ULCERATED TEETH.

Thousands of people have suffered in the past from rheumatism and neuralgia because their diagnosis of the cause was not correct. Physicians prescribed the usual remedies but relief, if it came at all, was only temporary. They doctored the condition and not the cause. The "cause" was ulcerated teeth, but neither physician nor the patient was aware of it. The present-day physician never overlooks the teeth in locating the cause of rheumatism, neuralgia and several other illnesses. One cannot be in good health with ulcerated teeth. These teeth can sometimes be treated successfully—other times they must come out. By all means get rid of these pus-pocket formations.

THE Phantom Lover.

(By the Author of "A Bachelor Husband")

CHAPTER XXXV.

The hot blood died down, leaving him cool and alert. He pushed the door wide open and walked into the room. The group of men by the fireplace scattered; some one coughed deprecatingly; some one else seized upon a siphon and began filling an already full glass recklessly.

Nobody spoke.

Micky kicked the door to behind him, shutting it with a slam.

His eyes went straight to Ashton—a pale Ashton, trying to smile unconcernedly and brazen the situation out.

"I'll give you two minutes in which to apologise," Micky said in a voice of steel. "Two minutes in which to retract the damned lie you coughed deprecatingly in this room—or I'll thrash you within an inch of your life."

In the silence following one could have heard a pin drop. Every one looked at Ashton. Micky took out his watch. It seemed an eternity before Ashton spoke.

"If you've been listening—" he began blustering.

He moistened his dry lips.

"What I said is the truth," he broke out spluttering. "You were in Paris with—" But the name was never spoken. Micky's clenched fist shot out and struck him right in the mouth.

In a moment the room was in an uproar; half a dozen men rushed at Micky and pinned his arms.

"Mellows—for God's sake—if Hooper comes in . . ."

Ashton had staggered back against the wall; his mouth was cut and bleeding; he was swearing horribly.

Micky was crimson in the face; the veins stood out like cords on his forehead; he was straining every nerve to free himself from his captors.

"Apologise!" he gasped. "Apologise, you damned cad!"

Ashton laughed savagely.

"Apologise! What for? It's the truth, and you know it. Apologise! I'll repeat it . . . I say that you were in Paris three weeks ago with Esther Shepstone, one of the girls from Eldred's."

Micky suddenly stopped struggling, but his breath came in deep rasps as he spoke. He looked round at the faces of the other men.

"I know most of you—here," he said in a laboured voice. "And most of you know me—and you know that I'm not a damned liar like Ashton; and I know that you'll believe me—believe me—when I tell you that the lady who was with me in Paris—three weeks ago—is my wife . . . we've been married some time—and it is solely by her wish that it has been kept a secret."

If Micky had dropped a bomb in the room it could hardly have created more consternation. The incredulity on the faces of the men around him would have been amusing to an on-looker, but to Micky the whole thing was tragedy.

He had brought Esther to this with his blundering outburst; he was nearly beside himself with remorse.

If he had been free he would have half-killed Ashton. His hands sobbed to get at him; to take him by his throat and choke the breath from his body.

He looked at the men around him with supplicating eyes.

"I've never given any of you cause to doubt my word yet," he said hoarsely. "And I'm sure you'll agree with me that this man should be made to retract what he said and apologise."

"Certainly—he ought to apologise. It's disgraceful—internally disgraceful," said a man who had been listening to Ashton's story eagerly enough a moment ago.

"What do you say, gentlemen?"

There was chorus of assent. The man who had been holding Micky's arms let him go.

Ashton backed a step away. His face was livid, his eyes furious, but he knew that there was no other course open to him; nobody in the room had any sympathy with him now.

"I apologise," he said savagely. "I didn't know that—the lady—Mellows had married—the lady."

His tone added that even now he did not believe it; he edged away to the door and disappeared.

Micky dropped into a chair; he looked thoroughly done up. Some one pushed a glass of whisky across to him. There was an uncomfortable silence. Perhaps they were all feeling guilty; perhaps they all remembered what what relish they had listened to this spicy bit of scandal.

"Never could stand Ashton," some one said presently, in gruff abatement. "Worm—the man let—perfect outsider!"

There were several grunts of assent; the sympathy was decidedly with Micky.

After a moment he rose to his feet. "I suppose an apology is due from me too," he said; he spoke with difficulty. "But I think any of you—in the same circumstances—"

He waited a moment.

"Quite right—certainly . . . Should have done the same myself."

Micky smiled faintly.

"And I am sure you won't let this go any further—for my wife's sake," he added.

They pressed round him, shaking him by the hand and reassuring him. Micky took it for what it was worth. He knew that those of them who were married men would go straight home and tell their wives of the scene at Hooper's; and he knew how speedily the story would spread.

He got away as soon as he could and left the house.

He never gave Marie another thought, till he found himself out in the street and walking away through the fresh spring night.

He took off his hat and let the air blow on his hot forehead; his hand still trembled with excitement.

He tried to think, but his thoughts would not come clearly. When he got back to his room he asked Driver for a stiff brandy. The man looked at his master diffidently, and asked if anything were the matter.

Micky laughed.

"Why? Do I look as if there is?" He glanced at himself in the mirror. His face was very white.

"No, there's nothing the matter. I'm tired, that's all."

Driver turned to the door, but Micky called him back.

"You've been with me a good many years, Driver," he said.

"And you've been a faithful servant."

"Thank you, sir."

The man's stolidness did not change a fraction.

Micky took a gulp at the brandy.

"If you were to hear that I'm married, you wouldn't be surprised, would you?" he asked with a rush.

Driver stood immovable.

"Not in the least, sir."

"You would even say that you knew that I've been married some weeks, wouldn't you?"

"I should, sir."

"Good—you may go."

"Thank you, sir, and good-night."

"Good-night," said Micky.

And now, what was to be done now?

When he left this room three hours ago it had been with the determination to put the past behind him for ever, and what had he done? Only walked more deeply into his quixotism and seriously compromised the woman he loved.

He had said that she was his wife. It gave him a little firm to remember that a dozen of his acquaintances had heard him say it; and were probably

DIFFUSE OPINIONS.
LONDON, May 2. Political correspondents of papers here are discussing the possibility of an interview between Premier Lloyd George and Eamonn de Valera, the Sinn Féin leader. It is reported that de Valera is ready to meet Lloyd George, provided he is not "required to sue for peace." On the other hand the Dublin Castle authorities are reported to be against any "negotiations with Rebels."

HISTORY IN THE MAKING.
DUBLIN, May 2. A new chapter of Irish history, in many respects the most momentous in generations, will be recorded this week with the inauguration of the new Home Rule Parliament Act. This will mark the end of the Act of Union under which Ireland has been governed for one hundred and twenty years. The week will also witness the inauguration of Lord Talbot, the new Lord Lieutenant, the first Roman Catholic to hold that position in recent times. Despite the importance of these developments, the Irish people appeared to-day to await them with the utmost indifference. Lord Talbot will be sworn in to-morrow with the usual ceremonies, and will later issue a proclamation summoning the Parliaments for North and South Ireland.

ject of final action by the Supreme Council in London on the Reparations issue, is proceeding with the preliminaries necessary to the Ruhr Valley should that step be ordered.

LORD TALBOT IN IRELAND.

DUBLIN, May 2. Viscount Talbot, the new Lord Lieutenant and Governor-General of Ireland, arrived here, to-day, Two moving picture operators and the Venerable Keeper of Newstand, whose privilege it has been for nearly half a century to welcome visiting Royalties and successive Viceroys, were the only civilians permitted on the station platform to witness Lord Talbot's arrival. Newspapersmen were excluded from the ceremony in Dublin Castle, where an informal reception took place. Preparations for the approaching elections will now be hastened. Posters have already appeared in support of Republicans. Three men posting election notices were arrested in Black Rock on Saturday night.

OFF FOR DUSSELDORF.

FRENCH MILITARY HEADQUARTERS MAYENCE, Germany, May 2. One division of Black Moroccan Infantry and one division of cavalry under General Simon in fifteen trains left this evening for Ruhr. They will arrive in Dusseldorf Tuesday.

DOMINION HOME RULE.

DUBLIN, May 2. John J. Farrell, former Mayor of Dublin, announced to-day that a peace offer was to be made to the Irish Republican Parliament. Farrell said his informant was Mr. Walter Long, member of Parliament for Yorkshire, who is an authority of the Irish Office, declared the British Government was prepared to grant Dominion Home Rule in Ireland, Great Britain retaining control over the army and navy.

TROUBLED IRELAND.

DUBLIN, May 2. Peter Casey was executed by a firing squad at Michaelstown, County Cork, last night, less than twenty-four hours after he participated in an ambush on Crown forces. During an ambulance Casey was seen to fire at an officer, who was only forty yards away, and then to throw up his hands, according to testimony offered at the Military Court which tried him. In an encounter at Michaelstown a position of Sinn Féiners was captured. Two Sinn Féiners were found dead and two wounded, while four others were arrested. One soldier was wounded. Two Auxiliaries were shot and killed in Fyppora, County Longford, while walking.

THE BRITISH BUDGET.

LONDON, May 2. The House of Commons this evening adopted all the Budget resolutions. Free traders tried hard but vainly to get the Government to remove the war duty of seven pence on tea and one-third, ad valorem duty, on motor cars, clocks, watches and musical instruments. The Government resisted all appeals, contending there was urgent need for revenue and it was advisable to prevent expenditures for luxuries.

MILITARY ORDERS.

PARIS, May 2. The Ministry of War said to-night with reference to the dispatch of infantry and cavalry from Mayence into Ruhr, that the Government had not yet issued any orders for such a movement into the Ruhr region. Military authorities in Mayence, it was added, may have deemed it advisable to start troops.

STRIKE NEWS.

TORONTO, May 2. Practically general strikes in building trades in Hamilton and Ottawa, together with isolated strikes of Job Printers in Hamilton, Peterboro and other cities, on the issue of the forty-four hour week are the principal labor troubles afflicting Canada to-day. There seems to be at present little prospect of early settlement in these cases. In addition to these new strikes there are some long standing tie-ups in the Pulp and Paper industry in Ontario and Quebec and in shipbuilding works, Toronto.

Odd and Interesting.

Every workman in Japan wears on his cap an inscription stating his business and his employer's name.

To determine the cause of a recent wreck on a Pennsylvania railroad, a mock collision was staged. As a result of the imitation wreck, officials were able to determine against which road claims should be filed because of that road's negligence.

In 47 hours engineers moved an eight-story brick and steel building 40 feet in the heart of the Pittsburg, Penn., business section. Heating and lighting as well as other service was maintained throughout the 4,000-ton structure, and all employees remained as usual at their desks.

Taxiarohis Eftimios Pappatziachon, late of Konkoviada Parnassos, Greece, recently applied for naturalization papers in Cleveland, O. When asked his name he pulled out a rubber stamp and neatly presented its print. "Those that know me, call me Tom," he said, "and for those that don't, I use a rubber stamp. It saves time."

It now looks as though New Brunswick liquor referendum will not take place until the middle of October. This means importation of liquor into New Brunswick for personal use and consumption in private residences will now be permissible at least until about the end of the present year regardless of what happens when the vote was taken.

"Dr. Charles W. Elliot, former President of Harvard University, has some scathing things to say about the coarsened manners of young people," says the New York World. "They converse in slang, discuss subjects never mentioned in his youth, and the young men are rude and familiar toward the young women, who accept the rudeness as a matter of course and 'do not seem to resent gross misconduct toward them by their male associates.'" College freshmen who get drunk at dances are not only not rebuked, but are invited again by the same matrons, and "cutting in" on the dancing-floor by intoxicated men goes on unrestrained. Alas for the times and the manners! But the worst of Dr. Elliot's indictment is that these are the manners of Boston and Harvard. It is "at dances in private houses in Boston" that the offences criticized occur, and it is to the Harvard Dames at Cambridge that the complaint is made by the venerable mentor."

Constantine's Blue Laws.

Constantine, the first Christian Roman emperor, who ruled in 321 A. D., was the first ruler in Europe. Constantine was highly religious, and he demanded strict observance of the Sabbath throughout his vast empire. He decreed that "judges, inhabitants and artificers" must rest on the Sabbath. He exempted husbandmen from this order, however, since "sowing was a necessity and could not be done on any other day." Slaves could not be compelled to work on this day, by the emperor's decree. Should masters be caught in the act of forcing their slaves to labor, a heavy fine and perhaps a jail sentence would be imposed. Children were emancipated from

The Bell Island Ore Tax Agreement.

A Bad Bargain For Newfoundland.

Editor Evening Telegram
Dear Sir—A contract appears to have been made in November last between the Government and the Bell Island Ore Companies, and a Bill to confirm it is now before the Assembly. It is very improper, far-reaching, and difficult to understand; I doubt, indeed, if even every member of the Assembly comprehends it. I suggest that the Bill should be sent to a Select Committee of the Assembly, and an endeavor made to make it clear, and to erase some clauses. I cannot believe that the Assembly will pass it in its present form, if the members become quite aware of the forcible objections which can be urged to it. I also suggest that a meeting of the Board of Trade should be held at once to discuss this contract, which will be far-reaching in its effect upon the trade and commerce of the country. If the Council of the Board of Trade will meet at once to consider the matter, I will undertake to convince them of the need of action.

The first objection I have to the Bill is that it seeks to bind the Colony to a certain policy for a period of 20 years, altogether too long, in view of the unsettled condition of affairs at the present time, and of the changes which are in store for us. There is no reason that I can see why this Colony should bind itself to industrial companies already established here for such a long space of time. While the Colony's policy to such companies should be generous, it should keep itself from entangling commitments. Five years is long enough to enter into an agreement of this character.

EXPORT TAX ON ORE.

The main purport of the Bill is to fix the amount of duty which the Company shall pay upon Iron Ore exported from Bell Island. Briefly speaking, the provisions of the contract are to the following effect—upon all Ore shipped to Nova Scotia, upon Ore shipped to other parts of the Dominion of Canada, after one million tons have been shipped to Nova Scotia, the export duty shall be 25c. and Ore shipped elsewhere than to any part of the Dominion, shall pay no duty. If shipments to Nova Scotia in any year are less than one million tons, the deficiency if shipped to other parts of Canada, is to be liable for 25c. per ton.

There is, however, a provision (1) that unless the Companies expend $3,000,000 for improvements, extensions and development at Bell Island, etc., within five years, a maximum export tax of 10c. per ton shall be paid upon all Ore shipped elsewhere than to Nova Scotia, and this shall apply retrospectively, and (2) that unless the companies also erect a plant by 1928 capable of smelting one hundred thousand tons of Ore per year, the same tax shall be collectable. The contract itself is so badly expressed that in my hurried examination of it I may make some errors; but if so, it is an example of the fact that the contract requires the most careful criticism. I assume that the intention of duty upon Ore exported elsewhere than to Nova Scotia, is for the purpose of encouraging investment in Bell Island improvements and the erection of a plant in the Colony for the smelting of Ore. In effect, the further our Ore is taken away from us, the less the Colony is to get from it; the nearer at hand the port to which it is taken, the more the Colony is to charge. It seems to me that precisely the opposite should be the case. A ton of Ore taken to Sydney gives employment to our men who go to the Steel Works and Coal mines. The Ore taken to foreign countries chiefly goes to Germany, where it will afford no labor to our men, but will enter into competition with the products of the British Empire, and be an implement for our undoing in the hands of our enemies. Improvements in Bell Island and the erection of a smelting plant, might to some extent compensate the Colony for loss of export duty, but would not the improvements and the smelting plant come to us even if we kept on the export duty. Indeed might they not be expected to come all the more rapidly if the Company had no foreign outlet for its Ore. For this reason I would charge less for Ore going to Nova Scotia than anywhere else. I cannot for the life of me see why this Colony should subsidize, as it were, for the exportation of Ore to foreign countries, which, if retained here, or sent to Nova Scotia, would continue to afford great employment to our people. It may be said that it is necessary to encourage the exportation of Ore to foreign countries in order to increase the amount of labor given at Bell Island. But surely that will be a spendthrift policy, since there will be an end to the Ore of Bell Island, and the time will come when we will wish that we had been slower in exporting it, and had kept it for more profitable use in

SUPPLIES OF COAL.

By way of securing something for the Colony, apparently, it is provided in the contract that the Companies will provide a sufficient quantity of coal in Cape Breton to meet:

- (a) The operation of the Nfld. Railway, whether operated by a Company or Commission, including steamers and docks, the requirements of the Reid Newfoundland Company generally, and the domestic requirements of Newfoundland, including manufacturing plants consuming not over 3,000 tons per annum, and will accept in payment therefor the F. O. B. prices current from time to time on coal of similar quality sold for shipment to Nova Scotia ports by the Companies.

A whole host of questions arise here:

- (1) What is meant by the words "Nfld. Railway, including steamers and docks"? What steamers and what docks, and how does the Railway include either one or the other?
- (2) Why are the requirements of the Reid Company provided for specially, and not the requirements of the sealing owners, for instance, and other steam ships engaged in the trade of the country.
- (3) What is meant by the phrase—"the domestic requirements of Newfoundland"? The word "domestic" generally refers to home life, and it might be said that here it means nothing more than coal for cooking purposes, or at most, for heating purposes. And again with regard to manufacturing plants it might mean not more than enough coal for heating purposes. The larger meaning is probably intended, but should be expressed.
- (4) What is meant by "manufacturing plants" is a blacksmith's shop, such a plant? Would an electric light plant be held to be a manufacturing plant?
- (5) What is meant by "prices current from time to time"? Might not a price be made by the Company by a sale on any day or days for the very purpose of fixing a high rate on coal coming to this country? What is the tribunal which is to decide between the Company and a purchaser from the Company? Apparently our Supreme Court would have jurisdiction, as this contract was made here; but all the evidence as to coal rates would have to be obtained in the Province of Nova Scotia; and the purchaser be at all times at such a disadvantage that the clause is worthless.

WATER POWER RIGHTS.

Why make sacrifices in order to procure black coal, and then give away our "white coal." In the same contract there is a provision that the Companies are to have what appears to be an exclusive right to the water powers situate at or near Colinet, Rocky River, St. Mary's Bay, for the purpose of creating electric power to run a smelting plant. But this river can be harnessed to give light, heat and power to the whole of Avalon Peninsula. It is "white coal," to be had by investment. The price of black coal may become so great that we shall desire to be at liberty to harness every river in the Colony, and yet, with scandalous prodigality, the Colony has been giving away its water-powers; and is now asked to give another. We give away with one hand, and with the other we seek to obtain it back, in another form, if you like, but at the mercy of the owner. Other countries are conserving and re-acquiring their water-powers. We are giving them away. Why should we not in this country be creating great electric power from the most available rivers, and thus providing for the cold and cheerless days which are to come. In other words, why does not the Government start a Hydro Electric policy, harnessing the rivers and making us independent of coal supplies. Whereas the Companies are only bound for 20 years, they are to get the water-power forever. It is provided that the Companies shall have a period of three years to commence the development, and a further two years to complete, and shall pay to the Government the sum of 25c. per horsepower developed per annum. There is no provision as to what shall be "development." It seems to be possible to "develop" a water-power without completely utilizing its capacity, and so a river may be monopolized by a development which is only partial.

MUNICIPAL OR LOCAL TAXATION.

There is a provision that the Companies shall not be liable for a period of 10 years to any form of taxation, profits, income, municipal or local, and that hereafter their maximum liability shall not exceed the sum of $10,000 per year. These Companies operating plants at Bell Island, and on the West Coast, propose to operate another one near Colinet, and may hereafter operate in many places, throughout the Colony. The present rate of public expenditure and probable revenue from Customs sources beyond peradventure that the time has arrived when municipal and local organization of the Colony must take place. Local taxation for local improvements would advantage industrial companies more than others, and they should pay their share. To free them from such taxation will prevent the internal development of municipal institutions in this country, and it is a fatal error to lose our liberty of action in this particular. When the Wilson deal, so called, was going through the Legislature, in 1915, the Opposition of that day, including many of the F.F.U. members of the Assembly today, notably Mr. Coaker and Mr. Halfyard, with the support of Mr. Justice Kent, Sir Wm. Lloyd and myself, waged a fierce fight against the proposition to free the Wilson project from municipal taxation, and I think we succeeded in preventing the tying up of the liberties of the Colony in this particular.

MINOR PROVISIONS.

The provisions of the contract that the Companies agree to abide by the labour law of this Colony, and that they will provide suitable workingmen's houses, submitting their plans to the Government Engineer for approval, are no more than mere camouflages for political purposes. Why, of course, they will abide by the law, and, of course, they can be made to provide suitable dwellings for their labourers, and the provision in the contract that they will abide by the law compromises the right of the Legislature to impose obligations upon Companies resident in the island. In conclusion, towards the end of the contract there is a provision that any new Company into which the Companies are merged shall be bound by the contract; but I fail to see how existing Companies can bind Companies that are not yet established, or indeed how one Company can bind any other Company. Finally, I notice that it is agreed that the Colony shall pay 25c. per ton on Iron shipped to Nova Scotia in 1920, but I do not notice any provision that the Nova Scotia Steel & Coal Company shall pay the amount (claimed for other years) for which they have been sued. Surely it would have been right and proper to have stipulated in this agreement for the payment of that amount, and so have cleaned up the whole matter in the one contract. I have only been able, Sir, and that very briefly, to speak upon the outstanding features of this most remarkable contract, and I think that the members of the Assembly could not have given it careful consideration, or it would not have reached the committee stage of the Assembly. I strongly urge upon all those who have power that the further passage should be delayed until the principle and detail of this contract have been thoroughly thrashed out.

Yours truly,
ALFRED B. MORINE.

Some Sayings That Were Never Said

"Follow me, and we have got them cold!" a phrase which makes Lord Beatty sound like a modern music-hall Nelson, would be very picturesque and melodramatic if the admiral ever said it. But he didn't. What he did say to Jellicoe was: "Submit van of battleships follow battle-cruisers. We can then cut whole of enemy's fleet."

This is the latest addition to traditional sayings which famous people never said. Millions refuse still to believe that Wellington did not say to the famous regiment at Waterloo, which had stolidly stopped every assault of the French: "Up, Guards, and at 'em!"

He probably ought to have said it, and it is certain he said something which meant precisely the same thing, only not as "neat and appropriate."

"Father, I cannot tell a lie! I did it with my little hatchet!" is an immortal saying attributed to a truthful boy who grew up to be the great, good, and wise George Washington.

To Benefit the Sales.

The story has been told for the edification of millions upon millions of boys and girls, especially if they were given to verbal camouflage, yet the story itself is a lie from beginning to end. It was invented by a book-peddler, who did enormous business with a penny life of the "Father of his Country," and when the sales slacked he introduced this story to buck them up.

He had missed his vocation. He ought to have been a diplomatist, or the head of a publicity department, or an expert in propaganda.

There is another priceless story General Wolfe reciting Grey's "Bligny" to his brother officers as they were rowed silently, with muffled oars, up the St. Lawrence, to the assault of Quebec, and saying, as he recited the stanza: "The path of glory lead but to the grave," that he would rather have written that poem than take Quebec on the morrow.

Two Hundred Years Old.

This story has lately been thoroughly investigated in all its pros and cons, and the writer's conclusion is that it never happened.

"Westminster Abbey or victory!" has been a saying attributed to Nelson during practically every battle he ever fought. There seems some evidence that he actually did say something of the sort, but it was only a comradere, and was probably said in a joke, even though he was leading a boarding-party at the time.

It has been strongly denied that the ex-Kaiser ever referred to "French's contemptible little army," although it has given rise to the proud name of "Contemptibles." But the idea was true if the actual words were not, for there can be no doubt the Kaiser and all his generals regarded our original Expeditionary Force as a flea-bite. Bethman-Hollweg and Bulow are jointly credited with talking about Germany's "place in the sun," but although the former can truthfully be credited with the famous "scrap of paper" phrase, the other one can be found in Pascal's works two hundred years before Hollweg or Bulow was born.

Did Sydney say: "Thy necessity is even greater than mine"? It is hard to say. Now that it is proved that Alfred did not burn the cakes, that Canute probably never said: "Thus far shall thou come and no farther" to the advancing tide; that, in spite of Voltaire, who had the story from Newton's notes, it is very improbable that the great scientist first thought of the theory of gravitation on seeing an apple fall in his orchard, and that it is still more improbable that Queen Elizabeth said: "A million of money for a moment of time," one must be prepared to disbelieve any-

House of Assembly.

MONDAY, May 2.
The House met at 3 p.m.
Notices of question were given by Messrs. Moore, Walsh, MacDonnell, Sinnott, Sir M. P. Cashin and Mr. Sullivan.

Mr. Sullivan said the answers given by the Chairman of the Railway Commission to his questions of April 24th were most unsatisfactory.

The Prime Minister gave notice of supply.

Sir M. P. Cashin also drew attention to unsatisfactory replies received by him to questions asked. If he could not get the answers he would take other steps to have them tabled. These questions referred to the cargo of the "President Coaker."

The Minister of Marine and Fisheries said that all the information asked for had been given. He attempted to explain the matter of the "President Coaker."

Sir Michael Cashin stated that several questions of his dated as far back as April 8th had not been answered. He further said he would demand an enquiry into the matter of the "President Coaker." The Minister of Marine and Fisheries had admitted that there was $150,000 in the Bank of Montreal to the credit of his department. Was he going to supply for the fishery with it? There was still fish selling at $2.50 per quintal and here was all this money from the allocation made to buy fish at $8.00 per quintal. It was now the first of May and as yet the supplies' difficulty had not been solved. Here we were a bankrupt country, a starving people and no sign of any policy to alleviate prevailing conditions. He was in a position to prove that the Royal Bank of Canada management were no shysters. Referring to the "President Coaker" Sir Michael said this vessel was chartered from Mr. Collishaw and was not owned by Mr. Coaker. The Minister of Marine and Fisheries was in the worst position that any man in the House was ever in. Let him tell how he ruined Mr. Penney, a West Coast Merchant. What was the Minister doing with the fish now in the stores on which his friends were being paid storage. The Government were a whole crowd of dummies. There was now a deficit of $2,000,000 and the Minister was trying to get out of the Government. The Auditor General was sitting on enough to pay the interest due on the 30th of June. And yet the Minister got up and complained of being tormented. The whole of the Southern Shore and West Coast was in a frightful condition and the Relieving Officers were kept busy doing out molasses and flour.

The Prime Minister introduced a Bill to amend the Profiteering Act which was read a first time. The Questions on the Order Paper were next taken up. Several answers were tabled of a more or less satisfactory nature. The following Bills were given their third reading and ordered to be sent to the Legislative Council:
"An Act respecting the encouragement of Sheep Farming."
"An Act to amend the Crown Lands Act, 1919."
"An Act to amend the law relating to Lotteries."

The House resolved itself into a Committee of the whole on the Bill respecting the High Commissioner for Newfoundland in the United Kingdom, with Mr. Hibbs (Fogo) in the Chair.

In reply to Sir Michael Cashin the Premier said Sir Edgar Bowring, the present High Commissioner, had intimated his intention to resign on June 30th but he had been asked to reconsider his decision. The Bill passed without any criticism. It was ordered to be read a third time on the following day.

The Bill with respect to the agreement between the Government and the Bell Island Companies was deferred. The Bills respecting the Cutting and Exportation of Timber and the Repeal of the Act to Regulate the Exportation of Salt Codfish were also deferred. The Second Reading of the Bill for the Protection of Neglected and Delinquent children came next on the Order Paper. It was moved by the Minister of Justice that the Bill be referred to a Select Committee consisting of the Minister of Justice and Messrs. LeGrow, Higgins, MacDonnell and Cheeseman.

The second reading of the Bill for the Repeal of the War Measures Act next came up for discussion.

The Prime Minister said there were two ways by which this Act could be repealed, either by the Proclamation of Peace or by repealing certain specific provisions. He asked that it be read a Second time. This was done and the Bill was ordered to go before Committee of the Whole on the following day.

The Bill to Repeal the Food Control Act was withdrawn as this Act could be repealed by a Proclamation which would appear in next week's Royal Gazette.

On the motion to adjourn Mr. MacDonnell spoke in connection with the West Coast project recently criticized in the press. He was going to back it to the full if it came up in the House. He thought it a shame that petty jealousies should knock a proposition of this kind and he hoped the matter would be viewed in a non-partisan manner. He hoped there would be a cessation of criticism till the matter came before the House.

Adjournment was taken at 4.45 p.m.

Personal.

THE EVENING WELCOME.

There's a certain thrill of pleasure in a battle fought and won. And it's good to hear men cheering for some splendid thing you've done. There is real satisfaction when a business deal you've made. And there's pride and joy in counting up the profit that it paid. But the thrill that goes the deepest and is laden with delight. It is the welcome of your own folks when you're getting home at night.

Out beyond the home is laughter of a certain sort, I know. And it's good to have the friendship of the men who come and go. It is good to win their praises and it's fine to have them cheer. But they cannot fill the places of the children waiting near. And the sweetest satisfaction, when all else has taken flight. Is the welcome of your own folks when you're getting home at night.

Just to have them glad to see you—that's the answer to it all—Glad to see you coming homeward when the shades of evening fall. Fond of you, whatever happens, proud to spend their lives with you. Never thinking of your failures, pleased with everything you do. Oh, I don't know how to say it, but there is no thrill that's quite the equal of that welcome when you're coming home at night.

"Honoured" Women.

At Least Six British Ladies Have Had Statues Erected to Their Memories.

There are probably more statues of Queen Victoria in existence than of any other person, man or woman, who ever lived. But, apart from Royalty, the number of statues set up in public places in Britain to commemorate the memory of famous women is very few. There may be others; the writer can only recall six.

The two most recent of these are also the best known—the beautiful statue to "the Lady with the Lamp," which appropriately stands in front of the Guards' Memorial at the Junction of Waterloo Place and Pall Mall, and the striking memorial to Nurse Edith Cavell, recently erected near St. Martin's-in-the-Fields.

Beats them All
Windsor Table Salt

It is significant, as showing the side of women's character and activities which most appeals to the mere male, that of the six statues to women in Britain, three of them are to women who won their fame as nurses. The third is the statue to Sister Dora, at Walsall, the Black Country town in which she was an angel of mercy to the poor, who invested her with almost divine attributes.

A Great Actress.

But there was a statue to a woman even in London before Florence Nightingale and Nurse Cavell, a statue unveiled by the late Sir Henry Irving on June 15th, 1897, at Mrs. Siddons, on Paddington Green. England's greatest actress, who was superbly painted by two of England's greatest painters—Reynolds and Gainsborough—is seen seated and in classic garments. The whole pose being reminiscent of that of "The Tragic Muse" of Reynolds.

The two other statues are to women who have no such call upon public appreciation and admiration as the four already mentioned, yet more sentimental interest attaches to them than to all the others combined. One may deprecate the sentimentality which places Burns' "Highland Mary" in a much higher niche of immortality than Sister Dora.

The fact remains that when people are asking "who was Sister Dora?" the story of the meeting on the second Sunday in May, 1746, of two romantic lovers on the banks of Ayr to spend one day of parting love together, and of their standing on either side of a small brook, lavishing their hands in it, and holding a Bible between them whilst they vowed eternal fidelity, will be read with tears.

Wonderful Scottish Lassies.

The fame of Highland Mary does not depend upon perishable bronze or short-lived granite. It has its foundation in immortal poetry, some of the finest ever Burns ever penned. There can be little doubt that this Argyleshire dairymaid—Mary Campbell—was the object of the poet's most sincere passion. Her statue stands on the shores of the Firth of Clyde at Dunoon, close to the spot where she was born.

The other heroine of sentiment is the famous Flora Macdonald, whose heart, to the day of her death, which occurred as late as 1790, was given to the Jacobite cause, and who is immortally associated with Bonnie Prince Charlie and his abortive attempt at Culloden to win back the crown for the House of Stuart. Certain it is that, but for Flora's resource—she caused the fugitive prince to be carried in the garments of her Irish maid—he would never have escaped back to France.

stands at Inverness, and presents her as scanning the horizon for possible pursuers, the persistence and industry of whom can be gauged from Stevenson's romance, "Kidnapped," which deals with the same period of the '45.

The Finest Feminine Virtues.

Dr. Johnson, during his tour of the Hebrides, visited her, in 1773, in her home in the Isle of Skye, and describes her as "a woman of soft features, gentle manners, and elegant to wonderful courage and resourcefulness, as well as an implacable spirit of opposition to "Saft Geordie," as she called George the Third.

In spite of the many weaknesses of her hero—Bonnie Prince Charlie—she remained to the last her veneration for him:

"Over the water and over the sea,
And over the water to Charlie;
Come weal, come woe, we'll gather and go,
And live or die with Charlie."

Collectively, these six statues to women embody the finest feminine virtues: Tenderness, despite idealism are represented by Florence Nightingale, Sister Dora, and Nurse Cavell; beauty, grace, and love by "Highland Mary"; passion and power by Sarah Siddons; and loyalty, courage, and resource by Flora Macdonald.—Answers.

Minstrel Show

BY DUNFIELD BOY'S BIBLE CLASS.

The Concert given by the famous Dunfield Minstrel in Canon Wood Hall last night, was a great success and was attended by a very large and appreciative audience. The sketch, "Boy wanted," with which the concert opened, was very well acted, indeed, and the minstrel show kept the audience in a perpetual state of laughter, the antics of Tambo and Black Jock being particularly amusing. All the performers did themselves credit and showed that they were well endowed with dramatic talent. The Concert will be repeated on to-morrow evening, when another packed house will undoubtedly greet it. A great deal of the success of the concert is due to the indefatigable efforts of Rev. A. Clayton, Leader of the Club and Bible Class. The programme was as follows:—

HOLD VERY SUCCESSFUL BRIDGE.

The Bridge and Dance held last night in the C.C.C. Hall by the Ladies' Auxiliary of the C.L.B. Cadets, was, undoubtedly, one of the most successful affairs of the season, both from a social and financial standpoint. Well over 240 people were present for the card tournament, some playing Bridge and others Forty-fives. The tournament was started at 8.30 o'clock and concluded at 10.45, the prizes awarded as follows:—
Bridge—Mr. Ben and Mrs. Mrs. B. Butler, Miss M. Beards and Mr. L. Ozone.
Forty-fives—Mrs. W. H. Hynes, J. Crane.

An excellent supper, such as the C.L.B.C. Ladies' Auxiliary have now become noted for, was next served and dancing was then begun to the music provided by the full Regimental Band of the C.L.B. Cadets, under the able direction of Capt. A. Morris. The affair, which was an unequalled success, came to an end at 1.15 a.m. To Mrs. W. B. Fraser, President of the Ladies' Auxiliary, much of the credit for the success of the Bridge must go, and she was ably assisted in her efforts by the other members.

"They wrote me there was a Sanatorium next door. Could I have gotten into the wrong house?" "Tis no wonder the Bishop thought that. You won't blame him either if you see "What Happened to Jones?" 'Tis for the Orphans.—aprs30,17

Side Talks
by Ruth Cameron

WHY WE CAN'T TALK OF PRICES ANY MORE.

Do you know something that I think people are going to miss as prices begin to go down—if they ever do?

The freedom with which it has been permissible to mention what one has paid for things in the days of high prices.

There was a time you know, way back before the war, when one did not mention what one had paid for one's new shoes, or what the cost of the new veranda was going to be, or the tariff one had to pay when one went away for one's summer vacation.

It just wasn't done. If one had paid a lot and wanted that fact known one had to manage to get that fact before the public in some indirect way.

Then came the war, and prices became a perfectly legitimate subject of conversation. If one wanted to advertise the fact that one had been able to afford a $20 pair of shoes, or a $1,000 veranda or a vacation at a $10 a day hotel, all one had to do was to begin with a groan about profiteering and high prices, and then as a specific instance just mention how much one had gotten stuck for the shoes, the veranda, or the vacation.

We Could Tell What Our Furs and Our Bathrooms Cost.

Then someone else would tell how he had suffered when he had his new bathroom installed. And someone else would tell how the cost of furs had risen 400 per cent, and cite what he had to pay for his wife's fur coat and everyone pretended to grumble and everyone really had quite a gorgeous time tooting about his expenditures in a way which only the crudest could have done in the old days.

The Authorman says that he thinks half this groaning by business men about losses in commodities, of which the value has been deflated in these last months, cotton and sugar and wool, etc. is just the same sort of thing.

He Thinks They Are Proud of Their Losses.

He thinks they take great pride in saying, "I lost $10,000 last month," meaning that the stock of paper, or wool, or cotton on hand depreciated that much in value.

Doubtless pride is not the only emotion they feel but I shouldn't be surprised if there were some element of mournful pride in their statement. If we ever do get back to normal, if the dollar ever gets so stable again that we are not constantly watching its gyrations, it will be rather interesting to turn our thoughts to other things for a while. Don't you think so?

Encouraging (?)
Local Shipping.

The shipping notes of the city papers record the arrival from the Azores in ballast of a Danish schooner, presumably seeking freight. Are there not local vessels equal to the freight demands? In the face of the campaign now being carried on to encourage home industries, it seems that the policy of foreign freighters is out of line. There are home schooners and men to go in them, then why should foreign-owned vessels be engaged to convey fish to market? We think there should be some law to give the preference in freighting to our own vessels, a law similar to that of the United States. When will we get alive to our own interests? Newfoundland Manufacturer's Association are carrying on a campaign to boost Home Industries, but some similar association is needed to protect local capital and home labor.

Fads and Fashions.

Beige, sand and gray are favorites of the season.

Large black satin hats are feather-trimmed.

Valenciennes lace is used on a dark background.

Tangarine-color organdie is very popular for dresses.

Very smart is the straight-across Florentine neck-line.

A frock of cricket flannel is bound with black crepe ribbon.

A white voile is dotted and smartly bounded with cerise.

Dresses and blouses have sleeves of contrasting material.

H. Boucher Now
Feels Just Like
Brand New Man

Montreal Citizen Says Tanlac Has Entirely Overcome All His Troubles.

"Tanlac has made me feel like a brand-new man," declared Hervey Boucher, 1401 Papineau St., Montreal, a well-known post office employee. "For the first time in two years," said Mr. Boucher, "I can eat a hearty meal without suffering afterwards. Before I took Tanlac, my stomach was so disordered that I had all kinds of trouble after eating. I had no appetite, my liver was sluggish and I felt had all the time. I was nervous, and what little sleep I got didn't seem to rest me. My back hurt me a great deal, and I had spells of dizziness, when I had to sit down to keep from falling. I couldn't find any medicine to help me, and I felt weak and run-down and completely discouraged. "But it was different with Tanlac, for the very first bottle helped me, and as I kept on taking it I kept on improving. My appetite is so good now I can hardly wait for meal-time to come, and I eat all I want of just whatever is on the table without any bad after effects. All my troubles are gone, too, and I feel strong and vigorous and full of energy. Tanlac is the only medicine I ever saw that does all they say it will do."

THE OLD-MAN.

I met him often by the sea, a white and wintry gent; his age was eighty-two or three, and he was frail and bent. And still he talked of coming days, and plans he had in view, as though he meant to go his way a century or two.

He'd build a house and plant a tree and take a motor trip, and visit lands across the sea when he could board a ship. He was a blithe and sprightly man, his spirit high and bold; he was passing old. One balmy night he went to bed all full of pleasant schemes, and in the morning he was dead—he'd checked out in his dreams.

And I admire that fine old jay, his system wise appears—to act as though you planned to stay on earth a hundred years. Too many think as they wax old that they have shot their bolts, that plans and schemes they shouldn't hold, and since they're no longer cold. And so they sit before the fire and droop of bygone years, and by slow inches they expire, with dotard sighs and tears. When I'm in the has-been class, but from my trusty lyre I'll hit a noise like sounding brass.

Married in a Shop Window.

More than one lady has inaugurated her married life on the stage. One of the most daring of these Thespian brides was Miss Violette Mascotte, who was transferred into Mrs. Wilfred Chassmore on the stage of the Grand Opera House, Newark, New Jersey, a few years ago. The bridegroom was Mr. Wilfred Chassmore, the manager.

The ceremony took place during the last act of the performance of "Sinbad; or, The Lass that Lover a Sailor." The entertainment was temporarily discontinued, and Mr. Chas. A. Pussey, the comedian of the company, came forward and announced that the ceremony was about to take place.

The bride, in her costume of Sinbad, stepped from the wings, draped in a cloak. She was followed and surrounded by the chorus. Then the bridegroom appeared in a dress suit, with a justice of the peace. The chorus served as bridesmaids, and the male members of the company acted as "best men."

There can surely be few more trying ordeals for a "blushing bride" than to stand with the make-up of her choice in a shop window, the focus of thousands of curious and amused eyes. But even this ordeal was cheerfully faced by a Cleveland young lady, who, for a suitable consideration, was undered to her lover, while a dense crowd in the street outside applauded her courage and sympathized with her blushing.

No less courageous was Miss Adeline Carr, a London bride, who, not long ago, consented to eat her nuptial breakfast in the window of an Essex Road furniture shop, under the eye of a singing, cheering crowd outside.

Huge Cuttlefish

WASHED ON LINER'S DECK.

New York, April 27.—"Hell's broke loose up forward," roared Taggart, the ship's carpenter, as he displayed a bleeding arm and reached for an axe with a long handle.

He had just come down from the fore'sle head of the Cunard liner Caronia, and his mates in the ship shop saw him that he was angry.

"What's the row now, John?" asked Billy Tulloch, the second carpenter.

"Cuttlefish, biggest in the Atlantic, just been washed up over the starboard bow," answered Taggart. "Tried to get him barked and he got me in the arm with his cuttle bone amidst-ship."

"Show me the fish, John," said Tulloch. "You remind me of the chap who swore he killed a bear and if you didn't believe him he was quite willing to show you the gun."

Taggart made no reply, but fed up the companionship with the gang from the ship shop at his heels.

Sure enough wedged in between a wench and the forward hatch was the monster contribution from a cumulative wave that had been over the Cunarder's bow and swept off everything movable except the clinging nautilus. The carpenter swung his axe and was about to cut the creature to ribbons when he was halted by the skipper's voice from the bridge. The gift of the great wave was a fine specimen, too big to hack to pieces, and the captain had the public museum of Liverpool in mind.

Under direction of the skipper, the cuttlefish was lashed to the winch and a spike was driven through its head. It reposed on ice and will go to the museum for mounting when the Caronia returns to Liverpool.

According to the captain, the speci-

Some Weird Weddings.

Bridal Parties Have Been United Under Water and in Shop Windows.

Winsted, Connecticut, was recently the scene of a wedding which had at least the charm of novelty. The nuptials were heralded by a debate on matrimony between three married and three single debaters. Five hundred people paid two shillings each for the privilege of attending the wedding, and as the bridal couple entered the spectators sang, "Oh, I'm glad I'm ready, with the wedding garments on!"

George Hamer, the famous pilot of the White Horse rapids, had a wedding as romantic as his life, for the ceremony was performed in a boat as it was racing down the swiftest part of the rapids. When the minister said, "I pronounce you man and wife," he loud was the roar of the waters that he had to shout in order to make himself heard.

A remarkable wedding was that of Mr. George Fairman and Miss Alberta Mitchell, who were made one in a tank at the New York Hippodrome, in 1914. The Rev. W. D. Hughes, we are told, performed the ceremony in the presence of as many members of the Hippodrome Company as could find room inside the diving-bell used in the ordinary theatrical performance.

Clad in Bathing Costumes.

All wore bathing-suits, the bride's dress being of white, with red-and-white trimmings, whilst a-rubber cap did duty for the customary wreath of orange-blossoms. The ceremony concluded, parson and witnesses dived under the bell, and swam to the surface, while the bridal pair ascended in the bell as dry as when they made the descent.

A bridal party on one occasion arrived at the church of St. Nicholas, Strood, to find the sacred building ablaze and a small army of firemen deluging the flames with water. Nothing daunted, the happy couple decided that, fire or no fire, they would not leave the church unwed. To the accompaniment of hissing water-jets, myriads of flying sparks and clouds of smoke, the nuptial ceremony was performed.

Some time ago a Siberian millionaire left his son a large fortune on the singular condition that, if ever he took to himself a wife, he should go through the ceremony in sackcloth and ashes. So far from this condition acting as a matrimonial deterrent, a few months later the son appeared at the altar, duly clad in sackcloth, his head liberally sprinkled with ashes.

Considerable amusement was caused recently in New York by a wedding on roller-skates. Mr. Barrett, a wealthy young engineer, first met Miss Pierce at Paradise Park rink, and was so charmed by her graceful skating that he forthwith asked her to glide through life with him. The lady was so little averse to the proposal that she made but one stipulation—they must be married on skates and at the rink, a suggestion which the engineer promptly approved, and a clerical adept on the rollers was duly found.

Women of Middle Age

THE critical stage of a woman's life usually comes between the years of 45 and 55, and is often beset with annoying symptoms such as nervousness, irritability, melancholia, heat flashes which produce headache and dizziness, and a sense of suffocation. Guard your health carefully, for if this period be passed over safely, many years of perfect health may be enjoyed.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is especially adapted to help women through this crisis. It exercises a restorative influence, tones and strengthens the system, and assists nature in the long weeks and months covering this period. It is prepared from medicinal roots and herbs, and contains no harmful drugs or narcotics. Its value is proven by many such letters as these:

Regina, Sask.—"I was going through Change of Life and suffered for two years with headache, nervousness, sleepless nights and general weakness. Some days I felt tired and unfit to do my work. It gave Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial and found good results, and I also find it a very helpful Spring tonic and useful for constipation from which I suffer much. I have recommended Vegetable Compound to several friends, and am willing you should publish this."—Mrs. MARTHA W. LINDEY, 310 Robinson St., Regina, Sask.

Lascelles, P.O.—"During the Change of Life I felt so weak and run down I could hardly do my work. The perspiration would pour over my face so that I couldn't see what I was doing. We live on a farm, so there is lots to do, but many who felt as I did would have been in bed. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it did me a world of good. I tried other remedies but I put Vegetable Compound ahead of them all, and I tell every one I know how much good it has done me."—Mrs. DUNCAN BROWN, Lascelles, Prov. Quebec.

Notable Presentations to Garrick.

On May 3, 1789, the freedom of Stratford-on-Avon was presented to Mr. Garrick by the Mayor, Aldermen and Burgesses, enclosed in the far-famed casket, constructed out of the veritable mulberry tree planted by William Shakespeare himself. This casket was beautifully carved with the following devices: In the front Fame is represented as holding the bust of Shakespeare, while the Three Graces crown it with laurel; the sides have emblematical figures representing Tragedy and Comedy. On the back Garrick was delineated as King Lear, while the corners were ornamented with device representative of Shakespeare's works. The feet of the casket were formed of silver griffins with garnet eyes. The chasing and carving was done by Davis, a well-known Birmingham artist, at a charge of £25. At Mrs. Garrick's sale it was acquired by the late Mr. Matthews, the eminent comedian, and in 1855, when that gentleman's library and collection of curios came under the hammer, it was keenly sought after, being eventually knocked down to a Mrs. George Daniels, of Islington, London, at the comparatively low figure of £47. Early in September, 1789, the Mayor and Corporation of Stratford-on-Avon presented Garrick with a finely carved cup, about eleven inches high, made from the same far-famed mulberry tree, and it was this cup that Garrick held in his hand at the Jubilee Celebration when he sang the beautiful song composed by himself for that occasion, which begins:—

"Behold this fair goblet, 'twas carved from the tree
Which, O my sweet Shakespeare, was planted by thee;
As a relic, I kiss it and bow at the shrine—
What comes from thy hand must be ever divine!
All shall yield to the mulberry tree,
Bend to thee,
Blest mulberry!"

Matchless was the break out of her limbs and they lashed very much, causing me to scratch them until they were raw. The rash would often keep me awake at night.

"I tried some remedies, which failed, and then thought I would try Cuticura Soap and Ointment. It was not long till the rash began to disappear, and I used three cases of Soap and four boxes of Ointment, which healed me." (Signed) W. M. Hymers, Paris, Oct. 12, 1919.

TO-DAY'S MESSAGES.

U. S. REPLY.
 WASHINGTON, May 3.

The text of the United States reply to German reparations counter proposals was despatched last night to London. The American High Commissioner in Berlin, The Government of the United States has received a memorandum left by Dr. Simons with the Commissioner of the United States, under date April 24, relating to reparations. In reply this Government states that it finds itself unable to reach a conclusion that the proposals afford a basis for discussion acceptable to Allied Governments, and that these proposals cannot be entertained. This move, therefore, again expressed its earnest desire for a prompt settlement of this vital question, and strongly urges the German Government at once to make directly to the Allied Governments, clear, definite and adequate proposals which would in all respects meet its just obligation.

DOWN TO BEDROCK.

LONDON, May 2.
 The Supreme Council to-day reached a substantial agreement on the terms to be imposed on Germany. In the principle of this agreement Germany is under obligation to pay the Allies six billion six hundred million pounds sterling. She will be required to pay one hundred million pounds yearly, plus twenty-five per cent. on her exports, and this obligation on the part of Germany shall be acknowledged by an issue of German bonds, bearing five per cent. interest. Of these a certain amount shall be issued immediately, a second lot in November, and thereafter as many more as she has the ability to pay. These terms will be incorporated in the ultimatum which expires May 12, and which will be sent to Germany as soon as details are definitely decided on. When German payments amount to more than sufficient to pay interest on bonds already issued, the reparations commission will be entitled to require the issue of further bonds. The intention of this plan, according to a British official, is to proportion German obligations, after a certain figure, to her ability to pay.

GERMANY MUST MAKE GOOD.

LONDON, May 2.
 Germany will have till May 12 to accept the ultimatum of the Allies respecting payment of reparations and guarantees, binding her to fulfill her obligations, otherwise Ruhr district will be occupied by Allied troops. The Supreme Council, to-day, decided upon action to be taken against Germany, should she fail to accept, but the decision was not reached on the nature of the guarantee she will be required to give. The preamble of the agreement will recite that Germany, having failed to fulfill the treaty of Versailles with respect to reparations, disarmament and punishment of war criminals, and having violated various other articles of the treaty, which will be cited by the Allies, their governments have decided to occupy the Ruhr. In this event British and Belgian forces on the Rhine will march into the district. A joint Anglo-French Naval Council has been called to meet in London to-morrow, in which Admiral Beatty for the British, and Admiral Grassis for the French, will participate. The reparations commission will notify Germany within four days, of the sums payable and conditions of payment. Germany's reply must be an acceptance without reservations or discussion. If such affirmative reply is not received by the evening of May 12th, the occupation will begin without further notice. The question of guarantees is a perplexing one. The Council was engaged for four hours in trying to harmonize views on the precise form of guarantees, which will include the establishment of a commission of debt on the same general lines as the Turkish debt control, with the observation of German revenues. The Allies will also ask for participation in profits of German industry. Results of to-day's meeting are regarded by the French delegation as measurably satisfactory. They would rather have occupied Ruhr and then informed Germany of the Allies minimum requirements, but in deference to Lloyd George's conviction that British public opinion would not willingly support occupation until Germany had been given another chance, M. Briand yielded a point, to which the French people and Parliament attach great importance. But he probably obtained British naval cooperation to the extent of a demonstration before Hamburg, though not an actual blockade.

MEXICAN OFFICER INJURED.

NACO, Arizona, May 3.
 Pedro Loyva, Mexican Immigration Officer, was probably fatally injured in a clash last night between Mexican and United States Immigration Service Line Riders, about a mile east of here. According to reports the clash was instituted by two Mexican line riders who had ridden across the border.

BRIAND PLEASED.

LONDON, May 3.
 Premier Briand this morning expressed himself as greatly pleased by the text of the United States reply to the German counter-reparation proposals.

A CALL TO THE COLORS.

PARIS, May 2.
 Minister of War Berthelot, evening issued an order calling the class of 1919 to the colors, with the exception of men who have served in Morocco, and men belonging to auxiliary services. As soon as detachments have been formed they will be sent forward toward the Rhine in such a manner as not to interfere with regular traffic.

NAVAL OFFICER DEAD.

LONDON, May 2.
 Rear-Admiral H. Montagu Doughty died here Sunday. He served in the war as Commander of the battleship "Royal Sovereign" in the First Battle Squadron.

SMACKING PANAMA.

WASHINGTON, May 2.
 Unless Panama acts voluntarily within "a reasonable time," United States will take measures to compel her to transfer the jurisdiction of the disputed Coto territory to Costa Rica. Secretary Hughes says, in a recent note to Panama Government.

FREIGHTER ON FIRE.

MARSHFIELD, Oregon, May 2.
 The Japanese freighter, Tokyoku Maru, is alive at sea and sinking fast, said a wireless to the Naval Communication Service here late to-day. The message gave steamer's position as lat. 25.40, long. 124.39. The steamer Horace K. Baxter was reported going to assistance.

UNSATISFACTORY.

WASHINGTON, May 3.
 German reparations counter proposals are unacceptable as a basis for discussion, Secretary Hughes informed Dr. Simons, German Foreign Minister, in a note to-night. The Secretary urged the German Government to make further proposals direct to the Allies, and expressed the earnest desire of the American Government for a prompt settlement of "this vital question."

SWORN IN.

DUBLIN, May 2.
 Lord Edmund Bernard Talbot, now Viscount Fitzalan, was sworn in to-day as Lord Lieutenant and Governor General of Ireland at Dublin Castle. The new Viceroy arrived here this morning.

SUPPORTS WAGE REDUCTION.

WASHINGTON, May 2.
 Announcing the policy of no-compromise on the question of fifteen per cent. wage reduction, the settlement of the controversy between United States Shipping Board, ship owners and marine workers, Chairman Benson to-night called all loyal citizens to rally to the support of their flag. "Economic conditions fully justify," he said, readjustment in wage scales and working conditions, as made effective May 1st.

HOOVER TURNED DOWN.

NEW YORK, May 2.
 A suggestion by Secretary Hoover that the controversy over the wage contract between steamship owners and marine workers be submitted to arbitration by three men, not Government officers, was rejected here to-night by the American Steamship Owners' Association. The action closed what was intended to be an opening for an adjustment of country-wide strikes, involving thousands of employees on majority of United States Shipping Board ships on Atlantic, Pacific and Gulf Coasts. Walk-outs began in all ports to-day, preceded in most cases by twenty-four hours notice. In New York more than one hundred ships were directly affected.

GERMANY MUST MAKE GOOD.

LONDON, May 2.
 Germany will have till May 12 to accept the ultimatum of the Allies respecting payment of reparations and guarantees, binding her to fulfill her obligations, otherwise Ruhr district will be occupied by Allied troops. The Supreme Council, to-day, decided upon action to be taken against Germany, should she fail to accept, but the decision was not reached on the nature of the guarantee she will be required to give. The preamble of the agreement will recite that Germany, having failed to fulfill the treaty of Versailles with respect to reparations, disarmament and punishment of war criminals, and having violated various other articles of the treaty, which will be cited by the Allies, their governments have decided to occupy the Ruhr. In this event British and Belgian forces on the Rhine will march into the district. A joint Anglo-French Naval Council has been called to meet in London to-morrow, in which Admiral Beatty for the British, and Admiral Grassis for the French, will participate. The reparations commission will notify Germany within four days, of the sums payable and conditions of payment. Germany's reply must be an acceptance without reservations or discussion. If such affirmative reply is not received by the evening of May 12th, the occupation will begin without further notice. The question of guarantees is a perplexing one. The Council was engaged for four hours in trying to harmonize views on the precise form of guarantees, which will include the establishment of a commission of debt on the same general lines as the Turkish debt control, with the observation of German revenues. The Allies will also ask for participation in profits of German industry. Results of to-day's meeting are regarded by the French delegation as measurably satisfactory. They would rather have occupied Ruhr and then informed Germany of the Allies minimum requirements, but in deference to Lloyd George's conviction that British public opinion would not willingly support occupation until Germany had been given another chance, M. Briand yielded a point, to which the French people and Parliament attach great importance. But he probably obtained British naval cooperation to the extent of a demonstration before Hamburg, though not an actual blockade.

MEXICAN OFFICER INJURED.

NACO, Arizona, May 3.
 Pedro Loyva, Mexican Immigration Officer, was probably fatally injured in a clash last night between Mexican and United States Immigration Service Line Riders, about a mile east of here. According to reports the clash was instituted by two Mexican line riders who had ridden across the border.

BRIAND PLEASED.

LONDON, May 3.
 Premier Briand this morning expressed himself as greatly pleased by the text of the United States reply to the German counter-reparation proposals.

A CALL TO THE COLORS.

PARIS, May 2.
 Minister of War Berthelot, evening issued an order calling the class of 1919 to the colors, with the exception of men who have served in Morocco, and men belonging to auxiliary services. As soon as detachments have been formed they will be sent forward toward the Rhine in such a manner as not to interfere with regular traffic.

NAVAL OFFICER DEAD.

LONDON, May 2.
 Rear-Admiral H. Montagu Doughty died here Sunday. He served in the war as Commander of the battleship "Royal Sovereign" in the First Battle Squadron.

SMACKING PANAMA.

WASHINGTON, May 2.
 Unless Panama acts voluntarily within "a reasonable time," United States will take measures to compel her to transfer the jurisdiction of the disputed Coto territory to Costa Rica. Secretary Hughes says, in a recent note to Panama Government.

FREIGHTER ON FIRE.

MARSHFIELD, Oregon, May 2.
 The Japanese freighter, Tokyoku Maru, is alive at sea and sinking fast, said a wireless to the Naval Communication Service here late to-day. The message gave steamer's position as lat. 25.40, long. 124.39. The steamer Horace K. Baxter was reported going to assistance.

UNSATISFACTORY.

WASHINGTON, May 3.
 German reparations counter proposals are unacceptable as a basis for discussion, Secretary Hughes informed Dr. Simons, German Foreign Minister, in a note to-night. The Secretary urged the German Government

The Yarmouth Murder Case.

MRS. PERRY SENT UP FOR TRIAL IN JUNE.

Yarmouth, April 29.—Clara Elizabeth Perry, who was charged with the murder before Stipendiary Pelton this morning and was committed for trial at the June sitting of the Supreme Court. There was a very large gathering outside of the police court but, despite that, Mrs. Perry took little or no notice of any person and walked into the court with her usual reserved manner. She was accompanied by ex-Chief of Police Babine and Municipal Commissioner Her arrival, Mrs. Perry retained her calm disposition throughout, and her calm disposition throughout, and her calm disposition throughout.

The Magistrate's Decision.

Stipendiary Pelton read his decision as follows: The King and Clara Elizabeth Perry, the defendant in the examination. After carefully perusing the depositions of the witnesses taken before me on this preliminary examination and the cases submitted by the learned counsel for both the Crown and accused, I have come to the conclusion that it is my duty to commit the accused for trial. I do not consider it my duty to make any comment on the evidence adduced, except to say that I am doubtful in my own mind as to whether or not some of the evidence tendered is admissible. This, however, is a matter for the trial judge to pass upon and I think there is sufficient evidence altogether circumstantial to send the accused before the Grand Jury for its opinion.

I wish to express my regret that some of the newspapers of the Province have seen fit to publish columns of reports in connection with the case which were largely idle gossip and hearsay evidence. All these things are, of course, inadmissible as evidence in the British Court of Justice, but a tremendous amount of harm may be done to an accused person, however innocent and is presumed to be innocent until convicted and found guilty, by the publication of such reports. I do not remember in my connection with Magisterial work of ever before having seen, in this Province, a case where an accused person was condemned in the eyes of the public by the publication of evidence taken before a coroner's jury, purely circumstantial and a large part of it inadmissible, and I would respectfully suggest to the proper authorities that something would be done in the way of legislation, if necessary, to prevent a recurrence of this mode of influencing the minds of a jury which has to decide a question of life or death before the case is properly placed before it. I commit the accused, Clara Elizabeth Perry, for trial.

Tennis Club Meeting.

A meeting of the Executive of the Newfoundland Tennis Club was held at 12.30 p.m. yesterday in the office of Mr. H. A. Winter, B.A., Board of Trade Building. Several matters of importance were discussed, including an invitation from Mr. L. R. Cooper of Grand Falls, asking that a team be sent over to represent St. John's against Grand Falls. No definite decision was made on this matter. Mr. F. P. Peterson was elected temporary Secretary of the Club in place of Mr. Fred R. Macdonald who resigned. Before the meeting closed it was decided to hold a general meeting on the 12th inst., when officers for the coming season will be elected and other matters of importance will be discussed.

Stolen Car Found.

Enquiries were being conducted all yesterday for the Palco car owned by Sir Michael Cashin and stolen from the R. C. Cathedral grounds on Sunday night. Late yesterday evening Sir Michael was informed that at 10.30 on Sunday night a large car with three occupants had passed through Holyrood. Last night word was sent by Mr. Lewis of Holyrood that a Palco car 1244 was stalled about 3 miles East of Holyrood, with its steering gear bent and having other minor damages. Sir Michael's chauffeur went out to Holyrood this morning to effect repairs and bring the machine to town. A description of one of the young men who was seen getting aboard the car at the Cathedral grounds has been given the police, and three strangers visited a well known house at Holyrood yesterday, so that it is likely the perpetrators of the theft will shortly be apprehended.

SWEAR OFF TOBACCO

"No-To-Bac" has helped thousands to break the costly, nerve-shattering tobacco habit. Whenever you have a craving for a cigarette, cigar, pipe, or for a chew, just place a harmless No-To-Bac tablet in your mouth instead to help relieve that awful desire. Shortly the habit may be completely broken, and you are better off mentally, physically, financially. It's easy, so simple. Get a box of No-To-Bac and if it doesn't release you from all craving for tobacco in any form, your druggist will refund your money without question.

WARBORED AT TREPASSEY.

Deacons James O'Neill, said today from Gibraltar to Harbor Grace, and Winifred Lee, coal laden to St. John's, harbored at Trepassey yesterday. "I know just the kind of man he is," says Miss (Da Howlett). "He'll be my dear child. I hope you know your catechism, or 'Dearest Miss, let me have an hour of recreation together reading 'Burrin's Progress'." But he ever comes to us, you just catch the faint, that's all! What do you finish? Why, that's all! I don't think it's a use of it. Besides, it's for the same—agreed."

Burgee Fishery Report.

The Board of Trade received the following report from Sub-Collector Cunningham, Burgee, yesterday, giving the fishery report from Connoir to Red Island for the week ending April 23: "Total landed to date 900 tons; total for week 130; no trawls in the water; 60 boats fishing. A good sign of cod in deep water, but herring scarce. The weather for the week was changeable, winds moderate, but not far from the land. The first cod since January caught this week, one boat getting 8 tons for one day, but many getting little or none. The catch to date is the worst for 40 years. We have no bankers or sches. of any kind fishing, and merchants will hardly buy green fish. This is making it hard for fishermen who are not supplied."

In Aid of Beaumont Hamel.

Ice cream and afternoon teas will also be served. The affair is being held under the auspices of the St. Margaret's Guild and should be well patronized.

What Happened to Jones?

The funniest comedy ever seen in this city is that under the above title, by George H. Broadhurst, and now in preparation for production in the Casino on the nights of May 10th and 11th. This piece was produced here some years ago by the W. S. Harkins Company, featuring Miss Jessie Bonstelle and her associates, and had a splendid reception. It abounds in amusing situations, and in fact is a riot of fun from the opening to the closing lines. The cast includes those who are well and favourably known to theatre goers and in addition some new talent whom, judging by their work as evidenced in rehearsals, the public will certainly wish to see again. The proceeds are to be devoted to the Church of England Orphanages, and we feel confident that houses will greet the performers, and thus show by their presence their sympathy with the work carried on in these institutions. An additional attraction will be the presence of the full C.L.E.B. Band under their able instructor, Capt. A. Motrie. Reserved seat tickets will be on sale at the Royal Stationery Co. to-morrow, Wednesday, morning.

President Delivers Address on Re-birth of Business.

Rebirth of normal business awaits a new attitude of man toward his job. James S. Alexander, President of the National Bank of Commerce in New York, said last night (Friday, April 23), in an address before the semi-annual meeting of the National Association of Cotton Manufacturers at Boston, Mass. Correcting of the business and social confusion of the times must be sought, he urged, not only in technical banking and business adjustments, but more particularly in the human element, which has set free forces that must be brought under control before business can again be on a sound basis. Mr. Alexander's subject was "The Basis of Better Times."

"Never before in the history of the world has there been such a universal and profound change in human conduct as we have seen in the period since the World War began," Mr. Alexander declared. "Never before has human conduct produced such variations in business as from what we are accustomed to consider a normal course."

"It is a question of the personal attitude of man toward his job. Looking at this in a large way we see nations still struggling and fighting one with another. Within nations we see labor still creating turmoil, while the attitude of employers is not always what it should be. Business stability and a new normal for the conduct of the world's economic life cannot be found while these conditions persist. To many people to-day hope and expect something will be done for them, although their interests would best be served by their doing a full day's work for their pay. There is an effort on the part of workers to retain the advantages won during the abnormal war period of shorter hours, higher pay and easy work, regardless of the present lack of an economic basis for the continuance of such conditions. The fundamental principle of enlightened labor leadership to-day should be to indicate a return to the doctrine of an honest day's work for an honest day's pay. Inflated wages and the non-competitive conditions of the war and the later boom period produced inefficiency and irresponsibility. It is essential to the welfare of labor itself to banish this attitude, not because individual efficiency and a full return of value received in the pay envelope mean larger profits for the employer, but because they mean better times for the workers themselves. Workers cannot, in the long run, consume more than they produce. If wages are too high in relation to the exchange value of the product, wages must come down, for no wage can be permanently maintained at a point above what it is worth measured in terms of other products."

"Further, employers must not seek to drive wages below their true value thus measured. There is this reciprocal personal responsibility involved in the relation of workers and em-
