HOW TO BE WEATHERWISE

To become your own weather prophet you must study the sky so that you can read its meaning, and the first thing to do is to get a good view of the horizon in the right direction.

Or they make the reverse mistake and get caught in the rain.

In every case first look at the horizon from which the wind is blowing; that is the weather coming towards you.

While looking at this you also note the direction, force, and steadiness of the wind.

An unsteady wind or a wind that is shifting its direction means unsettled weather.

Again, if you see, as you may, one layer of clouds passing in one direction and a second in another, don't choose that day for a picnic.

The next point is visibility. This should be good, but not too good. Fix on some landmark and note how near it seems.

It stands out unobscured and clear and harsh you may expect rain.

Then you estimate the moisture of the air. The skin or a polished hand-rail is a good test of this.

Don't trust the weather if the air is saturated with moisture.

Now you turn to the sky itself. A cloudless blue sky not too blue and yet not having a washed appearance, and one conveying the feeling of distance, with a dry air, and a gentle breeze or none at all, is the best augury of a fine day.

But if that sky is flecked with tiny creamy clouds early in the day, giving it the appearance known as a mackerel sky—a sky quite easily recognized—then a local thunderstorm is a strong probability unless a breeze gets up later.

Such a sky will bank by the afternoon.

Always mistrust a blue that is too blue, or one that is greenish-blue in color. Both mean early rain.

With clouds you want to distinguish those that may discharge rain from those that never will; particularly you want to recognize the nimbus or rain-cloud.

Only observation will teach you this. Peaceful, distant cumuli never rain; creamy, billowing cumuli rarely do; it is the dense, many-layered clouds giving the appearance of immense depth that are dangerous.

Thunder clouds are recognized by their menacing, malevolent appearance.

Birds and animals are silent when these threaten. That is always a danger signal.

These observations take some time to describe, but it takes only a minute to make them all. Practised daily they will soon make anyone weatherwise.

"Know Thyself."

(From "Overseas.")

"By all means use sometimes to be alone. Salute thyself, see what thy Soul doth wear."

said George Herbert, and it is advice which we would do well to lay at heart.

He knew, that most human-hearted of saints, how easy is for a man to acquire the habit of living on the threshold of his being with face towards the world and never a glance thrown back into the inner depths—those strange depths peopled with memories and thoughts and feelings and hopes which it is so much easier to leave undisturbed for fear of what they might reveal, for fear of danger signals barring the way to some beckoning joy, for fear of clear His outer dwelling the man will set in order, seeing to it that busy hands remove disfiguring dust, discard the rubbish left behind by the day that is done, and casements wide open thrown to the rising sun—but in the chambers of the soul how often do chaos and confusion reign.

Passing events tread swift on each other's heels leave behind them an aftermath of thoughts, feelings, impressions, which daily go to swell the unsorted collection of the long years and the dust of neglect everywhere lies thick.

When will humanity awake to realization of the fact that the one thing of importance in a man's education is that he should have been taught to think. Of what use will it be to him as life goes on to have read many books if he has not learnt how to assimilate what he reads, if he does not make of his books signposts pointing the way to those inner realms of knowledge which needs must be explored first hand and cannot be taken on hearsay; or what will the experiences which fall to his lot profit him if he does not know how to extract from each its meaning and turn it into a thing of value not to himself only, but to the little world in which he moves?

How many people there are who when asked their opinion on a subject, often a subject of real importance, answer that they really cannot tell what they think about it—it does not seem to strike them as a strange thing that their own minds they do not know, and to the danger of such a state of affairs they are wholly blind.

When it is a question of sudden decision in some moral crisis what will they have to draw upon but confused and clouded impressions, vague impulses swayed by emotion? In some fulfilling way or other the day's problems are scrambled through, the day's difficulties met in no better armour than that of chance mood, and each experience, a thing separate and disconnected, takes its place, an opportunity wasted, amongst the unfiled heap of meaningless memories.

The golden hours as they pass by were meant, like sparrows, to be strung on a golden thread of purpose high; purpose was meant to underlie each word and each act; only when strong and steadfast purpose is the ultimate beauty that is to be. But, alas, how rare a thing it is to find a man thus inspired by a steadfast and unwavering aim, with mind orderly and trained to its hidden significances and to real values alive.

The poor use we make of our thinking powers not only robs us ourselves to that depth of grip on the beauty that is to be, but it robs every other human being with whom we come in contact, for it leaves us with nothing to contribute to his measure of vision.

"Be ready always to give an answer to every man that asketh you a reason of the hope that is within you," wise counsel indeed, for hope that is within you will be of little use to him who, seeking for some clue to guide him, turns to you for help unless your own conception of it is so clear and so firm that you can find words wherewith to clothe it. A soul friend called out to me once: "From the depths of the dark night of the 'What do you mean by God?' do you yourself what does the word stand for?"

Such a question as this—a question so tremendous—would leave one dumb were it not for the compelling sense of the urgent need behind it, and it is at these moments in life that a realization comes of what it involves of loss to others to be equipped with a mind unfiled and unprepared. Not often, it is true, are we confronted with problems so deep and so searching, but in its way every chance happening is a test of our attitude towards life's varied demands; and what we think about them will, in the end, decide what we shall do.

A sudden woman is indicted on our hearts and with bitterness we respond, because we have not trained ourselves to charity's large interpretations; difficulties arise and we are daunted, having failed to learn from the lessons experience would fain have taught our heedless minds the art of taking long views.

Love comes to us, deep-eyed, and we take, glad as we are, the joy of the demands which he makes—demands as great as the treasure which he bestows and as wonderful, piercing like a sword of flame to the grounds of being and laying bare the riches that are there or, to our utmost undoing, the emptiness. Not for unprepared, the unthinking, is Love's garden enclosed, in the outer pleasure they may wander but the portals to the inner fastness to them forever shall remain closed.

And if to life and to love so little thought we give, what of Death? When the day comes that at our doors he knocks, will he be to us a stranger, or shall we arise, unafraid at his approach, and take his hand, and with him go into the Great Unknown?—H. J. V.

Real Immigration Problem.

(Toronto Globe.)

It is announced that the Hon. Charles Stewart, minister of immigration, intends to confer with the governments of the western provinces with the object of arriving at an agreement by which overlapping in immigration work shall cease, and it shall be made so that the whole of immigrants to remain in the location to which they are directed that they will not quit the province of their choice for other counties.

The old recipe for an immigration policy was: "Bring all sorts of people in and let them scramble for themselves after they get in." It failed disastrously. Hundreds of thousands of immigrants from Great Britain and continental Europe, left uncounselled and unhelped in their efforts to obtain a footing, have drifted across the border to the industrial centres of the United States after a short residence in the deminion. The real immigration problem is not the bringing in of people, but their retention as settlers on the land.

If Mr. Stewart has set out to provide advice and tuition, and even material help in the form of advances for the stocking of farms, to selected immigrants, he will secure lasting results.

We have been living in a fool's paradise in the matter of land settlement. The speculator has flourished at the expense of the pioneer. We have boasted of an area of land taken up when we should have been reckoning ruefully the small acreage cultivated. The business of an efficient colonization department is not so much to put people on the land as to keep them there contented and prosperous.

The Prince of Monaco.

Prince Albert of Monaco who died a few days ago has been described as the greatest living patron of science, and he was more than a patron. He was a distinguished scientist himself, perhaps the leading authority on oceanography, which is itself a science not a hundred years old.

With a specially constructed ship the prince sailed about the world taking soundings and making photographs and collecting specimens of the swarming life of the seas. The result of many years' study was a series of maps, the most important ever made in this particular field.

Prince Albert was also one of the richest men in Europe, his enormous revenue being drawn from Monte Carlo, the famous gambling resort, which supported not only himself in princely style and made possible scientific investigation at huge cost, but also paid the taxes and permitted his domestic affairs, however, were controlled by this benevolent prince, and seeing the prosperity that the citizens of Monaco derive from the Casino and the worthy use to which the prince has devoted most of his income, it is not probable that for a long time to come there will be any internal movement to abolish the Casino.

The Casino is run by the Blanc family, which leases the privileges from the state. For many years the annual profit has run into the millions, and a goodly share has been handed over to Prince Albert, who spent most of his money on scientific pursuits. In the war he cast in his lot with the Allies, despite the fact that he and the ex-Kaiser were formerly friends. He handsomely supported war charities and turned over his magnificent estate to convalescing soldiers. No man of our time has used money obtained from so questionable a source to such good purpose as the late ruler of Monaco.

Poets and Food Products.

(Toronto Globe.)

The farmers who met at Elmvale a couple of months ago were told by experts that they were not raising the right kind of hogs to make the Wiltshire side of bacon demanded by the British market, and that Denmark, under great natural disadvantages, had driven us out of that market by careful attention to its requirements. But the farmers of Warren county, Ohio, apparently kept in mind the requirements of their market when they developed the Poland-China hog, which, a despatch to the New York World says, "ranks first among the four best and largest producing strains in the United States."

In honor of these men the town of Lebanon has erected a monument, and a feature of the dedication was the reading of an ode by Miss Mary Hankinson

The Book of Tea

"A Japanese Harmony of Art, Culture, and the Simple Life," written by the late Okakura Kakuzo and published by T. N. Foulis, London and Edinburgh, should be obtained by all those who worship at the shrine of the Queen of the Camellias. Its pages relate the love of good tea to the love of best things in life.

Blue Bird Tea "Brings Happiness!"

which may be sung to the air of "America" and which will have a familiar ring in this country. The first stanza is as follows:

This spot will be the shrine For Poland-China swine, Which we esteem; Tribute to those whose skill Labored with earnest will This vision to fulfill, The hog supreme.

Daisies and daffodils, the heath and the heather, the primrose by a river's brim, have all received the attention of poets, but they have neglected too much the substantial side of life. McIntyre of Ingersoll sang of Canadian cheese, and his volume preserves the history of that mammoth which was the pride of Brant and the wonder of England. The people of Argentine, France, have offered a prize for the best poem on asparagus. The aid of the poet might be invoked to stimulate the hog industry, until in the end Canadian bacon takes the place of Wiltshire side with the British connoisseur.

HEALTH EDUCATION IN CHINA.

The cause of medical missions has long since established itself as an important factor in the modern missionary programme in foreign lands. A tribute to the service the medical missionary is health education, with headquarters in Shanghai. Over three hundred missionaries, belonging to fifty-five different societies, are now using the health bulletins of the council. An appeal is made to the missionaries, both medical and otherwise, to educate the Chinese to open the doors which are being shut in the face of approaching winter. Cracks will be stuffed with rags or sealed with paper. Heavy bed curtains will be drawn snug at night and pukis drawn over the heads of the sleepers. There will be less bathing and washing of clothes, and the people will live huddled together till warm spring comes again. The people live in a way that violates all the laws of health. Spring finds many new graves, many of them because of typhus. Sometimes the critic of missions falls to credit missionary enterprise with this health-giving work.

ST. DAVID'S CALL FORWARDED. The formal call from the congregation of St. David's church to Rev. Hugh Miller, of Campbellton, was forwarded last night to the Miramichi Presbytery.

The call was signed by about 600 members of the church and congregation, which is a large number considering the fact that at this time of the year a great many members of the congregation are out of the city for the summer season. The call must be in the hands of the Miramichi Presbytery for at least ten days before they can take any action on it, and it is not expected that it will be acted upon inside of the next two weeks.

Chicago Attorney for 3,000 Victims Confers with District Attorney in New York Formulate Raiding Plan.

New York, July 13—Philip R. Davis, a Chicago attorney, has arrived here on the trial of $2,000,000 worth of securities which he seeks to reclaim for about 3,000 Chicago and Mid-Western creditors of five failed Chicago-New York brokerage houses, suspected of "bucketing." Mr. Davis admitted that he was still "one step behind" the securities he is after. As a side issue to his trip Mr. Davis conferred with District Attorney Joseph H. Barton on a plan to have Mr. Barton's office and the office of Illinois State's Attorney Crowe work together to suppress spurious brokerage firms.

In addition to representing the several thousand creditors, Mr. Davis is working in co-operation with James A. Davis, head of the Advertisers and Investors Protective Bureau of the Chicago Association of Commerce, and with A. G. Davis, Secretary of the Securities Division of the Illinois State Department. The various Davises are not related.

"The Chicago Association of Commerce," said Philip R. Davis at the Hotel Pennsylvania yesterday, "has been very active in cleaning up violations of the 'blue sky' law, and now that that work has been virtually completed they have turned their attention to the job of ridding the city of the bucket shop. The bucket shop evil has grown tremendously."

"I talked to District Attorney Barton this noon and laid before him a tentative plan to obtain closer co-operation between his office and our officials out in Chicago. Under the New York State law the officials can not raid a house while it is doing business, although the officials may have reason to believe that things are not being conducted as they should be."

"Under the law out in Chicago, however, we can go right in and grab them. But after what we have done so far, we have been informed by the people in the office that all their books and other records were in their branch or main offices in New York. What we aim to do is to arrange some sort of system that will enable us out in Chicago to tip off New York that we plan to raid such and such a firm and when we do so have a raid staged simultaneously here. In that way we hope to nab the essential records."

"I have traced about $2,000,000 worth of securities which I hope to reclaim. The batch I am seeking just now was eventually traced to this city. One of the reclamation editions that I have with me is for $38,000 alone. In tracing these things I have found instances where securities were split fifteen different ways, under assumed names and with new numbers. That made the work of following them a rather complicated job."

PRAIRIES TO BOSTON

School Inspector's Lengthy Motor Run to Convention.

(Montreal Gazette.) After motoring all the way from Weyburn, Sask., to Boston to attend the annual convention of the National Education Association, which ended on Saturday last, Alfred Kennedy, M. A., inspector of schools at Weyburn, reached Montreal last night in his Ford car on his way home to the west. He was accompanied by his brother, Thomas Kennedy, head of the mathematical department of Oakwood Collegiate Institute, Toronto, and both expressed themselves as highly pleased with the results of the convention. It was attended by more than twelve thousand delegates, a number that would have been considerably greater, Alfred Kennedy stated, had it not been for the disorganization of train service caused by the railroad men's strike. Mr. Kennedy said that the association's membership is now well over 116,000, with a very satisfactory proportion of this in Canada. Mr. Kennedy left Weyburn on June 19, accompanied by his wife and five-year-old daughter, Betty, and traveled to Toronto, where he left his wife and child and continued the journey with his brother. His route lay through Seattle.

BETTER THAN HARD COAL

Soft coal so free from soot that it does not make whiskers on stove covers or pipes and does not mat or clog when burning, is far better than Hard Coal for general household use. Quicker to light, takes less to make a fire, cheaper in price and can also be used for open fires and small heating stoves. Such a coal is Broad Cove soft coal. The main thing to insist on getting the genuine article. No other soft coal burns just like Broad Cove. You will know it by the above characteristics.

BEE-STING SURE FOR RHEUMATISM

Wonders Have Been Effected According to Reports.

London, July 8.—(By Mail)—A remarkable revival of the honey bee faith in the efficacy of bee stings as the sole infallible cure for rheumatism, rheumatoid, arthritis, and sciatica, is in progress here. There new movement has swept before it all scientific and pseudo-scientific prejudices, and Bishop Stortford may not unjustly claim to rank as a veritable "bee clinic" for the treatment of rheumatic disorders.

No previous experiment with the method can compare with the new development for extent or seriousness. Rumors of the wonders effected have spread far and wide, and orders are pouring in from London for consignments of bee swarms, among the applicants, I understand, being St. Bartholomew's Hospital.

Bishop Stortford is one of the most considerable apical centres in the kingdom, and Mr. E. P. Hussey, secretary of the local Beekeepers' Association, is one of the most experienced of apiculturists. The bees are carefully placed on the nose of the sufferer's neck," he said, "in this way they can discharge the venom in their sting most effectively into the body."

"I have frequently been asked to conduct the cures, my last patient being a titled woman, a great sufferer from rheumatism, who could not find any one else to apply the bees."

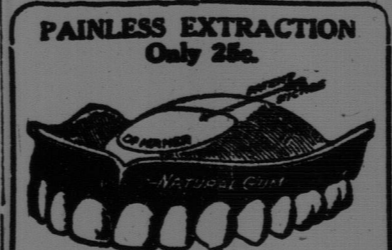

"It is my experience in the course of my work to be stung about a thousand times a day, and I never felt better or more stimulated than when I am thoroughly stung by a swarm of worker bees."

Dr. Young, treasurer of the association, told me that the cures effected by the bees are usually attributed to the volatile formic acid in the "poison" of the bee.

Numerous testimonies of the effectiveness of the formic acid are available in the town, while everybody is agreed on one point—bee stings are decidedly "stimulating."

trucks, and in addition to above tax, one dollar extra for the driver, which appears to be one of the most short sighted pieces of business that anyone could possibly imagine. The commercial truck that people do their work with and employ men to handle is taxed, while hundreds, yes, thousands, of big pleasure cars that are tearing around the streets all hours of the day and night go scot free. Stop and consider, could anything be more unjust, unreasonable or stupid? Why not tax the pleasure car instead of the truck, or better still, if the city wants money so badly, why not tax all cars a moderate fee instead of singling out the trucks that people do their work with? Thanking you, Mr. Editor. A TAXPAYER.

The Evening Times and Star

ST. JOHN, N. B., JULY 13, 1923.

The St. John Evening Times is printed at 27 and 29 Canterbury Street, every evening (Sunday excepted) by The St. John Times Printing and Publishing Co., Ltd., a company incorporated under the Joint Stock Companies Act.

A TOWN AND ITS TAXES.

The Woodstock Press, which is a Conservative newspaper, gives the following as one reason why the town rate of taxation has been slightly increased this year—

"The Dominion Tanneries, Ltd., which purchased the Dickinson tannery plant in existence here for nearly a century, sold out to a company (which flourishes better in Canada than in any spot on this green earth) which closed the big tannery; and the plant has decreased in value."

This is a very frank explanation, and it may be added that the Woodstock tannery is not the only maritime industry that has suffered from the interest in its welfare manifested by corporations which desired to lessen competition in this field.

But there is another reason given by the Press for the rise in taxes. It says many citizens have converted taxable Victory Bonds into non-assessable bonds. This is not a habit peculiar to Woodstock, but of course those who pursue such a course would take grievous offence if they were classed with the ordinary wretches who fall to pay their taxes.

One other reason given by the Press does discredit to nobody. It is that there has been a large increase in the expenditure on the public schools. We quote—

"We have before us a tax bill of 1890 (the rate being ninety cents on the $100) and the school assessment that year was $3,900; this year with comparatively the same number of pupils, if the census is reliable, and if we believe our older residents, the cost of the public schools is $23,000, not taking into consideration our share of the up-keep of the vocational school, which is probably giving better results than any other institution in our midst."

From 1890 the school expenditure went along with very little variation until 1910, when it was $10,000; the next three years it was $11,000; the following two years it was $11,500. Now watch it climb! In 1916 it was $12,600; in 1917, $12,500; in 1918, $16,500; in 1919, $15,280; in 1920, $17,750; in 1921, $21,500; in 1922, $23,000.

The Woodstock folk have no cause to reproach themselves for this growth in expenditure. It proves that they are alive to the best interests of the town. Citizens of St. John should ponder on the remark that the vocational school in Woodstock, the first in the province, is probably giving better results than any other institution in our midst."

The town of Woodstock also has to pay a portion of the expenditure in Carleton county, and this includes the cost of the administration of justice, which last year was large, and the Press mildly suggests that it would be a good thing if the people of the towns and county were more law-abiding. Woodstock's share of county expenditure last year was increased by $9,397.14, which is quite an item. But the showing of Woodstock is not at all discouraging, for the Press says that as far as it has observed the tax-rate which last year was $1.62 on the $100, and this year $1.72, is the lowest of any city or town in the maritime provinces. This condition is in no small measure due to the town-manager plan of government and the fine ability of Town Manager Armstrong, a son of Secretary R. E. Armstrong of the St. John Board of Trade.

THE YOUNG NATIONS.

The western world, which reads most about Russia and Germany and the disputes between the great powers, is apt to overlook the great benefit that has hitherto been in a very real sense under the heel of the oppressor. The present state of Czechoslovakia under the Hapsburgs had enjoyed no liberties. Today it is marching forward to an administrative system which will give local autonomy and promote harmony between the racial divisions of its people. A correspondent of the New York Evening Post says the now pending reform is second only to the distribution of the old feudal estates among the peasantry. The old administration was wholly unsuited to a democratic state, and one of the first steps after the creation of the new state was the passage of an act providing for a new system to be worked out in detail by Dr. Derer, the minister of unification. This system would have to be alike satisfactory to Czechs and Slovaks, who were alike jealous of their rights. Dr. Derer made a study of the merits and defects of systems in Europe and the United States, and says the product of his research is indebted in some particulars to the American federal system, in others to the county system in England; but superficially, at least, it seems most to resemble the departmental administration of France. The Post correspondent says—

"The basic unit of the Czechoslovak administration is to be the 'jupe,' a Slavic word meaning a district of neighborhood. Of the twenty 'jupes' into which the state is divided, nine are in Bohemia, five in Moravia and Silesia, and six in Slovakia. Each is subdivided into smaller districts, which elect delegates to the 'jupe' assembly. Jurisdiction in all matters affecting police, schools, roads, and local charities is in the hands of this assembly, besides the control of the public buildings of the locality. Furthermore—and this is very important—it enjoys the right of levying taxes for purposes of local government. The presiding officer of the assembly, an appointee of the central government forms with three councillors chosen by the assembly from its own membership a steering committee, which, like the judiciary, is non-political and permanent. To deal with matters affecting more than one locality there are to be instituted three unions of 'jupes.' Disputes regarding questions of general concern, such as navigation on important rivers and the building of nation-wide roads, will be brought up in the periodical congresses of these unions. To prevent the unions from arrogating to themselves rights belonging to individual 'jupes' and to decide disputes regarding their powers as distinguished from the powers of the national parliament a special administrative court will be set up in Prague. Here the individual 'jupe' may lodge complaints in its corporate capacity and here the law will be interpreted."

Dr. Derer is himself a Slovak, and would naturally seek to meet the views of the Slovaks autonomists as far as might be in the interests of the whole state. We are told that "the division of the whole state into comparatively small units, each with powers of local taxation, resembles the habit of government in Slovakia more than that in Bohemia, which always used to constitute a single administrative entity by itself;" and that the new system if adopted, as seems certain, "will accord each locality a deciding voice in its affairs; provide for the different localities to work together harmoniously, and make sure that the central government, while retaining its own prerogatives, will always be in touch with the desires of its people all through the country."

Thus, while the great powers seek to adjust great issues affecting all, the young new nations that have risen from the ruins of the old empires are realising the benefits of the democratic state and moving forward along lines of peaceful and prosperous development. They, at least, have been great gainers by the war.

New York Herald—"No nation is more ready to congratulate Canada and wish her prosperity than the United States. She has been the best of neighbors and is, with the exception of Great Britain alone, the best customer of this country. The emergency tariff which interfered with this trade, has caused a greater loss to the United States than to Canada. But it has harmed the commerce of both nations and represents a policy to avoid."

Montreal is threatened with a strike of civil employes which would include police and firemen. If the men of these two classes desert their post not one of them should ever be given employment by the city again. They are the guardians of life and property upon whom it should be safe to depend in any emergency.

The province of Quebec last year received a net revenue of over $4,000,000 from liquor. This does not make the Quebec liquor set any more respected, but it provides those in other provinces who would like to see their taxes reduced with a mercenary illustration which they are not slow to use.

With some of the best of the world's swimmers, the champion ring exponent of the day and a baseball team from the United States all in St. John this week, the city is evidently receiving general recognition of its claim as a good sport centre.

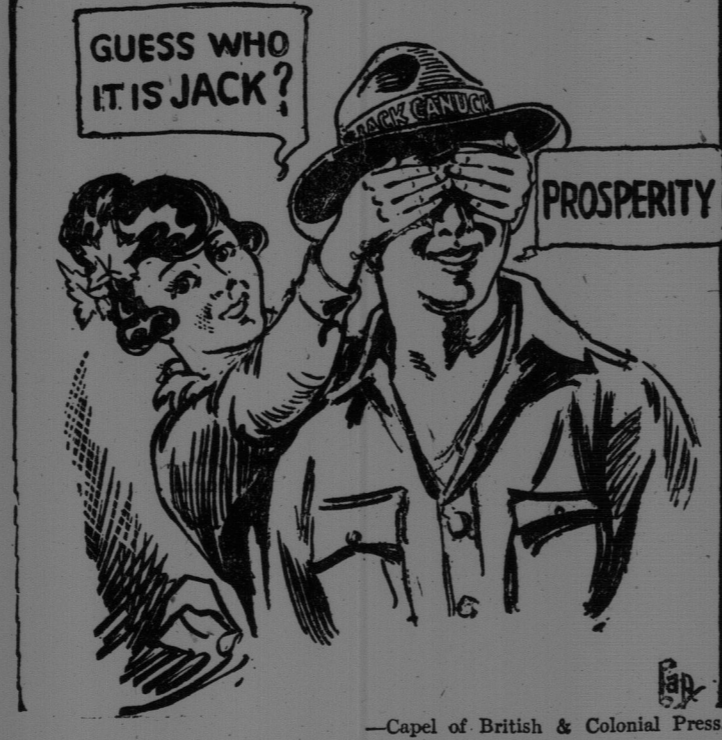

Apparently Russia has not yet learned her lesson. The Soviet delegates at The Hague will not meet the views of the other powers, and there seems to be no present prospect of agreement.

"The Old Lady of Threadneedle Street" cheers a worried financial world again today. The Bank of England rate is reduced to three per cent.

DOCTORS' WRITING PUZZLES OFFICIALS Brookville, Ont., July 13—Every physician in the province is to be circumscribed and asked to write more legibly the cause of death in certificates presented to registrars of births, marriages and deaths. J. Manchester, director of vital statistics, told the Leeds and Granville Medical Association.

"I don't know how you can read some of them at all," added the speaker, who said that greater care than before was being made of the registrar-general's department in providing certificates of birth for insurance companies, athletic associations, employers of labor, and the immigration authorities.

FAR-REACHING.

This is the strike that Jack called! This is the landlord who waits for rent. These are the townspeople, discontent. Dealers here groan for supplies delayed. Roughly note, too, accounts unpaid. This is a mother, with hopeless eyes, Soothing a half-nourished babe who cries. These are the children who tattered grow— Daddy lacks money for clothes, you know! Here are the youth; in an idle time They fall into habits of vice and crime. Shabby the girls, who no more have work. Prey of the fogs who through strike months lurk. This is the village, once neat and fair— Dooryards are showing much need of care! Windows are broken and gates un-hinged; Walks are all littered and grass plots singed. Round shop and mill weeds unchecked grow tall; Wheels are long rusting, no whistles call. Blight and decay here have settled down, Strangers deride the inactive town. Hunger and Want, unshamed, now stalk Where Thrift and Comfort were wont to walk. Men, once so proud, tramp from town to town. Meeting refusals, deep scorn, a frown. Bearing it all for the ones at home, Hoping for luck as, soul-sick, they roam. Patience and toil and a little wait. Would have averted this woeful state. Labor and Capital—know that now! Burn to retract—but, oh, when and how? Tired of the muds thus brought about, Taught sobering facts since the men walked out. Young and old, high and low, rich and poor, owners, employes, merchants, farmers, home folks and strangers, Bothered and injured and suffering loss, Hate between shopmates, old help and new. All due to the strike that Jack called! —Ella A. Fanning in New York Times.

ENGLAND'S PUREST LYRIC POET

(New York Evening Post.) Shelley's six years of poetical productiveness—for he did not find his voice until he published "Alastor" in 1816—ended a century ago today when the squall blotted out his boat off Leghorn. This quick bright flash in English poetry remains like the five years of Keats, one of the great marvels of human genius. He reached the top of Parnassus at a bound. We can see that Keats was steadily growing in power when he died, but it is difficult to say that the Shelley who wrote "Adonais" in 1821 had a more sustained inspiration than the Shelley who wrote "The Cenci" in 1819; or that the author of the final chorus in "Hellas" had a purer lyric inspiration than the author of "Ozymandias" written in 1817.

Of the stern view of Shelley's defects of character we have had more in America than in England. One distinguished American writer has written with the utmost severity of Shelley making love to Mary over the grave of her mother, as of Shelley unabashed by the suicide of Harriet. Since Dowden's life appeared in the eighties all the facts have been before the reader. They proved to the mind of a sober critic like R. H. Hutton that Shelley was directly responsible for the death of Harriet, sharing the blame only with Godwin's eccentric doctrines regarding the relations between the sexes. But Matthew Arnold, regretting the publication of Dowden's volumes, refused to be shaken in his belief that Shelley, after all, was an "inflectional angel," and the world is likely to accept Arnold's view of Shelley as ethereal, and one of the most passionately sincere, of all its poets.

A character more full of paradoxes does not exist in the history of English literature; a character with more unworldliness, idealism, caprice, and lack of humor. How, for example, can we reconcile Shelley's abhorrence of the material and his reverence for Shelley's defenders that two writers intimate with him and gifted in revealing anecdotes, Hazlitt and Trelowney, have so much to show his childlike simplicity, his impracticality, his courage, and his loquaciousness. Shelley questioning babies regarding the world, whence they came, Shelley fearlessly outraging the Oxford authorities—all this helps us understand the Shelley who resented Southey's words of blame for his most serious lapses.

Even those who regard Shelley as the first of our lyric poets would admit that he is inferior in general appeal to other poets of equal stature. He is the poet of the ideal, not the real; of the ethereal and not the actual. He was endowed in reputation with the quality of intensity, kindling with a rapidity and completeness impossible to a more commonplace genius. While Keats's mind was a prism which threw a rainbow of metaphorical color, Shelley's was a crystal with little power of refracting color or imagery. Of warm human emotion Shelley has little; his emotion is ideal and intellectual; his grasp and command of language is unsatisfied aspiration, the desire of the moth for the star.

But the artistic perfection of his lyrics is his challenge. Even "The Cenci" and "Adonais" are in a sense lyrics, for a single thrill or emotion dominates both the tragedy and elegy. Poems like "To a Skylark," "The Cloud," and "Satanstoe Written in Dejection" are as near flawless as human work can be. In this domain he stands unrivalled.

TO CULTIVATE MARKETS FOR CANADA'S MINERALS

Deputy Minister of Mines Visits Europe in Behalf of the Mineral Industry. Dr. C. Cammell, deputy minister of Mines, has been named by the Hon. Charles Stewart, minister of mines and minister of the interior, as delegate to represent Canada at the International Geological Congress, to be held in Brussels, Belgium, in August next.

This congress, at which all the leading mining countries of the world will be represented, is held triennially. The last session, however, was that held in Canada in 1913, the war having made subsequent sessions until the present impossible. Eight Canadian geologists, most of them representing Canadian universities, will attend the congress.

Dr. Cammell has already left for England, his intention being to make a close study of the market possibilities there for Canadian minerals. In view of the impending enactment of high tariff legislation in the United States tending to restrict the market for our minerals in that country, it is of great importance to the mineral industry that new markets be cultivated. This subject will be fully canvassed with the Imperial Mineral Resources Bureau, who have already shown a keen interest in the development of a market for Canadian products.

Among other minerals to be considered in this regard are graphite, tar sands, feldspar and bentonite. The last mentioned is a clay used in the manufacture of textiles, very high grade deposits of which have recently been discovered in Alberta and British Columbia.

The terms of peace have divested Germany of some of her best mineral territory, notably in Alsace-Lorraine and Poland, and there is a possibility of developing a market for certain of our minerals in that country. It is understood that German interests have already made tentative enquiries respecting the Itched Badly, Baby Cried At Night, Cuticura Heals.

"My baby's head was covered with hard, red pimples. They itched so badly that she scratched them until they developed into sore eruptions. After one week's use I saw a great improvement, and after using two cakes of Cuticura Soap and three boxes of Cuticura Ointment she was completely healed." (Signed) Mrs. M. VETERAN EDITOR FROM BERMUDA

S. Seward Toddings Tells of Attractions of His Island Home and of Development of Tourist Trade.

There was an interesting visitor to the city this week in the person of S. Seward Toddings, of Hamilton, Bermuda.

Mr. Toddings, who has been at the Royal hotel for a few days, is editor of The Mid Ocean, and has such an attractive way of telling of the beauties of his native island that those who have met him must all be waiting for the day when they may have a chance to take a trip to the British West Indies.

Mr. Toddings came to this country in 1860 to attend school and in 1866 received his degree from Mount Allison College. Dr. David Allison was one of his teachers and Mr. Toddings said that Dr. Allison recognized him in Halifax three years ago, although it was more than fifty years since he had been a member of his classes.

In regard to Bermuda, he said that it had been more or less a tourist resort since 1870. At that time and for several years the tourist trade was confined largely to people who were seeking a winter climate. However, some of these people who came for their health brought their children along with them, and they found that the place was lively and congenial to their happiness.

The government was not slow to realize the possibilities of the tourist trade and set about to advertise the island as a tourist resort, so that in 1908 about 7,000 tourists visited Bermuda, and in 1918 the traffic amounted to almost 28,000. When the Great War came tourist trade fell down below a thousand yearly.

After the armistice a regular service was provided by a shipping company, which brought up a section of the island known as Tucker Town, and the government gave them certain powers of expropriation, so that the strongest inducements could be offered to bring increased numbers of tourists. The improvements which are being made on the various resorts will cost in the millions. There is hotel accommodation for about 700 people at any one time and there are now four golf courses on the island. Hamilton is the largest centre and within a few miles are Longhouse, Rosebank and St. Georges, which are small hamlets and offer many attractions for the tourist.

Mr. Toddings, who left yesterday to spend a few weeks in Shelburne and Yarmouth counties in Nova Scotia, where the fishing is good, has been a newspaper editor for fifty-three years, having been editor of The Colonist from 1869 to 1911 and of The Mid Ocean since 1911. He has never done anything else since he gave up military life in 1869, after being connected with the militia for three years, as he believes that one job is about all that a man can do properly at once.

MAN DETAINED BY RENFREW POLICE NOT HENRY G. MARR

A description of a man, who was being held by the Renfrew (Ont.) police, does not tally with Henry G. Marr's characteristics, according to the family last evening.

The Renfrew authorities' description arrived yesterday afternoon by mail and was just a few hours later than a telegram sent by the same officials in regard to the unknown man being detained by them. They asked that a description of the missing merchant, now gone since Thursday, June 22, be forwarded and this was telegraphed.

It is now exactly three weeks since the well-known business man completely disappeared from sight, and hope is fast dwindling that the body will ever be recovered. Only a chance discovery will bring to light something of a definite nature.

One of the unaccountable features of this case has been the almost negligible amount of evidence in regard to the missing man's movements on the day of his disappearance. Several claimed to have seen him walking in the direction of Rockwood Park. Hundreds of citizens have searched the park thoroughly, yet without result. Patrols are still being maintained along the shores of the harbor.

SOLE SURVIVOR SHIPWRECK FLOATS 48 HOURS WITH BARREL

San Juan, July 13—After keeping afloat for forty-eight hours with the aid of an empty barrel, Alfredo Mendoza reached shore near Palardo, on the east coast of Porto Rico, telling of the capsizing of a small vessel in which he and seven companions and a crew were on their way to Culebra, one of the small islands of the east coast.

Mendoza collapsed soon after reaching the shore. It is believed that he is the sole survivor.

Jo-Bel THE WONDER SALVE (Registered)

"It's great stuff for piles. I had them bleeding, itching and protruding. The second application stopped the bleeding, and I have had comfort ever since. No, I'm not cured, but it's my own fault. INDUSTRIAL USE OF WATER POWER

Production of Mines and Forests Dependent Upon Hydro-Electric Energy.

(Natural Resources, Canada.)
In an address before the Canadian Club of New York city recently the president of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association very ably expounded the future possibilities of Canada as an industrial country when, inevitably, her manufactured products will, in certain lines, increasingly supply the markets of the world.

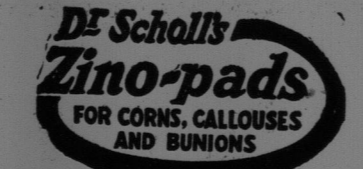

The secret of industrial advancement in the Dominion may be attributed largely to our bountiful hydraulic resources, which afford cheap and abundant motive power. This factor is of much importance in all our principal industries and of the four corners of progress, namely, agriculture, manufacture, transportation and finance, cited in the above address, the first three are vitally affected by the question of power.

Hydro-electric energy is not only the key to progressive development of Canadian manufacturing and transportation, but it is gradually becoming an important factor in the basic industry of agriculture. A study of farming conditions in the various provinces indicates that, while the acreage under cultivation and the extent and value of farm products has steadily increased, the rural population has steadily decreased. The explanation is largely the substitution of machinery and power for manual labor, and in this substitution hydro-electric energy is occupying an exceedingly important sphere.

While difficulties may exist in the economic distribution of electricity to certain trading areas, our cheap water-power permits many Canadian farmers to enjoy the benefits of modern methods and added commodities made possible by hydro-electric energy.

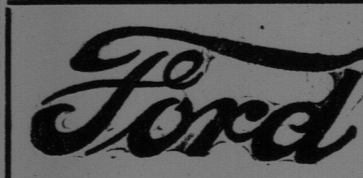

The direct bearing of adequate and cheap hydro-electric power to the progress and expansion of our manufactures needs scarcely to be pointed out. The majority of our principal industries, such as pulp and paper, flour, lumber, iron works, textiles, electro-chemical and metallurgical processes, require a relatively large amount of power; the question of a sufficient supply at reasonable rates is playing a most important part in attracting and permanently establishing these industries in Canada.

The pulp and paper industry, for instance, requires large blocks of power, some 100 h. p. being necessary per ton of daily production of newsprint paper, and but for our water-powers we would have to export most of our pulp wood in the raw state. The milling industry also depends largely on our water-powers for its successful development. Asbestos, nickel, copper, gold and silver mining fields are well supplied with hydro-electric energy which greatly facilitates their economic operation.

Put one on-- the pain is gone!

that the American worker has commonly two or three times as much horse-power to assist him.
As hydro-electric energy will ever prove an increasingly important factor in the general development of the Dominion, it is essential that the government authorities responsible for the administration and development of our water-powers should fortify themselves with such fundamental engineering and economic information as will bring about the establishment of progressive and constructive policies, designed to encourage the maximum advantageous use of our water-power resources.

UTILIZING HYDRO FOR POWER ON FARM

At Willow Point, B. C., seven farmers have, says Farm and Home, established their own joint electric light plant, a nearby small stream being used for generating the necessary power. This plant provides not only light and power for houses and outbuildings, but power for domestic labor-saving appliances as well. The cost of installation and operation is not stated, but when one of the co-operators was asked to say what it was he replied: "It is so small I am ashamed to give it." The low cost was, in part, explained, however, by the statement that one of the seven is an electric expert, who was able to buy the equipment at minimum cost and install it without paying extravagant prices for labor or supervision.

An Ontario Example.

There are, Farm and Home says, hundreds of small streams in British Columbia that could be utilized in the same way that the one at Willow Point is being utilized. The same is true of Ontario. Indeed, one enterprising Ontario farmer, Adam Alexander, some years ago established his own lighting and power plant by using a stream carried through a pipe from the mountain overlooking Milton. Up near Vandeur, in Grey county, and down in the township of Clarke, two other farmers have used small streams to furnish belt power for operating various kinds of stationary farm machinery, wood sawing, etc., the expense of installation being very small in both cases.

FIFTY-ONE ANSWERS TO ADVERTISEMENT IN THE TELEGRAPH

School Teachers Appear to be More Plentiful—Appointments Made in Simonds, No. 1.

School teachers appear to be in good supply this year, if the experience of district No. 1, parish of Simonds, is anything to go by. Advertising in The Telegraph for three teachers, fifty-one applications were received, and the following appointments have been made:—Brookville school, Miss Jessie Gilliland; Glen Falls, primary, Miss Agnes V. Keohan; upper grades, Miss Georgie Chambers.

SISTEH THOMPSON SPEAKS IN MEETING

(By Edgar White in New York Post.) The colored folks were holding a camp meeting in a wooded pasture on Muskeg Fork, a short distance from Larkville, Mo. Under the powerful exhorting of Brother Johnson the interest had been enormous. The ball was started rolling each night by an experience meeting. Some wonderful manifestations were related.

As Larkville was a small place and rather shy on diversions during the summer, many white people attended the meeting. A place was reserved for them, and they were treated with every courtesy by the colored folks. Sometimes the white guests found it pretty hard not to laugh during the experience meeting, but as a rule their conduct was good—until one evening a party of white boys and girls took front seats. They didn't know Sister Thompson was going to testify.

Sister Thompson was a heavyweight colored saint, who for many years had lived in Larkville and knew everybody. She was very serious about her religion and very emotional. This night she became considerably worked up as she told of her trials and her hopes. Her speech was accompanied by a swaying of her body and wild gestures by her muscular arms. She was concluding with a sonorous declamation when she glanced over at the white folks' benches and noticed the youngsters stuffing handkerchiefs in their mouths and making vain efforts to suppress their laughter.

Sister Thompson turned from song to prayer. Her big eyes blazed. "Oh, Lord, have mercy on these miserable white folks that come here to laugh and cut up back at our solemn meetin'!" she pleaded. "Bore a hole in their skulls an' let 'em see some sense so they'll know how to act when they put their feet in Thy sanctuary. There's poor little Jimmie Smith grinnin' like a 'possum 'bout things he can't no more understand than a rabbit. Oh, Lord, please don't send down fire and brimstone to squash his po' little body into the earth, 'cause Jimmie ain't had no raisin' at home, nor no chance to know any better."

"There's Bessie Blake laughin' all the powder off'n her face an' don't know what she's laughin' at, less it's to show off befo' that Benny Simpson, what clerks at the butcher shop and is used to calves' brains."

"Oh, Lord, stay Thy hand from its just wrath against Lillie Jenkins, and Bobbie Tom Watts an' the rest o' them po' ignorant critters that think a religious meetin' is like a circus where they sets pop corn and feeds peanuts to the monkeys. Be merciful to 'em, oh Lord, an' jes spank 'em where it'll do the most good, an' let 'em live a few more years to learn how life goes they is that quack-quack when they ain't nothin' to quack at, an' wear sacked-cloth an' hot ashes—Amen!"

From that time on, if there was any indication of mirth in the white folks' corner, Brother Johnson would suggest that Sister Thompson testify. And it was more effective than a dozen constables with warrants.

Doctor at 82 Finds Mothers Prefer His Formula to New-Fangled Salts And Coal Tar Remedies for Babies

Judgment of 1892 vindicated by world's approval of Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin, a simple vegetable compound for constipation—So safe, thousands give it to babes in arms—Now has largest sale in the world.

WHEN a man is in the 83rd year of his age, as I am, there are certain things he has learned that only time can teach him. The basis of treating sickness has not changed since I left Medical College in 1876, nor since I placed on the market the laxative prescription I had used in my practice, known to druggists and the public since 1882, as Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin.

From a recent portrait of Dr. W. B. CALDWELL, Founder of Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin, Mo., 1880

Then the treatment of constipation, biliousness, headaches, mental depression, indigestion, sour stomach and other indispositions that result from constipation was entirely by means of simple vegetable laxatives, herbs and roots. These are still the basis of my Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin, which is a combination of Egyptian Senna and other mild laxative herbs with pepsin.

Recently new medicines have been brought out for constipation that contain calome, which is mercury, salts of various kinds, minerals and coal tar. These are all drastic purges, many of them dangerous, and the medical profession is warning the public against them. Certain coal tar products will depress the heart; certain salts give rise to intestinal poisoning, impaction and rupture of the intestines. If grown people want to use them no one can deny them the privilege, but they should never be given to children.

The simpler the remedy for constipation, the safer for the child and for you, and the better for the general health of all. And as you can get results in a mild and safe way by using Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin, why take chances with pills and powders and strong drugs, even if disguised in candy? My remedy, too, costs less than most others, only about a cent a dose. A bottle such as you can find in any drug store, will last a family several months and all can use it. It is good for the babe in arms because pleasant to the taste, gentle in action, and free from narcotics in the proper dose, given in the directions, it is equally effective at all ages. Elderly people will find it especially ideal.

The formula of Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin is on the cover of every bottle, and the ingredients have the endorsement of the U. S. Pharmacopoeia.

$10,000 Worth of Syrup Pepsin Free

In remembrance of my 83rd birthday I have set aside the sum of Ten Thousand Dollars to be given away in half-ounce bottles of my Laxative Syrup Pepsin. Only one Free Trial bottle to a family. All are constipated now and then, and here is an opportunity for you and others to try Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin FREE OF CHARGE. Ask for your free bottle today, simply sending name and address to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 21 Front Street, Bridgeburg, Ont. Do not postpone this.

KIPLING TO FRANCE Peoples Deprived of Justice and Security.

Paris, June 18.—(By mail)—At the Opera on Saturday evening, a letter was read from Rudyard Kipling. In aid of the project of erecting a monument to commemorate the French and British gallantry on the Somme, Mice. Ida Rubinstein gave a performance of Gabriel d'Annunzio's play Le Martyre de St. Sébastien. It was a magnificent performance, attended by the French and British social world. At the end of the second act Mme. Segond Weber came forward and read the following letter:

"I would pray the French to remember, as we in England remember, that the true relations between our countries rest, not on the words men, that come and go, but upon the facts of our past and the necessities of our future. In the immediate past the two lands together have had to deal with a world which lay outside and below humanity—a world in whose existence men did not formerly believe. In the future they will, equally have to guard against the return and the recognition of that world and all that it implies."

"Ours has been an experience burnt into our souls in both countries, which neither the interests of our enemies nor the presumption of doctrinaires can persuade us to dismiss as an incident unrelated to every aspect of our national lives and policies henceforward. The bulk of the people of England feel this, I believe, more and more as the revealing years pass, and they perceive how they have been defrauded of justice and security and committed to policies without foundations in life or in reason.—Rudyard Kipling."

REBATES ON PREMIUMS CONTRARY TO THE LAW

Judge Mulligan Dismisses Action Against H. H. Swan.

Ottawa, July 13.—Holding that rebates on insurance premiums was contrary to law, Judge Mulligan dismissed an action taken by the Ottawa Lumberman's Credit Bureau against its former secretary-treasurer, H. H. Swan, now resident of the United States. The Credit Bureau claimed $665 office rent from its former employee. Part of the agreement between them was that Swan was to rebate to them, in the form of dues to the association, any profits he might make on premiums from insurance business placed by members of the association with him.

One Irish Government Act.

(New Freeman)

By means of the ballast, and in a perfectly free manner, the Irish people recently, in the areas in which the elections were held, expressed themselves in no uncertain manner on the great national issue of the Anglo-Irish Treaty. By their vote they overruled the purely negative position of Mr. de Valera and his following and gave to the Provisional Government, headed by Hon. Michael Collins and Hon. Arthur Griffith, an unqualified mandate to govern and to put into effect, in their behalf, the provisions of the pact made between Ireland and Great Britain.

This mandate of the Irish people has been challenged by a small minority who by force of arms, seek to embarrass and to destroy that government which exists by and through the freely expressed wishes of the Irish people. In other words, Ireland, today, has a properly elected and constructed government which is challenged by an armed minority. It is the issue of properly constituted authority against anarchy, nothing else. As such, conciliatory measures having failed the government has resorted to the only course left, that of armed force and, in comparison, severe fighting has taken place in Dublin. There have been lives lost on both sides and the destruction of property has been heavy.

The guilt does not lie on the heads of the Government. It had no choice in the matter. Its authority challenged it could make but one answer or else cease to even make a pretence at governing. But it is upon the heads of those who are, today, leading a body of young men in a course diametrically opposed to the interests of the Irish nation and the expressed wishes of the Irish people that the guilt must fall for the tragedy now drawing to its close in Dublin.

A government must govern or cease to exist; lives and the liberty and property rights and vested interests must be protected—and by force if necessary. Any doubt as to the wishes of the Irish people on the great issue of the Treaty has been dispelled by the election and to think that a body of men could barricade themselves in public buildings and defy the government, which is the Irish people, is deplorable. The people will prevail, and are prevailing. It is Ireland, on the one hand, and a small minority of misled individuals on the other.

CONSTRUCTION IN MANITOBA ALMOST ON PRE-WAR BASIS

New Wage Schedules Show Reductions of 8 to 10 Per Cent

Home Building Aided—Winnipeg Housing Commission's Supervision Results in Better Types of Dwellings Being Erected.

Winnipeg, July 12.—During the first six months of the present year Manitoba has experienced a decided boom in building, and the prospects are that the construction and allied trades in this province will have, during 1922, a year of activity unsurpassed by any year since the outbreak of the world war in 1914.

During the war years and the era of high prices in building materials that prevailed during subsequent years, operations in this line in Manitoba were more or less at a standstill, and the work was confined to that which was absolutely necessary. With the establishment of a new level in the price of material and the readjustment of the cost of labor a decided impetus was given to the industry from the opening of the building season this year.

Wage questions for a time threatened to hold up many undertakings, and a dispute between the contractors and the bricklayers caused many of that trade to migrate to eastern Canada and the United States. New wage schedules which show reductions from eight to twelve per cent, recently have been completed and the prospects are bright for increased activity during the balance of the season.

with the ever growing demand for more schools. Each year Winnipeg is confronted with the problem of finding additional school accommodation and the expenditure for the present season will be approximately $2,000,000.

Many Houses for Owners. Another important phase of the construction programme in the urban districts of the province is the number of residences being built for occupation by the owners. Of the 1,850 building permits issued in Winnipeg for the first six months of the year, 820 were for dwellings ranging from a modest bungalow costing $1,400 to more pretentious homes costing $12,000 to $18,000, the average cost being in the vicinity of $7,000.

Winnipeg, or more practically speaking Greater Winnipeg, which includes the city of St. Boniface, east of the Red River, the suburbs of Kildonan, Fort Garry, St. James and St. Vital, is rapidly passing from the house building stage into an era of home building. The average citizen of today, living in this community is particularly averse to liv-

SAY BOY WAS DIPPED INTO HOT WATER

Police Court Case Against James Cameron—Declares He Did Not Mean to Hurt Louis Bishara.

A case against James Cameron, charged with aggravated assault on Louis Bishara, aged about nine or ten years, by putting him in hot water and scalding his back, was taken up today. W. M. Ryan appeared for the prosecution and Miles B. Innes for the defence. Cameron consented to accept the jurisdiction of the sitting magistrate to try the case. He said he had not intended to hurt the boy as he did not know the water was hot. He was just having a joke with the lad, he said, and would not purposely hurt him. For the purpose of the case a plea of not guilty was entered.

Charles Williams said he was fourteen years of age and lived at 73 Erin street. He knew the defendant, and also the boy, Louis Bishara. He told of going through Christie's Erin street mill, where the defendant was working, yesterday afternoon with his brother, Abbie Williams and Louis Bishara, on their way to play ball. They saw Cameron in there, he said, and as they went through he caught young Bishara carrying him over to a pool of water and holding him so that his back was in the water about one inch. Bishara screamed and asked Cameron to let him up as he was burning and he—witness—also cried that Bishara was burning. The defendant then took him out and said he was sorry if he had hurt him, he said, but he had thought the water was so hot. The water was steaming, he said. He accompanied Louis to his home. On cross-examination he said that Cameron was in the habit of playing with the young lads but that he had never before hurt anyone.

Mrs. George Bishara testified that she was the mother of the injured boy. She said there was a scalded spot about six inches in diameter on his back. She called a doctor.

The case was postponed until this afternoon in order that the evidence of George Bishara and the doctor could be taken.

In the police court this morning, three men charged with being drunk pleaded guilty and were fined $5 or two months.

WILL PLOUGH THE SEA ONCE MORE

Schooner Ada A. McIntyre to be Taken to Meteghan for Thorough Repairs.

After an adventurous career, which included stranding on Point Pringle, Grand Manan, and breaking away from her moorings in Market Slip, the schooner Ada A. McIntyre is to be put into complete repairs to the vessel yesterday. She is being strengthened enough so that she can be towed to Meteghan where complete repairs will be carried out this summer. Although the vessel was badly damaged when she struck the reef this spring, it is believed she can be made staunch again. She has been lying in the Market Slip since she was towed here, and the water filled her with each high tide, and with low tide she was high and dry. Soon after the vessel was brought here, an examination was made by Captain J. J. Mulcahy and others, and their report has already been published. In the meantime the matter of insurance has been settled, and Mr. McIntyre expects to have a vessel that will again be a source of pride to the port of St. John.

OLD SEMINARY FOR ST. MARTIN'S SCHOOL

At a meeting of the ratepayers of St. Martin's a short time ago, it was decided to take over the old Baptist seminary there, which has been vacant for some time, for use as a public school. The matter of consolidation of the schools of the district was set over for a time. It was understood that the purchase price would be $6,000 and the trustees were given the power to borrow $15,000 and to issue bonds of $500 denomination. The alterations to the building are being pushed forward so that it will be ready for the opening of the next term. An offer of $2,000 for a part of the seminary building not required for the school was accepted. It was decided that the land on which the old school stood should be sold by auction. E. Vaughan, W. B. Bentley and T. Nugent were appointed auditors for the building. At the annual meeting of the ratepayers on Monday J. A. Howard was re-elected as trustee.

FIRE PROTECTION FOR BEACONSFIELD

balance of the cost held at city hall would be carefully guarded.

To the mayor, Mr. Collins said the insurance rate was seventy-five cents. Mr. Maxwell said the people were willing to pay their share of the cost of protection by city equipment.

The mayor said there were some matters to be considered with East St. John. He said sooner or later a station must be built around the west side docks and the present stations might be used to protect the high levels and Beaconsfield.

On motion of Commissioner Frink, it was decided to negotiate the matter of fire protection with representatives of Beaconsfield.

Commissioner Wigmore said that repairs were being made to leaks in the new concrete main, and it was expected they would be completed on Saturday.

He said that the pressure on the mains would not be increased until the service was turned in through the new main.

All the commissioners spoke favorably to the suggestion of the Beaconsfield people.

Mr. Collins said the feeling in Beaconsfield for union with the city had grown recently, and the action of the city in connection with fire protection would strengthen the feeling.

Building Matter.
W. E. A. Lawton, referring to his request for a permit for the remodeling of a building in Union street, said he went before the board of fire underwriters and received a letter from that body saying that the change would not affect the fire insurance rate in the district. He said it was planned to reduce the building from a 2-1-2 story structure with peaked roof to a two-story building with a flat roof.

The mayor said there was no doubt that the building law was obsolete. Commissioner Thornton said the law prohibited the building or remodeling of a wooden building in No. 1 fire district. He suggested that Mr. Lawton submit plans to the building inspector with an application for a two-story building as the previous plans had called for a three-story structure. This was agreed to.

Commissioner Frink reported that he had granted to H. O. Clark permission to erect an office on city land for the extension of a school in West St. John, removal to be subject to the will of the common council.

To Commissioner Frink, Commissioner Wigmore said he had cut through a building in Union street in order to make connection between the old and new pipe through King square, but would stop there until the fall.

To Mr. Thornton, Commissioner Frink said that the pavement of Prince William street would be started as soon as new mounds in King square in the street. He understood they were shipped on June 25.

Frank E. Shea, 226 Princess street, wrote asking that the city allow a deposit of $50, made on two lots in Lancaster be apply on his tax bill. It was decided to comply with the request.

W. E. Beatty, Union Ice Co., asked the privilege of outfitting 15 or 20 spruce poles on the Fair Farm, Spruce Lake, and agreed to pay reasonable stumpage rates. The matter was referred to Commissioner Wigmore with power to act.

Commissioner Thornton was authorized to call for tenders for the painting of the southern side of the exhibition building, Haymarket Square Paving.

Tenders for the paving of Haymarket Square from Cooper's corner to City road on one side and to Prince Edward street on the other were received and referred to Commissioner Frink and the road engineer for report. They were from the Stephen Construction Co. and B. Mooney & Sons, as follows:—

Employment Service Council.
The Trades and Labor Council wrote, recommending the appointment of F. S. A. McMullin and William Ely as representatives of labor on the employment service council. The names recommended by Kenneth Christie, maritime clearance officer, were L. W. Simms, William Vassie, Roy Willett, G. R. Melvin, F. S. A. McMullin, John Flood, a woman to be selected by the Women's Council, and a chairman to be selected by the other members. Mr. Melvin was present and explained that Mr. Ely would take his place on the board. It was decided to accept the recommendation of the trades and labor council, the other members to be decided upon later.

A report was received from the recorder regarding the application of the Union Foundry & Machine Co. to erect a crane in Union street, west, for the unloading of cars, in which he said that, if the city refrained from interference in the matter and the company erected the structure, the city could not hold liable should an accident occur. On motion of Commissioner Frink it was decided to take no action.

Liberal Organizer, However, Says Elections Not Till Fall.

Reets With Premier to Fix Dates for Interim By-elections—Leader of Opposition Said to be After Alliance with Nationalists and Farmers.

Montreal, July 13.—The political plot is beginning to seethe in Quebec province, with prospects of an early provincial election. Arthur Sauve, leader of the opposition, has already embarked on an extensive platform campaign, but so far the Taschereau government has not committed itself to any definite statement as to the future nor is taking any steps to answer the attacks of Mr. Sauve.

Interviewed here this week Premier Taschereau said there would be a Liberal convention in Labelle county some time next week to choose a Liberal candidate to contest the constituency made vacant by the appointment of the sitting member, Honore Achim, to the bench.

As to the holding of by-elections, he said that it was up to the premier to fix the dates for these. There are seven seats vacant in the province, Sherbrooke, Beauce, Chamby, Labelle, Napierville, Rouville and St. Hyacinthe.

MANUFACTURERS AND PROHIBITION

Fifteen Hundred Almost Unanimous in Its Praise—No Turning Back.

To The Editor of the New York Evening Post:

Sir:—How rapidly history is being written during these stirring times in which we live! For instance, what a tremendous power in the American political world was that noxious institution known commonly as the saloon as recently as twenty years ago. Now all that has passed away. The saloon not only is legally declared to be an outlaw but it is left utterly without friends. There are none so kind as to do it reverence or drop a tear of regret on its unwelcome remains. Everybody appears to be pleased with its demise. All classes say hard things of it, speak of it as a curse and nuisance. Even those who plead for the sale of beer and wine declare that they do not want the saloon back. And yet, in those days of its glory, what a swaggering, insolent, remorseless depot it was!

It is not a pleasant sight to see intelligent people in the main fair citizens, insisting that the sale of beer and wine be legalized again. It looks very much like lifting a selfish indulgence above the common good of the whole community. The purpose of any government is the greatest good for the greatest number, the sacrifice of personal preferences for the well being of the people generally. All of this talk about individual rights and personal liberty is lost in the larger welfare of the whole. When our liberty clashes with the general well being of the community, liberty is counted out. To illustrate this, what has become of the personal liberty of the distiller, the brewer, and the saloonkeeper? What about the personal liberty of the thief, the burglar, the brigand, the highwayman, the bootlegger, and the gangster? We can readily see that there must be a limitation on all personal liberty where it conflicts with the common good. This covers the sale of beer and wine.

There can be no serious question as regards the benefits of prohibition already visible, despite its partial and imperfect enforcement. It was reasonable to expect all manner of difficulty in the early stages of its enforcement. Such an enormous and powerful traffic does not die without a struggle. And yet this new law is already about as well enforced as are the laws against robbery, burglary, and murder. And every passing year its enforcement will be more thorough. The Manufacturers' Record of Baltimore communicated with a large number of leading manufacturers in all parts of the country asking their opinion of prohibition. Of the fifteen hundred replies received these captains of industry are almost unanimous in their praise of prohibition. Their employees are more regular and dependable, do more and better work, and their families are more comfortable and happy. We get the same line of testimony from church organizations, saloonkeepers, savings banks, Salvation Army officers, and others. What can these wine and beer men put up against this expert testimony?

If the sale of wine and beer is legalized, there must be some place to sell it. That place at once becomes the saloon. In the days of the saloon's power it was generally conceded to be a trade show on conscience and honor. It paid little attention to our laws. Thousands of saloons with only a beer license like whiskey. It is likely that they would do so again. So we should be back where we started.

I would that everybody would write the Manufacturers' Record, Baltimore, Md., for its fifty-cent pamphlet on the prohibition question. It should have a wide distribution.

FIFTEEN MINUTES OF RADIO EACH DAY

By Edward N. Davis Formerly Technical Electrical Expert For U. S. Government

Lesson No. 51 REVIEW

Detection Circuit for the Vacuum Tube

The vacuum tube as a detector exercises the important function of rectifying oscillations of radio frequency which have been intercepted by the antenna and inductively or conductively impressed upon the secondary circuit. The grid element in the tube, through its control of the electron flow between filament and plate, causes a fluctuation of the plate current and consequent variation of the telephone current which results in the reception of audible signals.

Electric waves may be divided into two classes: continuous or undamped waves of constant amplitude, and discontinuous or damped waves whose oscillations have decreasing amplitude. The wave length may be expressed as the distance between the points of two successive waves where the energy is at a maximum or a minimum.

Spark Discharge

A spark discharge in the closed oscillatory circuit of a spark transmitter sets up radio-frequency oscillations of decreasing amplitude. When the condenser alternately charges and discharges across the spark gap, the resultant group of oscillations is damped by the extraction of energy. A minimum number of 28 complete oscillations is necessary for a single spark discharge in order to conform to the governmental regulations.

The Radiation of Electric Waves

Electric waves radiated in all directions from the aerial of the transmitting station are intercepted by receiving antennae, but continue with practically undiminished energy. Powerful transmitting stations used in transoceanic communications have aerials so designed and geographically located as to transmit the strongest waves in the direction of the receiving stations with which communication is carried on.

The Coil Aerial

The coil aerial has valuable directional properties both in the transmission and reception of electrical waves. It may be used as a direction finder, and is capable of receiving signals from long distances when connected to very sensitive amplifiers.

Static Electricity

The interference of static charges of electricity with sensitive receiving sets is often so pronounced during the warm summer months as to entirely prevent the reception of radio signals. Small static charges accumulate into a gigantic charge which breaks down the gap between cloud and ground and results in the lightning flash with its millions of volts potential.

ENTERTAINING PASSENGERS BY RADIO

Several hundred Cornell students on their way to New York City received a musical programme by wireless riding on a special train of the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western R. R. The radio apparatus was mounted in one of the cars and while speeding over the rails received the special musical sent out by the General Electric Co. from Schenectady. This is believed to be the first instance of utilizing the radio waves from a broadcasting station for the entertainment of passengers.

COMPROMISE ON LUMBER FIRE IS BELIEVED SET

Balance in Favor of Removal in Speech-making in Lords, but the Vote Uncertain.

London, July 13.—So far as the debate in the House of Lords yesterday on the Canadian cattle embargo was concerned, the balance was on the side of the opponents of the embargo. Speeches, however, often afford little indication of the vote. A speech by Lord Hiers at the end of the debate seems to indicate that an attempt at compromise will be made, and it is thought in some quarters that he may virtually be acting on behalf of the government.

Lord Lincolnshire seemed to have some anticipations of a proposal along the lines enumerated by Lord Hiers, for he roundly declared that the opponents of the embargo would not be assisted with any arguments. Opponents of the embargo may congratulate themselves on having the powerful support of the lord chancellor.

CURE FOR STAMMERING

Physician Gives Simple Remedy for Stammering

London, June 28.—(By mail)—Dr. V. E. Sorapire, of Wimpole street, describes, in the current issue of the Lancet a cure for stammering.

The patient, he says, should be placed in a position of complete muscular relaxation; by reassurance, his mind is relieved of the fear of failure and any disturbing elements he is then taught to breathe deeply and rhythmically, using his diaphragm only.

When this has been accomplished and his emotional state is well under control, he is required to repeat sentences during expiration only. The sentences are gradually increased in length, and, as punctuation becomes necessary, he is taught how to take advantage of the pauses for the purpose of expiration, so that phonation may always be accomplished on a full, outflowing column of air.

The method is very simple, needing only great patience and some little experience in dealing with habit spasms and emotional states generally.

WHERE LABOR IS 30 CENTS A DAY

Head of Japanese Oil Works in Canada—Empress of Britain at Quebec.

Quebec, July 13.—The Canadian Pacific 15,850-ton Empress of Britain, Captain J. Turnbull, with a large list of passengers, docked at 9:25 o'clock yesterday morning, and one hour later the saloon and second cabin passengers were on their way by a special C. P. R. train to their western destinations.

Among the prominent saloon passengers were Mr. and Mrs. J. Furusawa, Tokyo, Japan. Mr. Furusawa, who is returning after a tour by the Canadian Pacific system over the world. He said the oil mills, which manufacture vegetable oils supplied the markets in the United States, Canada and England.

They employed more than 1,000 Chinese laborers, to whom they paid on an average of thirty cents a day, in comparison to Canadian money, for a ten-hour day, and paid as much as seventy cents a day to skilled labor, and that thirty cents, in comparison to Canadian currency, was equal in purchasing power to $1 in Canadian money.

The Empress brought 1,080 tons of general cargo, mostly in small packages, and 800 bags of mail. The third-class passengers included a party of farmers' families comprising thirty people, who came out under the auspices of the Yukon Army and are to settle in the west. The immigrants who arrived are all British and a splendid aggregation of the farmer class destined for settlement in the prairie provinces.

AN EXPLANATION OF COST OF COAL

Mayor McLellan has collected a large fund of information from local coal dealers regarding a comparison in the price of coal between the years 1918 and 1922. On account of the fact that freight and exchange rates had dropped considerably since that time, it was not understood why the coal prices here should be at practically the same level.

The mayor said today that he had ascertained that there was a difference of only forty-six cents in the cost of landing a ton of coal here in 1918 and the present time.

It was explained by one dealer that, whereas the freight rates in 1918 were between $6 and $7.50 a ton, the cost of coal f. o. b. schooners in New York was about $11 now as compared with $6.35 in 1918. The rate of exchange in 1918 was 2 1/2 per cent, but was figured on the $6.35 cost, while the rate of 1 1/2 per cent was on the $11. In addition, much of the coal for delivery now was purchased in fall and winter when the rate was twelve to fourteen per cent.

Moreover, it was explained that while the freight rates now were $1.25 a ton, there was an additional fifty cents a ton for discharging which was included in the transportation charges in 1918.

The cartage costs were also higher now, it was claimed, and the wages paid to teamsters were $6 more than in 1918, and the cost of hay had increased from $20 to $28 a ton.

THE PREMIER AT WASHINGTON

Washington, July 13.—Early consummation of a treaty resting in more modern terms and giving permanent form to the essential principles of the century-old Rush-Bagot agreement for restriction of armament on the Great Lakes and the St. Lawrence River was looked for today following a conference at the state department between Premier King of Canada and Secretary of State Hughes.

Mr. King said the negotiations were proposed by the Canadian government at this time in view of the "important strides" of the world disarmament.

The Canadian ministers, the statement added, expressed themselves as "well pleased with the sympathetic manner in which their representations were received by Secretary Hughes," and they understood that formal negotiations would proceed by correspondence.

The agreement which the proposed new treaty would modernize having now all the force of an international convention although not drawn in treaty form, was proclaimed by President Monroe in 1818, after having been ratified by the senate.

THE RAILWAY REVENUES LESS

Report on the Canadian Lines for the Month of April.

Ottawa, July 13.—(Canadian Press)—The most prominent feature of the report of Canadian railways as a whole, for April, is the sharp decline in revenues from March, declares the monthly statement of the dominion bureau of statistics. This was due almost entirely to seasonal decrease in freight traffic, although the decrease was much greater for other 1921 or 1920.

Canadian National Railways showed a decrease of $1,491,092 or sixteen per cent, in total revenue compared with April 1921. This was due to decreases in rates, and also to decreases in freight and passenger traffic. The decrease in freight traffic from March was much greater this year than last, being thirty-eight per cent, for 1922, as compared with twenty-two per cent, for 1921. The operating loss was $1,249,516 for the month, as compared with $2,456,899 for April 1921.

The C. P. R., says the statement, showed a decline of 10.5 per cent, in revenues and a reduction of 3.5 per cent, in operating expenses, which increased the operating ratio from 81.09 per cent, for April 1921, to 87.37 per cent, for April 1922.

The Grand Trunk showed an increase in passenger revenues over both April 1921 and March of the present year, but freight revenues decreased. Total revenues decreased $774,971 or 13.6 per cent, from April 1921 while expenses were reduced $607,400 or 13.2 per cent, giving an operating ratio of 93.76 per cent, compared with 93.27 per cent, for April 1921.

The operating ratio on all railways for the month was 85.51 per cent, as compared with 96.25 per cent, for April 1921.

MONCTON SHUT OUT BY AMHERST

Amherst, N. S., July 13.—Amherst shutout Moncton last night 4 to 0, and had the game well in hand after the third inning. Spectacular catches by MacManus, Cranion and "Red" Stuart were the principal features, with Brownell's long throw, which put two Amherst runners over the bases. Barkhouse, Amherst pitcher, allowed four scattered hits, three of them mere scratches. The locals had eight hits of MacLellan.

The line up was: Amherst—MacDonald, 2b.; Cranion, 1b.; Brownell, c.; Stuart, 1f.; Collins, cf.; Barkhouse, 3b.; Chisholm, 1b.; Grimley, ss.; MacManus, p.

Moncton—MacManus, ss.; MacNiece, 3b.; Cummings, c.; Dickie, 1b.; Walsh, 1f.; MacLellan, p.; Godfrey, cf.; Stewart, 1f.; Humphrey, 2b.

IN WALL STREET

New York, July 13.—(10:30)—Apart from a few selected issues, in which higher prices ruled, the market responded to the usual opening of today's stock market. Overnight developments suggesting an early settlement of the railroad strike and the further reduction of the discount rate by the Bank of England exerted no perceptible influence in speculative quarters. B. and O. and Southern Railway preferred forfeited large fractions. Mexican Seaboard issues made their initial appearance on the exchange. Trading in the regular shares and certificates was fairly active at moderate changes.

Noon Report

New York, July 13.—(noon)—Shorts became aggressive within the first hour on the failure of the market to respond to good news. Their efforts centered mainly in the oils, Mexican Petroleum, reaching 41.2 points on revival of "salt water" rumors. Selling below 100, Mexican Petroleum showed a cancellation of the greater part of its June advance. Pan-American, Mexican Seaboard, General Asphalt, Standard Oils of California and New Jersey and Pacific, Sinclair and Houston Oils, also fell to two points. In the general list, including popular industrial and specialties, dealings were light and narrow. Call money opened at 8 1/4 per cent.

NEW BRUNSWICK AGRICULTURE MAKES STEADY PROGRESS

Ottawa, July 12—Interesting facts regarding the development of the industry of agriculture in New Brunswick are contained in the Agricultural Gazette of Canada for July and August just issued.

It points out that to meet the expenses of supplying information and education to the farming community of that province there has been an average appropriation during the last nine years of $82,712.46 and a total of $744,412.19 has been granted by the provincial government.

The federal agricultural instruction grant has been used to supplement this work as well as to develop some new lines of endeavor. The total expended from this subsidy to March 31, 1922, was $224,420.89.

Dealing with the dairy industry, O. C. Hicks, B. S. A., says in the Gazette: "A reconstruction period in the dairy industry in the province has been in progress. The small creamery is passing and the new era has brought the centralized creamery in its place."

"There are now three large co-operatively owned creameries operating. One is situated at St. Hilare, one at Moncton, and one at Fredericton. The amounts paid to patrons of those creameries for the last year were $24,939.93; $12,995.92, and $60,918.10 respectively.

The cheese industry has so strengthened under a system of factory inspection, grading, and marketing of the product, that New Brunswick cheese is now sold on its merits in competition with the best of Canadian cheese."

Progress is also reported in the live stock industry, poultry, soils and drainage, horticulture, bee-keeping, the extension of women's institutes, and elementary agricultural education.

BIG PARADE AT WOODSTOCK FETE DECIDED SUCCESS

Woodstock, July 12—True to past records, Woodstock's first day of the mid-summer carnival was a pronounced success. A blue sky and pleasant sunshine were Nature's contribution to the big event. It was evident that the opening programme made a deep impression on the thousands of strangers, and many were the complimentary expressions made on the enterprises and attractions offered for a day of pleasure and recreation.

At 10.30 in the morning the big parade turned into Main street from the starting point with Col. F. H. J. Dibblee, the veteran, on his charger in the lead, followed by the Woodstock band, floats, gaily decorated automobiles, bicycles, Polomorphians and numerous characters on foot. Every country was represented from Fiji Islands to the North pole, all showing the wonderful spirit of the promoters mingled with local patriotism in an effort to carry out successfully the ambitious plans to make the carnival a success.

The judges had difficulty in awarding the prizes on account of dealing with features that were all good. However, they did the work assigned them to the general satisfaction of everybody with, of course, some feelings of disappointment from those who did not win.

MONTREAL FACES THREAT OF STRIKE BY CIVIC SERVICES

The awards were as follows:—Best trimmed float, first, soldiers and nurses; second, four different eras or styles. Best trimmed automobile—First, automobile with yellow flowers, Mrs. G. H. Dent; second, automobiles decorated with ferns and daisies, Mrs. H. Stevens. Best business float—J. Clark and Sons, trimmed automobile.

Best bicycles—Judges, unable to decide, recommended prizes of $5 to Victor Thompson and $5 to Frank Johnson. Most original—First, "Bunny" Dent's diving girls, Roaring Brook farm; second, Polomorphians, the grey ghost.

The judges issued the following statement:—The judges take great pleasure in complimenting each participant in the parade, which was one of the best it has been our pleasure to witness and would do credit to a large city.

Use the Want Ad. Way

Montreal, July 12—Montreal is threatened with a general strike of all municipal employees, including policemen, firemen, aqueduct workers, incinerator employees and all the clerks at the city hall.

A resolution, amounting in effect to an ultimatum, was unanimously carried this afternoon and evening at mass meetings of the federation of municipal employees. It calls upon the executive committee of the city council to give their immediate attention to "the grievances" of the civic employees and this resolution will be presented at the meeting of the city council tomorrow afternoon.

If a favorable answer is not received a secret strike ballot will be taken, at which if a two-thirds vote carries the proposal, a strike will be called within twenty-four hours.

The "grievances" are connected with wages and working conditions. Mayor Martin, interviewed on the matter tonight, said that if the police and firemen struck, "there is only one thing to be done—call out the militia."

CHARACTERIZE THE IRISH TREATY AS "BASE DESERTION"

Toronto, July 12—At the conclusion of a twelfth of July procession here in which nearly 8,000 members of the Orange order took part today, the 118 lodges assembled adopted a resolution, copies of which are to be cabled to Sir James Craig, leader of the Ulster parliament, and to Premier Lloyd George. It read as follows:

"That we view with dismay and disapproval the betrayal by the British government of the loyal inhabitants of Ireland under the Free State treaty, and reluctantly record the fact that such an act of base desertion is inimical to the best interests of the empire and tends to weaken the confidence of the self-governing dominions in the central authority and in its capacity to maintain the honor and prestige of British subjects.

"That we extend our sympathy to the loyalists of Ireland of every creed and station, and pledge ourselves to render them all assistance within our power in the splendid fight to maintain their position within the empire."

LAST EMPEROR OF AZTECS IN BRONZE

Eduardo Concha, a Celebrated Mexican Sculptor, Reproduces His Famous "Cuauhtemoc" for Brazil's Centennial.

(Marian Storm in New York Evening Post)

Pattern of courage and scorn, young leader of dead, unconquered warriors, last Emperor of Aztecs, Cuauhtemoc, nephew of Moctezuma, remains an epic figure, splendid amid the blood and gold of the Spanish siege of Tenochtitlan.

There he is a familiar sight. But to see his aristocratic, martial profile through the windows of the Tiffany shop, it must be a new experience.

The bronze, ready for shipment, will stand eighteen feet high, weighing 7,000 pounds. It must leave New York by August 15 in order to reach Brazil in time for the centennial celebrations in September.

Cuauhtemoc Tortured. After the Spaniards, with their strange weapons and their native allies — with splendid armor to oppose the white cotton breastplates of the Aztecs — had made Tenochtitlan a deadly city, Cuauhtemoc placed his family in a frail canoe and strove to get them to the lake shore through the enemy's brigantines.

TEN MILLION BUTTONS MADE That Number Manufactured in the United States Last Year.

(New York Times.) That the people of the United States pay an average of $100,000,000 a year for buttons and have sent $16,000,000 worth abroad since the beginning of the war is shown in a recent statement by the National City Bank of New York.

The history of the button industry in the United States, since the war cut off our principal source of foreign buttons, drawn chiefly from Germany and Austria-Hungary, is, continues the statement, "one of great activity both in home production and exportation. In the year before the war the value of the buttons turned out by our factories was $20,000,000, while a census statement recently announced shows the value of the output of our button factories in 1919, the latest census year, $43,000,000.

Try Doing Next Week's Washing with Rinsol

Find out for yourself why hundreds of thousands of women say that they could not face another wash day without it. The two easy steps below will save you hours of back-breaking rubbing.

First: For each tub of clothes dissolve a half a package of Rinsol into a little cool water until it is like thick cream, then stir in two quarts of boiling water. If the water is hard, or the clothes extra dirty, use more Rinsol.

Then, pour into tub—of cool or lukewarm water. Mix well. Keep adding the solution until you get a rich, lasting, soapy suds, even after the clothes have been put in. Do not pour the Rinsol direct from the package into the tub. Soak the clothes for one hour, two hours, overnight, or as long as convenient. Then rinse to remove the loosened dirt, until the water runs clear. Hang them out to dry.

There's no rubbing—no boiling. Rinsol is not a washing powder, but a scientific combination of pure cleansing materials that loosen and dissolve the dirt from even the heaviest pieces. It soaks clothes clean in a few hours without injury to a single fabric.

IF YOU USE A WASHING MACHINE Follow the regular directions given here. Soak the clothes. Then, before operating the machine, add fresh Rinsol solution using the same amount of Rinsol as you used for soaking. No other product is needed when Rinsol is used.

BISHOP'S APPEAL TO ATTEND CHURCH

Means Cutting Out Motor Trips and Golf During Hours of Service

Head of Diocese Refrains from Condemning Sunday Recreation, But Warns Against Neglect.

(Montreal Gazette)

An appeal to churchmen to regularly attend divine services on Sunday, even if it does entail abandonment of motor trips or golf games, is made by the Bishop of Montreal in his monthly message, which appears in the July issue of The Montreal Churchman, though Bishop Farthing abstains from any condemnation of such indulgences as such on the Sabbath, apart from interference with religious duties.

This message was so much appreciated by the Rev. Canon J. L. Flanagan, rector of the Church of the Ascension, that he read it to his congregation yesterday morning.

In part the message is as follows: "We want you to join with us in getting every available member to worship God on the Lord's Day. The Church will never be strong in her work until her members are regular and devout in their worship together. It means self-denial; but are we not called to self-denial? It means 'cutting out' the motor trip; it means 'knocking off' golf and tennis during the hours of service on Sunday."

"I am not pleading for a Puritan Sabbath. I am not asking that we should be the slaves of every unassailable crank, so that we must not do anything to which any one objects. I am asking that each one should put the worship of God first, and that we should do those things which will strengthen our influence for Christ. I do not say that any of these things I have named are wrong on Sundays; that must be left with the conscience of each one to judge for himself. I do say that when our pleasures, however innocent they may be in themselves, come between us and our worship of God, then they become to us hindrances and not helps. Surely we should arrange our motor trips, our walks and other pleasures, so that we can find time for the worship of God, who enables us to enjoy those pleasures. Untold harm is done to the Church and the work of Christ by those members who in the summer especially, both at home and at summer resorts, seek their pleasures and neglect the worship of God. I cannot help feeling that such persons injure themselves far more even than they do others, though they do cause others to stumble."

"I refrain from expressing an opinion here on Sunday amusements. I prefer that each should follow his own conscience before God. I ask you to help us by strengthening your Churches, and to do your part to develop the spiritual life of the Church, that her work in the world may be more effective to the helping of men."

RUM NAVY ON DUTY BUT THE PRICES DROP

Explanation of Anomaly is Hinted at Broadly.

New York, July 13.—When Prohibition Officer Major Hayes recently said his men had the liquor situation on the Detroit river well in hand, he said something the Wall Street Journal declares "The price of Canadian whiskey, instead of increasing with the addition of the 'rum navy,' went down about 35 cents."

"An explanation of this anomaly comes from river front habitues. They declare that before the 'rum navy' was placed on the river, U. S. customs agents set a price of $15 a case to wink at smuggled cargoes. But with the addition of the 'navy,' another corps of itching palms was added to the gaudier which rummers must run, and competition has reduced the price of a 'wink' to $10 a case. "The saying is thus passed on to the consumer and the enforcement officers are further credited with having the liquor situation 'well in hand.'"

VISCOUNT BIRKENHEAD MAY VISIT AMERICA

England's Lord Chancellor Expected to Reply Chief Justice Taft's Visit to England.

Viscount Birkenhead, the Lord Chancellor, may visit the United States in the near future. During the war Viscount Birkenhead, then Frederick E. Smith, the British Attorney General, made a trip to America.

It is said that the Lord Chancellor's visit would be mostly in the nature of a private sightseeing trip, but also would be a reciprocation of the present visit of Chief Justice Taft to Great Britain. While England has a Lord Chief Justice, the office resembles that of Mr. Taft only in name, the Lord Chancellor being the nearest British equivalent to the American office of Chief Justice.

At the dinner given in the Middle Temple Ambassador Harvey reminded Viscount Birkenhead that international courtesy would seem to require his giving the American bench and bar an opportunity to repay the kindness shown by Mr. Taft by visiting the United States.

The Lord Chancellor has since indicated that he is considering making the visit within the next six months, provided the pressure of his official duties permits him to leave England.

AMERICANS MURDERED BY TURKS SAYS KNAPP

Los Angeles Engineer Declares His Brother Was Killed by Shooting.

Americans are being secretly murdered by the Turks in Asia Minor, after which reports are circulated that they died of typhus and other diseases, according to J. Herbert Knapp, civil engineer, of Los Angeles, who has arrived in London from Constantinople, after three years in the Turkish interior. Mr. Knapp went to Turkey principally to investigate the death at Diarbekir of his brother, the late George P. Knapp, who, the Turks reported, had died suddenly of typhus. He declares that his own investigation, supported by affidavits on file with the American Consul at Bagdad, convinces him that his brother was executed by shooting.

"The Turks hated my brother," said Mr. Knapp, "because he knew too much about the massacre of Christians which was then in progress. I believe also that Miss Annie Allen of Athurdale, Mass., Miss Charlotte Ely of Elmira, N. Y., and other Americans who died in Turkey recently met their deaths at the hands of the Turks, although in each case it was made to appear that death was due to natural causes."

"I am certain that the American gov-

H. C. HOCKEN ON SCHOOL QUESTION

July 12 Challenge to Catholics in Ontario to Submit Matter to Vote.

St. Thomas, Ont., July 13.—Hurling a challenge to the Roman Catholic hierarchy of Ontario to take the question of separate high schools in the province to a vote of the people, H. C. Hocken, immediate past grand master of the Royal Orange Lodge, in Pinaford Park yesterday afternoon declared that he was willing to accept such a verdict as final.

Mr. Hocken declared that if the Roman Catholic hierarchy did not bow in its agitation for further concessions their church would lose the privileges now enjoyed and separate schools would be in danger.

"We believe all children of Canada should be brought up together," he began, "Roman Catholic beside Protestant. It will further national unity, as they will have confidence in each other later as citizens. The Orange organization is pledged to support action against those who would put sectarian education on a level with public education, which is not fair."

CHANGELISS WEAVING. Methods Have Remained the Same From Early Days of the Art.

(New York Times.)

With all the improvements that the Twentieth Century has brought in almost every line of production, tapestry weaving has not changed for several hundred years. "Modern tapestries are produced in exactly the same manner as medieval ones," said E. Woeller, a representative of the Societa Anonima Schmidt, tapestry weavers of Milan, Italy, who was recently staying at the Pennsylvania Hotel.

"There has been no improvement since the Twelfth Century. There are two methods of weaving tapestry, the high-warp as employed in the production of the famous Gobelin tapestries, and the low-warp used in the Beauvais. In the first case the worker sits at his work and in the other he bends over it, but in each the method of weaving is the same."

In the story of the competition between Minerva and Arachne, as told by Ovid, there appears to be a description of this kind of weaving, and there are specimens which date back to the Second Century, which seem to corroborate this. From the Fifth Century on, monasteries and nunneries became the centers of activity for the weaving industry. Then craft guilds were formed in England and France, and the Weavers' Guild of London was chartered by Henry

"It is from the Twelfth Century that some of the most interesting tapestries come. The renaissance in art and literature also brought with it the revival of tapestry weavings. The art grew more skillful as time went on, and the tapestries of the Fourteenth and Fifteenth Centuries are of a high order of excellence. Tapestries were woven for all important Court occasions. One of the most beautiful is that made in the Sixteenth Century to commemorate the marriage of Henry II. and Catherine de Medici.

"In the Sixteenth Century the weavers of tapestry in Belgium were obliged to mark their work, and this also became the law for Flemish and French weavers. This has enabled us to identify some of the finest of the old productions. Among the most magnificent tapestries of the world were those in the Cathedral of Rheims. The tapestries, I believe, were removed to safety before the destruction of the Cathedral.

"There are some marvelous tapestries in the Louvre at Paris and in the Royal Palace at Turin, Italy. The palace at Madrid has one of the largest and most beautiful collections in Europe, there being more than a thousand pieces in the group.

"So in our modern tapestries today we use the same sort of looms and proceed in exactly the same manner as they did in the Middle Ages, when the art of tapestry weaving was brought to its highest perfection."

U. S. METHODISTS AND PROHIBITION

The following statement concerning the working of the prohibition law has been unanimously adopted by the convention and decision of the bishops of the Methodist Episcopal Church of the United States and has been made public by Bishop L. B. Wilson. "The bishops of the Methodist Episcopal Church have noted the present discussion of the Volstead act and the Eighteenth Amendment to our Constitution given our industrial life an advantage recognized by economists everywhere.

WOMEN AND WORDS. Small Talk and Quick Talk a Female Specialty, Says Linguist.

(London Times) According to one of the chief living authorities on linguistics, Professor Jespersen of Copenhagen, the speech of women can be differentiated in several ways from that of men. Women, he notes, are quicker to understand, quicker to utter what is in their minds, and quicker to answer than men; they confine themselves, as a rule, to the more ordinary words in the language, and avoid the recondite and the new; but at the same time they are given to leaving their sentences unfinished and they are habitually voluble. The causes of this difference between the speech of the talk of the two sexes lie far back in the occupational history of each; but recent social changes are now in process, and Professor Jespersen thinks they modify present contrasts.

One such change, among educated circles at least, is perhaps already observable. In the political field Helen is no longer, as she used to be, on the walls watching the combat. She has taken arms herself, and a consequence of this action is that conversation, as it is formerly understood, seems to be in danger of becoming a lost art. Over the inextinguishable discussion tends to be more and more of things, policies, wisecracks, and less of human character and human motives. There was a time when our fathers did not debate politics or the law with their womenfolk; nevertheless they listened attentively when their womenfolk chose to talk of the men and manners of the day. They understood that her detachment from the actual struggle gave woman a position to which man could not aspire. She spoke, in a sense, for the future; in another sense her praise or blame amounted to a re-estimation of character in terms of values more enduring than political exigency. It was this detachment of women which made small-talk both interesting and considerable.

No man of any importance could escape its acid purge; bluntness or bombast withered quickly under it. The place hunter, the crafty fellow, the mere babler soon found their level among the dames whose quick eyes discerned the man under the actor's cloak. Now if women still, in her heart, discern the man she does not give him away, for she is committed to a party, a policy, which is his party, his policy. Argument has taken the place of epigram; the brilliance, the sparkle are gone. The change may make it safer for pretenders than in the old days—a rather ungalant conclusion, perhaps, but ore, it is to be hoped, of only temporary validity.

WHEN ROWING WAS POPULAR IN FREDERICTON

A. R. Wetmore Recalls Old-Time Crews and Oarsmen—Pleased With Revival of Interest.

The fact that three Fredericton boys have obtained shells and intend to enter the rowing game caused A. R. Wetmore, chief engineer of the public works department, who was in the city for a few hours yesterday while returning from Moncton to Fredericton, to recall the palmy days of his boyhood when sculling and rowing provided one of the favorite sports.

He told of some of the exciting races that were held on the St. John river at Fredericton thirty and forty years ago, and of the doleful days that took place between Fredericton oarsmen and some of the famous oarsmen from St. John.

DEMPESEY LEAVES MONTREAL FOR THE LOWER PROVINCES

Jack Dempsey, heavyweight champion of the world, left Montreal this morning accompanied by a group of other athletic stars. Some of the foremost boxers in the world are in the Dempsey party, as well as two of the world's greatest wrestlers.

Accompanying the champion to the maritime provinces, which will be the commencing point of a Canadian tour, are Stanislaus Zyzanski, George Walker, heavyweight wrestling champion of Canada; Bernondsey Bill Wells, welterweight champion of the British Empire; Frankie Fleming, feather and light-weight champion of Canada; Frankie Nelson, New York featherweight; Jack "Kid" Thomas, Canadian welterweight; Larry Williams and Jack Renault, sparring partners of Dempsey.

SCULPTOR'S GOLF MODEL

In the window of Creary's store on Charlotte street there is shown a replica of the famous golfing statuette by Petrucci, the Italian sculptor. The pose for this work of art was made by an English amateur champion of world-wide reputation, and the gentleman was wearing at the time an "English golfer" suit tailored by the Semi-ready Company of Montreal and Bradford, Eng.

TURN need into Demand

HUNGER seeks food; thirst calls for drinks; fatigue requires a place to rest; labor must be eased by recreation. Human nature and human wants create demand. If you can do your share in filling it, tell people so. Turn universal need into demand for your particular product.

Through the Daily Newspapers give the people the news about your goods. Make it part of the daily life of Canada.

"Newspaper advertising," says the Ames Holden McCready Co., Ltd., "is as necessary to the successful distribution of a trade-marked piece of merchandise as food, raiment and shelter are to the well-being of the individual."

"Newspaper advertising nourishes the product; it clothes it with reputation, integrity and respectability; and it protects it from the storms of competition and the inroads of goods of questionable parentage."

The human demand for news has created a unit of daily newspaper circulation for every family in Canada and has left a million besides to provide for casual readers. If you need every unit today, it is yours; if only twenty thousand, the rest can stand aside without adding one useless dollar to your cost of distribution.

Suggested by the Canadian Daily Newspapers Association, Toronto.

A UNIQUE RACE

A novelty was introduced at the London General Omnibus Company's sports, when conductors competed in a ticket punching race. Each man had a set number of tickets, the price going to the one who not only punched the largest number of these tickets while running a stated distance, but who finished first in the foot race.

TRAVELERS BEAT BOTH TRURO AND SPRINGHILL

Truro, July 12—The Springhill baseball team and the Boston Travelers who are touring the province played their first morning before 600 people. The Boston boys won out by a score of 6 to 3.

"TUT" JACKSON TO FIGHT WILLS

New York, July 12—"Tut" Jackson, giant negro of Washington Court House, Ohio, today was signed to meet Harry Wills, colored challenger of Jack Dempsey in a bout here about August 7. Jackson's manager made the contract with Promoter Dave Driscoll, and tomorrow Driscoll is to close negotiations with Patrick Mullins, who handles Wills' affairs.

HOW TO PLAY GOLF.

(Walter Turnbull in the Ottawa Journal) Today the modern magazine is all ad with sage advice. On how to play a masher shot, Or how to cure a slice, And all the family read it once, And father reads it twice.

An antique chair's laid out its arms, To please completely won; The clock's at rest with folded hands, We tell time by the sun; A lamp is gone—and all through hints From Barnes and Hutchinson.

'Twas Hagen's style to follow through Which beat the chandelier, And Duncan's spoon shot got the cat Somewhere about the ear!

And so when spring shall come again Then dad will be on deck With all this store of golfing lore Entombed above the neck.

STUFFY MCINNIS IS FINALLY PARTED FROM HIS OLD GLOVE

(New York Times) Season in and season out, for ten consecutive years, Stuffy McInnis, first baseman of the Cleveland Indians, has worn the same glove in battles on the diamond. Stuffy and the mitt have been inseparable pals. To save it from being thrown into the discard he has had it patched, he has had it sewed, he has had everything done to it which a revamp of mitts could do.

To the Editor of The Times—

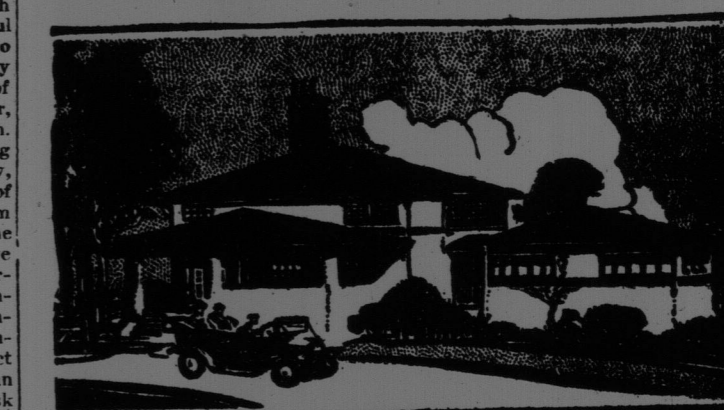

Sir,—In reply to Jas. A. Sheehan's enquiry regarding sewerage in East St. John, I might say if Mr. Sheehan would be interested enough to attend the public meetings, which have been called from time to time to consider our problems, he would be fully informed as to the progress made. Individual grumbling will never solve our problem, but co-operation, careful thought and intelligent action is needed. The writer has attended about a dozen meetings, at which committees have been appointed to enquire into the matter of village corporation, town incorporation and union with the City of St. John. After careful consideration, these committees came to the conclusion that union with the city would be the most economical way of solving our problems, such as sewers, lighting, water, police and fire protection. Our committee then asked for a meeting with the commissioners of the city, which was granted, and the basis of negotiations were put before them from our point of view. His Worship the Mayor, Mr. Schofield, promised to give consideration to our proposals, and arrange another meeting later. The committee is ready to meet the city commissioners at the time they find convenient. We are not dimwitted of the fact that the city has all the business it can attend to at present, and I would ask Mr. Sheehan to be a little patient under the circumstances. I might say, that an act was passed during the recent session in the local house, authorizing our city councillors to set apart a sewerage district, but as sewerage is not our only problem, our councillors do not feel justified in going ahead with large expenditures without the whole support of this community. Yours very truly, ALICK TAYLOR. East St. John, July 12.

There Are Awful Possibilities in This.

(London Advertiser) "A husband is responsible for the debts his wife incurs before marriage, according to the decision of a Los Angeles Court."—News Item. You fellows can quit worrying over your mothers-in-law and start laying awake night thinking about your wife's dad if this holds good. Just imagine some nice evening when you were taking life easy and at peace with all the world having the old gentleman walk in on you with a pile of bills a mile high and casually remark: "Here are the bills for a few of the things Katherine got before she was married, and the law says you have to pay them." It surely is a wise old bird who looks up his best girl's charge account before he lets them start the wedding march.

Beavers 2, Imperials 1.

The batteries were: For the Beavers, Hay and Johnson; for the Imperials, Ryan and Bettie. These teams play again tonight on the Rockwood diamond.

Machine Gunners 24, Permanent Force 0.
The Machine Gunners ran up a score of 24 runs while the Permanent Force failed to tally in their game on the Barrack Green last evening. Potter, in the box for the Permanent Force, retired nine men by the strikeout route, and his opponent, Canning, had the same number. The game afforded plenty of base running practice for the Gunners, some of whom showed that they were first-class marathon runners.

be pardoned for feeling that the athletic sceptre was departing from the British Isles. On the same day an American won the Diamond Sculls at Henley. A month before three American golfers were struggling with each other for first place in the British Open. Last year the men's tennis championship was taken away from England and the polo championship was lost. Supremacy in cricket might still be claimed for the empire, though not for England, since the Australians won every match from the all-England eleven at the last encounter.

However, if the British athletic shepherds have any philosophy left in them, they will not be wholly given over to despondency. They will comfort themselves by reflecting that it is a case of being invaded by the very best that foreign countries can produce, and that bright particular stars in any given sport are certain now and then to rise beyond the English horizon. A Lenglen, a Tilden, a Hagen, a Walter Hoover, is born, not made. England's turn for a creative effort in athletics may soon come again. Moreover, the passing of one championship cup after another may simply drive the British back to the last fortress of national complacency, and lead them to reassert that, win or lose, they have more all-year-round athletics than any other nation, and that out-of-door sports are "in widest commodity spread" in England. Yet it cannot be denied that Britannia is looking rather pale after the athletic storms that have lately passed over her, and is in need of any consoling tonic to which she can lay her hand.

BOXING AUTHORITIES SCRUTINIZING EYES ON BANTAMS' BOUT

(Canadian Press Despatch.)
New York, July 12.—Joe Lynch, bantamweight champion; Johnny Buff, who lost the title to the former Monday night, and their managers, Eddie Mead and Lew Diamond, today were suspended by the New York state boxing commission until an investigation is made of the contract under which they met.

The commission acted on allegations that the state law was violated when Lynch guaranteed Buff $30,000 to make the match and an additional sum if he lost his title. The crowd was smaller than expected and, it is related, Lynch must pay nearly $10,000 to make up the deficit.

The New York law provides that the boxers in any match may split fifty per cent of the gate receipts any way they choose, but it prohibits guarantees. No date has been set for a hearing of the matter.

TEST CASES OVER THE SALES TAX

Matter of Manufacturers' Licenses to be Taken up by R. M. A.

Toronto, July 13.—Thousands of confectionery retailers throughout Canada, including several hundred in Toronto, are anxiously awaiting a decision in the matter of the manufacturers' licenses, which they may be required to take out in compliance with the regulations of the sales tax act.

Six retailers in Kitchener were served with summonses this week on behalf of the department of customs. Upon applying to the Toronto office of the Retail Merchants' Association they were advised that application would be made for an adjournment of the hearing for a fortnight, so that the fullest details could be secured and adequate defence made. Able lawyers are expected to be assigned in defence of the retailers in these test cases at the instance of the association.

A Big Conference

Ottawa, July 13.—To consider legislation and taxation affecting the retailers, a conference, which will be one of the greatest gatherings of representative retail merchants ever held in the Dominion has been called by the Eastern Ontario and Ottawa District Section of the Retail Merchants' Association. It will be held in Brockville on July 19 and 20, and from present indications 600 or more merchants from the fifteen counties in the territory covered from Ottawa will be present.

EXPECT TO CONTROL EGG IMPORTATION

Dr. J. H. Grisdale Addresses Annual Gathering of Poultrymen.

Dr. J. H. Grisdale and Prof. E. S. Archibald were the speakers Saturday afternoon at the second annual gathering of the Ottawa Poultry Association, held at the Experimental Farm, Ottawa. More than 800 poultrymen were present and during the day moving pictures of the event and a group photograph were taken by the Publicity Branch of the Department of Trade and Commerce. Mr. J. M. Caldwell, president of the association, was in charge of the programme.

Within the past few years the hen had risen both in the estimation of the people and the government stated Dr. Grisdale. The latter now operated two poultry divisions, both of which were doing good and useful work in the fields of production and marketing. The net result of the work of both divisions was that the poultry business in Canada was getting somewhere.

Egg inspections and grading were bringing far-reaching results. He referred to the possibility of registration of poultry in the future. There was now in Canada a 325-egg hen and Dr. Grisdale saw no reason why there should not be a 325-egg hen. On the question of the control of imported eggs, the speaker said that legislation would shortly be enacted which would in some measure control the quality of the article imported. The consumers were beginning to be more discriminating, and price was not so much the object as good eggs, he thought.

Prof. E. S. Archibald and his staff welcomed the opportunity to show those interested in poultry the work that was being done at the farm. Prof. Archibald stated that in his opinion there were too few hens on the farms in Canada and household economy to keep them. Hens manufactured useful money from table and farm scraps, and it was necessary in Canada today to use every available product and by-product.

Mr. Caldwell announced that the association was now open to receive requests for the calling of flocks.

THIEVES AT WORK IN SECURITIES COMPANY'S OFFICE

The office of the Eastern Securities Company, Limited, in Prince William street, was visited by burglars last night, and a small amount of money taken. Entrance was gained to the office by pushing open a back window, on an alleyway off Church street. A drawer in one of the desks was forced open and about thirty dollars in change was abstracted. A few coppers were found scattered about the office, indicating that the intruders were in a hurry. Several footprints were found in the mud outside the window.

BIG CROPS NEAR KINGSTON, ONT.

Kingston, Ont., July 13.—Enquiries in the surrounding country indicate that this year will be a record one for the crops both in quantity and quality. One farmer who has lived in this district for eighty-nine years said that he cannot remember when the growth was better than this year. Some of the farms are reported as producing five times as much as last year.

EXPECT BIG CROP.

Houlton, July 12.—The large potato acreage planted in the spring is coming along finely it is claimed and Aroostook county expects to harvest a big crop. It was feared a few weeks ago that the heavy rains might cause a great loss, as many of the plants had been washed out of the ground. On hilly land there was more or less of a loss, but it is claimed that the potatoes are at the present time looking strong and healthy and a heavy yield is looked for. The season is quite advanced and everything is looking well throughout the county.

MRS. GEORGE HATT.

Word has been received of the death at Victoria, B. C., on June 22, of Mrs. George Hatt, aged about 75 years. Deceased was a daughter of the late Elijah Clark, of Fredericton, and the widow of the late George Hatt, who with his father conducted a grocery store in that city some years ago. About twenty years ago she left Fredericton for the west, and is survived by three sons, George Hatt, in Victoria, B. C.; Prof. W. Kenneth Hatt of Purdue University, Indiana, and Harold, of San Bernardino, Calif., and three daughters, Mrs. Frank Sewell, of Vancouver, B. C.; Mrs. Frank Green of Victoria, B. C., and Mrs. Frank Quibb, of Edmonton, Alta.

NEED OF PRE-NATAL CARE.

Million Pamphlets Will Be Issued to Mothers.

New York, July 13.—The high death rate among women of the United States during childbirth and the ignorance of the proper methods of nursing and care of the mother have led the Maternity Centre Association of New York to publish twelve "Talks for Mothers," stressing the vital importance of complete maternity care. More than a million of the pamphlets will be distributed nationally.

The association asserts that more women between the ages of fifteen and forty-five die from causes incident to maternity than from any other cause except tuberculosis. Dr. Haven Emerson, of the association's advisory board estimates that only one woman out of seven in the United States receives the benefit of modern medical and nursing science at childbirth. The result, it is said, is that more than 200,000 women lose their lives during childbirth each year, more than 100,000 babies are born dead, and more than 100,000 die under the age of one month.

The association hopes to convince expectant mothers that pre-natal care is needed, and lead them to present their cases to local nursing and public health organizations and receive personal advice and direction.

FOUND AGAIN AFTER 20 YEARS

Cornwall, July 13.—As a boy, Charles Navin, who lives on the Racquette River road near Massena, caught a turtle on the river bank and carved his initials on its back. This was more than 20 years ago. Recently the turtle was found at the same spot by the youngest son of the man who had originally captured it. It had more than doubled in size. The initials were still distinct. The latest captor cut his initials on the turtle and again freed it.

A LETTER TO HIRAM

Beaconsfield, July 11, 1922. Dear Mr. Hornbeam: You have told the people of St. John a whole lot of stuff they really required to know. Nobody who uses the ferry boat "Ludlow" required to be told that the doors at each end of the passenger entrance are made of beautiful mahogany—and the benches, too. That the "Ludlow" is expensive to operate is no reason that she should not be cleaned and painted, and do you believe that the folks up to the Settlement would have gone and painted them there doors and benches with brown paint? By Hen! Why not sell the mahogany benches and put in pine ones, and give the profit to "Ludlow"—and the nickel and brass hardware, too—Yes, Sir. Surely Mr. Hornbeam you can see it is the same light as them as had it did. WESTSIDER.
