CONSTABLES FIRE UPON STRIKERS.

Attack Freight Handlers at Owen Sound.

Five Constables Hit and Seriously Injured.

Mayor's Unsuccessful Effort to Make Peace.

Owen Sound, May 11 .- The strike of the C. P. R. handlers assumed serious proportions shortly after seven this morning. The C. P. R. had about 60 special constables sworn in that they brought up from Toronto with Provincial Detective Rogers. The strikers hearing that an attempt was being made to begin work, hurried to the wharfs quite peaceably. Several of the strikers were deputed to persuade the men who were going to work to quit and the other strikers were standing in bunches on the dock. Suddenly the special constables fired upon them. A rush was made for the coal nile and the strikers used the coal so effectively that the constables returnad inside the boats but not before and one may not recover. Among the strikers two had narrow escapes from being shot, the bullets going through itton at 3 o'clock on Saturday afternoon and arrived on the northern outskirts of the city near Tranquility the next morning. His feet were cut and bleeding from his long walk over the railway ties, and the man was in bad shape. A special officer accompanied him back to the settled by the Government arbitrator, or to accept 15 cents day and 16 cents night for the season. The menhowever, refused and are holding out for last season's figures. To the credit of the outsiders brought in by the C. P. R. they have stuck to the Owen Sound contingent, though the majority are destitute and are being carad for by the town. The sympathies of the citizens were with the strikers. They hold that it is preposterious to put men to work for 12 cents per hour, more particularly when the C. P. R. is charging as high rates for freight as they did last year.

This morning he pleaded guilty to the assault and was allowed to go, as he complainants did not wish to be hard on him. Friday night, about 9 o'clock, the girl who made the complaint octock, the grI who made the complaint was walking on Barton street, and just as she was passing over the bridge east of Ferguson avenue McKenna assaulted her. The complainant's parents were willing to let the charge go as common assault, and McKenna was warned and let go on suspended sentence. Alex let go on suspended sentence. Alex. Saturday, and this afforded an excellent argument, and one which the tariff reformers were not slow to take advantage of. The advocates of protection and the Laborites made capital out of the shipbuilding dispute, in connection with which there are 1,400 unemployed in Dundee.

The fact that Mr. Churchill was not so successful as his predecessor in the Board of Trade in effecting a settlement of the great industrial crisis was regarded as most hopeful by the Laborites for their cause.

On the other hand, the budget announcement of the remission of the duty on sugar undoubtedly was in Mr. Churchill's favor, as Dundee is the centre of the jam industry.

He had a photo of the wife and the Star together to prove this and the Magistrate told him to go and take the child he wanted. That was about two weeks ago and it is claimed, he went to the Hess street school and secured the younger child as she was leaving the school. He took her to his home and sent her to the King Edward school. She was only there a short time when the mother got her again and kept her under close watch. The father then went to a private detective who sent one of his men to the house as a boarder and this man got a room next to the boarding mistress' room. Arrangements were made to take the child from the house and turn it over to the father and the plans were laid for last night. Some unforseen incident prevented this, but shortly before noon to-day he secured the child, and ran for the door. The father was waiting and taking the little one started down the street. The unfortunate detective and the father were chased by a crowd, but the father were chased by a crowd, but the father long to the child. The party ran east on York street, across the market and down King William street. Constable Tuck was called in and he joined in the chase! He caught the man and hearing the story, took him to the City Hall. The mother and the other daughter followed, and the whole crowd piled into the police office. The usual quietness of the City Hall was rudely broken. Magistrate Jelfs was called and he told McPherson to keep the child. He also refused to issue a warrant or a summons for McPherson at the instance of his wife, and the bayding commenced. The case rests at this point now, and it is said that Mc-Pherson intends to put the girl in a boarding school where she will not be kidnapped by the mother.

FATED TO LOVE HER

Thank you," said Gabrielle, "humanely speaking, there seems no doubt of it."
Lady Louisa sighed, and solemnly embraced her, much as an injured benefactress might bid farewell to a criminal protege about to ascend the gallows. And then, for the space of a minute, she stood, her fat hands folded on her fan, regarding Gabrielle, as that benefactress might regard that protege, sorrowful, yet forgiving. And then she sighed again, again oscilating the flaxen ringlets, and then she murmured: "I bear no malice, my child. My sympathies will be ever at your command." And then—just as Gabrielle began to fear she had thoughts of resuming her seat —she turned and went softly away.

she had thoughts of resuming her seat—she turned and went soilly away.

"My sweet Euphrosyne," said she, when she was shut up with her daughter in the carriage, "I shall permit you and your innocent young sister to rank among that wretched young creature's bridesmaids, solely on account of the awful practical lesson which I expect the scene to afford. Now mark my words, and take warning for your own time when it comes: 'tis hard to give the hand, Euphrosyne, where the heart can never be."

"But, mamma, Gabrielle and Mr.

"But, mamma, Gabrielle and Mr. Gordon are devoted to each other. Every one says so, and her face is sunshine itself."

"Ido not expect to be heeded, my sweet Euphrosyne," said Lady Louisa, smoothing her ringlets. "The young abhor counsel. It is their nature; and one must not blame them. Can you, without fatigue, pick up my fan?" Charlie was often, at this, sorely embarrassed, not to say annoyed, by the ostentatious compassion which his aunt appeared to consider his due. She would gaze at him for five minutes together, while he chatted with his cousins, and then, suddenly turning away, would sigh then, suddenly turning away, would sigh and murmur under her breath, "Poor Charlie!" Or she would open a book poetry, hunt out some consolatory sage, and, beckoning him to her side, passage, and, beckoning nin to ner sue, read it aloud, in a spatimental tone. Or she would treat him as an invalid, and gently reprove her sweet Euphrosyne for seating herself, when he was by, in the most comfortable chair; and at meals seating herself, when he was by, in the most comfortable chair; and at meals imp'ore him to eat, at least enough to support nature; whereas he was probably, at that very period, engaged in eating considerably more. These delicate attentions, being often repeated, became at length so burdensome that the young man began to fight shy of Lorton; and Lady Louisa, shaking the flaxen ringlets, lamented to Euphrosyne that their gay-hearted Charlie was fast subsiding into a soured recluse.

All this while—to exchange fancy for reality—Charlie was manfully battling with the apathy which at first threatened to overwhelm him, and to persuade him that nothing worth living for remained to him any more. His youthful ruddiness faded to an indefinite sunburned hue; he lost flesh, and over the simple, honest countenance stole a shade of sadness, which bade fair to become habitual.

Gabrielle observed it, and she tried to be very kind and loving to him: but, restrained by some secret consciousness, asked no questions, made no remarks. Mr. Morris observed it, and his heart ached. Cissy observed it.

"Mr. Godfrey," she said, one day, having encountered him in the park, "Mr. Godfrey, don't think me rude: but—you are looking so ill, so out of sorts, at least—I feel it my duty to remind you that, in this 'ere world, if we would keep our spirits up to the mark, we must occasionally flog them up to it. And—that, in this 'ere world, if we would keep our spirits up to the mark, we must loceasionally flog them up to it. And-forgive me—would not your spirits be the better for a little flogging, now?"

"Sometimes, you see, Miss Gordon," said Charlie, with a faint smile, "one's spirits cut away altogether. In that case, one can't get at them , even to flog," "Nonsense." said Cissy, frowning. "They would never cut away altogether. They skulk, now and then, and they should at once be hunted out, punished, and set to work again."

"Yes, when you have no particular worry, it is all very well to talk of the duty of perpetual cheerfulness, and so forth. But there are times—"

He paused, glancing at his companion, Her dark, bright eyes were turned in his direction, and so pretty she looked, so winning that his reserve suddenly melted. He went on talking as the words came.

"There are times when it is as much as a fellow can-do to get along at all. Such energy as he has is employed in that, his spirits must fare as they may,"

"Yes, I know, Mr. Godfrey. This world is certainly a most fantastical—a mean tantalizing—world. All the things bound to look on the bright side; only, now and then.—"

"Now and then, we can't; which brings us back to our starting point. This is arguing in a circle!" said Cissy. "Don't think me an utter heathen, but when I look round and see all the bothers—the nice people who are wretched, and the masty ones who are cock-a-hoop, and so on—I feel so angry, as if I could hardly bear it! It does seem such a shame."

"Miss Gordon, you shouldn't say that," answered Charlie. Cissy pouted.

"Don't be cross with me, Mr. Godfrey," she cried, in a spoilt-child tone. "Why shouldn't I say it! I wouldn't teach it to my Sunday school class, you know; but you are not in my class. And if I feel it.—" but you are not in my class. And if I feel it—"

"You should try not to feel it," said Charlie, in his downright manner.
"But, Mr. Godfrey, I possess two points in common with Susan Nipper: I am not a stock, and neither am I a stone." I can't look on things as things and no more. I must feel something."
"Well, then—feel patient."
"Well, then—feel patient."
"But I've got no patience in me. And what ara I to be patient for?, The coming of the Cocqcigrues? Because I don't believe that the Cocqcigrues will come, whatever Kingsley may say. Without trust one can't be patient; and I know the world too well, now, to trust it."
"You quoted Dickens a moment ago. There is a sentence in Bleak House; I think of it so often. Not in this world; oh, not this! The world that sets this right."

sy was silent, and a long pause en-

"Mr. Godfrey," she said at length, speaking impulsively, and drawing a little, a step, nearer to his side; "Mr. Godfrey, I do so wish that I could make you happy again!"

"Thank you, Miss Gordon," was Charlie's sole reply. But somehow he felt strangely soothed.

"I hope you won't stop coming to Farnley, because Gabrielle is married. It will relieve my misery to talk about her; for I expect to be miserable all the winter. I have grown so used to her that I shall feel like a chrysalis minus the moth."

And Cisay, the unusual gravity of her steps relaxing into a dance, flew down the corridor, singing:

"Weep no more, Charlie, weep no more! Thy sorrow is in vain;
For girls once married, the heaviest sighs

Will ne'er make single again!"

"Bless me, my dear!" said Mrs. Barber, "you ought to be 'appy, indeed! What a house this is! I had pictured anothing half so grand! And all in such style, too. I only hope it mayn't spoil Jenny for ome!"

"She will be here too short a time, said Gabrielle, smiling. "And there's no place like home," after all, you know."

"Well! I trust she'll think so. But how I want to hear all about you, my love. And lor' me! how sly you've been! Why, this must have been browing all the while you were at Kversfield; and yet, as I mentioned to Mr. Barber, never a word did you once int on the subject! "Yes, and remarkably nice, too."
"She looks it. And so stylish! Such an air! I can't keep my eyes off her. And those young ladies there, my dear, who are they?"
"Those are Jessie and Bertha Gordon. I told you about them, when I sent you the list of my bridesmaids."
"Ah! to be sure. There's a strong look of the family in them. Not quite so stylish as Miss Cissy, but very well, very elegant, take them all together. And that old gentleman with the it-piety. Thus, greatly to her own estification.

The last evening of Gabrielle's maiden life was drawing to a close. A large party was assembled in the drawing room, the house was full of friends and and thither, just as fancy takes them. They run against each other, and they knock each other down, and they produce all manner of awkward accidents. I believe I was wrong about the spirits; I beg your pardon."

But no sooner was Mrs. Barber gone, than she was pounced upon by the two shy girls, whose congratulations, instantly poured forth, were éager, fresh from the heart, and full of awe. Cousin James—oh, dear! would not Gabrielle feel it a great honor to be his wife? They had always felt it an honor to be his cousins merely! And then, would not Gabrielle have to read a great deal to be able to talk to him? But, oh, dear! Jessie did hope that she would try not to despise them. To be despised by Gabrielle would make them so very wretched!

They were still discoursing and being reassured upon this subject, when Olivia summoned them to play a duet, and Gabrielle was once more alone. "Happy?" said a voice at her elbow— "happy?"

"Happy?"
She looked up and saw Mr. Morris.
"Thank you, I am very happy, indeed," she answered. He seated himsel surveyed her in wistful silence.

"I think not," said Gabrielle, only half understanding. On he went, without further parley, in his dreamy, sing-song tones, swaying himself backward and forward, and gazing, as usual, far into scenes unknown:

"Shouldst Thou, to try me, With all supply me, Nature requireth.
Or heart desireth—sisper this counsel of love in my breast;
God is the greatest

The fairest, the sweetest;
God is the purest,
The truest, the surest—

That," said Mr. Morris, bending toward her, "is a fact."
"I know it;" said Gabrielle gently.

"Poor fellow!" she thought, as, afterward, she slowly mounted the stairs to her own room; "it is a shame, whatever he may say. Brothers Were Enemies.

Berlin, Ont., May 7.—Jealousy of his brother, Ezra Smith, a young married man resident here, was evidently what caused Nelson Smith to murder his wife and take his own life. The dead man and his wife had been staying here with his mother for some months. Ezra and his wife and two children were also in the same house, and his attentions to his brother's wife elicited a good deal of comment. Ezra, it is claimed, neglected his wife and children, and she and the youngest, left the place. There was bitter dissension between the brothers.

tion from Ireland will touch the lowest point for many years. It seems probable that the number of emigrants will hardly reach half that of last year.

Several causes contribute to this result. In the first place, Ireland, although torn politically, is plodding slowly but surely on the way to greater prosperity. Native industries are springing up in villages, and employment for skilled and unskilled labor is steadily growing.

growing.

There also is a persistent agitation by There also is a persistent aguation by the Gaelic League against the flood of emigration, and the hope is expressed that the report of Lord Dudley's com-mission on congestion, which is expect-ed within a few days, will make recom-mendations that will result in great things for the peasants of the west. It is understood the commission is in favor is understood the commission is in favor of splitting up the large grazing ranches and equipping small holders with farms sufficiently large to be economic and to provide livings for the tillers and their families.

Further, there is a still stronger reason for the falling off in emigration. It is that the prepaid passages, which in days past came from America, have now greatly fallen off on account of unemployment in America and disturbance in business caused by the financial unemployment in America and disturb-ance in business caused by the financial trouble.

Costly Playthings.
(From the Scranton Times.)

The cost of maintaining a United States battleship per annum may prove a surprise to people who have had a no light on the matter. The new navy which dates from the Spanish war, has cost to date $1,244,651,000. Of this sum $300, 000,000, has been expended on ships. The rest has gone to the maintenance of individual types as shown in a series of tables prepared by the bureau of supplies and accounts, and incorporated in the annual report of the paymaster sgeneral of the may. During the fiscal year ending June 30, 1907. the cost of maintaining the 16 battleships which are now in the Pacific was as follows:

Reddy was hungry. He had other wants and aches, but above them all there rose the call for food. This was nothing new for Reddy. A lad of 13, his existence knew little more than wants that could not be gratified. The girl in that one fleeting glimpse impressed Reddy, he knew not why. It was not the clothes she wore. Reddy had the philosopher's contempt for clothes. She was such a little lady, hardly older than Reddy himself. And she had the roundest, softest face with large eyes that looked at him compassionately. There was a man with her, whose hand she held. Reddy would rather have looked at him with cynical, hating eyes. But the lady—M

"No, mum," he replied, with a crude asking.

"No, mum," he replied, with a crude effect at civility, fidgeting with cap.

"It was wrong for that man to strike you." she said decidedly. "Wasm't it, pa?" she asked, appealing to the man. Reddy looked at her furtively, almost suspiciously. He was not used to this, it was so unlike the roundsman's curse and the watchman's menacing yell. He looked for the sly leer in the child's eye that should have accompanied so goodly a jest—a human being saying something like that to Reddy. It was not there, He looked on the ground again. He had no experience whereon to draw for any explanation of this.

"You're sure he did not hurt you?" she was saying.

"Yes, mum," replied Reddy, stolidly.

Almost a smile came on Reddy's wan features. "No. mum," he replied. He had a sense of humor, had Reddy.

One of the most potent factors, per haps, that should be considered when so One of the most potent factors, perhaps, that should be considered when selecting a breed for producing eggs for market, is the demand of the market at while the eggs are to be disposed of. Some markets, notably New York city, and cities immediately adjacent, prefer white-shelled eggs, and the best trade in these markets will accept none other. Boston prefers brown eggs, and pays a substantial premium for them; and, taking the country over, the preference is for brown ebbs by a large majority. However, in many markets no preference at all is expressed; in fact, those just mentioned are practically the only markets in which the color of the egg receives attention to the extent of influencing prices. Where there is a preference, and whichever the preference is, one should keep a variety of fowls that lay eggs of the preferred old.pr. Conditions Make for Creatures of an Advanced Order of Intellect. Advanced Order of Intellect.

Whatever its actual age, any life now existent on Mars must be in the land stage of its development, on the whole a much higher one than the marine. But, more than this, it should probably have gone much further if it exist at all, for in its evolving of terra firma, Mars has far outstripped the earth. Mar's surface is now all land. Its forms of life must be not only terrestrial as against aquatic, but even as opposed to terraqueous ones. They must have reached not simply the stage of land dwelling where the possibilities are greater for those able to embrace them, but that further point of pinching poverty where brain is needed to survive at all.

The struggle for existence in their planet's decremitude, and

The struggle for existence in their planet's decrepitude and decay would tend to evolve intelligence to cope with circumstances growing momentarily more and more adverse. But, furthermore, the solidarity that the conditions prescribed would conduct to a breadth of understanding sufficient to realize it. Intercommunication over the whole globe is existence in their communication over the whole globe is made not only possible, but obligatory. This would lead to the easier spreading over it of some dominant creature— especially were this being of an advanced especially were this being of an advanced order of intellect—able to rise acoive its bodily limitations to amelioration of the conditions through exercise of mind. What absence of seas would thus entail, absence of mountains would further. These two obstacles to distribution removed, life there would tend the quicker to reach a highly organized state. Thus Martian conditions themselves make for intelligence.—From Percival Lowell's "Mars and the Future of the Earth," in the April Century.

The Retter Part.

The Retter Part.

Three old men having met by chance, it was but natural that they should fall into some comparison of their several achievements.

"In 70 years," said the first, "I have amassed a hundred million dollars."

"But I, during an equal span," said the second, "have written 100 novels, each of which sold more than 100,000 copies."

A slight smile, as of disdain, curled the lip of the third old man. "During 70 years," said he, "I have digested my food."

The others were too overcome to apeak. They could only wring his hand, in silent acknowledgment that the palm was his.—Puck.

THE HAMILTON TIMES

MONDAY, MAY 11, 1908.

TO-NIGHT'S COUNCIL MEETING.

The proceedings of to-night's Council meeting should be of more or less interest and importance to the ratepayers. The contract which the Hydro-Electric nission would like the Council to sign, binding it to take power from the sion, excluding all competition for 30 years, and to pay for the same at a price at present unknown, but which is to include all costs incurred in in which the city has no share of management or control, will be laid before the aldermen. It is hardly likely, however, that it will be finally dealt with at this meeting. . The proposition growing out of the conference between the dermen and the Cataract Power Company will also probably be discussed The company has offered to supply elec-tric power to the city at a price 10 per cent, below that of the Hydro-Electric Commission; even intimating its willingness to leave the fixing of the price to the Commission itself. Mayor Steware is reported to have said that he would not accept power from the local ompany, even if it furnished it for noth ing, and he thinks that 10 or 11 alderto think that the Mayor has been misreported, and that his personal hostility would not lead him to make such a foolish declaration, or to advocate a course so detrimental to the city's interests. The aldermen, generally, we think, may expected to approach the question from a sane business point of view.

Another important matter upon which some definite action may be taken tonight is the proposition made by the Street Railway Company, and received with considerable favor by the alder men, for a settlement by which an extended and improved street railway ser vice will be provided. The outline of the scheme is already familiar to the Times' readers; the details are vet to be worked out, but if the general character of the proposition meets the approval of the aldermen, and they so licate by their action to-night, it is highly improbable that anything will occur to prevent agreement. The fact that city and company have pretty well that if the Council once approves of the plan in gross, the agencies at work and making such desperate efforts to prevent a settlement will find their power for evil destroyed, and will be incapable of keeping the breach open.

dy questions the good faith of the aldermen toward the city in seeking obtain favorable terms. The only danger that has appeared to threaten allow a prospective speculative percentage of increased receipts to obstruct their view of the advantages of a first-class street railway service to a growing city. The general opinion of the aldermen seem to be that the most recent proposition may afford settlement satisfactory to both parties. Such a result would be a consum mation devoutly to be wished.

VILLAINOUS WORK.

The Ottawa Citizen, in the course of lengthy editorial dealing with the faked statements of the Toronto World to the effect that "the best financial firms regard the project with distrust" and that Hon. Mr. Fielding and other Ministers had been called to New York in connection with the floating of loans for the construction of the National Transcontinental Railway, very properly says: The financial credit of a country, no less than that of an individual or corporation, is bound to suffer under such allegations unless they can be promptly and triumphantly disproven, and the impression created by them dispelled." Hon. Mr. Fielding has taken the first opportunity afforded of giving otic attempt to damage Canadian credit prices now being paid for the old read World's false and unnatrian emphatic denial. There has been no distrust among the financiers and the Ministers have not been called to New York in connection with this matter. Liké the Toronto World's other fake respecting a change of route of the the despatch was without a scintilla of truth. Why any Canadian newspaper should seek, by giving publicity to after all his boastfulness. The "end of such falsehood, to disturb and damage the stock" is being slaughtered at fig-Canadian credit is hard to understand. Many criminals are now immured in our prisons whose crimes did not take on such large proportions.

COBALT LAKE OUTRAGE.

The course adopted by the Whitney Government in suppressing investigation the Province for four years more. There into the Cobalt Lake matter will not are immense possibilities "for the boy" tend to win the Premier the respect of honest men. Some very strange features of the Government's dealing in this case have been disclosed. Did the Ministers feel that their position was such as to bear the criticism of the people, it is far from likely that they would have ex-hibited such eager haste to head off inquiry. Chairman Carnegie, of the Public Accounts Committee, during the session had learned his lines well, and promptly took his cue from the Provinwell, and eretary, choking off discussion and ruling questions out of order, on the plea that a lawsuit regarding the pro-perty was pending. His course in this was in direct contradiction to that' of the Government itself which that of the Government user which last year, in the face of a pending litigation, stepped in and passed an act valuating the sale of this same property!

Mr. Hanna blustered a good deal, about Mr. Emmerson at the Tory recting on Saturday night. He also kept the floor of the House silent on the serious charge made against only a part of the items constituting that Mr. Smith was debarred from getting evidence. Mr. McDougall accepted his challenge, and promised to make the statement on the floor of the House or anywhere else; and Mr. Dreany made the further statement that he had been for two years trying to bring the Whit ney Government into court in this mat ter so as to obtain justice, but as it was necessary to obtain a fiat to sue the Government, he had been refused the protection of the law! This Cobalt Lake matter has had an ugly look from the beginning. That the case was before the courts, and passed an act literally depriving one party to it of his legal rights in the premises, is an outrage on Canadian jus tice, and when the Provincial Govern ment is ready to prostitute itself in suc a manner it was not likely to feel any qualms about utilizing the plea that a lawsuit is now in progress, to prevent legislators who wish to bring out the facts, from exposing it to the condem nation of the fair-minded electors. When law is corrupted at its fount, how shall the people expect to obtain justice When a premier boasts as the excuse for such an outrage on justice, that he obtained revenue by it, what shall be said for those who uphold his course?

CHURCHILL'S ELECTION.

The phenomenal run made by the Right Hon. Winston Churchill in Dundee, Scotland, on Saturday last, when he was returned for that constituency by a large majority over the heads of three opponents, surprised even his friends. Local circumstances seemed to conspire against his success. Trade is dull in Dundee, a section of the Labor e'ement is out on strike, and the Government was blamed for this state of affairs; the temperance people had a candidate of their own, and the suffragettes pitted all their strength against him, just because they were against the Government. The Unionist tariff reformers heartened by Churchill's previous defeat, made herculanean efforts to elect their candidate, but in spite of all Dandee stood true to its Liberal principles, and the President of the Board of Trade is now the sitting member for that city and a safe seat it is. Being a by-election, the vote polled was much less than at the last general election, and that ounts for the fact that Churchill did not poll as large a vote as did the Liberal candidate at the last election. The Premier Asquith, and it will not fail to put courage into the hearts of his fol-

TWO GOOD NEW MEN.

The West Kent Provincial Liberals have an excellent candidate in Mr. Fred Stone, of Chatham. He comes of excellent Liberal stock, and he knows the people of Kent probably as well as any man in the county, and none stand higher in their estimation. A business and social career in which success has been won by the practice of those virtues and high principles which appeal to the confidence of all honest men, will stand im in good stead in asking for electoral support. In East Kent Mr. Gosnell is also well known and highly respected, and his recognized ability and irreproachable character make him a strong and popular candidate. The Liberals ought to carry both Kents by large majorities if they but buckle down to the work methodically and keep at it. Their men will do credit to them in the Legislature. The Province needs such.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

That was a nasty slap Mr. Fowler dealt J. J. Scott on Saturday night.

Dr. Roche does not like the Dominion elections bill. The trouble is that it does not allow the Manitoba Tory Government to prepare the Dominion election lists.

By a vote of 201 to 7 the British Commons pased the second reading of the bill to repeal the Irish Coercion Act of 1887. With its repeal, one blot will be removed from the imperial statute books.

Oh, yes! Whitney will let the settler have the timber and minerals on hi ands now. But he will take good care that the settler shall be compelled to walk a crack by a homestead inspecto with whom he must settle. And the Toronto News intimates that "settlers will be kept out of districts chiefly adapted to timber growing, and rocky ountry will be set apart in the form of mining divisions for the advantage of he prospector."

Mr. Lake, M. > Perhaps no better reason could be ask not accept the Manitoba Provincial lists for use in federal elections than the fact that the Roblin Government not only does not leave the making lists to the municipal officials, but it changed the old law, under which they were in the control of the judges so as to put them entirely in the hands of political agents appointed by the Pro-vincial Ministers. Mr. Roblin himself could hardly defend such an arrange ment.

"It's a lie!" says the Hamilton Herald in reply to the statement that the Cata-ract Company has offered to supply electricity at prices 10 per cent. below those of the Hydro-Electric Commission By way of testing the Herald's veracity contrast with the above statement this one taken verbatim from its editoria on the subject on Friday last:

What does the latest power offer What does the latest power of the Cataract Company mean? The company offers to supply the city with power for civic purposes at a price 10 per cent. lower than the price which would be charged by the Hydro-Electric power commission.

Ingenious apologist But why should the materials be dearer for them than for the "cheapened" readers about which Whitney is now so much puffed up?

What is the matter with the Toronto World? It is now wholesouledly apologizing for every political action Whitney. As a matter of fact, the "estimate" was not the Times'; it was neither more nor less than an examination of the very figures which the Herald presented in its estimate. But, in spite of the Herald's effort to divert attention from its blunders by a cackle about a couple of very obvious typographical errors, the city would be stuck, under the Hydro scheme, for a good many dollars per h.-p. more than it needs to pay now without incurring any huge capital liability, or being tied up to any monopoly.

Premier Haren, of New Brunswick, is losing no time in putting into practical application the Tory doctrine of spoils. The Fredericton Herald reports that he continues to wield the axe on Liberal officials and to fill their places with Tories. The latest batch of dismissals includes nearly a dozen officials in the Counties of Queens, Kent and Restigouche, to make room for Mr. Hazen's hungry followers. Up to date the dovernment which promised that they would know no party in the administration of affairs have displaced upwards of 500 Liberal officials and replaced them with partizan Tories, some of them, the Herald says, absolutely without the ability to fill the positions assigned to them.

Hamilton's Answer. (Kingston Whig.)

(Kingston Waig.)

The Premier of Ontario plaintively appealed to the people of Hamilton to give him "a square deal." It is his manner of expressing the hope that in the impending election there will be an exemplification of the golden rule. Mr. Whitney went to the Ambitious City with some misgivings. One of its City with some misgivings. One of its constituencies had repudiated his parand its candidate in a by election. The people had some reason to show their displeasure. They had been treated badly, and calm reflection deepened rather than removed the griev-ance.

First, the voters generally resented the slight of the Government in removing the Normal College in the interest of which they had made a large investment. The labor element rebelled against the prison contract system, which had not been abolished according to promise, but was continued in a more offensive form. The fact that the Government promised, not directly, but through its touters, a technical college, replacing the Normal College, did not satisfy the people. It did not improve the situation that the representative of the cause was not a popular man. He was rich—this was First, the voters generally resented popular man. The echoes of the party caucus had hardly died away when Mr. Whitney began his pleading. He was in a very tender mood. He was so anxious for a square deal. Some one caught the idea and asked, What about the technical college? He could not say. He could not promise. He would not bribe. He stood only upon his record. According to it he will be judged and from Hamilton's diagruntled electorate he may again receive—a lemon.

Is it not about time to ring down the curtain on this hybrid Hydro-Electric Commission farce? It is nearly three years ago since the Hon. Adam Beck started out on his crusade to show the people of Ontario how they could, under a paternal Government, be provided with electric power "as free as air." The immediate effect of this was to frighten both Canadian and English investors, who had invested their money in different enterprises of the kind, and in different enterprises of the kind, and who would before now, if left undisturbed, have been competing for the delivery of the electric power to the principal cities' and towns throughout the Pro-vince of Ontario.

British Government's Method.
That the Ontarjo Government and the city of Toronto should jointly or severally go into a project involving the expenditure of ten or twelve million dollars, with an absolute certainty that double that amount would be needed in the near future, is simply incredible from any sane or rational business point of view. Such a project is all the more incredible from the fact that the Electrical Development Company, with #ransmission lines already built, and the Toronto Electric Light Company have both made distinct propositions for the disposal of their properties to the Government and the city on a fair basis of values from a business standpoint.

should Purchase on Fair Terms.

If the Ontario Government or the municipality of Toronto are to go into this business of providing electric power let them buy out the companies now engaged in the business on the fair and business-like terms which have been offered by the companies. Neither the Ontario Government nor the city of Coronto Corporation can afford to treat their own citizens unfairly or ungenerously in any matter of business.

The fact is that, had it not been for private enterprise, Toronto and other municipalities throughout the country would have had no electric power for their use, and the Hon. Adam Beck, "Power Minister," as he is called, would never have been heard of in any such connection. He has simply been riding into notoriety on the back of private enterprise, commissioned evidently to pull Premier Whitney's chestnuts out of the fire, while it is strongly suspected that not only is the Premier sick of the whole business, but that the Ministers are at loggerheads among themselves, and would be glad of any decent excuse for dropping the matter altogether.

Mr. Coady, the City Treasurer, in his recent report, calls attention to the fact that there are in the Province of Ontario many localities where abundant water power is available for the development of electric energy to an almost ufhimited extent. I venture to say that, had it not been for the paralysis of private enterprise consequent on this hybrid Hydro-Electric Commis-

It is beginning to be understood, however, that the great hurry to go into the power business by the Government and the city of Toronto authorities is not quite as urgent as it was a few weeks ago, although the pretense is still kept up, and they are marking time by employing "experts" to travel in distant countries to get further information as to "high tension currents." It would be interesting to know how much the city nteresting to know how much the city of Toronto and the Ontario Governmen have already spent in these "expert" reports and valuations, and something as to the variety of information and as to the variety of information and with timates they have secured. In per cent. less than whatever the other company's offer may be, was undignified and dishonorable for any company to offer and equally so for anybody of men to entertain it.

I understand the proposition is this: The Cataract Co. offer power for 24 hours at $16 per horse power for pumping and sewage disposal. This work is completed in the day time. Then they propose a five years contract for lighting at $60 per lamp, or a ten years contract at $55 per lamp, thus charging us twice for the power each day, making a double profit as they are not pumping during the night, and are using the power paid for during the day for lighting. Such a project is all the more incredible from the fact that the Electrical Development Company, with stransmission lines already built, and the Toronto Electric Light Company have both made distinct propositions for the disposal of their properties to the Government and the city on a fair basis of values from a business standpoint.

The English Government, when they undertook the telegraph business in England, bought out the telegraph companies then in the field, at a valuation based on their earning power, a fair and satisfactory arrangement for all concerned. They did not commence negotiations for the purchase of the companies by abusing them and belittling the value of their properties, and threatening to force them out of business. The

LIFE IN THE FURTHEST NORTH

Impressions of a Year SpentAmong the Esquemauxs

Knud Rasmussen, whose mother was an Esquimau woman of Danish Greenland, whose father was a Dane and who has lived most of his 27 years in his native land, has written a book on his life for a year in the huts of the Smith Sound natives, the most northern people of the world. The book has been translated from Danish into German and it attracting much attention because it has great literary merit, and as the story of a primitive people it is unique.

He had rare advantages for writing such a narrative, because he is an educated man, trainedas an ethnologist and partly of the same blood as the tribe that opened their doors and hearts to him. He went among them as a brother, they awakened his sympathy and affection, and their idiom differs so little from his own that he was one of them from the day they first saw him.

They told him everything, and when "Think?" replied the man. "I didn't meed to think. It was the part of Peary

They told him everything, and when he left them for Denmark he wrote the first book that has ever been devoted wholly to these natives. The German wholly to these natives. The German edition is entitled "Neue Menschen" and it has been published in Bern, Switzer-

"Think?" replied the man. "I didn't need to think. It was the part of Peary to do the thinking."

Rasmussen tells the story of the immigration of a number of the more western Esquimaux about half a century ago to the Greenland coast, where some of them spent the rest of their lives with the new found friends. They brought blessings also to the Smith Sound natives, for they taught them to make snow huts with a long covered approach and an entrance from below, making them much warmer; also to shoot with the bow and arrow, to spear fish and to make kajaks or canoes, so that their hunting was no longer confined to the land or the edge of the ice. He got the story from the last survivor of the immigrants.

But the time came, one spring morning, when the young man, with his dogs and sledge, was to start south on his The purpose here is simply to give a The purpose here is simply to give a few incidents of Rasmussen's life among these people and some of his impressions of them. They liked him and wished him to live with them always. They would be happy it only he would marry one of the native girls and settle down. So one winter evening when the hut was crowded with Rasmussen does not inform us what response he made to this appeal. Old Sorkrark is known as the greatest bear unter anung his people, but he did not shine on this occasion as a matrimonial agent. The people said he must tell Rasmussen the story of some of his big humsing exploits, but he long refused. PRIVATE MOIR CAPTURED.

SLAYER OF SERGT. LLOYD ARREST-ED ON FARM NEAR ELORA.

Was Taken Off His Guard, But Fought Viciously-Moir Had Been Working for Eighteen Days as a Farm Hand —Has Made Complete Confession.

Arthur, May 10.-After a desperate struggle of ten minutes up and down under the hoofs of the startled horses at the Robb Bros.' farm, four miles north of Elora, Private Moir, the murderer of Sergt. Lloyd, was futally overpowered by Chief Constable C. J. Farrell and Constable Cochrane, of Arthur. Moir was carrying a 3z calibre revolver, loaded in five chambers, under his belt, and what use the desperate man would have made of it had not the officers taken him off his guard is sufficiently indicated by the fight he put up when he was pinioned from behind.

Constable Farrell, of Arthur, first got

Constable Farrell, of Arthur, first got wind of Moir through W. E. Draper, the stage driver between Arthur and Fergus, who had seen Moir while driving past the Robb farm, and heard that he carried a loaded revolver with him always under his belt Than that he carried a loaded revolver with him always under his belt. Then David Robb got hold of a Stratford paper and was at once struck with the resemblance both the cut and the description bore to their hired man. Last night Farrell and Cochrane drove out to the Robb farm in plain clothes. Just as they arrived they saw David Robb and Moir, whom they at once recognized, unhitching a horse. The farmer and hired man went into the stables and the officers followed them. Färrell, began to talk to Robb of his stock and the season, all the time edging up to Moir, who seemed quite unconcerned.

When Farrell was quite sure he was their man he sprang and pinioned Moir's arms to his sides, and in a second Cochtheir man he sprang and pinioned Moir's arms to his sides, and in a second Cochrane pitched on to the struggling pair. Moir is far the smaller man of the three, but has the build of a sprinter and the physique of the all-round athlete he claims to be. Both Farrell and Cochrane are in the prime of life and heavily built, but for fully ten minutes the unequal struggle went on in the stable, Moir fighting to reach his weapon with the venom of a wildcat. At last he suddenly collapsed, allowed himself to be handcuffed, and came very quietly to Arthur, where he remained all Saturday and to-day.

This afternoon a news correspondent saw him in his cell at Arthur, He was in a penitent mood, freely admitted that he had shot Lloyd, and talked of his wanderings. He is a rather undersized but stockily built man of soldierly bearing and gentlemanly address. The hair had been combed to fall over the telltale scar on his neck till it was almost unobservable.

manly address. The hair had been combed to fall over the telltale scar on his neck till it was almost unobservable. He wore a light suit, which he said had been given hm, but had not got rid of the regimental tan boots. He had broken down and cried shortly after his capture, and it was in this mood that the correspondent found him. "I must have been drunk at the time," he said, "blind drunk, though it's all a lie about my cating cordite. I didn't know I'd killed Lloyd, honest, I didn't, tuntil I was in Stratford the Monday after. Then I saw my picture and an account of the dreadful affair in a Stratford paper. I had been staying at an hotel in the town, but when I saw that I took to the woods right away and got out of everybody's way until I met Mr. Robb at Elora fair and got hired out by him. I carried my rifle and other revolver for forty miles, but I dared not go to anywhere to get food with them and threw them away in a ditch. After I left Stratford I took to the woods and walked some distance off the road in the fields for days. I don't rightly mind where. Then I came on to Elora, got to know Mr. Robb and I was there for eighteen days. I met him at the horse show there."

there."

The Robbs' farm is about four miles north of Elora and ten miles from Arthur. Mr. Robb declares that Moir was very quiet and a good worker, but qdd in his ways. They noticed he was carrying a revolver and spoke about it and Moir's general make-up to Draper, the stage driver, who passed the news on to Farrell. Farrell will get the $500 reward offered by the Government. Detective Nickle arrived here from London to-night and will take Moir back with him to-morrow.

The crime for which Moir is arrested was the murder of Segt. Lloyd at Wolseley Barracks, London, on the evening of April 17. Lloyd went to arrest Moir to take him to the guard.

at Wolseley Barracks, London, on the evening of April 17. Lloyd went to arrest Moir to take him to the guardroom, when the private raised his loaded rifle and shot Lloyd dead. The detectives have been hunting for the murderer for twenty-two days, and he had been seen near Arthur. Chief Farrell has been making diligent inquiries about Moir since April 21, when he heard that the ex-soldier had passed through Goldstone, a small place seven miles from Arthur.

Niagara Falls, N. Y., May 10.—Norman White, a lad of 15 years, had seen his mother abused by his drunken father ever since he could remember. Yesterday he spent his savings for a revolver. CONFERENCE ON THE BIBLE

Was Opened in the Gospel Taber nacle Yesterday.

Dr. Gaebelein on the Second Coming of Christ.

The Meetings Will Continue Until Thursday Evening.

The opening of a five days' Bible conference was held yesterday in Gospel Tabernacle. The programme for those days is an extensive one, and it is expected that the church will be filled for every service. The speakers for the con ference are Rev. Dr. A. T. Pierson and Dr. Arno Gaebelein, of New York. Both gentlemen are fluent speakers, and their addresses on Bible study are very inter-

Yesterday morning a special prayer meeting was conducted by Rev. P. W. Philpott, At the 11 o'clock service Dr. Pierson gave a splendid sermon to a congregation that filled the large audi-torium.

A union meeting was held in the after-noon, at which Dr. Pierson and Dr. Gaebelein were the speakers. Rev. Mr. Philpott had charge of the meeting, and opened the services with the singing of several appropriate hymns. This was followed by an address by Dr. Gaebelein. The subject was "The Absolute Neces-sity of Christ's Second and Visible Coming." The reverend gentleman quoted several passages of scripture to prove that Jesus is surely coming to this world again. Dr. Gaebelein said that Jesus had made three appearances. The first again. Dr. Gaebelein said that Jesus had made three appearances. The first was His coming into the world to die on the cross, to do the will of God. The second, His appearance before God after the crucifixion. This, of course, was not seen by human eyes, but those who are God's people know and believe that such a meeting took place. The third will be His second coming on earth. This time he will come in all the power and majesty of God.

he will come in all the power and majesty of God.

Dr. Gaebelein stated there were many passages in the Bible to which he had not time to refer, which spoke of the second coming of Jesus, and, taking the Bible as the proper authority, every one should believe that His coming is an assured fact. The speaker said that the people of this world should live godly and righteous lives in anticipation of Christ's second coming. The doctrine of the coming of Jesus is one of the great doctrines in the Bible, and there is no one who could believe what the Bible says, and not refuse to believe this one doctrine.

The Old Testament prophets in reality

The Old Testament prophets in reality demand the second coming of Jesus to prove the worth of their statements. Every Christian who reads the Bible knows how accurately the prophets have predicted the second coming of Jesus, in glory. But to come in glory must not be misunderstood. It is to be a spiritual glory, not that of the pomp and ceremony of the kings of this world.

One reason why Jesus was coming is the fact that many men refuse to believe that He will appear. He will prove to them that they are wrong. When He comes there will not only be the exaltation of the living word of God, but the written word of God as revealed in the teachings of the Bible. Then again, the words of Jesus Himself demand that He return to vindicate His position. Again and again Jesus made the confession that He was coming again to restore peace in this world.

In the New Testament the Holy Spirit emphasizes the second coming of Jesus Christ. One must remember that the teachings of the New Testament are very clear regarding the resurrection. It emphatically says that there can be no resurrection until Jesus comes again; and we are waiting for the redemption of our bodies by the Master.

Satan has come to the present genera-tion, and controls the country. He is the ruler of the present day. The world has tried legislation and education to down him, and has not succeeded, leaving the am, and has not succeed, leaving the copie of to-day in a worse position than ver before. This earth is going to keep he curse it received from the time of dam, until Jesus comes and creates a manner in which men take the is. In every way, politically, so-or in business, the demand is for and His cleansing power. Mr. Philpott then led in the singas it would spoil the gratification of a glorified existence. Whatever is given to the Lord during one's life time, will be paid back by God, probably not all during life, but it will surely be received to an infinitely greater extent when Chris: comes again. Jesus will call the scions of His nobility when that time arrives, to be presented to the Father. No blemish or impurity will be on those who desire the favor of the Master. The second coming will bring with it the resurrection of the body and the reconstruction of the whole life of the world. The reward of the faithful will be that Chrisi comes again. Jesus will call the scions of His nobility when that time arrives, to be presented to the Father. No blemish or impurity will be on those who desire the favor of the Master. The second coming will bring with it the resurrection of the body and the reconstruction of the hold life of the world. The reward of the faithful will be that of everlasting blessedness. The earth will be raised out of its chaotic rottenness and idleness, to a position worthy of a place in God's esteem. Satan is using the greatest of modern inventions to defeat the purposes of the Master, but his end will be an untimely one.

The meeting closed with singing of a hymn.

In the evening Dr. Gaebelein spoke to an audience that completely filled the large auditorium.

This afternoon Dr. Gaebelein gave another address on "The Epistle to the Galicians." This evening Dr. Pierson

It is expected, however, that the number of visitors will be lessened to-day, some 15,000 persons having inspected the grounds yesterday and presumably satisfied their curiosity.

The grand jury was to have met to-day to consider Lamphere's case, but this procedure has been postponed for a week. Experts who were called into the affair by Sheriff Smutzer advised this course, although Prosecuting Attorney Smith had announced that he was ready to go into court with the evidence at hand. Toronto, May 11.—Four men are dead as the result of the bursting of a defective pipe in the boiler of the steamer Brockville on Saturday afternoon, while another member of the crew was seriously scalded, but will recover. The two firemen, Adolph Chavageau and Octove Cote, were killed on the spot, while the chief engineer, Burneau Panten, and oiler, William Gouin, died at Grace Hospital a few hours after the accident. Fred Charboneau, aged 30, second engineer, will recover.

Charboneau, aged 30, second engineer, will recover.

On Saturday afternoon about 2.30 of clock the steamer Brockville was lying at the foot of Bathurst street. She belongs to the Richelieu & Ontaria Navigation Co. and was to have left Toronto for Kingston on May 26, the intention of the company being that she should ply between that city and Prescott. The four dead men, with Charboneau and J. Fougere, were in the hold. The boiler and fittings were being tested under the direction of the chief engineer, Burneau Panten. A defective six-inch circulation tube gave way under the head of steam and the vapor spread first into the firebole and thence into the fire pit, where the men were at work, in its passage blowing out the fires. The two firemen, who were directly in front of the blast, fell dead at once. Panten and Gouin were also wrapped in the sealding steam and were so fearfully scalded that they both succumbed a few hours after their admittance to Grace Hospital, where they were hurried in the police ambulance. Charboneau managed to escape into the outer air and apprise the rest of the crew above of the deadly nature of the explosion, the faint rumbling of which had only been heard on deek.

Brought Up the Dead.

The men dived for the hold, and in spite of the deadly clouds of steam soon had the four men on deck, two dead, and two alive, but frightfully-scalded. The bodies of Cote and Chavageau were taken to the morgue, and Panten and Gouin were hurried to Grace Hospital. Here Gouin was plunged into a boracic acid bath, and Panten was wrapped in pieric acid bandages, but the two men were too seriously injured for any remedy. Fred Charboneau was taken to Grace Hospital in a cab. He said that Gouin, Panten and he were standing in the engine room, when there was an explosion, and they were all enveloped in scalding steam. He continued: "1 had to fight my way through the environment of the said that the engine room, when there was an explosion, and they were all enveloped in scalding steam. He continued: "1 had to fight my way through the environment. Brought Up the Dead. in scalding steam. He continued: "I had to fight my way through the engine room to the companionway, and I thought at one time I should never make it." Fortunately I did not swallow as much steam as the others." Charboneau's back and limbs are badly scalded, but little hope is entertained of his recovery.

The men below had no warning of what was coming. W. Bushell, one of the crew on deck, heard a low rumbling, and almost immediately afterwards steam began to ooze out of the companionways and through every crevice. The ship was black with cinders blown by the force of the steam out of the firebox. The steamer Brockville was little damaged, a hundred dollars incurred in repairs covering the loss in that respect. The accident was not a boiler explosion, or the steamer would have been wrecked, but the crumpling of a wrecked, but the crumpling of a

"Know about the accident," said he, "All I know is that there was a sound of a joint blowing, and the whole ship became one white, scalding mist of steam. I was bending down looking at a joint. Poor Panten, Cote, Chavageau and Gouin were standing in a ring around me. I had just said to Bourget, the electrician of the boat, "Get out o' here; there are too many of us already; we won't try the dynamo to-day." He thought I was dynamo to-day. He thought I was and he is alive now. The had gone to get a saved are saved as a saved him. I heard a gentle hissing, as if a joint had blown out. Then the smoke box door burst open, and we were all lost in a great white cloud. I said, 'it's time to get out,' and moved for the companionway, shutting my mouth and eyes. That saved me. Fougere, a fireman, ran to the stairs in front of me and got off without a tingling of the skin. He's a little man, and I took all his and my own on the back. I went back and sat on the deck, but the steam would not let me breathe there, and I got off on to the dock. I looked up in a few minutes and saw a man coming, walking weakly. I didn't know him. He groaned and spat. Then I saw it was our chief. Man, it was horrible! He was coiled, boiled right through. His eyes looked like a sick fish's; he breathed and spat steam; was boiled inside, bon Dieu; his lungs were boiled. Gouin came up next and sat down on the other side o' me. They had never lost consciousness, and they were boiled. I began to think I was dead, too, as I sat between them and waited for the ambulance. I didn't want to come up here, for to see them again was more than I could bear. I got off easy. I can scarcely believe 'I'm alive yet after what I saw down there."

Coroner Orr will open, the inquest on the four bodies at the morgue this morning.

Tory Muck Rake Stirs Up Dirty Tory Methods

And Rank and File Cheer Him Vociferously.

More , Ottawa Speakers In Ontario Campaign.

George Fowler, of "wine, women and graft" fame, addressing a Conservative meeting on Saturday night, said some things about unpopular candidates and machine politics that must have made the ears of the party bosses tingle. It is evident that Leader Borden's chief muck raker does not keep in touch with poli-tics as conducted by the big wigs of the Tory party in Hamilton, or he would have carefully avoided the subject. Just a week before, in the Sun Life headquarters, where Mr. Fowler described "ma chine methods" on Saturday night, the local "machine" foisted on the conven tion J. J. Scott, K. C., as candidate for East Hamilton, amid one of the most emphasized demonstrations of disap-proval in the history of the party in Hamilton.

Fowler was using the harpoon on Hon. Dr. Pugsley when he gave the local stalwarts a joit about the "machine." He said that in 1895, after nominating Dr. Pugsley, he had gone stumping with him, but the meetings were frosts.
"If you want a candidate who is going to win, he must be agreeable to the rank and file," said Mr. Fowler, and the rank and file, which so strongly protested a week ago against Scott's nomination, applanded. Continuing, the speaker said: "I must say to those of you who are leaders of the party in this city of Hamilton, to turn your face determinedly leaders of the party in this city of Hamilton, to turn your face determinedly against any such thing as coercion, against any such thing as machine politics. We are a democratic people, a free people. The humblest man in the party has just as much right to say his mind as the man higher up." Although the party bosses looked rather embarrassed while Mr. Fowler delivered this advice, the rank and file applauded enthusias tically.

"If you want your party to be successful and win you cannot fail to meet the desires and wishes of the men of the party," he added. "You might say that it is on the men who do not take a very active part, who are not before the footlights, that in a large measure success depends, for it is that work which wins and not speeches from the platform."

Mr. Fowler endorsed the ward heelers. "Some reproach is found against ward heelers," he said. "Let me tell you that the party that has not lots of ward heelers to go out and talk to their neighbors day by day and try to get their vote, that party is not going to win many elections.

endorsation of the party system of government, a confession that the history of Canadian politics brought a blush of shame to the cheek of an honest man, and then the doctor pounced on the "thin red line." He referred to the Government as "an aggregation of autocratic politicisms at Ottawa."

Training his battery on Sir Wilfrid Laurier he declared the Premier was as good at preaching free trade as practicing protection.

But it was the new Aylesworth bill that aroused the talkative doctor's ire. This he characterized as the "crowning iniquity by which it was hoped to strangle the voice of the people." For Sir Wilfrid, Dr. Roche expressed some hope that he "would see the error of his way and not impose this iniquity on the west," but for Mr. Aylesworth he expressed no hope. The latter he remarked would resort to anything to strike a political opponent. The bill was designed; so Dr. Roche said, to steal Manitoba for the Liberals. With a sidelong glance at Fowler he deplored the fact that morality was never at so low an ebb and-observed that grafters were as thick as flies around a honey pot. The doctor wound up with a little pat on the back for Sam Barker and a prediction that Borden was going to win.

Defends Much Raking.

Mr. Fowler lost no time in launching into a defence of the muckrake brigade. "We of the Opposition," he said, "have been charged with being muck-rakers. That term has been applied to us by that higher-minded organization, the Liberal press. Muck-raking is a very decent and honorable occupation, but even if it were otherwise, if we were to plead guilty, this Government must plead guilty, this Government must plead guilty to the greater crime of providing the muck for us to rake."

The speaker regaled his auditors with extracts from the report of the Civil Service Commission's report. The Cevernment in appointing this commiss \(\text{q} \), he said, had made the mistake of appointing honest men, but it was not likely to do that again. He had nothing to say against Judge Cassells being a man of honestyand integrity. That might be true. He had no doubt it was, but why had the Government, in appointing a second commission to probe in the department of Marine and Fisheries, appointed Mr. Perron, of Quebec, for many years a business partner of the late Raymond Prefontaine, jumior counsel. The latter was being asked to probe into many transactions in which he himself had no doubt been concerned."

Fowler as a Preacher.

The crowd chuckled when Mr. Fowler, after painting a rainbow picture of the prospects of the Conservatives carrying the country, predicting that it would get a third of the representation from Quebec and change a Liberal majority of seventeen in the Maritime Provinces into five of a Conservative majority, assumed a santimonious attitude and launched into a sermon on the sacredness of the ballot.

"It is not preached into us as much as it should be from the pulpit," he said, "and in that respect many of the clergymen are, to my mind, at fault, because they do not preach to their congregations the sacredness of the ballot."

Both Dr. Roche and Mr. Fowler inti-Fowler as a Preacher.

ON PALESTINE.

E. H. Chart, of Guelph, to Christadelphians.

Mr. E. H. Chart, of Guelph, spoke be ore a fair sized Christadelphian congre gation last evening in the Canadian gation last evening in the Canadan, Oddfellows' Hall on "Palestine." He divided his topic into three parts, "Vanished glory," "Present Degradation" and "Future exaltation." In God's dealings with the Hebrews, he said, is evidence of the veracity of the eternal. We live in a time when a scoffing world holds up to ridicule the miracles of the Bible. Moses prophesied a time when the Lord would bring a nation against the Hebrews from afar, a time when Jerusalem would be besieged at all of its gates and the Lord would scatter his chosen people among the peoples of another tongue all over the world. The Romans besieged Palestine and 3,000,000 Hebrews collected within its gates soon ran out of provisions, whole families were swept out, 1,500,000 perlshed. The captive Hebrews were put on sale at the slave markets, but no one would buy them and then they were put in ships and sent to Egypt. They have no flag, no country to which they can appeal for protection. But the time will come when other people shall bow to the Hebrews. Jerusalem will be the metropolis of the world, and Christ will appear to make Jerusalem the greatest kingdom. Zion's King will reign supreme though all the world resist him. HAMILTON TIGERS WON THE FIRST GAME PLAYED.

Opening of the Baseball Season Here on Saturday.

Niagara Falls Beaten by a Score of 2 to 1-Yankees Wen Sunday Game by the Same Score - London Defeated Guelph In an Exhibition Game.

The opening of the professional basehall season at Britannia Park on Saturafternoon was an auspicious one, and augurs well for the success of the new International League as far as Hamilton is concerned. Over 1,200 persons were in the stands and bleachers, and two or three hundred more saw the game from the house tops. Many of the old fane, who used to attend the games n the days of the old International League, were present, among them being Col. J. M. Gibson and Col. Stoneman There was a goodly number of the fair sex present, but not as many ladies were present as expected. Of course the weather was a little against a large attendance of wearers of "Merry Widows." the wind being cold and raw.

The field was, as might be expected after three days' rain, in wretched condition, and made fast, sharp play almost impossible. Considering the state of the track, however, the teams played very fast ball and tickled the fans immensely. The game was close and exciting from start to finish, and the citing from start to finish, and the Tigers won out by a spectacular drive in the tenth innings. At the end of the ninth innings the score was 1—1, and the Nankees were retired in 1, 2, 3 order, the first two fanning and the third being thrown out trying to steal second. The Tigers then went in for what the captains had agreed was to be last inning. McMillan got first on balls, and Finnemore reached the initial bag on an error. Dessinger hit a low one to the pitcher, who threw him out at first. McMillan had reached third on the play. Hack, the Yankees were retired in 1, 2, 3 order, the first two fanning and the third being thrown out trying to steal second. Maxey was the only home brew that played through the entire game, and he appeared to be suffering a little from stage fright. He fielded his position well, and dropped only one ball—a hot, low one. He was not up to form in his stick work, but he will likely improve.

Bradford was in right garden for seven linings and did not feure much luck. bradford was in right garden for seven nnings and did not figure much. Hack-usch took his place in the eighth, and bushed took his place in the eighth, and he failed to get a call on the box score. Howard batted for him in the tenth inhings, and his work has already been-referred to.

Doremus, the giant twirler for the Yankees, who pitched the last three inhings, looks like a wonder. He has a world of speed, and true in his delivery. The boys say, however, that he cannot go a route, and is good only for four or five innings. McCabe, who was in the loox in the early part of the game, is a pitcher with some class, apparently. The visitors are sharp fielders, the first baseman being remarkably quick. Eddie Dore umpired the game, League Umpire Daly having gone to Buiteio on Friday, thinking the rain would last all week. Dore caused the Yankees to do considerable kicking, and three were two or three short delays. At least one of them was justified, however.

OPENING AT LONDON.

DERING AT LONDON.

London, Ont., May 71.—The baseball season opened on Saturday afternoon, and Paul Brown Wreath's Beavers won both of their games. The first one, called at 2.30, between the McClary aggregation and Internationals, went eight innings, and at the end of the eight installments the score stood 3 to 2 in favor of the artists of the big smoke. It was a nice game of ball.

On account of the heavy condition of the grounds a true line could hardly be secured on the Tigers, but most of the college boys were pronounced good enough. Brennen, the Toronto man, became a favorite with the fans, using his head to good advantage, and being in the game all the time. Gleason pitched ten innings in remarkably good form, and gave promise of being one of the reliables, although the Yankees on last wars form are not the heaviest hitting team in the league. Curtis, the Hamsthird baseman, was another player that made a good impression.

Maxey was the only home brew that player through the arties good in the seven the inning. But the could be suffered to the control of the reliables, although the reliables and the league. Curtis, the Hamsthird baseman, was another player that made a good impression.

Howard is no "Teddy Bear." He is a regular Teddy Roosevelt with the big stick.

There was some talk last week of a team picked from the City League challenging the International League team here, just as the McClary nine did in London. Nothing has been heard of the proposition since Saturday's game, however.

Among the American League's many 1908 recruits are two twirlers, each of whom specializes a new style of delivery. Cicotte, a member of McGuire's ataff, depends to a large extent upon the knuckle ball thrown overhead. It starts toward the bataman at a high rate of speed, but slows appeand breaks quickly just before reaching the plate. The dry spit ball, introduced by Summers, Detroit's 1908 twirling find, is also projected above the shoulder and acts as extractedly as the saliva-covered aphere, but, as it is dry, it is handled by the catcher and other fielders without the danger of a wild theow. A CONSTANT INVITATION.

Exercise in the open air is the surest method of maintaining health. Hence the bicycle, ever ready, never tired, proves the best method by which to insure this. In fact, it is a constant invitation calling one to enjoy its benefits and which when properly employed never fails to give the rider the full value in health. William B. Atkinson, A. M., M. Sergeant Robinson and Constables H. Smith, Brannon, May, R. Duneau and Merritt marched out Cannon street west last night shortly before midnight and stopped at No. 46. This is the residence of Luey Maddix, and the object of the police was to get Lucy in on a charge of keeping an immoral house, and if at all possible to charge her with selling liquor without a license. Constables Smith and Duncan and the Sergeant went to the front door (they were all in plain clothes) and the rest guarded the rear. At the quiet little knock of the policemen Lucy opened the door and the police stepped in. The men were all charged with being fre-quenters and Lucy charged with keep-ing the place. The case was laid over fill to-morrow, at the request of A. M. Lewis. Bail was fixed for the woman at $200 and for the alleged frequenters $20 each.

The executive of both political parties were in assion all afternoon Saturday in St. Catharines. The Liberal committees have their work pretty well in hand at present, but no stone is being left unturned in a determined effort to elect Mr. William Mitchell. The Conservatives of St. Catharines are at the present time in a rather panicky condition. Dr. Jessop is not acceptable to a large portion of the party in the city, but he stone of Hamilton at any time the ladies desired. Incidentally he mentioned that if the function should be over early he would go to Toronto. This morning Mrs. Ballard, secretary of the committee, and their candidate is working hard to uphold their confidence.

Lincoln County Liberals will hold their convention to nominate a candidate for the House of Commons on Saturday afternoon, May 30th, in the assembly room of the county buildings, St. Catharines. day. All Liberals should make sure, without delay, about their names being on the regular lists. If they are not on they should be handed in at once at the Liberal Chub rooms. It is best not to wait for the canvassers.

The Liberal executive expects to be able to announce for a public meeting at an early date. In the meantime both of the candidates are hard at work. Mr. McClemont, in the East, is meeting with much succes. Mr. Wardrope has re-covered fr. his illness and is also in the thick of the campaign. Both these gentlemen have received invitations to speak in outside places, but feel that their first duty is to their own, and have had to decline all invitations.

That is the reason given by the secretary of the court, Ald. Dickson, for not adding more districts. The following are the districts.

Lincoln County Liberals will hold their convention to nominate a candidate for the House of Commons on Saturday afternoon, May 30th, in the assembly room of the county buildings, St. Catharines. Iwo probable nominees will be Mr. G. B. Burson and Mr. M. J. McCarron, barristers of the county town, and either one should have no difficulty in defeating the present incumbent, E. A. Lancaster. Besides these two, there is no dearth of good men, and the Lincoln Liberals can be depended upon to thoroughly agree on the choice of the convention.

a newly arrived Scotchman, who immediately started in to explain to lifelong Canadian workmen what their duty to themselves was, and how to overcome the autocrats of Canada, who were responsible for their poverty now. Several men in the crowd asked the speaker embarrassing questions, which he answered some way, but he did not altogether make a hit. There were no rapturous looks or any frantic applause when he aubsided, and he seemed the only satisfied man in the crowd.

The first gun in the Provincial elections in North Wentworth will be fired this evening at Mountsburg, at the north of the riding, when Mr. R. A. Thompson, the Liberal candidate, will hold a mass meeting. Mr. Thompson has invited the Conservative candidates to attend and tell their tale of woe. Mr. Chas. Collins has intimated that he will be present at this, as well as other, mass meetings held not only by Mr. Thompson, but by Mr. R. Gordon Wilson. It is stated that Mr. Wilson refused to hold joint meetings on account of Mr. Collins' intention to speak. There is a strong feeling among some of the Tories that another convention should be held, and the question of party candidate settled at a properly called meeting.

To-morrow night Mr. Thompson will speak at Freelton, and on Wednesday night at Carlisle.

It is expected that there will be a warm time at the meeting of the Independent Labor Party in Labor Hall this evening. The report of the Executive Committee, which met on Friday evening will be presented. The committee recommends that the name of Wm. Berry, an officer of the Trades Council, be removed from the membership roll of the party for seconding the nomination of Col. J. S. Hendrie at the recent convention of the Conservative Association. Mr. Berry will be on hand to protest against the committee's report being adopted.

The rough water on Saturday prevented the men of the Hamilton Club from trying out any of the crews. There was a splendid turn out of the most likely lot of young fellows, however. If they settle down to hard work, and that is absolutely needful, they should make a good showing at the Canadian Henley. The boats are all in good shape, and the strokes should get their crews in trim for the club races, to be held inside of a month. The Rowing Committee, consisting of Capt. Hogg, Don Cameron and A. McKenzie, would like to hear from men who want places in the crews.

New York, May 11.-The Times to-day says the United States will not send a representative crew to the Olympic games regatta to be held at Henley on the Thames July 29. There is a bare possibility of a crew being entered, but it will not be a representative one. Although no official announcement has been made of the fact, the American committee on rowing, James Pilsing, of the National Association of Amateur-larsmen, and Julian W. Curtiss. of Yale, has practically abandoned all efforts to get together an eight-oared crew.

Mr. Court Thompson, a crack shot of the Hamilton Gun Glub, has accepted a position as travelling salesman for the Union Metallic Co. He will shoot at tourneys in Canada and the Eastern States.
