ATTENTION!

It is evident that there is a growing interest in the welfare of the youth of our land, particularly those who are known as delinquents. Time and again references are made to the need of institutions for reforming the habits of such, and training them in better ways. Right in our midst even to-day an effort is being put forth on behalf of the girls of our city and country, by the Girls' Industrial Home Association, and slowly but surely that effort is bearing fruit. Funds for the establishment of a laundry in connection with our work are needed, and through the kindness of the Salvation Army who are lending their hall on Springdale Street for the purpose, we are holding a Concert and Sale of food on Monday, May 4th, at 8 p.m. Will not the citizens of St. John's show their willingness to support such work by attending in large numbers? Ad-

TENDERS
for Port and Cement

The Railway Commission of Newfoundland are prepared to receive Tenders from reputable firms for the supply of between 6,000 and 7,000 long tons of Portland Cement.

The Cement must conform in every respect to the British Standard Specification.

The Mechanical Tests will be made by the Commission on delivery and in respect of each 100 Ton parcel. Failure of any test sample to comply with the requirements of the Standard Specification will empower the Commission to refuse acceptance of the whole parcel from which it was taken. The Contractor shall submit certified chemical analysis of each parcel delivered.

Delivery shall be at St. John's, Newfoundland, in 2000 ton lots. First cargo to be delivered not later than 7th day of June, 1925, and subsequent cargoes at intervals of 20 days thereafter. Cement must be put up in bags each containing one cubic foot of cement.

Terms: C.I.F. St. John's, N.F., Cash in 30 days from date of delivery in satisfactory condition. The Commission reserves the right to reject the lowest or any tender, and may require a satisfactory bond for the due fulfilment of the Contract.

Sealed Tenders marked on Envelope "TENDER
FOR CEMENT" should be addressed to Hon. W. S.
Monroe, Chairman of the Railway Commission, Railway Offices, St. John's, must state the country of origin of the Cement, and must reach him before 12 o'clock, noon, on the 12th May, 1925.

LORD MORDEN'S DAUGHTER — OR —
THE TRAGEDY OF THE CEDARS.

CHAPTER XXI.

Its architecture might have originated in a dozen schools of design at remote periods. There was nothing sufficiently pronounced to render it imposing. It was a mixture of simplicity and the echoes of far-away grandeur, softened by huge sprays of ambitious creepers, whose leaves flamed like fiery gold in the September sunshine, graduating to points that seemed to have been dipped into crimson blood.

Locksley was entranced. He forgot the greivous stories he had heard, and fancied that he could see Dora's lovely figure fitting among the flowers.

He opened a heavy oaken door, and passed into a square reception-hall of noble proportions, flooded with light from a great, glass dome that towered high above the center of the house.

A handsome staircase led to a gallery, upon which opened the rooms of the second floor, and he went from one to the other, delighted with everything that he saw. It was like a palace in miniature. Every room was in perfect order, and tastefully furnished. The house could be made ready for occupation at a day's notice.

"I will not lose so grand a chance," he thought. "I cannot make any mistake; I am dealing with an honorable friend, and he offers me this, on approval, for three or six months. I will take it!"

He did not return with the keys to the post office, but arranged with the driver of the carriage to see that half-a-dozen women were put in at once to clean it, and light fires in the chilly rooms.

The man was only too glad of the change to earn a couple of sovereigns for himself, and Locksley returned to London, highly satisfied with his bargain.

After a hasty dinner at Greely's Hotel, he went to Fulham, and gave Madam Bell instructions to move to "The Myrtles" early next day, so that she and Matilda could superintend the cleaning, and make all ready for the home-coming of Dora.

"You can lock up this house for the present," he told her, "and your furniture can follow you when we are settled."

Madam Bell was delighted at the prospect before her, and Matilda's pleasure was almost hysterical.

Locksley now turned toward Hammersmith, and it was quite dark when he knocked at the door of Frank Rogers' humble abode, his heart throbbing so wildly that he found it difficult to breathe.

Frank answered the door, and one glance at his face was a sweet relief to the young surgeon.

"All is well, Frank?"

"Yes, sir. I've got all arranged according to your wishes."

"My news is not quite so good, though I have reason to be pleased with my day's work. The marriage cannot take place until Thursday morning, and you must see the minister again."

He explained why the postponement was necessary, then bade him announce his presence to Miss Deane.

"And, Frank," he added, "contrive to leave us alone for an hour. I will see you afterward to make final arrangements."

Locksley was ushered into the same sitting-room where he had seen Dora so early in the morning of the same day, and the moment the door was closed she rushed into his arms with a happy little cry.

He was quick to notice the dark shadows under her eyes, but she met his questioning looks with a brave smile.

"My dear love," he said, kissing her tenderly, "all this doubt and uncertainty is telling on you. Why will you worry?"

"Do I worry," she asked, naively.

"Of course you do! I can see the lines of caring care in your dear face," he replied, playfully.

"Then I must be growing old and wiser!" said Dora. "But, Edmund, I cannot help trembling a little, though it must be very foolish and unreasonable of me to tell you, when you have so much to do. Having to be inactive, and knowing that I may be discovered at any moment, makes me miserably nervous."

He could not find it in his heart to tell her just yet that there was another whole day to be endured.

He spoke of the house at Richmond—her future home, their future home—and she listened to his vivid descriptions of the wonderful beauties of the lindens, the flowers, the ferns, and mosses, with parted lips and glistening eyes.

"And when he had told her everything, he concluded:

"And it only rests with my little wife whether I buy 'The Myrtles' or not. It would be one of the greatest pleasures in life for me to make my darling a wedding present—to give her 'The Myrtles,' with all the beautiful things it contains."

"My own love!" she whispered, joyously. "How good you are to me! I would rather share everything with you. Why should you make me this gift?"

"Because I love you beyond all else, either on earth or in heaven!" he said rapturously. "And if it is ever full for me to practice my profession, I do not think there is a more beautiful place than Richmond in which to begin."

"Then, why hesitate, Edmund? Whatever you like will be doubly dear to me."

There was a tender, beautiful light in her glowing eyes, and he murmured:

"Was ever man so blessed as I!"

An hour passed, quickly, and at length he spoke, in a quick, nervous way:

"To-morrow, Dora—to-morrow 'The Myrtles' shall be made your very own."

"To-morrow!" she whispered, with a happy blush, and he found it harder than he had expected it would be to explain the delay of another previous day.

He felt her fingers tighten upon his wrists, and saw that she had grown suddenly pale, but she looked up at him bravely.

"And when will you come to me again, Edmund?" she asked.

"To-morrow evening—another blissful hour, and the next day our lives will be one."

Dora shivered a little, and clung tightly to him.

"Do not leave me yet," she said. "I am a coward, but I cannot help it. Do you know, darling, that I had a horrid dream last night—and I dreamed that we were parted forever—parted because of one day's delay! Is it not strange that this much of my dream is true?"

"It is my fault entirely," her lover replied. "I ought to have made inquiries, but I had an idea that a special license could be obtained without notice. Even Fairfax, who is a lawyer, was ignorant upon the matter. I shall bring it with me to-morrow night, Dora, and the wedding ring!"

He tried to speak lightly and cheerfully, but there seemed to be a leaden weight at his heart.

The hour that Locksley had asked for lengthened into three, and he was startled by hearing a clock chime eleven.

At last he tore himself away, and Rogers went outside to see that the street was clear.

"You will have to go back to Greely's, sir," he said. "I couldn't get any accommodations here without raising suspicion."

"It does not matter," Locksley replied, gloomily. "Only I anticipated some pleasure in being only half-a-mile from Miss Deane instead of an hour's journey."

"I will walk with you a little way," volunteered Frank.

"Yes; I have some instructions to give you."

INCOMES AND STORAGE ROOMS.

How glibly and cheerfully other people can always spend one's money for one.

"I should think you'd enjoy having a motor boat, you are so fond of the water."

"You really ought to have one of those little closed cars like ours. I know you would get enough more use out of it that you do from the open car, to make it pay."

"Why don't you get one of those big over-stuffed davenport to put in front of your fireplace, they are so much more comfortable than anything else."

Our Friends Show Us How To Spend Our Money.

So our friends show us how to spend our money, and if we explain frankly that we should like the motor boat but cannot afford it, or that we run an open car because it is several hundred dollars cheaper than a closed car, or that while we know the over-stuffed davenport is the last word in luxurious toiling, we also know that it will cost about $500 and that we haven't at the moment that $500 to use for that purpose, they are pretty sure to report that they have some other luxury that they wouldn't feel they could afford, or that we spend money in some way that they would hesitate to spend it in.

Apparently they regard that as a reason why we can have the luxury that they "should think" we would have, whereas, as a matter of fact, it is the exact opposite—the reason why we can't have it.

Obvious But People Forget It.

You can't spend the same money for two purposes at one time—that is apparently too obviously true to be worth saying.

And yet there are millions of people in this country who don't sense it as a fact.

Even the millionaire's income has its limits.

No one millionaire can indulge in all the luxuries that all the other millionaires indulge in without going just as broke as you and I will go if we try to have all the luxuries that other people with an income similar to ours have.

Everyone has pet luxuries and pet economies. That "C" has a closed car with an income like yours is no proof that you can afford a closed car if you

RIGHT OF WAY.

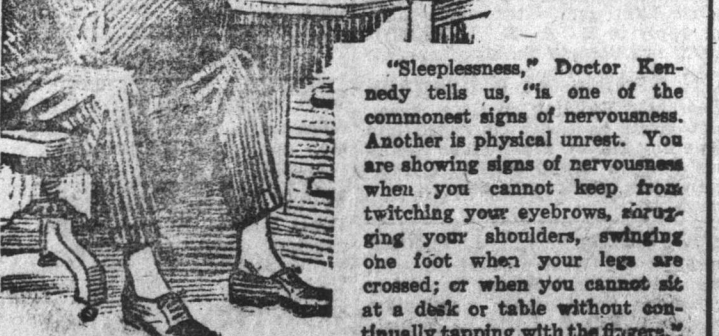

Let the stately locomotive revel in its right of way; this determination vantage fills me as I drive my dray.

Here's the locomotive toasting smoke-wreaths in the balmy air; I could beat it to the crossing by some seven feet.

I swear; that might give some satisfaction, that might fill my breast with pride; but the perils of such action can't be truthfully denied. I have legs I greatly cherish, I have ribs that yield content, and I'd hate to see them perish in a crossing accident. So I stop and look and listen ere I cross the iron rails, where the painted signboards glisten, warning reckless, speeding males. I have whiskers richly flowing from the suburbs of my face; I've a bonnet which the knowing call a credit the place; all the things I highly treasure, all my gems, of priceless glass, are protected, in a measure, if I let the engine pass. But if I should try to beat it to the crossing, in my dray, if I raced and failed to cheat it of the valued right of way, there would be a fierce collision and my bus would strew the ground, and would horrify the vision of all rubbernecks around. Crushed and broken, overmastered, I'd be mingled with the dray, and my whiskers would be plastered on a pole a mile away. And my hat would be a ruin, and my gables a wreck, and my motor, done with choin; would be hanging round my neck. Let the locomotive thunder unmolested on its track; I would not be lying under, with a broken neck or back.

Why Men Crack
When on the Highway to Success

"Sleeplessness," Doctor Kennedy tells us, "is one of the commonest signs of nervousness. Another is physical unrest. You are showing signs of nervousness when you cannot keep from twitching your eyebrows, scrunching your shoulders, swinging one foot when your legs are crossed; or when you cannot sit at a desk or table without continually tapping with the fingers."

THE warning symptoms, as outlined above, are well worth careful study because with this knowledge you can detect the indications of falling nervous energy while yet there is time to prevent serious results.

Your digestive system has failed to supply proper nourishment to the nervous system.

On this account outside help is necessary, such as Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, before you can get back your strength and vigor.

You will not be using this restorative treatment long before you are sleeping, and resting better, appetite and digestion will improve and you find yourself well on the way to health and happiness.

Can You Picture This Happy Baby?

When Woodward's Gripe Water enters the baby's stomach, the baby is turned to smiles of contentment. Read this pleasing letter from Mrs. Facer, 41, Ben Jonson Road, London, E. 1.:—"Enclosed is a photograph of my baby, who has taken Woodward's Gripe Water since she was two weeks old and who always smiles when we shake the bottle before giving her a dose. Baby has two teeth—cut them at six months, and was not cross at all. She sleeps all the night through after her dose of Gripe Water. I cannot speak highly enough of your Gripe Water."

Woodward's Gripe Water is a perfect remedy for babies' stomach troubles and teething pains, and is equally good in larger doses for most internal disorders of older children and adults. It is free from opiates and all enjoy its pleasant flavour.

Newfoundlanders and 3 Others Lost When Steamer Cuts Down N. S. Vessel

Amateur S.O.S. Call Brings Liners Rushing to the Rescue—Russian Reds' Money Accepted by Cape Breton Miners—Eight Hour Working Day Rejected by the Commons.

NEWFOUNDLANDERS AMONG THE LOST.

HALIFAX, May 1. Three lives were lost late yesterday when the Nova Scotia three-masted steamer Cape D'Or, Captain C. M. Wilkie, hove to off Cape La Have, was rammed by the United States Shipping steamer Clackamas, Captain McGuire, inward bound from Norfolk, Va., with a cargo of 2,700 tons of coal. The Cape D'Or nose dived to the bottom three minutes after impact, taking with her the entire crew of 25 men who was in the boat clear of the falls at the Cape. Captain Wilkie, his mate, George East of Ostrera Lake, Halifax, and Roy Dunworth, of East-Parade, Halifax County, were rescued; but the captain's wife, Margaret Leone, aged 41, her son, St. Pierre Wilkie, single, and her daughter, Justin Warren, both aged 10, and both of Newfoundland, were drowned. Mrs. Wilkie's body was picked up and brought ashore, and the remains of the other three were in an unsuccessful search for the bodies of the Clackamas returned her voyage to Halifax.

TOLL OF THE SEA.

HALIFAX, May 1.—[By Canadian Press.]—The loss of the Nova Scotia steamer Cape D'Or, with Captain Wilkie's wife and four members of the crew through collision with the Clackamas, off Sambro Light, last night; the loss of the Norwegian steamer Møldgaard, ashore off Pennant Point, at 10.41 this morning; the loss of the Cape Breton steamer Azov, ashore on the Cape Breton coast, near Arichat, with her stern was lifting slightly with the heavy seas. He was unable to launch the boats and felt the crew would be in danger if they attempt to remain on board through the night. With a molasses cargo, the Azov, bound to Montreal from Cuba, ran ashore during the night on the Cape Breton coast, near Arichat, and is believed to be a total loss. Her crew took to the boats and were successful in reaching the shore without loss of life.

EIGHT HOUR DAY REJECTED.
LONDON, May 1. The Hours of Industrial Employment Bill, which has its basis in the Washington eight hour day convention, was rejected in its second reading by the House of Commons to-day, 233 votes to 128.

REDS' DONATION ACCEPTED.
GLACE BAY, May 1. J. W. MacLeod, District President of the United Mine Workers of America, to-day confirmed receipt of $5,000 for relief of distress in the colliery districts of Nova Scotia, from the Red International and Russian Miners' Union, through J. B. McLachlan.

FRANCE AND THE GOLD STANDARD.

PARIS, May 1. Finance Minister Caillaux told newspaper men to-night that France cannot remain indifferent to the tendency of other countries, notably Britain, to return to the gold basis. Much remains to be done, he said, before that question can be taken up, but as soon as the situation permits France will be obliged to adopt the same policy.

CHURCH UNION FIGURES.

TORONTO, May 1. The Church Union Bureau of Information to-day issued the following summary of voting on the matter of the entry of the Presbyterian Church into the United Church of Canada:—Total membership 374,951; ballot vote for Union 102,096; unanimous membership, 27,595; total for Union 129,691; ballot vote against Union 106,018. There are 4,549 Presbyterian congregations in Canada. To date 2187 have voted. Manitoba and New Brunswick do not vote until after consummation of Union.

SILK NOT A LUXURY.

LONDON, May 1. An amendment to the Budget will be moved by the Labor party in the House of Commons, demanding the entire dropping of the proposed duty on raw silk. Almost hourly the silk industry is becoming more vocal against Chancellor Churchill's proposals with regard to the duty. The silk manufacturers of Leek, Staffordshire, have sent a telegram to the Chancellor stating that the duty on raw silk would mean the ruin of the silk industry and that assent silk is not a luxury in these days.

THE CAUSES OF SUICIDE.

KITCHENER, Ont., May 1. Dr. J. E. Holt, of this city, discoverer of the treatment of abdominal fibroids with X-ray has announced, after years of research, the theory by which he establishes the primary cause of suicides and claims as a result of his investigation that 90 per cent of suicides are preventable. He declares it is all wrong to lay suicide at the door of mental conditions arising from shock, loss of money, worry and other mental stress. These, he asserts, are only secondary or contributory. The real causes are certain pathological pathological generations, gradually brought about by certain habits of life.

TREATY APPROVED.

OTTAWA, May 1. A resolution approving the treaty between Canada and the United States providing for "further debarcation of the international treaty," was passed by the House of Commons this afternoon and referred to the Senate. Premier King in introducing the resolution stated that the treaty had been signed in Washington on February 4 last by Hon. Ernest Lapointe, Minister of Justice, and was awaiting ratification of parliament.

ACCIDENT TO OCEAN LIMITED.

QUEBEC, May 1. Shaken into consciousness from their sleep when engineer Joseph Gagnon jammed on the brakes in an effort to save their train from wreck, some hundreds of passengers of the Ocean Limited, the Canadian National Railway's "million dollar" train from Montreal to Halifax, turned out in pouring rain, about one and a quarter miles east of Lévis, in what clothes they could hurriedly put on, early this morning, to find that the engineer, and fireman Emile Courcier, had gone over a 12 foot embankment with their locomotive and were imprisoned there, while mail and express cars were derailed on and around the track. The cause of the wreck were boulders which had fallen down from a cliff. None of the passengers cars left the rails and no passengers were injured, but engineer Gagnon may give his life for sticking to duty and thus saving the people whose lives were in his care from injury or death. The accident happened at 12.47 a.m.

LIBERALS TICKLED OVER BUDGET MAJORITY.

OTTAWA, May 1. After twenty-four days of debate the House this morning adopted the Budget by a majority of 37. The vote was, for 123, against 86. This unexpectedly large majority aroused wild enthusiasm among the Liberal members. Their forecast had been between 20 and 25 and when the result was announced they banged their desks in applause and flung sheaves of paper in the air. The Liberals and Progressives voted for and the Conservatives against.

CONSTANTINOPLE, May 1. Violent earthquake shocks occurred to-day near Adana, Turkey, according to reports received here from that vicinity.

MONTREAL REDS HOLD PARADE.

MONTREAL, May 1. Local Reds held the annual May Day Parade this afternoon but nothing exciting happened. The procession was orderly. There were no fiery speeches, nor were there any display of large Red banners, both omissions being due to orders from the City Hall. At first there were more policemen than paraders, the authorities having decided to be fully prepared for possible rioting, but the services of the constables were not required once during the whole day.

Let me think how I ended yesterday's story. Maybe I'd better look in my scrap book in which I paste the daily Little Jack Rabbit stories. Dear me, I've written so many that it's difficult sometimes for your Uncle Dave to remember just what he has written, and sometimes even harder to know what more to write for all his Little Readers throughout the country. Oh, yes, now I have it. Bobbie Redvest was inviting all the little furry and feather coated people in the Shady Forest and Sunny Meadow to Little Jack Rabbit's May Day Party. Well, no sooner had Mrs. Oriole accepted the invitation than away flew the little robin to see the Big Brown Bear at his Cozy Cave House in the Shady Forest. There he sat on the wooden bench in front of his house; his two small cubs rolling about and Mrs. Bear busily at work mending stockings. "I know why you've come," laughed the big old bear. "Little Jack Rabbit's May Day Party. Well, I've already cut the May Pole. This afternoon I'm going down to the Three-in-One Cent Store to buy a lot of long ribbons. Mrs. Bear will fasten them at the top. Ladies can do that sort of thing, you know."

"Will you surely have it ready by the first?" asked Bobbie Redvest, anxiously. "As sure as Monday follows Sunday and the hills come in on the first of the month," answered the fanny old bear, with a wink. Don't worry, I'll have the pole set up in plenty of time to dance around it on the first of May."

"Of course you all will come," chirped the little robin. "As sure as you wear a red vest," answered the Big Brown Bear. My two little cubs will have a jolly time, and Mrs. Bear, and myself will dance around the May Pole. We'll make believe we're young again and dance to the music's sweet refrain. By the way, who will furnish the music?"

House of Assembly Proceedings

FRIDAY, May 1.
MR. HICKMAN presented a petition from the residents of St. John's, East, relative to opening the District.

MR. HALFYARD presented a petition from the residents of Random Island and vicinity on the subject of a road and bridge. Mr. Godden and Captain Randell supported the petition.

MR. GRIMES presented a petition from residents of Leading Tickle on the subject of a road. Mr. Ashbourne supported the prayer of the petition. The Report of the Select Committee on the Western Marine Railway Bill was adopted and a Bill, in accordance with the Report, was introduced and read a first time.

QUESTIONS.
In reply to a question by Mr. Cashin to the expenses of Col. Sullivan in reference to the loan raised in England, the Finance Minister said that neither Col. Sullivan, nor anyone else, excepting the Bank of Montreal, had received any remuneration, and they on account of advertising.

HON. MR. LONG asked the Hon. the Leader of the Opposition to lay on the table of the House a statement showing how many messages he sent to the South West Coast and other places advising people to send in messages to their representatives protesting against the duties put on Lines and Twines. Also state to whom these messages were sent and table copies of same.

In reply MR. HICKMAN said that he did not send any message as leader of the Opposition. Council's Amendment to the Legislative Disabilities Bill, was explained briefly by the Minister of Justice and the matter was deferred for consideration.

ORDERS OF THE DAY.
House in Committee of the Whole on Ways and Means.

MR. GRIMES concluded his address begun a couple of sessions ago and was followed by Mr. Cashin. There was a short discussion over procedure on the Amendment to the Tariff as moved by Mr. Cashin. The Chairman stated the Amendment could be put at the reporting stage.

THE MINISTER OF JUSTICE in reference to parliamentary practice, pointed out that if a member makes an amendment to the Tariff, it must not affect the balance of Ways and Means—in other words, if there is a reduction made in one direction then there must be a means of making it up in some other way.

MR. HALFYARD spoke on behalf of some of his constituents who had cattle killed by the railway and had not been recompensed. In reference to the management of the Railway he expressed the view that now, when it is paying, was the time to negotiate for its transfer to private parties.

Regarding the matter of claims, the Prime Minister pointed out that a hard and fast rule has been established by the Commission, that compensation will only be given if the animal is killed within a mile of any settlement.

The Committee rose at 6 p.m., having made good progress. The Industrial and Provident Societies' Act, 1913, passed Committee stage. Messrs K. Brown, and Ashbourne and Sir John Cresble gave hearty support to the Bill. With unanimous consent the Bill passed third reading.

The Prime Minister, moving the second reading of the Avalon Telephone Bill, pointed out that it was a Private Bill, to which the Government was not committed. The Company seeks the exclusive rights for thirty years, from 1918, to instal telephones in the following districts and towns:—Bell Island, South Shore of Trinity, Whitebourne, Placentia Junction, the towns of Placentia and Argenta and St. Mary's Bay.

They also ask authority to mortgage the assets including its franchise, for the purpose of obtaining money to operate its system. There is a provision in the Bill that the Government and the Railway have the right to instal telephones in any districts in connection with its Railway or Postal Telegraph business.

MR. DUFF objected to giving the Company exclusive franchise for a 30 year period and referred to the lighting privileges which had been granted to the same people in Conception Bay with its consequent high cost of light to consumers. He thought it ridiculous to allow them to sell out their franchise.

THE COLONIAL SECRETARY pointed out that the trouble in the past has been that we have not been particular enough in seeing to details, and referred to a petition he presented a few days ago to have a telephone instal at Tilton. It was found that the Company could not be compelled to put a phone service there.

THE PRIME MINISTER stated that Mr. Murphy was given to understand that he would not get an exclusive franchise. He (the Prime Minister) suggested an amendment to the section which would meet Mr. Duff's objection.

MR. GRIMES supported the positions taken by the Colonial Secretary and Mr. Duff, and pointed out the necessity of protecting people from extortionate charges.

The Bill was given second reading and referred to a Select Committee pursuant to Rule 203. The Committee is as follows:—Prime Minister, Colonial Secretary, Messrs. Puddester, Halfyard and Duff.

The Bill, entitled "Of the Inspection of Ships" was given second reading.

The Bill "An Act to Repeal Chapter 174 Consolidated Statutes entitled 'Of Passenger Accommodation on Board Steamers and Vessels'" was given second reading.

The Bill "An Act Respecting the Encouragement of Shipbuilding and Rebuilding" was given second reading.

The Bill "An Act to Confirm the Titles to Certain Lands at Corner Brook" was given second reading, and referred to a Select Committee consisting of the Minister of Justice, Hon. J. J. Long, Messrs. Power, Hickman and Grimes.

THE PRIME MINISTER gave notice that he would on Monday move for the suspension of the rules.

On motion for adjournment MR. GRIMES referring to the question of unemployment, asked as to when the Flour Mill would be erected.

THE PRIME MINISTER said that negotiations were then going on with Mr. Palmer in order to obtain a definite assurance from him that he would erect the Mill if certain concessions were made, notably the putting of a protective duty of 25 cents per barrel on flour so as to prevent the dumping of that article on the market and so put the Milling Company out of business. He was against any more legislation unless some tangible proposition was put forward in the shape of assurance that capital was forthcoming to erect the Mill.

MR. HICKMAN said he agreed with the Prime Minister that no legislation should be undertaken unless definite assurances were forthcoming. If these were given he favoured the imposition of a tax of 25 cents per barrel on flour as a protection for the company as it did not affect anybody.

MR. GRIMES also agreed with Mr. Hickman that the tax should be imposed.

MR. HALFYARD did not agree with it at all, but thought as the contract was accepted by the company and had passed the House the company should stand or fall by the contract it accepted, and that no tax should be placed on flour.

The House adjourned at 7 o'clock until Monday at 3 p.m.

Relics of a Lost Race

Discovery of the remains of an ancient race that once inhabited the lonely island of Nihoa in the South Seas, about 250 miles northwest of Honolulu, is reported by members of a recent exploring expedition that went there aboard the U.S.S. Tanager.

Evidences of human habitation includes acres of garden terraces, home sites, implements, and an infant burial place. Many of the house sites were excavated.

Among the relics discovered were ancient bone needles that may have been used for tatooing or sewing, and one odd fishhook made of human bone. Grindstones showing much wear, and polished sharp stone adzes also were unearthed.

Necker Island, 150 miles away from Nihoa, showed traces of ancient visitors, but nothing to indicate actual habitation.

Proceedings at the Legislative Council

OFFICIAL SYNOPSIS.
FRIDAY, May 1.

The Council met at 3 o'clock pursuant to adjournment.

The Council resolved into Committee of the Whole on the Supreme Court. Hon. Mr. Milley in the chair.

HON. MR. MORINE said he had submitted to the Judges and the Rules Committee the criticisms made by the President at a previous sitting as to the phraseology of section 9 sub sections 1 and 2. As a result sub section 1 had been reconstructed, and he submitted the new draft which was agreed to. As to sub section 2 it was explained that the intention of the Rules Committee was met by the existing form of words and this sub section was also agreed to.

HON. PRESIDENT pointed out that in section 10, reference was made to a sub section which was not identified, and it was not clear what was meant.

HON. MR. MORINE spent some time comparing the new Bill with the existing Act, and finally admitted that "it was hard to understand what was meant."

HON. THE PRESIDENT then suggested that the Committee rise without reporting and kill the Bill, as it was impossible to make out what was intended.

HON. MR. MORINE after some further study of the Bill, moved that the Committee rise and report progress and said that he would again take up the matter with the Rules Committee and advise them to withdraw the Bill for this session as it was a serious matter to try and amend it further.

The Committee rose and reported progress and asked leave to sit again.

HON. PRESIDENT announced that he had received a message from the House of Assembly asking the Council to withdraw its amendment to the "Old Age Pensions" Bill.

On motion of Hon. Mr. Morine it was agreed that a message be sent accordingly that the Bill had been passed without amendment.

The Council then adjourned until Monday at 3 p.m.

They Hardly Knew Him When He Returned

So Says Quebec Lady of Her Son

Mr. Comtois suffered from a stitch in his side and rheumatic pains in his legs.

St. Jean de Matha, Que., May 1st.—(Special).—"I have been waiting for my son to return from the lumber camp to know the result of your Dodd's Kidney Pills. He is a young man 17 years old, and at the age of 14 he used to have a stitch in his side and pains in his legs which we believed to be rheumatism. He took 3 boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills and felt much better. The following year he took another 3 boxes and after the autumn he was engaged lumbering. I sent him 3 more boxes, and I can certify in all sincerity, that they have done him a great good. He has done the work of a man and returned home quite fat. People who knew him hardly believe that he is only 17 years old. He now weighs 150 lbs."

This statement comes from Madame B. Comtois, well-known resident of this place.

Dodd's Kidney Pills remove the cause, when the effects naturally cease.

THRILLS IN THE TOWER OF LONDON.

Our famous Tower of London is really a group of towers. Some are commonly shown to visitors and some are not. Four of them to which there has hitherto been no admission, except on business, are to be thrown open to the public this month: the Martin Tower, the Byward Tower, the Salt Tower, and the Broad Arrow Tower. What will our guides tell us about them?

In some cases they will have to explain the names. The Byward Tower is really the Password Tower, because those who came that way were challenged by sentries. The small vaulted chamber on the right is supposed once to have been an oratory, but subsequently came to be known as the Warders' Parlour, because the Warders of the Tower—who must not be confused with the Yeomen of the Guard—sat there. The Tower itself has a port-

Lore of the Kilt
Many people the kilt is regarded as the national dress of Scotland, but this is not correct, for it is worn only in the Highlands and has never been popular in the Lowlands. The kilt was suppressed by Act of Parliament in 1746, after the Jacobite rebellion, and though it was tolerated on a later date, it never became popular again.
The earliest mention of the kilt is to be found in an obscure passage of the Norwegian history of Magnus the Good, a king of that country who

BETHELEM STEEL CORPORATION.
Government Sues For $11,000,000 Alleged Overpayments Under Cost-Plus War Contracts.

MAXWELL MOTOR CORP.
Earnings Good As Expected.
N. Y.—Maxwell Motor earnings for 1924 of $4,115,540, or $5.56 on 617,948 shares of no par Class B, after allowing for 8% dividend on A shares are about as expected. Significance to stockholders nearly four months after end of the year is the indication of substantial recovery in earning power which market action of the securities had been discounting. Earnings represent practically six months' net under new conditions, for in first six months of last year Maxwell reported net of under $400,000. The small earnings in early part of the year were due to extraordinary expenditures in connection with introduction of the Chrysler car, which was still in experimental stage as far as its impression on the public was concerned. Although some development expenditures were carried over into second half, the greater part of expense was charged against first six months' earnings.
With the Chrysler car in increasing production during last six months, earnings began to mount, reaching a peak of over $1,000,000 for October, and setting an average monthly net of nearly $600,000 for the last half, normally the poorest of the automobile year.

The Gift of Leisure

Leisure in its best sense—time to play, to travel to do all those interesting things you hope to do some day—is the gift that money can bestow.
By investing a little money regularly in safe bonds you will, by instalments, purchase the sort of leisure that later years demand.

shares of Chrysler Corp. under the plan, which will make these shares sole beneficiary of earnings after 18 has been paid on the new preferred which will take the place of present Maxwell A shares. Monthly dividend requirement on the new preferred will be $160,000, which would leave nearly $1,850,000 for the common, or upward of $3 a share.
It is too early to predict how long these large earnings will continue, but estimates of Maxwell's showing for the year range from a minimum of $3,000,000 to $12,000,000, equal to from $10 to over $15 a share on 600,000 odd shares of new Chrysler common after allowing for full $8 dividend on around 240,000 shares of preferred.

Gain in Cash Assets.
The most significant feature of the balance sheet for 1924 is a gain of over $6,000,000 in cash assets, an indication of the prosperity the corporation was beginning to enjoy in latter half of last year. Cash and sight B stock equity last year was $1,012,991, bringing the total equity to $33,741,571. This includes $28,000,000 for good-will.

EARNINGS DECLINED ON UNION PACIFIC.
Operation in March and First Quarter of 1925 Showed Decrease from 1924.
NEW YORK—The Union Pacific System issued its report of earnings for March yesterday. The report was the first of the large carriers to contain figures showing operations for the first quarter of this year. Both for March and for the quarter decreases were shown in earnings compared with the corresponding periods of last year. The March results were considerably lower than in the same month of 1924. Gross revenues for the quarter showed a reduction of 11 per cent, and the operating income was 32 per cent. under a year ago. Freight traffic was 13 per cent. under the year before and passenger traffic 12.8 per cent. According to Carl A. Gray, President of the system, the decline in expenses during March was less than in February.

SOUTHERN PACIFIC NET UP, BUT GROSS IS LESS.
Income Statement Shows Substantial Betterment Over March a Year Ago.
NEW YORK—The Southern Pacific System in its March statement showed a substantial improvement in net income as compared with the same month last year, despite the fact that gross operating revenues decreased and both gross and net income for the quarter declined. March gross amounted to $23,433,644, as compared with $23,905,184 in March, 1924, while net income was $3,359,055, against $2,971,972. For the three months gross amounted to $85,865,484, against $87,717,722 in the first quarter of 1924, and net income to $6,890,841, against $7,265,271.
Because of the handicap imposed by its dependence on the conditions in the coal industry, which for months have been unfavorable, the Erie Railroad is expected to report a considerable falling off in earnings for the quarter, with a deficit in the surplus item. Instead of a profit, as was shown for the same period of last year, the surplus after charges last year for the first quarter amounted to $3,957,121, but this showing was due in large part to the special dividend received by the Erie from its subsidiaries in that period, which amounted

Dear Sirs: I wired you Saturday regarding Adams & Cheney. This is a violin, piano and singing act, which we tried to get you last Fall. It is positively the best in the business. Two men, delightful personalities, who have a repertoire of over three thousand numbers. Both men are wonderful artists, one at the piano and one violin. The pianist has a good baritone voice. I am free to predict that this is the best act we have ever sent you. They should stay in your territory for some time. I wired you as they have other bookings. Reply by wire.

Yours very truly,

A Promising Industrial Outlook

With the prorogation of the Assembly, which it is hoped, following the suspension of the Rules on Monday, will take place at an early date, operations on several public works will be started and employment will be provided for all who are anxiously looting for a means of livelihood.

In addition to the undertakings of a public nature, employment will be available in other directions as well. The United Schools have decided upon an elaborate building programme, which must be proceeded with as soon as possible, and with every indication of more than ordinary activity in the regular avenues of employment, there should be no excuse soon for anyone to be unemployed.

The dole, which the present Government substituted for relief work (neither of which systems is regarded as desirable, except in so far as it provides for those who would otherwise be destitute), will no longer be necessary, and let us hope that the present industrial boom will sound the death knell of both. Fortunately the dole has only been applied to a minimum extent in this country as compared with its distribution in Great Britain, to the credit, let it be said, of our people themselves, and its injurious effect upon the public morale has been comparatively negligible. The fact that the great majority of the recipients are eagerly awaiting a chance to engage in productive employment is the best indication of their natural temperament.

The building of the dock, the road making operations, the work on the railway, and the construction of the hotel are all undertakings of an extensive nature, and will provide employment for a considerable period. They will help many to find their feet again, and will also provide permanent employment for many after the operations are completed.

The indications all point to considerable expansion in the prosecution of the fishery during the coming season, and as the prosperity of the country depends in the main upon this industry, it is earnestly to be hoped that success will follow the efforts of the toilers of the sea.

According to Mr. J. Stadler, who stakes his reputation on the results of the paper and pulp operations at Corner Brook, this enterprise gives every promise of proving a great boon to the promoters and to the country generally, and he expresses his conviction that it will not be long before Newfoundlanders will become sufficiently versed in the manufacturing processes to be able to undertake the greater part of this work themselves.

Grand Falls, our first undertaking of this kind, has proved conclusively how admirably the natural conditions in this country are suited to the industry. The Company have extended their plant, and judging by legislation passed during this session it would appear that further extensions are under consideration.

Taken generally, the outlook is most favourable, and it will be something to be proud of that Newfoundland in a brief space will be able to claim that unemployment does not exist anywhere within her borders.

Week-End Excursions

Commencing to-day, week end excursion tickets will be issued for points between St. John's, Grate's Cove, Placentia and Heart's Content, at one way first class fare and good going on Saturdays and returning on Mondays. On the Trossassay Branch passengers will leave on Fridays and return on Tuesdays. It is expected many will take advantage of the reduced rate to pay a short visit to the nearby outports.

Favours Federation

At a meeting of the Executive of the Newfoundland Industrial Association, held last night in the Association rooms, Duckworth St., there was a unanimous decision in favor of affiliation with the Newfoundland Federation of Labor. A questionnaire is being circulated to all the local unions of the N.I.W.A., on the issue, and at a general membership meeting on Friday night the Association will take action regarding affiliation to the Federation.

PEPPYS BEHIND THE SCENES

May 1st—This the first day of May, yet do hold little promise of a fine month, being mighty cold and damp all the day. Indeed, it's the worst possible weather for rheums and do find my own that I have had off and on, these five years past, returning. Little news all the day, and will soon be without the little that the House do provide, since the Prime Minister this day announces that he will move on Monday for the suspension of the rules, to expedite such legislation as do now remain unfinished. This night, my wife and I to Povey's, and play at Bridge, but Lord, I am high dropping asleep, and am urged further to it by the whiskey which Povey gives me, being mighty heavy. My wife madd at my mistakes, yet methinks do say little since she needs must ask me soon for new clothes for the summer and can ill afford to anger me. Talking of the little while that cookmays do now remain in a place, Mrs. Povey tells us how one that did call in answer to an advertisement she did have in the paper, was told that the post was filled, to which the would-be cooke makes answer, "Then, mumm, I'll call again to-morrow."

Neptune Homeward Bound

Messrs. Job Bros. & Co. received the following message from Capt. Barbour, S. S. Neptune, last night: "Took 400 to-day; ice very loose; seals wild, weather thick; bore up for home at 8 o'clock." The patch of seals reported in the vicinity of Belle Isle yesterday was struck by the Neptune but they were too wild to work. The Neptune now has over 7,000 seals on board and her arrival may be expected late to-night or early to-morrow morning.

Schooner Cecil, Jr., Has Mizzen Boom Broken

Capt. Keap has been advised that the schooner Cecil, Jr., arrived yesterday at Barbados with her mizzen boom broken. The vessel had been to Pernambuco with a cargo of fish and apparently met heavy weather on the return trip. After repairs are effected she will load molasses for this port. The crew are all well.

"An Ounce of Prevention is Worth a Pound of Cure."

OUR FIRST ANNUAL MOTHER-CRAFT COMPETITION.

Our Welfare Centre has been given a shield of which we are very proud. This shield is for the "Mother-Craft Competition" we are doing here. Now to explain about this shield:— It will be of wood, with 10 little shields on it. And the Mother who wins the highest marks in this competition will have her name inscribed on one of them, then next year the same, and so on for 10 years 'till all the little shields are named. This will be kept at the Welfare Centre and the winner will have a copy to hold at home. We will tell you the name and more about it next week.

What is important is to finish off what you are doing, so that you can send them in this month. If you have missed getting a paper about this most interesting competition, there is still time. Let us have a big entry. There are prizes and certificates as well. There are 7 classes from which to choose. Don't miss this for it is for Baby's Benefit as well as the home.

MAY DAY QUIET IN LABOR CIRCLES.

LONDON, May 2. May Day appears to be losing, if not its one time importance, as a labor festival, at least its reputation for disorderly demonstrations by the working classes. Advice from all great capitals of Europe last night are to the effect that May Day passed quietly and almost entirely without disorders, although everywhere demonstrations of more or less importance were held, some of them of an imposing character. What chiefly distinguished to-day from other May Days, was an almost complete absence of strikes by workers. The twenty-four hour strike in past days used to be quite a common aspect of May Day demonstrations which to-day are generally confined to parades and mass meetings.

CHANCELLOR ADDRESSES VOTERS ON HIS BUDGET.

LONDON, May 2. Winston Churchill, Chancellor of the Exchequer, escaping for a time from the labor howls that drowned out his Budget exposition in the House of Commons last night, took his argument direct to the voters to-day in addressing a meeting of Conservatives at the Primrose League at the Albert Hall. He made a spirited defence of his national balance sheet which he presented to Parliament on Tuesday. British women, he said, would not hesitate to pay the proposed tax on silk if they were convinced it was on account of its being rich goods.

THE TOLL OF THE STORM.

HALIFAX, May 2. The North Atlantic, heavily muffled in fog and lashed into fury by a driving easterly storm of wind and rain, took toll of five lives of two steamers, and one three-masted schooner, during the eighteen hours, commencing at four o'clock Thursday afternoon. The lives were lost when the wooden steamer Clackamas, coal laden from Norfolk, Va., for Halifax, ran down and sank the salt laden schooner Cape D'Or, off Cape LeHave Thursday afternoon, and the steamers lost are the Norwegian Moldegar, ashore off Shut-in-Island, near Halifax, and the molasses carrier Azov, ashore off the southern part of the Cape Breton coast. Additional wreckage was reported late Friday afternoon off the Nova Scotia coast, but it possibly came from the ill-fated Cape D'Or. The crew of the Azov are reported safe and strong hopes are held out that the crew of the Moldegar will be rescued on Saturday morning.

Wedding Bells

BUCKINGHAM—FLYNN. On Monday, 27th inst., the Presentation Convent was the scene of a very pretty wedding, when Miss Annie Flynn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Flynn, of Wood Street, was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Edward Charles Buckingham, Engineer of Government employ, with the Rev. Mr. McDermott officiating. The bride was daintily attired in a champagne costume, and black picture hat, with cross patch fox fur, and carried a bouquet of roses, carnations and maiden hair fern. She was attended by her cousin, Miss Kathleen Moore while Mr. M. J. Buckingham, brother of the groom, acted as best man. After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, where a very enjoyable time was spent. The happy couple were the recipients of many costly presents testifying to the esteem in which they are held. We wish them many happy years of wedded bliss over the sea of matrimony.

United Schools Campaign

WEST END VIEWPOINT.

A cursory view of the programme as outlined by the United Schools Committee is sufficient to show that the gentlemen in charge have a clear vision of the educational necessities of this city as far as the different bodies included in this Committee are concerned. Not only does this vision include the immediate needs, but it goes further and looks to the establishment of an institution for the different educational interests, both for the Elementary and what is generally termed Higher Education for the immediate years to come and also such as will form a solid foundation for further development as necessity arises, by the present and future generations.

It is not the purpose of this article to discuss the whole scheme other than to approve of it on general principles, but rather to deal with and perhaps give some information to the public regarding the situation existing at present in the West End.

For the past 20 years and longer the only school coming under the boards represented in this union and the one responsible for the elementary education of the children has been Centenary Hall. This building was originally a factory, and could not be stretched to the imagination being considered a suitable school-building even 20 years ago. How far short then of the ideal does it fall at the present time when the outlook upon things generally has so changed and new ideas, new methods and new arrangements are the order of the day in every department of life.

This school is financed by the Government Education Grant plus tuition fees, and in no year after paying teachers' salaries and meeting incidental expenses for light, fuel, cleaning and caretaking, is this amount sufficient for any great improvement in either the building or its equipment.

During the past 15 years, which period comes within the personal knowledge of the writer, the members of the West End Board have given of their time and energies to improve existing conditions and have been successful in keeping things going, but no amount of enterprise on their part, without the necessary funds, was able to cope with the growing need of providing for the ever-increasing number of children seeking admission. The only remedy is a new building on a new site where provision can be made to give every facility for the proper training of the children who will be the future citizens, and who will be handicapped throughout the whole of their lives if they do not receive the proper teaching and training when they are young.

At Centenary Hall at present there are about 550 pupils graded in classes from Kindergarten to Intermediate, doing identically the same work as is done in the larger schools of the outports and in corresponding classes at the Colleges. Eight rooms are in operation, with ten teachers, and while some rooms are overcrowded the general efficiency of the school is being maintained. Besides these 550 pupils there are probably 150 other Methodist and Presbyterian children in St. John's West attending schools under other Boards or through the poverty or the mistaken ideas of the value of education on the part of their parents, do not attend school at all, making a total of 700 children. Taking 50 as a maximum number per room, a building of 14 or 15 rooms is needed immediately with arrangements for future additions as the necessity arises.

Such a building properly equipped will serve the purpose outlined by the Committee, will meet the educational needs of the West End, and will remain a lasting monument to the parents who sought to give their children the best possible chance in the battle of life.

The Disintegration of Russia

London Morning Post: The state of the Ukraine and the Southern Provinces grows more and more desperate. There are all the signs of an impending famine in the richest wheat lands of Europe. The oppression of the peasants has resulted in a state of chronic sullen mutiny, in which the Soviet Commissars are murdered whenever opportunity offers. The Red Army is none too well affected, and no doubt the first pre-occupation is to fill the insatiable stomach of the tiger which the Soviet is forced to ride, and from which to dismount means death. The Soviet system is obviously in a desperate situation, but it would be unwise after all that has happened to predict that it is approaching its end. Its methods of Terrorism and Espionage are ruthlessly and successfully used to crush every insurrection before it crushes head and to exterminate those whom it has reason to distrust. The parasite may only die with the death of the animal on which its prey.

An Irish Play That All Should See

ARLIE MARKS PLAYERS SCORE IN "WHERE THE RIVER SHANNON FLOWS."

Arлие Marks and her talented players hit the high spots in dramatic interpretation in their presentation of that beautifully Irish romance "Where The River Shannon Flows." Miss Arлие Marks with her natural charm and extreme cleverness portrays the character of Peggy O'Moore with perfection. In a role like this Miss Marks is particularly at home at all times. Lindsay E. Ferrin, well known for his original comedy realistic performance was seen to excellent advantage in the role of Tom Anderson, the Reporter. The remainder of the cast give brilliant account of their respective roles. Regarding the plot there is sufficient comedy closely intermingled to please even the most critical taste, and the story does not lag for a single moment. The settings and lighting are correct to a detail, which is always noticeable.

A specially attractive feature is the big programme of vaudeville which the audience applauded enthusiastically. As announced, the bill for Monday and the first half of next week will be "A Good For Nothing Husband." This is a 1924 comedy-drama which proved a big success on the American stage. Two new people will appear in this play in the persons of Miss Nettie Davenport and Mr. H. Webb Chamberlain, the well known Actor-Playwright, an artist of long experience in the show world. For the latter part of next week the play-going public will see that tried and proven success "The Black Flag." Watch for further particulars in this paper.

Locally Invented Propeller to be Used

It is understood that the S.S. Home, now on Dock, will be fitted with the double-bladed propeller, an invention of Mr. Dick Pike, the Chief Engineer of the Thetis, and that it will be tried out on Monday. The result of the trial will be awaited with interest and it will be a feather in Mr. Pike's cap if it proves as great a success as is anticipated.

MARRIED.

From Liverpool to the North Pole

The brigantine "Island" (the Icelandic word for Iceland), in which the Algarsson Arctic Expedition will set out their attempt to reach the North Pole, arrived at Liverpool this week from Falmouth, where she has been fitted out for her voyage. Originally called the Lady of Avenel, the vessel, which has a register of 114 tons net, was built at Falmouth in 1918. She is constructed of oak, and is not altogether dependent upon her engine, as she has an auxiliary engine in the shape of an eighty-horse-power Diesel motor. For the purposes of the expedition she has been considerably strengthened.

The Leader Interviewed.

Mr. Algarsson, in an interview with the Weekly Post representative, furnished information concerning the expedition. The airship, he said, was now being made by Spencers, near London, and would fly from there to Liverpool about May 1st. It was his intention to make his vessel the base for the expedition. It would be navigated to a point some hundreds of miles north of Spitzbergen, and the airship would not be inflated until they reached the ice. They were carrying about 75,000 cubic feet of hydrogen, although the aircraft would only hold 50,000 cubic feet.

"We shall inflate the airship on the ice and ascend," went on Mr. Algarsson. "In it will be Humphreys (the pilot), the rigger, and myself. After reaching the Pole we shall go straight on across it to Alaska. That will prove that we have been to the Pole, because by going to Alaska we shall be taking the straightest course across the Pole. We calculate that by actual air flight will occupy about forty hours, but we shall have enough 'juice' for a longer time than that if we should happen to need it. The Polar flight is the thing to which we attach the greatest importance. The scientific work is, of course, important, and we shall do as much as we can in that direction, but the Polar flight itself is the thing."

"Going to do our Best."
Asked his opinion on the prospects of success, Algarsson, who is a young man of twenty-four years, replied: "As far as we know our plans are good, we all feel good, and we are going to do our best. We cannot do more, and if we do crack up, it will be our fault. Although Liverpool has not provided us with all the money we needed for the expedition only five people in Liverpool have given us money, although a number have helped us with stores—we have, by outside help, obtained all that was necessary. We don't call it the Liverpool Polar Expedition, we simply call it the 'Algarsson Polar Expedition.' It is a real serious attempt to reach the North Pole. We are out to make names for ourselves. When we get to the Pole the British flag will be planted there.

"Out to Beat Amundsen."
"We are out to beat Amundsen, who is ahead of us at the present moment because he has got a lot more money than we have. He got 100,000 dollars from America. It is going to be a race between him and us. In our lighter-than-air flying ship we think, although we may be slower, that we shall be more certain of success than Amundsen with his 'planes.'"—Liverpool Post, April 18.

Dimmed Lights Smash

KEEP YOUR HEADLIGHTS ON—MAGISTRATE'S ADVICE.

Harold Bingham, of Great Sankey, Warrington, was summoned at Stafford for dangerously driving his motor car.
It was stated that a woman pushing along the road a perambulator containing a child was run into by Bingham's car. He afterwards said: "I did not see her. The accident was really caused by my lowering the lights."

The Magistrate's Clerk: The motorist is between the devil and the deep sea. If he does not dim he runs the risk of being run into by lorries, and if he does dim he runs the chance of knocking down pedestrians. To dim or not to dim is a vexed question. After an accident lorry drivers generally say that they were dazzled by the headlights of motor cars.

The chairman said the advisability of dimming or not dimming lights had exercised a great many minds in the country. The Bench could not adjudicate on the questions, but motorists should take the matter up for their own sake. If they wanted to dim or turn their lights out and drive to the safety of other people on the road the only thing was to do was to stop. If they were moving they jeopardized anything or anybody that came in the way which they could not see.

The Bench decided to treat the case as an accident, and dismissed the summons on payment of £3 19s. costs.

"British Made"

We hope that without loss of time British employers will give a thorough trial to the policy which was outlined in our columns recently under this title by a correspondent of great industrial experience. His aim is to remove certain of the gravest difficulties which confront British industry by securing more cordial co-operation between the employer and the worker and an increase in output.

The reputation of British-made goods is unequalled throughout the world, but they could be more cheaply produced if the output of the worker were increased. High production is always associated with high wages; and in the United States the large earnings of the worker are rendered possible by the fact that he turns out on an average three times as much as each man in this country. If our production were on anything like the American scale, then wages (speaking generally) could be doubled, the overhead charges of the employer very greatly reduced, and the price of the goods lowered. Nothing could be more mischievous than for the output of the individual trade unionist to be limited, as it is here, by trade union rules and customs. The able and energetic man should be allowed to earn all he can, and thus to benefit himself, his employer, and the community.

The example of the Vauxhall Colliery, despite the bullying tactics of the North Wales Miners' Association, shows what can be done with good will and energy. The men are working it themselves with the full approval of the owners, and, as a detailed report from the pit states, "only a few of the coal-getters are on the minimum of 9s. 5d. a day, while others have been earning on the average 12s. to 14s. a shift, and in some instances as much as 18s. a day. The output has considerably improved. In fact, everyone has gained except the extremists and Mr. A. J. Cook, who tried to stifle the experiment at the very outset, and will doubtless rejoice to hear of the agreement to abandon it. If the spirit which has been shown at the Vauxhall Colliery could be widely diffused there would be much less reason to fear for the future of British trade."—Daily Mail.

Salmon Fishing in the Dee

HEAVIEST FISH LANDED BY LADIES.

Anglers for salmon in the river Dee have enjoyed excellent sport since the opening of the season. Major Peel's big catch of seven fine salmon one afternoon in his private reach of the river has been equalled by the success of Sir Henry Robertson, of Pate, who also landed seven salmon, one of which, however, was a kelt. Smaller catches have been made by Mr. Hobson, of Chester, who captured two beauties in the stretch of river at Bangor Isycoed, owned by the Conservatory Board; and Mr. George Goswell, the old cross-country rider, also had a brace. Last Saturday Mr. Wickham, of Chester, hauled four nice salmon from the Dee at Trevor.

Strange to say the heaviest fish have been captured by ladies. Mrs. Payne, of Penryn, Rushon, fishing with rod and line, landed a salmon scaling 37 1-2 pounds, and the other big catch of a 30 pound salmon was made with a net at Chester.

G.P.S. SALE A SUCCESS.—The G. P.S. Sale, which Lady Allardyce opened on April 30th, proved very successful, the sum of $485.00 being realized.

Help—What Kind, How Much, and Why?

What kind of help do we need in this city? Help for those deprived of suitable homes, of education, of a chance to help themselves by handicaps ever since, and sad to say, before they were born.

I speak of those known as delinquents in particular, for our Girls' Industrial Home Association has been seeking to lift up the fallen and rescue the perishing for some time past. We are winning our way, but slowly, as in that, as in other branches of philanthropic work, progress is helped or hindered by public opinion, and it takes untold energy to arouse such, even amongst wide awake people.

In one year we have helped to higher ideals and found suitable work for about twenty deserving girls in our Home.
How much help? All that can be given, by donations, by uniting as members, whether active or (associate), of our Association, by attendance.
Why give help? Because we who have homes, education and a chance in life, should extend a helping hand to those who, on account of the lack of these, know not how to help themselves, or fall in our duty to them and the country we hold so dear.—J.E.S.

ADRIAN DASILVA APPEARS AT THE NICKEL ON MONDAY.

Adrian Dasilva, the noted American Tenor recently appearing in the big Rivola Theatre, New York City will reach St. John's on Monday morning and opens an engagement in the Nickel Theatre. As an Opera and Concert singer Mr. Dasilva has an enviable reputation and we feel sure that the lovers of good singing will have a rare treat in store for them.

The picture for Monday is Cecil B. DeMille's great masterpiece entitled "Triumph" featuring Rod LaRoque and Leatrice Joy.
The story by May Edington, from which Jeanie Macpherson wrote the screen play, tells of two men, half brothers, one rich, the other poor, who exchanged positions over night. DeMille has considerably expanded this material, particularly enlarging the part of Anne Land, played by Miss Joy, who provides the love interest in the original story, while the two boys represent two phases of American life and discontent. As Leatrice Joy portrayed the care-free jazz girl of "Manslaughter", so she in "Triumph" the type of twentieth century young girl who puts marriage aside for a future consideration and devotes her time to work that will lead to a career, only to find that fame isn't everything.

La Roque gives his usually satisfying performance and Varconi—this actor will bear watching. DeMille predicts great things of him.
"Triumph," all in all, rings true to DeMille's reputation for providing strong box-office attractions.

The wholesale commodity markets are still featured by an excess of declines, 47 out of the 66 changes that appear this week in the list of quotations compiled by Dun's Review being in a downward direction. In last week's statement, there were 43 reductions and 23 increases; in a similar record for the corresponding week of last year, 53 recessions contrasted with 25 advances.

Under a better export demand and a falling off in visible supplies, some advances were made this week by wheat and corn, and, largely owing to the strength of these cereals, oats, rye and barley moved to higher levels. Liberal offering had a depressing effect on live beef, sheep and hogs, while provisions were easier, reflecting the situation in the raw material. Butter was in active demand and the better grades scored a substantial advance, but increasing receipts were responsible for more or less concession in eggs and fresh-made cheese.

Price Declines Still Predominate.
For thirteen consecutive weeks, declines have predominated in Dun's list of wholesale quotations. Fully twice as many reductions as increases occurred this week, 47 of the 66 changes being in a downward direction. Easing in the metal markets was again a prominent phase, with lower prices for pig iron, various steel products, copper, lead and zinc. The two latter commodities have reached the lowest levels of this year. Comparisons of present prices with those of a year ago show declines in many instances, including a number of textiles and most of the metals. A feature during the last two months has been the sharp break in wool, an average of 98 quotations having fallen more than 17 per cent, since about the middle of February.

Queries on Prices

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir,—Kindly allow me space in your valuable paper to ask a few questions regarding the free entry of some articles which come into effect in the early part of the present session. What was the duty on Kero Oil? Was Kero Oil previously admitted duty free in wood containers? The quotations on this article to-day are 28½ cents in wood, and 26½ in sheet containers. This is a reduction of one cent on the former and three cents on the latter, which would indicate that 3 cents per gallon was the duty unless oil in wood was formerly admitted free, then we must conclude that oil has dropped in the foreign market one cent, and that two cents was the duty collected, if the consumer is getting the full benefit of free entry. Are the consumers getting the full benefit of free entry on pork and beef, if so, how is it that the prices are as high as before the duty was taken off. Will some person explain? Regarding molasses which I understand is not on the free list, I have before me a circular from a Halifax firm dated August 1924. Quoting choice grocery molasses at 33 cents per gallon in barrels. F.O.B. Halifax. Some date molasses was selling in St. John's by barrel at 90 cents a gallon. Later in the year when St. John's importers were asking 85 cents per gallon by the puncheon for grocery. The Montreal market was quoting 50 cents per gallon wholesale for same quality. No doubt there is a good reason for this difference in price and I shall be glad if some person will give an explanation.

Yours truly,
CONSUMER.

Enjoyable Time at Hampden

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir,—Please allow me space in your much esteemed paper to publish the following:—

On the 14th of April a very enjoyable time was given the people of Hampden, White Bay, by the C. E. W. A. Soup suppers were served at No. 2 Staff House from 4 to 7 p.m. A concert was held immediately after in Mr. H. J. Crowe's school, which occupied the time until 10:30 p.m., after which teas were served until daylight. The concert was held under the management of Mr. G. S. Woodford, C. of E. teacher. Mr. Jas. Evans, proprietor of No. 2 Staff House, acted as chairman. Amongst the large number who attended were Mr. F. Pearce, C. of E. Catechist; Mr. E. C. Crowe, manager of White Bay operations; Dr. and Mrs. MacKeen, and Miss May Lewis, principal of Mr. H. J. Crowe's school.

On the whole a very enjoyable time was spent and the people of Hampden and vicinity are looking forward to another such time in the near future.

a subject that is of extreme interest to everybody. It can be transmitted from 250 to 400 miles. I have often been asked if it could be transmitted by wireless. Such would not be practical at the present time from an economic standpoint, as by this means it would require 99 horsepower to transmit one horsepower."

Mr. Cooper stated in his address that the proposed project is no new idea brought to light by him. On the contrary, he said that his plans were based on sound facts which have been tried and proven in the past.

As a result of his 12 years of study of the tidal possibilities of this section he has come to the conclusion that the project, if developed, would cost in the neighborhood of from 75 to 100 million dollars. In return, he said, it would develop between 600,000 and 800,000 horsepower, depending on the range of the tides.

"If all of the energy could be consumed by the filling and draining of the Cobequid and Passamaquoddy Bays, in accordance with my idea," said Mr. Cooper, "a tremendous amount of power could be developed. This idea, so to speak, means nothing more than the applying of well-tested and practical plans of the modern hydro-electric plants."

A FISHERMAN'S HOPES.

I've been tinkering with my reel,
Shined up every bit of steel,
Looked my tackle over, too,
Added just a few things new;
And I'm ready now to go Fishing in a week or so.

Wondering how they'll bite this year
As I'm sitting dreaming here:
Will it be my luck to get
Some old timer in my net,
One that I can drag about
When at last I've played him out?

Here I'm sitting wondering
What's ahead of me this spring.
Am I going to know the thrill
Of a catch some day which will Prove to all the angling clan
I'm a worth-while fisherman?

Years are good and years are bad,
There are times when luck I've had,
Times when I was grieved to say
But a big one got away.
But with hope I'm sitting here
Waiting for another year.

So through life I think we go
Wondering what we're all to know,
Hoping ever there will rise
That great chance before our eyes
Which will prove to all who see Just how great we've tried to be.

for murder, he had already been sentenced to twenty-five years' imprisonment in the Federal Prison at Atlanta for a mail robbery. New efforts are being made to discover if the law requires him to serve the balance of his former sentence before paying the penalty for the murder he committed.

It is one of those amazing opera bouffe developments that cause strangers to wonder what principles lie behind the administration of law in the United States. Of course the law has really nothing to do with it. The law has said its say, and leaves the execution of its mandate to the responsible officials. But the American passion for precedents prompts this investigation—by the authorities of the Federal Department of Justice, be it noted—to discover if any warrant exists for delaying the execution of the condemned man for a mere twenty odd years.

Should such a precedent finally be unearthed,—and anything is possible in such case,—then a very great step

British Sea Fisheries

In 1920 there was published, at 2s. 6d., Fisheries in the Great War, being the Report on Sea Fisheries for the years 1915, 1916, 1917 and 1918 of the Board of Agriculture and Fisheries. The last previous report referred to was for the year 1914, and now we have a Blue Book issued at 3s. 6d. net, which is a 30-years' review of the sea fisheries since the War. This Report is for the years 1919, 1920, 1921, 1922 and 1923. In his introductory letter to the Fisheries Secretary (Mr. Henry G. Harcourt) states that the period covered has been abnormal, and that the whole of it has been included in one report in order to describe it more clearly. With the gradual movement towards recovery which is now perceptible, reports will henceforth be issued annually. The chief innovation in the form of the present report is the inclusion of simple financial statements detailing the expenditure of public money on the various schemes administered by the Fisheries Department. In the actual work of the Department the most important new feature during the period has been the continuance of the war-time system of maintaining local officers for sea fishery work, and, later, their extension to salmon and fresh water fisheries. There are twenty such officers, four in London and the rest distributed over the ten districts into which England and Wales are divided for this purpose. Their function is to serve as fully instructed intermediaries between the fishermen in all parts of the country and Whitehall. They have been mainly recruited from ex-members of some branch of the Naval Service in war-time, and early proved their value in facilitating the transport of fish and the rationing of coal during coal and railway strikes, in preventing strikes and settling disputes in the fisheries, and in strengthening the administration in other ways. Post-War Losses. The report states that for the fishermen the end of the War did not bring about a complete end of war-risks. In 1919-20, 31 vessels were sunk by mines, and 251 lives were lost, or presumed to have been lost by the same means. Wrecks continued to be a serious danger, and owing to expense, it has been found impossible to mark them by buoys. A certain amount of benefit may perhaps be claimed in compensation, since, as the Report suggests, unfishable areas may provide useful breeding grounds. It is worth recalling that of at least one popular station for sea anglers on the Southwest Coast, a favorite and productive "mark" is an irregularity on the seabottom, which, according to tradition, is the remains of a century-old wreck. Decline in the North Sea. As to the supply of fish caught by the trawl in the North Sea—including all the chief varieties except herring, mackerel, sprats and shell-fish—the Report unfortunately confirms the prevalent impression that, after a brief replenishment after the War, there has been a marked decline. "The rapidity with which the average catch has fallen to below the pre-war standard is remarkable." If we except motor trawlers, of which before the War there were few, the average catch per day was actually less in 1923 than in 1913. This decline is the more serious since the North Sea remains the most important of all waters fished from British ports, and contributes 52 per cent. of the "wet fish" landed. As for the plaice—one of the most important food fishes—it increased remarkably in the North Sea during the War years. The weight landed rose from 49,476 cwt. in 1913 to 591,387 cwt. in 1920, and the average daily catch per trip rose from 2.1 cwt. to 3.4 cwt. in the same time. But as early as 1921 information collected by the Place Committee showed clearly, in that Committee's opinion, that retrogression had already begun. The plaice caught were already smaller and fewer. Since then the Committee has reaffirmed its conclusions, and has recommended both that prohibited areas should be set up, respectively, for part and the whole of the year, and that young plaice should be "transplanted" in numbers so great as to be of commercial importance to the rich feeding grounds of the Dogger Bank. For these measures international action is necessary, and they are supported by the International Council for the Exploration of the Sea, which was kept in being through the War by the four neutral States of Denmark, Holland, Norway and Sweden, and by this country, and has resumed and extended its activities. Herrings. The important herring fishery had to contend during the period reviewed not only with the collapse of the export trade to Germany and Russia, but with bad fishing seasons. Its vicissitudes are set forth in detail. Herrings are the chief of the "pelagic" fish which swim in the upper water, and are caught chiefly by drift-nets. Their habits are in direct contrast to those of the "demersal," i.e., "sunk" fish, which hug the bottom, and are caught by the long line or the trawl. Their distribution and migrations are perilously fitful, but it is highly probable that they are affected by the composition in each year of the North Sea water, e.g., by the proportion of water from the Atlantic. This subject is being pursued, while the Report gives a list of the spawning grounds of the herring, in many different months of the year, at various points in the North Sea and English Channel. The immense value of being able to anticipate the movements of the herring shoals is one of the strongest recommendations for public support of ichthyological investigation.

want of small manufacturing industries which would tend to attract the young people of the provinces and stop the steady tide of emigration which is sapling the vitality of this part of Canada. Fish Meal Plants. That there is a big opening for several industrial plants is easily proven. Before the war the writer was representing the London Times in Europe and made a trip through Germany, visiting industrial plants of all kinds. At that time there were several large plants, exporting to all parts of the world, and employing a large number of people, both men and women, engaged in the manufacture of fish meal for fertilizing purposes. Where could a more favorable spot be found than any one of the Maritime Provinces for the founding of such an enterprise? No great amount of capital is required and no expensive machinery, and the raw material is at the front door. In the whole of the Maritimes a buyer would find difficulty finding a paste manufacturing, a jam factory, and many other small manufacturing plants. Another source of revenue capable of greater development is tourism. New Brunswick and Nova Scotia have as many inducements for the pleasure-seeker as the State of Maine, which is getting big business, and probably in the way of scenery these provinces excel. The roads have been greatly improved during the past few years, and an added asset is the fact that the Maritime Provinces is a "foreign country" to the tourist from the United States. Little serious attempt, however, has been made to improve the hotel accommodation. The chief tendency has been a steady increase in prices without a corresponding attempt by the hotel keeper to improve his service or moderate his building.

A Critical View of the East AND SIX OR SEVEN SUGGESTIONS.
(By Ernest C. Digby.)
Having visited all parts of the Maritime Provinces during the past few weeks and talked with men in many different lines of industry, the writer has tried to arrive at a clear understanding of the difficulties which confront this part of the Dominion. Putting aside the questions in relation to the coal strike, freight rates, and possible recession that are being so freely discussed by both the layman and the politician, the writer is firmly convinced that the basic source of the difficulties arises from the one dominant fact of under-population, and the ential campaign furors—Isn't this going too far? Somebody should tell them. Veiled Princess in Aeroplane

MR. COBBHAM DESCRIBES AN INDIAN EXPERIENCE.
Mr. Alan J. Cobham with Air Vice-Marshal Sir Sifton Branker flew from London to Burma and back, related in London how an Indian Princess made a flight in his machine. The Maharani of Bahrampur, he said, expressed a wish to go up, but her husband only permitted her to do so on condition that she remained purdah veiled. The process adopted to ensure this was very elaborate. In the first place, the mechanic and everybody else except the pilot had to go right away from the machine. The Princess came alongside the machine in a closed car. Her companion got out, and Mr. Cobham showed the companion exactly how the Princess was to get in and out of the machine. Mr. Cobham had to stand with his back turned while the Princess boarded the machine. While they were in the air, however, the Princess wanted to have explained to her various points of interest, and Mr. Cobham had to discharge his duty by talking through a hole in the cabin, so that the whole effect of purdah was lost. Sir Sifton Branker, in a subsequent speech of thanks to Mr. Cobham, said he thought Mr. Cobham was the only person who had seen the Princess except her husband. That a tree is never too old nor too tall to be moved was demonstrated in Los Angeles recently when a large datepalm tree, planted in 1788, was bodily removed from the ground, transferred across the city, and replanted. The reason for preserving the tree in this manner when the plot on which it stood was needed for building was the fact that it is of historical value. It is estimated that the tree weighs 60,000 pounds. It stands 80 feet high, and two derricks were required to move it.

Memorials for the Future

The first thing required of a Memorial is that it shall endure. It is expected to carry the family name down into the future. Failing that it can never be made right. It is most important then that the stone comes from dependable quarries and that you have faith in those with whom you deal.

Since 1842 we have maintained our reputation for the best. Our supplies are only Aberdeen Granite, Vermont Marble and Italian Statuary. It is the right policy to consult the "Leaders".

Let us show you through our display Rooms, or exhibit our Catalogue and 1925 Booklets.

Millionth-Inch "Ghosts"

REVEALS ACCURACY OF WONDERFUL MACHINE.

After seven years of futile scientific investigation it was discovered recently that "ghosts" of a millionth of an inch in thickness were the cause of inaccuracies in Rowland's ruling machine at Johns Hopkins University.

This finely precisioned machine is one of the most wonderful in the world. Its is used for ruling line 1/30,000 of an inch apart on a metal grating by means of a diamond point. The gratings are used in place of prisms for accurate spectrum analysis.

The "ghosts" were found to be spurious lines in the sun's spectrum, which is the band of color produced when a ray of sunlight passes through a glass prism or a grating. The "ghosts" in the spectrum were in reality only the shadows of other lines. They made the user of the machine see things that didn't exist. It was found that periodic vibrations of a millionth of an inch were enough to produce them and the heat of a human body in the same room also impaired the accuracy of the machine, which now is being used once more,

Britain's "Best Ambassador"

For the first time in history a member of the British Royal Family is to be the guest of important South American States, remark certain London editors, who are keenly interested in the forthcoming tour of the Prince of Wales to the British Dominions in Africa, and to the great Latin Republics South of Panama. This journey, it is noted, will occupy six months of his time, and it has attracted special attention because of the objections raised by some Socialist members of the House of Commons to the travel allowance of £15,000. Not a penny of this will be spent on his personal amusement, observes a contributor to the London Evening Standard, who speaks of the Prince as "Envoy Extraordinary of the whole Empire," and adds:

"In truth the paltry sum is not much more than an American millionaire and his family will spend on a round-the-world trip. I suspect it is a good deal less than the cost of one of the many European trips that Mr. Lloyd George found it necessary to make after the peace. "But Messrs. Kirkwood, Buchanan and Wheatley meant nothing; it was a blow in the class war which hurt nobody but themselves. Indeed, we ought all to be grateful to these revolutionary Maenads for widening the rift between themselves and their leaders, as well as for calling attention to the popularity of the Sovereign and his family, which grows with the growth and strengthens with the strength of democracy."

On the other hand, a Labor organ, the London Daily Herald, declares that any one who drew from the debate in the House of Commons the conclusion that the Labor movement wishes to abolish royalty would go astray. But, this daily avers, the debate meant that royalty is "not improving its position in the minds of intelligent people," and it proceeds:

"For this a number of reasons could be given. We will suggest two or three. "The Royal Family appears to be anxious above all things to avoid change, to maintain old pomp and ceremonies, to keep up the formality which was invented at small German Courts, and brought here when the sovereigns of one of those Courts became Kings of England. "We say 'appears,' because it may be that this is not the desire of the Royal Family themselves; it may be forced upon them by foolish advisers. In that case we would urge that they should assert themselves; they would find their own simpler, more sensible, tastes much nearer to those of the nation than are the tastes of their foolish advisers.

"Next, it appears that the chief interest of the Royal Family is in racing. They never fail to attend the principal meetings. It is their patronage which keeps up the prestige of this form of sport, which is entirely dependent on betting for its popularity, and which, through betting, does an enormous amount of harm. It was solemnly announced the other day, that Princess Mary was to have a 'racing residence'; her very rich husband, it is well known, spends a great deal on race-horses. These things have sunk deep into the public mind."

Another matter of which the people are talking, according to this Labor daily, is the trip of the Duke and Duchess of York in East Africa. All that has been heard about the Duke and Duchess, it is said, is that they have both shot rhinoceroses, and a large number of other wild creatures, which, "surely came into being for some better purpose than to be slaughtered by royal rifles." We read then:

"It would be unfair to put all the blame upon the Royal Family for allowing themselves to be 'run' so exclusively by one class, adopting all its habits, identifying themselves so thoroughly with all its interests. That has always been the tradition. An effort is required to break with it. But we do suggest that such an effort is desirable—indeed, necessary.

"On our part, we ought, as a people, to make an effort also—an effort to find some job for the heir to the throne, some regular occupation which would make him part of the machinery of government. Bagehot pointed out long ago the disadvantages against which sovereigns and their heirs have to struggle. The passages in which he did so ought to be learned by heart by all royal children. Then they would understand what is meant by the protest against lavish spending on royal tours, and they would do their best to remove the grounds for criticism."

The original invitation to visit South America, we learn from the London Daily Mail, came from President Alvear of Argentina, and has been followed by invitations from Uruguay and Chile. It would have been churlish and ungracious to reject such hospitality, thinks this newspaper, which adds:

"As to the immense future of South America there can not be the slightest doubt. Its wealth of every kind is extraordinary, and the advance of its leading nations, and in particular of the Argentine and Chile, has been singularly rapid. In both those republics there has always been a cordial feeling toward Great Britain, which wise statesmanship would do its utmost to strengthen. They are of the more important to us because their peoples are such excellent customers for British goods of the best class.

"Not less important is it that the Prince should complete his tour of the Dominions by his long-promised and long-arranged visit to South Africa. The invitation, which was originally given by General Smuts, has been renewed by General Hertzog, and there is a general desire in the Union to welcome the heir to the throne and show that South Africa understands the ties of loyalty. And this can be confidently said, that the Prince in the past has proved himself Britain's best ambassador."—Literary Digest.

Inhale the Vapors

For Catarrh and Colds

To relieve catarrh or check a head cold, melt a little Vicks in a spoon and inhale the vapors of Camphor, Menthol, Eucalyptus, Thyme and Turpentine. Also put a little in each nostril and snuff well back up the head.

Another way is to heat a tin cup, put in a teaspoonful of Vicks and inhale the vapors that way. As fast as the vapors lose their strength, throw out the melted Vicks and add fresh.

Millions of mothers find Vicks the ideal remedy for croup and children's colds because it not only brings quick relief but avoids dosing delicate little stomachs with so much medicine.

Publicity

London Evening Standard: The utmost damage which may be done in conveying misleading impressions of social life by extensive reports of sensational cases would be as nothing compared with the damage done by the creation of an impression that there are multitudes of cases, affecting persons in a considerable social position, too bad to be stated in print. The case for publicity does not rest merely on the contention—though that is, we think, unassailable—that publicity, whatever its incidental evils, is a great deterrent. It is simply that it is the best guarantee that the law shall continue to be administered without fear or favor, and with a single aim of ascertaining truth and doing justice.

A Change of Air

FISHERMEN WORKING BENEATH A RIVER BED.

Farm labourers and fishermen and others used to an open-air life are now working in a compressed-air chamber beneath the bed of the River Waveney, at Haddiscoe, near Lowestoft, making excavations for the piers of a new railway bridge.

To relieve unemployment local men are being employed on the work as much as possible.

All the men have had to pass a medical examination. Small, wiry men are most suitable for the work, as they are less affected by the air pressure than others.

Things Schoolboys Say

The following bright answers to questions were given at a recent school examination:—

Q.—What other minerals exist in England besides coal and iron? A.: Lemonade and ginger-beer.

Q.—What did Wolfe do at Quebec? A.: The wicked beast made war on Little Red Riding Hood.

A problem is a figure which you do things with which are absurd, and then prove them.

St. Andrew is the patent saint of Scotland; the patent saint of England is Union Jack.

Q.—What is "below par"? A.: The eldest son.

The Colossus of Rhodes was a great explorer; he discovered land in South Africa.

Joan of Arc was a French peasant girl called Maid of Athens for her bravery and patriotism. After many years she was cremated.

A fugue is what you get in a room full of people when all the windows and doors are shut.

An Irish bull is a male cow. Cereals are films shown at the pictures.

People in Iceland are called Egozoxes.

Queen Elizabeth was called the Virgin Queen because she knew Latin.

Evolution is what Darwin did; the evolution is a form of Government abroad, and Devolution is something to do with Satan.

Ireland as It Is CRITICAL, BUT ON THE WHOLE OPTIMISTIC, VIEWS OF A CONTRIBUTOR TO THE ROUND TABLE ON THE PRESENT-DAY SITUATION.

"Undoubtedly the most pressing problem is economic. Some people call it Stagnation of Trade, others High Taxation, others Decreased Production. In some form or other it is on every tongue and the catch-phrase in Dublin at present is 'The Free State is not an economic proposition.'" says a writer in the Round Table, dealing with the position of Ireland to-day. He is evidently a keen observer and his reasoning is both forcible and concise.

Not an Economic Proposition.
"That sounds learned and pious the speaker; his audience is too stupid to challenge or criticize it. The average Irishman is not given to careful analysis, and likes to have his economics and his politics served up to him in catch-phrases rather than by reasoned argument."

"Yet the problem must be faced. There is undoubtedly a great trade depression. Agriculture is depressed as it has not been for thirty years. Two wet seasons, high cost of labour, machinery and food, coupled with heavy transit charges, have turned the farmer's profit into a loss. Carrying companies both on water and land are in some cases working at a heavy loss, and in others are barely paying their working expenses."

"Wholesale houses complain that their trade is gone, and their travellers without orders. The few manufacturers which exist find their overhead charges so heavy that they cannot compete with their British and foreign trade. Talking will not cure this, and the first thing the country requires is a definite economic policy pushed forward with the same vigour which defeated the irregulars in 1922-1923."

"What is that policy to be? Is the country to be saved by protective tariffs? Is trade to be fostered by increased taxation direct or indirect? My view is that the answer is an emphatic negative. Consider the situation. Ireland is essentially an agricultural country. Her cattle, her butter, her eggs are her chief exports. Everything which increases cost of production to the farmer tends to diminish his productive energy."

PAINS IN LEFT SIDE AND BACK

Other Troubles Women Often Have Relieved by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Lachine, Quebec.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound because I suffered with pains in my left side and back, and with weakness and other troubles women so often have. I was this way about six months. I saw the Vegetable Compound advertised in the Montreal Standard and I have taken four bottles of it. I was a very sick woman and I feel so much better I would not be without it. I also use Lydia E. Pinkham's Sensitive Wash. I recommend the medicine to my friends and I am willing for you to use my letter as a testimonial."—Mrs. M. W. Ross, 580 Notre Dame Street, Lachine, Quebec.

Doctor Said An Operation Proved, Alberta.—"Perhaps you will remember sending me one of your books a year ago. I was in a bad condition and would suffer awful pains at times and could not do anything. The doctor said I could not have children unless I went under an operation. I read testimonials of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in the papers and a friend recommended me to take it. After taking three bottles I became much better and now have a bonny baby girl four months old. I do my housework and help a little with the chores. I recommend the Vegetable Compound to my friends and am willing for you to use this testimonial letter."—Mrs. A. A. Adams, Box 54, Provost, Alberta. C

Each, 19c., 49c. and 69c.

Her cattle, her butter, her eggs are her chief exports. Everything which increases cost of production to the farmer tends to diminish his productive energy."

The Risk of Tariffs.

"If the labourer has to pay more for food, clothes, and boots, his wages cannot be reduced. If the railway worker cannot submit to decreased wages, the transit charges cannot come down. The aim of the Government must be to increase production, and production cannot be increased until taxation is reduced, and the cost of production diminished. It is an object lesson to see Danish butter sold in Dublin shops cheaper than Irish."

"Again, if the Government is anxious to see established industries flourishing, and new industries started, they must remember that capital is necessary and the reward of capital—viz., profit. As long as income tax is higher here than in England the flow of capital will be away from Ireland and not towards it. Protective tariffs will not even produce a spurious trade if the average investor believes that he will get a greater and safer return abroad. Bidding a budget is only a mathematical calculation if you impose taxes without regard to their ultimate effect on a country's wealth. The theory that the budget must balance each year, if pushed to its extremity in all circumstances, may well spell national ruin."

"The Government's economic policy should be to increase production by decreasing taxation, by reducing the cost of living, by, if necessary, subsidizing carrying; companies; income tax should equal or be below the English income tax. Super-tax, which at best only produces something like £300,000, should be abolished and along with it the Corporation Tax."

"Up to now elections have always been fought on the national issue, 'Let Ireland be free.' 'A Nation once again,' the writer observes later on. 'Those are the slogans of the past. We must learn that freedom of itself will not fill our mouths or our pockets. That when freedom is attained much remains to be done to make a country prosperous. That the task of successfully governing a republic or a monarchy is not so very different after all.'"

"We have not learned this yet, but I think we are learning it. In the very despondency and criticism of the citizens I see a gleam of hope. They realize now that the politicians who for years dimmed their ears that Home Rule and 'Utopia' were synonymous terms were—politicians. The country is suffering from the shock of disillusionment."

"The non-realization of the hopes or rather of the teachings of half a century have not unnaturally produced a feeling which is a mixture of rage and despair. The danger-point is that, instead of settling down to improve their position under the existing constitution, the country may be foolish enough to be again misled into the belief that a change of constitution can work a miracle, and produce some sort of philosopher's stone to transmute poverty to riches."

"It is here that the business and professional men might help and do not. Instead of standing by, criticising, they should form a party which, while supporting the existing constitution, could educate the Government and the people into an understanding of the real problems of government."

"I believe such a party would command enormous support, and, given real good candidates, would have a striking success at the polls. The present Government is in a most unenviable position. It is burdened with a debt not of its own making. It has had much of its material wealth destroyed by the very party which now opposes it. It has to impose taxation to pay for the destruction caused by the Republicans, and the country, forgetting entirely the originators of the mischief, blames the Government."

A Plea For British Tourists.

"There is a great opportunity at present to revive the tourist traffic in Ireland," the writer observes, after further detailing the present situation. "Visitors are not unnaturally somewhat timorous about visiting a country where for years past disturbances were rife, and traffic by road and rail was dislocated. Could it be made widely known that these disturbances are now at an end, I believe we should see our beauty spots crowded with tourists as of old. That they would be welcomed is assured, that their visit would benefit the country is certain. I am surprised that the Government has not started an intensive campaign with this object in view.

"It would be unfair and untrue to conclude any sketch of the condition of things in Ireland at present without referring to the enormous improvement that has taken place in what I may call the ordinary life of the country. It is no longer considered an act of courage to be abroad after dark. No longer is our sleep disturbed by the rattle of rifle and machine-guns. "Entertainments of all kinds are held as of old. Sport has taken its old place in the national life. Last year's Horse Show was one of the most successful ever held by the historic Dublin Society. Belfast, Dublin and Cork play together in our international teams, and in the fellowship engendered on the playing fields lies one of the chief hopes for ultimate goodwill between all parts of the country."

"May I, as a last word, appeal to the citizens of countries outside Ireland for a more sympathetic consideration of our difficulties and perplexities. We cannot yet expect the world to forget the savagery of past years. Is it too soon to ask to forgive? If it is, may we not at least ask for an open mind towards those who are struggling against great odds to uplift their country again to prosperity and repute?"

ELECTED PRESIDENT. At the annual session of the Hall-Baseball League, held a few days ago at St. John's, N.F., Mr. W. W. "Coke" Cahill, former of this city, was elected President of this season.

THE RUN BURLESQUE UNDER FULL HEADWAY.

NEW YORK, April 27.—Although the Major League season is just beginning, the slugers have made sixty runs and are under full headway. Hartnett, the Cubs' young catcher, has lined out half a dozen circuit batters, which would indicate a record performance if he doesn't lose his batting eye. Some runs in the Cubs' park, by the way, are comparatively easy because of the close proximity of the open stands. Fly balls that surely would be caught in other National League parks drop among Chicago fans in the left field seats. The managers, who are opposed to the home run burlesque, cannot find reason for the sudden outburst of hitting and they are beginning to worry about it. But, maybe, when the pitchers encounter warm weather, abnormal hitting, which destroys the fine points of baseball will be curtailed materially.

FIRPO FAILS AS MANAGER—LEAVES PARIS.

PARIS, April 25.—Luis Angel Firpo, the Argentine boxer, announced that he will leave for Buenos Aires within a week or ten days to look after his automobile business which has suffered during his absence. The attempts of the "Bull of the Pampas" to manage his own pugilistic affairs in Europe have not proved successful. He has been unable to obtain suitable conditions for bouts, and says he has decided his business affairs need his personal supervision.

ENGLISH CUP GAME WAS TERRIFYING.

LONDON, April 26.—Sheffield United are the 1925 winners of the English Cup. At Wembley Stadium on Saturday before a crowd that sat thrilled every minute of the weekly contest, the United defeated Cardiff City, in the final round of the tournament, and emerged with the title of Chief Exponents of soccer in England. The game was fast, clean and open, and was fought out in the true spirit of cup-tie football. There was plenty of hard, honest charging which pleased the fans immensely. Sheffield's superiority was admitted and it was most marked in the first half. At no time did they look like losing the game.

Once they established their lead when Tunstall netted after thirty-one minutes of play, they were never headed. Their forwards worked like well oiled machines while the often-emphasized advantages of Cardiff City's backs simply did not exist. Keener, it must be said, played hard to stem the tide, but he was almost alone. The score was one to nothing.

COMES TO DEFENCE OF NURMI AND RITOLA.

PITTSBURGH, April 25.—Lieut. H. M. Higgins, of the 107th Field Artillery, who was instrumental in bringing Paavo Nurmi and Willie Ritola to Pittsburgh last month for meet held at Hunt Armory last night came to the defence of the runners, as a result of charges that excessive expense demands had been made for their appearance at meets.

One hundred dollars a night, which included travelling expenses, was paid Nurmi for his track work here, according to Lieut. Higby who declared that "both Nurmi and Quist are too straightforward and honest to be guilty of any underhanded tactics such as juggling financial arrangements and thus endangering Nurmi's amateur standing."

SPORTSMAN SPENDS $1,750 HOOKING ONE FISH.

LONDON, April 25.—(A.P.)—The high cost of salmon fishing in private Scottish waters has gone higher this year. For some reason the fish have refused to provide sport for the wealthy anglers as in other seasons. The salmon population of the River Spey this year was estimated at 300 compared with approximately 200 in normal seasons.

A sportsman is said to have paid $850 weekly for the privilege of using one fishing rod. He remained five weeks and caught one fish at a cost of $1,750.

TOM SHARKEY MUST BE PLAYING A JOKE.

NEW YORK, April 27.—Word comes from Los Angeles that Tom Sharkey, now 51 years old, intends to return to the ring. He is said to have obtained a license from the California Boxing Commission to participate in real glove fights.

Sharkey must be trying to play a joke on the public or is planning to enter the movies. Twenty-five years ago at Coney Island in a twenty-five round battle with Jeffries, then world champion, Sharkey received such painful injuries that he never was worth a row of pins, thereafter.

The California Boxing Commission, if Sharkey has been licensed, should be removed.

Our Dumb Animals

REPORT OF CHIEF AGENT WEEK ENDING MAY 2nd.

Was called on last Friday night to put to death a horse owned by the Sanitary Department, Newtown Road. The horse died about fifteen minutes after the message was sent. Also attended to the landing of two car loads of cattle for the Harris Abattoir Co. The cattle were in good condition and taken immediate delivery of after arrival. Went to Dr. Campbell's fox farm and put to death a horse suffering with a bad leg. Also attended to the landing of some cattle from the steamer Diense. The cattle were a long time on the passage. The sheep and pigs were carried on deck. I would like to say that there are too many pigs stored in those crates. The pigs and sheep were left too long without water after landing. The cattle will not be finished landing until to-day. As they could not be taken away at night time they had to remain on board. I will have more to say about this later. I would like to say for the benefit of those who have been complaining of the pigeons on Military Road and Henry Street that it is not in my power to prevent the annoyance. I was advised by one in authority to refer those people to the Poultry Association. The old complaints about dogs still continues. I would like to request that horse owners, country people in particular, to give their horses a drink before coming to town. This may be difficult, but it is the opinion of some leading horse owners as well as the Veterinary Surgeon that it is not safe for horses to drink out of troughs where a diseased horse has already been drinking. Two horses which have been taken off the street through lameness are at work again. The cab horses spoken of as being in poor condition will be attended to the coming week. Busy all the week both late and early.

JONAS BARTER,
Chief Agent.

Improving Bowring's Cove

Owing to the unwholesome condition of Bowring's Cove, a meeting was held yesterday between the Councilors, and the Directors of Messrs. Bowring Bros. when the matter of improving the place was discussed at some length. As a result of the conference, it is understood that the old lavatory will be removed, the fish market placed further out on the waterfront, whilst a drain with concrete sidewalk will be laid on the east side by Bowring Bros., to their office entrance.

(Miss Brian, Center) "AFTER A SEVERE ILLNESS last winter due to overwork and faulty elimination, I began taking Fleischmann's Yeast. In two weeks' time marked improvement was noticed. Daily evacuations were established, and life took on a rosy hue. Steady improvement continued, and I feel that I owe much of my splendid physical condition now to Fleischmann's Yeast." (Miss Ceila E. Brian, R. N., Brattleboro, Vt.)

"AFTER SIX MONTHS ON BROADWAY in 'Kid Boots' I was tired out, couldn't sleep well; every part of me felt ached. I began to fear for my health. A friend suggested Fleischmann's Yeast. My doctor said 'Try it.' I did . . . Improvement was steady. Best of all, sleep was restored. Fleischmann's Yeast is part of my daily diet now—like milk." (Eddie Cantor, N. Y. City)

THIS FAMOUS FOOD tones up the entire system—banishes constipation, skin troubles, stomach disorders.

Do You Envy the Health of Others?

Read these remarkable statements of what one simple food can do

NOT a "cure-all," not a medicine in any sense—Fleischmann's Yeast is simply a remarkable fresh food.

The millions of tiny active yeast plants in every cake invigorate the whole system. They aid digestion—clear the skin—banish the poisons of constipation. Where cathartics give only temporary relief, yeast strengthens the intestinal muscles and makes them healthy and active. And day by day it releases new stores of energy . . .

Eat two or three cakes a day before meals on crackers—in fruit juices or milk—or just plain. For constipation, especially, dissolve one cake in hot water (not scalding) night and morning. Buy several cakes at a time—they will keep fresh in a cool dry place for two or three days. All grocers have Fleischmann's Yeast. Start eating it today!

And let us send you a free copy of our latest booklet on Yeast for Health. Health Research Dept. The Fleischmann Company, 201 Duckworth St., St. John's, N.F. Fleischmann's Yeast is prepared for market in Newfoundland.

THIS FAMOUS FOOD tones up the entire system—banishes constipation, skin troubles, stomach disorders.

"I'AM AN EX-BRITISH NAVAL MAN and I have lived in Canada eight years. Soon after my arrival I commenced to suffer from indigestion. For days I only drank water or soup. Commenced taking your famous yeast cakes three daily. Result: No indigestion—three square meals a day, splendid appetite, and feeling fit as a fiddle." (Original J. Scrymgeour, Edmonton, Alberta)

"COMING FROM THE SCHOOLROOM in June, a tired-out teacher, I was given an opportunity to do some very interesting work for several months. I felt unable physically, but I plunged in. I began taking a cake of Fleischmann's Yeast daily, then three cakes. In two weeks' time I felt less tired; and now at the end of four months' hard work my tired-out feeling has vanished, my complexion looks as it did when I was sixteen, and my constipation, that arch enemy of indoor people, is a thing of the past." (Miss Caroline Barr, Chicago, Ill.)

"AS OWNER AND MANAGER OF A BEAUTY SALON, I come in daily contact with all manner of skin disorders. I unhesitatingly recommend Fleischmann's Yeast. About five years ago I was generally run down and unable to work. I was suffering from chronic constipation, indigestion, loss of vitality, and skin eruptions. I began taking Fleischmann's Yeast, three cakes a day. At the end of two months all skin eruptions had disappeared, and as if by magic I found all other troubles disappearing also. At the end of three months I was well and back at work." (Miss Katharine Fitzgibbon, Denver, Colo.)

About BATH RUGS

and SUNSET

"What can I do with this bath rug? It isn't old but see how shabby and dull it looks!"
"Dye it with SUNSET, Jane—that's what I do with mine, every once in a while. It's as easy as can be, and it does make such a difference in the looks of my bathroom."

SUNSET helps out with many household problems. It renews in fresh color and texture articles that are dulled with constant wear. Try it for dresses, coats, children's clothes, draperies, couch covers, blankets, and all fabrics used in the home.

Drug, department, grocery and general stores sell SUNSET. Ask for free folder of "Season's Colors." It gives you recipes for the latest fashionable shades, all easily obtained with SUNSET, the fast dye for all fabrics. Sweater cleans as it dyes; does not stain hands or harm utensils! Insist on SUNSET, accept no imitation—you'll be delighted with SUNSET-dyed results.

Navy Test Receiver Redesigned for Broadcast Work

(Part 2)
EDITED BY JOHN M. CLAYTON.

The complete list of material for the short-wave receiver is as follows: One bakelite or hard rubber panel 3-16 by 18 inches; three standard Navy type sockets; two audio-frequency amplifiers; transformer; one base for coils, 3/4-inch hard rubber, 3 3/4 by 4 1/2 inches; one terminal block with four binding posts; four Ely type metal binding posts for supporting coils; one 30-ohm rheostat; one 0.0025 mfd. grid condenser with grid leak clips; one 2-megohm grid leak; one 0.00125 mfd. (7 plates) low-loss variable condenser; one .00025 mfd. (23 plates) low-loss variable condenser; one-half pound of No. 18 annunciator wire (paraffined); one hardwood base 3/4 by 9 by 16 inches; one double-circuit jack and one open-circuit jack; two vernier dials.

strip about 3/8 inch wide and is held in place by means of two wood screws in the baseboard. These batteries need not be mounted in the set if this does not seem desirable. In this case it will be necessary to provide two extra binding posts on the terminal strip.

An exact baseboard layout is not necessary. The location of all the parts will vary with the apparatus from the photo of the set which is given above, and also from the picture diagram which we print Monday. For the quietest reception possible is desirable to mount the first audio-amplifier tube socket on a piece of sponge. This will absorb any vibration and decrease any tendency on the part of the amplifier to be noisy due to microphonic noises.

The hard rubber subbase seen in the right-center of our photograph provides the necessary high insulation for the coils. This sub-base is held in place by means of four long wood screws in each corner of the base. Between the base and the sub-base you should place four spacers made of small blocks of wood to keep the sub-base and its binding posts away from the base itself.

The antenna is coupled to the secondary through a small coupling condenser. This condenser is made of two brass angles 1/2 inch wide, 1/2 inch long and sufficiently thick to be rigid. The angles are screwed to the base with their flat surfaces 1/4 inch apart. Their small capacity serves excellently over the entire short wave range of the receiver.

TO YOUNG MEN!

This is specially addressed to the young men who are following the trend of style especially as regards trousers. If you want the bell bottom trousers, with or without cuff, here is the place to get them; we are making and have made recently some splendid examples of this style. This also applies to the straight hanging English trousers hanging free from the hips to the cuff; with plenty of room at knees and bottom.

Why, of Course

If you want GOOD Clothes go to a GOOD Tailor. There is where you get good material, good fit and Clothes that look as if they were made for YOU, and not for the other fellow.

The "Ready-to-Wear" Yes, of course. They were made for the one who buys them, very seldom for the one who fits them.

But be careful and go to a good tailor. It's cheaper and better.

SPURRELL'S are good, reliable tailors, and you make no mistake in going there.
