Salvation Army Representative Finds Her and Has Supplies Sent—One of Many Cas es Which Come to Light.

With a wee babe in her arms, a woman was found in bed by the Salvation Army, where she had gone to seek warmth because she had no fuel to heat the house. She was in desperate circumstances because she had no one to care for her and was absolutely without food. As soon as the discovery was made food and coal were sent her to tide her over until some definite assistance could be arranged. This is only one of the many cases that almost daily are brought to the attention of the Salvation Army.

Another case recently reported was that of a woman with several small children who was in need of food and coal because her sick husband, the only breadwinner in the family, had been sent away to the country for treatment. As he had been sick for some time and had to be cared for, she was without money and means of getting it. Help has

The wrong system.

He said that the majority of people adopted the wrong system of smothering pain with nerve-deadening drugs, which were about as effective as stopping the squeak in a car by smothering the noise with sawdust. As the result of this habit the character reader was always in danger of making an error in his judgment because of an obscured fault. Because of this possibility he must become a close observer of physical conditions and usually became a strong advocate of the natural treatment instead of the use of drugs and serums. The speaker told of the mentioned the case of a young man with a milt disposition, who developed a violent temper from the use of quinine taken to cute malaria during one winter. The effects of the drug lasted fifteen years. Sometimes a drug would make the person using it color blind. Dr. L. W. age, and whose clear, beautiful tenor voice is one of the notable features of this very unusual production.

Perhaps one reason why Mr. Raseley is so self-confident in the use of his voice is that he has been singing for the past two years in the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church in New York, commonly known as the Rockefeller Church, because of the fact that John D. Rockefeller, Jum., teaches a Bible class there, Mr. Raseley, in fact, still sings there every Sunday when he is in New York. He is a native of Worcester, Mass., and his father is a retired clergyman. He studied music in Boston and sang as tenor in the New South Church, Copley Square. In casting Chu Chin Chow Morris Gest experienced the greatest difficulty in securing a young man with a tenor voice who had the youthful appearance necessary for the role of Nur-al-Huda. Through a musical agent Mr. Raseley was sent to him. The day Mr. Raseley was sent to him. The day Mr. Raseley sang for Mr. Gest he went upon the stage of the Century Theatre when it was absolutely empty and without any accompanist, he sang several selections from Grand Opera. Mr. Gest was so pleased with his voice that he at once placed the young man under contract for three years. It was anticipated that there would be some difficulty in teaching Mr. Raseley how to act, as he had never spoken a line in a dramatic performance, but E. Lyall Swete, the stage director who produced Chu Chin Chow, soon put Mr. Raseley quite at his ease. When he made his first appearance the opening night of Chu Chin Chow he had all the self-possession and poise of an experienced opera singer, and few knew that he was actually making his professional debut on the operatic stage.

URGES C. I. EXTENSION.
BRANTFORD, Jan. 15.—Lloyd L.
Miller was tonight elected chairman of the board of education. In his inaugural address, an extension of the Brantford Collegiate Institute was urged, as that school, with 570 pupils, is overgrowded. Provision of one room in each public school for medical and dental work was also "divected" and dental work was also advocated.

Many Departments Join For a General Clearance Saturday

Each day during the week these department January clearings have been following in succession, but for Saturday it will be all together for many final clearings. We are now going through stocks measuring and marking, getting ready for the final "taking down." All the odd lots must go before this last period of stocktaking; the present value has very little to do with the price making, our one object is to reduce stocks to the lowest point of safety. Such lots are priced to promote immediate sale in this pre-inventory January clearance.

You Can Bring Back Color and Lustre With Sage Tea and Sulphur.

When you darken your hair with Sage Tea and Sulphur, no one can tell, because it's done so naturally, so even ly. Preparing this mixture, though, at home is mussy and troublesome. At little cost you can buy at any drug store the ready-to-use preparation, improved by the addition of other ingredients called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning all grey hair disappears, and, after another the months of March and April, active the party danced until midding to an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Amsterdam.

Housing Comm. Is Considering Town Planning

Will Ask For Permission To Buy Ten Acres For This Purpose.

E. R. Dennis was elected to the chairmanship of the housing commission at its inaugural meeting last night. He has served on the commission as a member since its inception last year, and is therefore qualified for the position. The other members are R. H. Hessel, appointed in 1919 for a true of the commission decides to build tendent Dodd, in addition to any tenders which may be made by other contractors. This is in accordance with other city departments, such as the engineering department, where the engineer submits tenders on all proposed public improvements. Hessel, appointed in 1919 for a twoyear term. Victor Jackson and J. W.

Formal application to the government housing commission for permission to purchase ten acres on the Hamilton road, in the annex district, for building purposes, was moved by Commissioner Hessel. The 1919 commission and city council approved the plan, and only the government approval is needed. The property is owned by J. H. Homister and is known as the Pine Lawn estate. It is held under option at $10,000 by the commission.

At least 78 houses can be erected on this plot, and sold at reasonable prices, it is estimated. Application will be made to the board of works to secure sanitary sewers, sidewalks and other local improvements. In fact, an effort will be made to introduce town planning on a small scale. Five acres adjoining this property may also be purchased.

Erection of the houses will absorb all the $400,000 debentures which the com-Formal application to the government mission has at its disposal. Application will likely be made to have the city's allotment increased by $100.000 to $150.000. So far the city has not applied for any of the debentures at its disposal, but has conducted its work with what money was available.

Money was available.

Alternate Lots Only.

Commissioner Hessel suggests that in building the houses on this property only every second lot be used at the present time. This plan would enhance the value of the remaining lots sufficiently to cover overhead expenses in connection with the plan, he thinks. He would not place any restriction on the type of houses, however, because he thinks this would prevent some people from building, the cost being too great.

Judge Holds Plaintiffs Have Just Claim Against D. Teasdall.

Mills, Limited, against Douglas Teasdall, which was tried at the December sittings of the county court, Judge Macheth has handed out a written Judgment in favor of the plaintiff. He says that Teasdall by an option of about the 15th of December sold his shares to R. L. Baker of Toronto. and the option was exercised about the middle of January, 1919, but after that period a quantity of hose, belonging to the company, was taken by Mr. Teasdall for samples. He points out that Mr. Teasdall admits having taken seventeen dozen samples, but denies any further taking of samples, but his honor points out that there were eighteen dozen samples found in his attic. His honor prefers the evidence of the heads of the departments in the hosiery mills, who swore that a large quantity of samples, in addition to the seventeen dozen that Mr. Teasdall admitted that he took and claimed to have paid for with $23, had been made and taken by somebody, and he holds Mr. Teasdall responsible for their absence from the mill. He fixes the value of the amount taken over and the eighteen dozen secured by the sheriff under the replevin order at $188, and gives the plaintiffs costs of the action. sittings of the county court, Judge

EXTENSION LECTURE GIVEN BY DEAN FOX AT THE WESTERN U Delivers Fascinating Address

On Subject of Lucien and His Writings.

"Lucien, a Modern Novelist in an Ancient World," was the subject of a fascinating address delivered last fascinating address delivered last night in the Western University arts building by Dean W. Sherwood Fox. This was the first of the new term university extension lectures. The specier claimed that Lucien

The speciar claimed that Lucien was a modern novelist, because his works were written in the modern style and his novels became the basis of the work of men like Dean Swift in his "Gulliver's Travels." He was the model for "Baron Munchausen," for H. G. Wells in "War of the World" and "A Trip to Mars." for Jules Verne in "Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea," "A Trip to the Moon" and

"A Trip to Mars."

"A great many tales have been copied direct from the works of Lucien, such as John Kendrick Bangs' "Houseboat on the Styx." which is copied right out of Lucien's "Diologues With the Dead." said Dean Fox.

"Houseboat on the Styx." which is copied right out of Lucien's "Diologues With the Dead." said Dean Fox.

"His style is the purest Attic style of the Golden Age." the speaker continued. "He was a Syrian Greek born in the second century A. D. He wrote a couple of romances. One was "The Ava.or,' in which he made a man fly from the earth to the moon. giving vivid descriptions of what the earth looked like from above and the appearance of the moon. After he left the mon he went to heaven and hobnobbed with Jupiter, where he was wined and dined. Here the writer introduces a few philisophical problems. For example, he hears Zeus answering prayers and introduces the problem of conflicting prayers. One man might be praying for rain, while another prayed for dry weather and so on. Before the aviator leaves heaven the writer has Jupiter tear off his wings so that he will not be able to fly to heaven again, and then sends him by special messenger to earth.

A True Story.

"Another story written by Lucien is called a 'True Story,' because It's a lie." says the writer, and explains himself by saying that he is the only honest writer, because the others tell lies, but will not acknowledge it. In the story his hero goes out to sea in a ship and the ship and crew are carried up to the moon in a storm. This is a very funny burlesque and introduces also a story similar to Jonah and the whale, for a great fish is made to swallow the whole crew of men, who live inside the creature until they are emitted a year later. They then pay a visit to the Islands of the Blessed, and it would seem that the writer knew the book of 'Revelation' from the description of that country. From there the traveler's yovage to the 'Land of the Lipslessed' and it would seem that the writer knew the book of 'Revelation' from the description of that country. A CLEAR-CUT POLICY. After his speeches at Newmarket and Halffax nobody can charge that Mr. Mackenzie King hasn't made it clear just what the policy of the Liberal party is. He has announced definitely and distinctly that the program laid down at the great Ottawa convention is to be followed now and in the future. Liberalism will endeavor to bring unity and stability to Canada. While Mr. King pointed out how much there was in common between the policies of Labor, the Farmers and the Liberals, he made it plain that he would not be influenced by anything that savored of class rule. For Labor and the returned soldier he showed the great responsibility resting on the country. The Liberal party proposed to fight the battles of these two classes, as well as that of the agrarian element, without being subservient to any one of them or to any grouping. In all of them could be found the essential truths of Liberalism. The truest unity for Canadians could only be achieved by broad-minded consideration of all problems, and willingness to make some sacrifices for the common advantage. What Mr. King presented to his countrymen were the first principles of the Liberalism that has left its mark in the best that is in this nation, through the labors of Mackenzie, Mowat, Ross, Mills and Laurier. In the inaugurating of his leadership he shows promise of being a worthy successor to the giants of Canadian Liberalism.

FARMERS' ROAD POLICY.

Mr. Drury's plans for road improvement throughout Ontario, as announced by his minister of public works, is one of the most ambitious ever proposed in this country, and is one that should on the whole receive the support of the general public. According to Mr. Biggs it is intended that all county highways shall be looked after by the province, and keeping township roads in good shape. In county road work the province will utilize Ontario's share of the Federal Government's the eight-cent single egg. Since 1906, the cost, grants. Under this plan it is estimated that of living has been steadily advancing. Before the Federal Government will contribute 40 municipalities 18 per cent. This should make for better roads, as, under the present system of repairing-that by statute labor-the work is far from being as dependable as the traffic calls for. An interesting item of Mr. Biggs' announcement states that it is expected that before next winter a provincial highway connecting Ottawa with Windsor will be finished. This confounds critics of the U. F. O. who have declared that the farmers considered such a highway a racetrack for city joy-riders, and would never sanction its construction.

STUDYING OUR OWN HISTORY.

Prof. Wittke of the Ohio State University writes in the Historical Outlook urging upon American universities that they should in future give more attention to the study of Canadian history, Canada, he points out, has attained a rank among the nations of the world that makes her national history of interest everywhere, but more particularly to the United States, her nearest neighbor and closely linked in so many ways. Prof. Wittke says that among the students of the universities of his country Canada has not heretofore been known properly and he suggests that courses in Canadian history should be included in the curriculum.

It is a question if we in Canada give the attention to our own history that we should. The average high school boy knows more about the Tudor period of English history than he does about the French period of Canadian history, and is better acquainted with the career of Julius Caesar than with the career of Sir John Macdonald. It is wise that the students in our schools should have a knowledge of English history and ancient history, too, but there is scant excuse for neglecting our own national annals as much as we do. Until we have in this country a better knowledge of our history, an understanding of how things came to be, the agitator and the loud-mouthed demagogue will still have free play. A people who know where they came from and how they came to be what they are will not easily become the prey of partisans, and may be trusted to steer their ship of state clear of the rocks that have wrecked so many nations.

THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS.

Today marks the advent of the League of Nations. The ratification of the peace treaty was an historic event, yet it did not carry the import that goes with the first official step to put into play the covenant of the league. The peace signing ended the great war, but today in Paris will be launched a world-wide movement to do away with war. The council of the league is composed of representatives of Great Britain, France, Italy, Japan, Belgium and Brazil. Twelve neutral states-Argentine, Colombia, Spain, Sweden, Chile, Denmark, Norway, Paraguay, Holland, Salvador, Switzerland and Venezuela-will take part in the discussions of the assembly section, which might be described as the lower house of the league. The test of the league will, of course, come now when the opportunity will be presented to act on the program worked out during the last twelve months. The world will know very soon just how useful the league is to be in bringing about and maintaining universal peace. The placing and acceptance of mandatories, the reduction of armaments, courts to see that equity and justice shall be handed out to everybody, schemes for the improvement of conditions of labor, all these are vitally necessary to the league becoming an instrument to achieve world harmony. The league may fail, in which case the world will go back to the old dangerous methods of diplomacy, more or less secret, that contributed a lot to bring on the explosion of August, 1914. It will mean more alliances for offense and defense, a resumption of militarism with its stupendous and crippling expenditures. The masses the world over, however, are passionately determined that they will not again be subjected to the agonies of the last four years and as their representatives around the council board of the League of Nations are acutely aware of this, it may be taken for granted they will abandon any attitude that would tend to wreck the league. Providing they are sincere and have accurately gauged what the nations desire, the chances are bright for a successful inauguration at Paris today of the movement towards a happier world.

RETIRED CLERGY.

Generally speaking, the average church member regards the superannuation fund with no great cordiality. That indifference had its beginning years ago, in times when eggs were 8 cents a dozen and wheat 60 cents a bushel in a period when a dollar a day was the recognized wage for a laborer. Then the salary of a country clergyman-$700 a year, a free house and an allowance for horse feed-was regarded with envy by many farmers who, perhaps, did not handle in actual money more than $300 a year, but who lived on the fat of the land. In like manner, the city minister's stipend, of perhaps $1,000 a year, seemed a good deal in the eyes of a factory worker or a retail clerk.

Under such circumstances, any appeal for support of a pension fund was met by this argument: "Any man getting a good salary all the time ought to provide for his own old age." The view was short-sighted. It did not take into account a long and expensive course of education. The critics did not bear in mind that men in the secular profession, no better educated than the clergy, could command frequently from six to ten times the monetary reward of their classmates of the cloth. Entering the ministry in itself was a sacrificial act.

Bearing that in mind, leaders of the churches planned pension funds, calling upon the ministers themselves for an annual premium from their scanty resources, and appealing at the same time to the congregations to augment the income thus received. Twenty-five years ago. one of the churches was fixed at a payment of tive work. The man who had preached for forty years, wearing himself out in the service of his neighbors, received the munificent sum of $400

In the day of the "eight-cent eggs" the annuity was reasonable. But this is the day of the fateful fourth of August, 1914, the allowinadequate. Yet they were not properly increased. What can be thought of them today when the dollar has less than half the purchasing power it had before the war?

Without any exaggeration, the annuities paid to decayed clergy in Canada are a disgrace to religion, and a reflection on the common sense of the church members. One of the ob jects of the Forward Movement, which has enlisted Anglicans, Baptists, Congregationalists, Methodists and Presbyterians, in a united national campaign, is to put the various superannuation funds on a good footing, that the great preachers and leaders of a former day shall not be compelled to walk threadbare and hungry to the grave.

HOME LIFE IN FRANCE THREATENED. Special courts are to be established in Paris to try divorce cases, of which there are 123,000 waiting to be heard. Such a situation is unparalleled in France or anywhere else. It is estimated that there are 577,600 families in the French capital, and this would make one divorce in every four and one-half families. The United States has acquired an unenviable reputation as a country of easy divorce, but the proportion is only one to ten marriages, and even at that the same parties often appear in the divorce court again and again. Divorce used to be almost unknown among the middle classes in France. As in England, the middle class used to be eminently respectable, and scandals occurred almost entirely among the upper and lower grades of society. But the present epidemic affects the middle class almost exclusively, and can be attributed only to the war.

France was obliged during her struggle for life to put the whole of her man power in the field and keep it there. Most of her soldiers never saw their homes from the first day of the war until the last or, if they did, it was only for a flying visit. In four or five years of enforced absence husband and wife have grown away from each other, and are almos total strangers. Many of them, too, have formed new ties which they are not satisfied to break. Even those men who have come back untrammeled have become deteriorated in nature by five years of the most ferocious fighting the world has ever seen.

All these causes contribute to a situation that is simply appalling. And the question arises, What is to become of the children of these unhappy couples? France is in such a deplorable condition industrially that a man who marries again cannot afford to support two families, and if the children are allotted to the mother she will not be able to support them. Nor can she expect to find another husband, with a million and a half young men of France dead and as many more crippled. Of all the evils that has been brought upon France by the

WHAT IS A CANADIAN? [Farmer's Sun.]

We are told that we must make Canadians of those who migrate to Canada from other countries Quite true. But what is a Canadian? Many of those who talk of Canadianizing others are real in need of being Canadianized themselves. Their conception of Canada is a transplanted England with the eyes of those transplanted always turned towards a country separated from us by 3,000 mile It should be quite clear that we cannot make Canadians of that sort out of immigrants com ing to us from the United States or from Continental Europe. We can make real Canadians of thes and their descendants, but we cannot expect to develop in them a patriotism in which a countr they have never seen shall have first place and the country in which they live second. Neither can expect this of our fellow-Canadians of French ancestry. What we can do is to unite all the race this country as parts of a Canadian nation. that is the task to which we should all, regardless of our ancestry, give our undivided efforts. The land in which we live, and in which our children will live after us, is the one which has first claim

CANADIAN POETRY. [McMaster University Monthly.]

Poetry is the clinking together of two unexpected

In the realm of Canadian poety there has recently developed a fad which bids fair to become the ruling passion of literature-vers libre. Never were poets so numerous and so prolific as today, and we wonder whether this apparently irrepressible output may not be attributed to the discovery of "free verse," which, by removing the barriers of rhyme, has admitted the multude. "Poets," says one editor, "seem as numerous as sparrows through the cool sunshine, and almost as quarrelsome." Their name, indeed, is legion. Poetry in these days is a energy and sometimes thought to produce a poem. But when we have finally completed a limerick for a newspaper want ad column, how proudly we read our effusion! We feel as Don Marquis must have felt when he said:

> Poetry is something we once got paid A dollar a line for. But we're not going to tell you the name Of the magazine:

Seriously, however, the Canadian people as a whole are not interested in this greatest of all methods of rendering beautiful thoughts. With them, "publishing a volume of verse is like dropping a rose petal down the Grand Canyon and waiting to hear the echo." Doggerel is entertaining as a pastime, and free verse popular because it looks easy to write. But brief and transient is the attention paid to our war poetry, of which we might be justly proud, says the Canadian Bookman. In technique, onyl a small part of our poetry of the present war npares with the product of such British writers as Kipling and Rupert Brooke, and in volume it is of course but a little stream. . . . But in three aspects it is unexcelled; no other verse is more bathed in the blood and agony of bitter struggle; none speaks from a soul of more uncompelled and undiluted chivalry; and no other proceeds specifically from our Canadian point of view, and, so to speak, courses directly in our national veins."

TWO SORTS OF METEORITES [New York Sun.]

Somewhere out in space millions of bits of matter quit their jobs every day and go out for an ethereal good time. How far they travel in the airless streets of the infinite nobody knows. The people of this planet see them only after they reach the atmosphere which kindly surrounds the earth. Then their good time is over. Traveling through the frictional air makes them red hot. them burn out. Others come down to be lost in the sea with a final hiss, to be buried in the ground as deep as their speed of forty-four miles a second compels. A few million people have flown off the handle in the industrial world and are whizzing through space, spending like moguls and loafing like Ludlam's dog. After they hit the atmosphere necessity there's going to be a flash and a thud.

MINCE PIE. [Cincinnati Times=Star.]

Prohibition has gone too far. We have tasted the "dry" mince pie. Most emphatically we say that it is not mince pie-at least, not the kind that mother used to make and for which father furnished the bottle. Those were the mince pies that were mince pies! Mother's mince meat seemed the glowing embers of the richest fruits, set between two pieces of fondly embracing crust. But this thing that they now seek to pass as mince pie is nothing more than a soggy sandwich, a hash that s metamorphosed into congealed lead as it meets the gastric juices. Mince pie had best join its disreputable companions that suddenly have anathema to the American legislator and his friend the lobbyist. For, without the contribution that came from father's bottle, mother is powerless. Her ples have become the rose without the odor, the tree without the foliage, the egg without the nog.

Why McKim Campaigns are Successful

Successful advertising is not a matter of so many inches in the newspapers and magazines.

In the first place, there must be a correct understanding of the relation of the product, or service, to the public. Then follows the determination of the IDEA—the key to the appeal.

Next comes a wise selection of media, and the decision as to sizes, sequence and frequency of advertisements. Then illustration, text and setting must be designed to attain the maximum effect - to make the idea LIVE!

It may seem simple to follow this plan, but many who have copied the outward appearance of the successful campaigns we have put on, miss the vital essentials, and make failures where unqualified success is deserved.

During the War it became necessary for the Dominion Government to propagate certain IDEAS regarding military service, food resources. finance and so on. A. McKIM LIMITED was chosen-not once or twice, but time after time to assist in propaganda work, and this new idea in advertising accomplished all that was expected.

Groups of manufacturers, as well as individual firms, have been advertising in this light, and have successfully created new uses for their products, as well as new users.

There is a tremendous field for commercial development of this nature, if it is skilfully presented.

Advertising is neither a gamble, nor is it a "sure thing." It is a straight business undertaking, requiring sane judgment and shrewd common sense.

With the wide experience gained in thirty years' successful work, we are able to offer guidance that makes valuable the newspaper and magazine space that is used.

Some of the largest manufacturers in Canada are among our clients, and have been for years. · Over three hundred advertisers—great and small trust us with the handling of their advertising-the largest clientele of any advertising agency.

Before you reach any decision regarding the expenditure of your advertising appropriation for 1920, we would like to discuss the possibilities with you.

To Manufacturers

Advertising, well directed, is a first consideration in your plans for more business in 1920. Why not break away from the old fixed market and develop new uses for your product?

If competition is keen, your campaign should put you beyond its reach. If you cannot keep up with the demand, your expenditure for advertising is well invested because of the Goodwill created.

Public Opinion

A new word coined during the War-"Profiteering"-is being used very freely. Quite often, if the public knew the truth regarding earnings, opinion would be much more favorable. Well directed advertising has a salutary effect on unjust agitation, and is of inestimable benefit.

Financial houses realize that advertising is of the greatest importance where new stock is to be issued for public subscription. So much depends upon the general attitude towards the enterprise, that the ground should be carefully prepared by judicious advertising before the prospectus is issued to the public.

If what has been written above touches upon your business, you will be interested in reading the book to be issued shortly, "The Force that Makes Ideas Live."

Business executives are invited to write for a copy to our nearest office.

ADJUTANT MARSHALL TALKS TO GIRLS' CLUB ON "LOVING SERVICE"

High School Girls Will Visit Charitable Institutions Next Week.

A vary jolly supper party took place at the Y. M. C. A. yesterday, when the High School Girls' Club met there for their regular monthly meeting. The guest of honor was Adjutant Marshall of the Bethesda Salvation Army Hospital, who gave an impressive talk on the beauty of "loving service," or social service, as it is more commonly called. There were other guests present, among them Mr. and Mrs. Mooney, several of the teachers of the school, and some of the girls' mothers.

Plans for the coming season were discussed by the girls, and reports of the three discussion groups given. The social service group will visit various charitable institutions in the city next week, report on their visit at the next meeting of the club, to form a basis of discussion.

week, report on their visit at the next meeting of the club, to form a basis of discussion.

A letter from the French orphan, whom the club is supporting at school, was read, the child expressing her gratitude at being able to continue at school for another year, through the generosity of the High School Girls' Club.

Cynthia Grey's Mail-Box

May our house always be too small to hold all our friends.—A Toast, Song For Mae.

Dear Miss Grey,—I have been a silent reader of 'The London Advertiser for some time, and I thought I would write when I would be of some use.

Seeing in Wednesday's paper that "Mae" wanted the words of the song "Carry Me Back To Dear Old Virginny," so I am inclosing them for her. We have it on our Victrola and it is lovely to hear the negro voices singing. I am very fond of music and take both piano and violin lessons.

Have you been vaccinated? I have, and it is just at its worst now. Hope I haven't taken too much space. I and it is just at its worst now. Hope I haven't taken too much space. I remain, BIDDY.

Ans.—Thank you, Biddy, for the song which I have sent to Mae. How lovely that you are so musically talented. We wish you the greatest success.

Wrote While Father Sang.

Dear Miss Grey and All the Readers, I am greatly interested in the Mall-ox letters, and read them every day.

of pink sweet peas. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. S. Salton, and only the immediate relatives and friends of the family were present.

After a dainty wedding breakfast, Mr. and Mrs. Marshall left for the East. Mrs. Marshall left for the East. Mrs. Marshall lonning a coat of silvertone and wearing black furs. On their return they will reside at "Dunedin." London Township. The groom is a returned man, having served overseas for four years, attached to the 29th Battery.

The words of "A Perfect Day," and was glad to receive them from Sar-donyx, for which I greatly thank her. I also thank Full-Fledged Farmerette for her response to my appeal. Has no one any war songs for me. or are these rather scarce at present? Well, Miss Grey, was old Santa Claus good to you? He filled my stocking up to the tip-toe. I hope you and all your Pageites had a very happy new year. Could you tell new that the names Florence, Emily, Jean and Ruth mean? Thanking you very kindly and all your helpers, I will now close, with much love to all. From FLORRIE.

P.S.—It really seems good to see P.S.—It really seems good to see the Mail-Box news steadily increasing. It first took up but a small corner, but now it occupies nearly the whole page. Ans.—Florence, blooming; Emily, energetic; Jean, gracjous, gift of God; Ruth, beauty.

An interesting series of home hours on Sunday afternoon are being started at the Y. W. C. A. residence, King street, by Mrs. John Crawford, the extension secretary. This is but one of the many moves which aim at maxing the "Y" a social centre for girls in the city. On Sunday afternoon delightful music will be furnished, tea will be served to the girls, who may sit about the cosy grate fires and enjoy themselves. Next Sunday the music will be provided by the Senior Girls' Club of St. Andrew's Church, the organizations in other churches following up this phase of the work on succeeding Sundays.

There is also being carried on at the "Y" a Bible class for household assistants, who find it impossible to get out to church. This class is from 3:30 to 4 o'clock every Sunday.

WINDSOR, Jan. 15. — With Rube Deneau of Canadian League baseball history on the town council, and Arthur Pelkey on the board of education the town of Ford's athletic interests should be well looked after. Deneau can look after the voungsters' sand lots to play the youngsters' sand lots to pla on, and Pelkey has already started a propaganda for more boxing and less of the three R's. The Rube ought to make a great municipal man. On the ball field he was always crafty and was thinking most of the time when he hadn't ball players. He won't get as many headaches on the latter job as he did playing professional ball. Pelkey has his arena already built with a seating capacity of 600. Pelkey should make good at his new home. # Better Than SALE Values Are These Clothes Prices

So small is the profit on a Suit or Overcoat made by the Regent Tailors that if we were to reduce the price only $1.00 we would lose money! We rely on small profits on a large number of orders rather than on a big profit on a small number of orders.

That is why Regent Tailors' Suits or Overcoats always represent the greatest value for the money it is possible for you to obtain. They are the standard of value for all Canada.

But take our advice—the state of the woolen market is such that in order to protect yourself against coming higher prices you should leave your order immediately at the present price.

Every Garment Positively Guaranteed

Remember that when you buy Regent Tailors' clothes you pay only one small profit because you deal direct with the makers. Every one of our Suits or Overcoats would cost you from $10 to $15 more if bought from any clothing store, because of the profit that would have to be added. The price TO YOU is really the WHOLESALE PRICE. Think of this big saving and act at once. Your Suit or Overcoat is fully guaranteed to fit and satisfy or you do not have to take it.

Speculataion is active in the Euroan capitals as to what will be the next move of the Bolsheviki. It is regarded as certain that, flushed with success, they will not be content with their present conquests, but will seek to extend Bolshevism either eastward or westward. Expert military opinion inclines to the belief that their next move will be an attack on Poland and the Baltic states, and Warsaw dispatches to the London papers already indicate that the Poles are fully anticipating such a move.

Formidable Forces.

The soviets now undoubtedly command formidable forces, but not sufficient to warrant an attempt to advance

The semi-official statement issued at London today seems to indicate that the British Government is more apprehensive of a move eastward, threatening India.

OTTAWA, Jan 15 .- (By Canadian Press )-Definite retirement of Hon. S. Mewburn from the cabinet has started the usual crop of political rumors. There are now two vacant portfolios-those of the department of public works and of militia and defence. In regard to the first named gossip has it on the one hand that Hon. A. K. McLean is to take over the department; on the other, that the appointee will be Hon, Hugh Guthrie, at present solicitor-general. In regard to both, Sir George Foster, acting prime minister, observed today that he was not responsible for gossip and knew nothing of either rumors. So far, however, arrangements made knew nothing of either rumors.

So far, however, arrangements made are as follows:

Hon. J. A. Calder, minister of immigration, becomes also acting minister of militia. and there is a likelihood that his appointment will be made permanent. Hon. J. D. Reid, minister of railways and canals, is also appointed acting minister of public works. Since administration of Government railways was placed in the hands of the Dominion Railway Company, the work of the railway department has been considerably reduced. In regard to both of the vacant portfolios, however, Sir Robert Borden announced before his departure that they were unlikely to be filled until his return.

The merging of a number of public departments is planned with a consequent reduction in the number of cabinet portfolios.

EXTEND MORATORIUM

Expend Sixty Millions Upon Ontario Roads

TORONTO, Jan. 15 .- Sixty million iollars will be spent upon good roads construction in the province of Ontario during the next five years, according to Hon. F. C. Biggs, minister of public works and highways, who returned to Toronto from Ottawa this reference to the lieutenant-governor's speech before the Rotary Club here a few days ago, when the governor was reported as having said it would be a calamity for Toronto and the province of Ontario if Government House and the position of lieutenant-governor were abolished. The premier's letter is dated January 14, and the governor's reply is dated today

His honor states that he had no intention of giving expression to his personal views on a matter in active public controversy, and he suggests that comments on his speech have given an erroneous impression as to what he said. The premier's letter is in a friendly tone, but he wants to know what Hon. Mr. Clarke did say, as reports of his speech admit of several interpretations.

The scheme will be developed to bear as lightly as possible on the tax-payers, he stated. On provincial high-ways it is understood the provincial nicipalities. In addition to that amount 45 millions will be expended by the municipalities, which will be added in various ways by the Drury Government. The scheme will be developed to bear as lightly as possible on the tax-payers, he stated. On provincial highways it is understood the provincial Government will pay 42 per cent, the federal government 40 per cent, and the municipalities 18 per cent. An important feature of Mr. Blggs' announcement is that in the future the provincial government will pay 20 per cent of the cost of township roads. of the cost of township roads

Fifty-Third Convention, Which | WINTER FAIR TO BE Was Concluded On Thurs-HELD IN CHATHAM, day, Was Most Successful in History of Association-Speakers Urge Greater Production.

With the passing of a number of esolutions the fifty-third and most successful convention of the Dairymen's Association of Western Ontario came to a close Thursday afternoon. W. G. Medd of Exeter was elected president during the afternoon, and in a brief address expressed his appreciation of the honor pa. him. He promised to the honor pa. him. He promised to work for the betterment of the dairy industry in this district, and expressed the belief that the coming year would bring great progress. Mr. Medd succeeds Frank Boyes, Dorchester.

The association passed a resolution, expressing the appreciation of the reception given the delegates by the citizens of London. The dairymen also expressed themselves as under great obligation to both the provincial and federal departments of agriculture for valuable assistance rendered the dairy industry. A resolution vote of thanks was passed to the two departments.

Another resolution was to the effect was passed to the two departments.

Another resolution was to the effect that the dairymen were in sympathy with the plan for the butter grading service put into effect by the Ontario department of agriculture. If this were continued, the resolution stated, it would stimulate and encourage a permanent grading system for creamery products. The association also offered encouragement to the Dominion scoring contest and to the various provincial and federal officials who assisted in making this of special educational value.

this of special educational value.

The Dairy Council.

One of the most important resolutions passed was the one favoring the formation of a National Dairy Council of Canada. The resolution recommended the co-operation of the Provincial and Dominion dairy departments. The association expressed its willingness to assist in any way the educational policy which might be outlined by such a council.

Resolutions were also passed, expressing the association's appreciation of the addresses of the various speakers, a number of whom were professors from the Ontario Agricultural College. The press was also thanked for its co-operation in making the convention a George E. Barr, head of the Dominion Dairy Division, was the principal speaker at the afternoon session and dwelt at length upon the butter-scoring contest. The chief aims of the contest as outlined by Mr. Barr were to ascertain if it were possible to make as fine butter in the proposition of the contest as the proposition of the contest as the proposition of the contest as the proposition of the principal speaker and the principal speaker and the principal speaker at the afternoon session and dwelt at length upon the principal speaker at the afternoon session and dwelt at length upon the butter-scoring contests.

outlined by Mr. Barr were to ascertain if it were possible to make as fine butter in one province as another, and also to find out the best method of handling the cream and churning it to make the finest and best-keeping quality of butter.

Secret of Good Butter.

Mr. Barr said his department hoped to establish a type of butter which would meet requirements of export trade. and also be suitable for the best Canadian markets. He also aimed at promoting a healthy rivalry between the different provinces in making the finest quality of butter. He believed the contest had tended to make a uniformly high grade of butter. He believed that excellency of workmanship had more to do with the production of fine butter than climatic conditions or geographical position. The finest butter could only be made from clean, sound-flavored cream and butter cream should not have more than 3.5 per cent acid.

PARIS, Jan. 15.—By the Associated Press.—The settlement of the Adriatic question now lies exclusively with the Jugo-Slavs, Signor Nittl, the Italian premier, informed the Associated Press this evening, as the agreement which was sent to Belgrade for approval shows that France, Great Britain and Dressed pork quarter shows that France. Great Britain and Italy are in complete accord.

Referring to the text of the compromise, Premier Nitti said that Italy offered to leave the port of Fiume and the railway at Sussak under control of the league of nations.

"The city itself." added the premier, "its checketaly Italian in its petionality.

"The city itself." added the premier, "is absolutely Italian in its nationality. There has been much talk of Italy's imperialism. Statistics will show that there is less foreign population in Italy than in any country in Europe or America. Italy is willing to abide by the decision of the supreme council." Asked as to who would expel Gabriele d'Annunzio from Fiume once an agreement was reached with Belgrade, the premier replied:

"That will be the easiest phase of the
