Crown Tells Court D. S. Perrin
Company Has Lost Thousand
Through Thieving.

Searching for liquor in a car driven by Alex. Wells, 388 Burwell street, last night, police discovered cases of stolen candy belonging to the D. S. Perrin Company. Wells was taken into custody. Several hours later four others were placed under arrest on charges of theft and being receivers of stolen goods.

The men were remanded one week by Deputy Magistrate Gladman in court this morning.

Percy Gower, 25 years old, 204 Sydenham street; Charles Taylor, 36, 84 Becher street, and Leslie Wilcox, 21, R. R. No. 4, London township, employees of the D. S. Perrin Company, faced theft charges, and Wells and George Martin, 29 years old, 244 King street, were charged with receiving the stolen goods.

Information against the men charge them with the theft of $95 worth of merchandise, the property of the D. S. Perrin company. Crown Attorney Albert M. Judd declared he was opposed to granting the men bail, because a greater amount than that stipulated in the information was involved. The D. S. Perrin company, he said, had lost thousands of dollars through thieving during the past few months.

Gower, Taylor and Wilcox entered no plea and requested they be allowed to secure counsel for their defence. Wells and Martin said they were not guilty and asked to be remanded that they also might prepare their defence.

Police Constable George Pilgrin stopped Wells' car on Wellington street last night, believing that cases of liquor were being carried in the car. He notified detectives when the candy was discovered packed in the rear seat.

Information which Wells gave led to the arrest of the other men, police state. They were taken into custody by Sergeant of Detectives Harry Down, and Detectives Thomas Bolton and George Walsh.

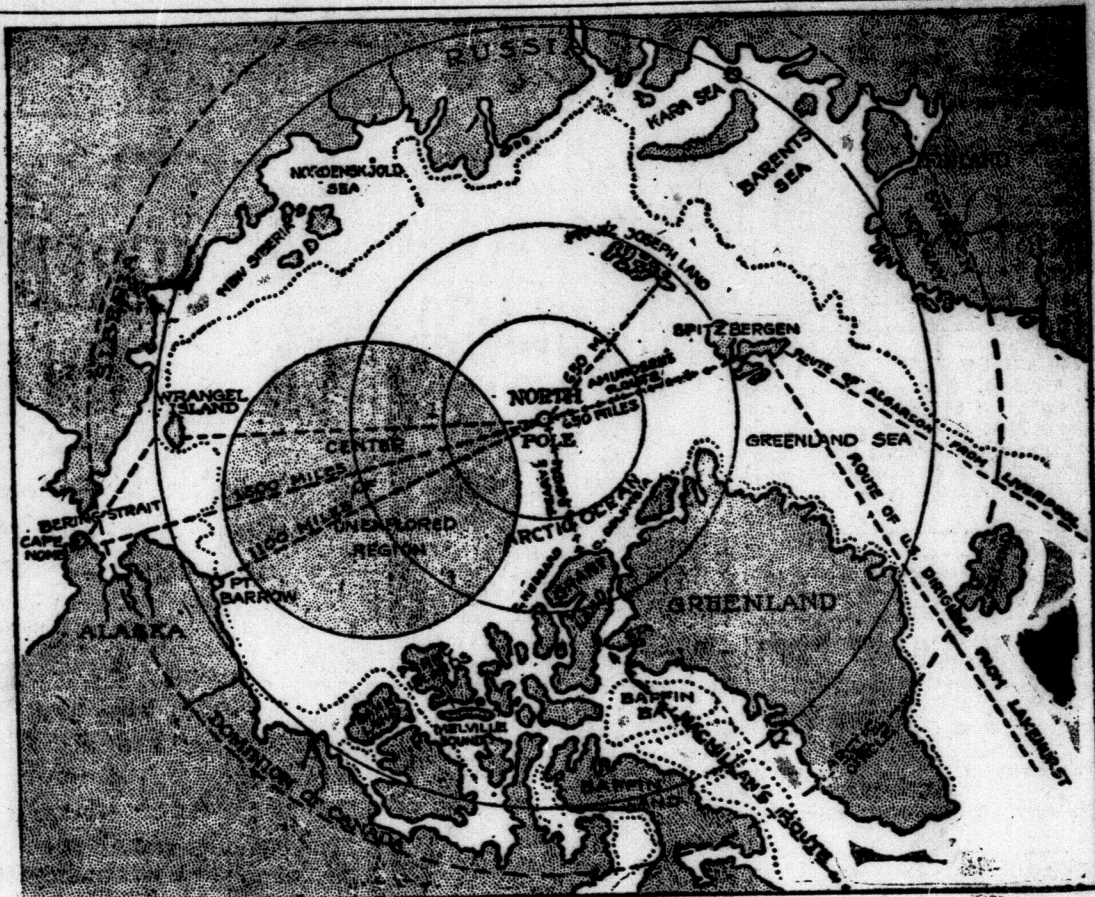

Soon after court this morning, Wells secured J. G. Gillanders in his defence and was allowed freedom on cash bail of $200. Application was made for bail for Martin. The three other men, employed at the Perrin company as shippers and truck drivers, will be allowed bail only on substantial sureties, Crown-Attorney Judd states.

ROUTES RELIEF PARTIES WILL FOLLOW.

The above map illustrates possible routes to the North Pole which three different relief expeditions may take in search of Amundsen. The United States government may send the great dirigible Shenandoah up north to Spitzbergen in an epic cruise of relief. If no word is received from Amundsen by June 20 Donald B. MacMillan will turn aside from his purpose and make search for the missing men. He and his party will go north by plane to Cape Hubbard at the northern end of Axel Heiberg Island, and thence to Franklin Bay and to Cape Columbia. Gretter Almgren, the young British Columbian, plans to use an airship after proceeding by boat to the west coast of Spitzbergen. There are two other routes to the pole that have in the past attracted scientific attention. One is from Point Barrow, Alaska, a distance of 1,100 miles, and the other is from Cape Nome, Alaska, 1,500 miles. It has been speculated that Amundsen may have flown over the top of the world and may be somewhere in these wastes between Alaska and the pole.

WORK UNDER WAY ON TECH. ADDITION

Construction of East Side Wing
Is Commenced By Contractor.

Work has already been commenced upon the new addition to the London technical and commercial high school.

John Hayman & Sons, London, contractors for the addition, at a price of $53,000, began the work of excavation yesterday afternoon on the east side of the present building.

The Principal H. B. Beal explains that the addition will embrace two automobile rooms, one domestic science kitchen, three academic classrooms, and a double classroom, which will be used for physical culture purposes. The latter arrangement will eliminate the necessity of the students leaving the technical school to go to the Y. M. C. A. for physical culture and gymnasium training. Incidentally the sum of $2,700 was placed in the estimate this year as the amount to be paid the Y. M. C. A. for privileges there.

With $53,000 for the building itself, $11,500 for the property on which the building is being placed, and $2,000 to the board of education for the services of L. E. Carrothers, superintendent of building and caretaking, for the preparation of plans and specifications, the advisory-vocational committee of the board will still have $37,000 for the addition with which to purchase the necessary equipment.

It is confidently expected that the new addition will be ready for occupancy at the reopening of school in the fall when much-needed relief will be afforded for the present overcrowded condition of the technical school classrooms.

Dr. and Mrs. Ferguson left London three weeks ago with the intention of attending the medical meeting at the conclusion of their trip. The convention commenced last Tuesday and ended on Saturday.

Prefer Ontario To South Africa

Two farmers from South Africa who have forsaken the veldt for the immigration department yesterday and explained that they emigrated to South Africa in search of better farming methods before purchasing land here.

The men, Messrs. Grant and Thompson, were given positions with McKimley Bros., Lambton county. They told Mr. Farrell that they emigrated to South Africa from Great Britain several years ago, but that the climate in South Africa did not agree with them.

GARBUTT SEEKING CHURCH RELEASE

New Kingsville Methodist Pastor Offered Secretaryship of Bible Society.

Rev. John Garbutt, Dundas Centre Methodist church, has requested the Kingsville Methodist church to release him from his appointment as pastor of that church.

Mr. Garbutt is awaiting an answer from the Kingsville church before accepting the post which has been offered him as secretary of the Western Ontario Bible society.

The Kingsville church is very loath to lose the services of Mr. Garbutt as pastor in succession to Rev. J. W. Hibbert, who is coming to London as minister at Wellington Street Methodist church, and yet in the face of Mr. Garbutt's expressed wish to accept the Bible society's secretaryship, the church can do little else than gracefully allow him to withdraw.

Should Mr. Garbutt be granted his release from the Kingsville charge he will assume the office of secretary of the Bible society in succession to Rev. R. J. Bowen, who has been forced to retire on account of ill-health after eighteen years' faithful service in the position.

STILL SEEK GIRL IN BOY'S CLOTHES

Irene Graham, 15, of Parkhill, Has Not Been Seen Since Monday.

Investigations by High Constable Wharton last night and this morning revealed no trace of Irene Graham, 15, Parkhill, who disappeared from the Parkhill neighborhood some time during Monday night dressed in men's clothes.

The girl, who was employed at the farm of W. Baker, journeyed to the home of a friend in the town on Tuesday morning, and was advised to return to the Baker home, being accompanied part of the way by her friend.

She never arrived, however, and the clothes were found in the Baker mail box yesterday. Her whereabouts are still a mystery despite the fact that the high constable searched the district most of yesterday and this morning from 6 o'clock until 10.

Some twelve cents in the pockets of a coat that the girl took were left untouched by her, and it is not thought that she had any money.

The theory that the girl has been enticed away is scouted by the police, who point out that she apparently decided on the spur of the moment to secure a position somewhere else. Irene's father lives in Detroit, and it may be that the girl has gone there to see him.

Winnipeg Wheat Again Ascends

Canadian Press Despatch.
Winnipeg, Man., June 4.—Speculative buying, encouraged by pessimistic crop reports from the winter wheat belt, influenced a sharp upward swing of prices on the wheat market today.

The bullish sentiment developed right at the opening of the market, carrying the July future to $1.78, an advance of five cents, compared with Tuesday's finish. October also showed strength, gaining four cents on the early bulge.

ALDERMAN SAYS CARS USED WITHOUT PERMIT

Bottrill Begins Probe To Determine Legality of Company's Action in Operating One-Man Cars—Records Show City Apparently Took No Action on Request.

WAS DROPPED BY FINANCE COMMITTEE

Whether or not the London Street Railway has any right to operate one-man cars on the streets of London is being made the subject of inquiry by Alderman Bottrill, who today, Ald. Bottrill stated to the Advertiser that he was seeking information on the subject, and had not yet decided what action if any he will take, but he believes that by-law No. 916 which states that no street car shall be operated on London streets without a crew of two men is being violated without the consent of the council having been gained.

Search of the records of meetings at the city hall would soon determine if the view that for more than two years the company has been allowed to operate one-man cars without the consent of the council having been given. Whether or not it will be possible to order the company to discontinue their use after this tacit consent for such a long period is an interesting point to be settled.

From the council records it appears that permission to operate fifteen one-man cars was asked of a special transportation committee, which met on April 18, 1923. This committee recommended that the change be allowed, without prejudice to by-law No. 916, but the council when the matter came before it at a later date, voted nine to two against the recommendation of the special transportation committee.

The matter was next heard of when a request was made of the council on July 3, 1923, to permit the operation of a smaller number of one-man cars. This request was referred to No. 1 committee, and there the whole affair seems to have dropped. There is no record of the request having come before No. 1 committee, and consequently no permission was forthcoming either from that body or the council. Meanwhile the cars have been in operation daily. The local tangle involved is whether or not the London Street Railway Company has or has not any right to operate them on London streets is one that is destined to give the city fathers concern in the near future.

Wife Deserters Must Saw At Hard and Knotty Wood City Will Buy 100 Cord

Fleeing Hubby, If Caught, Will Be Sent To Prison To Work.

STONES MAY COME
Pay Earned Will Be Turned Over To Deserted Family.

"Tenders for 100 cords 4-foot wood, beech and maple, to be delivered to the city of London. Apply Mayor Wenige or relief department, city hall."

An innocent enough looking advertisement, but inquiry at the city hall relief department today elicited the information that it was fraught with deep significance. It means that from the day the first beech and maple cordwood arrives, the way of the wife deserter in London is going to be as a hedge of thorns, according to Mr. Sanders.

Briefly, the plan is that the wood will be stored in a convenient place, well equipped with bucksaws, and when hubby deserts wife and family he will receive from the magistrats not only the inevitable ten, twenty or thirty dollars, but he will also get definite instructions on how many cords of wood he will be expected to saw during that time.

He will not be asked to work for nothing; the city would not be so heartless as that. He will be paid a fair wage for his labor, compulsory as it is, and the only catch in the scheme is that the pay, instead of being given to him, will be handed over to the deserted wife and family to do with as they please.

"Yes, we intend to do it," said Mayor Wenige when questioned regarding the new plan today. "There is too much of this desertion business going on in London, and it's not fair that the city should have to keep the dependents of men who neglect their duty. After this, they will be made to pay their way, and all they will get will be free board and lodging at the jail while the wood-sawing is in progress. Later we may add a stone-cracking department by way of variety." It is expected that wife-desertion will show a considerable falling off forthwith.

AUTO STUDENT KILLED WHILE ATTEMPTING FEAT

TEMPLE WILL BE ENLARGED

Masons of London Finally Approve Plan To Spend $25,000.

TO CALL TENDERS

More Space Needed by Lodge—Add 35 Feet to Auditorium.

The $25,000 project for the enlargement of the Masonic temple received its final approval at a meeting of the governing bodies of the temple and tenders will be called for the work as soon as certain details of the architect's plan are completed. Red room bodies have felt the need of larger quarters for some months, and the addition will relieve this situation as well as adding 35 feet to the auditorium.

Definite sanction was given the work at a joint meeting of the Red room board of finance, the Blue lodge board of finance, and the Masonic Temple Company, Limited, held under the chairmanship of John Graham.

WINSLOW WILL RETURN TO CITY

London Man Will Leave Detroit On Saturday For Home Here.

GLAD TO GET BACK

Special to The Advertiser.
Detroit, June 4.—Alfred Hugh Winslow, 133 William street, London, will return to his mother and wife immediately, according to Inspector Edward Reynolds of the immigration staff. This morning Winslow, feeling much better and brighter since the charge was dropped, said he would be glad to get back to his home.

"I was innocent of any wrongdoing, and I want my friends to know that the papers are full of lies, and I hope my home town papers will correct it, as I have an aged mother and young sister and another, Mrs. D. F. Kiger, Ramona, Cal., who was informed soon after I was arrested." He will seek reconciliation with his wife there.

TEMPTING BASS BRING MANY PROSECUTIONS

Season Not Open Until June 16—Fishermen Robbing Selves.

Prosecutions under the fish and game acts are taking place as a result of men taking bass from the streams in the district during the closed season, according to Col. R. Emmerton, warden.

The bass season does not open until June 16, and closes Dec. 1st. There was one prosecution this morning. The warden says that men who take bass from the water now are not only breaking the law, but are robbing themselves of a number of fish, not just one.

New Dollar Bill Looked Nice, But—

Shoe Shiners' Prank Fools Many Pedestrians.

It was a nice, crisp, inviting-looking dollar bill as it lay neatly folded on the sidewalk of Richmond street in the glare of the noonday sun. It caught the eye of a passing newspaper scribe, who, being like all reporters, an innocent youth, but with ready will to pick up an honest dollar, stooped to give this neglected walf a home in his pocket.

The rascous guffaw from two shoe-shiners which greeted his action told him even before the cleverly folded fragment fell to pieces in his hand that he was stung again. He returned the bait to the youthful fishers, and at last reports the business of sucker-catching was proceeding merrily in the intervals between shines.

TORY DEFENCE OF BEER GETS POOR RECEPTION

Pond Mills Temperance Rally Disproves Ferguson Liquor Amendment.

IS TRAINING SCHOOL

Progressive Speaker Declares Government Is Training Public Appetite.

Opinions as to the potency and worth of 4.4 per cent beer differed as three speakers presented arguments for and against the new beverage at a temperance rally held yesterday afternoon at Pond Mills.

Conservative and Progressive parties were represented by W. H. Barnum of Aylmer and A. W. Roebuck of Toronto, respectively. Rev. Dr. F. J. Oaten of Toronto was substantiated by Mr. Roebuck in his declaration that the new beer had started schools to train the public's appetite for stronger liquors.

Mr. Barnum's defence of the Conservative government's O. T. A. amendment of the crowd nor his fellow-speakers.

"I admit he doesn't advocate repeal of the O. T. A.," Mr. Roebuck said in reference to Mr. Barnum's speech. "He justifies the slaughter of the O. T. A."

Campaign To Start.
Rev. Dr. Oaten, the first speaker, declared that it was the purpose of the temperance people to arouse the country to the danger with which it is being confronted at the present time. In every Sunday school, community and family circle he advocated the taking of a pledge not to touch intoxicating liquors. A campaign was about to be started, he said, for the enrollment of persons in the province who favored temperance. Cards will shortly be circulated in every concession and side road with this end in view.

He declared the new 4.4 beer would act as a potent stimulant to the drinking first light beverages to ultimately end with stronger liquors. "We are training a whole new generation of bootleggers," he said. "And it will be a habit-producing drug and we can look forward to increasing debauchery for young people."

Mr. Oaten deplored the fact that successful temperance work since 1874, during which time thousands of licensed drinking places had been closed, had been greeted with an O. T. A. amendment which resulted in the issuance of 40 permits for the sale of an intoxicating drink.

In view of the decrease in the majority in favor of the O. T. A. at the last plebiscite, Mr. Barnum declared he had reached the conclusion the new beer would be the only salvation for the C. T. A. in future years.

Look at Question Broadly.
"We have to look at this question broadly," he said. "We cannot form opinions narrow-mindedly, and we must give the other fellow credit for his conscientiousness in the formation of his opinions of people voted against the O. T. A.," he said. One was the invertebrate drinker, the other the respectable man who did not desire strong liquors but only a "palatable" drink. Increasing the alcoholic strength of beer had been carried out by the government with this end in view.

It was at this point that Rev. Dr. Oaten interrupted Mr. Barnum with the declaration that 4.4 beer was intoxicating. "It is an intoxicating drink, as chemists at the Carnegie institute will say, and it is the same as a normal man's efficiency by 30 per cent," he said.

Mr. Barnum maintained that chemists whom he had consulted had pronounced the drink to be non-intoxicating. "You can't get away from the fact that in the last vote the public majority decided we want temperance. We want a social revolution. Let us have that first and then the act as a means of carrying it out."

Not Too Precipitate.
He urged his audience not to be too precipitate. The temperance movement would be spoiled by over-enthusiasm, he declared. In voicing the viewpoint of the Progressive party, A. W. Roebuck stated that Mr. Barnum in his speech and arguments "had made the best case that could be made for a bad case."

"I have seen the degrading effect of alcohol when supplied to the uncontrollable element of the public. The majority decreased in the last plebiscite, it is true, but circumstances have changed. The vote was taken at great expense and those interested in the defeat of the O. T. A.

A Dislike For Food

Every healthy man and woman should have a natural desire for food at meal times. This means that the digestion is in working order and that the blood is in good condition. But if you feel a dislike for food—if the sight and smell of wholesome food repels you—may be you may be sure that Nature is telling you that all is not well. If after a night's rest you have no appetite for breakfast, your digestion requires attention. If your food is distasteful, or if you feel that it is a trouble to eat, your stomach is rebelling. You do not digest properly the food you are taking and are therefore not hungry.

All these symptoms of a disordered digestion mean that the blood is not absorbing proper nourishment from the food, for the work of the blood is to collect proper nourishment from food and impart it to the system. The stomach tries to refuse food the nutrition from which the blood cannot absorb, and this causes the lack of appetite. If you force yourself to eat, the undigested food becomes a clog to the system. Nature is warning you. "William's" Pink Pills alone give the blood the richness and purity that it requires to perform its natural function. That is why Dr. Williams' Pink Pills relieve the most obstinate cases of indigestion—why they will help any trouble due to poor blood.

You can get these pills through any dealer in medicine, or by mail at 50 cents a box from Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.—Adv.

REV. P. D. THOMPSON, is the minister of Kelvinside United Free Church, Glasgow, one of the most influential kirkies in Scotland. He will remain in Canada for a month.

and at that we got 30,000 majority. "I am strongly opposed to the O. T. A. amendment," Mr. Roebuck continued. "Beer is an alcoholic beverage, and its presentation to younger people is an invitation to drink stronger alcoholic beverages. If that is the case we are not going back, losing in our fight, to look to the abolition of the amendment."

J. G. Lethbridge, M. L. A. for West Middlesex, was called on to give an impromptu address to conclude the rally. He spoke briefly concerning the O. T. A. and expressed similar sentiments to those of A. W. Roebuck, who had been asked to speak at the rally as representative of his party.

BEATTIE SCORED FOR CADET STAND
The remarks attributed to the minister were said to have been made at the unveiling of the war memorial in Manor Park on Sunday. Several delegates expressed their opinion that Dr. Beattie did not display a Christ-like spirit in advocating military training for boys.

It was argued that, as a preacher, he should preach the gospel of peace on earth. J. F. Thompson who moved a resolution asking that Dr. Beattie debate the question of cadet training with the T. and T. Council wanted to know why he would send men to jail for arguing against cadet training.

To suggest that a man go to jail because his opinion differed from others was not in accord with the principles of British justice, said Mr. Thompson. He could not see how the minister could link up his statements with the teachings of Christ. John Colbert strongly condemned the work of the minister saying that there were brains outside the ministry equal to those who wore the cloth. It became a preacher to make such statements in the face of the opinion to cadet training as was found in the city brotherhoods.

A donation of $10 was moved to the striking miners' fund. The question of having a fair wage clause inserted in the board of education contracts was discussed. It was decided to take up the question with the board.

A stricter inspection of the local factories by the provincial factory inspector was urged. Delegate Hessel said that the compensation board was inclined to blame industrial accidents on employees when the machines were often defective.

FINED $50 AND COSTS FOR DRINKING TO KING
Isaac Williams, who left St. Thomas early yesterday morning to escape the heat in that railroad center, and ended up at the court house, where he was caught drinking to the health of King George in a fluid that is frowned upon by the Ontario license commission, was fined $50 and costs or a month in jail by Magistrate Hawkshaw this morning.

The court pointed out that while it was most laudable on the part of Mr. Williams to desire to drink the health of King George, he would have to perform the ceremony in his own home in order to use anything stronger than 4.4 beer or lemonade.

High Constable Wharton asked that the minimum penalty be imposed, as Isaac had the reputation of being a most industrious man.

SPRINGBANK ALL READY TO ENTERTAIN CHILDREN
Merry-go-round, sea planes, roller coaster, booths are in readiness for the big day at Springbank. The amusement park has handled thousands so far this season and has made great preparations to handle the hundreds of children who will throng the park.

The dance hall will be opened from 4 to 6 in the afternoon with the usual schedule at night of 7:30 to 11:30 p.m.

ADAMS CLEARED OF BLAME BY JURY

Juvenile Drivers Are Scored in Allan Braden Accident Case.

A coroner's jury, sitting last night, did not lay any blame for the death of Allan Braden, six-year-old son of J. A. Braden, lawyer, 803 Waterloo street, who died on Saturday last about fourteen hours after being struck by an auto driven by Fred Adams, seventeen years old, of 416 Grosvenor street.

The jury's verdict commented, however, on the prevalence of auto misdeeds in which the drivers are under age and unlicensed, at the same time censuring Adams. The verdict reads:

"That Allan Braden came to his death about 3:30 a.m. on Saturday, May 30 following an automobile accident, which occurred about 1 o'clock on the afternoon of the previous day. The auto was driven by Fred Adams, who apparently did all he could to prevent the accident, so that while we do not hold him culpable, he was under age, and is open to censure for driving without a license, as accidents due to inexperienced drivers are too frequent."

Speed of Motor.
Fred Adams, testifying voluntarily, declared that the auto was going to five feet in front of the car when he noticed him. He could not swear to the left, he said, for fear of hitting a little girl. The speed of the car was estimated between fifteen and twenty miles an hour.

Testimony brought out the fact that the accident occurred in a school zone, but none of the witnesses recalled hearing the car sound a warning prior to the mishap. Dr. W. J. Tillman, who attended the Braden boy after the accident, stated that death was due to shock from the injuries received.

Call Eight Witnesses.
The witnesses called were Billy Bennett, eight-year-old playmate of Allan Braden; Miss Ashplant, 807 Waterloo street; John B. West, 506 St. James street; Lois Richards, 14 Thornton avenue; Jean Ogg, 14 Thornton avenue; Dr. Tillman; William Forbes, 380 Victoria street, and William A. Adams, 416 Grosvenor street, father of Fred Adams.

Coroner Dr. Robert Ferguson presided.

While the school children are enjoying themselves at Springbank tomorrow boys and girls confined to the Children's Hospital will not be forgotten and the nurses have planned a picnic for those who are physically able to attend the outing on the hospital lawn.

Of thirty patients confined to the institution, twelve will enjoy the good things prepared.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE CLOSING FOR SUMMER
The Grand opera house will be closed for the summer months, according to a decision made by the management this week. On Yes, featuring the Dumbells, was the last show to play at the Grand, concluding a successful three-day engagement last Saturday.

Although it was the original intention of Grand theatre official to present stock shows throughout the summer months, contract with a worth-while company for the season could not be drawn up. The Grand theatre, under its new management, will open next fall presenting many of the best road shows and musical comedies in the country.

J. R. Minnick, manager, leaves this week on a month's trip for a well-earned holiday.

HAD BAD SPELLS WITH HER HEART
Mrs. C. Martin, R.R. No. 2, Orillia, Ont., writes: "I have been troubled with my heart for a long time and very often had bad spells with it. I would take fainting spells, and my husband had to have somebody to stay with me all the time. He got me everything he could think of to see if they would do me any good, but nothing seemed to help me. One day a friend was in to see me and advised me to try

Mount Forest, Ont.—"Before I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I felt weak and miserable, and had pains all through me. ## RUBBISH-STREWN ROADS NOT WANTED BY COUNTY

Middlesex Council Moves To Penalize Offenders On Highways.

COUNTY APPOINTEE
Springbank Constable Is Made County Officer For Season.

Middlesex county has excellent roads, and it doesn't want tourists or anyone else cluttering them with rubbish. Neither do members of the county council want the farmers themselves depositing weeds and rubbish by the roadside.

Therefore, on motion of Austin Winter and J. E. Butler, the county councillors went on record unanimously last night that a bylaw be passed prohibiting absolutely the depositing of weeds and rubbish on county roads. High Constable Wharton will be instructed to enforce the said bylaw, and woe to any motorists who disregard it.

C. Hodgins' motion that all license fees be strictly adhered to and the bylaw possibly revised to meet conditions, was referred to the finance committee for consideration.

Warden Allan McPherson stated that he had heard that several junk dealers operating in the county hadn't taken out licenses. If this were so he advocated a call on these men by High Constable Wharton.

Biddulph, thought that the bylaw covering the matter should be revised. At any rate, the committee will bring in a report today or tomorrow on the question.

Cattle at Large.
Councillor Allan McDougall, Carleton Place, wanted to know whether or not the bylaw prohibiting cattle from running on the county roads could be enforced. County Clerk Stuart gave his opinion that it could, but declared that he was no lawyer.

The wardens then stated that C. J. Sollicitor J. C. Elliott, K.C., would be present Friday afternoon to discuss legal matters with the council, and he will be asked to give a ruling in the matter.

The highway improvement committee, which is investigating the vexed question of reduction in county road rates, will likely bring in a report today, that will cause considerable discussion. Several councillors, including Councillor Winter, were all for forcing the government to recommend without discussion, but Allan McDougall and others were just as anxious to have it discussed, and it likely will be today.

Children's Aid Bill.
A bill of $890.50 from the Children's Aid society for the upkeep of county children in the shelter, was referred to the finance committee for consideration.

A motion by William Boler and J. S. Cousins that a "Go Slow" sign be erected at the main corner in Byron village will be dealt with by the highway improvement committee.

John Langley, Springbank park policeman, was made a county constable on motion of Harvey Davis and William Boler.

J. M. Ross, reeve of Lucan, was absent from the night session, owing to the death of his brother.

A LOVELY BRIDE

Christ church, Petrolia, was the scene of an interesting social event yesterday when Miss Helen Scarsbrooke, sister of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. McLean and daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. A. Scarsbrooke, became the bride of Mr. Harrison Corey, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Bloss Parsons Corey. Rev. Canon W. T. Hill of London officiated, assisted by the rector, Rev. R. C. Pitts.

White lilies and bridal wreath decorated the church, while the guests were marked by clusters of the flowers tied with large bows of white satin ribbon.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her brother-in-law, Mr. H. W. McLean, was lovely in a gown of white crepe-backed satin made with panels of Chantilly lace, the long side draperies of the gown forming a train.

A cape of exquisite lace fell from the shoulders. The bride veil, edged with lace, was arranged in cap fashion with a wreath of orange blossoms at the back and soft fluting of lace about the forehead. The bride's bouquet was a shower of sweetheart roses and lilies of the valley.

Miss Kathleen Robinson of Alisa Craig as maid of honor, was gracefully gowned in lustrous green satin, faced, crepe, with deep flounces of cream lace. She wore a poke bonnet of the same material trimmed with French flowers in pastel shades and carried an arm bouquet of Pernettes roses.

Miss Isabel Scarsbrooke cousin of the bride, and Miss Francis Harrett were the bridesmaids, gowned in lemon-yellow and peach and silver shot taffeta, with tight bodices and bouffant skirts.

The bridesmaids hats were of leg-horn, trimmed with French flowers and their flowers, arm bouquet of Ophelia roses, tied with green tulle. During the signing of the register, Mrs. H. W. McLean, sister of the bride, sang sweetly Love's Coronation. Mr. Randolph Corey, brother of the groom acted as best man, while Mr. Peter Campbell, Toronto, Mr. E. Dennis of London, Mr. H. C. Hibbert and Mr. L. Jones were the ushers.

Reception Held.
Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. McLean, where Mrs. Corey mother of the groom, also received. Mrs. McLean wore a graceful gown of black lace, with a small black hat trimmed with ostrich and handsome scarf. Her corsage was of orchid sweetpeas.

daughter of Sir Adam Beck on the Ontario ladies' golf tournament games at Weston this week. The Globe golf expert says: "Mrs. Strathearn Hay is one of the brightest prospects of Canadian golf. Driving with the power and freedom of women of wide repute at the royal and ancient game, Mrs. Hay yesterday forced Miss Ada Mackenzie, crack of the Mississauga club, to the last green of the course of the Weston golf and country club, to retain her accustomed place in the provincial women's golf championship. With her slashing shots from the tee, Mrs. Hay provided the thrills of a championship contest, which was a monotonous course to a Friday final."

New York, June 3.—"It's all over but the shouting" does not apply to the newer printed silks. The designs are of the all-over type, frequently with an Arab or Moorish motif, but the colors, of which five or six frequently are used, shout at one another after the wearer has passed. Some of the silks have a gold or silver background printed with designs in glaring red and black.

Even the Latin quarter artist has to eat occasionally and some of them are finding the wherewithal for black and red ink by painting gloves. The hand coverings are decorated with original designs which are not duplicated even on both gloves and pair. Embroideries, elaborate and vivid in color, take the place of the painted designs on some gloves recently brought from Paris.

Huge numbers of gloves are making their appearance on some of the latest coat frocks. The coats usually are of a ribbed silk material and the gloves are of a contrasting shade. Between the revers appears a vestee of white satin, with a white satin stock tied closely about the throat.

In these days of motors and taxicabs, women are having the inside cleaned. There are any quantity of "leaky" linings, but for the real protection of delicate hued hose, all linings should be frequently cleaned and powdered with talc in the proper tint.

200 Attend First Annual Event—A. Y. P. A.'s Have Outing.
Special to The Advertiser.
Port Stanley, June 3.—The first of the season's large picnics was held here today, when the members of Rebekah lodges throughout Elgin county and the various Anglican young people's associations throughout the St. Thomas district staged their annual outings.

About 200 people attended the Rebekah outing from the Dutton, West Lorne, St. Thomas and Shedd lodges. Today's gathering was the first ever staged by these units, and as it was such a success, the members have decided to make it an annual event. A long line of sports was run off on the heights, the feature of which was a softball tournament, in which the St. Thomas lodge came out victorious.

The winners in the sport events were: One to 6 years—C. McDonald, Ivan Calvert; Girls 7 to 11—Mable Garrow, Annie McKellar; Boys 12 to 15—Donald Hopkins, Clifford Withington; Girls 12 to 15—Alice McKellar, Velma Stansell; Boys' laurel contest—Clifford Withington; Girls' laurel contest—Ruth Barrett, Dora Zoller; Necktie race—Mrs. Waite and Mr. Stansell; Ladies' and gents' clothesline race—Mr. and Mrs. McDonald.

The A. Y. P. A. gathering was also a huge success, over 150 members being present from various clubs in Elgin county. The members arrived at 1:30 p.m. when a softball game was staged, in which St. Luke's club members of Yarmouth center handed their St. Thomas brethren a 5-4 defeat. A long sport list was also run off on the heights, after which a delightful lunch was served to all.

The members of the committee were Mr. Turnbull, Mr. Holland and Mr. Ellison.

Does It Spoil a Man to Have His Wife a Wage-Earner After Marriage?

Dear Miss Dix—I am to be married to a young man who makes enough to keep me moderately comfortable, but not enough to lay anything aside toward buying me a home. I am a business girl, and I want to keep on with my work, saving my salary for the home. My mother disapproves of this, as she says that if a girl works after she is married it spoils the man, and when he has to support her he regards it as a burden. I would agree with this if we did not have a definite end in view, but we have, and it is understood that I will stop work when we move into a house of our own. What do you say?
A DAILY READER.

Answer:
I think you are quite right, and that you are doing a very wise thing to keep on with your work until you save up enough money to buy yourself a home. We must recognize that economic conditions have changed, and that nowadays it is often impossible for a young couple to get married unless the wife continues to be also a money earner.

In your case your working for two or three years after marriage will mean a different status in life not only for yourself and your husband, but for your children. On his salary alone you could barely make ends meet. You would have no chance to save up anything for a rainy day. You could not hope to own your own home. But with your combined earnings you can finance your marriage properly, and will stand every chance of making it a success.

Of course, there are men whom it ruins to have a self-supporting wife. If a wife can stand on her own feet, and buy her own clothes, they let her do it, but this is by no means the general attitude of men toward their wives who are really working partners. Every worth-while man wants to take care of his own family, and likes to feel that his wife is dependent upon him.

DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix—Since leaving college I have been employed in a South American bureau of a very well-known firm. For ten years I have supported my mother, giving her all the comforts and luxuries of life, and while she has always been ready to accept them, she has never offered me the slightest appreciation. I am the least bit of a domineer, and I frequently commented upon by others.

Recently my mother has joined a cult whose forms and ceremonies are most obnoxious to me, and she has made our home their rendezvous. One of their ceremonies consists of an habitual talk about death, and my mother harps upon this theme continually. After a hard day's work at the office, to have to listen to an evening's monologue on this grave some subject makes me so nervous that I have decided to separate myself from my mother. I shall, of course, provide for her. Do you think I am doing wrong in leaving her?
A PERPLEXED YOUNG WOMAN.

Answer:
Self-preservation is the first law of nature, and you have a perfect right to leave your mother in order to save your peace of mind and bodily health.

Perhaps, when she finds out that she is in danger of losing the very superior meal ticket you represent if she does not give up her new cult, she will see a great white light, and abandon her cheery little faith.

Personally, I believe that there is no more mischievous and foolish superstition than that which makes so many of us sacrifice our lives by continuing to live with disagreeable people, just because we hope to sustain the relationship of them of daughter, or son, or sister, or brother. We have certain financial obligations to them. We should see that they are fed and clothed and have a comfortable shelter, but beyond that we are not bound to live in daily contact with them if they get upon our nerves.

DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix—I am a young man, moral, upright, sober and industrious, and have a prosperous business. I am in love with a darling girl, who I am in love with me. We want to be married, and I could give her every comfort, but her parents refuse to let her marry me because I am a widower. My first wife only lived a few months after we were married. She has been dead four years.

Do you think we would be right in going along and marrying in spite of her parents?
DAVE.

Answer:
Of course, you would, Dave. A girl should listen to her parents' advice about marrying a man when they have reason on their side, but when they are idiotic enough to object to a man for no other cause than that he is a widower, they are too silly to consider, and their daughter should not allow them to ruin her life.

Why, a widower is the preferred matrimonial risk, and any father and mother who know what's what in the matrimonial line feel like burning joss sticks to their luck.

when their daughter gets one for a husband.

The widower is nearly always better established in business than the young man, and can give his wife a better home. He knows better how to get along with women than a bachelor does, and is kinder and more considerate than a boy husband. And, best of all, he is a broken, and willing to stay at home of an evening instead of chasing around to places of amusement.

A widower without children is a matrimonial prize that all sensible women grab. That is why there are so few of them lying around loose.

WOMEN and THE HOME

WOMEN WEARING TENNIS TROUSERS

Dash About Courts in Tubular Pantaloons Like Divided Skirt.

By AILEEN LAMONT.
Special to The Advertiser.

New York, June 2.—The bulging umbrella, the wide straw hat and the carpet bag formerly were the official regalia of the stage country man. Today the straw hats worn by the women at the most fashionable seaside resorts are wide and the parasols are bulky, while the under-arm bags are almost the size of the country man's grip. Many of the sun shades are of chiffon, ruffled at the tips, which are slightly curved. There are also gay affairs of cretonne and moiré silk.

Discriminating women who have recently come from abroad are landing in costumes composed of a brightly colored long crepe de chine blouse, worn over a skirt of a darker color in silk, rep. The skirts usually are characterized by pleating in repeated in the blouse. A coat of the same material as the skirt and lined with the same material as the blouse completes a charming ensemble.

A buttonhole bouquet with a tailored suit? Not for a moment. The bouquet would hide the buttonhole. In some of the smart tailored costumes the note of color so desirable as establishing individuality is given by working the buttonholes in silk of a brilliant and contrasting color to the material of the suit.

The modern women tennis player needs something besides strokes and speed. She needs a multiplicity of bright colored pull-over sweaters with bandeaux to match. Having seen the intricate and colorful designs of the sweaters, one wonders how bandeaux ever have been found to match. In England the vogue for wide bottomed trousers has spread to the women players and they are dashing about the courts in tubular pantaloons so wide as to resemble a divided skirt when the wearer is at rest. However, they never are at rest.

Peter Rabbit Tells The Two Friends of Many More Freaks He Knows

By THORNTON W. BURGESS.

A queer friendship was formed between the white Robin and the white Red Squirrel, who was living over in the Green Forest. It was because each had a coat wholly white, and so each was considered queer by all the other little people of the Green Forest and Green Meadows. Anyone who is considered queer is called a freak. So these two little fellows, one in feathers and one in fur, were, in the eyes of their neighbors, freaks.

Every day the white Robin flew over to see the white squirrel, and each found comfort in the other. Of course they talked a great deal about their white coats, and the white wonder if there was the only white coats in all the Great World. They wondered if they were the only freaks. Peter Rabbit came along one day and overheard them talking. "There are other white coats," said Peter.

"Who has one?" cried the young Squirrel and the young Robin, both looking quite excited.

Peter scratched a long ear with a long hind foot and looked as if he felt just a wee bit foolish. "Well," he confessed, "I don't know of anyone with one just now. But in winter my big cousin Jumper the Hare has a white coat, and so does Shadow the Weasel. They always get white coats when winter comes and it is time for snow. You know snow is white. Then their white coats are very handy."

"Well, that's different," snapped the young Squirrel. "What we want to know is, do you know anyone who has a white coat at this time of year?"

"No," replied Peter. "But I know a gray cousin of yours who is black."

The white Red Squirrel began to laugh. "How, Mr. Rabbit, can he be black if he is gray?" he demanded.

"You are a Red Squirrel, aren't you?" demanded Peter.

"Who has one?" cried the young Squirrel and the young Robin, both looking quite excited.

"You are a Red Squirrel, aren't you?" demanded Peter.

children they must be Gray Squirrels. If one of them should happen to have a black coat, he would still be a Gray Squirrel, but he would be black, just the same as he himself was a Red Squirrel but was white.

"Well, all I can say is, he is a freak," declared the young Robin, and then began to chuckle, for he knew that everybody else was calling him a freak.

"And once Reddy Fox had a son with a black coat, so that was a black Red Fox," continued Peter. "He isn't living around here just now, but when he did live here he received a great deal of attention. You see, everybody called him a freak."

"If we could find a lot more freaks, who wouldn't be freaks, would we?" said the white Robin. "I'm a white Robin, you're a white Red Squirrel and Peter Rabbit has told us of a black Gray Squirrel and a black Red Fox."

"Yes," cried Peter, looking up excitedly. "And I can tell you of something else. There is such a thing as a brown Black Bear. One of Buster Brown's babies was all brown one time."

"Goodie!" cried the white Robin, excitedly. "It is kind of funny being a freak. I wonder if there are any more freaks anywhere around?"

RADIO PHOTOGRAPHY TO BE AVAILABLE FOR AMATEURS

Dr. Francis Jenkins, Inventor, Seeks Further Perfection of Picture Transmission.

LEAGUE TO AID TRANSMITTERS TO BE SUPPLIED AT LESS THAN ACTUAL COST.

By ROBERT MACK.
Special Cable to The Advertiser.

Washington, June 3.—Dr. Francis Jenkins, inventor of a system of radio photography, has completed plans for making his device available for the use of amateurs throughout the country in an endeavor to further perfect the wireless transmission of pictures.

Dr. Jenkins proposes to supply to the radio photographic transmitters to amateurs at less than the actual cost of building the sets. The Amateur Relay league is co-operating with the scientist and it is expected that the summer will witness an interesting season of pictures in the air. The department of commerce, it is understood, looks favorably on the project and probably will issue a regulation permitting the operation of the picture transmitters on the wave lengths in the amateur bands.

According to Dr. Jenkins, the transmission of pictures on the amateur wave lengths will not cause any interference with broadcasting or the regular transmission of CW messages by the amateurs. His device is used for both transmission and reception and will work with any other type on any wave length. "The wireless transmission of pictures still is in its infancy," Dr. Jenkins said, "and by obtaining the co-operation of the amateurs we will be able to make considerably more rapid progress in the development of the art than if it were left to the few workmen in any one laboratory."

On behalf of the government of Canada, Right Hon. Macdonald King, prime minister, accepted the statue.

Right Hon. Arthur Meighen, leader of the opposition and Mr. Robert Forke, M.P., leader of the Progressive party, associated themselves with Mr. King in brief speeches.

Peter Rabbit Tells The Two Friends of Many More Freaks He Knows

By THORNTON W. BURGESS.

A queer friendship was formed between the white Robin and the white Red Squirrel, who was living over in the Green Forest. It was because each had a coat wholly white, and so each was considered queer by all the other little people of the Green Forest and Green Meadows. Anyone who is considered queer is called a freak. So these two little fellows, one in feathers and one in fur, were, in the eyes of their neighbors, freaks.

Every day the white Robin flew over to see the white squirrel, and each found comfort in the other. Of course they talked a great deal about their white coats, and the white wonder if there was the only white coats in all the Great World. They wondered if they were the only freaks. Peter Rabbit came along one day and overheard them talking. "There are other white coats," said Peter.

"Who has one?" cried the young Squirrel and the young Robin, both looking quite excited.

Peter scratched a long ear with a long hind foot and looked as if he felt just a wee bit foolish. "Well," he confessed, "I don't know of anyone with one just now. But in winter my big cousin Jumper the Hare has a white coat, and so does Shadow the Weasel. They always get white coats when winter comes and it is time for snow. You know snow is white. Then their white coats are very handy."

"Well, that's different," snapped the young Squirrel. "What we want to know is, do you know anyone who has a white coat at this time of year?"

"No," replied Peter. "But I know a gray cousin of yours who is black."

The white Red Squirrel began to laugh. "How, Mr. Rabbit, can he be black if he is gray?" he demanded.

"You are a Red Squirrel, aren't you?" demanded Peter.

"Who has one?" cried the young Squirrel and the young Robin, both looking quite excited.

Liberalism Shows Its Strength.

Hon. Arthur Meighen had an excellent opportunity to debate his want of confidence motion in the commons. He had been anticipating this occasion for weeks, and his speech was a carefully prepared plea for higher and still higher protection. He admitted that his judgment had been in error when, as premier, he had neglected to move in the direction he now urges.

The government was courteous in allowing him to proceed to debate at this time a resolution which could be interpreted as nothing else than a vote of confidence in the King ministry. It was the desire of the government to get on with more pressing business, so there was no time lost in bringing Mr. Meighen's want of confidence resolution to a vote. The result was that Mr. Meighen found he had voting with him only 37 members of his own party, while against him was a vote of 147, leaving the government with a majority of 110, showing again that the King government is in power as well as in office.

It was not good generalship on the part of Mr. Meighen to again give the house an opportunity of showing the strength of the government. The vote on the first reading of the budget should have been sufficient to show the Conservative leader that he was not only weak in the number of his followers, but also in the appeal which he was making. To give another demonstration of the same thing, and to do it deliberately, was the height of political folly. A more astute leader would have sought better fighting ground, even if he had to wait to strengthen his party in a general election.

The effect of that vote, and the way in which the election in Saskatchewan has turned definitely to the Liberal columns, where it has been ever since the creation of the problem, may have some effect on the question of bringing on a general election. It is such things as these that help governments make up their minds, and these two outstanding events indicate that Liberal principle, as it is being practiced in Saskatchewan and carried out at Ottawa, is in the ascendancy.

The Value of a Child.

In a case tried in London this week, juries found themselves faced with the problem of computing the value of a child's life. It was not in the courtroom, nor were there any statistics placed at the disposal of the jurors in this way, yet it did enter into the making up of the verdict. The amount asked for was $2,000 because a child had been killed on the street railway tracks, and the jury granted $250, which was allowed to stand. Neither of these figures represented the value of the child's life.

It might be argued that a child of twenty months was not a producer, and therefore value could not be assessed on the basis of dollars and cents. That much could be granted and still leave the real question unanswered.

The child of twenty months in the home is of great, incalculable value. It comes in a category where the statistical mind has to put its pencil and tables to one side, and try and deal in equations that are computed in terms of love, hope, ambition and sacrifice. Being a jurymen on such a case is not as much a matter-of-fact occupation as the man on the outside might imagine.

It is for the protection of these finer calculations that we have courts and juries, even though they must reduce their findings to terms of awards and costs.

The Work of Florence Carlyle.

A memorial exhibition in Toronto of the work of the late Florence Carlyle, A.R.C.A., calls to mind the remarkable career of this Canadian artist, a native of the neighboring city of Galt, although when Miss Carlyle was very young the family moved to Woodstock. There is also a peculiar interest to Londoners in the fact that she received much encouragement from the late Paul Peel, who, after visiting his old home in London in 1886, was accompanied to Paris by his sister and Miss Carlyle.

Florence Carlyle's mother can be given credit for doing everything possible for the development of the talents which she believed were wrapped up in her daughter, and events afterward proved that the motherly intuition was correct. It meant something to secure the best of instruction, and it was at first accomplished by organizing an art class in Woodstock, and bringing there an instructor from New York.

When it was possible for her to pursue her studies in Paris it was either happy fortune or the rare judgment of herself and Paul Peel that brought her under the guidance of such masters as Delcouse, Fleury and Lefebvre.

On what she thought then was the completion of her studies she returned to her old home in Woodstock, only to find that her quest for more knowledge had not been satisfied. The outbreak of the war found her well established as an artist in Crowborough, Essex, and her work in demand, and her genius acknowledged by being the first woman to carry the letters A.R.C.A.

Miss Carlyle felt the call of the war and went as a nurse for hospital work. Breaking under the strain, she turned her home into a resting-place for nurses, and parted with much of her best work in the interests of various war funds. To all this work she devoted greater energy than she possessed, and it can be said that her death in May of 1923 was the culmination of her sacrifice in war years.

Her work as an artist is notable for her true interpretation of nature and life, and the vigorous fidelity with which she portrayed these things on the canvas. Her work was displayed in the Paris salon, at the Royal Academy in London, and the Canadian National Galleries at Ottawa have some of her paintings.

And back of the remarkable achievement of this Woodstock girl stands the determination of a mother who was ready to sacrifice in order that the genius she recognized in her daughter might be allowed to develop.

J. C. Elliott in West Middlesex.

West Middlesex Liberals have a candidate in J. C. Elliott, K.C., for whom they will have to make no apologies, and they can face the federal election whenever it comes with the knowledge that they have a candidate well versed in Canadian development and fully aware of the things that are necessary for the wellbeing of the people of the constituency to which he has offered his services.

Dr. Bice of Delaware, the runner-up for the honors, did exactly what J. C. Elliott would have done under similar circumstances when he moved to make the nomination unanimous. Had the ballot gone the other way, West Middlesex would also have found in Dr. Bice an excellent candidate.

Mr. Elliott is in a position to make an unusually strong appeal to the electors. He has undoubted ability as a debater; he is well versed in the subjects he discusses, and, above all, is reasonable and sympathetic of the views of others. West Middlesex Liberals are to be congratulated on their day's work and J. C. Elliott on being selected as candidate for so notable a riding.

Good News For London.

Londoners will hear with pleasure of the proposed extension to the London Rolling Mills, of which J. F. White, M.P. for London, is president, and Sir Adam Beck, M.L.A., vice-president. Instead of the activities of the firm being confined to iron it is expected that steel products will also be handled at the plant.

It is quite possible that there may be room for expansion of this business in fields that have not yet been served by the local plant. Iron and steel are very closely related, and iron becomes steel of any texture required by passing through the open hearth or Bessemer process of conversion. The steel field offers greater possibilities than iron, but a combination of the two is the ideal condition.

With the gradual recovery of business which is being experienced in many lines the London Rolling Mills management probably realizes that there will be opportunities for the greater development of the industry.

Londoners will hear with pleasure of the contemplated changes at the local plant. Mr. White and those associated with him are to be commended for their enterprise and for their faith in the industrial future of Canada.

Another Bubble Gone.

After July 5 none of the old German paper money will be accepted by the Reichbank in exchange for the official "reichsmark." People who are on the spot in Germany are using vans to get the old paper money in to trade for the new, and after making their deposit they find themselves in possession of only a very small amount of new currency.

People abroad who bought up German paper money in the mad hope that it would turn out to be a veritable gold mine are not even in as favorable a position as those who are trucking the stuff to the German bank today and exchanging it for real money of a mere fraction of its supposed worth.

The idea was so palpably impossible in the first place that the wonder is that any person ever considered putting out good money for German paper currency. Buying a million marks for a dollar or so and then expecting Germany or any other nation to become prosperous to the point where they would be worth face value was a hope that simply could not be realized outside of comic opera.

There was not a reputable banker or broker in the country who advised the purchase of German paper money; they did what they could to warn people against it; newspapers issued the same advice, and yet all over the country there were people buying German money. Several instances were recorded of peddlers doing business on street corners or market-places.

It is another illustration of the old truth that there is no short-cut to wealth. The price of possession is hard work and thrift, and there are no substitutes.

Note and Comment.

When a man starts to tell that he got rich through hard work, a skeptical world is apt to ask "Whose?"

London's medical officer of health says the best way to keep cool is to dress with as few clothes as possible. This refers to men only.

The Advertiser is running a "25 Years Ago" column. To allay any fears on the part of girls who are still 16 there will be no reference to the born columns of 1900.

Just read a clipping from the Kitchener Record which begins: "On account of the continued cool weather the annual epidemic of flies has been held somewhat in check."

A former police officer in Hamilton got two years for stealing two hams from a butcher shop, and a short distance from London a man got six months for running down and killing a boy and then speeding away.

Just Wondering

If when the boaster runs his course and when for him low sinks the sun, if those what's left will boast about the mighty things what he has done.

Some folks I meet are talkin' much about the things what they have done, they rattle when the moon is high and gabble 'neath the noonday sun. They have a bugle and a drum, loud speakers and a trombone too, to holler at the populace and tell about the things they do.

One chap he was out swimmin' once and waves was rollin' six feet high, but it be easy for a man like he, who was a mighty sort of guy.

But farther down there was a dame who ventured out upon the deep, a wave it smote her on the jaw and well nigh put her off to sleep. When he went dashin' off for help some other lobster close at hand, he jumped into the foam'n' pond and set the maiden safe on land.

The chap who did the hero stuff he faded from the landscape quick, the other jay's been talkin' since on how he would have done the trick.

Another brags about his trade and how he makes his business go, he tells the how there be few who'd know just how to run his show. He sits and blows a spell each day on how he's Johnny-on-the-spot, and other ways what's not like his be just a common lot of rot.

And then there comes the one who talks about the relatives he had, how there was nothin' in the book to show as they was even bad. For one was rich and when he died he left ten thousand seeds behind, there's nothin' but the family tree that's sproutin' in this blow-hard's mind.

Still there's the chap who basks beneath the fact he dearly loves to whirl, how that his father's cousin's aunt was near related to an earl. He tells about this powerful dude who rode in two gold-plated hacks, and once he went off to the war to wield a wicked battleaxe.

These folks should stop and think a spell and sit upon the porch some night, and try and give their tongues a rest and get their own perspective right. For oft I wonder if when comes the time when their own course is run, if them what's left will blow about the mighty things what they had done.—ARK.

Editorial Opinion

WARNING OR INVITATION?

(From the Woodstock Sentinel-Review)

AT a meeting of a certain church body the other day, alarm was expressed over the operation of the new Ontario law which permits the sale of 4.4 beer, and advocates of temperance were urged to do all in their power to discourage the sale of "this insidious beverage." One possible effect of such action may be to cause people who have turned up their noses at the stuff in disgust to give it another trial, in the hope that there may be something in it after all.

IT HAS BECOME A HABIT.

(From the Brantford Expositor)

THE mills of justice revolve slowly in Chicago. A trial which has created almost as much interest as that of Loeb and Leopold is that of William Darling Shepherd, who is being tried for the murder of William Nelson McClintock, his 21-year-old foster son, by administering typhoid germs and subtle poison. All the technicalities of the law are in full play, shown by the fact that it took all last week to add one more jurymen to the three previously secured.

He Can't Sleep

Londoner Complains That Lovers' Farewells and Churning Cars Should Both Have Mufflers.

Editor of The Advertiser:

Sir,—When you are in grief or rage, take it to the editor in a letter. Last evening I went to bed about 10 o'clock, sleepy and prepared to spend about nine hours in peaceful repose. But before dropping off, I had noticed two cars parked about directly opposite my window, the drivers being doubtless engaged on neighboring verandas. This bodied no good. About twice a week the admirer of the next-door neighbor's daughter sticks his car up between our two houses, and leaves for home anywhere between 11:30 p.m. and 1 a.m., spending occasionally an hour or more on the start. The noise is something notable, snorts and farewells clattering together in an unseasonable hubbub. Sometimes a few honks add to the exuberance.

But last night there stood the two of them across the road, bidding their time. Ten yards away, meanwhile, the Sunday night Blank street traffic banged up and down like circus elephants. The final came at 12:25 in the morning. Through the window I could see those devilish engines tuning up, with an accompaniment of door clacking and voices. I could have shot a revolver into the middle of them, and it wouldn't have been heard. It took quite a while for the machinery to warm up and the final talk to reach its grand culmination. By then I was so roused that even after the cars cleared off, I slept impossible for an hour or more. The automobiles were still raging along Blank street, about three in five minutes on the average, all the cathedral clock struck one. Pretty soon the milk traffic would begin.

Is it any wonder that a good many people want to get out of the city into some rougher quarters? I could even there, and it must be the bedlam of them starting the rural squares. Even city taxes aren't the worst thing. Night racket is worse, especially Sunday night.

Our laws prohibit Sunday baseball. On the 24th of May the police station, being asked about a permit to shoot fireworks, said they didn't mind fireworks so long as they weren't a nuisance to neighbors. Apparently you can't set off a firecracker at midnight, even just one night a year, without your neighbor objecting, but you can set off a motor at midnight, beside that motor buzzing up right beside a my wall at midnight, constitute a nuisance to me, a nuisance which I qualify with some adjectives.

It's no use, Mr. Editor, asking for your good nature to print. In even a Toronto some time ago there was a discussion about extracting the crow of roosters. These roosters have a thousand rooster voice myself. The policeman on our beat is very efficient, or officious, in stopping the boys playing a little baseball on the road, although no one ever complains. Unless the motorist complains. He has plain of being slower running been known to stop on the sidewalk, and an express cart on the sidewalk, in an access of frenzied law-enforcement last summer he had some of the neighborhood fined for riding bicycles without lights. But he trouble not without lights. Why such anxiety about our bodily welfare as a bicycle, and none about our welfare as a healthy baseball in the afternoon, but let pandemonium loose at midnight and after? Yours faithfully,

MAN ON THE STREET.

London, June 1.

LOW COST FOUR-WEEK TOUR.

Through Western Canada to the Pacific Coast, Yellowstone Park, Salt Lake City and Rocky Mountain National Park.

A never-to-be-forgotten four-week tour of Western Canada and the Pacific coast with a trip to the United States on the return journey has been planned for Canadian teachers and their friends this summer, leaving Toronto on July 9.

The trip is simply crammed with scenic and historic wonders. A visit to Wainwright Park, Alberta, where the largest herd of Buffalo in the world is located. Two days are spent in the heart of the Canadian Rockies, where the beauty of the mountain scenery is indescribable. From Jasper park westward the party passes snow-capped Mount Robson, the highest peak in the Canadian Rockies, and peak in the Indian village of Kootenai, with its wonderful historic totem poles. Then westward again, following the majestic North Pacific terminus of the Canadian National Railway.

At Prince Rupert a palatial steamer is boarded for the 750-mile trip through the sheltered scenic seas of the North Pacific to Vancouver, Victoria and Seattle. This is recognized as one of the finest sea trips in the world.

On the journey homeward, a 72-mile motor drive will be taken from Portland, Oregon, over the famous scenic Columbia river highway, and five days will be taken for a motor tour of Yellowstone National Park. Then follows a visit to Salt Lake City, Utah, with a three-day motor tour of Rocky Mountain National Park of Colorado. En route to Denver short stops will be made at Clear Creek Canyon, Idaho Springs, and Lookout Mountain—where Buffalo Bill is buried. Chicago is reached on Aug. 6, and Toronto, Aug. 7.

In spite of the magnitude of the tour, the fare is remarkably reasonable, and as the leaving date is July 9, arrangements should be made at once. Reservations and illustrated booklets with full information regarding the trip can be secured from A. E. Bryson, 44 Silverthorne avenue, Toronto; Martin Kerr, 4 Beulah avenue, Hamilton, or any Canadian National Railway Agent.—Adv.

ASTHMA and Hay Fever

QUICKLY RELIEVED BY THE OLD KIDNEY CURE

DR. J. D. KELLOGG'S—

ASTHMA

RECOGNIZED FOR YEARS AS A STANDARD REMEDY FOR THE GREAT AFFLICTION. QUICKLY RELIEVES AND OVERCOMES IRRITATION.

OUR LILACS ARE IN BLOOM. How wondrously our earth is garbed. Now in her dress of green, whilst promises of fruitage glad on fertile fields are seen. Then, too, behold what Nature's hand has woven in her loom. When graciously she gave to us Our lilacs in their bloom.

'Tis deftly god-sent shuttles weave These flow'r-bells everywhere. And vent them with the magic art To sweetly scent the air. With no rude eyes can men behold This wonder-working loom, But eyes which see are sometimes born.

When lilacs are in bloom. Oft kindred minds as one were joined. And hush, to n'er divide. As by a lilac bush they stood. Alone at eventide: And artfully a hand unseen Weaves, in her noiseless loom, A never-fading web of gold. When lilacs are in bloom. MACK.

DR. PIDGEON AS MODERATOR GIVEN UNANIMOUS SUPPORT BY PRESBYTERIAN ASSEMBLY

Union Committee Head Will Hold Office Only One Week.

TALKS NEW ERA

Dr. MacKinnon, Retiring
Moderator, Preaches On Future Work.

Canadian Press Despatch.
Toronto, June 3.—Rev. Dr. G. C. Pidgeon, pastor of the Bloor Street church in Toronto, tonight was chosen, unanimously, moderator of the 51st assembly of the Presbyterian Church in Canada. He will hold office until the denomination enters officially the United church on June 10. Dr. Pidgeon has been prominent in the movement for church union, and during the last year has been chairman of the assembly's union committee. As such, he will present a report to the assembly on formal progress made in the last twelve months towards merging of the three denominations going into the new church. The first sederunt of the assembly opened at 8 o'clock in College Street church, with about 600 commissioners present, to hear the sermon of the retiring moderator, Rev. Dr. Clarence MacKinnon, of Halifax, to choose his successor, and to transact routine business.

"Whether we will or not, a new era is upon us that calls for new adjustments," declared Rev. Dr. Clarence

German-Austria Union Is Talked

Associated Press Despatch.
Vienna, June 3.—A German people's league is to be launched tomorrow with 1,000,000 members, according to supporters of the movement for the union of Austria and Germany. The new league will demand that the Austrian government ask the League of Nations to recognize the German-Austria economic union as an accomplished fact. If this is refused, the supporters of the movement say they will conduct a private plebiscite and submit the results directly to the League of Nations.

MacKinnon, of Halifax, retiring moderator, in his sermon to the assembly. He preached from the words of Christ: "Verily, verily, I say unto you, except a corn of wheat fall into the ground and die, it abideth alone; but if it die, it bringeth forth much fruit. He that loveth his life shall lose it; and he that hateth his life in this world shall keep it unto life eternal." "It is common," said Dr. MacKinnon, "to speak of our age as one of transition, and to claim that we are standing at the portal of a new epoch in human experience. It is a claim that I think can be justified, not as a consequence of war and political upheavals, in which, too often men have sought the promise of a better day; rather is it to be found in the remarkable triumphs of mind over matter that are so significant of our times, the operation of the Spirit of the Creator in the activity of man. "These marvellous applications of science are affecting the whole intellectual, moral, social and spiritual life of man."

Two Climb From Car Uninjured After It Takes 70-Foot Plunge

Special to The Advertiser by Staff Correspondent.
St. Thomas, June 3.—Despite the fact that the sedan in which they were riding took a 70-foot plunge over an embankment, turned once and finally came to rest upside down and balanced on the edge of a shelf on the embankment, Miss Rose Woodward and Mrs. Charles Bevis escaped without injury.

The car was backed out of the driveway at the Bevis home on Talbot street, west of the street car barns. It got out of control and went across the street car tracks and over the edge of the embankment, which is very steep at that point. The two women were in the front seat and unable to get out of the car before it started its tumble down the bank. They clung to their places, even though the car turned over, and when the car came to rest they were able to make an exit through the front window, which was open. They suffered only from shock and fright.

Damage to the car is considerable, and the vehicle is hanging in such a position that many wonder why it did not take another tumble when the women were climbing out.

It is suggested that the Norwegian relief operations extend from Spitzbergen to East Greenland, that Dr. Jean Charcot, the noted French explorer, search the East Greenland coast and that Donald B. Hydro Knight Advocates Pro-

FIGHTS LEASE

London's Protest Comes In Form of Elaborate Booklet.

Canadian Press Despatch.

Toronto, June 3.—The recent discussions in the dominion parliament respecting the proposal to grant a lease of the important water-power rights at the Carillon Falls power site on the Ottawa river, with the privilege of exporting 400,000 horsepower or more of electrical power to the United States, have called forth a vigorous protest from Sir Adam Beck, chairman of the hydro-electric power of Ontario, in the form of a printed statement, in which he refers to the terms of the proposed Carillon lease as "scandalous."

Sir Adam states that the issues are of such serious moment to the Canadian public that "no government in Canada can stand against the opposition of the public opinion that will be expressed by the people of the provinces of Ontario and of Quebec once it is fully appreciated what sacrifice of their interests is involved in the lease proposed for development on the Ottawa river, involving as it does the right to export

S. Clarke, M.L.A. Seriously Ill

Canadian Press Despatch.
Cobourg, Ont., June 3.—Following his return home, Sam Clarke, Liberal member of the Ontario Legislature for West Northumberland, who recently underwent two serious operations, has contracted double pneumonia and considerable anxiety is felt over his condition. Mr. Clarke was confined to the hospital for six weeks.

electrical energy to the United States under circumstances which heretofore have not existed. The copy of the proposed Carillon agreement that I have been able to go over contains conditions that are scandalous."

The burden of Sir Adam's statement is that no further exportation should be permitted, or, at the least, that a prohibitive export tax should be levied. Sir Adam states that he is not alone in his protest. He says: "Premier Ferguson of Ontario and Premier Taschereau of Quebec on different occasions have expressed themselves most forcibly against the exportation of electricity upon terms such as those outlined for the proposed Carillon lease. I believe, also, that the views I have expressed accord with those of all citizens who appreciate what is involved in the use of low-cost hydro-electrical energy as a substitute for natural coal resources which we lack in eastern Canada. No such lease as that proposed for the Carillon power site must be considered."

NEW GOITRE REMEDY

Great interest attaches to reports of a remarkable method for treating goitre recently demonstrated at the W. T. B. Laboratory, 3099 Minty Block, Battle Creek, Mich. It is used by the patient herself in her own home and it is said that the largest and most hideous goitres begin to recede almost in a day. They gradually get smaller until in three or four weeks they are often gone entirely. The treatment is perfectly safe for anyone to use and many believe it will prove the long sought specific for all goitres. A little book issued by the laboratory explains the method fully and will be mailed free for the asking to anyone interested.—Advt.

Windsor Mayor Catches Speeder

Windsor, June 3.—Cutting in front of Mayor Frank J. Mitchell's car in traffic, after which he drove between 40 and 50 miles an hour through boulevard stop streets on Ouellette avenue, Windsor's main street, cost Robert C. Owens of Detroit a fine of $25 and costs in police court at Windsor today.

Magistrate W. E. Gundy, in whose court the case was heard, also ordered Owens not to drive a motor in Ontario for 30 days.

Mayor Mitchell was the complainant. He filed a charge of reckless driving against Owens after chasing him for more than a mile along Ouellette avenue.

SECTIONMEN FIND UNCONSCIOUS MAN

John Dumbis of Brooklyn Believed To Have Fallen From Train.

Special to The Advertiser. West Lorne, June 3.—A man believed to be John Dumbis, of Brooklyn, N.Y., was found in an unconscious condition this morning beside the westbound M. C. R. track. Sectionmen made the discovery, and called

Dr. Webster, who found that the man was suffering from two severe scalp wounds, abrasions on the hands and other parts of the body, and a severe injury to the right side. Blood on the body had dried and indicated that the injuries had been sustained some hours before.

Papers found in the pockets of his clothing indicated that the man was John Dumbis, a cafe proprietor at 142 North fifth, corner of Bedford avenue, Brooklyn, N.Y. In the watch-pocket of the trousers was a ticket dated June 2 from Buffalo, N.Y., to Lawton, Mich., and $10.55 in money. It is believed that the man fell from one of the fast trains.

After first aid had been given, the man was removed to Memorial hospital, St. Thomas.

RECOVERS SENSES. Special to The Advertiser. St. Thomas, June 3.—John Dumbis has recovered consciousness, and is resting easily tonight. He is, as yet, unable to give any explanation of his plight, and does not seem to understand just how he comes to be in hospital.

CHINESE STRONGLY PROTEST AGAINST SHANGHAI KILLINGS

By JAMES L. BUTTS. Special Cable to The Advertiser and the Chicago Daily News. Copyright.

Peking, June 3.—The Chinese foreign office has presented a strong note of protest to the senior minister of the diplomatic corps, relative to the Shanghai disturbances, in which students and onlookers were killed and wounded. The note points out that the Chinese authorities consider the shooting to have been entirely unwarranted. "The students are young boys of good families, unarmed and filled with patriotic motives," the foreign diplomats are told. "The demonstrators should have been regarded and treated as ordinary malefactors, and calmed by appropriate means, but the police instead resorted to extremes which absolutely violated all principles of humanity and justice." The foreign office reserves the right to formulate a further protest, following receipt of final reports, but holds the authorities of the international settlement in Shanghai entirely responsible. It requests that instructions be sent to the foreign consulates in Shanghai for the immediate release of those arrested.

Strathroy, June 3.—With a storm of enthusiastic applause, J. C. Elliott, K.C., was this afternoon chosen Liberal candidate for West Middlesex for the next federal election. The convention held in Lyceum here this afternoon gave Mr. Elliott solid support. Since the convention which brought out Judge Duncan C. Ross in the famous by-election of 1908, there has been no Liberal meeting which could match today's convention in attendance or enthusiasm.

Every polling subdivision in the riding was officially represented. The center of the hall was occupied by 340 delegates, while the sides and back were packed with enthusiastic Liberals. Fully a third of the gathering, both delegates and audience, was composed of ladies.

Eight Nominations.
An executive meeting to settle details was held at 1 o'clock. At 2 o'clock President John A. McGugan called the convention to order and asked for nominations. Mrs. M. C. Dawson of Parkhill, J. C. Elliott, Charles McPhee of Appleton, Dr. Bice of Delaware, James V. McDonald of Strathroy, Allan McPherson of Glenora, warden of Middlesex, Norman Newton of Parkhill and John A. McGugan of Caradoc were all nominated.

All except Mr. Elliott and Dr. Bice withdrew. The warden of Middlesex stated his present job brought more work and more credit than any parliamentary position, so that he was satisfied. Mr. McPhee, who contested the riding in the last provincial election, announced he was staying in the provincial field. Mrs. Dawson, who edits the Parkhill Gazette, refused to allow her name to stand, but was delighted that in West Middlesex, the women had taken their proper place in politics. She thanked the men especially for her nomination as a recognition of this fact.

Will Stand By Elliott.
Mr. McGugan, Mr. McDonald and Mr. Newton all withdrew in short addresses and all promised to stand by the choice of the convention. Mr. Elliott, in allowing his name to stand, said he believed there was a big body of Liberal opinion in the riding which desired him to do so. He was glad to return to the friendship and associations made during the many years he represented West Middlesex at Toronto.

Dr. Bice, who was born and educated in the northern part of the constituency and had practiced medicine for years in Delaware, was willing to offer himself as a candidate. A poll was necessary, and it was taken by ballot. County Clerk John Stuart, Charles McPhee, James V. McDonald and John Currie were chosen scrutineers. Mr. Elliott won the poll. This result was greeted by a storm of applause and cheering. As soon as he could make himself heard, Dr. Bice moved that Mr. Elliott be made the unanimous choice of the convention, and promised to do everything to elect his good friend, Jack Elliott. Norman Newton seconded this motion, which was carried with cheers and shouts of approval both for the resolution itself and the good sportsmanship which prompted it.

Demstration Lasts.
The president called Mr. Elliott to the platform.

Marshall's Congratulations.
The Hon. Duncan Marshall congratulated the meeting on their candidate, and urged the completion of their organization.

"Never has Liberalism entered a fight with so much confidence and enthusiasm, as it does this," he stated. "This meeting is a splendid sample of the resurgence of Liberal spirit, which is moving all Canada from east to west."

"A political party can only succeed by leadership. I know hundreds of Conservatives who will vote Liberal, because we have that essential quality of leadership, because they believe Hon. Mackenzie King is the right man to lead in paths of moderation, sane legislation, and national progress, and they're right too."

Mr. Marshall concluded with a prophecy: "In ten years I prophesy that we will be proud of our leader, Hon. Mackenzie King, and that he will loom as large as any political figure in our history."

Miss Isabel Armstrong, who followed, had a special message for the women present. It was observed that the men listened closely and intently too. In some places, she said, women had even yet no integral part in public affairs. West Middlesex was no exception. She said that they had not only the vote, but an equal voice in choosing a candidate. She had frequently heard the objection that it was the man, not the party. Here they could vote for both the man and the party, which statement produced loud applause.

It was a mistake to think of Liberalism as merely a party. It was also a huge body of principles and a banner of service. The fair sex had a real place under it, because it had always been fair and just. In urging the women to organize, and vote, she reminded them of the fact that a woman's vote counts just as much as a man's vote, and to use it.

Odette Supports King.
Mr. E. G. Odette, Liberal candidate for East Essex, spoke briefly. He had just come from Ottawa, where he had listened to Hon. Arthur Meighen speak two and a half hours on confidence resolution. "It just took the prime minister," he said, "about fifteen minutes to answer him. The burden of his answer was that he would never set the east against the west by a tariff, and that what the people of Canada wanted, was less talk and more hard-headed business."

"I am a manufacturer myself, and as such, I assure you that the tariff is sufficiently high now to satisfy any honest manufacturer."

Senator Archie McCoig, who is well known to West Middlesex audiences, conducted the meeting.

"West Middlesex has in the past served this country well by giving to its service the late Senator Ross, Judge Duncan Cross, and they will do an equal service in sending J. C. Elliott, a man whose services to Liberalism cannot be enumerated, whose loyalty to Mr. King and the present government is unquestioned, whose energy and ability will be eagerly welcomed at Ottawa."

After declaring Meighen.

"I believe in the Hon. Mackenzie King we have a leader worthy to succeed Sir Wilfrid Laurier, who jeweled our national history with brilliant achievement. Mackenzie King will be returned to power. Of course he will. For why should the country trust 'Blue-Rain' Meighen? His associates don't. He was in the union government, and when he became prime minister every one of his associates deserted him. The Hon. J. M. Baxter is also leaving. The Mall and Empire, for the while he was shouting blue ruin in Ottawa, printed a list of cities and towns where manufacturers were working full time and there was no unemployment. If his own associates are deserting, why should the country take him up?"

Two resolutions were presented and unanimously adopted. The first expressed confidence in and loyalty to the leadership of Hon. Mackenzie King, the second expressing the sympathy of the convention with the widow and family of the late member, John Drummond.

Three rousing cheers and a tiger, followed by the singing of the National Anthem, closed the convention, which will be conspicuous in the annals of West Middlesex for its fine, enthusiastic spirit. Its success augurs well for the success of its choice in the coming election.

BULGAR CAPITAL IS CITY OF DEAD
Trains, Telegraph, Trolleys Idle Following Edict at Sofia.

By JUNIUS B. WOOD.
Special Cable to The Advertiser and the Chicago Tribune.
Sofia, June 3.—Bulgaria's capital awoke Tuesday to find itself in the most amazing state of siege ever effected in modern times. Throughout the day, until the sun dropped behind Mount Vitocha at 6 in the evening, Sofia lay like a city of the dead, its silent, deserted streets disturbed only by the clatter of mounted patrols, the rumble of motor lorries filled with steel-helmeted soldiers, and occasionally a solitary pedestrian, posing a special permit, who had emerged furtively from his home.

All other activities ceased. Factory whistles did not blow. Morning trolley cars did not leave their barns. The shutters remained up at shop windows. Rail trains stood in the stations. Travelers were forbidden to board through trains. There were no deliveries of mail, milk, meat or newspapers. Courtesies and church bells were closed. Citizens not only were prohibited from emerging from their homes, but were not even permitted to stick their heads out of doors or windows.

Behind the silent exteriors, armed squads were going from house to house searching for every building in the city. The only respite was between 11 o'clock and noon. Women and children, but not men, were permitted to go out long enough to buy bread from neighboring bakeries.

The occasion was the final mopping up of the battle by the army of 10,000 additional soldiers, authorized temporarily by the council of ambassadors, following the Soviet Red army's capture of Bulgaria on the 18th of April. The capture of Sofia was precipitated by the capture Monday near the city of the notorious bandit, Ivan Christoff, who confessed he had been the leader of the attack on the king and queen, April 14, while the monarch was motoring near Orhanie. Christoff said he had been paid to assassinate the king, and also declared to plead on the charge of treason.

Hundreds of arrests were made during the day. All persons lacking police registration cards were marched to prison by armed men. Though the importance of the prisoners was not known for several days, the authorities admit that Peter Abileff, supposed director of the cathedral outrage, and Stanke Dimitroff, also sentenced to hang, were not captured by the immense dragnet.

BODY OF WINDSOR MAID FOUND IN DETROIT RIVER
Rose Lalonde Believed To Have Jumped Off Ferryboat.

Special to The Advertiser.
Windsor, June 3.—The police tonight reached the conclusion that a woman's body found in the Detroit River, near Grosse Ile, is that of Rose Lalonde, 30 years old, who disappeared March 15. Her umbrella and hat were found on the ferryboat Pleasure, an it is supposed she jumped overboard. She was employed as a maid in the home of Miss Sarah Gibson, 431 Bruce avenue, Windsor. The body was found on the river by the H. F. Thon undertaking rooms in Wyandotte to try to identify the body. At first, the police thought the body might be that of Mrs. Anna Ruggirello, 4622 Heck place, who disappeared March 3, leaving a hat and coat on the Belle Isle bridge, but this theory was abandoned.

PETROLIA DEMANDS SIFTING OF CHARGE AGAINST DRIVER

Council Wants Investigation of Why Death Car Case Was Lessened.
PROTESTS OF TOWN

Special to The Advertiser.
Petrolia, June 3.—The town council, at a meeting last night, passed a strongly-worded resolution questioning all investigation as to why James Burns was tried on a charge of reckless driving, when the coroner's jury had returned a verdict of manslaughter.

Burns ran down and killed little Johnny Burns, aged nine, in an excessive rate of speed. He did not stop after the accident. He was convicted at Petrolia on a charge of causing bodily harm by reckless driving. He was not asked to plead on the charge of manslaughter. A term of three to nine months was given him. The resolution of last night is the result of the demands of the people of the town.

The text of the resolution is as follows: "That the attorney-general of the province be requested to have a thorough investigation made as to why James Burns was only charged and convicted on a plea of the offence of being in charge of a motor vehicle on the second day of May, 1925, and by his wanton and careless driving of the said vehicle, or by wilful misconduct and neglect with said vehicle, did do bodily harm to his dead son, contrary to the provisions of the criminal code, in the face of the findings of the coroner's jury that the said Burns was guilty of manslaughter."

The resolution was presented by Alderman Finlayson. The only opponents were Aldermen Preston and Landan, who thought it outside the province of the council.

A dance was held in the evening in the new pavilion. During the afternoon, members of the Retail Merchants' association distributed candies, peanuts and chocolate bars to the children. It is hoped to make this an annual event.

INSURANCE SCHEME IS NOT APPROVED
Toronto Anglicans Send Motion Back For More Information.

Canadian Press Despatch.
Toronto, June 3.—The formation of a mutual fire insurance company and the rejection by the private bills committee of the legislature of a bill having this end in view was referred to at the Anglican synod of Toronto today by J. T. Ormsby, who suggested that if they wanted to organize a company the wisest thing to do would be to go to the Dominion government.

The insurance matter came in for considerable discussion, the proposal meeting with some disfavor. It was finally decided that full information should be sent to churchwardens in the diocese of the arrangements made for insuring church property under the auspices of the executive committee of the synod and of favorable terms that could be obtained.
