Bad blood is the direct cause of pimples it is impossible to get rid of them unless you cleanse the blood of all its impurities.

Burdock Blood Bitters is without a doubt, the very best medicine for this

This old and reliable remedy has been used for over thirty-five years, and has a reputation unequalled by any other for purifying the blood.

Mr. Peter La Pierre, Assistant Postmaster, Touchwood Hills, Sask., writes: "The fall before last, I was very much troubled with pimples on my face and McDougall, Two Harbors, light; Scranback. My back was literally covered ton, Cleveland, light; Crete, Milwauwith them, and I could not lie on it at Steinbrener, Fort William, coal; Polnight, they were so painful. LOLDON, MONDAY, JUNE 9. THE OLD TORY POLICY.

From the tone of various government organs we are now able to ge an idea of what will be the policy o the party in the next electral campaign. Instead of discussing the policies of the two parties on their merits, we are to have the waving of the flag and the charge of disloyalty If this were confined to papers like the Mail and Empire and the News, we might think it was only the natural expression of Foronto Toryism, which is noted for its violent verbosity, in season and out of season. But the same tune is being sung by nearly all the party organs. Here, for example, is a voice from the Northwest. The Winnipeg Telegram declares that separation from Great Britain, and "the establishment of a republic in British North America is the obvious aim and purpose, the declared object, of Sir Wilfrid Laurier." We are assured that there is "a crisis of vital consequence to the Dominion and the try Empire." The policy of the Liberals is Britishers."

In the last gold or a northern Rand. A mineralogarguments was the appeal to loyalty. 'And it had a temporary success, though it has been followed by a United States. Already the people see the shallow and unsubstantial nature themselves at the polls.

We shall hear little of reciprocity. We shall hear little of the merits of a maval contribution, c. the demerits of a Canadian navy. But we shall hear a great deal about the disloyalty of the Grits. We shall be told day after day that Sir Wilfrid Laurier is trying to Establish a Canadian Republic. It is very likely that the shoot-holes-inthe-flag allies of Mr. Borden will cal upon all true Britons to rally round the flag, till the election is over. But the old scheme never works for more than one campaign. Founded on falsehood, operated by spiteful pre-Judice, stimulated by the hope of reward, supported by the money o subsidized papers and financial interests and voracious corporations, i will be promptly rejected by the common sense and true patriotism of the

JUNE FOR THE CHILDREN.

June is children's month, No doubt marbles, rubber boots and skipping come much earlier, baseball comes in May, and excursions after wildflowers are about over. But while Maytime is all very well, June begins the "safe summertime," when the host of children's diseases is less menacing. The young things are all flung out abroad upon the land. They inherit the earth and the fullness thereof.

Still boxed up in school for five hours a day, they have the other ten hours out of bed, barring a few scratch minutes for meals, in the open. The Canadian winter time, bracing and all that, hems in the ordinary child a good deal, between short days and snow-clouds. Except maybe in part: Sunny Alberta, our winter months are not the brightest. But to compensate, there is nothing to beat the Canadian June, especially right here in Western Optario. The long, sunny evenings, five hours after school, make the child forget he was ever shut up. The world is full of shouts and joy. Best of all, there is the anticipation of that long release from bondage, the blessed period of July and August, a keener pleasure even than the participation. Plans are being laid in "long, long thoughts" and confabulations. In this butterfly month the children soar to castles in the air. June is the playtime and the visionary time as well.

No other month would do for the school picnic. Say what you will of the glorious outdoors of January, who would transfer the annual mammoth come this way after the defeat of Mr. and South Essex state that a sharp Springbank excursion to a winter Borden's policy. date? The change does not seem to

A Nova Scotian express that used to be guaranteed to beat a lumber barge was, or is, known ironically as "The Flying Bluenose." That is the name for Mr. Borden with his permanent naval policy.

The passing of Mr. George White, though in the fullness of years, comes as a sudden shock to the city in which he had lived so long and so worthily. He was a good man of business and an important factor in the making of London. For half a century his business has grown with the city.

LONDON LACROSSE CLUB WINS OPENING GAME WITH BRANTFORD

Locals Start O. A. L. A. Season Off in Fine Style Before Fairly Good Crowd of Fans-Manager Collins Has Gathered a Likely Team Together-Score Was 8 to 3.

Twenty-four thinly-clad individuals with gutted sticks gathered at Tecumseh Park Saturday afternoon and perpetrated a lacrosse game on a fairly large bunch of unsuspecting but enthusiastic fans. It was the opening game of the lacrosse season in London, and probably the first real game of lacrosse that has been committed for several years in this city. Brantford intermediates were the opposing players, and it is with a feeling of real pride that we announce that London won. The score was 8 to 3. announce that London won. The score was a to Judging from the interest displayed in it by the fans who were present the game seems to have caught on in London, and if the locals can cop couple more games and show a little more finished work than Saturday's, the fans should turn out in crowds to support them. As it was, Saturday's ga was decidedly worth while. Although there was nothing much to it but Lo was decidedly worth while. Although there was nothing much to it but London, the visitors put up a good stiff argument, and there was no noticeable loafing on the part of any of the London players. Several times some nice runs, and pretty stick work had the crowd cheering, and the team made quite an impression for its first time out.

SOME GOOD PLAYERS.

The local club has five or six splendid lacrosse players, while the others derson, Holly and Acheson, Manager Collins has a quartette of players who can show some real lacrosse, and their work was displayed brilliantly throughout the contest. Anderson scored the majority of the London goals, his shooting being particularly effective, while Penny and Holly also shone in this

He had speed to burn, but as yet lacks a knowledge of the game. He should develop into a great little player, however, and should show up better in the games to follow.

Reidy and Myers led off the ninth with hits. Chaput forced Myers at second. Linneborn hit to Dolan, who got him at first, and threw to second to get Chaput, but Tully thought a force was all that was needed, and never touched the runner, Reidy scoring. Matteson popped out to short.

Anderson Scores First.

Anderson started the scoring for London in twelve minutes, and Penny made it two a minute later on a neat shot in front of the goal. At the quarter the score was 2 to 0 in London's favor, and in the opening minute of the second quarter London scored again. Slattery notched Brantford's first on a nice play in 4½ minutes, and at half time the score remained 3 to 1.

"Why, he didn't know a soul in the States—except yourselves," he added tactfully. The uncle, who had been polishing his domed forehead with a large handkerchief at intervals during the last quarter of an hour, cleared his throat as a preliminary to some important announcement, but ary to some important amouncement, but his better half had only kept silent be-cause of a real fear that her nephew had been engaged in the commission of serious crimes from the instant he set foot in New York, and she entered the fray vig-orously now.

"We don't know much about him, and that's the truth, Mr. Devar," she cried. "There was some family disagreement years ago, and the brothers lost track of each other, but Horace here never forgets a name, and why should he, seeing that John was his father's name, and Delancy his mother's, and our nephew has both, so the minute we saw that paragraph in the Chicago papers about the eminent Ameri-Chicago papers about the eminent American engineer who had been building rail-ways in China being on board the Lusitanla, I says to Horace: Horace, it would be a shame on us if we allowed your brother's son and your own nephew to arrive in New York without some of his kith and kin to bid him welcome,' and missed being at the docks, so if it hadn't been for our good luck in finding the man who helped John with his baggage, and who remembered the name of the hotel he gave the driver, we might have been searching New York all this blessed night without dreaming of coming to such a place as this, because the newspapers spoke so highly of John that we made sure he would be stopping in one of the Fifth avenue hotels like the Ward and we just answer the lady's torrent of questions with regard to himself and his own peaple when Steingall interfered.

Sorry to interrupt you." he said, "but the price of each pattern I cash or in postage stamps.

Curtis. Do you know you are wearing the dead man's overcoat?"

"Yes. I discovered that fact some time ago."

Curtis's prompt admission he would be stopping in one of the Flith avenue hotels like the Waldorf-Astoria or Hoffman House, or perhaps higher up-town, in the Ritz-Carlion or the Plaza." Mrs. Curtis was stout, so she yielded perforce to lack of breath, and Devar was able to explain smilingly that he, and none other, was responsible for the item in the newspapers.

"The fact is, that I took a great liking to John D.," he said. "He is such a real good fellow, and so sublimely unconsclous of his own merits, that I wanted to surprise him by starting a modest boom in the press, so I sent a whreless message about him to a journalistic friend in New York. I wondered why the reporters did in the newspapers. wondered why the reporters did not get hold of him when they came aboard at the quarantine station, but I remember now that, by some curious trick of fate, he and I stowed ourselves away in a part of the ship where no one was likely to find us, and I clean forgot to put them on his track when I went below."

"I guess my nephew has attended to the booming proposition on his own account," said Horace, getting under way at last. Devar laughed, but Mrs. Curtis was "Horace!" she cried indignantly, "that's the only unkind thing I've heard you say in years. Oh, yes"—for her husband had spread his hands in mild protest-"I know spread his hands in mild protest—"I know you didn't mean it, but bared shafts of humor often fall in places where they hurt, and it is terrible to think of your nephew being mixed up in a murder and an abduction, and—"

She broke off in mid-career, and fixed a starm axe on beyon.

"Are you quite sure he didn't get flirt-ing with some giddy young thing on the ship?" she demanded. "Tve heard and read of some strange goings-on among people crossing the Atlantic. I could tell two marriages and no less than five Devar was a polite young man, but he thought the situation called for firmness. "To the best of my belief, your nephew never so much as spoke to any lady on the ship," he vowed. "He read a good deal, and played cards occasionally, and walked the decks with me when the weather permitted, but he did not even mention a woman's name except your own, madam."

"The marvel is that he mentioned us at all," said Horace.

Devar thought in his own mind that the elder Curtis might be ponderous in body and speech, but he certainly revoaled horse sense when he opened his mouth.

"And whose fault was that, I should like to know?" cried Mrs Curtis. "Didn't your own brother quarrel with you because you said he ought to have married a woman of some stability of character, and not a pretty, feather-headed girl who spent her days reading poetry and her said Horace spent her days reading poetry and her nights in attending lectures, and who didn't begin to understand the A B C of a wife's domestic duties?

'Maybe I was wrong and he was right.' TODAY'S RIDDLE HEMORE YOU TAKE AWAY THE LARGER IT GROWS said her husband.

"Horace!"

Mrs. Curtis was marshalling her forces for a mighty effort when the door opened and Steingall entered, accompanied by a tall, well-set up man in evening dress. tall, well-set up man in evening dress, and wearing an open overcoat and green Homburg hat.
"Well!" cried Devar, springing forward "Well!" cried Devar, springing forward with outstretched hand, "I'm mighty glad to see you, John D.!"

The newcomer's face lit with pleasure, but efore he could utter a responsive word

s. Curtis gurgled:
"John D.!" Are you John Delancy, irtis? Horace, is this your nephew?"
'Judging from his looks, Louisa, he ight to be," said the stout man, gazing nent.
The Christian names of the couple act

The Christian names of the couple acted like a galvanic battery on Curtis. At first he could hardly believe his ears, but some resemblance in the portly Curtis to his own father warned him that this night of nights had not yet exhausted its store of stupefying surprises.

"Why," he exclaimed, smiling cheerfully, "you must be my uncle and aunt from Bloomington, Indiana!"

"If you're John Delancy Curtis, that's our correct description," said Horace.

"Of course he is," chortled Mrs. Curtis. "He's as like you the day I married you as two peas in a pod, and if our little Horace had been spared he would have been his living image. Nephew, I'm proud to meet you," and Mrs. Curtis folded her relation in an ample embrace.

Curtis earried off a difficult situation with ease. He kissed his aunt, shook hands with his uncle, and was about to answer the lady's torrent of questions with regard to himself and his own peaple when Steingall interfered.

Sorry to interrupt you," he said, "but the turn taken by tonight's crime demands your immediate attention, Mr.

Curtis's prompt admission was more favorable to his cause than he could possibly realize then, though he had seen the detective's extraordinarily brilliant eyes detective's extraordinarily brilliant eyes were fixed on the garment's blood-stained New Liskeard Mining Premoter eeve.
"And have you learned the owner's

"Yes; that is, I believe so, owing to seument I found in one of the pockets."
"Ah, what was that?" "Ah, what was that?"
"It concerned another person, but I am repared to tell you its nature if it is bsolutely essential."

HUNDREDS BIT EAGERLY

'It was a marriage license," he said. "And the names on it?"
"They were those of a Frenchman, Jean de Courtois, and of an English lady, Her-mione Beauregard Grandison."
"So you have imagined that the man ho was killed was this Monsieur Jean de

Then Curtis yielded to the swift conviction that he had unwittingly trapped Lady Hermione into a marriage on grounds that were inadequate and faise. AN INAUGURAL SERMON

Rev. William Hawkins Officiates for First Time-Assistant to Rev. Canon Tucker.

In his inaugural sermont at St. Paul's Cathedral, Rev. William Haw kins, of Montreal, who arrived Sunday to fill the vacancy made by the resigmation of Rev. G. F. B. Doherty, who recently went to Toronto, won a place in the hearts of the congregation. Young and with the appearance of a man who will some day make a name for himself high among the church dignitaries of this country, Mr. Hawkins, who is a graduate of Huron College, gave a forceful sermon on the progress of the world today, saying that many people have a pessimistic outlook and believe that this world is going to ruin, but that his belief is that it is gradually forging ahead to

He took his text from the fourth chapter and part of the sixth verse of Zachariah: "Not by might, nor by power, but by my Spirit, saith the Lord of Hosts."

The Divine Record. "There are numerous phrases of sentences throughout the divine record which stand alone, and which do not require any context to make them-selves significant," said he. "They selves significant," said he. "They have a majesty all their own. They do not require any elaborate framework to sustain them. They are landmarks, standing along life's highway; diligent ing to the wayfarer. Although the passage has a certain significance in context it is capable of being given certain meanings as a moral or legal

The truth of that majestic message God has been recalled down the Zachariah told him of the candlesticks, tholicism, the seven lamps and the seven pipes and the two blive trees. And I asked showing the true way to church union.

An Age of Wonder. "The world of bygone ages never dreamed of the wonders of the present age, although the world of the past had great wonders. And there seems to be no limit, the future giving promise of greater things in these developments.

The World Grows Better. "But have you ever assumed the time all these things become perfect What then? Suppose I have been carried to the mightiest height of human success. What then? I would be like the little boy whose father built fo him a pair of waxen wings so that he might take to flying, and who after going some distance with his father thought he could go alone, but who got too near the sun, whose heat melt-ed his wings and caused him to fall to earth, calling wildly for his father's help. Might and power will do grea things and carry us to great heights, but the limit is reached sooner later, and then, like the foam on the crest of the waves, they pass away, and are no more. Pages of history tell us of great nations that have fallen because they trusted in temporal things instead of the power of God. Such things ought to warn us. We need not be pessimists and say the world is coming to ruin; because believe this world is marching on gradually to perfection. The propagation of religion is all that it means, Its supreme beauty and its insurpassable beauties of goodness are the greatest things in this life.

"The best government will never be realized; the drunkard will never be reclaimed unless the Christian men and women come out into the fight to uphold the cause which is right. "The Word of Omnipotent God, that still small word, comes out and says, 'Not by might or by power, but by my Spirit.'"

CENTENNIAL CHURCH HAD FLOWER SUNDAY

Speakers Point to the Flowers as Object Lesson to Man.

Sunday was Flower Sunday at the Centennial Methodist Church, and despite the fact that large numbers of people from all parts of the city were attracted to the First Methodist Church for the conference services, large congregations were present, The church was tastefully decorated, flow ers in profusion adorning the pulpit and chancel. Rev. James E. Holmes and Rev. A. S. Harris, a former pastor of the church, each addressed the congregation briefly at the evening

Too Much Materialism.

Rev. Mr. Holmes addressed his remarks to the young people, warning them against the materialistic tenden-cy of the time. "Beware," he said, "of the materialistic and commercializing influences of the age."

Rev. Mr. Harris spoke on the sub-ject of "Flowers," suiting his remarks to the children, a large number of whom were present. The flower was a prototype of the ideal human life. A flower was beautiful; it had fragrance and it was useful in that it produced fruit. A life should be useful: it should have about it the fragrance of good deeds, and such a life could not help but be beautiful. Mr. Bert Weir, rendered several excellent selections.

"Man in the Making" Subject of Sunday Sermon of Rev.

Dr. Stansfield. RELATIONSHIP TO GOD

Man Is the Offspring of the Eternal and Will Never Cease To Be Such.

And fortunately the prerogative power of evil is limited. Sometimes it does not go beyond the second generation, but the good is transmitted from generation to generation. "Blood tells," said Dr. Stansfield, "To be well born is the greatest of heritages. The purpose of God by healthy marriages is to have good children."

Man in the Making. "Man in the Making" was Dr. Stansfield's subject. His text was found partly in Genesis, partly in the epistles to the Thessalonians and Ro-"God made man in his own We have sinned and fallen short of the glory of God. But we

"In the Christian religion there is a leeper sense of sin than anywhere When men come to know their true and right relation to God, then the consciousness of sin is great. We are made to be good. There is a great deal of good in human nature. It is the good that shames, that feels guilty. is goodness that blushes, not bad-It is the good, not the wrong, that feels the sense of shame. Human life is a good deal more like God han unlike God. Jesus was the fullest expression of the life and glory of God that the world has ever seen. Sin is missing the mark, the consciousness that we have fallen short of the glory of God. Sin touches us not all in the same way. There are some here who do not need to be saved from horsestealing, drunkenness or licentiousness. VIEW OF RELIGION OFTEN TOO NARROW

Preaching to the Gentiles.

Rev. J. H. Boyd preached on Sunday morning on "A Great Sermon and What Came of It," taking the story of he visit to Cornelius as his text. Mr. Boyd said that the Book of Acts was a series of surprises, and this story one of them. This was the first time that any of the apostles had been asked to preach to the Gentiles, and Peter did not feel that it was right for him to go to Ceasarea until God showed him that which he had cleansed Peter had no right to call unclean. The speaker continued: "How narrow we sometimes get in our view of religion. We think that only ourselves, only those that believe as we do, are right. We forget that

A Wonderful Discovery By a German Specialist

Mellitus was numbered among the in-curable diseases, and today many are sufferers from this complaint, and are under the impression that they are incurable. Physicians are employed without any avail, and so the disease is allowed to run on until the sufferer eventually succumbs. This is the story we hear day by day the world About eleven years ago a German specialist started to work out his wonderful cure, and after nine years of labor and many disappointme he at last perfected SANOL'S ANTI-DIABETES, which during the last two years thousands of sufferers have been cured of this disease, and many so-called incurables, people whose doctors had given them up, once again restored to their health and strength. Slowly, but surely, it came to be a recognized fact, with both the people and the medical profession of Canada, that SANOL'S ANTI-DIABETES is the one remedy that may be relied upon to cure this fatal

The manufacturers of SANOL'S ANTI-DIABETES have received within the last nine months over three thousand letters of recommendation many from some of the most prominen people in the city of Winnipeg, and all over the country. The remedy is in-dorsed b, many of Winnipey's leading physicians, who do not hesitate in recommending it to their own pa-tients. This medicine is daily used in many of the hospitals and colleges in Canada. People using SANOL'S ANTI-DIABETES suffer from no illeffects, as the preparation is made from pure herbs, and absolutely no alcohol or poisonous matter is used in its preparation.

CORRESPONDENCE

The Publicity Problem.

To the Editor of The Advertiser:
A rumor is affoat that the manufact urers' committee is about to appoin another publicity agent, and severa names have appeared in your valuabl paper as being likely candidates fo the position. As far as is known, no one of these has the necessary qual fications for such a position. The man appointed should have some journalis tic ability, should have been a busi essman, in, or connected with, large wholesale firms. He should also be superior education, possessed of private means, and a man whose integrity of purpose and moral character is be ond question. Have we such a man in London? Several! But they hesitate to put their names forward. Why not call a meeting of the executive of the las Old Boys' reunion and let them discus this matter and select a man fit and worthy of the position. The service of Old Boys in the other cities of Canada and the United States could be utilized for getting into communication with firms looking for likely sites in which to locate industries.

The citizens give liberally to the Old Boys' reunion fund, and have a right to expect something more than a good The Old Boys' reunion would then erve some useful purpose. Publicity agent and permanent secretary of the Old Boys would be an deal combination and should result in real business in the way of attracting the notice of those working for industrial advantages in the best locations. Judge Morson's Decision.

To the Editor of The Advertiser: Dear Sir,-Although it may seem omewhat presumptuous for the mere ayman to question the wisdom of a decision of the judiciary when the inerpretation of a legal code is involved, et when, as in this case, a moral issue overshadowing importance is bound with it, the intrusion may be overked. The learned judge, no doubt orrectly interprets the code from the ard, legal standpoint, but what about he moral issue and the effect of the decision upon the public conscience? according to this jurist, a few vulgar and suggestive passages do not necesarily vitiate the play as a whole. Does not this seem to undermine a great law that is almost as old as the race. viz., that the beginnings of evil must suppressed? "Take us the foxes, he little foxes that spoil the vines"; dead flies cause the oil of the perumer to send forth an evil odor; so loth a little folly outweigh wisdom and onor" (Revised version) nonor." (Revised version): "Look not upon the wine when it is red," etc. Avoid even the appearance of evil."

New Testament). The particular passage in the play complained of by the crown, and upon which the magistrate mainly based his opinion, concedes the moral right of any woman, married or single to throw off the wholesome restraints which ivilized society imposes on her, and virtually to revert to a state of barparism. The great law that the sanctity of motherhood is conditioned on the sancity of marriage has been recognized from the remotest antiquity til the present; has been voiced by sages, prophets and apostles, and by the great reacher Himself, and is practiced vigrously even by the young Bedouin and he gypsies. Is it any wonder then that at this stage, when evil is daily becomng more seductive and aggressive and hen the gilded baits of vice are angled before the young at every turn, he decision of the learned judge should grate harshly upon the public ear and upon the public conscience? A few wicked and immoral passages or salies in a play or public performance may now be allowed, on the ground that they are merely "isolated passages," and therefore do not make the whole play immoral. If this is the law, and it seems to be, are we a Christian nation? LAYMAN. London, Ont., June 8.

Making a Flat World Round

When Columbus set out to reach India by sailing westward, he met with opposition and ridicule.

> He believed the earth to be round. Wise men held that it was flat—that Columbus was mad -and that he'd fall off somewhere if he departed from > established beliefs. But Columbus' belief found him a continent and made him blessed of memory.

The Business World is flat to some men

Their profit-bearing shores of Opportunity stretch only so far as their grandfathers trod. Custom, superstition and apathy have set them confines which they may not pass. For instance, they believe the business year is a flat onenot an all-year round of trade, with East joining West, with Spring merging into Autumn—but just two distinct seasons, with sawed-off edges gaping into space.

They confine their activities to a Spring trade and to a Fall trade. To them there is no intervening continent with stores of waiting wealth. Their world is flat. They have not explored the mid-year months of Summer trade. June, July and August are never-never land.

Surely this conception of Summer as a "dull" season is as fallacious as the delusion that the earth was flat. People have just as much money in the hot weather and spend quite as freely as in Spring and Fall. Granted that they are not buying skates and snow shovels in August, yet they are buying staple articles. Furthermore, they have an eye on luxuries and comforts they are counting upon purchasing in the Fall.

The modern Columbus has discovered this Summer trade—this golden West lying between the known continents of old beliefs. Departing from established habit, many have made their energies and their Advertising an all-year-round proposition.

Keeping up Advertising during the Summer months not only links your Spring and Fall, but produces rich harvests from the Summer months themselves.
