Forest Fires Again Sweeping Over Northern Ontario

MORE FACTORY WORKERS FAVOR MISS ARMSTRONG AND PROMISE SUPPORT

London Liberalism's Woman Standard-Bearer Plunges Into the Second Day of Her Whirlwind Campaign—Addresses Large Meeting in McClary's Factory at Noon.

OTHER CANDIDATES ALSO SPEAK AT NOON

Plunging into the thick of the fray with the utmost zeal yesterday, all four local candidates continued their vote-getting efforts with renewed energy today.

Following her triumphal addresses before the workers of London Monday, Miss Isabel C. Armstrong, the Liberal candidate, visited McClary's up-town factory at noon today, and was accorded a reception which vied for enthusiasm with any seen in this city during the campaign.

The woman candidate's facility of expression, combined with the merit of her platform, drew rounds of applause from the men who listened to her at noon hour. By reason of the sound logic of her arguments and ultra-progressive nature of her appeal, the Liberal candidate makes a direct and effective impression wherever she is heard.

Many congratulations. The Liberal Torch-bearer's entry into the field brought telegrams of congratulation from all parts of the country. The editor of the Regina Leader, a newspaper on which she was formerly employed, wired words of encouragement and felicitations yesterday. Wellington Hay, the Liberal leader, but his stamp of approval on Miss Armstrong's candidacy when he sent her a telegram this morning expressing admiration for her pluck and predicting victory for her on June 25.

Sir Adam Beck, Dr. Hugh Stevenson, M.L.A., and J. M. Donahue went the rounds at noon hour and spoke before the workers in several of the city's largest industries. Sir Adam asked the men of McCormick's for their support, while Mr. Donahue outlined his platform before the employees at McClary's. Dr. Stevenson is a believer in killing a number of birds with a single stone. He reviewed his activities in the legislature before the workers of the Columbia Handicraft Works, the bridge department of the maintenance of way shops and spoke a few words in the lunchrooms of factories located near the corner of Adelaide and Simcoe streets. Tonight the doctor will invade Queen's Park after the ball game and tell the fans why they should vote for him.

Tomorrow afternoon he speaks up-town at McClary's.

One of the most enthusiastic receptions accorded a candidate during the campaign in London was that given Miss Isabel C. Armstrong, Liberal, when she spoke to McClary Manufacturing Company employees in the large dining hall of the up-town plant at noon today.

On all sides during the address could be heard favorable comment on the frankness and fearlessness of the Liberal standard-bearer, as she stood firmly on every plank in her platform, and gave assurance that she would stand or fall by it.

"I know how to wield a carpet-sweeper," she said. "If we go down to the legislature we will take a carpet-sweeper with us."

"Yesterday at the laying of the cornerstone at the University of Western Ontario I met Mr. Donahue and shook hands with him. I said, 'Well, Mr. Donahue, there is one thing about us—the people know exactly where we stand.'"

"I thought that even he must admit that his platform did not make for such an institution as the university."

Miss Armstrong declared she stood for equal opportunity and equal education. Of Leo Rogers it had been said, she remarked, that he had not had proper care. She declared herself in favor of adequate custodial care.

Enforce the O. T. A. "I stand for the strict enforcement of the O. T. A. because I think it is in the best interests of the home and the children."

"At the Toronto exhibition last year one and half millions of people attended, and there was only one arrest for drunkenness. Want that a lot safer for the children than to have men who had not their senses driving auto? And it has been said prohibition is not a success."

"When I was in the West as a newspaperwoman, the home-makers' movement was in full swing. Every one was talking of building for the future."

"When the war broke out, the young went, that the race might carry on."

"There is a tomorrow coming. We are laying the foundation for it today."

"My father was a farmer, and a Turn to Page 2, Columns 5 and 6."

ONTARIO'S PREMIER GREETING LONDON'S NEXT MEMBER. Here Premier Drury is shown by The Advertiser photographer chatting with Miss Isabel Armstrong, London's popular Liberal candidate. The photo was taken on the premier's visit to London yesterday when he laid the cornerstone in the new University of Western Ontario building.

Ontario's Liberal Chief Welcomes Miss Armstrong

Liberals and friends all over Canada are congratulating Isabel Armstrong on the pluck and ability which she is showing in her fight as London's Liberal candidate.

The latest message to arrive is a telegram from the Liberal chieftain of Ontario himself. It reads:

"Heartiest congratulations on your nomination as Liberal candidate for London. In yourself and Mrs. Allen of Fort William, the Liberal women of Ontario have two splendid representatives. We look forward with the keenest anticipation to your election by a good majority on June 25th."

(Signed) "F. WELLINGTON HAY."

From as far away as Regina comes this message, signed by Burford Hoole, publisher of the Regina Leader:

"Regina friends admire your grit and wish you all success in your campaign."

The tide of public opinion in London and throughout Western Ontario is turning very definitely toward Isabel Armstrong. People are beginning to realize the really fine thing she has done in entering the fight to uphold the principle of public ownership and to work for better home legislation, and they admire her sportsmanship in creating her own organization without any great campaign fund to spend on advertising displays. Isabel Armstrong is a volunteer soldier, and she is fighting her fight in that spirit of sincerity to uphold certain things which she believes to be right.

A NEW PLANK. Last night Miss Armstrong elaborated the clause of equal education in her platform as a separate plank, which she outlines as follows:

"WIDER EDUCATIONAL OPPORTUNITY."

"By obtaining all government aid possible for the University of Western Ontario, in order that every ambitious boy and girl in London can obtain the advantage of higher education at minimum cost and without leaving home."

EXPECT NO DIFFICULTY WITH STREET RAILWAY

City Authorities Believe Matter On Paving Program Is Cleared.

City authorities stressed their contention today that no trouble with the street railway company is anticipated relative to the Stanley street and other paving enterprises.

The question was raised recently that the Stanley street project, for instance, was illegal and that the city treasurer did not know whether to pay city men employed on this work as the city auditor was not quite sure whether the company agreement with the city was illegal.

The men were paid, however, City Treasurer Bell reports, and from present indications they will be paid as time passes and the work continues on Stanley street and elsewhere.

Marriages Off, Women to Blame

Records Show 3,000 Weddings Cancelled in Old London.

Associated Press Despatch. London, England, June 19.—Women who changed their minds were responsible for more than 3,000 cancelled marriage licenses in London last year.

This is the record, says a statistician of the home department, and in most cases the licenses had been paid for, and preparations made for the ceremony.

It is also recorded that only in 26 of these cases did the prospective bridegroom throw a wrench into the machinery.

ALDERMEN WILL HAVE NO HOLIDAY SAYS THE MAYOR

Hot Weather Will See No Cessation of Council's Endeavors.

MUCH WORK AHEAD

His Worship Claims There Is Too Much To Do To Take Vacation.

While Ald. Douglass arose last night and reminded the council that it was customary for the council to "knock off" for the two summer months, Mayor Wenige favors no hot weather intermission.

He was extremely doubtful today whether they would be able to halt activities as in former years. There are still many important issues waiting consideration, and chief among these is the proposed commencement of the new city hall.

Ald. George Burdick, chairman of the city hall committee, is ill at home, but directly he is around again, a meeting will be called, and the preliminary work rushed, it is assured. If, however, Ald. Judd and his colleagues undertake injunction proceedings as threatened, the situation will be complicated and no one can predict what the outcome will be or when.

The mayor hopes to be able to get the councilors together Friday night for that long-delayed revision of civic wages and salaries. If the aldermen are not willing for a special informal session, the question will have to go by default for another week.

On Thursday, the mayor goes to Detroit to address the London Old Boys. No session of the board of works is being held tonight, as Ald. Douglass will be out of the city. Ald. P. J. Watt will be acting chairman, however, in the meanwhile.

There are still several items of his worship's inaugural address claiming attention—the appointment of a city purchasing agent, the appointment of a full-time city solicitor, etc.

The general survey of the various civic departments, including the London and Port Stanley Railway, the fire and police departments, and certain city hall departments will be commenced as soon as possible, and should continue until the end of August.

Several paving projects are still "in the air." In short it looks like a busy summer for the London City Council.

COLD WEATHER SPELL GRIPS OLD COUNTRY

Britishers Shiver Around Fires While Frost Ruins Garden Crops.

Associated Press Despatch. London, England, June 19.—Although it is the middle of June the country has been in the grip of a long spell of cool weather, and many a British household gathers around the fire at night, as if it were Christmas.

Even in the south of England several degrees of frost are constantly registered in the early morning hours, working havoc with garden and fruit crops. To make matters worse, there appears to be no immediate prospect for any change to settled fine weather.

MOUNTED POLICE CHIEF SUSPENDED AT EDMONTON

Special to The Advertiser. Edmonton, Alta., June 19.—Major G. L. Jennings, commander of Edmonton district, Royal Canadian Mounted Police, has been suspended from his post on orders from Ottawa, because of "indiscretion" in revealing certain police reports to Geo. S. Armstrong, former city postmaster, who was recently acquitted on a charge of stealing $50,000 from the mails.

WHY HAS BECK CHANGED?

Four Years Ago He Deserted the Tory Party Because He Said Duty Was Greater Than Party Politics—
"No Party Whip Can Crack Me Into Line"—Why Does He Betray That Duty To Howard Ferguson Today?

This is addressed to the man or the woman who has decided to vote for Sir Adam Beck.

It is to ask two questions: Do you realize what Sir Adam Beck is doing when he stands as a Conservative candidate?

Do you realize what may happen should you elect him?

The answer to the first question is simple and unmistakable. When Sir Adam Beck offers himself as a Conservative candidate, he stands condemned by his own words as false to his duty toward the hydro users of Ontario.

In 1919, Sir Adam Beck deserted the Tory party to stand as an Independent candidate. At the meeting in the Masonic Temple on October 16, 1919, he explained his action as follows:

"Only as an independent can I look after the interests of hydro for the people of the province in the most efficient way."

The Free Press report of that meeting contained the following:

"Sir Adam told the audience that he had severed his relations with the Conservative party because he considered his duty to the municipality to be greater than to any party. No party whip could crack him into line."

In that action Sir Adam earned the ill-will of the Free Press and the Tory campaigners. He lost the election, but he saved his own soul—and the respect of all Ontario.

But now—Sir Adam is out to win. He is, as he says, a Conservative "casualty." His vanity was hurt by the defeat of 1919. He must redeem himself by winning now. And so he forgets that "his duty to the municipality is greater than to any party." He forgets that "only as an Independent can I look after the interests of hydro." He is back in the Tory camp, not because he is truly a Conservative, nor because he loves his duty to Ontario—but because he wants to win for himself. And the Tory press and the Tory workers are licking his boots and shouting cynically that hydro must be represented—because they want a Tory to win—even Beck.

The whole affair is a grand hypocrisy in which honesty and duty and truth are shoved aside as a matter of political expediency.

That is the answer to the first question. And the second question—Do you realize what may happen if you elect Sir Adam Beck?

Two things may happen. If Howard Ferguson should be the next premier of Ontario, Sir Adam Beck will be made minister of power.

As a member of the cabinet, he will be bound as the supporter of the man whom all Ontario suspects as unsafe, the manipulator of the province's timber resources, condemned by the province's judges on the bench, the same man who blocked Beck and hydro in 1916. The people's hydro interests would become definitely a government property, open to exploitation by a leader who is distrusted by his own party.

On the other hand, should Mr. Wellington Hay or Mr. Drury become the new premier, Sir Adam Beck would be forced to sit in the opposition ranks. Chairman of the Hydro Commission, appointed by the government, paid by the people, sitting in opposition to the people's government. Only one thing could happen—he would be asked to resign from the chairmanship and become an ordinary private member.

These are the plain facts of the situation. Sir Adam and his campaigners are spending a great deal of money and time talking about his record of service. In the present situation, Sir Adam's record of service has little to do with it. Everyone knows and acknowledges his service. It only makes more regrettable and unworthy his action in prostituting himself and his duty because "the party whip has cracked" and he wants to win for himself.

Is Your Name on the List? You Know Where to Vote! Call Up 6060 and Find Out

Have you a vote next Monday? Is your name on the voters' list? If you are a British subject, more than 21 years of age, whether man or woman, you are entitled to a vote, but your name must be on the voters' list.

If you want to find out call sixty-sixty, otherwise 6060. That is the number of the telephone at the headquarters of the Liberal candidate, Isabel C. Armstrong.

Call 6060 if you want to know what the Liberal candidate stands for or any other information regarding the forthcoming election. If not convenient to telephone, call in person at her headquarters in Hyman Hall.

FOREST FLAMES AGAIN SPREADING IN NORTH ONTARIO

Fire Rangers Forced To Yield Ground—Weather Conditions Against Them.

GAINING GROUND

Blaze Said To Be the Worst in Timmins Area.

Canadian Press Despatch. Toronto, June 19.—Once more the fire prevention branch of the provincial department of lands and forests is fighting forest fires over a widespread area. It has over 2,000 men engaged and with weather conditions all against the fighters, they are being forced to back up in many places. The worst fires this time are around Timmins.

Chief Forester Zavitz stated today that the flames were gaining ground, although he thought the town of Timmins itself was safe, as it is encircled by a broad strip of land cleared to stop the advance of the fire. But in the interior the bush is burning in every direction.

Disturbance Needs Rain. The slight rains which fell last week have had little effect, and the entire district is extremely dry. All the heavy rains this spring seem to have passed by this northern area. Fires so far reported include:

Muskeg, south of the Mattagami spur line, in flames.

Big blaze a few miles east of Night Hawk Lake, which is east of Timmins, and another one in the township of Deloro to the south of the Porcupine mining camp.

Bush several miles west of Timmins on fire.

Fire Near Foleyette. On the Canadian National, west of Sudbury, and another fire further west on the same line at a station called Peter Bell.

"Never have we had a spring like this," said Mr. Zavitz today. "If this country doesn't soon get rain there is no telling where the fires will end. Unlike the fires a few weeks ago, however, the fire sound district is not giving us much trouble. The Algonquin Park district is also pretty well under control. There are some fires around Port Arthur, but they are pretty well in check. The worst fires at present are around Timmins where they are raging furiously. The Cochrane district is comparatively free from fires, but may break out any time, as the country there is also exceedingly dry."

KING BORIS TO WED ROMANIAN PRINCESS

Engagement of the Bulgarian Ruler Presages Recognition of New Government.

Special Cable to The Advertiser. Belgrade, June 19.—King Boris, the youthful ruler of Bulgaria, restored to prestige by the overthrow of Stambouli's peasant government, has become engaged to Princess Elena, youngest daughter of the king and queen of Rumania, according to Bucharest advices. Rumania, consequently has recognized the revolutionary Zankof government of Bulgaria, which has the young king's approval.

Recognition of the new government, which at first was regarded with suspicion by Bulgaria's neighbors in the Balkans, and which has been granted for "dynastic reasons." The Greek government has instructed its charge d'affaires at Sofia to continue diplomatic relations with Bulgaria.

THE WEATHER

FORECASTS. Moderate southwest winds; mostly fair and decidedly warm today and on Wednesday; a few local thunderstorms. Pressure is low over the western half of the continent and the northern districts of Ontario and Quebec, and high over the Atlantic States.

The weather has been showery in Manitoba and Saskatchewan, and fair in nearly all other parts of the Dominion.

Temperatures. The highest and lowest temperatures during the 24 hours previous to 8 a.m. today were:

WILL RE-ZONE LONDON FOR EXPRESS LIMITS

Mayor Announces Permission Granted by the Ontario Railway Board.

Mayor Wenige announced today that the city can now be re-zoned for the purpose of defining again the limits for express collection.

His worship stated that he had received notice of permission for this undertaking from the City of London and Municipal Board, and he proposes that the issue will receive the early attention of the council.

The express zone will not be greatly extended, he explains, but will cover all paved thoroughfares.

DROP BILL TO STOP RACING INFORMATION

Senate Committee Decides To Reserve Report For Further Probe.

Canadian Press Despatch. Ottawa, June 19.—On the casting vote of Senator Pardee, chairman of the senate committee, on the bill to amend the criminal code, the section prohibiting the publication of racing information was dropped from the measure. Senators McMeans and McLennan supported the clause, Senators Fowler and Barnard voted against it, while Sir James Lougheed and Senator Belcourt refrained from voting.

It was decided to reserve the report of the committee until a new clause could be devised dealing with the despatch of racing sheets through the mails.

An amendment was introduced by Senator Belcourt, intended to remove the schedule of percentages allowed to racing clubs. The effect is to allow 7 per cent on a gate of $20,000, and an allowance of 6 per cent on excess up to $30,000, with similar grants for larger sums.

Senator Belcourt explained that the amendment was intended to remove the conflict in the interpretation of the racing schedule by which clubs are deprived of sums rightfully due them.

ALLEGED WOOD YARD IN RESTRICTED AREA

Council Asks Works Board Regarding Slobasky Property, Hamilton Road.

D. Slobasky conducts a small wood yard out on the Hamilton road. He claims that he has been there for a couple of years or more. Now some person claims that he is either operating without a permit or that he is within the restricted area. There seems to be considerable uncertainty among the aldermen in this connection, and the proposal has been referred back to the board of works for further detail.

TO PLACE NEW LIGHTS ALONG DUNDAS STREET

Another little question carried over from 1922 has been definitely dealt with by the city council. A petition for ornamental lights on Dundas street between Wellington and Waterloo streets has been granted. Estimated cost is $4,500.

C. N. R. MEETING FOR TRACK ELEVATION SURVEY

C. N. R. OFFICIALS COME TO LONDON DEPOT MATTER

Two of Sir Henry Thornton's Men Come to London Tomorrow.

SURVEY SITUATION

The track elevation and new union depot project for London has advanced a step. Two representatives of Sir Henry Thornton, president of the Canadian National Lines, will arrive in the city tomorrow to discuss the matter and survey the situation.

Mayor Wenige has called a session of the special committee appointed for this purpose. They meet at 9:30 a.m. for this preliminary conference with C. G. Bowker and F. L. C. Bond, general manager and chief engineer of the C. N. R. respectively.

A communication was received some time ago from Sir Henry Thornton in which he explained that the committee would be expected to confer with the local authorities within a reasonable length of time.

At last night's council meeting, Ald. Judd questioned whether any action would be taken without further delay. His query was quite timely, as word was received this morning from Toronto that Messrs. Bowker and Bond would be in the city tomorrow to open negotiations. A session was accordingly ordered for 9:30 o'clock.

Many years have elapsed since similar negotiations with the Grand Trunk authorities were allowed to lapse but there is every indication that Sir Henry Thornton and his administration at Ottawa are at least willing to consider the local situation thoroughly with a view toward definite progress.

During his recent visit to London, Sir Henry promised that the local demands be considered just as speedily as circumstances would permit and that there would be no attempt to shift the burden of the depot to himself or officials to shelve the issue.

Sir Henry has evidently kept his promise and tomorrow witnesses the initial move in this city for the abolition of level crossings and the ultimate construction of a union depot in the most suitable location.

Members of the city council have shown commendable effort in this respect and the famous Judd-Drake resolution of a few weeks past is having its desired effect.

CITY NURSES TO STAGE GRADUATION EXERCISES

Bethesda 1923 Class To Receive Diplomas at Salvation Army Citadel.

The graduating exercises of the class of '23 of the Salvation Army Bethesda Hospital will be held at the Citadel, Clarence street, Friday evening, June 23 at 8 o'clock.

Gertrude Young, Miss A. M. Lavorth, Esther James, Louise Moore, Charlotte Jellous, Florence Mitchell and Jean Fraser compose this year's graduating class that will receive diplomas.

The presentation of diplomas and pins and the taking of the Florence Nightingale pledge will be included in the program that has been arranged.

A reception is to be given to the graduates at the hospital after the exercises.

MARRIED OFFICE MEN WILL PLAY BACHELORS

Second Game in C. N. R. Softball League at Springbank Tonight.

The second game in the C. N. R. softball series will be played this evening at Springbank, when the married men on the general offices staff will endeavor to repeat their victory of last Friday.

The game is scheduled to take place at 6:30 p.m., and a large crowd from the C. N. R. is expected to attend.

The single men say that they have improved their battery, and that the bachelors will not be able to send them down to a second defeat. Hayes and Hutton, as pitcher and catcher for the married men, and Burgess and Jackson for the single men, are the batteries for tonight's game, and from all accounts the game will be even closer than that of Friday last, when the married men trimmed the representatives of single blessedness with a score of 8 to 5.

INITIATE IMPROVEMENTS IN CITY INDUSTRIAL AREA

The proposed local improvements for the industrial area were formally initiated by the city council last night on an 18-foot concrete pavement on Brydges street from Egerton street to Highway avenue.

The probable cost of the former is $27,380, of which the city will pay nearly $3,000. The probable cost of the latter is placed at $22,735, of which the city will pay $1,222.

Eleven of Hydro Linemen To Return To Their Work

Manager Buchanan Says Men Return On Original Terms—Ingles Says This Is Not So.

Eleven of the hydro linemen who left their work some days ago will start again tomorrow morning at seven, according to E. V. Buchanan, general manager of the public utilities commission. "They will start," said Mr. Buchanan, "at the original offer we made them, that is 70 cents an hour. They will work nine hours in the summer, and eight hours in the winter. Taking it all round, that is the equivalent of what they were getting last year." Mr. Buchanan is glad to have the matter straightened out. He has always tried to avoid any labor disputes and so far has been fortunate in this respect. He regards the outlook from now on as being set fine, and sees the whole incident as closed, his one regret being that there are not more positions for all the men who left work.

Ernest Ingles, when questioned concerning the linemen's return to work, said that he understood from the line-men's committee that they have decided to go back. He said, however, that it is not in acceptance of the original offer of Manager Buchanan, but a new one which was suggested by Supervisor Alfrod yesterday.

The original offer stated 70 cents per hour for an eight-hour day, whereas the offer which the men have accepted is one giving an eight-hour day in winter and a nine-hour day in summer.

When asked if it is true that only eleven of the fifteen strikers would be given work, Ingles said: "No! The promise which was given to the men's committee was that all of the men would be taken back, and 'all' means fifteen and not eleven."

"The original offer has been before us for days, and it had been acceptable to us we would have taken it then. The offer which the men have agreed to and the longer hours in the summer add considerably to the earning power of the men," he stated.

MAYOR UPHOLDS DRURY ON PUBLIC UTILITIES

Wenige Believes All Undertakings Should Carry Own Charges.

Premier Drury "hit the nail on the head" at his address at Pond Mills yesterday, declares Mayor Wenige. "He was quite right," his worship asserts. "I have always maintained as I did last night when we considered the public utilities commission's $250,000 debture request that all undertakings should carry their own charges."

"I don't care whether it be hydro or anything else. I mean that any business whatever should be conducted along that line. The public utilities commission should not be a pocket for ventures that evidently cannot carry their own charges."

"It is all very well to talk about giving service at cost, whether it be electricity or otherwise. The principle, however, that your business must be conducted on a cost-plus basis, whether it be municipal owned or otherwise, is quite correct. It is the maintenance, additional equipment required and so forth. When I put money into a business, I expect that there will be some return in time. Short loans of course would perhaps be necessary from time to time but in the case of the public utilities commission even this should not be necessary."

"They have a regular monthly income. They wait for taxes collected once a year or so."

SAYS WESTERN WRONG AS TITLE FOR DISTRICT

London Visitor Thinks Territory Should Be Named Southwestern Ontario.

A visitor in London yesterday who attended the laying of the cornerstone of the new college was heard to express surprise when he heard the name of the new college was "The University of Western Ontario."

"Although he was unfamiliar with Ontario's history, he was acquainted with the geographical plan of the province, and could see no reason why this section of the province should be called 'Western Ontario.'"

"I wonder why this most southerly part of Ontario does not have 'south' as part of its name," he said. "If I did not know the province well I would naturally place 'Western Ontario' at the head of the Great Lakes."

The explanation that "western" meant Western Old Ontario before the addition of the vast territory of New Ontario, did not satisfy the visitor.

"Why not call your institution the University of Southwestern Ontario?" he asked.

He believed such a change would help rather than hinder the university.

"When all the western areas proper were added to the province," he continued, "the government would have forgotten Old Ontario in naming this prosperous peninsula. It gives the visitor a false impression. I think the university would be well advised to add 'south' to its name so this impression would be eradicated."

URGES BETTER PROTECTION ON DRIVEWAY AT CITY ZOO

The city council has called the attention of the public utilities commission to the "turn for better life protection" on the driveway in front of the zoo at Springbank. The aldermen understand that there is now a regulation denying parking in the area in question, and they question whether this is enforced.

LONDON SPEAKERS AT THAMESFORD MEETING

Rev. W. R. McIntosh and Lloyd Houlding Address Oxford Religious Council.

Rev. W. R. McIntosh and Lloyd Houlding, secretary of the boys' department of the Y. M. C. A., returned this morning after delivering addresses at the 49th annual convention of the Oxford County Religious Education Council, in session at the Presbyterian Church at Thamesford.

Over a hundred people gathered from this district to attend the convention, which according to Mr. McIntosh was a great success.

Rev. Mr. McIntosh delivered an address on "The Greatest Work in the World." He pointed out that the world was now in an upset condition, and was looking for a remedy.

"Armies and navies had proved the undoing of the world, and wars only brought disaster and death," said Mr. McIntosh. "The greatest work is to develop character and personality, morals, manners, and true religion. The church and the Sunday schools, and unless we Christianize humanity it will only destroy itself. The church works for the community, and the church must be co-operation of all such agencies as the home, the school, the press, the playgrounds and the libraries. Unless these give themselves to the work of education, the outlook is dark."

In the evening Lloyd Houlding gave an address on "The Church At Work." He pointed out that the church must be in an upset condition, and was looking for a remedy.

Rev. C. W. DeMille will officiate at the presentation of banners this afternoon, delivering an address on "Our Task."

PRaises POLICE CHIEF FOR EFFICIENT WORK

Hamilton Official Able To Locate Woman Through London Force.

Working on a bare rumor that a woman who died in Hamilton last Sunday, had a sister living in London, the local police, at the request of Relief Officer John McMenney, Hamilton, instituted a search for the woman and found that she also had died, death occurring last October.

Told that her name was Mrs. White, Chief Birrell searched through directories of last year until he found the name of the woman he was looking for. Finding it he next looked for her home, and found that she was dead, death occurring last October.

Her death he discovered that a sister, Mrs. Annie Whitaker, lived in Hamilton. This was the woman who died on Sunday last, and the chief immediately wrote to Mr. McMenney that the sister also was dead.

"That's what I call real service," declared Mr. McMenney, who in reply he expressed his thanks to the local officer and congratulated him for the information and expedition with which the inquiry had been secured and forwarded.

British Noble Confident Quebec Gold Fields Good

Duke of Manchester Arrives in Montreal From England To Commence Two Months' Sojourn Supervising Work On Claims.

Special to The Advertiser. Quebec, June 19.—The Duke of Manchester, whose visit to the new gold field of Quebec has increased the interest taken in that section of Canada, arrived here at 10 o'clock this morning, on board the White Star liner Doris. His lordship is accompanied by his daughter Lady Montague and Miss Dawes.

Has Absolute Confidence. "I have absolute confidence in the new gold fields of Quebec, according to the reports I have received from experts, and intend leaving immediately for the Abitibi region," he stated to The Advertiser. "With the Toronto syndicate, I have interests in 6,000 acres of claims in the Township of Dubouillon, west of Lake Demontigny. I will go to Montreal this evening and leave tomorrow to await my return. I will spend two months in the northern region of Quebec, and when I return I believe that I will have been convinced that the forecasts on the development of that great region will have proved correct. The head of the Toronto syndicate with which I am dealing is Mr. John K. Passinaka."

The Duke of Manchester stated that there would be at least three mines exploited on his claims, and later perhaps fifteen, if the opera-

RANEY RECLARES F.F.F. WILL WIN IF FACTS PRESENTED

Attorney General Charges Conservative Candidate As Civil Servant Should Not Run.

DENIES PATRONAGE

Special to The Advertiser. Elora, Ont., June 19.—The Hon. W. E. Raney, attorney-general of Ontario, started the final week of the 1923 election campaign in his own constituency at Monck yesterday afternoon. He spoke here in the evening and will remain in the riding in which he seeks re-election for the rest of the week, speaking on behalf of the government.

He told the voters of Damascus that "we are not fanatics, not unduly strenuous in placing our case before the public. We are anxious to promote citizenship and we want every vote polled. We want no woman or man to be different; we want to get the facts and we want them to vote, if not for the government, then against it, but which ever way they vote we want everyone to record their feelings."

Mr. Raney cleared up the matter of his own re-entry into the political arena. He said that he had promised, as Colonel Craig had said in his nomination speech at Fergus, that he would not come back, but pressure had been brought to bear on him from all parts of the country and he felt constrained to come back. He did not want to do so, as he was tired after three and a half years' strenuous work in the legislature.

The meeting was held in the town hall, which was crowded to overflowing, people standing even outside at the open windows.

Crowds Present. Damascus is nine miles from a railway and consequently every form of conveyance was used to bring the voters to the meeting. The afternoon meeting was also well attended. Mr. Raney referred to the resolution of 1897 whereby civil servants were prohibited from seeking political office. He pointed out that the case of his opponent, Mr. Craig, was the case of his opponent, Mr. Craig, who was still receiving his salary, did not ask permission to enter the contest, but dropped his duties as school inspector, from his pay, and entered the lists. Mr. Raney defined the East Wellington fight as the most anomalous case in Ontario.

Denies Patronage. Dealing with the charge of patronage that has been laid against his government, he said that the government had no apologies to make for the appointment of Mr. Craig. "He gave up," said Mr. Raney, "a post to which he was elected to make room for the attorney-general. We were not going to make one of the score of extravagance."

Mr. Raney said that the government was one composed of farmers, and they were not extravagant as they had to work too hard to earn their money.

"The gentlemen," he said, "who talk of civil servants are mentioning the fact that Mr. Drury did not take $3,000 of the salary that was due to him. Because we used the money brought in from the betting tax to pay the mothers' allowance, Mr. Ferguson says we are hypocrites. So was he then, but he was a piker of a hypocrite because he only took $125,000."

Reviews O. T. A. Mr. Raney then turned to the O. T. A. and said that he knew it had not carried out its promise to hold a convention in the hills, he declared, and would never be solved. The best thing was a strong prohibition law, he said, and the Clarke timber fiasco and the profitable Backus deal and into other items he went, from the records of government had been charged with extravagance. He read part of the list of achievements of the government during the last four sessions of the legislature, and declared that if the government could only get the facts to the people in this election there would be no difficulty.

The Big Vein is one of the deepest coal mines in the world. It is 1,200 yards from surface to lowest level. It is near the town of Elouges, in Belgium.

His Visit Expected. The duke has not yet decided whether he would go to Toronto and meet representatives of the Toronto syndicate, but he said he would decide in Montreal during the next four days. This afternoon he paid a visit to the provincial mining bureau, where his coming visit was expected, as correspondence had been exchanged from time to time.

The head of the Toronto syndicate has also important claims on the Ontario side of the gold field which he may visit. At the department of mines it was learned that very favorable reports had been received regarding the Manchester claims. It is understood that the duke has interests in 21 claims in Ontario.

MORE FACTORY WORKERS FAVOR MISS ARMSTRONG

Liberal. He didn't leave a lot of wealth, but he left a foundation for his children's good name is better than any amount of wealth. Her "Better Homes" platform supported building for the future, for the children, who were to be the citizens of the Canada of tomorrow.

Mothers' Pensions. In her platform were included mothers' pensions, workmen's compensation, and all that went with these great reforms.

She accused the Toronto Globe of not standing by its colors. The Globe, she said, had been known as a great organ for moral reform, and Liberal.

In a recent report of political speeches at a garden party at London, it had given Sir Adam a large amount of space, and had given Mr. Donahue several lines, but mentioned her, the Reform candidate, as having dealt with the O. T. A. "at some length," she said.

Four years ago The Globe had said: "Hydro must be kept free from party politics. Both parties do well in the municipalities, but the party has changed, and had advised the election of Sir Adam Beck."

Sir Adam has been of the same opinion as his hands are. "I don't care," he said, "I suppose Sir Adam has changed his mind."

Beck Should Not Run. Miss Armstrong also insists that no politician should run for parliament. "You know what would happen if a minor civil servant began to dabble in politics," she said. "The Tories would say he only gets $6,000 a year from the government and the rest of his salary comes from the few others, and then I will have a man is getting $800 or $1,000 or $6,000 a year, he should not run for parliament if he is being paid by the government."

Miss Armstrong declared herself in hearty economy in government. She stated she believed scrupulous honesty was the only proper course in life. In referring to women's part in the making of the country she pleaded: "Give us a chance to have a little look into the legislature."

Dr. Stevenson. Dr. Hugh Stevenson addressed the employees of the Canadian National Bridge Works during the noon hour. He was speaking at the request of the London Labor Temple. In introducing the Labor candidate, Mr. Tite drew the attention of the men to the Labor measures which had already been passed by the Drury Government as a result of the untiring efforts of their representative, Dr. Stevenson.

In this connection he mentioned the mothers' allowance bill and the revised compensation act, working classes. He said that the compensations act as it now stands would never have been granted but for the efforts of the political parties.

He told the audience that not only was Labor helped by Simon pure labor legislation, but that they stood to gain as consumers in the working of any co-operative legislature which would bring prosperity to the other laborer, the farmer.

He stated that if granted the opportunity the Drury Government will bring about co-operative production, marketing as they have it in California.

The workman's compensation act, he said, is the finest piece of Labor legislation ever put forward. It states that, regardless of legal proceedings or any business entanglements, the workman's claim for wages must stand as a first charge against all buildings constructed, and with a view of making the act absolutely workable they had inserted a clause stating that one-third of the estimated cost of the building must be held back to cover the cost of labor in its construction.

With a view to enabling himself to legislate on the subject of fair play, legislation of this nature, Dr. Stevenson asked for the support of his audience at the polls on Monday next.

J. M. Donahue. Claiming that it was time that the province of Ontario reverted to the old time spirit of fair play, J. M. Donahue, vice candidate, addressed the workers at McClary's foundry at lunch time today.

Stating that he had no criticism of the Drury government to offer and that no one could say it had done nothing, he gave the credit for the enactment of the Mothers' Allowance and Women's Compensation acts to the recent legislature, although, he declared that neither of these would have become active had it not been for the support offered by both the line parties. Dealing with Dr. Stevenson's claims that the whole praise was due to the Drury government, the speaker stated that the members for London should malign either of the old parties unless he could show proof of their shortcomings.

O. T. A. Discrimination. "No act," he continued, "had been so much as just going to be a deed being the casting of his vote for or against, except one to allow the 5 and 10 cent stores to sell peroxide. This is as close to prohibition as he will ever get."

"The O. T. A. is discriminatory and unjust," declared Mr. Donahue, and is a place of legislation which benefits the rich man to the exclusion of the working classes. A referendum is not the proper way to settle a thing like this. The government should give the people the lead, as all minorities have the right which the majority should not be allowed to override. The first battle must be with the rabid prohibitionists, by whom the O. T. A. had been framed. Others are taking the same stand as myself.

"I am not asking for your vote personally," he concluded, "but for your opinion on the matter."

I'll Be Modest, Says Beck. "If I'm elected to the legislature this time I am just going to be a modest member of the house," Sir Adam Beck told the McCormick employees who had assembled on the lawn to hear the Tory bet.

"Some people say of me," he continued, "that if I am successful in this campaign I will sandbag Howard Ferguson and Billy Nickle and a few others, and then I will have things all my own way. But if I do get elected I will represent all classes in this district, and my only concern will be to treat everyone fairly."

At the start of his short speech Sir Adam caused a snicker to run through the crowd when he said that while mopping his perspiring brows that he would rather be umpiring a ball game than be making a political speech.

"And if I was umpiring," he said, "I rather think the weaker team would win, because you know I myself like to be the underdog and fight on the weaker side."

Sir Adam tried hard at the outset to impress upon his audience that it was far from his mind to criticize the other candidates, adding that his own public record would show up favorably against those of the others.

But he hadn't gone very far before he was calling down Premier Drury for some remarks he had made at Pond Mills regarding hydro, and the record of Dr. Hugh Stevenson during the past four years.

"The present member makes a lot of statements about the workmen's compensation act," he said, "but all that he is talking about happened before he knew anything about politics. Dr. Stevenson and his friends also got drunk quite comfortably, and all within the limits of the exceedingly accommodating law."

"Whatever the feeling of the individual drinker may be," Mr. Milson states, "the big business man and the men in charge of the affairs of municipalities out on the coast view the existing law with apprehension, and their efforts to alter it under the leadership of A. M. Manson, the attorney-general, are evidence of their opposition."

Before he addressed the employees Sir Adam turned the power on to the electric oven just installed in the plant. The oven was built in England, and as far as the officials of the company know is the only one of its kind in the world.

WRITING EXAMINATIONS IN MIDST OF TROPIC HEAT. The middle and upper school examinations are in full force in spite of the hot weather. In the Central Collegiate, where Inspector Greer is in charge, there are 322 taking the middle school exams, and 137 the upper school work. In the South London Collegiate, in which G. A. Wheeler is looking after the children, there are 88 pupils taking the middle work and 20 doing the upper school examinations.

These exams last until June 27th, when they give place to the high school entrance exams, which in turn run along to June 23rd, the closing day for the public schools. The number of pupils this year is pretty much the average of the last three or four years, with a slight increase. The high school entrance exams are held in nine centres in the various public schools in the city.

CLERGYMAN SAYS B. C. LIQUOR LAW WORKS OUT BADLY

Rev. Walter E. Milson Says Business Leaders On Coast Want Province Dry.

RETAILERS PROTEST

Rev. Walter E. Milson, 524 William street, field secretary of the Social Service Department of the Methodist Church in Canada, who made a tour of British Columbia this spring, probing the working of the government liquor laws, found that business men and men interested in municipal affairs on the coast were strongly opposed to the way in which the law was affecting the wealth and prosperity of the people out there.

"All the retail men," he told The Advertiser this morning, "on the coast are worried over the money the law is being spent on liquor. The average working man's salary has only so much to come and go on, and when he spends more than he can afford on liquor, why, his family has to go without, and the women of the province are certainly as a whole affected by the act."

He found that the general run of people were strongly opposed to the operation of government control.

Merchants Opposed. "I found, too, that retail merchants were most energetically opposed to the law. They were not opposed to business profits. For instance, here are some figures that prove how unsatisfactory the working of the law is at the present time. In British Columbia during the last six months of prohibition the sales of liquors averaged $16,565 per month. Under the government sale the average is $504,270 per month."

Again here is a report of a resolution passed by the Grocers' Section of the Retail Merchants' Association of British Columbia. "The business of the retail grocers is suffering very heavily from the diversion of money into liquor channels which should be spent legitimately to supply food and other necessities and comforts for the people. Merchants in other lines are similarly affected by the heavy and wasteful expenditures for liquor."

Bad Clauses. There are two clauses of definition in the British Columbia Liquor Control Act that Mr. Milson thinks are merely intended to increase the abuse of liquor. One is the definition of a residence as "any place or dwelling in which the person who has the liquor permit is either a permanent or a temporary resident." And the other is a clause that allows the brewer to ship liquor direct to such residence.

The effect of this wide open law is that anyone who has a permit and who objects to drinking in his own home, can send the permit down to the store and have the liquor sent to the address given on the permit. So that he can go and stay with a friend, and by being a temporary resident, get drunk quite comfortably, and all within the limits of the exceedingly accommodating law.

"Whatever the feeling of the individual drinker may be," Mr. Milson states, "the big business man and the men in charge of the affairs of municipalities out on the coast view the existing law with apprehension, and their efforts to alter it under the leadership of A. M. Manson, the attorney-general, are evidence of their opposition."

Every consideration will be shown, it is promised, in view of his past service.

THOUSANDS FLEE AS MOUNT ETNA POURS OUT LAVA

Molten Rock Rushing Down
Mountainside Destroys
All In Path.

NO LIVES LOST

Associated Press Despatch.

Rome, June 19.—Mt. Etna, in violent eruption, is laying waste the surrounding countryside, say despatches reaching the mainland.

Great rivers of molten rock, pouring down the steep sides of the mountain from numerous fissures are overwhelming all before them, and the inhabitants of the surrounding settlements stand in despair while crops and homes disappear under the hissing flood.

The main crater of Etna, after the fitful displays of the last week, suddenly opened up at midnight Sunday with a noise like the firing of a thousand canons. There were subterranean rumblings, flames shot to the sky, and the population of the little towns about the base of the cone fled to the plains.

Five great cracks opened in the northeastern side of the mountain, and from these mouths several kilometres from the old crater came streams of lava.

Thousands of tons of rocks and ashes were hurled to a height of from thirty to sixty feet from both the old and new craters, and the lava streams advancing on a frontage estimated at 500 yards laid waste the vineyards and forests in their paths, and progressed at a speed of a mile and a quarter an hour.

Isolated houses left early by their occupants, long acquainted with Etna's habits, were speedily devastated. The important railway station of Castiglione was destroyed.

Lingualossa, which is some ten miles from the central crater, was surrounded by lava. Several houses in the town collapsed, but the 16,000 inhabitants got away safely. Serio was also enveloped, and most of the villages in the neighborhood were quickly deserted. The sky was dull with smoke and cinders, and dust fell heavily over a large area.

Flee For Safety.

The roads and fields were filled with fleeing inhabitants, most of them carrying a few possessions hastily gathered, or pushing wheelbarrows and hand trucks. The sight of the first fugitives from the danger zone coming into Messina, coupled with the terrifying subterranean noises heard there, drove hundreds of citizens of that town to the seashore for safety. No loss of life has been reported in the despatches received here.

Suffered From Pimples and Blotches For Fifteen Years

When the blood becomes impure it is only natural that pimples, blotches, boils or some other blood trouble will manifest itself by breaking out of the system.

There is only one way to get rid of these obnoxious skin troubles, and that is by giving the impure blood a thorough cleansing by the use of a good blood purifier such as

Burdock Blood Bitters

This remarkable remedy has been on the market for over forty years; is the best obtainable, and will do all we claim for it as a blood cleanser.

Mr. Albert R. De Witte, Lake Valley, Sask., writes: "I have suffered very much from pimples and unsightly blotches for the past fifteen years, and was so bad I hated to go out anywhere. I tried many different medicines, but none seemed to help. A friend told me to use Burdock Blood Bitters. I have used three and a half bottles, and now I have a clear rosy complexion."

"Since I started using Sunlight Soap I find I can get my clothes beautifully washed with my washing machine in fifteen or twenty minutes. Isn't that wonderful? And my clothes are such a beautiful color too."

How do I use Sunlight? I pare half a cake or so of Sunlight in very thin slices, into the hot water in the washing machine, stir it up into a lovely rich suds, then pop in the clothes, and let Sunlight and the machine do the work! Then the rinsing—and the clothes line. Really Betty—washing clothes with Sunlight is good fun—it's all over in less than an hour."

LAKESIDE MOVIES PROMISE REAL FUN FOR OPENING NIGHT

Special Feature and Comedy To Be Shown At Port
Stanley.

Everything is in readiness for the grand opening of the L. & P. S. Movie Show on the beach at Port Stanley on Monday evening, June 25. The bill to be presented will prove one of the finest yet seen at the lakeside, and it will have something for everybody. The pictures will consist of a magnificent feature, a Robert Cole production, "Eden and Return," and in addition there will be a screamingly funny two-reel comedy and a single reel. On the opening night, and every weeknight afterward, the orchestra of Professor Angelo Russo will be in attendance, and this may be given as a guarantee that the music at the free movies this summer will be of the very highest class.

Then there will be the sing-song, to be led by Don Linden, a vocalist of international reputation, who will have charge of the community singing during the entire week. All the old heart songs, the numbers that take one back to childhood's days or other times in the past will be rendered, and any songs the people ask for will be sung. Don Linden knows how to get the people singing, and he knows the songs the people like, so that the sing-song alone will be well worth a visit to the lakeside.

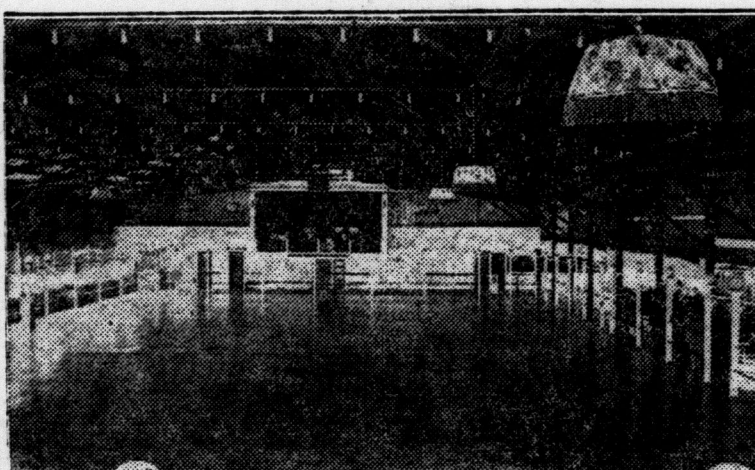

An added feature will be the announcing of the election returns. You can go to Port Stanley, see the show, know all about the elections, and it will not cost you a cent.

The program for the Dominion Day celebration has been practically completed by the London & Port Stanley Railway, and the day will prove a red letter one in the history of big picnics at the grand old summer resort. There will be music galore by two brass bands, the G. W. V. A. and First Hus-sars, music at the cafeteria and at the picture show, daylight and night fireworks, games and sports for every one, and a monster baby show. The baby winning a prize will be eligible for the grand sweepstakes prize to be awarded by the applause of the people on Labor Day. This prize is a fully paid-up policy for $500, offered by the Northern Life Insurance Company, and it will not cost the winner a cent.

From the moment the prize is won the lucky winner will be covered by the insurance policy, and when the child attains its 20th year it will be paid the sum of $500. Here is a prize well worth trying for.

General Manager Richards reports that the L. & P. S. cafeteria and bath-house have been exceedingly well patronized the past week, the hot weather having driven the people to the lakeside in large numbers. After a dip in the lake, a meal in the cafeteria is bracing and strengthening.

MISS ARMSTRONG POINTS OUT BECK'S INCONSISTENCIES

London Liberal Candidate Is Given Enthusiastic Reception Last Night.

OUTLINES PLATFORM

Isabel C. Armstrong, Liberal candidate for London, was greeted with rounds of applause as she made her appearance on the platform in Hyman Hall last night. Miss Armstrong made a striking picture as she took her chair to wait the introductory speech of her chairman, Major W. H. Kippen. She was calm and seemed absolutely at her ease, showing none of the traits of one who hesitates or is not quite sure of the platform for which she is campaigning.

Major Kippen gave a brief address in which he reviewed the campaign from the viewpoint of all political parties, and pointed out that while each party had one or more points of contact or common ground, the Liberals offered a platform which was readily acceptable to all who had public welfare at heart and who really wished to see the province take its rightful place in the forefront of all the Canadian provinces.

Stating that he felt Miss Armstrong's speech warranted all the time at the meeting, he introduced Miss Armstrong, and said that he had not the slightest doubt that when she had completed her remarks they would share his earnest desire to see Miss Armstrong elected as London's representative.

Miss Armstrong then came forward and was again greeted with rounds of applause. Before starting her address she was presented with a gorgeous bouquet of peonies from her supporters.

In opening her remarks, Miss Armstrong dealt briefly and in a humorous manner with her late entrance into the campaign, and said that like most people who started late she was making up for it in working at top speed. She remarked that the tiny son of one of her neighbors had said, "Miss Armstrong, are you running?" "Yes," I said. "Not with your feet, are you?" said her young friend. "Rather," replied Miss Armstrong, "and if you don't think so, watch my feet next week."

The candidate then confined her remarks to a detailed review of the Liberal platform on which she seeks election to the provincial house.

"I feel that I have great moral support from the fact that I stand for each and every item which this platform includes. There is not one little detail which I would seek to alter, and not one plank in this platform which I am not prepared to accept in its entirety."

Her Remarks Applauded.
 This speech was heartily applauded. Miss Armstrong then continued and explained her platform and the hopes she holds of seeing it recorded as legislation. "The Liberal platform stands," she explained, "for better homes and happier and better citizens. The Liberal platform stands on a foundation which is basic and fundamental in character, not fabricated merely for today or tomorrow, but for all time. The foundations of our new Western University bear a great resemblance to the everlasting structural facts on which the Liberal platform is built and on which it will enjoy an everlasting existence," she said.

In enumerating the many points which are included in her platform, Miss Armstrong mentioned the fact that no sane citizen would wish to abolish such humane and Christian institutions as the compensations act or the mothers' allowance. She stated that the Liberal party introduces these measures heartily, and added that not only would they continue to do so, but would honestly try to bring about a standard of living based on the foundation of fair wages for honest work, which would ultimately result in the lessening of the necessity for such measures. In this connection she said that "as a party and as individuals, Liberals stand for everything which will eventually work for the good of not only the people of Ontario, but of all Canada."

Equal educational facilities for city and country alike, is another plank in the Liberal platform which Miss Armstrong pointed out should be acceptable to all right-minded Canadians.

"Only by a uniformly, excellent educational system can Canadians be brought to the forefront of all nations and above all party differences stands the indisputable fact that education should be as convenient and accessible in the rural parts as it is in the cities."

The protection of public ownership, she stated was one of the most important planks in her platform. "The hydro enterprises were founded and brought about quite outside of party politics, and it is in the best interests of the people of this province that publicly-owned utilities should be kept absolutely apart from partisan politics."

She referred to the Globe's statement of 1919 in which it was stated that "Beck does well to insist that both political parties must keep their hands off hydro."

"Having made this statement editorially, it is deplorable to see the good Globe today welcoming hydro into politics with Adam Beck to the instrument with which the Tories are trying to plunge the hydro activities into the political cauldron."

Urges O. T. A. Movement.
 In speaking of Beck as a public servant who dared to dabble in politics, Miss Armstrong used the humble postman as a concrete example of the inconsistent actions of Adam Beck.

"If a postman who is receiving only $1,800 a year were to dicker in politics how long would he last? Just until his superiors had drawn a line drawn to the breach of regulations. Why, then, should Sir Adam Beck be allowed to do so simply because his salary is $18,000 instead of $1,800?"

The fact of his indifference to public regulations and his falling away from the policy of keeping hydro out of politics should be brought home to him sharply, she declared.

Turning to financial matters, Miss Armstrong said that her descent could be traced back through generations of "outmeal-consuming Scots," and that it was only natural that she should ally herself with a party which carried economy as one of the stoutest planks in its platform.

"The O. T. A. and even a more rigid enforcement of the act we accept as absolutely essential to the welfare and prosperity of the province."

"The Conservative leader has been evasive in his dealing with this issue. I have nothing to hide and no reservation to make. I stand for prohibition and the enforcement of the act in every way which will stop the liquor traffic. I have here a statement signed by hundreds of manufacturers which states that since prohibition has been in force, their employees have enjoyed more prosperity, more contentment than ever before, and any measure which can bring that about deserves the support of all who would call themselves citizens."

Appeals For Support.

Miss Armstrong made a distinct impression on her audience when she outlined the "economy in government" clause in her platform. She stated clearly that she stood for fair and open public tender on all government contracts. She also championed the protection and proper development of Ontario's timber wealth, mines and other natural resources. This would tend toward economy.

In denouncing the reckless spending of the people's money that the province has been forced to put up with during the past four years, Miss Armstrong asserted that there was no more glory attached to dipping into the treasury of the province and taking money out of the pocket of one's best friend.

"I wish to add another plank to my platform," Miss Armstrong said at the conclusion of her address, "and it is greater educational opportunities by securing as much government aid as possible for the University of Western Ontario, thereby enabling every ambitious boy or girl to obtain at a minimum of cost higher education without going away from home."

Then referring back to the contest at hand Miss Armstrong reminded her supporters that the time was short, and that a great amount of work had to be accomplished in the interval between now and the election day.

"You know," she said smiling, "it has been said that it is impossible to elect a Liberal candidate in London. And I have also heard that no woman could ever be elected from this riding."

At this juncture she told the story of the British naval commander, Capt. Carpenter, who was called an impossible feat by tying up the German navy in the Mole.

"Capt. Carpenter, in an interview afterwards said, 'That thing was impossible, so we did it.' Miss Armstrong stated, 'And so I say that if the electing of a Liberal candidate in this riding is impossible, then we can do it.' (Loud cheers.)

At a special meeting of the Liberal executive held at 5:30 in the afternoon Miss Armstrong was formally approved by the London Liberal party as its representative in the election next week, and after last night's meeting careful organization plans were laid, and the enthusiasm which those present at the meeting displayed when their co-operation was sought bore well for the success of London's Liberal candidate.

BETTER HOMES IN LONDON

Who has done more for better homes in London than Adam Beck?

In 1913 before Adam Beck brought Hydro to London the citizens paid 9 cents per kilowatt hour for electricity to light their homes.

Adam Beck reduced the price to 4½ cents—just one-half the old cost.

In 1915 the price came down to 3.3 cents. In 1916, and in every year since then it has been reduced until today electricity costs 1.82 cents.

The average cost of electricity in London homes is a little over a dollar a month.

There are 3,500 electric cooking ranges, thousands of washing machines, vacuum cleaners, smoothing irons, toasters and other appliances, all of which help to lighten the burdens of housework.

Cutting the cost of electricity to less than a quarter of the old price has given London brighter and more cheerful and happier homes.

Besides the great boon of cheap electricity London has many other things to thank Sir Adam for—benefits which affect every man, woman and child in the city—pure water, playgrounds, lake beaches, hospital, sanatorium, university.

When it comes to a promise of better homes Adam Beck's supporters can point to a record of 30 years of performance.

No citizen has done more to improve the living conditions of London for all the people than has Adam Beck.

TUESDAY, JUNE 19, 1923.

The University of Western Ontario.

The laying of a cornerstone may be a small thing in itself, but it is one of the steps we have grown accustomed to in an undertaking that has definitely started in a given direction and is making progress.

The University of Western Ontario has made its first big step toward recognition as the educational center of the territory it is so well fitted to serve.

This school is the one big opportunity for a college training to be placed within the reach of the son or daughter of the average family in Western Ontario. For years a college education meant a lifetime of sacrifice for parents to whom the success of their children was the greatest thing in the world. Today it is here in London, within reach of the whole district, and within reach of many more family purses.

London takes this occasion to pay full tribute to the men who have stood behind this enterprise, to the men on the board and on the senate, to all others who have given unsparringly of time, money and energy in order that this great school should be gathered together under one fitting roof, and go ahead as a strong, capable unit in the educational life of this city and district.

More Workers Than Ever.

Any doubt as to how a woman candidate would be received in London has been set at rest. Any candidate could very well envy the meetings of workers that are turning out to the support of Miss Armstrong in London. Some of the old-timers were a bit skeptical at first; they wanted to see what the others were going to do, and they did not have to wait long.

The men in this campaign are around looking for a chance to get in on the organization, and they are finding keen competition because the women workers have swarmed in and taken possession of the camp.

Probably not in the history of Liberalism in London have there been so many workers, regardless of past political affiliations, come forward and offer assistance.

The idea of a campaign based on better home conditions for the people of London has made a strong, gripping appeal. It is a departure from the beaten path, and it leads in a direction that many are anxious to follow.

There is not a full week of hard work left. There are only a few days. Make every minute count.

If He Were Only in the Forest.

Hon. Howard Ferguson went into Prince Edward County on Wednesday to put Mr. Nelson Parliament, the Liberal candidate there, in his right and proper place.

Mr. Parliament was Speaker in the last session of the legislature, and had an excellent opportunity to watch the tactics of the Conservatives. His opinion is that they were there to hinder rather than help, and that their criticism throughout was harmful rather than otherwise.

Mr. Parliament also stated that many Conservatives were not behind their party as at present constituted.

Mr. Ferguson was quite het up over that remark. "I do not propose to tolerate any such suggestion as that," quoth he.

Farewell, Old Mustard Plaster.

Well, well. A lot of doctors gathered in Montreal, and one of them, quite an expert in his way, declared that the old mustard plaster was all wrong, and that the trouble it gave the patient was greater than the good it did him.

One by one, the fine old things that we looked upon as the fixed stars in our firmament of panaceas are being snuffed out by the very people who used to urge us to get into bed and put on a mustard plaster.

No man in his right senses would ever put on a mustard plaster unless a doctor told him to. With what infinite care it was prepared. A mixture of mustard and flour, a little grease underneath to keep it from taking the hide off.

And now, in this year 1923, a doctor in good standing rises to remark that the "mustard plaster is a relic of bygone days."

No doubt before the session is over some person will pull a long bow at the old idea of senna tea, while the very mention of sulphur and molasses would throw the gathering into an uproar.

Where We Get Our Milk.

Not so many years ago a dry season on a dairy farm was a disaster, or if not that, something fairly close to it. There was the old well near the barn, and a pipe running through the fence to an old wooden trough, where the cattle came to drink.

When that old well, fed mostly from rain and surface water, ran out, there was the dreary old task of putting barrels in the wagon and driving off to the nearest creek or pond, or to some place where there was a rock well or a spring. It added to the work, and it added to the annoyance and had temper of the cattle. Any man who has been through one of those seasons knows well enough what it means.

Today on many of the dairy farms around London it is a different matter. The herd come into the cow barn in the evening at milking time. In front of each iron stall is a drinking place and the water is fresh. As soon as enough of that water is taken out to the lower level an electric pump in the corner of the barn starts working, and puts more pressure on the tank, and fresh water comes to fill up the drinking troughs. It is from a deep well, and there is no work to it.

On a suspended track behind the stalls runs a box into which all the cleanings from the stable are thrown. The track runs out to the yard. More labor saved, more cleanliness.

The milking herd, all pure-bred and tested, in this case fine, well-formed black and whites, is clean, well kept, well fed, and if there is anything in the advertising man's phrase, "milk from contented cows," these were the original contented cows.

There are other such farms all through the district. The dairy farm of today is a specialized industry. The performance of each cow is kept on record, and the farmer knows when he has producers and when he has loafers.

City customers served from such places can rest assured that they are getting the best milk supply available. If as much care were taken by the consumers themselves in the handling of milk as is taken by the majority of the producers in this district, there would be little trouble.

Sir Henry Would Resign.

Premier Drury, on his visit to East Middlesex, took occasion to refer to Sir Adam Beck and his candidature for a seat in the provincial legislature. Drawing a parallel between the case of Sir Adam Beck, head of the people's power propositions, and Sir Henry Thornton, head of the people's National Railways, he asked:

"I wonder what Canada would think if Sir Henry Thornton, the president of the National Railways, elected to hold that post and still essay to run for the federal parliament?"

To this query there can be but one answer. Sir Henry would resign from the National Railway position, and if he did not his resignation would be asked for.

Premier Drury also stated why his government did not fall in line for Sir Adam Beck's hydro-radial plan. The Liberals took the same ground, and they hold the same views today. They did not think it was possible or commercially right to go ahead and build radial lines in sections of Ontario where the people already owned the National Railway system. They could not see the wisdom of piling on millions of dollars in a venture that would be a competitor with their own railroad. They realize that the method of transportation had changed rapidly in Ontario and that radial lines would have a very bad prospect of proving a financial success. There has been nothing since to show that they were wrong.

Sir Adam Beck still has that plan for hydro-radial lines, and if given an opportunity he will force the expenditure upon the province.

Sir Adam occupies a very delicate position in Ontario today. As a paid servant of the people he seeks a place in the parliament that is paying him. He is the only man in this entire election who has taken it upon himself to do this thing.

Spanking the School Teachers.

Are school inspectors supposed to turn the young lady school teachers over their knees and spank them? Are there printed rules and regulations to this effect, or are inspectors supposed to use their own discretion?

The Kingsville Reporter, down in Essex County, tells of a teacher in South Garfield who used to send children home when they did not behave. When a youngster stuck a pin into the hopeful in the seat ahead, the offender was sent home.

When another lad chewed up a good lump of paper and used his ruler as a slingshot to hurl it across the room, he was punished by being sent home.

The result was that there was quite a procession homeward bound for, strange to say, the children did not mind one bit being sent home.

So along comes Mr. Inspector to inquire why the young lady could not keep order in school. It may be he insinuated that she was a spineless young thing, quite afraid to strike out and assert her authority.

Just to demonstrate that she had some fight in her system, she slapped the inspector's face.

And just to demonstrate that he knew what discipline looked like and sounded like, the inspector put the young lady teacher across his knee and spanked her.

Yes, sir, he spanked her in the good old-fashioned way.

Since then, according to the Kingsville Reporter, things have been going along splendidly.

We pass this suggestion along to the London inspectors or to any others who may be courageous enough to consider it.

Note and Comment.

Germany owes United States $1,479,064,313.92, and already there is a fight on what they will do when they get the 92 cents.

Judging from the stand of builders in New York who have cancelled millions of contracts, plasterers' wages and tall buildings cannot both go up at the same time.

No doubt if the meeting had been held up in Northern Ontario Mr. Ferguson would pull up a tree from the Shelvin-Clark area and smite Mr. Parliament hip and thigh.

"They know that Mr. Ferguson is a millstone around the neck of the party."—Toronto Globe. And yet the Globe urges London Liberals to send down a supporter of that millstone.

Mr. MacBride says the Brantford Expositor is afraid he will start another daily paper there. And the Expositor promptly replies, "What really alarms this paper is fear lest he don't."

A magazine has a story on "Cheaper Clothing For Boys." But that is not it. What is wanted is a coat that will not poke through at the elbows and pants that will not give way in the seat. When that is brought forth we'll not squabble over the price.

Father's Day has come and gone, and as far as we can put our finger on the pulse of fatherhood it is about where it stood before. Many a father would call it a glorious celebration to find that his debts were all paid and there was a balance of $2.50 in the right hand pocket.

The London Board of Education made a good choice when they selected Mr. Everton A. Miller as principal of the Central Collegiate. Mr. Miller, in the South London Collegiate, with a school that had been tagged for being torn down, has built up a splendid institution, with a school spirit second to none in the province. He deserves the recognition the board of education has wisely given him.

AS OUTSIDERS SEE LONDON.

(From the Goderich Signal)
Sir Adam Beck has accepted the Conservative nomination for the city of London. The Toronto Globe, which worships Sir Adam as if he were a brass god, appealed to the Liberals of London to support him, but instead they have placed a candidate in the field to oppose him and Dr. H. A. Stevenson, the Farmer-Labor member in the last house, and at their nominating convention they hurled some verbal brickbats at the venerable Globe and told it to mind its own business.

There is some method, of course, in the Globe's madness. If Sir Adam gets into the legislature he may be able to browbeat some of the members who oppose the Beck schemes for spending hundreds of millions for radials and other hydro undertakings on the credit of the province. In the legislature recently dissolved, the Beck faction did not have everything its own way, much to the dismay of the Globe, which has never ceased to resent Mr. Drury's blocking of the radial plans.

The Signal does not want to get in the Globe's class by offering advice where it is not wanted; but it cannot help remarking that it would like to see the London people get in behind Stevenson or anybody else who can defeat Beck. Sir Adam, as chairman of the provincial hydro commission, has already all the power that is good for him or for the province.

JUNE MORNING.
I wonder if you've ever wandered down
Some leafy morning in the month of June,
And found a little dell, all green and brown
With fairy pipes atone.

And through the dell, perhaps, with tinkle clear,
The winds with jollity a little rill,
And on a mossy stone, the bank so near,
You sit and all is still.

On such a morning in the month of June
With grief and care you have not any part;
And silent sit—tis long until the noon—
And rest your weary heart.

The best news we've heard in weeks is that the man next door is going to send his daughter abroad to continue her musical studies.

Mrs. Krinkle told her husband she was going to take a beauty nap every day. And the brute immediately ran to the drug store and bought some sleeping powders.

The surest way to gain public esteem is to act as though you believed the public had as little intelligence as yourself.

The Conservative member for Kingston received an acclamation, showing there cannot be any citizen in that town worth a nickel.

An Illinois man charges he was kidnapped by his wife. It is generally done before marriage and by subtler methods.

The first time Crique knocked out a man he begged his garden. Which is more than landlords or bootleggers ever think of doing.

Measles!

By ANNE CAMPBELL.
The sun is shining bright outside—
I hear the children play—
But I must keep the shades all down,
I cannot run today.

I've got a rash upon my chest,
My fever's climbing high,
But other children skip the rope
Beneath the summer sky.

My mother says when I begin
To soria out at night,
Because I am the object of
This sad calamity.

The way she has to climb the stairs
To 'muse me more an' more,
She is the person in the house
We should be sorry for!

FALSE LOVE OF SELF.
For men shall be lovers of self.—II. Timothy iii., 2.
Some Christians are like candles that have been lit once and then put away in a cupboard to be eaten up by mice.
How much better to stay lit and keep on burning even till the candle is burned out, so long as it gives light!
There are plenty of us who love ourselves as if we were our own grandmothers.
Whenever the little chap cries for more candy, or somebody else's doll, we let him have it.
Dear little fellow, he is so cunning!
But the scriptural image of the divine love, which is to be our pattern, is not indulgent grandmotherhood but perfect fatherhood.
Now a good father desires each of his children to grow up, to develop.
He does not wish them all alike.
But he wishes the whole family to have peace and happiness.
He wants harmony from the different instruments.

HOW TO GUARD YOUR CHILD AGAINST SPINAL CURVATURE.

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M.D.,
United States Senator from New York.
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

Since the visit of Prof. Lorenz to America there has been great popular interest in the deformities of children. Curvature of the spine is a common ailment of this sort. Parents are prone to overlook the importance of posture. Habits are quickly formed by the young, and what is known as "fatigue hump" may be induced in so often as to become the habitual carriage of the child.

Every child should be encouraged to merit the name "Straight Back." If there were no other reason for meeting the family at meal time, the importance of keeping an eye on the growing children would be sufficient. After a severe and protracted illness there may be such muscular weakness for a long time that unconsciously one takes on a stoop or slump. Children who are growing too rapidly seem to lack muscular control and may develop spinal curvature.

Viewed from behind, the spinal column is practically straight, but viewed from the side it has marked curves. It is held in position by a multitude of muscles. On the free and normal use of these muscles depends the uprightness and proper position of the great "back bone" of the human frame.

Every teacher should bear in mind the importance of posture, because someone has called the schoolroom "the factory of spinal curvature." In a shoe factory or a sawmill the products are assembled according to size. This is quite all right as regards inanimate things. When it comes to children, however, it is not easy to "grade" them.

School "grades" are classifications according to the mental development of the children, and school authorities are prone to overlook the body in the grading process. They seem to think that all the children in "5-A" will be just so tall, have legs of the same length and require the same height of desk and seat. Of course, this does not happen, therefore, many of the children in every schoolroom are in wrong position every hour they stay in their seats.

Growing children must be watched as to their "carrying habits." Their books or other burdens must not be carried in one habitual way. The military experience of the vast number of young men who made up our army will doubtless be reflected in the improved posture of many children. Their fathers have been taught "setting up" exercises and the importance of an upright body.

Looking Abroad

By DOUGLAS MOREYNOlds.

Captain Horatio McKay, commander of seventeen Cunarders and at the time of his retirement in 1901 commodore of that fleet, probably occupied a warmer place in the hearts of more passengers traveling the Atlantic lanes than any of his contemporaries. For despite his rather brusque exterior he was geniality itself beneath the surface and there are hundreds who still remember the cosy little tea parties he was fond of holding every pleasant afternoon in his cabin under the bridge. He went to sea at the age of nine as a cabin boy, and news of his death at his home in England recently reached this country.

It was in 1862 that McKay, then the Cunard service as fourth officer of the old wooden side-wheeled steamer Asia. Eight years later he was given command of the Tarifa, which plied between Liverpool and Boston. In 1871 he was appointed to command the British Queen, and he subsequently became master of nearly all the crack ships of the Cunard fleet. In his long sea career he was many a critical situation and participated in numerous thrilling incidents, but never lost a ship.

The exploit with which Capt. McKay's name was most prominently known was the bringing into New York in the winter of 1902 without assistance the liner Umbria after one of the most serious accidents that can befall a steamship. The Umbria broke her propeller shaft in mid-ocean, and being a single screw ship, the prevailing type at that period, she was helpless. The Umbria was taken in tow by the Bohemia, but after less than an hour's towing the cable parted and the Bohemia disappeared. Day after day Capt. McKay and Chief Engineer Tomlinson worked on the broken shaft.

It being before the days of wireless telegraphy, the non-arrival of the Umbria, which was one of the most regular of ships in her crossing time, created intense suspense. She had a large passenger list comprising many prominent persons on both sides of the Atlantic, and when day after day passed and no word was heard from her the alarm as to her safety reached fever heat and newspapers on both sides of the Atlantic carried daily big-headed stories as to her probable fate. Meanwhile out in mid-Atlantic McKay and his assistants persevered until they had patched the shaft so that the engines could be turned very slowly, and the Umbria crept into New York harbor three weeks overdue, with everyone on board well and overflowing with words of praise for Capt. McKay and his crew.

An earlier experience was in 1872, when, while in command of the Malta, Capt. McKay left Boston with a large number of passengers in the teeth of a blinding snowstorm. After a run of several hundred miles the steamer's shaft broke. McKay rigged up a jury jibboom and sent aloft topmasts and put on all possible sail. By midnight of that day the Malta was making 7½ knots under a full press of canvas—brig-rigged—headed for Halifax, the nearest port, where she came to anchor on the evening of the third day following the breakdown.

In the winter of 1890-91, when the Umbria was on her way to Liverpool and a thousand miles from land, a sailing ship flying signals of distress was sighted. Captain McKay altered his course at once and on approach the helpless stranger found she was in danger of foundering at any moment. A tremendous sea was running, but he got the Cunarders' boats away and after a terrific struggle with wind and wave they succeeded in rescuing the whole of the ship's crew.

In 1893 Captain McKay was given command of the Lucania, then the crack ship of the Cunard fleet, and was her master the following year when she broke all records by making the passage from Queenstown to Sandy Hook in five days, seven hours and twenty-three minutes. In August, 1901, the present system of reporting the position of ships at sea by wireless was inaugurated on the Lucania by the New York Herald. A Marconi outfit had been installed on the Cunarder and the Van-tucket lightship had been similarly equipped.

The late James Gordon Bennett, who had shown the greatest interest in wireless and had brought Marconi to New York in 1899 to report for the Herald the America Cup races, sent the London correspondent of his newspaper across on the Lucania to describe the first practical demonstration of the new familiar method of ship-news reporting. Communication was picked up with the lightship shortly before midnight at a distance of 40 miles.

The correspondent sent off his wireless account of the epoch-making event, including a number of messages from prominent passengers and one from Captain McKay congratulating the Herald and its proprietor upon their enterprise. When the Lucania came up New York Bay early the next morning, copies of the Herald containing the story and messages wireless the night before were put on board at Quarantine and eagerly seized and read by the passengers, who had taken intense interest in the experiment.

Captain McKay, who was on the bridge, had no more than taken a rapid glance at the paper than he emitted a bellow and language that, coming from one who was rarely, if ever, heard to use the vocabulary of the sea, was paralyzing. "Man," he said to the correspondent, "I never said that. You and your devil's invention have misquoted me most shamefully!"

True enough, the text of the message printed in double column measure and ascribed to him was a composite of the messages of two other passengers and almost meaningless, while his own sentiments in a most frightfully mangled form were credited to a Mr. Murdock, a member of the Canadian government. The cause of this unfortunate misquotation was ascertained later to be that the operator on shore picked up before the Lucania's operator had stopped sending, with the result that the operator on shore picked up what was being transmitted by both at the same time. But Captain McKay was for a long time rather shy of putting too much faith in the accuracy of wireless.

The lowest castes of India are known as the "Untouchables," because merely to touch them pollutes a Hindu of a higher caste. In parts of Southern India the caste system is even more rigid than in the north, the Untouchables are forbidden to walk on certain roads, lest higher castes should be polluted merely by seeing them.

"The Ten Books I Have Most Enjoyed"

By REBECCA WEST.

Novelist, publicist and critic. Author of "Henry James," "The Judge," etc. "Vanity Fair" (Thackeray). "Don Quixote" (Cervantes)—I think partly because of Dore's illustrations, for I loved this book long before I could possibly have appreciated Cervantes. I don't know if they are bad art, but they're thundering good literature.

"Emperor and Galilean" (Ibsen). "Shakespeare, Sonnet" I can't help it. "The Golden Bough" (Frazer). "The Brothers Karamazov" (Dostoevski).

"The Dynasts" (Hardy). "Chapters From the Religious History of Spain" (Henry Charles Lea). A wonderful book, both for the stories of dead and living, and for the fact that Lea recreates, by sheer force of his own enthusiasm for the subject, because his style is cold and resourceless; and for its picture of a stage in the development of Europe.

"Lele des Penguins" (Anatole France). "Memoirs of a Midget" (Walter de la Mare).

LAVA FROM ETNA DESTROYS EIGHT VILLAGES

THOUSANDS HOMELESS
WHEN VILLAGES BURIED
BENEATH MOLTEN LAVA

Mount Etna in Eruption, Belches Fire, Destroying Eight Little Italian Hamlets—Rumblings Continue and Further Outbreak Is Feared—King and Premier Mussolini Will Aid in Relief Work.

REPORT OVER FIFTY THOUSAND NEED HELP

Special Cable to The Advertiser.

Catania, June 19.—Between fifty and one hundred thousand persons are homeless as a result of the terrific eruption of Mount Etna Sunday and Monday. Flow of molten lava from new fissures opened in the volcano's sides continues, and earth tremors are adding their terrors to those that drove the population of towns at Etna's base into frantic flight.

Six little townships nestled at the foot of the mountain have been wiped out by fiery streams of lava, molten rivers thirty and forty feet in height, that poured relentlessly down upon them.

A new lava stream advanced today towards the town of Giarre of twenty thousand inhabitants, which is doomed unless some event impossible to foresee intervenes.

Rumblings and levitating mutterings beneath the earth over a large area of Eastern Sicily continued incessantly this morning.

Refugees were thrown further into panic by these demonstrations. Fifty thousand at least are housed here or huddle helplessly in streets and fields, while it is estimated close to an equal number have fled elsewhere.

Rush Relief Work.

Relief work is being pushed on the outskirts of the stricken localities, and all possible aid is being rendered by order of Premier Mussolini.

King Victor Emmanuel is reported to have gone to Naples and to be coming here aboard a battleship to direct the relief work in person. But, for the moment, beyond seeing that the stricken are fed, there is little the authorities can do.

The devastating white hot metal streams that scorch to a cinder everything within three hundred feet, still pour down sides of the gleaming, white, and sometimes on their knees in prayer, the hapless peasants watch their farms and vineyards being swallowed up by the rivers of lava, and remain close as possible to their possessions until the terrific heat drives them away.

Terrible Spectacle.

During the night, second of terrors since the most violent explosions tore the top from the volcano that has long been only a muttering menace to the safety of the nearby villages, the spectacle was described as awe-inspiring by authorities who approached to render what help they could.

Like an immense brazier, Etna loomed over the stricken villages, clouds of smoke swirling far away in every direction from the blunt snout of the belching mountain, were lighted up an awesome red by the flames from the crater. Below the fiery inferno the volcano's side had split open and from five new mouths ran the white hot lava, spreading an incandescent blanket over the foothills.

Like an immense fan the molten mass that poured down the mountain's southern slope opened up over a width of about a mile. The blazing glazier-like stream advanced slowly forty feet in depth.

Town Threatened.

Pouring toward Giarre, largest town yet threatened, the lava early today destroyed the little hamlets of Giarre and Capanica. The destruction was complete. When the scorching heat had driven the last inhabitants from the villages, houses and everything wood began to smoke, then to burst into flames. The inferno of heat had practically wiped out the tiny hamlets before the advancing streams of lava poured in to cover everything with a molten shroud.

Every now and then the spectacle of destruction was enhanced by a terrific blast from one of Etna's new craters, and a pyrotechnic display as flaming cinders and scoricae were hurled thousands of yards into the air.

Professor Ponzi of the local university inspected incandescent ashes spouted out by the volcano, scientists hoping to learn much from these specimens regarding the habits of Mediterranean volcanic strata over on the mainland of Italy.

Fear Vesuvius.

Vesuvius is reported to be muttering and grumbling beneath the surface in ominous manner, her sleeping fires fanned possibly by the violence of Etna.

Mount Etna, on its isolated elevation on the eastern Sicilian shore, has been the most violent in 1908 at the time of the Messina disaster, when nearly 100,000 people lost their lives. The present eruption has been characterized by no loss of life, so far as is known. Destruction of property runs into many millions of lire and includes complete disappearance beneath the lava flow of eight little communities.

As for the town of Lingua Glossa, its fate remains uncertain. Reported by first refugees to be destroyed, later believed to have a chance to escape the inundation by the lava if the stream could be diverted into ditches and river beds, the town this morning was deserted while into its fields a molten wall 30 feet high advanced apparently with no possibility of the town being spared.

Heavily Organized Squads.

Heavily organized squads which had dug frantically to turn aside the lava were driven away by the withering heat.

MAYOR IS READY FOR ALL COMERS
IN CITY HALL ROW

Challenges Any One of Five Aldermen To Test Case at the Polls.

"MY HAT'S IN RING"

"Let 'Em All Come," Says the Mayor, "and I'll Bet Money People Will Support Me."

Mayor Wenige hurls a "blanket" defiance to all members of the city council who oppose his proposal to start a new city hall in 1923.

"My hat is in the ring with any of the five who opposed the move last night," Mayor Wenige declares.

But one inference can be gathered from this his worship is ready to resign and go to the electorate to test out the feeling of the taxpayers upon this important issue.

The challenge is directed toward Ald. Albert Judd, chairman of the finance committee; Ald. Leonard Douglass, chairman of the board of works; Ald. John Greer; Ald. William A. Wilson and Ald. John May (who insists that the new city hall shall be on the county square).

"I am confident that in the event of a test the majority of the people will be with me. I'll bet all available cash that I am right."

Ald. Judd has stated that while he is not opposed to the construction of a new city hall, he questions whether the people want it this year or whether they want it on the McCormick property.

Aldermen's Position.

Aldermen Douglass, Wilson and Greer occupy a similar position. Ald. T. May, Ridout street, urges the construction of the new hall on the corner of Ridout and King streets. His proposal was introduced in 1922 by Ald. May, but he was its sole advocate.

Ald. Gordon Drake has charged that while members of the 1922 council, now members of the present council, have been questioning whether the people want it, they understood perfectly in 1922 when the last city hall ballot was being prepared, that in the event the Spencer block proposal was rejected the choice would automatically be the McCormick tract.

"They are only bluffing," Ald. Drake stated today. "They are trying to get away with it, but they won't get far. Let them try an injunction. It won't stop us. We have them now, and nothing under the sun will stop the construction of a new city hall now."

ATTEMPT TO COMBAT
GRAIN-GROWING CRISIS

U. S. Governors Call Convention in Chicago To Consider Price Slump.

Associated Press Despatch. Chicago, June 19.—A two-day conference called by the governors of seven states in an effort to combat with what they term a "grain-growing crisis" in the grain-growing industry, opened here today.

More than 500 representatives of business, manufacturing and transportation interests, as well as farmers and agriculture organizations, entered the meeting with the hope that out of it might come a solution to the problem which, according to delegates, threatens to send United States wheat growers into bankruptcy.

TRAFFIC COMMITTEE.

Ald. William Wilson wants a meeting of the traffic committee, but has suggested to the city council that they defer it until after the election. It was gathered that Ald. Wilson may be busy this week campaigning through Ward Two.

EXPECT SIR H. WALKER TO BE NEW RAILWAY HEAD

Associated Press Despatch. London, Eng., June 19.—Sir Herbert Walker will, it is generally expected here, next month be appointed general manager of the Southern Railway group, consisting of the Amalgamated London & Brighton, the Southern and the Southwestern Lines, which at present are under the control of three managers, with Sir Herbert managing the Southwestern.

Waterloo Station has been chosen as the headquarters for the new group with the Southwestern Line up to the present time receiving the lion's share of the new appointments.

MR. MCCONNELL'S FINE COLT.

Western Ontario is becoming noted in the horse world for the show animals it breeds, and The Advertiser photographer here shows some of the horses owned by J. E. McConnell of Richmond street north. In the lower picture is Winsome, a yearling sired by Springside, winner of the King's Plate in 1918, and at the top is another colt from the same Canadian light saddle mare shown at the right.

North End Resident Looks For Great Things From Winsome, Which He Expects Will Be Fine Show Horse.

Interest in horse breeding in Ontario has become so great during the past four or five years that the province is winning recognition not only from other provinces in the Dominion but from many foreign countries as well. Western Ontario boasts of stables that rank among the first in this part of the country.

The number of classy thoroughbreds imported into the province recently for stud purposes shows conclusively that Ontario is forging ahead in the horse world. Most successful has been the experiment of breeding these imported horses with good Canadian stock, and in London there is a yearling colt that already shows class, and in one or two years is likely to draw considerable attention to the Forest City.

HEAT WAVE HERE
WITH FULL FORCE,
AT 90 YESTERDAY

Temperature of 100.5, Record For 1921, Expected To Be Surpassed.

82 AT 8 A.M. TODAY

Weather Forecasts Have No Hope of Rain or Moderating Temperature.

London tied with Ottawa yesterday for the doubtful honors of being the hottest place in the Dominion of Canada, the temperature in both cities being 90 in the shade.

The hot spell which struck this city some days ago bids fair to continue for some time, as no relief, in the form of rain or a moderation of temperature appears to be in sight, according to weather prophets.

The heat yesterday, which for the whole day ran between 80 and 90 degrees, will probably be eclipsed today, the thermometer at 8 o'clock this morning showing 82 while at the same time yesterday it was 80. The peak was not reached until about 3 p.m. yesterday, as at 2 o'clock the mercury was up to 89.2 and still rising.

It is altogether probable that if the heat wave continues for a few more days, the record set in 1921 of 100.5 degrees in the shade will be topped or equalled.

Citizens yesterday took advantage of any place that might prove to be a little cooler than the outside or city air. The theatres, well ventilated and equipped with refrigerating plants, were cool spots, and managers report that good attendance was in evidence at all of them.

In the late afternoon and evening the cars for Port Stanley and Springbank Park were crowded with people seeking to escape the sultry atmosphere in town. Even at the lake shore, however, the heat wave was intense, and a cooling breeze late in the day was all that saved the situation.

At Springside the animals, as well as the visitors, reflected the heat and were in a lethargic state most of the day, only showing some sign of animation after the sun had gone down.

The Thames River at more than one spot proved attractive to the younger generation, and scores of them were to be seen sitting partially submerged in the water or swimming from bank to bank.

Ice cream parlors and kindred establishments were favorite spots for those who could not leave town. Sales for the day exceeded any since the first of the year, and the merchants of summer drinks and other cooling substances report that they are well satisfied with the volume of business done.

ASK GOVERNMENT AID FOR JOCKEY CLUBS

Officials Request Quebec Provincial Treasurer For a Rebate on Bettings.

Canadian Press Despatch. Montreal, June 19.—Representatives of the jockey clubs operating race tracks in the province of Quebec, conferred here yesterday with Hon. Jacob Nicol, provincial treasurer, asking that they be given assistance by the government in the form of a percentage of the government's share of the take-off from the pari mutuel machines, the amount to cover the expenditure of collecting taxation for the government.

It was shown that none of the clubs in the province made money last season, and the additional taxation this year on the mutuels handled caused attendance to fall off thus placing them at a further disadvantage. Hon. Jacob Nicol promised that the request of the various jockey clubs would be considered, and a definite answer given before July 1.

LEADERS PAY WITH LIVES

Associated Press Despatch. Riga, June 18.—Reports received here from the Caucasus say that a number of young Communists called "Komsomolski" forced an entrance into a convent at Kutais, denied the shrines and insulted and mistreated the nuns. The next day three of the band were found dead in the streets of Kutais, having been killed by unknown persons.

DELORME TRIAL
IS ON TOMORROW
FOR THIRD TIME

Accused Clergyman Will Be Tried For Murder of His Wealthy Half-Brother.

CASE IS UNIQUE

Prisoner With No Civil Status To Be Tried For His Life.

Special to The Advertiser. Montreal, June 19.—What will undoubtedly prove to be one of the most sensational cases in the criminal annals of Canada, will start here tomorrow, when the Rev. J. A. Delorme will be put on trial in the court of King's Bench, charged with the murder of his half-brother Raoul. Not only is it unusual for a clergyman of any denomination to face such a charge, but this is said to be the first time in the history of British jurisprudence that a person deprived of his civil rights has been placed on trial for his life.

Delorme, so far as his standing as a citizen of Canada for the Empire, is concerned, does not exist, yet he is to be put on trial for his life, and this is expected to prove the crucial point in the trial. Acting Chief Justice Martin ruled last week, when the case was called before him, that the lawyers representing the one appointed curator of the clergyman's estate had no standing in the criminal courts. He would be allowed to make a "suggestion" to the court relative to the sanity of the accused, but would not be allowed to enter a "plea" of insanity.

Whether Sir Francis Lemieux will take the same stand remains to be seen. Lawyers with years of practice in all sorts of criminal cases say this one is unique, and there is no former precedent to happen. It is possible, they say, for the lawyers acting for the curator, in the event of their not being allowed to enter a plea of insanity, to take that adverse decision in their right up to the jury court. Were that to happen, the accused would be taken to Bordeaux jail, and the trial would be postponed for many months.

Ferguson and Nickle Will Address Mass Meeting in Massey Hall.

Canadian Press Despatch. Toronto, June 19.—Hon. G. Howard Ferguson and W. F. Nickle, K.C., the Conservative leaders, are in the city today in anticipation of the Conservative mass meeting in Massey Hall tonight. It is expected that the Opposition leaders will reply in detail to the election manifesto issued yesterday by Premier Drury on behalf of the U. F. O.-Labor government.

It is announced that Messrs. Ferguson and Nickle will do all the speaking to be done from the platform at the meeting tonight. There are ten Conservative candidates in the Toronto ridings. They have been seen at the mass meeting, but not heard.

Today Mr. Ferguson is taking part in various conferences with Toronto Conservatives, arranging the eleven-hour plans of the local leaders for "holding their own" in the provincial capital and surrounding ridings. In the Northwest and North-east Toronto ridings, comprising largely residential districts, each have a large number of voters, the temperance forces are actively canvassing and urging the voters to support only strongly pledged prohibition candidates no matter what party they are attached to.

Throughout the province the campaign is progressing vigorously in all contested ridings. Wellington, Ont., the Liberal leader, speaks in the city today, while Premier Drury is touring the Essex and Elgin constituencies.

Delorme was then sent to St. Jean, where he was transferred to the Insane at Beauport, a few miles from Quebec. There, three lawyers representing Adelard Delorme, brother-in-law of the accused, applied to the civil courts to have him interned in a lunatic asylum, and to have him (Delorme) appointed curator of his estate, valued at upwards of a quarter of a million of dollars. The trial entered an unanimous verdict that the Rev. J. A. Delorme was not fit mentally to stand trial.

In the next several months there were various rumors that Dr. Delorme was sane and was over-ruled at the interdiction proceedings, was to send a certificate to the lieutenant-governor-in-council that Delorme was sane. This was done in due time, and after a meeting of the cabinet Premier Taschereau said that the Delorme would be sent back to Montreal to stand trial.

He arrived back at Bordeaux jail in the same secret way that he used to be transported from Back River, to the court house during the first insanity trial. No one except the officials interested knew of his movements.

The next step was the calling of the case before Chief Justice Martin to have a date set for the trial. When it came up, Gustave Monette, K.C., who had previously succeeded in having Delorme interned, again put in the insanity plea. Mr. Justice Martin let it be speedily understood that the court had nothing to do with the insanity plea, but that the insanity plea, as mentioned above, he stated that the lawyer for the curator might make a "suggestion" of insanity at the trial proper, but that the "plea" of that sort would be entertained.

Will Sir Francis Lemieux take the same stand?

In other words, can a person who has no civil rights be put on trial for his life?

The calling of the case tomorrow will at least start an elucidation of that point.

Mrs. Marguerite Matzenauer, opera singer, and her daughter, Adrienne, have sailed from New York for an extended tour of the continent. She will return for fall musical season.

The city council has officially amended by-law, compelling the closing of Victoria Park to vehicles. It was further recommended to the parks board that they place posts in the centre of the entrances.

Weddings and Engagements

Ladies' Auxiliary Arranges Sanatorium Garden Party

Conveners Are Appointed For the Big Fete Which Will Mark the Fourteenth Anniversary of the Hospital Opening.

One of the outstanding functions of this month will be the garden party which is to be held in the grounds of the Queen Alexandra Sanatorium at Byron, under the auspices of the London Health Association. The occasion of the garden party is June 27, the fourteenth anniversary of the opening of that institution, and the hostesses for the occasion will be the members of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the London Health Association, of which Mrs. George Brown is president.

The R.C.R. band will be in attendance throughout the whole afternoon, when the grounds of the sanatorium will be thrown open to the public for inspection. This band, made up of patients of the hospital, will also have a tent in which they will display their work for sale as well as candy and soft drinks. The visitors of the day, however, will be the guests of the Health Association at the tea hour.

The reception committee will include Mrs. H. E. Gates, vice-president of the Ladies' Auxiliary; Mrs. (Dr.) Platon, wife of the superintendent of the sanatorium; Miss Forster, lady superintendent, and the wives of the medical house staff at the sanatorium.

Mrs. C. H. Ziegler is convenor of the tea committee, with Mrs. Ibbotson-Leonard in charge of the ice cream. Mrs. Ziegler's committee includes Mrs. C. R. Somerville, Mrs. Ray Lawson, Mrs. Thomas Baker, Mrs. Arthur Little, Miss Helen Little, Miss Marion Beck, Mrs. Ronald Harris, Mrs. Thomas Parsons, Mrs. J. C. Judd, Mrs. B. C. McCann, Mrs. Archie McMahon and Mrs. Hume Cronyn.

On Mrs. Leonard's ice cream committee, there are Mrs. Harley Brown, Mrs. F. R. Eccles, Mrs. Thomas Coffey, Mrs. C. E. Morris, Mrs. Gordon Ingram, Mrs. Thomas Parsons, Mrs. Johnston, Mrs. F. E. Parnell, Mrs. J. Cameron Wilson, Mrs. Lionel Eliot, Miss Alice Leonard, Miss Mary Meredith, Mrs. C. H. Hyman and Mrs. J. H. Chapman.

LONDON GOLFERS WIN OVER HAMILTON TEAM

Eight Local Players Defeated Their Opponents With One Match Tied.

The London team of lady golfers defeated the Hamilton team at the Hunt Club links yesterday afternoon, with eight and half wins for London and three and a half wins for the Hamilton ladies. The match, which was played on Friday, was at one thirty o'clock, and many of the club members gathered at the first tee to witness the start of the match. A club luncheon was served following the arrival of the Hamilton team in the city, which was also attended.

This is the first visit of an outside team this season, and it is expected that it will be followed by many more similar matches. The London team goes to Woodstock on Friday to play the team there.

The play yesterday afternoon was as follows: Miss Helen Baker defeated Miss Marion Beck, 1 to 0; Miss George Little defeated Miss Wright of Hamilton; Miss George Little defeated Miss Macfarlane of Hamilton; Mrs. Counsel of Hamilton and Mrs. Sterling tied; Miss Jo Belton defeated Mrs. Robinson of Hamilton; Mrs. Ronald Harris defeated Mrs. Colin Gibson of Hamilton; Mrs. C. O. Warner defeated Mrs. M. Hendrie of Hamilton; Mrs. C. R. Crerar of Hamilton defeated Mrs. Ernest Williams; Mrs. W. G. Webster defeated Mrs. Bliss of Hamilton; Mrs. M. Hendrie of Hamilton defeated Mrs. Claude Brown and Mrs. George Belton defeated Mrs. Waddie.

WEDDINGS

HOWSE-SHAW.

A quiet but pretty wedding took place on Saturday afternoon at four o'clock in the Methodist Church, Luton, when Geraldine Joy, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. E. A. Shaw, was united in marriage to Mr. Thomas K. Howse, of Luton.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, who also performed the ceremony, and was prettily attired in smoke blue tulle, crepe with pale yellow trimmings. She wore a bouquet of sweet peas and Ophelia roses.

Miss Flory Edwards of Bayfield played the wedding music and Mrs. Walter J. Glassford of Luton, cousin of the bride, sang "O Promise Me".

Following the ceremony a buffet luncheon was served at the parsonage, after which the young couple left for a brief honeymoon amid showers of confetti and good wishes.

BALL-TRINNEAR.

An interesting wedding took place on Thursday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Byron C. Trinnear in Raleigh street, Chatham, when their eldest daughter, Myrtle Marguerite, was united in marriage to Walter G. Ball, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. David Ball of Raleigh. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. H. W. Crews, pastor of Park Street Methodist Church, at 3 o'clock, in the presence of the immediate relatives of the bride and groom. A beautiful arch of evergreens, orange blossoms, peonies, lilacs-of-the-valley and fern made a most artistic decoration for the drawing-room, where the marriage took place.

The bride, who was given away by her father, was very attractive in silver gray tulle, crepe, heavily beaded, and gray slippers and stockings. Her flowers were a corsage of roses.

JESSIE MACFARLANE WILL DIRECT 'Y' WORK

Miss Edith Wynne-Pryce, physical director of the Y. W. C. A., leaves at the end of the month for the Chautauqua School of Physical Education in New York, where she will spend the next six weeks in study. On her way to Chautauqua she will make a brief visit in Cleveland. Miss Pryce will return to London in September after spending the last days of the summer in Pictou.

During Miss Pryce's absence Miss Jessie Macfarlane will carry on her work in connection with the Y. W. C. A. physical department. Miss Macfarlane, who is a fourth-year student at the Western University, has had two seasons' experience in the city playground work, and is eminently fitted to substitute for Miss Pryce during the summer.

Miss Pryce hopes to come back to London in the fall with many new ideas for an exceptionally fine season's work next winter.

Bathing Suits Designed For Sit or Swim Bathers

Difference Consists Chiefly In Amount of Material Used—Sitting Suits Are Effective Beach Anchors.

Special to The Advertiser. Copyright.

New York, June 18.—"Sink or swim" is no longer an applicable motto for the roaring summer resort beaches of America. It is "sit or swim" now, and bathing suits are designed strictly according to whether the wearer does the one or the other. The differentiation between them consists principally of the amount of material involved. A swimmer in a sitting bathing suit would be about as effectively anchored by the present voluminous draperies as the Leviathan at dock.

Mothers and Their Children

One Mother says: "I have taught my little girl to play 'flag pole in the wind,' which is a very good exercise for muscular development. She stretches her hands straight above her head, the body revolving at the waist so that the tips of her fingers move in circles around her head." (Copyright, 1922, Associated Editors.)

THE GIRLS. The city was filled with the clamor of boys. The papers carried stories about them. One played at being mayor and another at being the comptroller for a day. Boys took the principals' chairs in schools and boys paraded thousands strong.

"Why isn't there some reference to girls?" demanded somebody of the busy man in charge of Boys' Week. "Why, we computed the percentage of girls that were sent to institutions or placed under arrest, or got into trouble one way and another, and it was negligible. We thought it better to put all our effort on the boys."

Which may have been the very right thing to do. I'm not sure. In my mind something reveals. Surely one need not get into jail before being worthy of care and attention and appreciation!

All honor to the girls! So here's to them that they are not arrested or sent to institutions. All praise to them for keeping as near right as they can and keeping out of trouble with the authorities. It is no harder for a boy to be decent than it is for a girl, but the girl works harder at it.

And for that they are called the weaker sex, and boys are begged to consider their weakness and protect them! That day has long gone by. The notion that girls could not run, climb, swim, study and work as equal and competitors of boys has been laughed out of existence.

Costumes for beach loungers follow this same color trend but with much more elaboration of design and material. Some are even made out of chiffon velvet, adorned with elaborately embroidered monograms and flower-encrusted belts. The favored materials, however, are brilliant glazed chintzes, cretonnes and taffetas and broche silks. Some of the taffeta and satin costumes have attached jersey tights, but for most of them the voluminous and distended bloomer is substituted.

Aprons on Bath Suits. The apron, so apparent in the dresses of the day, is being followed in many of the materials used. For example, one charming costume, which has just appeared at Long Beach, consists of a black satin bodice, sleeveless, with puffed bloomers with two large Deauville handkerchiefs in brilliant colors falling from the waist and back to form a skirt. Another model worn was of glazed taffeta in brilliant abasque design, with the skirt split up each side over the puffed bloomers and decorated with solid wheels of whorl.

Yellow chintzes and taffetas are widely employed, being combined with black, blue and other shades which contrast effectively. Some models are elaborately embroidered, usually in flower designs. The beach accessories this summer carry out also the flower motif in many instances. The rubber bathing caps are called "flower hats," and are heavily crusted with rubberized blossoms, chiefly daisies and poppies. In fact, many of the materials used in both suits and accessories are rubberized. One never can tell, it might rain.

Moire Silk Caps. The most chic of the bathing caps, warranted not to show a wet spot from contact with suit or sand, are of moire silk in gingham designs and hoods or caps attached. A rubberized parcel of similar material goes with them. Bathing shoes follow as closely as possible in crinkled rubber, and are of various designs and are worn in a very wide variety of colors. They slip on without laces. The big Paisley, Deauville and Egyptian handkerchiefs are used for multiplicity of purposes on the beach. They are wrapped turban-wise around the rubber bathing caps, and are used to wipe the face when the wearer enters the surf. They may be wrapped around the shoulders to avoid sunburn or draped around the hips to avoid arrest.

At school the girls are beating the boys at their studies. They can swim and make records; they can play games and gain health and strength and team spirit. They can earn their own living without help from their boys. From this generation on the boys will have to earn their places in the lives of the girls. The air of condescension is just funny. The girls know.

I'm glad for them. Every time I pass the playground and see them racing across it, their knickered legs free and graceful with the power and strength of health, I cheer in joy and hope that their grandmothers asleep on the hill know and rejoice.

Poor things! Burdened with dragging petticoats, choked with tight clothes, lamed with ill-shod feet, crippled by convention! How they must smile down on these free, healthy, growing girls. Fine girls.

On second thought, I don't envy that week for the boys. They probably need it far more than the girls, just as the good man said. Soon the boys will find they have all they can do to hold their own with them. For the girls of today are strong in body and mind. They are sane as to their relations with the boys. They are no longer looking up to them and they expect to be able to look across on the level at them. The boys will have to step out a bit lest the girls look down.

Canadian Golf and Golfers

By Miss Cecil Leitch, Canadian Ladies' Open Champion, 1921. Thrice Winner of British Ladies' Open Championship.

SUGGESTIONS TO CANADIAN GOLFERS.

One point that also strikes the visiting golfer favorably in Canada is the way in which the comfort of the players is studied in every detail. For example, drinking water is to be found at regular intervals on the round. In a country where the game is played under a scorching sun, with out so much as a breeze to temper the heat, these comforts are much appreciated, particularly by visitors accustomed to these luxuries and such climatic conditions.

During my trip I was fortunate enough to see Taylor and Herd play over the two courses of the Royal Montreal Club at Dixie; also Duncan and Mitchell over the course of the Toronto Golf Club. These were two of the most interesting days I have ever spent as a spectator. Taylor's exhibition at Dixie was little short of phenomenal, while Herd also played golf worthy of the occasion.

The courses over which they played had only just been opened, consequently the fairways and putting greens were treacherous, but Taylor's ball was so perfectly hit that nothing seemed to affect it. His drives were like shots from a gun, his approach was perfect, and his putting uncanny.

As I followed him around, I wished that more of his innumerable British admirers could have to do on share with me the pleasure of seeing the five times British Open champion playing as fine a game as he has ever done in the whole of his wonderful career.

The Trials of Touring.

I asked him whether he and Herd had displayed form like that in all the matches in which they had taken part, and they both had to do on but he regretfully remarked that they had both felt far from fit for about a fortnight after landing. The travelling and the change of climate in these tours is most exhausting, and the consistently good form which they produce is, therefore, doubly creditable.

At the Movies Last Night

"Backbone." A cool spot and a picture that takes one to colder climates is the offering at the Allen Theatre for the first three days of the week. Undoubtedly the building is one of the coolest spots to be found in London, while the feature film, "Backbone," has for its background the north country, an agreeable contrast to the alms, and the other play the piano accompaniment. Altogether the whole bill is good.

"Where is My Wandering Boy Tonight?" "Where is My Wandering Boy Tonight," the melodramatic offering that opened at the Patricia Theatre yesterday, is an unusual treat for the Londoner. It is a splendidly photographed production and tells a story that touches every human heart and does it in a way to grip the audience and hold it in its clutch to the last flicker of the picture.

"Where is My Wandering Boy Tonight?" has one can conjecture from the title, but it has heart interest in abundance. And the strain on the feelings is lightened at times by situations calling for quiet chuckles rather than laughter.

The dominating note is simplicity. Three of the four principals are small-town folks—the mother, her grandchild, the sweetheart, and the two former live in a cottage. The sweetheart is the employee of the town's big businessman—grocer and banker combined. The fourth member of the quartet is a girl of the show in the city. In the situations revolving around the boy and the show girl there are flashes of Broadway life as it was in the old days of a cabaret, with dancing girls and clinking glasses and riotous mirth.

Thill all this new picture will run the entire gamut of human emotions, with thrills, tears and laughter.

Fashions By Wire

Paris, June 18.—Tailored sports costumes today are likely to be made either of soft wool or of a silk and wool mixture, though silk jersey still remains a favorite with many women. There is some return to a bit of embroidery which takes the form of small flowers.

Squash Decides. Paris, June 18.—Many of the evening gowns worn at present are square in the back. The sides of the skirts often are gathered or plaited in a full effect. The shoulder straps are of pearls or flowers.

Printed Voile Fashionable. London, June 18.—Printed voile today is extremely fashionable for summer wear. One afternoon frock of pale green crepe de Chine was interspersed with bands of Assyrian printed voile, and had a short, loose coat, also of the voile.

The Greene-Swift Employees Picnic

One Hundred Attend Event At Springbank.

An enjoyable picnic was given at Springbank Saturday by Mr. German's department of Greene Swift company. Limited. There were one hundred guests present, and a happy feature was the presentation of a handsome gift made to Mrs. McGarvey for her kind assistance. The prize-winners were as follows: Girls' races, six years and under, Edith Rapson and Betty Gorman; six to nine, Esther Hudson and Mildred Horner; ten to fourteen, Beulah Hiri, Bernice Hudson; boys' races, up to six years, Howard Ross and Donald Colerick; six to eleven, Charles Hires and George Hires; young men, Perrin Gorman; married men, Mr. Hires and Mr. Thiel; single ladies, Edith Rapson and V. Kirby; married ladies, Mrs. Hires and Mrs. Gorman; novelty race, Mrs. Gorman; three-legged race, Hetty Rapson and Chas. Rogers.

Unique Bridal Veil.

New York, June 18.—The bride at a recent smart wedding wore an unusual diadem arrangement of her veil. There was wide band of lace and orange blossoms across the forehead. Above each ear the veil was held in place by a knot of orange blossoms, above which rose two wire wing-like peaks of lace.

YOU'LL GET RID OF BLACKHEADS, SURE.

There is one simple, safe and sure way that never fails to get rid of blackheads, that is to dissolve them. To do this, get two ounces of peroxide powder from any drug store—sprinkle a little on a hot, wet cloth—rub over the blackheads briskly—wash the parts and you will be surprised how the blackheads have disappeared. Big blackheads, little blackheads, no matter where they are, simply dissolve and disappear. Blackheads are a mixture of dust and dirt and secretions that form in the pores of the skin. The peroxide powder and the water dissolve the blackheads so they wash right out, leaving the pores free and clean and in their natural condition—Advt.

Luncheon For Three Hundred "Next of Kin" Given at College.

Several Londoners were present at Ridley College, St. Catharines, on Sunday, to attend the dedication ceremonies at the new memorial chapel erected by former Ridley boys to Ridley College men who fell in the great war. Among the names of the fallen, read as part of the beautiful memorial service, were those of Eric Hallman Ziegler, Alan Ferrie Gates, John Labatt Scatterd, Richard Shaw-Wood, and John McLeod Wainwright, all either former London boys or boys who have relatives in this city.

Among the Londoners who attended the service were Dr. and Mrs. C. H. Ziegler, Mrs. H. A. Kingsmill and

MEETING IS CALLED TO RATIFY BYLAWS

Montreal-Ontario Directors Will Legalize Treasury Stock Issue.

Special to The Advertiser.
Montreal, June 18.—A special meeting of the shareholders of Montreal-Ontario Mines has been called for June 26, for the purpose of ratifying several bylaws which were passed by the directors, among which is bylaw No. 26, which authorizes the issuance of 400,000 shares of treasury stock at not less than 20 cents per share.

A number of houses in the street thought that was the forerunner of a new issue of stock.

Inquiry at the head office of the company elicited the information that no further issuance of treasury shares was contemplated at any price, and that the purpose of the notice and the meeting was merely the ratification of the past action of the directors.

The public issue of treasury shares made last April at 40 cents per share, and the stock issued in payment of the adjoining mining property recently purchased by the Montreal-Ontario was taken from this block.

As no explanation accompanied the formal notice, it appeared to a great many shareholders that a new issue was contemplated. It is stated that the company's position as regards cash on hand, which is believed to be more than sufficient to place the property on a self-supporting basis.

The latest news from the mine is to the effect that the admen have been pressing on the two ore bodies cut on the 400-foot level, and that the cross-cut which is being run in from the 200-foot level to tap these same ore bodies is now in 65 feet.

The Kirkland Lake Gold Mining Company's earnings for the four months ended April 30, 1923, are as follows: Receipts, $98,775; expenses, $91,922; operating profits, $8,853.

The Nipissing mine produced $187,241 during the month of May, having turned out 250,000 ounces of silver valued at six an ounce. No new developments.

Success on the Keeley Silver Mines and on the South Lorrain properties of the Mining Corporation is far greater than appears to be understood outside the mining circles actually in contact with progress. For instance, the Mining Corporation has already produced nearly as much silver from South Lorrain this year as the corporation did for the whole of its year from 1921.

Achievements on the Keeley, not only in regard to extremely rich results, but also in the profits being realized, are so important as to form another chapter in the spectacular history of mining silver in Northern Ontario. After deducting operating charges, the Keeley Silver Mines realized a profit of $188,907 during the first three months of the current year, or at the rate of $188,908 a year. The company is capitalized at $2,000,000, made up of 2,000,000 shares of the par value of $1 each.

The profit during the first three months of the year, therefore, was at the annual rate of 37 1/2 per cent on the issued capital. Not only this, but instead of the output during the three months under review being abnormally high, the opposite was the case for the reason that the management was obliged to prepare the way for a comparatively long strike in May.

During the work of deepening the shaft and doubling the capacity of the mill.

NEW YORK, June 18.—The early raw sugar market was unsettled, buyers and sellers were apart, and prices were nominal.

The raw sugar futures market was unsettled. After opening at 10 1/2 points net higher, a steady feeling prevailed, and at midday prices were unchanged to 15 points net higher.

After the early selling had subsided prices moved on heavy covering and trade buying.

There was no change in refined sugar, with the granulated listed at $2.25 to $2.50. Refined futures were nominal.

Calgary, June 18.—Calgary Liberals are taking steps to urge the Dominion Government to name P. Burns as the next senator for Alberta. Edmonton has two representatives at the present time, but Calgary has none.

Mr. Burns is one of the pioneers of Southern Alberta, having been in the cattle business for many years.

HER HEART SKIPPED
EVERY THIRD BEAT

Mrs. James Bureleigh, 248 King St. E., Chatham, Ont., writes: "I think it my duty to let you know what Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills have done for me."

I suffered for years with palpitation of the heart, my nerves were very bad, and I could not be left alone at any time. I doctored for over a year, and the doctor said my heart was very bad as it skipped every third beat.

I gave up, just at this time, and then my mother advised me to try Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, saying my eldest brother had been relieved by using them when he was very bad with his heart and nerves.

I got a box and started to take them, and when I had used it I felt a lot better; could sleep a little and felt stronger. I continued taking them for about three months, and felt better than I had for years.

When I think of the misery and suffering I went through before I started Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, I feel like letting everyone know what they did for me."

Price 50c a box, at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price to The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.—Adv.

JUDD PROMISES TO GET INJUNCTION ON NEW CITY HALL

Alderman Declares He Will Take Action To Prevent Building.

FAVOR DEBENTURES

Nothing can now stop the construction of a new city hall in London in 1923 except possible lack of funds or court injunction procedure, and Ald. Albert Judd, chairman of the finance committee, promised Mayor Wenig during last night's city council session that such will be the inevitable outcome. In fact he will be willing to guarantee it.

Once again Mayor Wenig and his council ruled that 1923 was the opportune time to undertake the long-delayed construction of the McCormick property, and once again ward two's representatives, Messrs. Albert Judd, William Arthur Wilson and Leonard Douglass, assisted by Ald. John Greer and Ald. John T. May, arose in their places and battled until near midnight in a hopeless effort to change the decision.

During the night's session the city hall question was projected into the future. There had been no signs of an outbreak of any kind. Even Ald. Colbert's inquiry as to who was the alderman who had plotted to block the last session, failed to cause a ripple of excitement, and along about eleven o'clock, Ald. Judd, who had been the last to speak, declared that he was "beginning to get a bit sleepy."

But this all proved the proverbial calm before the storm, and before many minutes had elapsed "emphatic charges," "hot denials," and "fiery challenges" were bandied about like tennis balls.

Ald. Gordon Drake mixed in a quarrel with three outstanding opponents of the city hall project—Ald. Judd, Douglass, and May—prodding them gently when he delved into ancient history and related that the Porcupine district before the end of the 19th century had been a part of the city of London.

Douglass Opposes.
Ald. Douglass was on the forward line for those who do not want a city hall this year under any consideration—unless, of course, one is prepared to pay for it without charge.

The chairman of the board of works reviewed the old arguments that there had been no mandate from the people; that there were inadequate finances; that the city was in a financial straits; that Dr. Stevenson had not acted in accordance with the wishes of the populace; that they would be foolish to proceed; that they would be up setting their "pay-as-you-go" policy, etc.

Ald. Douglass insisted also that the price of the land was too high, and that the city should not be burdened with the cost of a new city hall.

Ald. Judd and Ald. Greer adopted more the role of prosecuting attorneys. Mayor Wenig was the chief witness for the other side. Dr. Stevenson would have been one of the witnesses, had he been in attendance, but none expected him until after June 25 at least.

A preliminary stroke Ald. Judd announced that "he was not against the construction of a new city hall and didn't care where they placed it."

This prompted the inquisitive remark from Mayor Wenig: "What are you arguing about then?"

"I think there is a right and wrong way to go about this, however," Ald. Judd enlarged, sensing a legal aspect to the proposal. Like Ald. Douglass, he questioned where the city's coffers would yield much money for city hall purposes and whether the 4,000 majority at the last election against a city hall on the Spencer Block could not also be interpreted to apply to the McCormick site. It was quite possible, he thought, that they could not be reconciled to such a large expenditure at this time.

Demands Mayor's Ruling.
As assistant prosecuting attorney, Ald. John Greer presented his case in quite an able manner, and quite satisfactory to his four colleagues. He demanded a ruling from Mayor Wenig as to when and how the city hall question had been officially and legally reopened for discussion after a resolution had been passed the many weeks previous that they would not build this year. "This line of reasoning was also presented in turn by Ald. Douglass, Wilson, et al."

As one of the city hall opponents would pause for relaxation, another would grasp the torch and hurry into the fight. There were no aggravating waits or delays. There was something going on all the time.

The mayor would grant an adjournment of the issue, Mayor Wenig declared in the affirmative.

"I think that upon such a ruling as this," vouchsafed Ald. Greer.

"If any member of this council contemplates such proceedings let him get behind me and do it," challenged Mayor Wenig.

"I guarantee that there will be," Ald. Judd promised.

"And if I say so there will be one," added Ald. Wilson.

Resignation Accepted.
During a spasm of crossfire, Ald. Drake drew from Ald. Judd and Douglass, who disputed his claim that the 1922 council had all understood that the hall would be built on the McCormick property if the people defeated the Spencer alternative.

"I don't want to be quoted by Ald. Drake," announced Ald. Judd, "as

CORNS

Lift Off with Fingers

Doesn't hurt a bit! Drop a little "Freezone" on an aching corn, instantly that corn stops hurting, then shortly you lift it right off with your fingers. Trust!

Your druggist sells a tiny bottle of "Freezone" for a few cents, sufficient to remove every hard corn, callus, or corn between the toes, and the calluses, without soreness or irritation.

At the instigation of Ald. John Greer, the board of works will consider the advisability of having some person on duty at the city hall on Saturday afternoons. He believed in continuous service to the citizens, and reasoned that those clerks so employed could have their half-holiday on another afternoon.

Waxing a trifle sarcastic, Ald. McKay thought that there might be citizens who would want to get in the city hall during the night, and suggested an all-night crew.

Ald. Watt thought if it was going to be an all-night affair he would bring his bed up.

Ald. Judd ventured the remark that some of the aldermen fail to appear at all.

"Not during the elections," commented Mayor Wenig.

"Well, you couldn't expect them to come from Sarnia," commented Ald. McKay.

Under the heading of "inquiries," Ald. John Colbert asked the mayor if he could report progress in his investigation into who were the aldermen charged with the attempt to block the last city council session.

"Not yet," replied the mayor.

"Do you expect to?" asked Ald. Judd.

Port Stanley Life Guards.
Ald. Douglass moved and Ald. Shaw seconded that the federal government be requested to consider the question of additional and adequate life-saving facilities at Port Stanley.

Life guards are life guards there appointed by the government," Ald. Douglass explained. "The majority of them are fishermen running tugs or other businesses, and the life-saving is only a secondary consideration. It is not their fault, of course."

While the council directed a general survey of all city departments including the L. & P. S. S. Ald. Colbert objected to a probe of the fire and police department by the Citizens' Research Bureau.

"I think this is an unnecessary cost," he maintained. "I don't think that it requires any great knowledge to ascertain what is wrong with either of these departments. I'm satisfied that we have a good bunch of firemen, although they are badly disorganized. We haven't any fire trucks, and the police, except through the estimates, and we are going to consider salaries soon."

Ald. Colbert could not see where anything was to be gained from a survey of the assessment, city treasurer's or city clerk's departments. "I can't see where the work could be done any better in the clerk's department," he asserted. "I often wonder how it is done so well under the circumstances. This is all a matter of getting out of the fire and police ourselves."

Ald. Watt wanted to know if the research bureau was qualified to survey the L. & P. S. S. Mayor Wenig replied in the affirmative, and upon his suggestion this department was added for the purpose designated.

DEMPSEY TO DEVELOP MORE FIGHTING SPEED

Champion To Train With Lighter Opponents For Next Few Days.

Associated Press Despatch.
Great Falls, Mont., June 18.—Developing speed by boxing with lighter opponents will be the principal work in Jack Dempsey's training camp for the next few days. It is indicated as a result of the length of time the champion boxed with Billy Wells, British welterweight, and Herman Auerbach, Salt Lake City lightweight, yesterday.

While boxing Wells, Dempsey remained on the defensive, swaying a crouching weaver as he stepped away from punches. The British welterweight, fast and elusive, piled into the champion, swinging from every angle. When Wells became too energetic, however, Dempsey made his head snap back with light left hooks and rights.

Dempsey appeared to be faster yesterday than for several days.

BOWLING MATCH TODAY

New Greens at Galt Used For First Time in Present Tourney.

Canadian Press Despatch.
Galt, June 18.—With a warm, summery weather the Central Ontario Bowling Association annual tourney opened here today at Soper Park greens with 32 rinks entered. This bowling ground of 22 greens, claimed to be the largest in Canada, was formally opened with this competition by Mayor J. A. McRivine, Dr. A. Soper, who made the green possible, and Dr. James McQueen, president of the club, prefaced the playing of the first bowl with short addresses.

The visiting bowlers were greatly pleased with the greens and their attractive surroundings. The advantage of such a large bowling ground was plain when all the 32 rinks got into action at the same time, avoiding the usual delays. Play in the first round was keen.

HUNDREDS GATHER TO WATCH LAYING OF CORNER-STONE

Premier Drury Officials at Interesting Scene at Western University.

SEES FINE FUTURE

Drury Declares No Better Work Than Development of Educational Institutions.

More than a thousand keenly interested citizens turned out in gala attire to witness the laying of the cornerstones of the new University of Western Ontario by Premier Drury yesterday afternoon.

The event, perhaps the most significant of its kind ever enacted in this part of the province, left a marked impression on the crowds who gathered about the platform from which the premier and A. T. Little, chairman of the board of governors, spoke. The historic ceremony was held under a beating sun and the woodland beauty of the grounds made a tranquil and inspiring background for the occasion.

Women in colorful summer dresses and officers of the R. C. R. and headquarters' staff in full dress uniform, lent a happy glow to the picturesque scene. Notables from all over Western Ontario, members of the university staff, clergy, civic officials, and persons prominent in educational life thronged the dais from which the addresses were delivered.

Premier Arrives. Premier Drury arrived at the university at 3:30. He was greeted by Lieut.-Col. Brown, executive secretary of the university; A. T. Little, chairman of the board of governors; Dr. W. Sherwood Fox, dean of the university; Mayor Wenig, John Pringle, Lieut. Armstrong, Sir Adam Beck, Philip Pocock, C. R. Somerville, Major T. J. Murphy, J. M. Donahue and many others. Dr. Hugh Stevenson escorted the premier to the grounds.

Mr. Drury participated in the mortar of the science building first, and then conducted the ceremony at the main structure.

A great throng encircled the improvised platform on which A. T. Little, Lieut.-Col. Brown, and the premier stood. Dr. D. C. MacGregor offered a blessing for the new building. The platform was crowded with citizens representing various local societies.

Praises Western. In response to the chairman's address, the premier expressed satisfaction with being invited to officiate at the ceremony. He declared that although the people of Ontario were proud of the University of Toronto, the new college in London would occupy as great and useful a place in the western part of the province.

"There is no greater work than the development of first-class educational institutions in Ontario," he declared. "No more delightful surroundings than these could be found anywhere. I am a great believer in small universities. I believe the future of our people will rest largely with the work accomplished by such colleges as Western and Queens. You are fortunate indeed in procuring such an admirable site."

"I wish to congratulate Londoners, members of the university staff and students on their success in constructing this splendid school. I suppose, if I have the misfortune to be again elected premier, my first duty will be to wait for me at the door for provincial grants. We must try hard not to give you too much. I can assure you that an educational enterprise of this nature will receive the full support of the next government if I become its head."

Inspect Buildings. Following the premier's speech Mr. Little invited the crowd to inspect the buildings as thoroughly as they pleased. He pointed out that other structures were going up, and desired that all interested should be fully informed as to the extent of the buildings.

The sides of College avenue leading up to the science building were lined with hundreds of automobiles. More than a thousand men and women mingled together on the campus en route to the buildings.

The selections played by the R.C.R. Band. Officers of the R. C. R. and members of headquarters' staff were present in dress uniform.

SALVATION ARMY OFFICERS LEAVE. Staff Captain Penfold of the Salvation Army announced the following officers who have received furlough orders to take effect July 1: Capt. and Mrs. A. Mann of No. 2, Capt. Clark and Lieut. Thomas of No. 4, Capt. and Mrs. H. H. W. Hovess, Ensign N. Scott and Capt. W. Paulkner of Forest, Capt. N. Tait and Lieut. D. Wolfe of Aylmer, and Lieut. L. Danby of Theford. Official announcements of their new appointments will be made later.

LET'S SWAP Molly—literary soul—For shelves of books was signing: "Stop your wishing," Mother said, "If books you can't be buying. Why don't you SWAP your time for some—Type manuscripts at night?" A SWAP-AD straightway Molly wrote—She's getting books, all right.

MINOR IN POOLROOM. Allowing a minor in the poolroom cost Ben Williams, 260 Clarence street, $10 and costs this morning, when he appeared before Magistrate Graydon in police court. Evidence was given by P. C. Parker to show that Ben Williams had been playing pool in the proprietor late one night. Williams told the court he thought the boy was 18. In speaking to the boy, Magistrate Graydon warned him that if he was caught in a poolroom again while under age he would be sent to a place where they did not play pool.

AMEND CLOSING LAW. After being effective but a couple of weeks or so the blacksmiths early closing bylaw has been repealed. A sufficiently signed petition against the Wednesday afternoon closing was presented, and the council had no other alternative.

NO OPERATION FOR HER

She Took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Escaped the Operation Doctor Advised

Louisville, Ky.—"I wish to thank you for what your medicine has done for me. I was in bed for eight or nine days every month and had a great deal of pain. The doctor said my only relief was an operation. I read of Lydia E. Pinkham's medicine and tried the Vegetable Compound and the Sanative Wash, and they surely did wonders for me. I feel fine all the time now, also am picking up in weight. I will tell any one that your medicines are wonderful, and you may publish my letter if you wish."—Mrs. Ed. BOERNLEIN, 1130 Ash St., Louisville, Ky.

Backache, nervousness, painful times, irregularity, tired and run-down feelings, are symptoms of female troubles. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound should be taken whenever there is reason to fear such troubles. It contains nothing that can injure, and tends to tone up and strengthen the organs concerned, so that they may work in a healthy, normal manner. Let it help you as it has thousands of others. It is now selling almost all over the world.

What Did You Do with That Match?

The suffering and loss caused by forest fires are common knowledge and, yet, carelessness with fire in the forest continues. These forest fires are practically all preventable.

Save Ontario's Forests They're Yours

Every individual who steps inside the woods should remember he is in the midst of highly inflammable property, for the upper layer of ground in the forest consists of partially rotted wood, which will burn. Lack of consideration for this gave rise to the strenuous situation in Ontario the last week of May and the anxiety for days in some settlements.

Thoughtlessness or bad judgment or carelessness cause practically all forest fires. Your co-operation, as a citizen, is needed to prevent these fires by taking the same care in the woods as in your own home.

INDIANS REALIZE THAT LONG FIGHT IS LOSING GAME

Men of Six Nations Unlikely To Continue Independence Struggle.

TROUBLE AT MUNCEY

Brantford, June 19.—Indians on the Six Nations reserve here are beginning to realize the futility of making or continuing their fight for independence, according to information received from there this morning.

Although Chief Levi General (Deskaheh) is still in Rochester, presumably continuing the fight on behalf of the dissatisfied faction of the Indians, the amounts of money being raised on the reserve are not so large as a short time ago, nor are funds being contributed so willingly. The Indians, notably the organization known as the Mohawk Workers, are beginning to worry as to where the money they have been sending across the border has gone.

Where Is the Money? Reports have been brought back to Onondaga that Levi is using it to further his fight in the Hague, under the direction of George P. Decker, American attorney and adviser to the Six Nations council of chiefs. No accounting has been rendered to the men on the reserve as to his expenditures, and although several thousand dollars have been raised, no one seems to know where it has gone. No mention is made of money at the council meetings, and at least not while a representative of the Indian department is present.

General, who has been in Rochester since February, has not been able to get his family across to the States, they having been turned back when they attempted to move to the American city. General brother of the absent chief, feels sure that Levi will not return to the reserve. Chief Chumney Garlow is acting as speaker of the council in the meantime.

Trouble At Muncy.

Members of the Windsor detachment, Royal Canadian Mounted Police, passed through London this morning on their way to the Indian reserve at Muncy, where according to reports drunkenness and fighting has been prevalent recently, as well as a small amount of bootlegging. Constables Weeks and Nelson stated to The Advertiser this morn-

Montreal, June 19.—Papass of papooses paddling puddles at Chaughnawaga Indian reservation, have heard the walls of their offsprings. Jack Canuck, hotelier, had pale face, wants to drive the youngsters off the broadway of the reserve village, and protect the growing braves and squaws from the night life covered by the dazzling lights of River Drive, Chaughnawaga, by forcing their parents, big chief, chieftain and brave, to keep the papooses inside the house after 9 p.m.

The Canadian government's order through the department of Indian affairs, and voiced by the government agents of the reserve, applies to all Indians under the age of 16 years. Fathers of families met on Sunday night in the Tribal Meeting Hall, under the presidency of Big Chief Dominique Two-Axe, to talk over the new order in indignant tones. The general consensus of opinion was that the pale face had exceeded his powers, that the law was another example of unjust interference with Indian affairs at Chaughnawaga, and that the order was issued only as a fresh measure of showing government authority. At the end of the meeting the chieftains decided to notify the department of Indian affairs of the decision to ignore the new ruling.

ing that they were on their way to the reserve to help the Indian agent at that point straighten out his troubles, which of late have been aggravated by the amount of liquor which has found its way into the reservation. They said they did not anticipate any trouble.

Special to The Advertiser.

Muncy, June 19.—Two white men have been arrested here charged with selling liquor to the Indians on the reserve contrary to the provisions of the Indian Act, and will appear for trial before the representatives of the Indian office on Saturday.

Mr. McGookin, Indian agent at Muncy, told The Advertiser that there had been several cases of liquor being sold to the Indians on the reserve and fighting on the reserve, and that he had been unable to discover the cause, outside of knowing that some persons were supplying the redmen with "fire water." Yesterday, acting on a tip supplied by one of the older and more sensible Indians, Mr. McGookin, accompanied by some police, caught the two white men selling liquor.

This morning two members of the mounted police arrived, and are making a trip through the reservation to see if the Indians are getting moonshine elsewhere.

Shipping Snails by Aeroplanes. So great is the demand for stuffed snails, a popular dainty in London, that consignments are shipped daily from France by one of the aeroplane lines.

ROYAL ASCOT MEET OPENS IN BRILLIANCE

King George and Party Attend Races With Full Ceremony.

London, England, June 19.—With the royal carriages containing King George, Queen Mary, and the royal party, driven by grays and bays, with outriders, traversing the course to the royal enclosure, the race meeting at Royal Ascot opened today, and despite the cold weather that has prevailed for some time, promises to equal in brilliancy any former meeting. That the attendance will be up to the standard is shown by the demand for houses near the course, and as much as ten pounds has been obtained for a single room.

Report Grain Crop Good Despite Heat In the West

C. P. R. Statement Shows Favorable Development and Farmers Generally Optimistic—Recent Rain Lessens Danger From Grasshoppers.

Canadian Press Despatch. Winnipeg, June 19.—Over the three prairie provinces during the past week has been warm, temperatures ranging between 75 and 95 degrees, according to the weekly crop report issue yesterday by the agriculture department of the Canadian Pacific Railway.

Crops continue to show favorable development, and farmers generally are optimistic. Rain has fallen heavily over large areas in each province. Grain crops apparently have escaped injury from the cyclonic winds over the week-end, and will benefit greatly by the rainfall, which followed.

MANY CITY CHILDREN SUFFER WITH TEETH

Dental Officer Reports 68 Per Cent of School Pupils Need Treatment.

Sixty-eight per cent of the children in London's schools are in need of dental treatment, according to the report for last year, just issued by the board of education.

In the report by F. W. Fuller, dental officer of the board, he says: "Last year the percentage was 76, so that 1922 was an improvement in this respect. In spite of this, I find that about half the children in the schools are getting no treatment either from private or from school dentists." Mr. Fuller later in the report asks the board to consider the appointment of another dentist.

The tabulated figures of the report show that 1,003 children are suffering pain with their teeth, and that in the months examined there are 1,908 teeth missing from extractions that should have been in place; 2,888 children have perfectly healthy mouths, and 5,339 are in need of treatment.

BANDITS ROB BANK OF $6200 NEAR CARIEVALE, SASK.

Associated Press Despatch. Lorraine, N. D., June 19.—Lorraine State Bank was robbed of over $1,200 in cash and $5,000 in liberty bonds Tuesday of last week. Lorraine is about 25 miles south of Carievale, Sask. News of the burglary had been kept secret in the hope that sheriffs and posses of men might come up with the yeags. Officials believe the robbery was committed by one of the organized international border bandit gangs.

POLICE CHIEFS GATHER FOR ANNUAL MEETING

Over One Hundred at Windsor From All Parts of Canada.

Special to The Advertiser.

Windsor, June 19.—Over 100 police chiefs from all parts of Canada arrived in Windsor last night and today for the 17th Annual Convention of the Chief Constables' Association. Officers were present from every leading city in the Dominion, Toronto being exceptionally well represented by Major-General Williams, Commissioner of the provincial force, Chief Dickson, a past president of the association, Inspectors Wallace and McKinney.

The convention was officially welcomed by Mayors Wilson, Windsor; Stodgell, Walkerville; McKee, Sandwich and Poisson, Tecumseh, and this afternoon the delegates when their wives were taken for a drive to Detroit.

Since arriving in Windsor, Chief Dubaut of Verdun, Quebec was taken suddenly ill and is in a critical condition in Hotel Dieu.

The convention will get down to regular business tonight when the first business session will be held.

ALD. WILSON LEAPS INTO ARENA.

Ald. William A. Wilson, ward two, picks up the gauntlet hurled by Mayor Wenig. "I'll resign tomorrow and run with him on the city hall issue," the ex-chairman of the board of waterworks stated this afternoon. "But he won't run. He's only bluffing."

Dry, Dull Hair Made Glossy and Beautiful By Olive Oil Shampoo

Tens of thousands of women now have beautiful hair that was once dry, dull, brittle. They have learned what all hair experts know; that olive oil must be used in the shampoo to leave hair soft and gleaming. You can prove this on your own hair. For you can use a delightful olive oil shampoo cheaply, at home. Get a bottle of PALMOLIVE SHAMPOO at any drug or department store. Follow the simple directions. You will be more surprised than anyone at the rapid improvement in your hair. For this gentle shampoo brings the loveliest softness and sheen to your hair.

An Unfailing Way To Banish Hairs.

(Beauty Notes.) Ugly hairy growths can be removed in the privacy of your own home if you get a small original package of delatone and mix into a paste enough of the powder and water to cover the hairy surface. This should be left on the skin about two minutes, then removed and the skin washed and every trace of hair will have vanished. No harm or inconvenience can result from this treatment, but be sure you buy real delatone.—Advt.

No Dingy Film

On the prettier teeth you see everywhere today

Do you realize how many prettier teeth you see in every circle now? And how many smile to show them?

It is so the world over. There has come a new era in teeth cleaning. You and everyone should learn how much it means.

Why teeth discolor

Film is what clouds teeth—that viscous film you feel it clings to teeth, enters crevices and stays. Food stains, etc., discolor it. Then it forms cloudy coats. Tartar is based on film.

Old methods did not effectively combat it. So most teeth were coated more or less. And few escaped the troubles caused by film.

Film holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay. Germs breed by millions in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

Now ways to fight it

Dental science has now found two ways to fight that film. One way to curdle film, one to remove it, and without any harmful scouring.

Able authorities proved those ways effective. Then a new-type tooth paste was created, based on modern research. Those two film combatants were embodied in it for daily application.

The name of that tooth paste is Pepsodent. Now dentists the world over are urging its adoption. To careful people of some 50 nations it has brought safer, whiter teeth.

Mistakes corrected

Research also proved that former methods reduced Nature's tooth-protecting forces in the mouth.

Pepsodent corrects that mistake. It multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva. That is there to neutralize mouth acids, the cause of tooth decay. It multiplies the starch digestant in the saliva. That is there to digest starch deposits which may otherwise ferment and form acids.

Watch it for a week

A test of Pepsodent will prove a revelation. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the viscous film. See how teeth whiten as the film-coats disappear.

You will quickly realize what this method means to the people in your home. Send the coupon for a 10 Day Tube. Compare it with the old-time methods. Cut out coupon now.

New Stories By O. HENRY

A SPORTING INTEREST.

It is a busy scene in the year of one of Houston's greatest manufacturing establishments. A number of workmen are busy raising some heavy object by means of blocks and tackles. Somehow a rope is worn in two by friction, and a derrick falls. There is a loud, jarring crash, a cloud of dust, and a man lay stretched out dead beneath the heavy timbers.

The others gather around and with herculean efforts drag the beams from across his mangled form. There is a hoarse murmur of pity from rough but kind breasts, and the question runs around the group, "Who is to tell her?"

In a neat little cottage near the railroad, within their sight as they stand, a bright-eyed, brown-haired young woman is singing at her work, not knowing that death has snatched away her husband in the twinkling of an eye.

Singing happily at her work, while the hand that she had chosen to protect and comfort her, through life, lies still, and fast turning to the coldness of the grave!

These rough men shrink like children from telling her. They dread to hear the news that will change her smiles to awful sorrow and lamentation. "You go, Mike," three or four of them say at once. "It's more larkin' ye have than any av us, whatever, and ye'll be after brakin' the news to her as aise as ye can. Be off wid ye, now, and shake gently to Tim's poor lassie while we try to get the corpse to shine."

Mike is a pleasant-faced man, young and stalwart, and with a hat look at his unfortunate comrade he goes slowly down the street towards the cottage where the fair young wife—alas! now a widow—lives.

When he arrives he does not hesitate. He is tender-hearted, but strong. He lifts the gate latch and walks firmly to the door. There is something in his face, before he speaks, that tells her the truth.

"What was it?" she asks. "Spontaneous combustion or snakes?"

"Derrick fell," says Mike. "Then I've lost my bet," she says. "I thought sure it would be whiskey."

"Jife, messieurs, is full of disappointments!"

"What was it?" she asks. "Spontaneous combustion or snakes?" "Derrick fell," says Mike. "Then I've lost my bet," she says. "I thought sure it would be whiskey."

CLYDE MARE PRODUCES RECORD FAMILY OF COLTS

Special to The Advertiser.
Chatham, June 19.—A thoroughbred Clydesdale mare, owned by Norman Filby of Howard township, has just given birth to its sixteenth colt, which according to local horse-breeder is considered a record. A family of eight is considered a good average for any mare.
The mare was born on the Filby farm, 23 years ago, and has never lived in any other place. At regular periods it has given birth to colts, and only one of the large family has died. The mare is a dark bay. The last five colts born to her were iron gray in color.

COLLEGE SERVICE IS IMPRESSIVE AND BEAUTIFUL

Alma College Annual Baccalaureate Proceedings Form a Memorable Spectacle.

A LOFTY MESSAGE

Rev. Dr. Dobson Speaks On the Eminence of Idealism At Graduates' Request.

Special to The Advertiser.
St. Thomas, June 19.—The annual Alma College baccalaureate service, held as part of the commencement exercises of the college, took place on Sunday morning, and the occasion, as usual, attracted a capacity congregation to the Central Methodist Church. The platform and pulpit were artistically decorated with flowers by the St. Thomas Horticultural Society, and the ministers participating in the service were Rev. Robert Hicks, D.D., pastor of the church; Rev. Perry S. Dobson, M.A., D.D., principal of Alma College; Rev. Dr. D. L. Warner, principal emeritus; and Rev. Dr. George V. Henderson, Bothwell, former pastor of Central Church.

The students, resident and day, Alma students, teaching staff and members of the college board assembled in the college grounds and walked in procession to the church, where a space in the center of the auditorium had been reserved. Arranged almost entirely in white, with here and there a delicately tinted costume, the entrance procession was exceedingly attractive and impressive, with it an interest exceeded only by that of the immediate service.

The choir was entirely composed of the college choral class, and when all was set, the spectacle was one long to be remembered, and reached a high degree of impressiveness, when all set to join in the opening doxology.

This impressiveness was maintained throughout the restrained and dignified service.

After the usual offerings of praise and prayer, Rev. Mr. Hicks welcomed all those connected with the college to the church, after which Rev. Dr. Henderson spoke a few earnest words of personal exhortation and counsel to the graduates, urging, as it were, that they combine the character of Martha and Mary. He spoke of hundreds of Alma Daughters scattered over the world, and of the beneficial influence of their lives, and urged that the present graduating class strive to maintain those lofty ideals attained by many graduates of past years.

The baccalaureate sermon was preached, on the request of the graduates, by Rev. Principal Dobson. It was a message of lofty idealism, but not so lofty as to not be intensely practical. "Happy are those who early in life are lifted to the heights where they may see the possibilities in God's valley," said Dr. Dobson, who spoke further of the eminence of idealism.

During the services the college choir, under the leadership of Stanley Oliver, L.L.C.M. (Eng.), vocal director at the college, who also presided at the organ, rendered "The Way, The Life," by del Riego, Miss Viola, "Wight of London sang sweetly, 'My Faith in Thee,' (O'Hara). While the collection was being taken Mr. Oliver gave an organ offering, "Nocturne," by Kroeger with Miss Margaret Macfie accompanying at the piano.

After the service an informal reception was held on the beautiful college lawn. Convocation will be held in the new auditorium Tuesday evening.

DRURY WILL ADDRESS PETROLEA ELECTORS

Jonah Webster To Speak To U.F.O. Supporters Wednesday Night.

Special to The Advertiser.

Petrolia, June 19.—The political hot air is boiling strongly in West Lambton. All candidates are holding extensive campaigns throughout the constituency.

Mayor Cook of Sarnia, Liberal candidate, and W. Haney, Conservative standard-bearer, have both addressed gatherings in Petrolia, and all eyes are turned toward Jonah Webster's U.F.O. meeting to be held here Wednesday when Premier Drury will be present and defend his administration.

Never in the history of a political election has such enthusiasm and interest been shown in this district at present, and the old-time spirit of partyism is returning.

LAMBTON LIBERAL PLANS ACTIVE WEEK

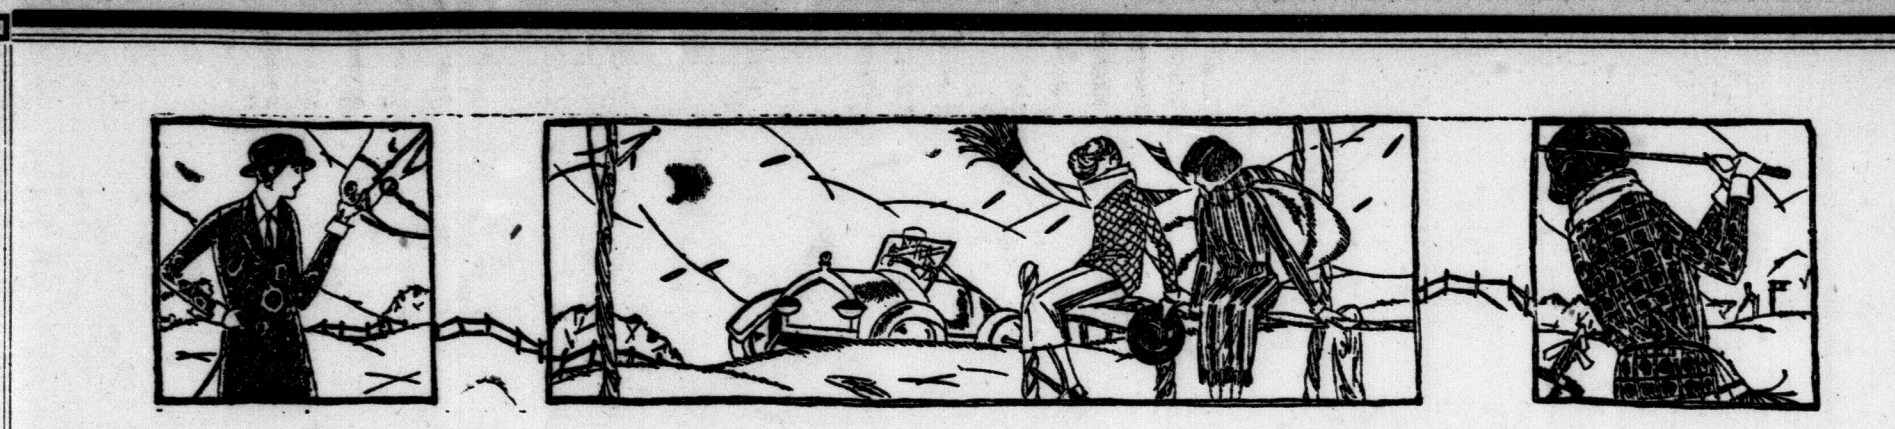

W. G. Connolly Will Speak In Many Centers In East Riding.

Special to The Advertiser.

Watford, June 19.—While no excitement is developing in connection with the election contest in East Lambton, there is a lot of earnest effort being put into the campaign.

Reverend W. G. Connolly of Watford, Liberal candidate, is unsparing in his efforts to redeem the constituency for Liberalism. His program for the last week of the contest includes meetings every evening. Tonight he speaks in Alvinston, with Thomas McMillan of Sarnia as the special speaker; Thursday evening Senator F. F. Pardee will come from Ottawa to speak in Mr. Connolly's interests at Theford; and on Friday, Frank Denton, K.C. of Toronto, will support the candidate in his meeting at Forest.

Mr. Connolly has a fine record. He served with the Third Canadian Mounted Rifles in South Africa. Then, later, after graduating from Toronto University with his B.A. degree in 1905, he spent seven years in missionary work in Japan. Since 1913 he has been a resident of Watford, and a member of the local council during

California "Mystery House" Finally Opened To Public

Five-Million-Dollar Home of Mrs. Sara Winchester In San Jose Will Echo With Footsteps of Curiosity-Seekers.

By WILLIAM PITTS.
Copyright, 1923.
San Jose, Cal., June 19.—The five million dollar "House of Mystery," built by Mrs. Sarah Winchester, widow of William Wirt Winchester, multi-millionaire, and beneficiary of the millions of the Winchester Arms Co., is to be thrown open to the gaze of the curious world.

Its 240 rooms, ingeniously laid out in suites of eight rooms each, connected by secret panels and hidden entrances, will be shown—at a price—to all who apply. The high wall-enclosed estate, within which the structure rests, is to echo with the footsteps of the crowd.

For a dozen years after her husband's death Mrs. Winchester resided here in almost complete seclusion, surrounded by a few trusted Hindoo servants, and practicing the rites of a strange religious cult. Grieving over the passage of her beloved associate, but buoyed up by a vision, which she told the few who enjoyed her confidence, had brought contact with his spirit in the next world, she conformed to that message until the end.

She said that the spirit of William Wirt Winchester told her to come to California and there to build a great home in which she must remain secluded. So long as the clang of the hammer and rasp of the saw were heard about this place she would live, but when nothing was left to construct or change she would die.

In consequence for years trusted workers toiled under her direction. The result of their handiwork is a maze of rooms connecting with hallways which seem to end nowhere, but which, in reality, are connected by means of cleverly concealed sliding doors hidden by paintings, mirrors, and the like. The whole interior is furnished lavishly and with a total disregard of expense.

Associated Press Despatch.
Ascot Heath, Eng., June 19.—The Ascot stakes of £2,000 with extras run here today, was won by W. M. G. Singer's Juniso, by Junior, out of Onaka. Lady Penryn's Donna Ines was second, and Lady Nelson's Mizzenmast third. Sixteen horses ran. The betting was 5 to 1 against the winner, 100 to 5 against Donna Ines and 7 to 1 against Mizzenmast.
