London, June 24.—An incident at the Ponsonby wedding is commented on as proving that whatever differences may have existed between the Queen and Prince of Wales on account of the baccarat scandal they have been removed, and mother and son are once more on most cordial terms. As soon as her Majesty was seated in or on the throne-like gilded chair provided for her, she caught sight of the Prince and family opposite, and smiled beamingly. Then, as if noticing the eagerness with which the audience scrutinized her demeanor, she rose, with some difficulty, and crossed in front of the altar to where Wales sat. As she did so she held out her hand, and the Prince, who had arisen and stepped forward to meet his royal mother, stooped and kissed the hand of the Queen with a smack that could be heard all over the chapel. The Queen and Prince remained chatting together for several moments, the audience watching the interview with the greatest of interest. The Prince wore his full uniform of field marshal, and as the day and place were hot he was unmistakably uncomfortable, perspiration fairly pouring from him.

interest. The Prince wore his full uniform of field marshal, and as the day and place were hot he was unmistakably uncomfortable, perspiration fairly pouring from him. He seemed quite nervous and ill at ease. The crush was terrific, despite the fact that admission was by ticket only. An amusing contretemps resulted from failure of the sentry to recognize the Lord High Chamber-Plain, who had not thought it necessary to provide himself with a ticket. The wrangle between little and big official grew quite warm before a passing dignitary interceded and persuaded Cerberus that there was no mistake about the identity of the chamber-lain. The scene in the chapte was a rarely brilliant one, gorgeous trappings of Scot's Guards showing well against the daintier coloring of the finery displayed by the ladies. There was much chattering and flirting while the audience were waiting for the event of the season. A bejeweled countess amused kerself by pinching the arm of a stalwart piper as she passed him, but he managed to retain his military aplomb and even to look bored. A dispatch from Rome says: "A card scaudal resembling in a small way the celebrated baccarat case, has convulsed military and social circles in Leghorn. A number of officers were playing at a military club in that city, when occasion arose to suspect that a cavalry officer was cheating. There was a quiet arrangement an the part of a few of the players to watch the suspected man. As a result, he was soon openly accused, and on-demanding to be faced with his accusers learned they were his general and several other high officers. The proof was sufficient to satisfy the officers of the club, and the offender, Lieut. Ricciardi, was expelled and handed over to the police. It is learned that Mr. Parnell has obtained a special license to marry Mrs. O'Shea. He has been compelled to do this owing to delays interposed by his local elergyman in Brighton. The action for libel brought by Henry Campbell, M.P., and private secretary to Mr. Parnell, against Ald. John Hooper and Mrs. Eliza Nagle, as owners or part owners of the Cork Daily Herald, was continued in that city yesterday. Mr. Campbell complains of a statement made by the Herald that while other members of Parliament were attending to their duties Campbell was biring houses for immoral purposes for Parnell. Counsel for the Herald to-day contended that if Campbell did not telegraph about hiring the house at Eastbourne Parnell did so. Mr. Vinal, a real estate agent, deposed that letters (produced in court) which were signed by Campbell's name, were really in Mrs. O'Shea's hand-writing. Mr. Campbell, recalled, said he had never heard of the letters or telegrams until this action was brought.

three interests had to be fought. Then there were the difficulties in the way of enforcing the act if it was passed, difficulties which were known to all who had any knowledge or experience of the Scott Act. Mr. Foster next admitted that the question of revenue was a practical difficulty, but he denied that it was a paramount one. He did not count a gold dollar as being one moment in the balance against a single ray of light or happiness in the hones of the people of this country, or against the well-being of a single man who was in danger. Still, those $7,500,000 presented a practical difficulty which any Finance Minister would have to consider. What he proposed was a royal v in the

Mr. Laurier contrasted the speech and resolution of the Minister of Finance, and showed how inconsistent they were one to the other. He showed how much at variance were the proposals of the honorable gentleman and his conclusions. He declared he was a prohibitionist still, that he would not lower himself by replying to the charges that had been made of inconsistency and yet, not to go into his record, it was but necessary to put his speech to-night against his resolution to prove the truth of those charges. (Applause.) He would be ready to vote immediately to enact a law, but he wanted to be sure that it would be sustained by public opinion. If the country were ripe for it he would be ready to vote to enact it. What he wanted was information whether public opinion was ready. The honorable gentleman had said he was prepared to take the responsibility of leaving the tax to make up the loss of revenue that would result. He had been ready to find other sources of revenue. He could only know that the people were ready. He would not hold a piece of gold against a ray of light, he had told the House, and the moment he had the information he was prepared to pass a prohibitory law. He asked for light in his speech as to the ripeness of public opinion. In the resolution he asked for a royal commission—what for? To inquire if the public were ready? No! it was to inquire into the effect of the liquor traffic on all interests affected by it—(Liberal laughter)—that was the position of the honorable gentleman who would not hold a piece of gold against one ray of light. Mr. Laurier declared in conclusion that he ition he would favor that the present ight be allowed to con-during their lives. though anticipated, was the repeal of the duties on raw sugar. This is estimated to even a drop o $3,500,000 of revenue.

This is to be partity mad up by additional taxes on malt, on destilled spirits and on tobacco.

Such is the budget speech in brief. The repeal of the duties on raw sugar ought to make the price of the refined article less to the consumer. To what ex tent it will do so remains to be seen.

The sugar refiner is still "protected" at the expense of the consumer to the figure of nearly $2,000,000 a year. There is no excuse for this burden, as the number of persons employed in sugar refining in Can-

Mr. Foster says it will now be necessary to start in upon an era of economy in public expenditures. If the implied promise means anything it is timely. Our future is handicapped in the proportion in which taxation is relatively heavier per head in Canada than in the United States. In this respect matters have progressed in an ominous direction for Canada. Look at these figures, and observe how the taxation per head has been decreasing in the United

But the most important lesson	of

Mr. Foster's sugar-tariff amendme lies in its exposure of the child's babblement which asserts that Canada is not economically bound up with the United States. As to fiscal arrangements we are practically as much tied in a bundle with our neighbors, as if Ontario, Quebec, Nova Scotia and New Brusswick were States of the Union.

When the United States Congress made sugar free, that settled the question for Canada, too, and, like the coon in the tree, well informed people suppose it to be. It is being gradually reduced by the annuity system. The Government grants annuities which extinguish corresponding amounts of sonsols, and when an annuitant dies the payment ceases. Apart from that direct purchases of consols are made almost yearly from surplus revenue. Last year the reduction by annuities and direct payments together was nearly $30,000,000. The total amount during the last five years applied were annually exported from these

In 1702, the year before the outbreak of the great war with France, the debt amounted to $1,187,000,000. Owing to British landowners having reduced their land tax from 4 shillings to 3 shillings in the pound, and refusing to allow it to be assessed at the annual value, the Chancellor of the Exchequer being at his wit's end for sources of taxation, sent the tax-herer to America, and the result was the American war of independence, which cost over £97,000,000. This war was as needless as it was useless. In 1816, the year after the battle of Waterloo, the debt amounted to $4,230,000,000—the highest point it has ever reached, caused by a war that cost the country $4,155,000,000, and that was absurdly unnecessary. This iniquitous war with the French was caused by British landlord legislators, who were far more afraid of their own privileges than the liberties of the people. In 1854, the year before the outbreak of the Crimean war, the debt amounted to $3,845,000,000, and in 1856, at the close of the war, the debt had risen to $4,040,000,000. Since the lose of this perfectly useless war, the absence of great wars has been made up by the abundance of small and very costly ones. At the end of last year the debt amounted to $3,424,770,750. The very immensity of these figures prevents a true appreciation of their importance; the one fact that stands out prominently is the fearful burden war inflicts upon the nation. Had the yast sums that were worse than wasted on war expenses and war debt been spent in benefiting the people, Great Britain would more nearly resemble an earthly paradise than any other nation in the world. For the wars of the past the English people are not to blame, as it was not till recently that the people had a voice in the affairs of the nation. It was necessary to own land to a certain amount before a man could be a member of Parliament, with the result that the Parliaments were com-posed solely of land-owners, who passed laws in the interests of land-owners only. War has always been useful to landlore legislators, as it was the means of providing well-paid posts for their sons and nephows, and of bringing war prices for agricultural produce, which meant conse-quently high rents for their farms. War

Times are changed now, and the voting power of workingmen should ensure hange in the system also.

A FRESH OBSTACLE TO PROHIB

Our local contemporary thinks "the Pro hibition party will regard the additional tax on beer and spirits as a concession to their cause." Our contemporary is on the wrong track.

To the recent temperance deputation Mr. Foster adduced as a difficulty the inancial hiatus that would be created by striking through prohibition at the present revenue derived from liquors.

To make the country depend in a larger mount on the liquor revenue is to create a fresh obstacle in the way of Prohibition.

ALASKA AND ITS RESOURCES. Bulletin 39 of the United States census gives us some interesting information of that portion of United States territory known as Alaska, a region in which Canadians have taken more or less interest during recent years. The resources of that country are not numerous, and their yearly production does not reach a large amount. production does not reach a large amount. Fars, fish, minerals and timber comprise the list, of which the first-mentioned is by far the most important. The furs are of two classes or branches, viz., those of marine mammals, such as fur seals and sea otters, and those of land animals, such as the beaver. Of these the fur-bearing seal is by far the most important, constituting about one-hal of Alaska's natural wealth and resources. The value of fur-seal skims shipped from the territory and sold in the London markets during the American occupancy, we are told, fects up nearly $33-000,000, while the total value of all other products in the same period does not quite reach $30,000,000, about $16,000,000 time the represents furs of various kinds which represents furs of various kinds of the floor in a perfectly straight line. products in the same period does not quite reach $30,000,000, about $16,000,000 of which represents furs of various kinds. Next in value is canned salmon, an industry which began in 1884 and which up to the close of 1890 has aggregated nearly $7,000,000. The value of the codish catch since 1863 is computed to be $3,000,000. Minerals appear to come next in order of importance, but mining operations are carried on under great difficulties, and the total annual shipment of gold dust and bullion does not exceed $700,000. The collectors of the consus do not report at all so favorably of the timber supply of the country as many were led to expect, and it is extremely doubtful if the manufacture and export of lumber will ever become a source of much profit. Groups of yellow cedar, hemlock and pine are found which yield from 20,000 to 30,000 feet of logs, covering a few acres in extent, and to find another such group it is often necessary to travel fifteen to the timber supply of the country as many were led to expect, and it is extremely lumber will ever become a source of much profit. THE BRITISH "NATIONAL MILLSTONE."

The huge public debt of Great Britain is act the unchanging fact that many even forests," Ivan Petroff says, "it will be al-$123,000,000. That is, during the last ten that work might be found for them in colyears the debt reduction out of taxation lecting the bones of animal which have has been at the rate of more than $30,-800,000 yearly.

To trace the rise of the British National debt is to discover that it has been built up almost entirely by costly and wholly ditional supplies, and on the Pribilof salmon canning is in the Kadiak group of islands, south of Cook Inlet. It was started in 1884, and in the following year the largest canning establishment in the world was fitted up at Karluk, on a river of the same name. During the last season a force of nearly 1,100 fishermen and packers were engaged in handling the output of this small river, which can be easily waded at low tide, and the number of fish secured This was over 3,000,000, representing a pack of was 200,000 cases. But it is probable that the greatest supply of salmon is to be found in the Yukon River, which is one of the largest rivers on the continent. Thousands of Eskimos and Athabaskans line the banks of this river who depend upon the red salmon and the king salmon for their food supply. The latter fish reaches a length of five to six feet in the Yukon and a weight of 80 to 120 pounds.

An important statement of the bulletin is made by Superintendent Porter on the fur-seal question. "One of the most eminent authorities in Alaska," he says, 'stated it as his belief that the salmon, co and herring fisheries of the territory would become of such immense value in the event of the entire destruction of the fur seal, which now preys upon the fish, that its possible extermination is a contingency that need not excite serious alarm." Lord Salisbury will possibly make a note of this statement, and consider it in the final arbitration proceedings.

The North Middlesex Election Case-Motion to Drop Sol. White's Name from the Roll. At Osgoode Hall yesterday the following

At Osgoode Hali yesterday the following cases came up:

The North Middlesex Dominion election case, McFadden vs. Hutchins—Judgment on motion by the petitioner for leave to amend the petition by introducing allegations proper to show a case for a scrutiny of votes and a claim to the seat for the defeated candidate. The learned judge holds that the cases in England and in our own courts are clear against the power to amend by adding anything substantial to the petition. Motion dismissed. Costs to the respondent in any event. Preliminary objections allowed, except so far as it was sought by them to strike out paragraph 13 of the petition, which discloses an election offense under 51 Vic., ch. 11, sec. 14, and clauses 4 and 5 of the prayer of the petition to be struck out, with costs as before. Counsel fee as of one argument. W. H. Blake for the petitioner. W. R. Meredith, Q.C., and Swabey for the respondent.

the master at London made on May 10 last. J. M. Clark, for the defendant, objected that the appeal was too late under rule $49. The reference was directed under section 101 of the Judicature Act. Counsel for the plaintiff, in answer to the objection, relied on Raymond vs. Little, 13 P. R. 364. Adjourned before Street, J.

There was considerable interest at Osgoode Hall over the motion made to strike off the roll of barristers the name of Sol. White, M.P.P., the offense alleged being the withholding of a client's money. The amount alleged to have been withheld is $1,006, the client being Paul Jannette. The motion was made by McCarthy & Co., and Sol. White is defended by Mercdith & Co. For the defense it is alleged that part of the money has been paid Jannette and the rest is not legally due him.

A meeting of 3,000 striking printers in Vienna announced the preparation for a general international strike, perhaps to include America and Australia.

The formation of labor unions in Finland had reached the point of resolving to hold a general meeting in Holsingfors this summer, but a ukase from the Czar stopped it entirely.

At the Machinists' Convention at New York an emergency fund was created at 10 cents per capita per month. Independent political action was resolved upon, as was also affiliation with the American Federation of Labor. The eight-hour movement was indorsed, and Delegate Morse, of Brooklyn, was appointed national organizer pro tem.

The strike of the Horse Car Company's employes at Bordeaux, France, has been settled. The strikers refurned to work today (Wednesday). The strikers withdrew all their demands except the main one, namely that twelve hours' labor should constitute a day's work. This was granted.

In Favor of Embracing All the Young Ladies.

A funny incident occurred at a meeting of Baptist young people, in the lecture room of Dr. Henderson's church, the other evening. A vote was being taken on the constitution of the union that was being formed. Chairman Jay Vinton was a little mystified as to the intended scope of the organization.

mystified as to the intended scope of the organization.

"Is this union intended to take in the King's Daughters, sewing circles and like organizations?" he finally asked of the chairman of the committee on constitution.

"Yes," replied that gentleman; "we wish to embrace all the young ladies."

The laughter that followed stopped proceedings for full five minutes, while every young lady in the room blushed like a rose,—[Detroit Free Press.

What is Scrofula

It is that impurity in the blood, which, accumulating in the glands of the nedk, produces unlightly lumps or swellings; which causes painful running sores on the arms, legs, or foet; which thevelopes ulcers in the orgs, ears, or nose, often mansing blindness or deafness; which is the origin of pimples, cancerous growths, or many other manifestations usually ascribed to "humors." It is a more formidable enemy than consumption or cancer alone, for scrofula combines the worst possible features of both, Being the most ancient, it is the most general of all diseases or affections, for very few persons are entirely free from it.

How can it be cured? By taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, which, by the cures it has accomplished, often when other medicines have falled, has proven itself to be a potent and peculiar medicine for this disease. For all affections of the blood Hood's Sarsaparilla is unequalled, and some of the cures it has effected are really wonderful. If you suffer frem scrofula in any of its various forms, be sure to give Hood's Sarsaparilla a trial.

The Board of Education's special meeting Tuesday evening was attended by Trustees Stephenson (chairman), Yates, Jeffery, Tanton, Childs, Turner, Dewar, Craig, McRobert, Brady, Love, Cook, Johnston, Secretary Abbott, Principal Merchant and Inspector Carson. The consideration of the estimates as presented by No. 1 Committee was the chief item of business. The total as presented aggregated 863,922 77, made up from July 1, 1891, to June 30, 1892, as follows:

Public schools—Fuel, $2,850; general expenses, $1,100; insurance, $200; repairs and improvements, $1,850; salaries of janitors, $3,550; mortgage, Askin street school, $424; lot on York street, $600; water and gas rates, $450; sinking fund, $1,200; sundry accounts for June, $212 65; salaries of teachers, $36,700; salaries of officers, $1,500; model school, $350; examinations, $300; library incidentals, $200; kindergarten purposes, $1,200; printing and stationery, $750. Total, $53,445 65. The Government grant ($3,375), model school ($150), county ($150), cottage rent ($60) and balance ($324) made a credit of $4,059, leaving the total requirements $49,386 65.

Collegiate Institute—Salaries as per 1890, $10,092; additions to salaries, $1,950; general expenses, $400; fuel, $350; insurance, $100; repairs and improvements, $300; printing, $100; stationery, $50; examinations, $300; ilbrary and laboratory, $1,000; overdrawn, May 31, $1,275 62; salaries for June, $1,177 50—$17,098 12. Credit—Government grant, $1,641; rental, $21; interest on grammar school bonds, $100; fees from country, $800; total $2,562. Total Collegiate Institute estimates, $14,556 12.

Trustee Childs moved that the item of $36,700 for public school teachers' salaries be reduced by $1,000. He considered the amount had been added in expectation of salary increases. The motion carried by a vote of 7 to 6. Trustee Jeffery explained that probably enough would be left for contingencies from other sources.

Trustee Dewar asked in connection with the credit estimates why the $1,300 from Askin street school ing the tobacco habit so far as elderly are concerned, as missionary effort in direction would probably be superus. The younger generation are all we hope to reach." he chair was then yielded to Mrs. ght, superintendent of narcotics W. U., who made an earnest address on subject. "The tobacco habit is so Torento College of Music.

The pavilion was crowded to its utmost capacity last Thursday evening by a representative Toronto audience at the annual concert of the College of Music. This institution is beyond doubt most prosperous, not only in regard to the number of pupils in attendance, but also successful in the nature of the musical work being accomplished. The pianists brought forward last night undoubtedly possess talent of a high order, and all of whom gave good account of themselves. These were Misses Sullivan, McKan, Scott, Boulthee, Benson, Gaylord, Landell, Reynolds, Tait, Lamport, L. F. Smith, Dalrymple, Burt, Broughton, Sara Ryan; violin, Mrs. Church; vocalists, Misses Bonsall, McFaull, E. Mason, Serimger, Mrs. J. C. Smith, Messar, Douglas, Bird, Parr, Lugsdin. One of the strongest features of the concert was the ensemble music, Fest-Overture, Leutner and Tannhauser (Wagner), both of which were given with precision and orchestral effect. The concertos for two pianos, Mozart and the Rondo, from the Chopin concerto, recently played by Josseffy at the Thomas orchestral concert. pianos, Mozart and the Rondo, from the Chopin concerto, recently played by Josseffy at the Thomas orchestral concert, were accompanied by an efficient string orchestra. The gold medal of the college, which represents all-round musicianship, theoretical and practical, was gained this year by Miss Fannie Sullivan. The Hon. Mr. Ross, Minister of Education, presented the medal, and in a few well-chosen remarks alluded to the development of the arts in Toronto, and to the fact that music was now in affiliation with the sciences through the relation of the College of Music to the University of Toronto. The vocalists of the evening, students of the college, are already well known to Toronto audiences as our most successful concert singers.—[Globe, Toronto, June 19.

only two things to do to fit him for work on a newspaper. One of them is to unlear what he has learned and the other is to learn journalism.—[Detroit Free Press. If is very much easier for the average man to make a sacrifice for a friend than it is to resist telling him afterward that it was a sacrifice.

He cut the club almost entirely, and he slaved away at his verses, his piquant little society paragraphs, and his occasional small type articles, under the natural and excusable impression that he was bringing something like a new era in letters, and had at least set his foot on the first rung of the golden ladder.

When this had been going on for about a month he encountered Captain Peter Heaton, who hailed him cordially and dropped the friendliest possible little reminder about Hump's bill. Captain Heaton was sorry to tell the young fellow that Hump had been very hard hit, and would be certain to want his money up to time. This was a new awakener, for Harry had allowed himself to hope almost with certainty that the bill could be renewed, and had indeed staved off in fancy its final payment to some indefinite distant period when money would be comparatively a matter of "Give Me a Cigar." —At the Police Court yesterday Mrs. Margaret Fleming charged Mrs. Annie Fisher with doing damage to property. They both live on Dundas street west. The planniff said she was standing at her window when she saw the accused throw an old iron file, which broke through another window under which she was standing. The defendant denied the charge point blank. The original cause of the trouble arose over some property dispute between the two. The case was dismissed. The Pretty "Pines" En Fete.

In aid of the Convalescent Home, a lawn social was held Tuezday night at that pretty spot known as "The Pines, on Dundas street, between Adelaide and William atreets. The large lawn was nicely lighted with Chinese lanterns and presented a gay appearance. Mrs. Boomer and Mrs. J. Labatt, respectively president and vice-president of the managing committee, and Mrs. Strong, Mrs. McCallum, Mrs. Dr. Niven, Mrs. Barker and Misses Penny and Street were saleswomen at the different tables, on which were ice-cream, lemonade, strawberries, cake and fancy articles, all of which were very liberally patronized. A detachment of the Band of "D" Company, I. S. C., rendered in excellent style the following programme: March, "Punjauh," Lucenni; selection, "Concert pot pouri"; march, "Conamore"; quadrille, "Black Diamonds"; selection, "Merry Moments"; lancers, "Iola"; "God Save the Queen."

Social on the Lawn.

The Ladies' Aid Society of Talbot street Baptist Church held a strawberry social Tnesday night at the residence of Joseph Jeffery, Lichfield street. The beautiful lawn was lighted with Chinese lanterns and was an attractive sight. Mrs. Tune, president of the committee of management, Mrs. Jeffrey, vice-president, and Mrs. Hudson, Mrs. Sharp, Mrs. W. Jones, Mrs. Fitt, Mrs. Westervelt and Miss Fysh waited on those who enjoyed the ice cream, lemonade and cake. Miss Maud Westervelt presided over the flower table,

Didn't Like Her Company.

Eva Scoins, a domestic, took up her residence Saturday with a friend—Mrs. John McDonald, living over Clark's Bridge. Yesterday she had the husband before the Police Court for assault, occasioning bodily harm. She says McDonald came home drunk at midnight on Monday and started to exhibit his wrestling accomplishments on his wife, both falling down and the latter screaming. Witness called on another inmate to separate them, and McDonald chased her to her bedroom, swearing at her. Subsequently he entered the room and hit her on the back with such force that she was thrown into the next room. The remainder of the night she stayed at a neighbor's. McDonald denied touching the young woman, and says he merely asked her to leave the house as she was not what she ought to be and was a source of trouble to the family. The magistrate imposed a fine of $4, the charge being changed to common assault.
