midsummer did injury to some fields; but fine, open weather later helped growth, and conditions at harvesting were favorable. The leaf is said to be curing well.

Fruit.

The season of 1910 will be remembered as one of the poorest on record for apples, all the good winter varieties being exceedingly scarce. Spring frosts and wet weather at the setting of the fruit are given as the chief causes of the poor yield. Some correspondents charge that there is a too general neglect of Ontario orchards, and claim that where spraying and reasonable care were given to fruit trees there were satisfactory results this season. Pears, peaches and plums were more plentiful than apples, although the surplus was not large. In many parts of the province, high winds blew off a considerable quantity of fruit before it was fit for marketing. Grapes, strawberries and other small fruits yielded well.

Live Stock.

Live Stock—Fall pastures have been all that could be desired, and, where not overstocked, have kept grazing animals in fine condition. All classes of live stock have been remarkably free from serious diseases, in fact there is practically a clean slate. Horses are in considerable demand, and at higher prices than formerly. Cattle did unusually well on the grass, and all ages and classes can find a ready market at better values than for many years. Young beef animals especially are hard to procure. There have also been too few sheep for the demand. A large and steady traffic has been done in swine. The recent drop in market values has checked sales somewhat, but the supply on hand is barely normal. All over the province a larger number of silos than usual have been erected this year, many of them made of concrete.

Dairying—The milk flow was well maintained by the excellent fall pastures, thus prolonging the dairy season. Butter has gained upon cheese, taking the province as a whole. As between butter and cheese, prices have rather favored the former, and the local demand for butter appears to be increasing. The general quality of both creamery and home-made butter has been high this year. Condensed milk factories in the Oxford district, and the shipping of cream and casein over the border along the St. Lawrence, have also helped to lessen the cheese production of the province. Shorthorns and Holsteins are about equally popular among Western Ontario dairymen, while Holsteins have a large lead in Eastern Ontario, Ayrshires and Shorthorns coming together in second place.

Poultry—The good prices obtained for poultry products this season have led farmers to give more attention to this industry. Eggs have been in great demand all season at paying prices, and chickens fit for market have also commanded high rates. Common farmyard fowl have been almost completely exempt from disease, but complaints have come from some of the Lake Ontario counties of serious losses among turkeys from a disease known as "blackhead." The wet weather of July was also hard upon this class of poultry. Geese and ducks have kept in good condition. While considerable improvement has recently taken place in the care of poultry in this province, some of the returns point out that but few farmers keep an actual record of profit and loss from this branch of their business. Correspondents variously estimate the profit per hen at from 60 cents to one dollar.

Farm Help Scarce.

Help on the farm has been scarce this season, especially in the case of experienced and capable men. The opening up of new country to the north and west is still drawing away some of our young men, and while some of the immigrants who have taken their places have given good satisfaction, others are described as being very inexperienced, poor learners, and practically of no help upon a farm. The use of improved machinery, an exchange of work, and more pasturing of land are looked to by some correspondents as the best way to meet the scarcity of rural labor. The consensus of opinion is that little or no change is likely to take place in the rate of wages in the near future. Domestic servants are almost impossible to secure, the attractions of the town being greater than those of farm life for the great majority of girls.

Threshing and Marketing—While some correspondents state that threshing was completed, and others say that none has been done on account of the rush of other fall work, the bulk of the reports were to the effect that grain separation was well advanced generally. Grain has been moving but slowly to market, except where some farmers have been pressed for ready money. The price of wheat is such that owners are holding back for a rise, or else will feed a good share of it later if present values of live-stock continue. Most of the barley is now fed on the farm, and less of the oat crop is sent to market than formerly.

Fall Plowing—Reports as to the progress of fall plowing vary greatly, even in same localities; but as a whole the work was fairly advanced when correspondents reported, with prospects of completion in good time. The land early in the fall was considered rather dry and hard, but timely rains came and put it in splendid condition for plowing. Silo filling, early threshing and the poor handling of plowing teams by many of the newer class of farm laborers, are the chief reasons given by those who reported the work as backward.

Fodder Supplies.

Farmers face the winter with more assurance than for years, owing to the general sufficiency of all classes of fodder. There is a surplus of hay, ranging from $8 to $16 a ton, according to the nearness to good markets, and there is plenty of straw. The largely-increased silo accommodation, with the big corn crop, has lessened the call on other fodders. The abundant fall pastures, and the growing of millet or Hungarian grass, have also enabled farmers to husband their regular winter feeding supplies. As usual, considerable oil-cake, and bran, shorts and other millfeeds, will be purchased, but more charily than formerly, as the prices for all these commodities are high, and many farmers are now studying feeding equivalents. There has been a brisk demand for beef cattle, sheep and hogs all the season, and this has left less live stock on hand than usual. There is also the important fact that Ontario farmers, after the hard lesson of two or three years ago, have learned to feed more wisely, and there is now but little waste of fodder.

"Pneumonia"

Pneumonia is nothing more or less than "Lung Fever," or as it used to be called, "Inflammation of the Lungs" and the results come entirely from a local source; such as taking a violent cold.

There is more or less difficulty in breathing: a cough, at first dry, but soon accompanied by raising a thick, sticky, rusty-colored matter, composed of a mixture of phlegm and blood.

There is only one way to prevent Pneumonia, and that is to cure the cold just as soon as it appears. Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup will do this quickly and effectively.

Mrs. G. W. Bowman, Pattullo, Ont., writes: "Three years ago I caught a cold which ended in a severe attack of Pneumonia. Since that time, at the beginning of each winter, I seem to catch cold very easily. I have been so hoarse that I was unable to speak loud enough to be heard across the room. Last winter, however, a friend advised me to try Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, saying it had helped her. I bought a bottle and before it was half used I was completely cured. I also find it a good medicine for the children when they have colds."

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup is put up in a yellow wrapper; three pine trees the trade mark; the price 25 cents.

TIGERS TO SECURE CHAUCER ELLIOTT

As an Assistant Coach, the Suggestion Has Been Made By Sep. Dumoulin.

HIS CRITICISM OF TEAM

They Have No New Plays and Their Old Ones Are of Very Little Use, He Says.

[G. N. W. Dispatch.]

Hamilton, Nov. 17.—Sep. Dumoulin, the former Tiger captain, who is coaching the Tigers in preparation for the play-off with Varsity on Nov. 26, gave the boys their first drill last evening, and as a result of the workout and his observations, he has confronted the Tiger executive with the demand that Chaucer Elliott, the Montreal coach, be engaged at once as assistant coach for the ten days between now and the Dominion final.

Dumoulin also made his report to the club today as to the condition he found the Tigers in. He said in part: "I find that the material possessed by the club is the best I have seen on a Tiger field in a long time.

Lack Coaching.

"The boys lack coaching, however, and are slow with what few plays they have, while their old repertoire of tricks have dwindled away to nothing. The back division is the best part of the team. The wings, while possessing speed, are weak in their tackling.

"I find that I can hardly hope to bring the boys around to their best form in the time allotted without assistance, and would suggest that you lose no time in securing Elliott.

"If he is secured I will take personal charge of the half-backs, while he will look after the wings. A perfection of plays, introducing a half dozen new ones, installation of aggressiveness in tackling will occupy all our time."

Will Go After Elliott.

The Tigers will likely follow Dumoulin's request.

Tigers will tonight face Dundas in a practice game. Friday night they will again turn out, and every night next week.

Saturday they will attend the Varsity-T.A.A.C. game in a body.

Dr. Barton and several of the Varsity athletics directors were in Hamilton today making arrangements with the Tigers for the final game here on Nov. 26. It was decided to place admission tickets at 50 cents general; admission to reserved seats at $1 and $2.

Increased bleacher accommodation will be erected. The present accommodation is good for about 5,000 people, and the additional space will provide for at least 3,000 or 4,000.

WOODSTOCK'S OFFICERS VERY WELL PLEASED

Fans in Burg to the East Are Pleased With Hockey Selections.

Woodstock Sentinel-Review: The list of officers of the Woodstock O. H. A. junior team shows the names of men who have been identified with hockey interests here for many years.

Mr. Nesbitt and Mr. Douglass have been splendid upholders of good sport. Mr. Muir is a splendid selection for president, for he is one of the men mainly responsible for the success of the junior team of 1906-7, as well as having been prominently identified with other sports. Mr. Muir has always been a keen follower of hockey, and his extensive ability makes him an especially good man for the position.

Of the first and second vice-presidents, Mr. Frank Hyde and Mr. John D. Dunlop, little need be said. Mr. Hyde may be considered as the father of the city league hockey in this city, and his ability and progressiveness in sporting lines are well known.

Mr. Hawkins, the secretary-treasurer, is a man who has been identified with different sporting organizations in the city for some time, and should make an excellent and efficient secretary-treasurer. Reginald Stone is too well known for there to be any doubt of his ability and popularity.

BROCK IS CAPTAIN OF THE VARSITY TRACK TEAM

Toronto, Nov. 17.—Brock has been elected captain of Varsity track team of 1911. O. E. Finch will likely be manager. Several of the fastest runners on the team will graduate next season. Among them are: Wright, S.P.S.; Chandler, S.P.S.; Kilpatrick, Knox; Seberts, Meds., and Dent, Pharmacy.

FOUR TIGER COACHES.

Toronto Star: Sep. Dumoulin asks for a board of four coaches. He believes that if he had the assistance of George Ballard, Gordon Southam and Jack Counsell, he could develop the Tigers into just as wonderful a machine as any team that has been placed on a gridiron. Others believe the same, and trust that all four will be asked to turn out and help.

Ask Joe Deane about it:

"The modern way is the Semi-ready way. The bench tailoring is a thing of the past. It is being superseded by the Semi-ready system. By actual count there was an increase in the sales of genuine Semi-ready tailoring in Canada last season of 60 per cent.

"In the future some Rip Van Winkle will find the term 'bench tailoring' in the dictionary, and feel that he has discovered a new instead of an obsolete word. There are men who sleep while the world moves on."

PRO. HOCKEYISTS REBEL AT LIMIT

Declare They Will Get Together and Form a New League This Season.

SALARY LIMIT ABSURD

Ottawa Will Try To Have $5,000 Rule Rescinded at Next Meeting—Bruce Stuart Talks.

[G. N. W. Dispatch.]

Ottawa, Nov. 17.—Despite the fact that the National Hockey Association at last Saturday's meeting recommended its adoption, the opinion now prevails in the capital that the $5,000 salary limit is due to cause a heap of trouble before matters are finally adjusted.

The constitution allows each team to carry ten men, which means that each player cannot receive much more than $500. On the average they may get this, but no more.

Now, Renfrew and Ottawa paid last season, respectively, $12,000 and $15,000. How are they going to operate a successful team on $5,000 per? Renfrew cannot hope to get the Patricks, Miller or Taylor on that basis, and Ottawa would hardly have the nerve to offer Stuart, Walsh, Kerr or Smaill $500 each.

Some Favor Limit.

Some of the Ottawa officers are in favor of a salary limit, but others are opposed, and at the next meeting of the league the clause may be rescended. Members of the Ottawa team seem to regard the salary limit as a big joke.

"No, I'm not going to play hockey at all this winter," laughingly replied Bruce Stuart, when questioned last night as to his intention. "I am going up the bush for the winter; there's more money in shantying."

Another member of the Ottawa team declared that the players would get together and form a new league of their own.

GEORGE SMITH CAN'T PLAY IN THE FINALS

It is hardly likely that George Smith, the Tiger half, will figure in the Canadian final. Smith's knee has come around in nice style, but is still very weak, and will hardly prove strong enough to permit of his going back to his old spot on the back line. Smith is just about the best full back the Tigers have ever had. Fortunately for Tigers, in McNeilly and Kid Smith the team is well supplied, although neither one is up to the mark as compared with George.

A HAMILTON NOTION.

The Hamilton Spectator says: The general opinion of those who have seen all the Interprovincial teams in action is that the teams rank in merit in the following order:

Tigers.
Ottawa.
Argos.
Montreal.

Around here the order the fans declare they should be is:

Argos.
Tigers.
Ottawa.
Montreal.

ABE ATTELL AGREES TO MEET PAL MOORE, NOV. 28

Pair Will Box in Short Session at Gotham Soon—Young Britt to Scrap.

[By Associated Press.]

New York, Nov. 17.—Abe Attell will box Pal Moore at the Fairmount Athletic Club here on Nov. 28. He arrived from New Orleans late last night and will open his training quarters at once. Young Britt, the recognized bantam and featherweight champion of the south, will make his first appearance in New York at the Sharkey Athletic Club tonight.

OUT ALL NIGHT BUT THERE IS NO FIGHT

Just as "Pugs" Step Into the Ring Deputies Cry "Nothin' Doin'."

[By Associated Press.]

Chicago, Ill., Nov. 16.—More than 200 Chicago sports who expected to witness a prize fight near the village of Palatine, northwest of this city, were disappointed last night. From the Palatine station they had journeyed three miles south to a dance pavilion in a picnic grove, where they surrendered $3 each for seats.

After waiting in the cold until almost midnight for the main event, a twenty-round bout between "Mexican Kid" and Jimmie Travers, the principals appeared.

Just as they were stepping into the ring two deputy sheriffs notified the promoters that the fight was off. There was an approach to a riot when the crowd learned that there would be no fight, but order was restored when the admission money was refunded.

Most of the sports walked back to Palatine station where they remained until morning waiting for a train back to Chicago.

JIM BARRY GETS DECISION

Chicago Fighter Beats Jim Stewart, of New York, in Boston.

[By Associated Press.]

Boston, Nov. 16.—Jim Barry, of Chicago, got the decision over Jim Stewart, of New York, in twelve rounds at the Armory Athletic Association tonight. Stewart substituted for Joe Jeanette, of New York, who claimed to have a sprained hand, which prevented his fighting. Jeanette appeared as second for Stewart.

The New Yorker used a lively left with some effect through the first three rounds, but from that time on Barry took every round.

Stewart's left eye was cut in the third round aand bothered him theroughout the of the bout.

Charley White, of New York, was referee.

Toronto, Nov. 17.—Last night the Central Y. M. C. A. relay team was picked for the Hamilton-to-Toronto race this Saturday. Arnold Knox will start the race, and Cecil Howard will finish. The others that will compose the team are: Jack Near, J. Brydon, Harry Tressider, Jack Tressider, F. Schoffield, Abbott Wood and E. Newall.

C. J. FITZGERALD ON TURF SITUATION

New York Horseman Says Outlook Is Bright and Racing Will Be Resumed.

Independence League, Backed By Jockey Club, Seeks To Have Anti-Racing Bill Repealed.

Mr. C. J. Fitzgerald, of New York City, presiding judge of the New York Jockey Club, who left this city some days ago for the purpose of casting his vote in the big elections, returned to London this morning, and was seen by a reporter at his office at the Cook-Fitzgerald Shoe Company.

Mr. Fitzgerald states that horsemen are very hopeful in New York State, and if the court of appeals, which will deal with an alleged irregularity in the reapportionment of the electoral districts during Governor Hughes' regime, adopts the course authorities look for, racing will be resumed under the same conditions that existed before the enactment of the Hart-Agnew bill in 1907.

The situation is explained by Mr. Fitzgerald in a very clear manner. The Republicans in 1906 at a special session ordered by Governor Hughes proceeded with the reapportionment of certain districts. This apportionment, it is claimed, was really a "gerrymander" for the purpose of annexing districts strongly Democratic with those that returned Republicans, in order that the latter party might make a clean sweep without difficulty. According to the Independence League, an organization fathered by William Randolph Hearst, the famous journalist, which leans toward the Democratic side, this reapportionment was a direct violation of the constitution.

The Law.

The law provides that an electoral district must not have more than a certain number of sides and angles in its boundaries, but some of the reapportioned sections have as many as thirty sides and fifty angles. The gerrymander was aimed particularly at McManus, a westside Democrat, who had held office for a number of years.

The court of appeals some years ago decided that any such rearrangement of the districts must be accomplished at a regular session, and as this entire scheme was put through at the special session ordered by Governor Hughes, the horsemen consider this a most important point in their favor.

When the first vote was taken on the Hart-Agnew anti-racing bill, 20 senators favored the law, while the same number were opposed to it. This special session followed shortly after when a man named Wallace was made senator to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Franchot, of Niagara.

When the bill was again brought up Wallace cast the deciding vote, and the anti-racing law went into effect. The notices that the court of appeal will deal with the matter this winter were served a few days ago, and Mr. Fitzgerald claims, even the most stolid Republicans look for a decision against the Hughes faction.

The Independence League has the matter in hand, but is being given the hearty support of the horsemen.

Racing Again.

Racing will in all probability be resumed no matter what the outcome is, however. The jockey clubs are seeking to have the famous directors' personal liability bill repealed, and if this can be done meets will no doubt be held. This bill provides that a director of a jockey club, whether he is on the grounds or has no knowledge of any wrong doing, may be punished if gambling is discovered.

Should the court of appeals declare that this special session of 1906 was illegal, matters will be back where they were in that year and there will be no further trouble from Governor Dix, the Democrat, who was elected last week and who is said to favor more liberal policies.

NELSON WILLING TO WAIT FOR WOLGAST

Bat Needs More Time; So Does Ad—Each With an Object in View.

Tom Jones, manager of Ad Wolgast, says the Michigan boy's arm is in awful shape. If the injury is really as serious as Jones says it is, then Ad. would indeed be foolish to tackle Bat Nelson.

Nelson is willing that Wolgast wait until the break has healed properly before meeting the German lad. There is a reason for Bat's generosity. Nelson needs ring exercise in order to get back into shape.

The experiences Nelson now has are rather the opposite of what he encountered a year ago. Nelson is looking for matches, willing to take on anybody near his weight. A year ago you couldn't get him to fight to save your neck. It is much different when the crown is not hanging overhead.

ERECT MONUMENT IN STANLEY'S HONOR

Many Offers of Money Received by Ketchel's Parents.

[Associated Press.]

Grand Rapids, Mich., Nov. 17.—Offers of contributions for a fund to be used toward the erection of a monument for the late Stanley Ketchel, who was shot and killed recently in Missouri, are being received by his relatives here. Offers of money have been received from a large number of prominent sporting men of America. Ketchel's body is interred in a Catholic cemetery, and his friends fear that there would be opposition to erecting a monument in the cemetery from funds derived from such a source.

BILL AMOS IS COMING EAST THIS WINTER

Toronto, Nov. 17.—Joe White, the West End Y. M. C. A. sprinter, who was out west all summer, is back for a holiday. White says Bill Amos, the Camrose runner, threatens to come east and clean up again like he did last winter. Come on, Bill!

MUCH DEPENDS ON KINGSTON AGE LIMIT

Bouncer Brouse, the clever little rover of the champion Kingston Fronenacs, is just recovering from an attack of typhoid fever, but he says he will be in the game all right.

If the 19-year-old age limit amendment is beaten, Kingston will have five out of seven of last year's champions, Hyland and Marchand will be the only missing faces, and they will be replaced by a couple of star youngsters from the City League and Collegiate teams.

HOWELL A FREE AGENT; WILL MANAGE SEATTLE

Chicago, Nov. 16.—Henry Howell, former pitcher on the St. Louis team of the American Baseball League, declared today that the time for renewing his contract with St. Louis had expired and that he was now a free agent. He stated, however, that he had not signed to take the management of the Seattle club as had been reported. Baseball men at the meeting here say Howell will do so.

A WESTERN SMOKE AFTER JACK JOHNSON

[G. N. W. Dispatch.]

Winnipeg, Man., Nov. 16.—Winnipeg fight fans claim they have found the coming champion, the man to whip Jack Johnson. He is also a colored man, and "Big Smoke" Robinson is the name he goes by. He has a splendid physique, is a good boxer, has a terrific wallop, and apparently plenty of pluck. He has put to sleep everything in the heavyweight line in the west by the knockout route, and the Winnipeg fans, who are legion, are trying to match Robinson up against some of the big classy fellows. Pugilism is booming in Winnipeg just now, and there are weekly fights, with a thousand to two thousand in attendance.

"RUSSIAN LION" VS. FINNISH CHAMPION

New York, Nov. 16.—George Hackenschmidt, the Russian wrestler, who recently arrived in this country with the idea of taking away the scalp of Frank Gotch, will be seen in New Yorw Friday night in a match with Pilakoff, a Finnish champion. The style will be catch-as-catch-can. This will be "Hack's" first appearance in this city in several years.

SKATER BREAKS WORLD'S MARK.

John McDonald Covers 100 Yards in Ten Seconds Flat.

Chicago, Nov. 17.—In his second attempt at the Riverview Rink last evening John McDonald covered 100 yards on roller skates in ten seconds flat, establishing a new world's record and clipping one-fifth of a seecond off the mark of Henry Becker, the former holder.

In his first trial McDonald nearly fell in starting, but despite this handicap skated the century in ten and two-fifths seconds.

HERRMANN DENIES TRADE TALE.

Cincinnati Boss Says Hoblitzel Will Play With Reds In 1911.

Cincinnati, Nov. 17.—President Herrmann, of the Cincinnati National League club, said today that there was no truth in the report that Dick Hoblitzel, first baseman of the Cincinnati team, would be exchanged for Mike Doolan, the Philadelphia shortstop.

Herrman stated that all matters in connection with the recent four-cornered trade between the Cincinnati and Philadelphia clubs had been closed, and that there were no negotiations on for the trading of additional players.

SIX SEATS TO YALE-HARVARD GAME, $300.

Boston, Mass., Nov. 16.—The demand for tickets for the Harvard-Yale football game at New Haven on Saturday so far outruns the supply that what few speculators have succeeded in gathering in a few are holding them at prices ranging from $20 to $50 a pair.

Six seats were advertised Wednesday for $300, and local brokers are in constant receipt of orders from all parts of the country offering almost any price for tickets.

DEMAREST'S NEW RECORD.

[By Associated Press.]

Chicago, Nov. 17.—Calvin Demarest, the young Chicago billiard player, in practice, hung up a new record yesterday for the 18.2 style of play. He made 312, breaking the best previous mark in practice or competition of 307, made by Willie Hoppe in 1908 at the all-star tournament.

It is announced that Gold Dollar (4), 2:09½, trotted a work-out mile in 2:06 before he was purchased by Mr. George H. Estabrooke, owner of Colorado E. (3), 2:04¾, etc.

Geers, Cox, Murphy, McDonald and McDevitt are the leading money-winning drivers of the year, each having more than $30,000 to his credit.

Performances of Six Trotters Stand Out As Season's Best

During the past racing season some phenomenal trotters appeared, with the result that many new records were made. Brilliant performances featured each meeting of the light harness campaign from Terre Haute to Lexington, making 1910 a red letter year for the light harness sport.

Although there were many trotters who attracted widespread attention at intervals by some gallant victory or the smashing of a record, still there were six others that performed so consistently brilliant that they may be classed as the best of the season's crop of phenoms. Included in this sextet are Dudie Archdale, Joan, Colorado E., Hailworthy, General H. and Billy Burke.

Dudie Archdale was the heaviest money winner. Before the hot weather set in the western trotter was the star of the trotting turf, but as the season progressed she went back. Dudie rallied in the fall, but could not take the measure of her Cleveland rival, Joan, who proved her superiority at Columbus and Lexington. Dudie won $23,759. She started 12 times, was first six times, second five times, and was never worse than third. Her winning heats averaged 2:08 and a fraction, which is some record.

Following are tables showing what the "big six" did the past season.

BASEBALL GOSSIP

The barnstorming Reds returned with each player $170 to the good.

Dode Paskert is angry at being traded to the Phillies, after a good season with the Reds.

Tris Speaker made but four hits off of Athletic pitchers during the regular season, but was the batting star in the series between the All-Stars and Athletics.

Neal Ball, the only American League player to make an unassisted triple play last year with Cleveland, is on the market. Weakness at bat is the cause of his downfall.

Orval Overall, pitcher of the Chicago Cubs, was treated by Bonesetter Reese last week for an injury to his arm. He was treated last summer by Reese for a similar injury.

Heinie Peltz is figuring early on a soft place in which to settle in 1911. He is considering the management of the Youngstown club and an umpiring berth in a Class A league.

Rube Benton can point proudly to the fact that he got a .500 average for what few games he actually pitched this season; also, that his one victory was gained over the mighty Brown.

Ned Kelley, one of the youngest and cleverest of the famous Kelley family of ball players of Scranton, Pa., has signed a contract to play in the outfield on the Scranton team next season.

Wilfred Osborne, released by the Quakers last year, looms up as a real wonder in the Eastern League averages. Many critics declare that Ozzy is big league stuff and was fired too soon.

Ty Cobb is parading through the South like a conquering hero. They certainly like to honor the Georgian "back home." One Atlanta paper runs daily bulletins of the progress of his auto trip.

Cleveland must be considered a good winter town by baseball players, as Fred Falkenberg, Ted Easterly and Trainer Doc Schmieder have decided to stick there until the team starts south next spring.

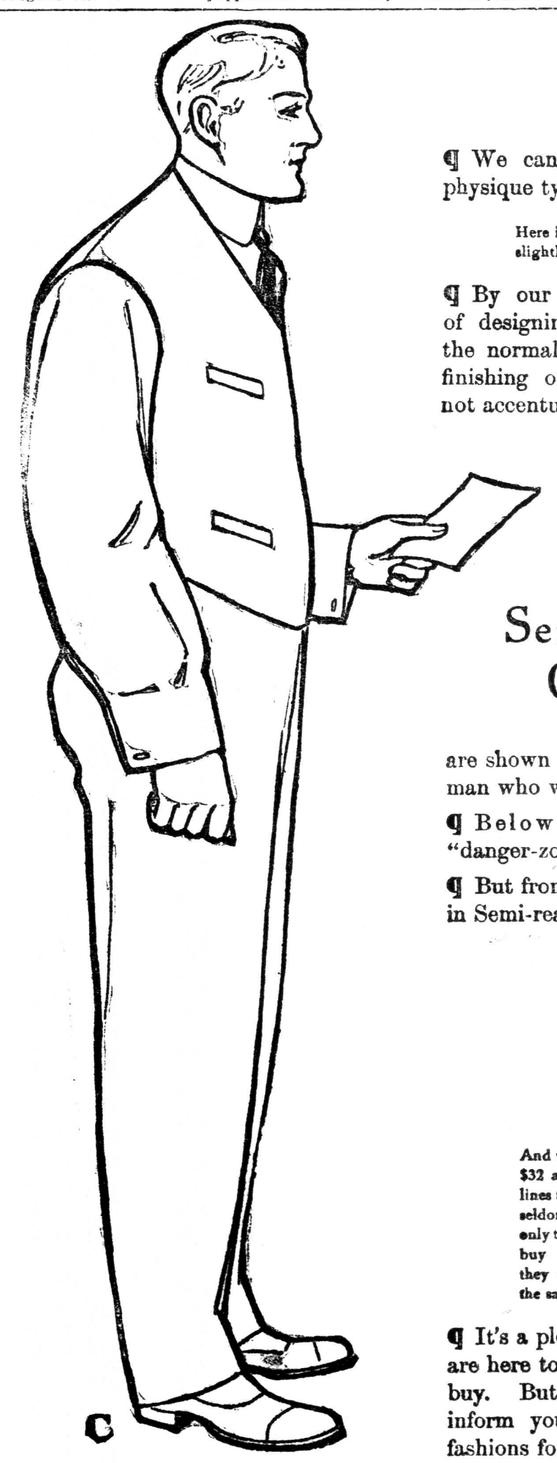

Ned Hanlon kept Muggsy McGraw on the bench three years, turned him loose and McGraw was a wonder. McGraw kept Devore on the bench two seasons, turned him loose and the Giants won the series from the Yanks.

"Red" Dooin can worry along next year as an uncrowned catcher. He has a two years' contract at $5,000 merely to play ball.

Willie Keeler earned his salary easily. In ten times at bat he hit .300 for the Giants.

The majority of the experts are picking the Giants to win the 1911 pennant. A poll of the talent indicates that McGraw's men are November favorites.

Owner Charlie Somers, of the Naps, has signed every one of his players for next year. Some of the men—Lajoie, Stovall, Turner and others—have contracts that have not expired. The other players have signed, so the list is complete.

TOLSTOI ALIVE BUT IN CRITICAL STATE

It Was Reported Many Times That Author Had Died.

[Associated Press.]

Tula, Russia, Nov. 17.—Count Leo Tolstoi was still alive and even said to be slightly improved today. His condition, however, continues critical, and for many hours the symptoms have been such as to give rise to frequent reports that the end has come. Such a report emanated from Moscow last night, and it was some time before its falsity could be established.

Very Restless.

The aged author passed a restless night at the home of the station master at Astapova, to which he was removed when illness seized him, during his attempted pilgrimage from Shamardino to the Caucasus, where he had hoped to end his days in solitude.

His temperature, which was 101 last night, had fallen to 100.42. The inflammation of the lungs was less menacing. On the other hand, the pulse was alarmingly high and intermittent.

The weakness of the heart action was the cause of great anxiety, and the physicians were prepared to resort to the use of hydrogen. The case was aggravated by the condition of the kidneys, which were greatly swollen and inflamed.

Wife Not Admitted.

Countess Tolstoi has not been admitted to the sick chamber, and even the fact of her arrival has been concealed from Tolstoi, lest knowledge of her coming might excite the count. The latter was not pleased when the presence of his son Sergius was made known to him.

When Sergius entered the room and was recognized by his father, Tolstoi was plainly angry, and showed his annoyance by asking:

"Why have you come? How did you know I was here?"

The younger Tolstoi pretended that he had learned his father's whereabouts from a railroad conductor, but the count was not satisfied with the explanation, and left no doubt of his feelings.

SUES FOR FUEL BILL

County of Essex Against Town of Leamington.

Leamington, Nov. 16.—Judge McHugh has completed the hearing of testimony in the suit of the county of Essex against the town of Leamington, and has reserved judgment. The action is to recover $500, the cost of fuel consumed in the House of Refuge here, which, the county council declares, should have been provided by the town free of charge, according to an agreement. It was contended that the county and the town drafted an agreement several years ago whereby the town was to furnish the place with natural gas frou the Leamington gas fields. About a year ago the gas supply gave out, and the town then discontinued supplying the fuel.

MORE APPLICATIONS FOR FIXED ASSESSMENT

Wortman & Ward Ask for $10,000 for Fifteen Years.

Three further applications for fixed assessment will be considered by the council on Monday night.

The latest is from Wortman & Ward, who today asked that their assessment be fixed at $10,000 for fifteen years.

There will also be applications from the London Foundry Company and E. Leonard & Sons.

It is certain that all will be submitted to the people in January.

MR. FIELDING STARTS.

Ottawa, Nov. 16.—Hon. W. S. Fielding left today for Montreal. From there he will proceed to New York, and thence south. Mr. Fielding has not decided just how he will spend six weeks' holiday he has decided on taking, but he will probably travel around a bit. Point Comfort, Virginia, may be his first objective point after New York.

LABOR OFFICIAL KILLED.

Boston, Nov. 17. — Robert Boom, a prominent labor man, and a former president of the Scottish Clans of Boston, is dead at a hospital here, as the result, the police say, of an assault committed upon him at a meeting of the Lathers' Union. Room fell over backwards upon his head, his skull being fractured on striking the floor. No arrests have been made. Room was formerly president and secretary of the Lathers' Union. He was 52 years old.

ALDERMEN ENGAGE IN WORDY BATTLE

Warm Exchange During Discussion Over Account of Fire Department.

The board of works no longer enjoys the distinction of witnessing wordy battles between aldermen, as No. 3 committee last night was the scene of a warm exchange between Ald. Rose and Ald. Ashplant.

The trouble arose over the buying of horses for the fire department. Some time ago the committee passed a resolution favoring the calling of tenders for the purchase of three animals, and authorizing the chief to dispose of two that were unfit for service.

Nothing further was heard of the matter until last night, when accounts for $430 were presented. The money was for two horses.

"When were these horses bought?" asked Ald. Rose. "Who had the authority to purchase them? It should have been sent back to the committee, as we should call for tenders. I am getting tired of this kind of business. This committee must be consulted on matters of this nature, and I am going to register a kick on the way business is being done here. I appear to have been the only member of the committee who was not consulted, and I object to that account being passed. I have been creditably informed that one of the horses is unfit for service, being knuckled on one foot."

"If you would attend more strictly to business you would know more about what is going on," retorted Ald. Ashplant. "When you do come here you do not remain long enough. I think this business demands our best attention, and you have not given it. It is your own fault if you do not know what is going on."

"This committee is a joke," shot back Ald. Rose. "I never saw such incompetence in my life. You wasted hours of our time with motor engines, and you knew that the underwriters would not accept that sort of an engine. How far is this thing going? I am getting sick of it."

The other members of the committee poured oil on the troubled waters, and the debate ended. It is understood the matter will again come up at the council on Monday night.

DISSOLVE PARLIAMENT

in the House of Lords, where it passed its first reading.

Adds to the Gravity.

The extreme liberal papers hint that King George has taken sides with the House of Lords. The Daily News says that the resignation of the cabinet would mean that a monarchial revolution had been added to the revolution of the peers.

The Earl of Crewe, secretary of state for India and Government leader in the House of Lords, announced to [illegible] that the Government would introduce the Lords' [illegible] bill in the House later tonight.

The impress[illegible] at the meeting with Premier Asquith and with the privy councillors, the King suggested that the veto bill be sent in due course to the Upper Chamber for consideration. This probably coincided with Mr. Asquith's personal wishes.

The Earl of Crewe did not place any specific limit as to the length of the debate on the veto bill, but said that the Government later would consider when the second reading of the measure should be taken.

Scores the First Point.

Lord Lansdowne, Opposition leader, scored the first point in the political game and disorganized the Government's original plans for the immediate dissolution of Parliament, though there is nothing tangible to show how long the day may be deferred.

Lord Lansdowne, on moving the invitation of the Government to produce a veto bill for consideration by Parliament, said that the Upper House was ready with its contribution toward a solution of the question at issue. His party, continued Lord Lansdowne, was committed to the view that in a reformed House of Lords there should be a reduction of membership, abolition of the heredity principle, an adequate representation of the best elements of the existing house reinforced from the outside either by nomination or some kind of an election. They also were ready, he said, to devise some means of settling the differences between the two Houses. The Government, he declared, had no right to assume, because the eight front benchers failed to bring about an agreement, that Parliament could not settle these tremendous problems.

The Earl of Crewe declared he did not agree with the belief expressed by Lord Lansdowne yesterday that future conferences might be more successful than the one just opened up, saying: "That conference has conclusively shown it is impossible to settle this question by an agreement."

Check and Checkmate.

London, Nov. 16.—Yesterday Lord Lansdowne called "check" to the Government. Today the Government got out of the difficulty, and replied with "checkmate." In the House of Lords, Lord Crewe, responding to Lord Lansdowne's polite demand for the Parliament bill, promised it on "take-it-or-leave-it" terms. The Government was "willing and anxious to put the bill down for discussion, but we are not prepared to accept any amendment on it."

Reform of Upper House.

Lord Lansdowne said this was reducing the thing to a farce. He claimed that because the veto conference had failed it was no reason why Parliament should be deprived of the opportunity of dealing with these tremendous problems. Lord Lansdowne declared emphatically for the reform of the upper House. He said it should be reduced in numbers, and no peer should sit purely by hereditary right. The House should be reinforced from outside by nomination or election. The House of Commons should be reasonably supreme in finance.

Lord Crewe wished an early date for the second reading of the Parliament bill. Lord Lansdowne replied that if no suggestions for the improvement of the bill would be accepted, perhaps no great advantage would accrue from its discussion. He would confer with friends on the point. Eventually the bill was read a first time, and it was decided to discuss Lord Rosebery's reform resolutions tomorrow.

The date now fixed for dissolution is the 25th. Mr. Asquith's statement on Friday is awaited with intense interest.

FORMAL OPENING

Rod announced to his excellency the obvious fact that the Commons had loyally responded to his summons, and were inattendance, waiting for his official message.

Formal Opening.

Earl Grey read his message from the throne and then the session was declared open.

The speech having been delivered the Commoners retired to their chamber, and the setting of the picture in the senate chamber dissolved into a mingling of pretty and handsomely-gowned women with senators, and a few lingering members of the Commons who had been unable to tear themselves away. After ten minutes the last of the strangers had disappeared from the floor of the senate chamber and a bare quorum of senators were called to order and the sitting declared open.

Sir Richard Cartwright went through the formality of introducing the traditional bill relating to railroads which is always done before the consideration of the address is undertaken to assert the right of the lawmakers to take up the business of the people before that of the King.

Then the sitting was declared adjourned and the senators who had stuck to their post left to join the throng in Mr. Speaker's quarters, where there was refreshment for all.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier.

In the Commons, Sir Wilfrid appeared in civilian garb shortly after the return of the members from the senate chamber, and was cheered to the echo by his followers as he took his seat. He introduced a formal bill respecting "oaths of office" to maintain the right of the Commoners to do their own business before that of anyone else, and after some further formalities the sitting adjourned.

Mr. Speaker and Madame Marcil held a reception for the Commoners on their side of the building.

Formal Opening.

Earl Grey read his speech in both French and English. The message from the throne was as follows:

"Gentlemen of the House of Commons:

"When I prorogued Parliament in the month of May last, I was about completing the term usually allotted to the office of governor-general, but it has pleased his majesty, King George V., to continue his representation in Canada, and therefore it is my pleasure again to greet you at the opening of this new session.

"I meet you under the shadow of the calamity which has befallen this country and the whole British Empire, in the demise of our beloved sovereign King Edward VII. His death is mourned, not only by his subjects the world over, but also by all civilized nations who had learned to appreciate the many gifts and qualities which had earned for him the name of peacemaker, by which he will be known in history. It is with great pleasure that I congratulate you on the ever-growing prosperity of this favored land. Trade and commerce are advancing in all directions with rapid strides. The total volume of imports and exports far exceeds all previous records, and the growth of our industries and international trade keeps pace with the development of our external commerce.

Western Outlook.

"Whilst in certain of the nine western provinces the crops did not realize the sanguine expectations which had been formed in the early spring, yet the total yield was reasonably satisfactory, and the eastern provinces in this regard have been more than ordinarily blessed. The condition now existing over the whole country conclusively demonstrates that even with lesser production at some points, the vastness and variety of our resources ensure at all times a high degree of progress for the whole country.

"Negotiations for the acquisition from the admiralty of the two cruisers, Niobe and Rainbow, have been carried on with his majesty's Government, and the two ships have now arrived and are stationed in Canadian waters, in pursuance of the policy adopted last session for the creation of a naval service.

Hague Tribunal.

"The Hague Tribunal, to which was referred the controversy between Great Britain and the United States with reference to fisheries in Canadian and Newfoundland waters, has given a decision which has been accomplished by all parties interested as a fair and equitable adjustment of this long-pending dispute. The result is gratifying, inasmuch as it will tend not only to promote peace and friendship between us and our neighbors, but also to further the practice of settling international questions by means of arbitration.

"Marked progress is being made in the construction of the National Transcontinental Railway, and a large quantity of grain is this season finding an outlet from the west to the Great Lakes over this new highway. It is hoped that ere long a satisfactory arrangement can be made for the operation of the finished portions of the line, pending the completion of the road from Moncton to Winnipeg.

Hudson Bay Line.

The construction of a line of railway to Hudson Bay, which has occupied the attention of the people for many years, has assumed practical shape. Already a contract has been awarded for the construction of a bridge forming part of this railway across the Saskatchewan River at Pas Mission, and the work is now in progress. During the present session a measure will be laid before you providing for the prosecution and completion of this work with all possible speed.

Quebec Bridge.

"The connection of the great west with the eastern portions of Canada, and also with the overseas markets by this new rail and ocean route, will not only open upon a new section of Canada, but will greatly assist in the development of trade, and thus benefit both producers and consumers.

"The construction of the bridge across the St. Lawrence River at Quebec, the largest work of its kind ever undertaken, has been receiving the careful attention of my Government, and the utmost care is being observed so that success may be assured. The substructure is now under contract. Tenders for the erection of the superstructure have been received from four responsible companies, and are now being considered.

"It is expected that the contract will shortly be awarded, and the work pushed forward to completion.

"While recognizing the importance of the Canadian home trade, and the great value of the market for our staples in the United Kingdom, my Government feel that they should avail themselves of every opportunity to promote friendly commercial relations with the British colonies and foreign countries, so that our surplus may be admitted into the markets of those countries on the most favorable terms.

"In pursuance of this policy, commercial arrangements involving reductions of our customs duties have been made with Italy and Belgium, and a reduced schedule of duties has been granted to the Netherlands.

"The desirability of more equitable tariff arrangements between the United States and Canada has long been felt on this side of the border. The commercial policy of the republic has not hitherto favored imports from Canada. We have bought largely from the United States, but they have bought much less from us in return. It is gratifying to find that a more liberal policy is now favored by the neighboring country, and that the Government at Washington express a desire to establish better trade relations with the Dominion. Following the negotiations which took place some months ago between the President of the United States and the Government, the results of which were at the time communicated to Parliament, a further conference between representatives of the two countries has been held at Ottawa. While no conclusions have been reached, and no formal proposals made, the free discussion of the subject that has taken place encourages my Government to hope that at an early date, without any sacrifice of Canada's interests, arrangements may be made which will admit many of the products of the Dominion into the United States on satisfactory terms.

Trade Conditions.

"A very careful inquiry into the conditions of trade and transportation between the British West Indies and Canada has been held by a royal commission, appointed by his late majesty, including among its members two of my ministers. The report of the commission will be laid before you. In view of the imperial conference on copyright at which unanimous conclusions were reached in favor of harmonious legislation on this subject throughout the Empire, a bill to revise and consolidate the law on copyright will be submitted to you.

"A measure will be submitted to you in furtherance of the provisions of the treaty passed with the United States on the subject of contiguous waters.

"Bills will also be introduced respecting banks and banking, terminal elevators at the head of Lake Superior, and with regard to the investigation and betterment of industrial and labor conditions and other subjects.

"Gentlemen of the House of Commons:

"The accounts of the last year will be laid before you.

"The estimates for the coming fiscal year will be submitted for your approval at an early date.

"Hon. Gentlemen of the Senate:

"Gentlemen of the House of Commons:

"These important subjects and all matters affecting the public interest I commend to your best consideration, and pray that Divine Providence may guide your deliberations."

MULATTO WOMAN SENT TO MERCER

Will Serve a Year For Robbing Man and Then Be Deported.

Magistrate Love this morning sentenced Mrs. Minnie Smith (colored), of Buffalo, to one year in Mercer Reformatory for stealing $65 from a chance acquaintance on Fullarton street. On the testimony of the man she victimized, Mrs. Smith enticed him into an alley, and after throwing her arms affectionately around him, removed a roll of bills from his pocket, substituting a wad of paper. In sentencing the prisoner, Magistrate Love lectured her severely for her previous course of life. The prisoner pleaded for "one more chance for her mother's sake," the latter having come all the way from Buffalo to beg for leniency. She broke down, weeping when her daughter was sentenced. Walter Smith, the young woman's husband, has already been departed, and Mrs. Smith will follow when her term in the Mercer is concluded.

Dr. Frank Bateman, of Strathroy, through his solicitor, has issued a writ against the County of Middlesex for unstated damages for injuries received while driving on a county road near his home town some time ago. The doctor drove into this in the dark and was thrown out of his rig.

SEVERE SENTENCE.

Prince Albert, Nov. 16.—Ex-Sergeant Mountford, of the Mounted Police, whose arrest on the charge of stealing Government funds caused a sensation here several weeks ago, was sentenced by Judge Forbes to three years in the penitentiary. Owing to the fact that all the money stolen from the Government, for which Mountford was veterinary inspector, had been refunded, amounting to over $5,000, the sentence was much lighter than it would have been. Albert Morgan, a confederate, got a similar sentence.

CHARGE OF FRAUD

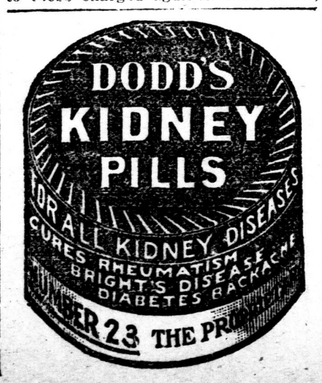

Huron County Men Are After Snowplow Company.

Toronto, Nov. 16.—Alleging fraud and misrepresentation on the part of the International Snowplow Company, of Oklahoma, in which they purchased stock, Thomas Simpson, farmer, of Huron County, and two other farmers, named Rogers and Hackwell, are appealing to the division court against a decision of Mr. Justice Riddell, which they do not regard as coinciding with their own ideas of justice. The case is a test to ascertain whether the 600 other signers of notes to the company are liable for payment. The notes are held by the Bank of Commerce.

It is said that stock amounting to at least $54,000 was sold for cash or notes in Ontario. The defendants claim that the company's prospectus predicted big shops in Ontario. They allege that only one plow, a sample, was made, and that no shops were built, as promised.

BIG HAY MARKET THIS MORNING

Oats and Dressed Hogs Also in Large Quantities.

WHEAT AND BARLEY UP

Butter, Eggs, Poultry and Fruite Prices Remain Unchanged.

Judging from the heavy loads on the market this morning, the country roads are becoming more navigable. Large quantities of hay, oats and dressed hogs were brought in.

In all there were about 25 loads of hay, and although the quality was good, the prices were not affected. The majority went for $13 25 per ton, with a few at $13 50, and some lower grades selling at $13. The demand was good, buyers evidently wanting to stock up before the price takes another jump. All were sold before 11 o'clock.

Oats were very much in evidence, about 22 loads being on the square. The prices, however, suffered a reduction, and the best loads only brought $1 05 per cwt. The quality was extra good, and the demand splendid. The price ranges from $1 to $1 05 per cwt.

Dressed hogs were plentiful, several large loads being in evidence. The price this morning was a little firmer, if anything, the majority of hogs selling at $9 50 per cwt. The demand was a little slow.

The vegetable market was fair, with very little of any particular line being offered. Celery, cabbages, onions and a few loads of potatoes were most prominent. The prices are steady, however, and the demand is a little dull.

Wheat is becoming so scarce on the market that a load today brought a higher price than has been paid for some time. The load was of very good quality and was finally sold for 87c per bushel. A load of barley brought $1 10 per cwt.

Butter, eggs and poultry prices are unchanged. Eggs are still scarce, while butter promises an easing up in the price as does poultry.

Fruit prices are unchanged.

WALL STREET

[From Charles Head & Co., by Private Wire, to J. J. Tearney.]

New York, Nov. 17.—Noon Letter.—Price movements were extremely wide and mostly took the shape of severe losses during the forenoon. Buying came from high banking interests, and there was evidence of stubborn support whenever heavy selling orders appeared. Board-room reasons for the early selling included the prominence given to the situation on the Mexican frontier. The political situation in London, and assertions that active operators on the bull side made efforts to reduce their lines of long stock. London was a moderate buyer at the low levels, and both selling and buying orders came from the continent. In the late forenoon a steadier tone developed.

The Price Current says there is very little news in the crop situation, the new wheat crop generally continues in excellent position, and there appears to be continued indications of some increase in the acreage sown as compared with last year. The fall season has been unusually favorable for gathering, husking and cribbing the corn-crop. There is not much grain offered in the interior.

Liverpool, Nov. 17.—Wheat opened weak on American cables and rain in Argentina.

New York, Nov. 17.—Our Chicago wires, wheat seems strong here, and I would operate on the expectation of higher prices. I see no change in the corn situation. The best buying is by people who must have the cash corn, and they are obliged to pay good round premiums for it.

[From Charles Head & Co., by Private Wire, to J. J. Tearney.]

New York, Nov. 17, 10 a.m.—London shows small improvement, though this does not indicate that the local market will not advance further. The manipulation that finds tacit support from Morgan and with money less of a factor, the rise may be forced at the expense of the bears, who continue to fight for a good break. The news furnishes nothing to materially depress values, being even negative. Good steel centres are reporting more inquiry for rails and equipment, though the aggregate is hardly up to normal for this time of the year. Railroads are disposed to wait for the interstate commerce commission to take action upon their application for an increase in rates before spreading out in expenditures, and the decision in this matter may be some months. Paris, it is said, is much more favorable to listing Union Pacific than Steel, but report persists that the stocks will be traded in upon the bourse next year. Comment is heard relative to the new policy inaugurated by the administration by Secretary Wickersham, who says that in the future the officials of offending corporations will be sent to jail rather than fined, which is a complete reversal of the Roosevelt idea. Abroad it is still thought that the English elections will be held soon, which tends to keep business quiet, though the speculation may turn to our stocks in the interim. The control of the market here appears to be in capable hands, and higher prices seems assured, but we would not ignore fair profits.

The market is solely and absolutely controlled by manipulation. There may be a broadening of movement today, purchases on small recessions seem best to us.

The trend of Union Pacific, R. D. G., Southern Pacific are still upward, and may go higher today. Louisville and Southern Railway stocks are bought quietly on recessions, Rock Island may do better any time. C. and O. should be bought on every reaction. The listing of Lehigh means higher prices for this stock.

NEW YORK, Nov. 17—Wall street—Opening prices of stocks declined somewhat precipitately for the most active issues on light dealings, while there was a sprinkling of gains in stocks of minor importance. Thirty-five shares of Union Pacific sold at 177⅝ and 177, compared with 178⅝ last night. Great Northern, preferred, and Sears-Roebuck declined 1½, Interboro-Metropolitan 1⅜, St. Paul ¼, Amalgamated Copper and American Smelting 1, and Northern Pacific, Southern Pacific, New York Central, Reading and United States Steel large fractions. Pacific Telephone advanced a point and Kansas and Texas ¾.

NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—(Noon)—Money on call easier at 3 per cent. Prime mercantile paper, 5½ to 6 per cent; exchanges, $319,285,804. Balances, $12,540,504.

ASSAULT CASE HEARD BEHIND CLOSED DOORS

The Trial of McGurk and Dart in Progress Today.

The case against Henry McGurk and Howard Dart, the men who are charged with indecently assaulting two little girls of 9 years, and photographing them in a nude condition in a bush near McGurk's home in Westminster on the afternoon of Nov. 1, commenced this morning before County Judge Macbeth, who heard evidence until noon, and adjourned until 2:15 this afternoon.

The evidence was taken behind closed doors, one of the little girls being on the stand for an hour before adjournment was made. She told of being called for at the school by Dart's younger brother, who escorted her with her little companion to McGurk's home across the river in Westminster.

The younger Dart was then given half a dollar to go away and pick potatoes while his brother, aged about 16, and McGurk, a man of 35, took them into the woods where the offences occurred.

The maximum term under the law is two years, but the lash may be ordered by the judge should a conviction be made.

The witnesses include Dart's brother the two little girls, High Constable Hughes, and Constable Alex. Shaver, who made the arrests; Miss Fox, teacher at the school on Hamilton road east of the city; Mr. Webb, who testified before Squire Chittick some days ago when the men were committed, and others. Crown Attorney McKillop is conducting the prosecution. Mr. W. R. Meredith is acting for Dart, and Mr. R. K. Cowan for McGurk.

At the commencement of the case, Mr. Cowan asked to be allowed to submit the document by which he was retained in McGurk's behalf. It was a letter from McGurk's mother, in which she stated that although she has no money, she would like him to act for her son. Although Mr. Cowan's prospects for monetary gain are slight, he was informed that he would be rewarded by blessings from above.

DEAD "GYPSY QUEEN" ONCE CAMPED HERE

Beautiful Society Girl Who Eloped With Leader Says She Was Kidnapped.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Detroit, Nov. 17.—It was with absorbing interest that several residents of Windsor read of the death of Jessie Habersham Michelle, the Baltimore society beauty, who as a girl just leaving her 'teens, forsook a brilliant social future to elope with the leader of a gypsy band.

The girl died in a Cincinnati hospital Monday, deserted by the wild band with which she had travelled for five years, and as she died she gasped her story to the sister at her bedside, telling that she was kidnapped from the home of her millionaire father, and that she had been forced by the gypsy king to lead the life she did.

Her father, A. W. Habersham, spent a fortune seeking her, and it was said that she refused to quit the life of a gypsy, that she loved them and their open-air existence. On her death-bed she said she had been hypnotized, that she longed to return to the luxury of her father's home, but that she was held thrall by the gypsy master.

John Michell, leader of the band with whom she travelled as a gypsy "queen," is well known in Windsor. His band was there two years ago, and he got into trouble with the police over his sharp practices. He was finally ordered to leave town, Chief Wills tiring of the complaints against him. From Windsor he came to Detroit, and after remaining here awhile—near the State Fair grounds—he drifted to St. Louis.

"I don't remember any white girl being with the band," says Chief Wills, of Windsor, "but I didn't pay any particular attention. In fact, I don't remember ever having seen any of the women. Michelle was the one I talked with."

The girl was well known in exclusive Maryland society for her beauty and because of her family connections. She was the great-grand-daughter of Francis Scott Key, the man who wrote "The Star-Spangled Banner." She married her gypsy lover, and it was not until her death that her people ever knew positively that the life she was leading was not of her own choice.

The "gypsy queen" mentioned in the above dispatch is believed to be a young woman who, in company with about forty others, camped on the outskirts of this city in July of 1909.

The gypsy band was first located on the river bank at the south end of Maitland street, and later went to a field near Broughdale. Residents of the neighborhood objected, and the police ordered the party away.

Hundreds of people visited the camps, and spoke with the girl, who told a story of leaving her home and wealthy parents in the States. She appeared to be very well educated, but by the majority of her auditors her story was set down as the regular stock-in-trade of gypsies. However, the death of the young woman in Cincinnati has revived the story here, and many take the dispatches from that city as a verification of the strange tale told by the "gypsy queen."

OWNERLESS OVERCOAT

May Result in Charge of Theft Being Made.

Jere Brown, drunk, appeared in the police court this morning and was remanded for one week, when a more serious charge may be preferred against him. The police are now searching for the owner of an overcoat which he disposed of for $1.25, but which is worth about $20. He is unable to satisfactorily explain how he obtained it. It is a heavy grey cloth coat, with zigzag markings, and the pockets are attached outside the cloth. There are four pearl buttons on the front and three smaller buttons on each sleeve. Another overcoat is also held by the police awaiting an owner. It was found hanging on a fence in West London, along with a new fancy shirt.

CLAIM THEY DIDN'T ASSAULT CONDUCTOR

Five Young Men on Trial, Charged With Disorderliness.

J. Miller, of St. Thomas, and Samuel Miller, Hugh McDowell, William McDowell and John Henry, of London, were charged in the police court this morning on information laid by Superintendent Young of the London Street Railway Company, with assaulting a conductor on an Oxford street car, and damaging the car to the extent of five dollars in value, on the night of Nov. 5. Hugh McDowell admitted breaking several car windows, but the young men all pleaded not guilty to the charge of assaulting the conductor. Lengthy evidence was produced by both sides, and the case was continued this afternoon. The trouble originated over the collecting of fares, and the defendants are alleged to have roughly handled the conductor at the end of the line on Adelaide street, until the motorman came to his assistance.

HYDE PARK SPARROWS FALL BY THOUSANDS

Unique Method of Wiping Them Out Meets With Great Success.

An interesting scheme suggested some time ago by Mr. Routledge, of Hyde Park, for the extermination of sparrows in that district, was proven to be very efficient at the close of a contest last evening between two teams, when the captains brought in a total of 3,970 birds.

The winning team was headed by Mr. John Armstrong, who exhibited 2,334 corpses, while the loser, Captain Dan Sloan, had a pile of 1,636. Mr. Sloan's men will now give an oyster supper on Nov. 29 at the Hyde Park hall. This will be followed by a dance.

Each captain was supported by a team of 37 men, who worked for one week. The work was carried on chiefly at night, parties invading the haunts of the birds after dark with lanterns. When the birds were aroused they invariably flew for the lights, and were easily captured. Some of the men returned over 600 birds.

"When I want to quit, I will do it in the regular way," said Mr. Carruthers. "There will be no threatening or anything of that sort."

Mrs. T. B. Brown, of 828 Queen's avenue, was very painfully injured yesterday. While washing some clothes a large needle, which had been hidden in the cloth, was forced into her hand and worked its way in until invisible. A physician was called but was not able to locate it until the X-ray was used. The needle was then successfully removed. Mrs. Brown will be laid up for several days.

Crystal Hall Case.

The case of Earle vs. Reid, an echo of the Crystal Hall disaster of 1907, when seven people were killed and a number hurt, was to have been heard before the court of appeals at Toronto this morning, but has been postponed for another week. Miss Earle received a judgment for $500 at the local assize court, but the defendants carried the matter to the division court where the verdict was sustained. The matter was then carried on to the court of appeals, and will be decided there next week. Mr. J. F. Faulds, of this city, is acting for the plaintiff.

A Gypsy Fete.

The gypsy fete in aid of the Victoria Order of Nurses to be given on Friday, Nov. 18, in St. John's Athletic Clubhouse, deserves the liberal patronage of citizens. The Victorian Order is eminently worthy of support. The nurse makes upwards of 1,400 visits annually. Her services are greatly appreciated in homes where skilled nursing would be otherwise unattainable. The cost of the work annually is between eight and nine hundred dollars for one nurse; part of this sum is paid by those needing transient services who are able and willing to pay a reasonable fee and this helps the work of the order. The board of management of the Victoria Order will provide dainty refreshments at the fete, which will be rather unique in character. A bright, merry time is expected and amusement will be found by all. An interesting promenade concert has been arranged, and pretty and useful articles will be on sale in the tents; also candies and flowers.

The Students Explain.

A number of the first and second year students of the school were interviewed by The Advertiser this morning. They emphatically stated that while there had been some good-natured hurly-burly between the lectures, in which certain students were ejected through the windows, there was no initiation, and no intentional violation of the pledge and promises made by the young men to the faculty when they began the fall term.

Much regret was expressed that the faculty had seen fit to suspend the first and second year men, but the opinion was expressed that an investigation will show that there was no violation of the agreement entered into between the students and the governing body of the school.

The scuffling and jostling were in good humor, and the whole affair was, as one of the students put it, simply an outburst of the spirit of fun and animal feelings of a hundred or more of strong, healthy, vigorous young men. They had no intention of doing anything wrong, and are sincerely sorry that they gave offence to the faculty. They have sent a letter to this effect to the registrar.

EAST LONDON NEWS

EAST END FACTORIES AND CARTAGE RATES

Companies and Railways Arranging to Settle the Differences.

It is likely that the east end manufacturers who are located outside the city limits and the cartage companies will soon reach an agreement over rates. The manufacturers threatened to take the matter to the railway commission, but the cartage companies and the local railway officials have arranged to settle the matter. The railway people have a contract with the cartage companies that states they are to collect and deliver freight only in the city limits, but as the manufacturers in London East, that are outside, are not as far from the freight sheds as some of the factories that are inside the limits, an effort is being made to extend the area.

The subject of the lecture was "A Trip Through the British Isles," and Mr. Abberley took his hearers to all the interesting and historical places in England, Ireland and Scotland. The lecture was illustrated by some splendid stereopticon views, especially those of Windsor Castle, Oxford University, Westminster Abbey, and Killarney.

Miss V. Buckenham, of King street, has been seriously ill, but is slowing signs of improvement.

A call has been extended to Rev. W. L. Steeves, of Wingham, by the congregation of Egerton Street Baptist Church. The pulpit of this church was lately occupied by Rev. A. J. Bowen, who is now in Blenheim, and since his departure the congregation have been casting about for a suitable pastor to take his place, with the result that Mr Steeves has been invited.

Mr. George Tupholme, 543 Hamilton road, one of the deacons of Egerton Street Church, stated, that although the call had been sent to Mr. Steeves a reply had not been received yet, but is expected any time. He could not state anything further than this.

any nation in the world's history."

Mr. McArthur dealt at some length with the privations endured by the pioneers in the early days.

"I wrote to many prominent Canadians asking why they were proud to be Canadians. I wrote to correspondents, and every person from whom I thought I might obtain some light. I received many responses, with many reasons why they were proud of this country. The one that came closest to my idea was from an old lady, whom I had never met. It is as follows: 'My love for Canada is bound up with my respect for the commandment, "Honor thy father and thy mother." They came to this land and hewed their homes out here, and are at rest in this land. I pray that my days may be long in this land.'

"That is the foundation of our loyalty—our love for these strong, rough men and women who laid the foundations of our homes.

"If I am loyal to the empire it is because of these home-hungry, God-compelled men, who came to this land to make homes for themselves

The Quickest, Simplest Cough Cure
Easily and Cheaply Made at Home. Saves You $2.

This recipe makes 16 ounces of cough syrup—enough to last a family a long time. You couldn't buy as much or as good syrup for $2.50.

Simple as it is, it gives almost instant relief, and usually stops the most obstinate cough in 24 hours. This is partly due to the fact that it is slightly laxative, stimulates the appetite, and has an excellent tonic effect. It is pleasant to take—children like it. An excellent remedy, too, for whooping cough, sore lungs, asthma, throat troubles, etc.

Mix 2 cups of granulated sugar with 1 cup of warm water, and stir for 2 minutes. Put 2½ ounces of Pinex (50 cents' worth) in a 16-ounce bottle, and add the Sugar Syrup. It keeps perfectly. Take a teaspoonful every one, two or three hours.

Pine is one of the oldest and best-known remedial agents for the throat membranes. Pinex is the most valuable concentrated compound of Norway white pine extract, and is rich in guiaicol and all the other natural healing elements. Other preparations will not work in this formula.

The prompt results from this recipe have endeared it to thousands of housewives in the United States and Canada, which explains why the plan has been imitated often, but never successfully.

A guarantee of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this recipe. Your druggist has Pinex or will get it for you. If not, send to the Pinex Company, Toronto, Ont.

CORRESPONDENCE

The German Bogey Again.

To the Editor of The Advertiser:

Mr. Daly takes me to task for characterizing Captain Wolley's address as arrogantly imperialistic and the like. At the same time my critic admits that he did not hear the address. Well, I did hear it, and it is just possible, at least, that I am better qualified to describe it than a person who did not hear it. Of course, Mr. Daly may say that he read the press reports. But these reports were not very full, and I noticed that some of Captain Wolley's wildest statements were not given in them. There was, for instance, that quite characteristic remark of the captain's, that "the other nations of the world have got to come to heel and do as we tell them." I notice that Mr. Daly doesn't attempt to justify that firebrand utterance, though he attacks me for condemning it.

Mr. Daly's support of Captain Wolley rests fundamentally upon two assumptions, both of which are purely gratuitous. In the first place he professes to describe the relative attitudes of Britain and Germany today as follows: "A man—a possible robber and bandit—points a loaded double-barreled gun at your heart and offers some kind of flimsy excuse for so doing." I submit that this is absolutely unfair and an entire begging of the question. Mr. Daly has no more right to make such charges against Germany than a German would have to make them against Britain. It is the notorious practice, the world over, from the beginning of time until now, for people to declare the entire righteousness of their own cause and to picture every action of the foreign nations, even the most innocent, in the blackest colors.

Mr. Daly's other gratuitous assumption is that Germany is dangerous because the British lords of the admiralty, and "the statesmen of France, Russia and Great Britain" have virtually declared her to be so. In the first place this is an exaggeration of the facts in the case. Quite a respectable number of statesmen of Britain and France have declared that the German scare is utterly unjustifiable, and has been largely created by professional militarists or by political and other fortune hunters for their own selfish ends. And even if the majority of British statesmen really believed that the scare is justifiable, that would by no means prove that it is so. There is good, old authority for the statement that "Great men are not always wise." History is full of tales of disaster and horror unnecessarily brought on nations by the bad judgment of their leading statesmen. Take two typical cases, one from ancient history, one from modern. In the year B. C. 418, Alcibiades and the other leading statesmen of Athens, then at the height of her maritime imperial power, induced his state to accept an opportunity of making war upon the state of Syracuse, with the ultimate purpose of extending the Athenian Empire over the republic of Carthage and all its dependencies in the Western Mediterranean. The final outcome of this ambitious imperial enterprise was the entire destruction of the maritime power of Athens and her reduction to the rank of a minor state. The Athenian, Nicias, had opposed this expedition, but as he was not a leading statesman his opinion was not regarded. Nevertheless he happened to be right.

Again, in the middle of the last century, the leading statesmen of England, taking exactly the same attitude toward Russia as some British statesmen are now taking towards Germany, and supported also by some leading statesmen of France, brought on the most inglorious Crimean war. John Bright opposed that war, but he was not yet a leading statesman, and his opinion was desregarded. But he also happened to be right. The leading statesmen who brought on the war afterwards came to acknowledge their error. Lord Salisbury voiced their later and better judgment when he said, "We laid our money on the wrong horse," that is, in supporting Turkey against Russia. The hindsight of these imperialistic gentlemen was better than their foresight. But the tardy arrival of wisdom to these leading statesmen did not bring back to life and their homes and families the hundreds of thousands of men whose bones lay bleaching on the Crimean battlefields.

Oh, no my courteous critic, you cannot prove that a hostile attitude towards another nation is quite justifiable on the ground that some of our leading statesmen approve of it. They are but men, as the rest of us are. And not only are they liable to go astray in their judgments, but often they feel compelled by a wildly excited, though unreasoning public, to take warlike measures that their private judgment utterly condemns. That was the attitude of President McKinley and other leading American statesmen at the outbreak of the Spanish-American war, and similar conditions to some extent explain the attitude of some British statesmen today.

But who is so foolish today as to attempt to justify either the Russian war or the Spanish-American war, on the ground that leading statesmen approved of it?

Mr. Daly seems to have a feeling that the Ruler of the Universe is a sort of tutelar divinity of British imperialists, and looks with approval on their arrogant pretensions. That attitude is quite Wolleyesque and Kiplingesque also, as see the first four lines of "Recessional," but the idea of a tribal god who is specially interested in the military and naval exploits of the British nation is a little too primitive, as I hope, for most Canadians.

Sincerely yours, CENSOR.

MOON WAS ECLIPSED BUT NOBODY SAW HER

Observations Locally Handicapped by the Overcast Skies.

The total eclipse of the moon, scheduled for last night, was not plainly visible to Londoners. The stars were also invisible until a late hour, and had it not been for the electric lights London would have been left in inky darkness. The moon entered the shadow at 5:44 p.m., the total eclipse began at 6:55, and ended at 7:47, the moon leaving the shadow at 8:58. The moon's diameter being 1, the magnitude of the eclipse was 1,131.

Unique Representation.

Stratford Beacon: A St. Thomas man has rather a unique idea on the subject of election of members of the city council. He thinks that every ratepayer ought to have a seat in turn, and in order to obtain this would take them alphabetically as their names appear on the voters' list. Truth compels the conclusion that probably quite as good a choice would be got in this way in most cities and towns as by the present method. It would take a long time, however, to give everybody a turn with upwards of 3,000 names on a list, as is the case in St. Thomas and Stratford.

Leading Lawyer Very Indignant Over Alleged Action of Trust.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 16.—Attorney-General Wickersham today exhibited indignation at published announcements that the Imperial Window Glass Company, of Pittsburg, popularly known as the "Window Glass Trust," intends to cut the wages of 600 to 700 employees 30 per cent as a result of the fines which a federal court recently imposed upon the corporation, its officers and directors.

The Attorney-General confessed his disappointment at the small amount of fines imposed. One of the results of the court's action is that Mr. Wickersham is convinced that the breaking up of alleged criminal trusts must be accomplished through actual jail sentences rather than fines, and the department, it is declared, will work for that end in the future.

There is no way known to the department, Mr. Wickersham said, by which the corporation could be stopped from cutting the wages of its employees and attributing its action to the Government's prosecution, but Mr. Wickersham intimated that facts in his possession offered opportunity to proceed against some of the directors at another time.

ARE PAYING UP

Many Ontario Bank Shareholders Are Responding to Call Made.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Toronto, Nov. 17.—While Ontario Bank shareholders are not compelled to remit their double liability contributions until Dec. 1, some have paid already.

If the entire 95 per cent call were collected in full, the liquidator would receive about $1,200,000, but a proportion of the shareholders may not be able to pay, and, after all, the total available may not exceed the deficit, approximately $800,000.

WANT BYLAWS CHANGED

Serious Tangle at Amherstburg Over Separate School Rates.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Toronto, Nov. 17.—The matter of the repeal of Amherstburg school laws was laid over when it came up before Chief Justice Meredith at Osgoode Hall yesterday.

F. E. Hodgins, K. C., on behalf of the Roman Catholic separate school board of Amherstburg, and J. J. Ryan, sought to have declared invalid certain bylaws of the town of Amherstburg and of the county of Essex. These result in separate school supporters being assessed for a continuation school in the county in the past year, while they are paying taxes for continuation classes in the separate school.

Mr. Ryan stated afterawrds that the taking over of the equipment would not be a satisfactory solution of the matter. "We intend to have our own school if we have to pay for both," he declared.

SOLD BAD FOOD

Investigation in New York Reveals Many Startling Conditions.

[Associated Press.]

New York, Nov. 16.—Meat, so badly decayed that it has to be sprayed with sulphurous acid to conceal its condition, is being sold daily to the public, according to disclosures made by the municipal authorities' investigation into general food conditions here. Candy that has been treated with sulphurous acid to prevent stickiness, is sold to children, it was also developed.

The office of the commissioner of accounts is making the investigation, and a general cleaning-up is also being made of unclean bakeries and chicken slaughter houses. Investigation of bakeries shows that in over 50 concerns rotten eggs were used in the making of all kinds of cakes. Many of the eggs, known as "rots and spots," are brought from Philadelphia, where a strict enforcement of the law prevents their sale.
