TRURO, TUESDAY, SEPT. 11, 1894.

Mr Laurier, accompanied by some of our leading Liberals, is making a triumphant political tour of Manitoba and the North West Territories. Everywhere the Liberal Chief Minister is being accorded ovations and his enunciation of the Liberal policy is being most enthusiastically received. The burdens of the N. P. and its disastrous effect upon the agricultural interests are felt nowhere better than in the North West. The prospects are that instead of that part of Canada continuing to elect only one Liberal member it will return a solid phalanx of them whenever the government appeals to the country. A report of Mr. Laurier's speech at Winnipeg is brimful of instances wherein results have fallen lamentably short of Tory promises. We quote:

Mr. Laurier referred to the great growth and prosperity of Winnipeg, which, thirty years ago, marked the beginning of a prairie, owing to the energy and activity of early settlers, great advancement had been made, but had the expectations of his citizens been realized (Cape of No. 90). Why, he asked, had the forecasts made by certain members of the Government some years ago, that by 1891 the yield of wheat in Manitoba would be 650,000,000 not been realized. Was it because there was a dearth of land? No, it was the lack of settlers. Government prophets had predicted that by 1891 enough land would have been disposed of to pay for the expenditure of constructing the C. P. R., but like the other prophecy, it had not seen its realization. Enough had not been sold to cover the cost of administration. According to the Government Blue Book the population of the West in 1881 should have been 550,000. Of this it was far short. The New Minister of Interior had opened his ministerial career by the manipulation of what purported to be a vigorous immigration policy. Where the results were to be found, he said, the speaker could not say, except for an occasional outburst of vigorous verbosity on the part of said Minister. Where, asked the Liberal Chief Minister, were the results of this failure of early predictions? Not in the soil, which is fertile beyond compare, the climate which is favorable in almost every respect, or in the constitution which Canadians all believed to be as democratic and more elastic, and responsive to public sentiment, than that of the Republic to the south. The people of Manitoba should cast themselves free of the shackles of protection which bound them down.

These words are true, and it will take a very powerful magnifying glass to detect in them an attempt to "run down the country," or any syllable of dialysis.

In regard to the Acadia Mines market the Sun is silly as the ponderous machinery which the N. P. was to keep humming continually in that Sheffield of Nova Scotia. But wait till the elections draw near! Then our contemporary will awake to sing the former a fulsome song of praise for the home market of protection and it will point its finger to Acadia Mines and endeavour to catch their attention sufficiently during the few weeks of activity to make them forget all about the months and years when the mines were idle or practically so. The great furnaces will be heated up again and Colechester will be directed to gaze upon that town as the cloud by day and pillar of fire by night which leads into the political Canaan of wealth and happiness. Every tree and fence by the roadside will be festooned with advertisements for men to come and receive good and permanent wages. Then, when the elections are over, there will be a scattering. Men will be ruthlessly thrown out of work and stagnation will resume the even tenor of her way.

Thus has it been in the past. Surely our farmers are by this time aroused to the fact that their rights are crushed out by the cunning of party heeled. A large gang of workmen are collected at the Acadia Mines and enjoined or coerced to vote for a continuance of the protection regime. If the farmers of Colechester, apart from all partisan predilections, will only make a study of their real interests they will embrace the earliest opportunity of saying Good-bye to the National Policy with a vengeance that will be tornado-like, and that will effectually rebuke the government's dastardly practice of trifling with their best interests until the day of reckoning, which they have hitherto been able to glide over safely by filing the tenement houses at Acadia Mines with men who are brought there for a night to defeat the wish and well-being of this county at large. The farmers throughout the Dominion are rising up to unshackle themselves from the National Policy and Colechester has reason to be well in the van.

Dalton McCarthy is doing this country no good but harm in endeavouring to create the belief among the ultra-English portions of it that the French Canadians are traitors to the British connection. If this were the truth he might be justified in proclaiming it to the four winds of heaven, even if the knowledge thereof, would smash Confederation into a thousand pieces. But how hard driven he was to support the gruesome contention by one jot or tittle of evidence was seen here in Truro the other night, when he cited the circumstance of an obscure editor whom he did not name talking one night on the boulevard of a hotel in Quebec to an obscure French Canadian whom he did not name and eliciting from that man the statement that in the event of war between England and France his individual sympathies would be with the latter nation. No one who has read Canadian history aright should hesitate long in refusing to accept that solitary Frenchman's view of the situation as a fair expression of the spirit that has diffused itself among our co-citizens of the French blood in this Dominion. Their loyalty named individual. We would rather judge the loyalty of our fellow citizens in Quebec by the words of Hon. Wilfrid Laurier which he addressed to an Ontario audience the other day and which are found elsewhere in these columns. We would rather judge of it by Lieutenant Governor Chapleau's protestation of that loyalty of the French-Canadian population to Great Britain when speaking a week ago to-day at the banquet given to Vice Admiral Sir John Hopkins in the city of Quebec. The Vice Admiral seemed to think that the Lieutenant-Governor had protested too much and a report says that "there was a noble rebuke in his remark that the six ships under his command had not come up the St. Lawrence to test the loyalty of the Canadians but because of it."

Considerable is being said in Toronto about reconstructing the St. Lawrence canals to make them available for ocean steamers, and to make a detour way into the upper lakes. It would please Toronto vastly to see the whole country shouldering an additional burden of debt to bring ships to its door, but the expenditure could not be justified and no government would make it. The scheme was discussed last session in parliament and it was shown that to make even a uniform depth of twenty feet the cost would be enormous and twenty feet would not give water enough for the ocean steamers, to say nothing of the fact that the extra mileage and loss of time through lockage would deter large vessels of the first class going up. Referring to the project the Ottawa Free Press says:

There may be a necessity for opening up the passage to the northwest and utilizing the water ways for that purpose. That was Mr. McKenzie's policy and the opposition at the time could not find words of scorn strong enough to deride him. Now the same party, in power, proposes to adopt his policy and make the most of our "water stretches." But when the time comes for any government to launch out into heavy outlay on this account it is the Ottawa route that must first be attended to. By that route the distance between Lake Superior and Montreal would be shortened by nearly four hundred miles. Of the four hundred and thirty miles only two hundred and fifty would be in the river. The modern application of hydraulic lifts and pneumatic locks render the work much less difficult than when the first surveys were made in 1853. The Ottawa route is the only one upon which the government would be justified in making any very large expenditure.

On another page of to-day's issue will be found Rev. Charles McKay's second and concluding article upon London. Of course these articles are merely cursory, but Mr. McKay has exhibited in them the good taste of discrimination. He has well described some of the greatest things to be seen in the greatest city of the world. His concluding reflections wherein he compares the institutions of our fatherland with those of the United States, to the great advantage of the former, will touch a responsive chord in the hearts of our readers.

We owe it to Mr. McKay as well as to our readers to acknowledge some typographical errors that crept into his communications. Last week the dwelling houses of London were put down at 7,500 when it should have been 700,000 and this week a compositor inadvertently made hundreds read thousands where Mr. McKay mentions the number of languages in which the Bible is printed.

We expect that the letter from Junius in to-day's issue will be the first of a series of articles from his pen, reviewing the campaign sheet of W. A. Patterson, M. P. In its endeavour to describe public opinion in respect of its record the government has had these documents printed in both the English and French language. The clerks in the departments at Ottawa have been instructed to address them off by the tens of thousands and the mail carriers are being laden down with them in all sections of the Dominion. The average taxpayer in Colechester will please remember that he is helping to foot the bills of cost entailed by the production and dissemination of this wonderful campaign sheet. He will please read the sheet and Junius answer thereto.

Lord Aberdeen visited the Poor House while he was in Halifax. It is the experience of all who call into this institution to be impetioned for tobacco. His Excellency was evidently asked to feel his pockets for the weed, as before leaving the city he stepped into a tobacconist's shop and ordered 15 lbs. to be sent out to the Poor House inmates. This little act of thoughtlessness was in keeping with Lord Aberdeen's kindly heart. It is to be hoped that no anti-tobacco crank will be heard from who thinks the pretty incident an indecent one.

The forest fires that have been raging in the Western States for the past week have added a very sad item to the great happenings of the year. Hundreds of lives were lost under the most distressing of circumstances and whole timber tracts and villages have turned to ash heaps. The anxiety of those who have friends living in some of the devastated regions must be very widely extended and it is by no means unmet in Nova Scotia.

In Canada, too, the fire fiend is spreading itself and Winnipeg dispatches tell of a whole tract at Remy River being one huge mass of flames and some settlers were burned to death. It is seldom that a dire catastrophe overtakes any portion of our Dominion. Where the fire is spreading worst has been the scene of unusual drought this summer.

Liberals Attention.

W. A. Patterson's Campaign Sheet Reviewed.

Article First. To the Farmers of the County of Colechester:—

Before me lies a large sheet of Tory Campaign literature, made up of speeches by members of the Federal Government delivered in Parliament and out of Parliament, Cartoons, etc., all intended to induce you to continue your support to the National Policy, so-called. This sheet is sent to you with the "Compendium of W. A. Patterson," and sent through the mails free. You are aware, I dare say, that in order to facilitate correspondence between representatives and their constituents during the session of parliament, a resolution is passed at the opening of each session to permit letters passing between members of parliament and the people to be carried free of postal charges. But this privilege ceases when Parliament prorogues. It seems strange, then, that these campaign sheets should be all passing through the mails in cartloads weeks after our members have returned to their homes.

It is not a little surprising that the compiler could not find a heading for his sheet without committing a blunder. In letters an inch long we read of these words, "The Trade Question Debated." If you consult your dictionaries you will find that the word debate implies that arguments pro and con are heard; that there shall be a "discussion for the purpose of elucidating truth"; that there is a "strife in argument" between persons of different opinions. But in the sheet before us there is nothing we would be led to expect from reading the big lettered heading. The Trade question is not "debated." The whole sheet is filled from beginning to end with a fulsome, one-sided laudation of the National Policy. Every one whose opinions are recorded in this wonderful document is a "protectionist," pure and simple. This document contains the statements—I can hardly say the word arguments—of men whose political existence depends on the National Policy—who would to-day be in the cold shades of opposition only for the National Policy. For those who address you through this sheet the N. P. is a good thing, and the purpose of sending this sheet to you is to get you to endorse the present trade policy gives them.

It is my purpose to examine carefully the statements contained in the sheet sent you, and I must ask you to read carefully what I have to say. I know quite well that time with you is precious at this season of the year and you can not afford to spend much of it over newspapers, but if you have read Mr. Patterson's campaign compilation I trust you may read, and do so as carefully, the review I am about to present to you.

Before I address myself to Mr. Foster's Budget Speech which I must certainly shall do, I must call your attention to the compiler's few prefatory sentences. If the compiler could not write four words of a heading without blundering, you will not be surprised when I tell you he blunders also in his preface. He says, "The Government were all ready with their work when the session began and not one hour's delay was chargeable to them." The Opposition, of course, is blamed for all the delay incurred in pushing through the work in Parliament. This is simply not true. The complaint is that the "Liberals debated the address at great length," and "placed on the order paper page after page of questions and motions. Our Ottawa rulers seem to think that their conduct should not be questioned, that the speech they put into the mouth of the Governor General should pass as a matter of course with no debate. There is an old book which tells us that "he that doth evil hateth the light, neither cometh to the light, lest his deeds should be reproved." Do our rulers at our capital belong to this class? What is Parliament for but to look after the Government of the country? It very naturally raises one's suspicions that all is not right with our rulers when they complain of investigation and debts. "Honest men will court debate. To quote again from the old book, "He that doth truth cometh to the light that his deeds may be made manifest." Mr. A. E. McKenzie was not afraid of debate. On one occasion he said, "Let there be a free and impartial criticism of every act of my administration—year by year, public or private." But our present rulers send a sheet into your homes with a howl in the opening sentences that the Liberals have ventured to call their doing in question and did "debate the address." Of what use is parliament if debate must be avoided by the representative, if no questions can be asked by those who elect to make your laws? Perhaps we had better give up all semblance of representative government and submit meekly to an oligarchy whose rule must not be gained. This method would save us the turmoil of general elections and would also be a pecuniary gain. This method would have another advantage a moral one would not despise,—the occupation of the Boomer would be gone.

But did the Liberals, by any action of their, "commit unnecessary delay" in pushing business through parliament? The government were all ready with their work when parliament met," says the sheet before me. There is positive evidence, notwithstanding, that the sheet says that Mr. Foster was not ready. The excuse given by Sir John Thompson why Mr. Foster could not attend a conference of Prohibitionists held on the afternoon of the 27th March, twelve days after the session opened, was that he "was working his Budget Speech." It could not be that a speech not ready on the 27th could be "all ready" when parliament met on the 15th. But what caused delay with business in parliament? Not the Liberals, unless it is wrong for them to take part in the proceedings in our legislative halls. One great cause—I think I can say truly, the great cause of the "loss" to the country," by postponing the session was this: there were two parliaments in session at Ottawa at the same time. One of these was duly elected by the people to represent the whole population, and which is supposed to be the highest court in Canada. The other parliament was elected by the manufacturers to represent themselves only. The first named parliament had to wait till the second had enacted their measures and had manipulated Mr. Foster and the government. Representative Patterson, though elected by over eight hundred of a majority, had not a tithe of the influence with Mr. Foster and the government as had representative Dr. D. H. Muir, although the latter only had a constituency of some thousand delegates to Ottawa to "interview" the Finance minister. So Mr. Foster had to deal with these delegates. This new parliament had to be heard and had to be placated, by any means. A vote of want of confidence in the manufacturers' parliament would be fatal to the government, as much so, may more so, than a like vote in the Commons. Should the manufacturers' parliament vote to "vote the support" Mr. Foster would be as dead as a smoked herring, the government would be dead, and the great N. P. would die. This Mr. Foster knew right well and he must by all means avert such a catastrophe. This took time, and much expense. Mr. Foster has to go back to parliament and make scores of changes in his tariff revision. We must not forget that Mr. Foster had spent the previous summer peripateticating the country, gathering data, as he said, to make the revision he had promised. In session of 1893, yet, after spending the winter between the sessions of 1893 and 1894, when parliament met he was "not ready." After he had made his "great speech," as the government organs called it, and made all the changes the knowledge he had acquired during his personal interview with all classes, was the farmers involved and had pronounced his revision perfect as the moral law, he found out that his masters, the manufacturers, were not pleased. There were not only a lot of "clerical errors" to be corrected but a great revision was demanded by the secret parliament convened by the manufacturers. This caused weeks of delay as can readily be seen. There is no doubt there were lengthy "debates" in this parliament of delegates, of which the compiler of the sheet before us says nothing. There would be "questions" and "motions" made and "debates" included in that would cause much delay. But the people's parliament had to wait till all these were settled. No one could tell you that there was no "loss" to the country from our government's meddling with the manufacturers. If we can afford to give Mr. Foster credit for being a gentleman with sensitive feeling and also admit that he was sincere when he tabled his revision on the 27th, we must come to the conclusion that it would be a great mistake of debating to induce him to go back to parliament and make a fool of himself, as he certainly did do, when he threw away his own tariff measure and adopted that of the manufacturers. I have no objection whatever to our Finance Minister making a great haul for the farmers of this country to have to maintain a worthless Senate at an enormous cost without receiving in return one cent's worth of benefit, but to have to pay for, as it can be shown we do, a still more worthless barmale, or to use a more appropriate word, a parasite, gathering all its livelihood from sucking the life blood of the toiling masses, is too bad. We pay $50,000 for a Governor General. Thirteen heads of departments cost us about $10,000 annually. About eighty Senators cost us at least $100,000, besides travelling expenses and perquisites. Over 500 "hundred members in the House of Commons are maintained at a cost of about $300,000. Yet all this legislative and governmental machinery, costing so enormously, can all be set at naught by a few delegates from, perhaps, a dozen manufacturing areas. If a few rich men who are engaged in some manufacture can dictate to our parliament what laws we should live under and on just what articles we should be taxed and the amount of that tax, it is time the taxpayers of this country were made aware of it.

I think I have established that the Liberals are not responsible for all the time wasted in parliament.

portionate and systematic living." He was afraid we forgot that the gold and silver belonged to the soil. We were quite willing to acknowledge his claim on the copper. Prof. Andrews of Sackville spoke of what can be done in the home and foreign fields to economize the active forces of the church. He drew a painful contrast between our small villages with three pastors, while millions in Houthendou have not one. The last evening of the convention was given up to missions, a subject dear to Christian Endeavorers. Rev. S. A. Fraser of Hopewell and Miss Smead of Antigonish County, who shortly sail for Trinidad, were present. Mr. Fraser gave a stirring address and was followed by Rev. W. W. Bentley, Moncton; Rev. G. O. Gates, St. John, and Rev. A. Hamilton, Halifax. One cannot help being filled with hope for the future as he sees this noble band of Christian Endeavorers who represent the youthful enthusiasm of our churches. Some of the phrases often used were "consecrated common sense," "applied Christianity," and "individual responsibility." The motto seems to be to work for Christ, for church and for country. Thursday next, 15th inst., Truro's National Day, is one of the days adopted by the Board of Trade and business men of Truro as a Business Holiday, and will be observed as such, the stores and offices being closed. Notice is hereby given so who the public may not be inconvenienced thereby.

Thought it was Cancer. James McMillan, Esq., Halifax Avenue, Brackdale, Truro, Canada, writes: "I have been suffering from dyspepsia for over 20 years, and have tried every supposed cure, which in some cases gave me temporary relief, but the trouble came back again with renewed force, until I almost despaired of being cured, thinking that instead of dyspepsia it must be cancer of the stomach I had. For the last three years I have been in agony from pain in the stomach, besides other symptoms innumerable, until I could not even move about from pain and weakness. At last I saw your K. D. C. ad. I ordered and procured a free sample which I found good. I have used five packages and am free at present from pain; or, at least, although it is six months since I have been cured, I believe permanently."

We don't claim too much, when we claim we are always the cheapest. Phillips.

The Truro some months ago gave a synopsis of the game laws of this province. Under these laws the close season for all game and birds, including caribou, partridge, woodcock, snipe, ducks, etc., continues till Sept. 15th, up to that date it is unlawful to hunt or shoot any of the above game.

M. Tanner has just received a very fine line of goods, including Beaver and Milton cloth of most suitable shades for overcoatings. Silk and satin linings for these have been received direct from the manufacturer. His cloth for pants cannot be excelled and include west of England tweeds and worsteds.

C. F. Cox has the contract for putting furnaces in the school building. The specifications require "Russian" iron for one part of the job. Such iron could not be had in Halifax or St. John, and Mr. Cox was only able to get it in Montreal. This iron is manufactured in Russia. It is of a particularly smooth and finished appearance and is expensive. It is largely counterfeited.

Rev. Mr. Owens, the newly settled Baptist clergyman in Onslow, has had to endure a severe trial in that his wife has become partially insane. Mr. Owens is an Englishman and shortly after settling down in his Onslow charge his wife's mind became deranged. She has been sent to Halifax for medical treatment.

Our Upper Stewiacke correspondent writes: "The Presbyterian of W. F. M. S. met at Springdale on the 5th inst. A successful afternoon session was held and in the evening a large audience assembled in the church, which was beautifully decorated with flowers. Various reports were given and then Prof. Falconer, of Pine Hill College, addressed the meeting. He was followed by Rev. Clarence MacKinnon, Rev. A. Gunn and Rev. James Falconer, of Newport."

A happy family reunion took place at the residence of James McCurdy, Esq., Clifton, on Saturday last. Mr. and Mrs. McCurdy are the parents of thirteen children, all of whom are living, and twelve of whom were assembled at the old homestead on this occasion, besides two daughters-in-law and two grand-children.

Four of the sons are employed in the banking business, one of them being in charge of a Montreal branch of the Merchants' Bank of Halifax.

The death occurred at his residence on Forester street on Sunday morning last of Wm. H. Wilson in the 67th year of his age. The funeral takes place to-day from the house at 2 o'clock. The remains will be interred at Belmont where deceased formerly resided on the Wilson property.

Deceased came to Truro several years ago and until last winter he enjoyed good health, working at the carpenter trade. He was overtaken by a few weeks ago by a species of paralysis, which ended fatally. He was thrice married and widely respected. Arthur Wilson of Belmont is his brother.

A man named McNeil has just been tried in Charlottetown on the charge of murder. The evidence discloses that two young men, who had long been in the habit of teasing him, came to his house one night in a drunken condition and would not leave the premises, but continued to upset everything they could get their hands on. After repeatedly telling them to go or he would shoot, McNeil did take up his gun and shot one fatally, though he claims that he aimed for his feet or legs and scared him. He will only be found guilty of manslaughter.

The Trustees of Victoria Park have presented Prof. A. G. McDonald with a beautiful edition of Shakespeare's works and an elegantly framed portrait of Joseph Howe in recognition of the Professor's services in connection with the picnic given up in the interest of the Park on the morning of the Governor General's visit. In doing this the Trustees performed an act which will receive Tatamagouche Bay and Economy items too late for this issue. Ishmael's communication on fourth page was crowded out from last week.

A couple of boys were brought up before Magistrate Johnson yesterday, after having been in jail from Saturday night, charged with stealing some squash from the Provincial Government Farm on Bible Hill. They were discharged for want of conclusive evidence after receiving some advice that they will remember.

As a result of the conference of customs officials held recently in Halifax, it is likely a steamer will be purchased to look after vessels engaged in smuggling from St. Pierre to Cape Breton and Nova Scotian ports. Inspector McMichael, of Toronto, and customs officer M. J. Phoran, of North Sydney, are the two officers who are making plans for the circumvention of the smugglers. The preparations are secret. Chazetcook, twenty miles east of Halifax, will be watched particularly. Possibly one of the fishery cruises will be detailed to patrol the waters between St. Pierre and the Cape Breton coast.

The Truro office was favored on Thursday last by a pleasant call from Mr. Matthew Neil, of Chelsea, Mass., who dropped in to pay his annual dollar in advance. Mr. Neil is over 60 years of age, was born in Noel and removed to Folly Mountain some 22 years ago when the Intercolonial Railway was being constructed there. 13 years ago he went to Chelsea, during the last eleven of which he has been employed in feeding the horses used by the West End Street Railway Co's of that city. It is expected that Electricity will soon be the power employed, but the company are so well satisfied with Mr. Neil's long and faithful service that they have promised him a job with them in any case. This is the first occasion on which Mr. Neil has been back to Nova Scotia since removing to Chelsea. He had a severe attack of La Grippe last winter which leaves him slightly lame. He is the father of 13 children, 9 of whom are still living. Mrs. Neil, nee Nelson of Truro is one of his daughters and Athol Neil of Acadia Mines is a son.

Truro's Natal Day

The chief attractions in Truro on the above day are to be provided by the Truro Athletic Club, and the programme will be as follows: A Quoit Match in the forenoon between the T. A. A. C. members. At 2 P. M. the annual sports take place and promise to be unusually interesting. Competitors have entered from the principal of Maritime Provinces clubs and on the Bicycle Races, one rider from Ontario. A band concert will take place from 2.30 to 6 o'clock. Refreshment booths will be provided and the grand stand will be opened free to the ladies. The evening programme commences at 7.30. A B. C. do parade by the veterans and local wheelman, with the bicycle decorated with lanterns etc., will open the events. The three mile bicycle race will bring into line the best wheelmen in the Maritime Provinces and the "500 Race" will afford an entertainment as well. The T. A. A. C. grounds will be illuminated and Fireworks will form part of the evening's programme. The Truro Band will provide music during the evening and every one will find an enjoyable entertainment provided by the T. A. A. C.

County News, &c.

Tatamagouche. Quite an interesting race came off here on the 1st, in which two of our horses, "Harry Alright" owned by Jas. McLanders and "Wild Joy" owned by J. W. Cassidy, were pitted against each other. For some time past Harry Alright has easily held first place in trotting, but he has now to give way to Mr. Cassidy's gummy little mare, who won the race here the other day with little difficulty. "Wild Joy" is now taking a forenoon place among the trotters of the province.

In the races in New Glasgow on the 3rd she started in the 2.50 class and carried off second money. Her time was 2.30. A B. C. do parade by the veterans and local wheelman, with the bicycle decorated with lanterns etc., will open the events. The three mile bicycle race will bring into line the best wheelmen in the Maritime Provinces and the "500 Race" will afford an entertainment as well. The T. A. A. C. grounds will be illuminated and Fireworks will form part of the evening's programme. The Truro Band will provide music during the evening and every one will find an enjoyable entertainment provided by the T. A. A. C.

The Short Line Ry. picnic was held here on the 4th. The attendance was not large as the weather looked unfavorable in the morning. In the games, the I. C. R. men were found wanting having got beaten both at base ball and the tug-of-war.

On Monday of last week, the remains of Mrs. Hamilton were conveyed from Pugwash here and thence to New Annan for burial. Mr. David Redmond, brother in law and J. S. and Wm. Hamilton, sons of the deceased, were in attendance from Pugwash.

W. A. Patterson M. P. is slowly recovering, being able to sit up for a short time each day.

Mr. W. M. Ferguson, our late teacher, left for Halifax last week to attend the Law School.

It is to be regretted that North Colchester is making so few, if in fact any at all, exhibits in the coming Exhibition. Surely this is not as it should be.

Old Barns. During the last high tides the channel has found a passage for itself behind a breakwater that was constructed by the Lower Onslow people some nine years ago, and it is now feared that it will break through at the north end of the brush-heap opposite McNeil's farm.

A large number of shareholders of the Lower Village marsh are clearing out the Little Moose Creek. This is to keep good the drainage of the marsh.

Miss Abbie Johnson of Valley Station, is in charge of our school for the present term.

Mrs. Rebecca Loughead and David Kauback Esq. have both been very critically ill, but a slight improvement is noticeable.

Mr. Geo. W. Yuill arrived home from Boston Thursday and will resume his lucrative blacksmith business at the old stand.

Mr. Lamont, of Truro, has moved into the house lately vacated by Mrs. Cox and her son, and will be in the employ of J. Kent engaged at farm ing.

Mrs. A. L. Sumner left Truro last for Boston.

Davies accompanied him as far as Bridgewater.

Letters received from Schooner "Hattie May" tell of her arrival at Barbados from Bridgewater on the 16th ult. after a long and tedious passage only very light winds having met with, the North East trade winds having been unusually light and variable.

Noah Morrill has been making some fine improvements on his buildings in the way of painting etc.

Daniel Craig has been home spending a few weeks' vacation. He has returned to Cape Breton to resume his business.

Miss Gass and Miss Kirkham, who have been the guests of Mrs. W. McLanders, have returned to their home at Salt Springs.

Death has again entered our midst and taken away a dear young girl, Nellie Chisholm, in the 17th year of her age. Much sympathy is felt for the widowed mother who a year ago last January lost her husband from the same disease—consumption.

Sleep on, dear Nellie, sleep and take thy rest, Lay down thy head upon thy Saviour's breast; We loved thee well, but Jesus loves thee better.

Only good-night, dear Nellie, not farewell! A little while and all His saints shall dwell in hallowed union indivisible.

Maitland. Mr. Otis Douglas arrived Saturday last from Providence, R. I., where he had employment in the foundry business.

Miss Hebb, B. A. (Dalhousie) of Lunenburg is the Principal of our schools here for the present term.

A. Putnam M. P. and wife have just enjoyed a very pleasant trip to P. E. Island.

Capt. Wm. Putnam arrived Wednesday from Cape Breton where he was visiting his deceased wife's relatives at Folly Bay.

Mrs. Capt. C. S. McKenzie left Tuesday last on a visit to Boston.

Capt. Wm. Laurence is back from the Amherst races, where his colt took second place among the 3-year-olds. The Capt. has concluded to dispose of all his horses and to go largely into the dairy business, believing that the latter gives surer returns.

Folly Village. Mr. Arthur McLean of East Walpole, Mass., is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John McLean, Folly River.

Mrs. Shute of Malden, Mass., and daughter of the late A. D. Morrison Esq., is visiting at her old home in Little Dyke, also relatives in that vicinity.

Capt. D. F. Faulkner, so well and favorably known as a successful commander, is home for a short time. He is now commander of the fine steamer "Queen Margaret" which is now loading cases of New York for Shanghai, China. We have heard it remarked of him that he is strictly temperate and attends to his business.

Born. At Lower Onslow, Aug. 30th, to the wife of Thos. L. Corbett, a son.

Folly Village. We wish them a pleasant time.

John B. Urquhart has arrived home after visiting friends in Economy and sisters Mrs. Gordon G. Gray and Miss May Urquhart in Leamington, Cam. Co.

Professor Spinney held forth in Cummings' Hall on Wednesday evening, 5th inst. His concert was very well attended and must have been a success financially.

Mr. Charles Corbett has left for New York, his busiess calling him there sooner than he expected. He will be joined in Halifax by the widow of his late brother Capt. Alexander and her little son who go on a visit to that city.

Mr. and Mrs. S. H. McLaughlin of Central Economy are visiting friends in this place. They are well deserving of a good time.

There is to be a several marriages here in the near future; we will give you the particulars later on.

We have just paid the last rites of respect to one of our aged and widely known and respected neighbors, Mrs. Sarah Fraser, the kind hostess of the well known hotel in this place, who died Sept. 5th, aged 75 years. She leaves two sons, George and J. A. Fraser, who dearly loved their mother and well they might for none could be more deserving of that love. She was always anxious for their welfare, hence their extreme sorrow. Besides these sons she leaves one sister and a large number of relations and friends to all of whom we all tender our sympathy. The funeral services were conducted by the Rev. James Sinclair, of Bridgeville, Pictou Co., our former beloved pastor, who was hastily summoned here for that purpose, and the many hearty greetings which he received from those assembled show the high estimation in which he is held by the people of this place. We would have been highly pleased to have him visit among us for a few days, but his time was too much limited. We hope to see his genial countenance again among us.

Easttown. Miss Annie Ballin began tramping in the village school on the 3rd.

A Man Well Dressed.

Has a good start to prosperity. It indicates intelligence, culture and taste. He ought to succeed. To be well dressed does not mean that the clothing need be expensive--the first cost may be a little more, the material; but not the making, if it is done right.

There is an art in selecting goods adapted to different people. There are certain classes that tall people should avoid; others again for stout people to avoid.
