VOL. XII—NO. 22.

Roman Intelligence.
The celebrated fresco of Fra Angelico, "Christ on the Cross," in the refectory of the Convent of St. Domenico, at Piacenza, has been sold to the museum of the Louvre at Paris, whilst Prince Sergius, of Russia, has paid 46,000 francs for the other large fresco by the same author in this Convent.

Among the churches where the Lenten Stations have been held is St. Cross in Gerusalemme, founded by St. Helena, mother of Constantine, on the site of the gardens of Heliogabalis, where afterwards stood the palace of the Emperor, known as the Palatium Sessorianum, whence the name of "Sessorian," sometimes given to this basilica.

A priest, against whom a lawsuit had been entered, because he had obeyed his Bishop in recommending his parishioners not to vote at the late elections, has gained his case. The verdict is important, as it will affect other cases of the same kind, in which, at the late elections, parish priests announced publicly that the Pope desired Catholics to abstain from voting.

The Pope has authorized Cardinal Nina to preside at the festival of Our Lady known under the title of "Maria S. S. Divino Amore," and at the same time, to crown the picture. The little church, situated in the open country about nine miles beyond the gate of St. Sebastian, and, since 1740, has been visited by the faithful of all classes to thank the Blessed Virgin for favors received, or to pray for her help and patronage.

The Count de la Tour, Italian Minister to the Brazil, has presented to the Prehistoric Museum of the Roman College a collection of arms, armor, and natural curiosities of Brazil, and also relics of the Brazilian prehistoric state, called "Santago," which will be seen in Europe for the first time. The Count has also given several ethnological publications on the Brazils, including the complete series of the Revista do Museu Nacional do Rio Janeiro.

The festival of St. Francis, Roman was observed on the 9th ult. in her church, and at the Convent of the Oblates at the Tor de Spechi, where the relics of the saint may be venerated. St. Francis is the patron of the church now dedicated to her, but formerly known as St. Maria Antica, in the Roman Forum, founded by St. Sylvester on the site of the temple of Venus. It contains an ancient picture of the church, attributed to St. Luke, brought from Troy in 1100. This was the only object saved when the church was destroyed by fire in 1216. In 1440 the church was again destroyed, St. Francis, founder of the Order of Oblates.

The Feast of St. Thomas Aquinas was celebrated with great solemnity this morn, in the Church of St. Maria sopra Minerva, and was preceded by a Triduo, the Benediction on the last day being given by Cardinals Parocci and Zigliara, O. P. On the feast itself Low Masses were said from an early hour, High Mass being sung by Mgr. Pampaloni, O. P., Bishop of Alghero, in the presence of Cardinals Bartolini and Zigliara, O. P., and the pupils of the various colleges and schools. The panegyric was pronounced by Father Mazzanti, O. P., in the afternoon, after which solemn Benediction was given by Cardinal Almonda, assisted by the students of the College of St. Thomas. On Sunday, the 11th, the students of the Roman College gave a grand Academic in honor of the saint in the large hall of their college.

On Sunday, the 4th ult., the Holy Father celebrated Mass in his private chapel, to which he admitted several Catholic families of different nations, to whom he administered Holy Communion. After a Mass of Thanksgiving had been said by one of his private chaplains, the Holy Father received them in audience. Among them were some pilgrims from the diocese of Nancy, who offered a considerable sum as Peter Pence, saved by them from the expenses of the journey to Rome, they having practised great economy and self-denial. The Bishop of Nancy is expected shortly at the head of a large pilgrimage, those received being the advance guard. During the week, His Holiness received in private audience the various Ambassadors and Ministers accredited to the Holy See, who offered to His Holiness their homage and wishes on the occasion of the fifth anniversary of his coronation. Private audience was also granted for the same purpose to the Prince Grand Master of the Sovereign Order of Malta; Mr. Erington, M. P.; and the Duke of San Martino di Montebello. Among the special offerings of Peter Pence, on the occasion of this fifth anniversary, were 1500 lire, offered by Mgr. Schifano in the name of the Bishop and clergy of Azezo; and a large sum in gold from the diocese of Bergamo, collected by the Confraternity of St. Peter. Mgr. Celestino Del Frate, Bishop of Imeria, and Apostolic Delegate to Chili, has arrived in Rome.

It has been said that all ways lead to Rome. The religious intellect is one ultimately, and a certain Catholic tendency is discernible sometimes in quarters where it would not be looked for. Principal Bishop of St. Andrew's, who is also Professor of Poetry at Oxford, by no means approves of secular instruction alone, and he speaks with strong sympathy for the old Scotch University (that of St. Andrew's, founded by Pope Benedict in 1411), he says, "Even after the Reformation, the Reformers still preserved the general generation of the old Catholic idea of education, as distinguished from mere instruction. Thought, life and vespis should go hand in hand, and they cannot be severed without great loss to the young soul." And again, "The intellect itself is impoverished and dwarfed when out of the spirit—the fountain-light of all our seeing."

Provincial Legislature

SUMMARY DEBATES.

Tuesday, March 27.

Mr. Yeo said that no Parliament was ever opened with such a meagre speech. There was nothing in it. The member for Charlottetown had given a great deal of information for which he was much obliged. The experience of his own country was that the harvest was not abundant, but rather the reverse; the oat crop was very small. He should be thankful to the Government for its favorable view, otherwise there would have been much distress. The season had been a good one for lumbering, of which the people took advantage. He was sorry to admit that the country was not prosperous; the past year had been hard on the small farmers. The price for horses, cattle, and sheep had been low in some parts. The Government certainly had not interfered with the property. He did not agree with the idea of having only one Central Exhibition. The price offered for the exhibition was not fair. He regretted the Government had not enlightened the House as to their policy. In the exhibition of Winter Communion, very little good had resulted from the first delegation to Ottawa. He regretted that the Government had not done its duty. It is not for us to say in what way the terms shall be carried out, but we should insist upon their full and complete offering suggestions. Our part of the contract has been carried out, we have a right to require the same from the Dominion; the people will be satisfied with nothing else. As to the wharves and piers, he trusted that in the negotiations the public interest had been properly guarded, a matter quite as important as any amount we would receive. He was glad to learn that the assessment was going to be levied. At the present rate there would be an end to our capital before long; heavy taxation must ensue, as no other country could stand it. He presumed that the question of the Fishery Award was still pending, though a bill had been introduced in the general elections. They sprung upon the people, and there was nothing to justify such an action. The Speech, this year, contained no paragraph of congratulation that the revenue was in excess of the expenditure. He thought it was very significant. He presumed, therefore, that there had been a deficit; but he trusted that the Government would promptly inform the House.

Mr. SULLIVAN, after congratulating the member for Charlottetown on his speech, expressed his surprise that the Leader of the Opposition should expect the policy of the Government to be decided before the House had had any view on the Land Question. He had given his views on the Land Question in 1879, and he was not surprised to find that the Government had not altered its policy. He had not received from his former statements. He would not accept any expenditure by the Dominion Government, which was not a part of the obligation to provide continuous communication. He was not in a position to discuss the matter. He had said that he would insist upon the full and complete offering suggestions. He had said that he would insist upon the full and complete offering suggestions. He had said that he would insist upon the full and complete offering suggestions.

had noticed that the Government were very uneasy while he was speaking. He did not consider that we had an abundant harvest in the New Year, signs of which were in our own markets, and cannot sell them in England. He regretted to say that the people are not so prosperous as they ought to be, and have been heretofore; the great majority are getting poorer. When he ran his election he told the people that he intended to tax them, and they returned to him in a large majority. He believed in taxing a man directly and not his goods; give free trade and direct taxation. The Government had not done this. There are a few rich farmers around Charlottetown who enjoy the benefits of the farm at the expense of the poor ones. It was the Opposition party who first introduced the improvement of the exhibition grounds, and they had been taunted because he was not one of the delegation which went to Ottawa. Edmundson made no mention of the Attorney General and the Provincial Secretary should be on the delegation; and he thought it would be admitted that considering the limited resources of the Government, they had given a good deal of money to the Dominion Government. their maiden efforts, and explained that a certain advertisement, to which attention had been directed, and which lately appeared in the New Era, signed with his name, had been placed there,—for what reason he knew not—without his knowledge or consent. A member of the community he was glad to be able to forward the interests of the Province in any way he could; but such service he might perform had not necessarily come from the Government to it. The statements of gentlemen of the Opposition to the contrary notwithstanding, it was quite evident that the Province enjoyed a large measure of prosperity, for which he ought to be duly thankful. The result of the management afforded by the Government, our agriculture is steadily improving. The Government imported machinery and put up new and good buildings for the accommodation, and acted wisely in having a general exhibition in Charlottetown, and in the competition of the whole Island. He had been taunted because he was not one of the delegation which went to Ottawa. Edmundson made no mention of the Attorney General and the Provincial Secretary should be on the delegation; and he thought it would be admitted that considering the limited resources of the Government, they had given a good deal of money to the Dominion Government.

the Province as a whole, was not very abundant. If the reports that the delegation to Ottawa had obtained $125,000 for the Province, he hoped the money would be well spent. The repeal of the Supplementary Clause of the Education Act he demanded, and an improvement in required in the means of getting Hillborough Ferry. Let us have a free bridge. Our section of the country does not receive any benefit from the Stock Farm. The people do not receive advantages from the importation of improved stock. Improved stock should also be distributed to the poorer farmers, and the roads, bridges and wharves of the Belfast district are out of repair, and should be attended to; and as to the payment of company interest on account, he thought it should not be exacted.

to break up the thin ice which forms, early in the winter, and close our principal harbors—other steamers and vessels might then ply much later in the year. There are steamers in Newfoundland, and other places which could do this work. In this matter of Communication with the Mainland, we ought to combine. We should unite in demanding that the terms of Confederation be carried out. The people gave the Government credit for managing the affairs of the Province economically and well, though the Government had not done so. The Government to free the tenants of small estates, and he trusted that, if possible, some means would be taken by the Government to prevent the introduction of the Potato Bug. With reference to the emigration from the Island, it is not usual for people to flock from the older Province and St. John's to the newer ones, where railways are being built, and the country is being opened up. of intelligent farmers who have examined them. There is nothing whatever, in real life, in the story of the holes in the roof and the astronomical observations. He told, during the election contest, by certain very imaginative politicians! With regard to the question of improved winter communication, he had heard, with wonder, while at Ottawa, one of our representatives in the House of Commons state from his place that the "Northern Light" was a great success. He could not help thinking that if the Upper Province members gave credence to this statement, it would be very difficult for the Island to obtain the additional and improved facilities which are so greatly needed. On the Pier Question also, the Opposition, or at least their organs, have taken a position, diametrically opposed to the interests of the Province. Instead of giving expression to baseness fears that the interests of the people will suffer if the Dominion Government take possession of our wharves, instead of securing such reasons why the Province should continue to be saddled with the cost of their maintenance, Opposition, and their organs, should endeavor to strengthen the hands of the Government, in order that an equitable and satisfactory arrangement might be arrived at. For the fears of the Opposition respecting certain bridges, there were, perhaps, some grounds. But the danger does not proceed in any way from the Dominion Government. West River Bridge was constructed when the late Mr. Bailey was in office; and the Dominion Government was not the author of it. The Dominion Government was not the author of it. The Dominion Government was not the author of it.

ROCKS AND RIVERS.

When the Rivers first were born, From the hills rose each surmounting...

THE OLD BARON; OR THE CHAMPION OF VIRTUE.

They descended the staircase; every door was open till they came to the fatal closet.

Edmund called to Mr. William: 'Approach, my friend, and behold the door your family overlooked!'

While they were doing this, Edmund showed them the breast-plate all stained with blood; he then called to Joseph: 'Do you know whose suit of armor was this?'

It was my lord's, said Joseph; the late Lord Lovel; I have seen him wear it. Edmund bade them bring shovels and remove the earth.

While they were gone, he desired Father Oswald to repeat all that passed the night they sat up together in that apartment which he did till the servants returned.

They threw out the earth, while the bystanders in solemn silence waited the event. After some time and labor they struck against something. They proceeded till they discovered a large trunk, which with great difficulty they drew out.

It was my lord's, said Joseph; the late Lord Lovel; I have seen him wear it. Edmund bade them bring shovels and remove the earth.

APRIL FARM NOTES.

A well started crop is usually profitable, and one put in late or under unfavorable conditions is seldom satisfactory.

Harrowing winter grain is a practice that is now quite generally adopted by the better farmers. This should be done with implements that have the teeth turned backward.

Spring wheat should be sown as soon as the ground can be properly prepared. A top-dressing of manure may be added after sowing.

Grass is a leading farm crop, and is much neglected. Our farmers have given very little attention to the study of grass and the soils and culture best adapted to the various sorts.

The potato-beetle is well under control, and potatoes are now in certain crop, and a profitable one, when given clean culture on a rich mellow soil.

Put all farm implements in good order during rainy days. Clear up the rubbish that has accumulated. Look well to fences before cattle are turned out.

The care bestowed on sheep by some farmers during the winter, invites weakness, and a troublesome irritation of the skin and loss of wool after poor treatment.

Raising lambs for the spring market is a profitable business, but great care of both ewes and lambs is necessary. The strength and vitality of the lamb at birth depend largely on the condition of the ewe previous to parturition.

Much injury is done to the unborn lambs by compelling the ewe to go without water. Licking the snow to quench thirst chills the foal and weakens the lamb.

It is not likely that any number of appeals, however influential the source or appalling the circumstances, will induce the Government to meet the prevailing distress in Ireland as it ought to be met.

God has made neither nobles, nor masters, nor slaves, nor kings, nor subjects; He has made all equal. The man who unconsciously sets down in some warm glow thinks there is more than one way of getting ahead.
