Mayor Smith and Ald. Stephens are now Officially in the Race--Their Nominators.

Sheriff Gemmill and Deputy Clerk Beeston were the sols attendants at the court house during the noon hour and there was nothing to disturb the even ticking of the court clock. "There haven't been any speeches

"There haven't been any speeches made at nomination proceedings in the riding of Kent since 1872," said the Sheriff. "In those days the nominations had to be held in the open air and the candidates addressed the electors from the balcony in front of the jail. At the conclusion of the nominations the sheriff would address the electors, telling them that he had re-ceived the nominations of two candi-dates, whoever they happened to be, and, naming them, would request all in favor of one to go to the right, and those in favor of the other to go to the left. The sheriff would then adjust his glasses and, looking over the two crowds, say that the majority were in favor of one of the candidates or the other, as the case might be. The loser would then step forward and demand a poll. Then the sher-iff would announce that he would grant a poll on that day week, and that closed the nomination proceedings."

The proceedings to-day were as routine as usual, just the ordinary nomination papers being handed in:

His Companion Puts Up a Plucky Fight With Deadly Results.

Pictsburg. Oct. 31 — Four Italian miners attempted to rob Pay Clerk William Hosler, of the Southwest Connellsville Coke Co., while making his trip between this city and Alverton with the pay toll of the Alverton and Tarr works, amounting to $4,000. Mr. Hosler is dead; his companion, Harry Bur gess, messenger of the company, is wounded two of the Italians are dead, a third fatally wounded, and the fourth in jail.

Hosler and Burgess left this city at lo'clock this afternoon with the safe containing the money to pay off the men at the Alverton and Tarr works. As they reached the summit of the long hill above Morewood, just below which lies Alverton, a large coke town, without a second's warning four Italians fired a volley from their hiding place and sprang forward, firing as they advanced. Mr. Hosler fell dead at the first volley. Young Burgess, though wounded, was able to return their fire with effect, and one of the number at the horses' effect, and one of the number at the horses' heads fell dead. A second later he fired his revolver in the face of another, and as he fell his two remaining companions became terrified, and leaving the dead one set out outh in the direction of the Alice mines.

Burgess managed to drive on into Alver-ton with the body of Mr. Hosler and the safe, where he gave the alarm. Mount Pleasant and vicinity, with the clerical force of the coke company turned out 500 strong, headed by Lieut J. G. Thompson, of Company E, and soon corralled the two, who had concealed themselves in a field on the Durstine farm, a mile or so from this

A summon to surrender was answered by a volley in which one of the posse received a slight wound on the chest. The outlaws, from their fortified position, made a fierce stand for a few minutes, until one of the stand for a few minutes, until one of the posses succeeded in getting in their rear. He shot one through the head killing him instantly. The other surrende:ed and was brought to the office of Squire Rhodes and

In the meantime another division of the posse overhauled the third would-be robber, who had received a ghastly wound. The ball entering his mouth and penetrating his head, came out at the back of his neck. He is not expected to recover.

Chicago, Oct. 31 .- Traders in the provision pit on the Board of Trade are anxiously waiting to see what sort of wind-up to-day will bring to the Octo-ber pork corner of the Lipton provisber pork corner of the Lipton provision Company. The belief is generally held in the pit that Lipton will put the price up to $20 a barrel on the last day of the deal to have a spectacular finish. For several days there was little evidence that Sir Thomas Lipton had any intention of squeezing the shorts. The price was allowed to fall from $17 to $14, but in the last few days there has been a sharp recovery. On Monday there was a jump from $14 to $16, and yesterday prices climbed up to the former top notch, and there were sales of 1,000 barrels at $17.

PRINCIPLES MADE THE OLD LIB ERAL PARTY, NOT LAURIER & TARTE.

The editor of Events, Ottawa, who has until recently been a Liberal, has this to say concerning party princi-

"Surely it (The Huron Signal) does not deny that H. H. Cook is an old Liberal, merely because he is against the Government, and above all, where is it going to put John Charlton? Being an old Liberal is one thing, being a supporter of the present Government is quite another. Above and beyond all else is the fact that the Laurier Government has not kept its promises and it was the promises that made the old Liberals. It was not personal love for Sir Wilfrid Laurier and his ministers that made Liberals of men, but the principles which they were supposed to represent. Now that they have trampled these principles under foot; no man who was conscientiously a Liberal of the old school, can longer support them. Personal hostility to the Government of the day, does not make a man a Conservative, nor does it forfeit his right to be called a Liberal. The trouble with the organs is that they run away with the idea that the Laurier Government is a Liberal Government and that Sir Wilfrid and his lieutenants are representatives of Liberalism as Liberals used to know it. They try to ram it down the people's throats, that the Government of the day has fulfilled its promises, and the people will not have the lie rammed down. Men like H. H. Cook and John Charlton, whose stomachs have not been trained to such strange fare, are compelled to throw the lie off and tell the people the plain truth. Mr. Cook made no bone's about it, but Mr. Charlton has done it as mildly as his conscience would permit, but he has done it. It will not help the organs to say that he is not a Liberal,-and they are quite equal to that-they have to prove that what he has said is not true-and they are not equal to

The Banner quotes Ald. Stephens at a meeting in Rajeigh, as follows:

He took up the charge made at Tibury a few nights ago by T. A. Smith relative to the establishment of a pork factory in the city of Chatham, and declared before taking definite steps upon the question, he had consulted farmers about it and was told by several that they would not take any stak in a nork factory or any. any stock in a pork factoryror anyelse that T. A. Snith cerned in in view of the fact that that gentleman never made a success of way of doing business.

Here is the cat let out of the bag. Ald. Stephens at the time reported the scheme was outside the jurisdiction of the council-beg pardon, we should say "without the jurisdiction," etc, instead of "outside." The Banner called this great family journal a liar for mixing the words, and it must now be careful. But now Mr. Stephens intimates that he blacked the scheme, not for that reason at all, but because Mayor Smith brought it in. Oh! ho! We see! It were better to destroy a proposed_industry than let the Mayor get a little credit for establishing it. How every citizen, and every pork raiser in Kent should vote for Mr. Stephens after the admissions made above.

CHAMELEONS.

What is the trade policy of the Liberal party? The answer to this must be as diverse as the sections in which members of the government essay an exposition of it. Ministers are freely and frequently expounding antagonistic policies, Speaking in Brantford to an audience including many manufacturers, Hon. Mr. Fielding, the finance minister, labored to assure his hearers that the tariff was fixed for the present. According to the Expositor (Liberal,) he said :-

"There is nothing so damaging business as uncertainty of tariff operations." Such is the story in manufacturing centers, particularly in Ontario. What are they saying elsewhere? The Winnipeg Free Press (the leading Reform organ of Manitoba) has in its issue of October 19th a report of a Sifton meeting, headed in large as Possible. Turning to its extended report of the meeeting, we find Hon. Mr. Sifton credited with this deliverance :-

SIR WILFRID LAURIER CONTRA !! DICTED BY AN ENGLISH JOURNAL.

Premier Laurier has been going about the country declaring that Great Britain will never at Sir Charles Tupper's request give Canada 'a preference in her markets. Such an expectation he declares to be absurd. Well, Mr. Chamberlain does not think a preference within the empire absurd and now we have further testimony that Great Britain is ready to admit colonial products to her markets on a favored basis. No less a journal than the Saturday Review takes Sir Wilfrid to task for misrepresenting English public opinion, and intimates pretty plainly that he doesn't know what he is talking about. The Montreal Gazette yesterday republished an article from the London Saturday Review, which it received by cablegram. The Review is one of the most influential of the British weekles. It takes the ground that the mutual preferential trade policy proposed by Sir, Charles Tupper is not only practicable, but is steadily gain-Review says: "They who speak of any such idea as utopian or alarmist (according to their point of view) do not realize the change of thought on these matters that is fgoing on in the mind of the younger generation."

According to a Halifax despatch, J. S. Gjadwin, M. D., one of the first Canadian contingent in South Africa, has returned to that city invalided. He went through the hard marches from ankle was dislocated and he subsequently had to go to hospital with typhoid. He says:

"I saw the emergency rations that were carried by the first contingent. The men were under orders not to use them except in case of great need but saw some of them open the cans and burden, it lifts the burden. When you lose flesh, it brings the plumpness of health. When work is hard and duty is heavy, it makes life bright.

It is, the thin edge of the wedge; the thick end is food. But what is the use of food, when you hate it, and can't digest it?

Scott's emulsion of codliver oil is the food that makes you forget your stomach.

throw them away. The rations were simply a mass of mould. One can that I saw opened by a hungry man was filled with hav. The emergency rations were a disgrace to whoever sent them to South Africa, and the were worse than useless to the soldiers. If the government had spent the money that these rations cost in the purchase of ordinary biscuits some good might have been accomplished." A vote for Stephens means the whitewashing of a government which paid $2/a pound to a political hanger-on for this kind of stuff.

Smith and the people; Stephens and the combines; which?

A ballot marked for Stephens is rote cast for Laurier.—The Banner. And Tarte. Can you turn traitor to the Enpire long enough to go it? Why is it the two great railway corporations are supporting Laurier? Don't you know? As an honest British elector can you vote for George Stephens as long as he recognizes Tarte as his leader f Principles, not names, make parties. Because political weathercocks call themselves "liberal" that doesn't make them so.

Sir Charles, if he secures a majorty, will be the real premier of this country. He won't, like the present occupant of the position, be another man's tool.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier's pet combine, the Standard Oil Company, is bleeding this country to the extent of two millions a year more than under Conservative rule. Are you going to send Ald. Stephens to Ottawn to support this monopoly?

At the request of J. Israel Tarte, the captain of the steamer on which the minister came home from Gay Paree hoisted the tri-color when the ship got into the St. Lawrence. The captain at first refused, saying that his was a British ship; but Tarte was able to overcome his scruples, and Ald. Stephens' leader came into Canada under his dearly beloved French flag. The people of Canada will presing ground in England. The Siturday ently register their opinion of that sort of conduct.

> Watch but for "roorbacks!" A 'roorback." it may be mentioned, is a slander that petty but tricky politicians circulate at the last moment so that there will not be time to show up its falsity. We do not think either party in Kent will fall low enough to resort to such contemptible tactics. Should they do so, however, it is safe to conclude that if any new charge is sprung the last day or two it is a lie.

It is said that President McKinley in conversation has expressed hims in favor of the selection of young m for places of responsibility in Porto Rico and the Philippines, reasoning that elderly men would not be able so easily to adapt themselves to the new conditions and would not be able to give long service after they had acquired experience. The residents of Germantown have long labored under the delusion that the English sparrow, which is to be found in every nook and corner of that historic suburb, was introduced into the United States by the late John W. Bardsley, a native of England, who was familiarly known as "Sparrow Jack" Bardsley, and who lived in the little two story house still standing at Main and Upsal streets, Germantown. From an authoritative source it now appears that the responsibility for the birds must be laid upon Nicholas Pike of Brooklyn. He, it is stated, brought over with him from England in the fall of 1850 about eight pairs of spardied. Two years later he repeated the experiment, having purchased a number of sparrows while on his way to United States. These later arrivals did thrive and multiplied amazing y. spreading from Brooklyn to all parts

The great reason for the goodness & D. bearings lies in the point design. The load passes directly through the balls, and there is no opportunity for the balls to jam.

In E. & D. four-point bearings the weight on any one point in the bearing is never more than 1-8th of the weight of the rider. In ordinary bicycles, the immense leverage between cup and cone bearings and cone cuts the bearings and breaks the balls.

To show how little the wear on E. & D. four-point bearings is, we first guarantee them for three years, and, secondly we all them at the beginning. secondly, we oil them at the beginning of the season, and at the end, upon examination, the oil will be found

LOVELY MARY DONNELLY.

Oh, lovely Mary Donnelly, it's you love the best,

If fifty girls were round you, I'd hardly see the rest,

Be what it may, the time of day, the place be where it will,

Sweet looks of Mary Donnelly, they bloom before me still. Her eyes like mountain water that's

Her eyes like mountain water that's flowing on a rock,
How clear they are, how dark they are, and they give me many a shock.
Red rowans warm in sunshine, and wetted with a shower,
Could ne'er express the charming lip that has me in its power.

Her nose is straight and handsome, her eyebrows lifted up,
Her chin is very neat and pert, and smooth like a china cup,
Her hair's the brag of Ireland, so weighty and so fine;
It's rolling down upon her neck, and gathered in a twine.

The dance o' last Whit-Monday night

The dance o' last what-Monday night exceeded all before.

No pretty girl for miles about was missing from the floor.

But Mary kept the belt of love, and O, but she was gay.

She danced a jig, she sung a song, that took my heart away.

When she stood up for dancing, her steps were so complete, The music nearly killed itself to listen to her feet;

The fiddler moaned his blindness, he heard her so much praised,
But blessed himself he wasn't deaf when once her voice was raised. And evermore I'm whistling or lilt-ing what you sung, Your smile is always in my heart your name beside my tongue.

But you've as many sweethearts as you'd count on both your hands,
And for myself there's not a thumb or little finger stands.

Oh, you're the flower o' womankind in Country or in town;

The higher I exalt you, the lower I'm cast down.

If some great lord should come this way, and see your beauty bright, and you to be his lady, I'd own it was but right.

O, might we live together in a lofty palace hall, Where joyful music rises, and where scarlet curtains fall, O might we live together in a cottage mean and small,

With sods of grass the only roof and mud the only wall. O lovely Mary Donnelly your beauty's my distress, It's far too beauteous to be mine, but I'll never wish it less.

The proudest place would fit your face, and I am poor and low;

But blessings be about you, dear, wherever you may go.

-Wm. Allingham.

RED-HOT SERMONS

Clergy of Paterson Preached Them on the Bosschleter Murder, n an Effort to Rouse the People to Execute Justice on the fill Paterson, N. J., Oct. 31.—Nearly every minister in Paterson made reference to the nurder of Jennie Bosschieter in his sermon on Sunday. Some of them devoted their entire addresses to the crime and the revelation of degradation it made in the city. The sentiment of the ministers was unanimous that the private rooms in the saloons of Paterson have bred more crime than any Paterson have bred more crime than any other factor.

With singular unanimity the preachers agreed on three remedies for existing evils. They recommended the abolishment of the side and back doors of saloons, closer in spection of drinking places and examination into the character of men making application for licenses to sell liquor, and more watchfuless on the part of parents of watchfulness on the part of parents of growing girls and boys Probably in no city in the country are more immature girls seen parading the streets at night than in Paterson.

Paterson.

Every church in the city was crowded, and the murder remains the sole topic of conversation. The community is thoroughly aroused, and it does not appear that public sentiment will allow any lack of severity in the treatment of the murderers of the mill girl.

It is certain that any attempt that may be made to cheat justice will be met with the opposition not only of the church people of Paterson, but of all classes of men who lead clean lives, even though not identified with any religious denomination or move ment.

The Paterson drug clerk who sold Walter McAllister the "knockout drops" that caused the death of Jennie Bosschieter has been located in New Haven. The police of Paterson refuse to say whether or not they intend to me after him.

TORONTO LIVE STOCK.

Toronto, Oct. 29.—Receipts at the Toronto cattle market last week were heavy with a scarcity of choice stock. As present conditions, warm weather, and chosing of export season are not favorable to any expansion of demand, trade continues quiet for anything but picked gilt-edge lots. Hogs sell freely, but in all other departments of market, except perhaps for lambs, only sorts that sold at all readity were tip-top quality. Receipts Friday were 70 cars, including 900 cattle, 1,500 sheep and lambs, 20 calves and 3,000 hogs.

Export cattle—Demand petering out with the close of the season nothing but the best being taken; exporters appear to be indifferent about any others. Cables are not very encouraging, doubtless due to the increased offerings by British farmers; a few loads were taken to-day at prices ranging from $4.25 to $4.621-2 per cwt.

Butcher's cattie-Demand confined to supplies for present use, and buy-ers avoided anything but choice cattle; whole cone of market was soft, espewhole come of market was sort, especially for lower grades, although no lower prices were quoted; picked lots were held at $4,35 to 4.55 per cwt.; choice at $1 to $4.30; good stock at $3.25 to $4, and common to mediam ranged from $2 to $3.25.

Stockers dull for light undesirable stock, of which many were offered; good stock bring $2.50 to $3 per cwt, and there is no prospect of any immediate change in these prices; the lower grades are slow at $1.75 to $2.25 per cwt.

Sheep and lambs-Prices for sheep steady and unchanged; they range from $3.25 to $3.50 per cwt, for export ewes, $2.75 to $3 per cwt, for bucks, and $2.50 to $3.50 each for butchers; ambs have advanced, and are quote at $3.50 to $4 per cwt, and $2.50 to $3.50 each; they are rather plentiful, but the demand is good.

Calves steady and unchanged at $2

Hogs-Prices unchanged, at $5.75 for elects; $5.50 for lights and fats, and $5.25 nominal for corn-fed; dealers look for over prices in a day or two; receipts were large, but all sold readily to a good demand.

THE GLASS OF FASHION.

The large, loose waves so essential to the low, fluffy, half parted pompadour style of hairdressing can be made by wetting the hair and tying broad bands of tape around it. One of the most stylish gloves for wear with light gowns is old fashioned looking and of soft thin kid, with no stitching on the back and only one pearl button, Apparently this is to be a season of buckles. They are steadily growing larger and more popular and are much more beautiful, from an artistic point of view, than ever before.

Silk applique on net and velvet applique on net or silk are trimmings as popular as lace, and stunning little coats are made of black velvet appli-que on coarse net and lined with white, Dealers say that women are buying only the thinnest silk and liste hose and that even when cold weather comes the heavier hose will go beg-ging. Extravagant foot dressing has become a mania, and no little thing like health or comfort can interfere with it. Real laces are being used to a re markable extent. Cluny Arabian, point d'alencon, Irish point, point de fiandres and renaissance taking the lead. Batiste laces are also much worn as trim-ming for cloth or silk, designs copied from rare old laces being embroidere on eeru batiste. A new gray which the French have poetically dubbed winter sky is the most kopeless of the new and fashionable shades. It hasn't even a hint of pink or lilac or cream in it, but is as uncompromisingly hard and dreary as the once popular sine gray. No com-plexion can stand it, but it will doubt-

Charged with Canvassing Against Mayor Smith

On the Ground That the Latter Belongs to the Sons of England.

A man named Thomas Mulvey has been imported by the Libera's from Toronto, to try and work the Roman Catholics of Dover and Raleigh for Ald. Stephens, just as if the Roman Catholics did not know their own business without outsiders coming here to dragoon them.

Mulvey is the same who is said to have received the letter from Hon. James Sutherland, the Liberal boss in Western Ontario, telling him that the Reformers did not want any Roman Catholics nominated in this end of the province, as they would be a source of weakness. Mulvey first showed the letter to some of his friends in Toronto, but when the matter got out he withdrew it and now refuses to pro-his was not the first time," wen on Mr. Leigh, "that same elector had been canvassed against Mr. Smith on the same ground. George Stephens himself went to him and asked for his vote on the ground that his opponent, T. A. Smith, was nothing but a Son of England."

The speaker claimed that the socie ties or the church a man belonged to should not be dragged into an election. The question should be what is best for the welfare of the country,

The speakers on the Reform side were Mulvey, N. H. Stevens, O. L. Lewis, and Dr. Macfarlane. The meet-

The Sanitari
Banff, Alta., Oct. 25, 1900.

Dear Mother.—We were paid off day before yesterday, so we left for Calgary yesterday. The first person we met on arriving in that town was Roy Cameron, who had been expecting to see us come through any time. We went with him to the telegrapn office where Grace Cameron has full charge, and had a pleasant talk with her. She spoke so much of the beauties of Banff and I heard so much about it previously that I decided to spend a day up here, and let Arch. arrange about the passage home. I left at 1.20 a. m., arriving here about 6 a. m. It was not daylight until 7, but as soon as I could see, I was out and had the pleasure of viewing the Rockies for the first time. The hotel is surrounded by mountains, it being a sort of valley. Along the front Bow River winds its tortuous and rapid course, and beautiful driveways are cut through the spruce, starting in all direction from the hotel. Immediately after breakfast I jumped on my wheel and rode down to the cave and basin, which are less than a mile from here. The ride was uncomfortable because of the falling snow, but any discomforts there were amply made up for the treat that awaited me at the cave. A Scotch guide showed me through for the fee of 25c. We entered a tunnel, partly natural and partly artificial, and a short walk brought us into the cave which was sparkling with its crystals glittering on all sides. A strong odor of sulphur filled the whole place and after coming in from the cold, it seemed warm enough to take a Turkish bath in. At the top of this small opening which might be called the crater, as it feettainly once was, out of it one could see the warm vapor arising. I took a The Sanitari , Oct. 25, 1900.

opening which might be called the crater, as it feet ainly once was, out of it one could see the warm vapor arising. It took a plunge in the water which was just at the right temperature. It is not very deep, and I was walking over to one side when suddenly I went down in quick sand, but popped up again like a cork. It may seem hard to believe, but the warm water comes up with such a force that a person can't up with such a force that a person can't sink to any depth in the spring. I went from the cave to the basin. It had once been a cave, but being on the edge of the foot hills, the sides had no support and fell in. The water here is much deeper and warmer and is more strongly saturated with sulphur I rode back to the hotel and then wheeled over the bridge and out two miles and a helf where the huffale are heaf and a half where the buffalo are kept. The keeper took me first to the sheds, where he has six small entelope under his charge. They were lying in the straw, all cuddled up, but as soon as they saw the keeper they jumped up and ran to him like a dog and rubbed their heads against him, showing the greatest amount of affection. a dog and rubbed their heads against him, showing the greatest amount of affection. It was snowing very hard when I got back fron In the afternoon I went to the Museum where they have a fine collection of birds, eggs, animals and minerals. What pleased me most was a pair of stuffed musk-oxen in large glass cases and some Indian curios. I wandered from there down to the C. P. R. hotel which is said to have cost $259,000,

R. hotel which is said to have cost $259,000, and it is more like an immense hospital than anything else. The caretakers weren't around, so I had no chance to go through. Going around the hotel I came to a river and followed that up to what is known as the Spray and Falls. Where the Bow river meets this river, there is a great falls, the noise of which can be heard long before coming to it. The water impatiently rushes over the rocks, seething and lashing itself into a white spray, hence the name. The river passes through an immense canyon, river passes through an immense canyon, the mountains rising almost perpendicularly on either side, the peaks being lost to view

Perhaps the most successful meeting local campaign from the Conservative point of view, was held last night, in the church, at Jeannette's night, in the church, at Jeannette's Creek, Raleigh. The building was crowded with sturdy, intelligent farmers. At 8 o'clock Mr. Rogers, school teacher, took the chair, and opened the meeting in at graceful, neat speech. The Conservative speakers were Gex G Martin and S. B. Arnoid, and Henry Forbes spoke on behalf of the Liberals. Mr. Martin held the large audience throughout his long address and was profusely cheered. It was remarked by old political timers there, that no such thoroughly logical political speech was every delivered in Raleigh on either side. It was a very fine evening for If. A. Smith at Jeannette's Creek, sure enough.

Mr. Forbes spoke after Mr. Martin, and it was most amusing to hear his neighbors, mostly farmers, stand up and interrupt him as to his facts and figures regarding the prices of binder twine, coal oil, sugar, tobacco, lumber, shingles and hardware, Mr. Forbes was mentally praying to be delivered from his well read neighbors.

New York. Oct. 31 .- Only four bodies there we not closure and crawled through the fence to the next corrall. We just came in time, as the buffalos were coming down to water as we came up. It was worth travelling miles to see these great creatures again. The whole herd stood still watching us for a moment, but the calves were afraid of us and kent back. Suddenly without warning and kent back. Suddenly without warning three bodies that have been found probably never will have been discovered up to last night have been found probably never will burned beyond all semblance of humunity. So frightfully have they been crushed that the sex is undeterminable. Smoking and steaming sul-lenly, the guins left by the explosions lenly, the ruins left by the explosions well-nigh baffled the efforts of the thousand public workers, to-day, and the task of clearing the streets and digging down into the debris on the fire-swept area for bodies of victims proceeded haltingly. The workers employed by the city to remove the magnitudes of stone word and iron mountains of stone, wood and iron, and shore up and make safe the ruined structures, could do little more than attack the outside of the devas-tation and watch the firemen who played water on the still glowing pile from six lines of hose. In fact day and night until the debris shall have been thoroughly searched for bodies, the work will proceed. About 30 per-sons are still missing, but it is believed that some of these will turn up safely. The high class of the presentations which Manager Cairns is booking at the Grand this season is very satisfactory to local theatnergours. They have been generally of a very superior nature, and last night's production of "A Cavaller of France" was no exception to this rule. Unfortunately, the house was by no means as large as the high character of the piece deserved, but those present testified their appreciation in a very cordial manner. They play was presented by an exceedingly strong and well balanced company and the stage settings and scenic effects were excellent. Manager Cairns' successful efforts in providing such superior bills should be generously endorsed by the patronage. The orchestral work last evening was also of a very enjoyable nature.

The dean of the community of American actors, making the delineation of Irish characters a specialty, is Joseph Murphy, famous throughout this continent by virtue of his creation of the character of Dan O'Hara in the play of "Kerry Gow." As an actor Mr, Murphy is fairly entitled to the honorable position he holds, but it is very probable that, he might have been longer, much longer, in winning his place, had he not been fortunate in the getting of a play. The "Kerry Gow" is full, of good speeches, it fairly bubbles over with Irish wit and humor its situations are so novel that they never grow old, and the story itself, is never grow old, and the story itself is as clean and sparkling as the mountain brook. As a play, it is perpetually youthful. At the Grand next

To The Planet.—One cannot but admire the wisdom of moral and religious organizations for their care in choosing delegates. Those delegates represent the best thought of the bodies sending them, it may be to a W. C. T. U. convention or to any conference, session or synod where the general business of a church is transacted. In any case they are supposed to be picked men and women, whose interests are identical with the interests of the great bodies in whose service they labor. The high aims of that great organization, the W. C. T. U., were carried very high by Miss Willard and Lady Somersett, who showed the world what Christian sympathy could do for those whom wrong ideals had degraded. The churches are equally cautious in appointing delegates, and if they do occasionally send a wolf in woll to represent them the bulk of their appointments are men of piety.

Now, if moral and religious societies think it important to carry out the highest principles of representation in organizing their work, is it not essential for an agricultural county to be represented at Ottawa by a delegate whose interests are identical with those of the neonle whom he repregate whose interests are identical with those of the people whom he repre-sents. But in politics greater care should be taken in choosing delegates than in morals or religion; because politics has to do with a country and a constituency, the boundaries of which are clearly defined. There is the real parliament, the real tariff, the real parliament, the real tariff, the real statutes, and, in the case of Canada, the real, thundering debt. These facts at least render politics more practical than religion, and in speaking of morals, which are of course inseparable in a sense from true religion, and also in a sense from politics. Nothing more clearly proves the mischief of miller representation in Kent than a marked lowering of the mischief of miller representation in Kent than a marked lowering of articles in the tariff specially raised there. Millers have been known to grind corn and sell the meal. Kent and Essex are the leading corn growing counties of Canada and the free corn of the Laurier Government is a fine sample of carelessness on the part of furners choosing a delegate whose of farmers choosing a delegate whose interests are opposed to their own. Great changes have taken place of late in the eastern counties of Ontario in supplying feed for their stock. Hay, t seems, cannot be produced in sufficient quantity to maintain the vast dairy and beef interests of those counties. Corn, then, put up in its dry state, or as ensilage, is the great substitute. Large quantities of seed are required to plant the wide areas seed-ed for ensilage. That seed must be imported from some place where corn ripeds perfectly. Kent is that place. Pain Court farmers, always quick to see a market for their products, are in the business of raising seed corn, and with us in Raleigh can't see why our interests should be slaughtered. Eastern farmers profit by this arrangement. Montreal, Halifax, Que-eastern consumers, who have better markets and infinitely better roads. When the rush to the Yukon was When the rush to the Yukon was at its height a steamer put out from Seattle crowded with passengers bound for that land of gold. Every berth was occupied and when the boat had voyaged three days a Yankee told the captain he must find him another berth. "Impossible," said the captain, "the berths are all occupied; where is the one you had the last three nights? "You see, I slept the last three nights on a sick man," said the Yankee, "and now he is better and won't let me sleep there any longer. The coal oil man, the binder twine man, the sugar man and many twine man, the sugar man and many others "artists," found in parliament lobbies, have been sleeping on the farmer since Laurier's advent to office. Besides being strong, the farmer has recuperative powers little short of wonderful. He will likely re-cover as the excitement of a general election has strengthened his heart and his temperature is almost normal again. Reform rule has seriously reduced the purchasing power of a dol-be: and Toronto are almost at their doors. In point of good roads one only has to drive on the gravel and stone roads of the east to be convinced that we are behind them in this respect. Allowing 50 bushels of shelled corn to lar in articles a farmer's business compels him to use. In 1894 Mr. Stephens sold me a Massey binder, full rigged and ready for action for $105. The same machine in action for $105. The same machine in 1900 would sell for not less than $120. Wagons, buggies, twine, wire, coal oil, farm machinery, and nearly all staple lines of goods have advanced enormously. Barley, wheat, oats have not advanced since '96; corn is 7c lower than if the tariff had stood. Kent beans and horses were to cross over at Detroit with the same freedom of at Detroit with the same freedom of transfer that they do now from South Chatham to North, or from North Chatham to South. No restrictions were to be placed on the trade of these two mighty nations. The wily customs officer is there still and not even a Laurier button on ones breast will ensure that freedom of trade which Canada was to receive when the Liberals took office.

Military degradation was meted out which Canada was to receive when the Liberals took office.

Military degradation was meted out to poor Dreyfus, and are not the farmers of Kent being gradually prepared by the Reform party for that political degradation which will make them the footstool of eastern farmers as well as other classes of this country? The government of Canada has shown itself unworthy of the high trust the people placed in its hands. Unjust, extravagant, slow to respond to the call of the mother country, obtaining office by false promises to the farmers and temperance people, fast isolating itself from that class ever known as the salt of society, clinging to those deals of wrong, it has gone down from the party of Mackenzie and Blake, to a party founded on hypogrisy and improved by rascality.

A ROMANCE

* ried another one he knew would conquer me, another bribe—the glori-ous one of liberty and it did. He ed her dark, gloomy eyes on the swarming floor, and shook off, withpromised me freedom—if I married him, I might go into the great unout a shudder, the hideous things that crawled over her rich dress. She had scarcely looked at Sir Norman known world, fetterless and free; and I, O! fool that I was! consented. Not that my object was to stay with since she began to speak, but he had done enough looking for them both, him one instant longer after my prison doors were open; no, I was not never once taking his eyes from the quite so besotted as that-once out, handsome darkening face. He thought and the little demon might look for me with last year's partridges. Of how strangely like her story was to Leoline's—both shut in and isolated from the outer world Verily, des-tiny seemed to have woven the woof course, those demoniac eyes read my heart like an open book; and when and warp of their respective fates wonderfully together, for their lives I pronounced the fatal 'yes' he laughed in that delightful way of his own. which will probably be the last thing were as much the same as their faces. you will hear when you lay your head under the axe. Miranda having shook off her crawling acquaintance, went moodily on.

"I don't know who the clergyman was three years ago, when I was 15 years old, as I told you, that who married us was; but he was a a great change took place in my life.
Up to that time that miserable clergyman; there can be no doubt about that. It was three days afdwarf was what people would call my guardian, and did not trouble me ter, and for the first time in my fifteen years of life, I stood in sunmuch with his heavenly company. I never could have walked there, I was so stunned and freedom with which he came and went far more than I ever wondered giddy and bewildered. I never thought of the marriage—I could where he spent his precious time. I did not know then that he belonged think of nothing but the bright, to the honorable profession of highcrashing, sunshiny world without, till I was led up before the clergywaymen, with variations of coining when travellers were few and money man, with much the air, I suppose scarce. I was as closely, even more fend that Leoline should be like you in temper, as she is in history and face; for if she is, my life promises to closely, guarded than ever, and I found, when too late, that I had bartered myself, soul and body, for an empty promise. The only difference was that I saw more new faces; for whom his villainous highness head-ed," said Miranda, "were an almost the dwarf began to bring his confedimmense number then, being divided erates and subordinates to the house, and would have me dressed up and Hounslow Heath highwaymen, and assistant-coiners, all owning him as their lord and master. There was more policy in that than admiration, I fancy; for the dwarf was all powerful among them and dreaded accordinbly, and I was the dwarf's pet and plaything, and all powerful creature had a most hideous passion for me then, and I could wind around my finger as easily as Deli-lah did Samson; and by his command and their universal consent, the mimicry of loyalty was begun, and I was made mistress and sovereign head, even over the dwarf himself It was a queer whim; but that crook ed slug was always taking such odd notions into his head, which nobody dared laugh at. The bound together by a terrible oath, women and all; but, they had to take another oath then-that of allegiance to me.

"It quite turned my brain at first; and my eyes were so dazzled by the pitiful glistening of the pageant, the sham splendor of the sham court and the half-mocking, half-serious homage paid me, that I could see nothing beyond the shining surface, and the blackness and corruption and horror within, were altogether lost upon me. This feeling increased when, as months and months went by, there were added to the mock peers of the Midnight Court, real nobles from that of Charles. I did not know then that they were ruined gamesters, vicious profligates, and desperately broken-down roues, who would have gone to pandemonium itself, nightly, for the mad license and lawless excesses they could indulge in here to their heart's con-But I got tired of it all, after'a time, my eyes began slowly to open, and my heart—at least what little of that article I eyer had turned sick with horror within me at what I had done. The awful things I saw, the fearful deeds that were perpetrated, would curdle your very blood with horror were I to relate ood with horror were I to relate them. You have seen a specimen yourself of the cold-blooded murder of that wretch half an hour ago; and his is not the only life crying for vengeance on these men. The slightest violation of their oath was punest violation of their oath was punished, and the doom of traitors and informers was instant death, whether male or female. The sham trials and executions always took place in presence of the whole court, to strike a salutary terror into them, and never occurred but once a week, when the whole band regularly met. My power continued undiminished; for must be supreme; and though the queen was bad; the prince was worse. The said prince would willingly have pulled me down from my eminence, and have mounted it himself; but that he was probably restrained by a feeling that law-makers should not be law-breakers, and that if he set the example, there would be no end to the insubordination and rebellion that would follow."

Were you living here or in Lon don, then?" inquired Sir Norman, taking advantage of a pause, em-ployed by Miranda, in shaking off the crawling beetles. "Oh, in London! We did not comoh, in London! We did not come here until the outlireak of the plague—that frightened them, especially the female portion, and they neld a scared meeting, and resolved that we should take up our quarters somewhere else. This place being old and wind a scare of with all ruined, and deserted, and with all sorts of evil rumors hanging about it, was hit upon, and secretly by night these mouldering old vaults were fitted up, and the goods and chattels of the royal court removed And here, too, I was brought night under the dwarf's own eye; for he well knew I would risk a thous plagues to escape from him. And here I have been ever since, and here weekly revels are still held, and may for years to come, unless some done to-night to prevent it. To be Continued.

It's the Condition of Your Nerves That Either Makes Your Life a Round of Pleasure or a Useless Burden.

To many women life is one round of sickness, weakness and ill health. To attempt even the lightest household duties fatigues them. Many of the symptoms accompanying this state of decline are: a feeling of tiredness waking, faintness, dizziness, sinking feeling, palpitation of the heart, shortness of breath, loss of appetite, cold hands and feet, headache, dark circles under the eyes, pain in the back and side and all other accompaniments of a run down and weakene dconstitution.

All these symptoms and conditions are simply the result of a poor quality and defective circulation of the blood, with a wasting away of the nerve forces.

ORCHARD AND GARDEN.

Thick skinned fruits are the best The quince is a great feeder and reuires good cultivation.

One of the best fertilizers for strawperries is well rotted stable manure. Of all fruits the cherry is the least trouble to grow. About all it needs is to be planted and let alone.

Rich soil is rather more necessary for the quince than for the apple, but the quince is more subject to blight, al-though in localities the fruit is profitable to grow.

In evaporating apples it is calculated that one barrel of green apples will produce about 15 pounds of evaporated fruit and that one pound of these is equal to half a peck of the fruit before it is pared or sliced.

In planting grapevines, dig deep, but plant shallow. Unless the soil is a beavy clay, plant in the fail. Use only well rotted manure, as fresh manure excites growth, and luxuriant growth does not always insure fruit. A vine not pruned is always in a snari.—St. Louis Republic.

Not an Ill Wind FOR IT BLEW SOMEBODY GOOD.

BY W. R. ROSE.

It was a cloudy fall day. Out of the slate colored sky the rain fell in little showers from time to time. The wind blew strong from the lake.

It blew particularly strong up the street between the tall bank building and the ancient stone church. The wind ways blew strong here. It seemed as if the two buildings drew the gale between them as through a funnel. When the wind blew lightly in other sections of the city, it blew strong here.

This made it a trap and a surprise for the unwary. The pedestrian coming along in the lee of the bank building and quite unsuspicious of what awaited him beyond launched boldly into the street from the shelter of the sandstone pile to find himself fiercely buffeted about, his hat torn from his head, his umbrella rudely reversed and he himself driven from his path and forced to tack manfully before he could pull into the harbor of shelter in the lee of the gray old church. There was a little crowd of men and boys on the steps of the venerable structure this particular fall afternoon. Some of them had been there for an hour of more ever since the wind freshened. They were enjoying themselves at the expense of the unhappy victims who ventured across the highway from the bank building. A rifled hat raised a shout of joy, a wrecked umbrella drew forth hilarious cheers. They didn't heed the fitful spurts of rain; they were having too much sport to be mindful of petty discomforts. Luckily most of the targets of their mirth were men and boys. didn't restrain their glee, however, when some luckless female ventured into the any real danger their chivalry would have awakened. As it was, they were there to enjoy the free show. Rupert Strong had just come down from his office, and the crowd attracted his attention. He stepped up to see what it meant. As he neared the laughing group short stout lady stepped from the baul entrance and looked up at the sky. Then she deliberately raised an umbrella and started to cover the fatal crossing. Ten feet from the curb the wind caught her. She was a broadly shining mark. The rude blast turned her umbrella inside out, it flung her hat over one ear, it forced her at an acute angle out into the highway. Struggle as she might, she couldn't make headway against the gale.

The wicked crowd at the church steps chuckled with delight.

Rupert Strong saw the plight of this forlorn craft and, clapping his hat a little tighter on his head, hurried to the res cue. In a dozen strides he reached the buffeted dame and, passing his arm firmly about her waist, drew her on a new tack and, running, as it were, before the wind, brought her into the park, where the force of the blast was broken by the tall buildings across the way. The crowd on the church steps cheered this gallant

"Pray, sir." gasped the stout lady, "are you a professional rescuer?"

"Madam!" "Will you permit me to call your attention to the fact that your arm is still n the neighborhood of what was once my waist? "I beg your pardon, madam."

"Force of habit, I suppose," said the stout lady dryly.
Rupert laughed, and the stout lady laughed. She was a very bright eyed stout lady, with short gray curls and i

Rupert obeyed and, raising his own umbrella, which he had gripped tightly under one arm, held it over the stout lady's head and marched along by her the young men of today. It must have required a good deal of moral courage to face the jeers of that crowd of idiots on the church steps."

"It struck me at the moment," said Rupert, "that the main thing required was a reasonable amount of physical resistance to that impudent blast."

"What" your business young man ""

"What's your business, young man?"
"I am a lawyer, madam."

"Ah! Eternally on the lookout for prospective clients, of course?"
Rupert laughed at the grim insinuation. "Struggling young lawyers can't afford to leave any stone unturned," he said.
"Nor any stout old lady overturned," laughed his companion. Then she looked up at him again with a sharp glance.
"Do you know Lawyer Barlow?" she

"I have the honor of his acquaint-

"I have the honor of his acquaintance," replied Rupert.

"Ever meet him professionally?"

"Fate once threw me on the opposite side in a bit of litigation wherein the distinguished counsel prominently figure 1."

"And the result?"

"Lawyer Barlow lost the case."

"Not much of a case, I fancy," said the stout lady.

"I beg your pardon," said Rupert. "but "I beg your pardon," said Rupert. "but I must disagree with you. It was really quite a case. It netted me $70."

The stout lady laughed.
"There's my card," she said. Then she abruptly added: "Let me have your card, young man. I am going to borrow your umbrella, and I want to know to whom I am indebted. And when you come up to realize to which you may do tomer. to reclaim it, which you may do tomor-row evening. I may have something fur-ther to say to you. There's my name."

Rupert found a loose card in his pocket and handed it over, taking the stout lady's card in exchange. A moment later he had put her aboard the car and turnhe had put her aboard the car and turned away. As he regained the sidewalk he glanced at the stout lady's card. Then he softly whistled. The bit of pasteboard bore the name of Mrs. Jane Buffington, and Mrs. Jane Buffington was understood to be the city's richest woman. He had heard many tales of the lady's wealth and generosity and occasional eccentricity. He put the card carefully in his pocket and trudged toward his boarding place unmindful of the drizzling rain that steadily increased. The next evening, arrayed in his best, the young lawyer sought the home of the Call & Co.

About three years ago my husband's legs, from the knee down to his toes, were red and itching with Eccens. He had no rest day or night, and would scratch all the time, so his legs would be raw. He had a good many doctors. They told him there was nothing wrong with his blood, and they gave him salve and other things to rub on. He had about a peck of bottles and boxes of salve and none of them did him any good. He worned that way about one year, and gave the doctors quite a lot of money. I told him one day the trouble was all in his blood, and told him to try Cuticura remedies. He went that instant and got Cuticura Resouverst. That night he rested well, and kept getting better until he was cured, and it has not returned since.

"But the umbrella isn't yours."

"Not mine?" "Never was yours."
Rupert rallied.

"Have I ever claimed it, madam?" he exclaimed, with great dignity.
"But it was in your possession." "And now is in yours."

"Another technicality!" cried the stout lady. "You would brand me as a re-ceiver, eh? But the charge falls flat. The umbrella is mine."
"Yours, madam! How can that be?"

"I bought it, sir. It was borrowed and never returned. Now clear your skirts if you can. Where did you get it?" Rupert hesitated.
"I will tell you," he answered. "It may throw light on another matter of deep concern to me. That umbrella came from the young woman whom I hoped to make my wife. When I parted from her at the door of the friend she was visiting, she made me take the umbrella because it was slightly raining. I am quite sure I never opened it, and I believe I walked back to my hotel with my hat off. Lov-

When all was cleared up, I found that my glittering expectations were wrecked and that I must fight the battle of life alone. I felt that could no longer dream of asking the young woman to be my wife. Poor as I was it would have been madness. I heard of her occasionally here and there in the gay society of which she was the pride, and then I saw her name no more. Somebody said she was abroad. That's the story of the umbrella, madam. Sounds woefully unreal, but it's quite true. I meant to return it some time, and it's quite a load off my mind to know that it has reached the real owner. And now, madam, it may be that you can tell me something concerning the lady to whom I have alluded. I would be very glad to know that she is well and happy."
"Still interested in her, are you?" que

Mr. J. T. Cardinal denounced the Yukon scandals, and when Mr. Monet, as is his custom when in a warm corner, shouted, "Give us direct proofs." Mr. Cardinal produced a sensation by producing the following letter, written and signed by Mr. W. E.F. Montreal, Oct. 26, 1900.

Maximillien Coupal, N. P., and Candidate in Opposition to the Present Administration:—

ent Administration:

Dear Sir,—You ask me if the present Administration has protected the Klendike miners, and conducted business with justice and equity.

I answer, emphatically, "No."
On the contrary, the miners are ill-treated by the employes and representatives of the Government, even by the very highest officials of the Government.

They are subjected to all kinds of deception and exactions, and it is a specially, an unheard of difficulty, to succeed in obtaining the registration of one's title to a claim. If a claim is regarded as a good one, it is seldom that the highest officials of the Government do not transfer it to their friends or keep it for themselves wather than enter it in the name of Valleyfield, October 31.—The Labor troubles here are apparently about at an end. W. L. M. King, Deputy Minister of Labor, arrived here and had a long consultation with the strikers in the Town Hall. Mr. King also had a consultation with the officials of the company, and the result has been entirely satisfactory to the town of Valleyfield. The final result has been the promise of the authorities to withdraw the troops and the men have promised Mr. King to return to work in the morning.
