The engine was instantly stopped, but not before the sufferer was cut almost into inches—in fact the foot that the man saw thrown off was the largest piece that was left of him.

and on the next day, (Wednesday) in the afternoon, we were all told to fall in, and were marched out between our camp and the picket line. When we got there we were drawn up in line, and there were good many other regiments there too. We formed a kind of hollow square. After waiting for some time standing in the mud and by the way the mud here is something to talk about after a rain, I saw a party coming along headed by a band playing a dead march; then five prisoners were guarded and a Chaplain; and then a firing party with officers in their proper places. After they came up, they placed the prisoners in line, facing the rest of the army. Then

The new chain bridge at Clifton is built at a height of 245 feet, with a span of 70 feet; thereby exceeding all other chain bridges. The iron work of the bridge weighs about 1,500 tons. Approaching the bridge from Clifton, we come first to the massive chain, which is 100 feet in length. These chains are anchored about 700 feet below the level of the road in the solid rock. From this anchorage the chains pass over the tower, and across the chasm to the tower on the Somersetshire side, from which they are carried to the anchorage on the other side below the bridge in Clifton. These chains having to support a span over 700 ft. in length, are necessarily of great strength. In the chains there are 4,200 links, each link being 24 ft. in length by 7 in. in depth, and 1 in. thick. The links are made of iron with the ends enlarged ends for the bit holes, these holes are the pins which pass through them being 4 inches in diameter. The suspension rods which drop from the chains to the roadway and support the bridge are 162 in number and are made of iron, and of a peculiar character, their appearance is extremely light, indeed, it then viewed from the river, or from Clifton Downs, they are more like threads than to substantial supports of a bridge, on which his estimated that 2,000 persons might stand without the slightest injury to the structure. —Gambler's Journal.

THE FASHION IN IDAHO.—Idaho is fast country. If a woman there becomes dissatisfied with her husband or finds some one she likes better, she states the case to the President of the mining district in which they reside; he calls the miners' meeting, they untie the matrimonial knot, and she is at liberty to take whomever she pleases in case she can get him.

The 12th Vist. was passed substituting new enactments for those of the 6th and 7th Vics., and received the Royal Assent, the operation of the 6th and 7th Vics. in the country was suspended, and remained suspended so long as such substituted enactments remain in force.

ment (1) may astonish a parlor full of company by brushing his feet briskly along the carpet for a moment, and then applying his finger to a jet of gas. An electric spark is given off, and the gas is instantly lighted. If he should touch a heap of powder, it would explode. And is there any mystery about the explosion of powder mills, when we know that every man carries with him a spark that may blow up a magazine?

Mr. Abbott submitted affidavits, signed by Young and Spurr, showing that it was necessary for them to get evidence from Richmond for their defense. The affidavits stated that they would not state. They requested a continuance of their case, and the court granted it.

AMERICAN NEWS.

On Saturday 30 Inst. attacked the Ontario mail, 3 miles off here, and robbed the express. Thieves attacked a mail train, killing one in and wounding another. The troops of the military post, numbering from 50 to 60 men, immediately started to the aid of the white settlers and drove the Indians to the bluff, a mile back, where the Indians were reinforced to the number 400, and in turn drove the troops back to post. The Indians then entered the station, and after destroying all the furniture and windows set it on fire. The soldiers destroyed a large amount of telegraph wire. A well directed fire of musketry in the troops at the post, however, soon drove them from the station. In the meantime on the retreat of our troops 25 Indians were killed, including the principal chief, 19 of our citizens were killed. A general massacre and destruction of the white only prevented by the perseverance of the troops. Our troops were killed by the Indians, and terminated invasion made by the Indians this season.

The Star believes that the feeling of the United States about the release of the St. Alban's rebels would doubtless subside as soon as the course of the Canadian Government was known.

The Times city article says:—The funds were rather less on yesterday, consequent on the demand for money at the close of the year; also in connection with the foreign exchange market.

The American news, excepting some little depression in Canadian securities, although the only importance attached to the fresh example of national weakness furnished by the late New York intelligence is that the order of Gen. Dix and the willingness of the political press may have some irreparable persons to violate Canadian territory and thus place the Washington Government, against their anxious desire, in a position as disagreeable both to the people of England and the respectable classes of the United States as was occasioned by Commodore Wilkes and the vote of the House of Representatives in the Trent affair.

Arrival of the China.

New York, Jan. 11th.—The Steamer China from Liverpool, 31st ult., has arrived.

Liverpool, Dec. 31.—The Times of today in its resume of the year, alluding to the present attitude of the North to Canada, says:—"In the present state of Northern feeling, there is too much reason to apprehend that any struggle which may render rupture inevitable. Americans neither appreciate the strength of England nor understand the unanimity with which war will be prosecuted, if forced upon a reluctant government and nation. The first result of war would be a severe blow to the prestige of the United States, and the establishment of Southern independence."

Narbonne Escape.—While the fire in Kibson on Tuesday evening was raging at its height, and under the influence of a severe gale of wind, a most narrow escape of a further conflagration was made through the timely and very accurate exertions of Mr. Bernard of the B. C. Rifles, E. Morris, a waiter at the British American Hotel, and others. It appears there were two broken panes of glass in the third story of the law office of the Messrs. Gildersleeve, on Clerkenwell street, through which a live cinder must have found its way. When discovered, the flames had made considerable headway, and the prospect of an escape seemed to hang on the successful efforts of a moment. Mr. Bernard was the first to discover it while talking to a friend in the vicinity of the British American Hotel, and rushing to the spot, the carpet and curtains were found in flames. Water was applied as soon as possible, and after great exertions, the flames had been extinguished, but the office had been gutted, and was got under, but only by the merest chance.—Kingston Advertiser.

These books were never made for me. They are too short by half. I want them long enough, I've seen. To cover all the stuff. Why, sir, said Lane, with stifled smile, when he saw me looking at them. But if they cover all the stuff, they must be the best stuff.

Idle Gentlemen.—Dr. Franklin, when in England, used pleasantly to repeat an observation of his negro servant, when the Doctor was making the tour of Derbyshire, Lancashire, &c.:

A Sister's Love.
None can follow the depths of true sisterly love.
"To a mountain as the great vault above."
"To a fountain from which kind words ever flow."
"To a purpose, thought, deed, how far ever known."
Friendship with others long years may make cold.
But the love of a sister can never grow old.
Like the love of a mother it endures the heart.
When obliged forever from her loved ones to part.
The love of a brother, how greatly we prize
The wealth of his love more than all "earth's riches."
How we miss them his presence; his kindness so dear.
Memory lingers sacred, and calls forth the tear.
'Twas the parting that brought us real sorrow's first wound.
Good-bye told the depth of the love it had found.
Aye, parting with brothers tries a fond sister's love.

Dr. Ward's DEAD SHOT WORM CANDY
(CERTIFICATE.)
Albany Medical College, December 15, 1882.
I do hereby certify that I have analyzed Dr. Ward's Dead Shot Worm Candy, and the public would say that it contains nothing that is in the least injurious to the youngest infant. They are entirely vegetable, and possess the truly antiseptic qualities which above all others are preferable as exterminators of the common Ovipara Worm.
J. P. GRACEY, M.D., Prof. of Obstetrics and Diseases of Women and Children.

This Medicine has been prepared by the proprietors for a number of years; it has been used with the most decided success in numerous families of the first respectability, and has received the approval and recommendation of several eminent medical gentlemen. The most alarming symptoms of the disease arising from the prevalence of worms in the intestines have been speedily and entirely removed by the use of the VEGETABLE WORM CANDY.
Dreadful indeed are the effects of these pernicious vermin on the constitution, destroying the appetite, vitiating the nourishing principles, and their certain consequences are paleness, emaciation, a stoppage of the growth, &c., and often followed by consumption and decline. Even where worms are not discharged, this medicine acts as a gentle and safe domestic physic—clearing the passages of whatever is noxious, introducing a healthy chyle into the constitution. This is a purely vegetable preparation, and contains nothing that is injurious to the smallest infant, and children will eat them as quickly as common candy.
Price 25 cents.
