Many a chill can be avoided by the wise use of heating with ever-ready gas stoves. An inset gas fire can easily be installed in any ordinary coal grate, and will provide the necessary warmth at any time.
Gas Fires make no work. There is no coal to carry upstairs, and no ashes to be cleared away. They are ideal for use in a daintily appointed room. There is no smoke or dust. They also ventilate the room. Enquiries solicited.

RIVER WYE ENQUIRY.

HALIFAX, Nov. 30. An enquiry was held to-day upon the stranding of the Welsh steamer River Wye at Fort Moulton Island, on Saturday last. The finding will be announced from Ottawa.

WOULD USE NAVY.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30. The use of the Navy instead of additional revenue cutters to combat the rum runners, was advocated to-day by Senator Willis, Ohio. He said that so long as the Navy and Shipping Board had ships to sell he would oppose the Treasury recommendations for appropriation for new cutters.

ANOTHER GOVERNOR INDICATED.

INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. 30. Governor Warren T. McCary was indicated on charges of forgery and embezzlement by a Marion County Grand Jury to-day in a report to Judge Collins of the Criminal Court.

ANTI-SMUGGLING CONFERENCE ENDS.

OTTAWA, Nov. 30. The International Conference for the prevention of rum smuggling, which has been in session since Tuesday, concluded to-day, and the American representatives left for Washington. No official statement was given out, nor would the Canadian or American representatives comment upon what had been accomplished.

GIRLS! USE A MOIST BRUSH

Instantly a Gleamy Mass of Beautiful Hair

The effect is startling! You actually see plain, flat, oily or colorless hair become soft, fluffy, lustrous and abundant in a moment. Try it! When combing and dressing your hair, just moisten your hair brush with a little "Dandarine" and brush it through your hair. You can do your hair up immediately and it will appear twice as thick and heavy—a mass of gleamy hair, sparkling with life and possessing that incomparable softness, freshness and luxuriance—yet not greasy, oily or sticky. While beautifying the hair "Dandarine" is also toning and stimulating each single hair to grow thick, long and strong. Hair stops falling out and dandruff disappears. Get a 35 cent bottle of delightful, refreshing "Dandarine" at any drug or toilet counter and just see how healthy and youthful your hair becomes.

Just Folks.
By EDGAR A GUEST

THE HAPPY HOME.
A happy home—how shall it be attained?
Not by the way the wood is carved and stained.
Not by the polished mantel or the stair.
Not by the treasures safely sheltered there.
But by the joys, the laughter and the din
Which those who cross its threshold carry in.
Glad hearts which wakes to greet the morning sun
Make fair the work the bullder's hand has done.
And dark these rooms and gloomy all the while
Unless some face shall light them with a smile;
Silent these walls and solemn every thing
If no one here a merry song will sing.
Think you a house has stored within itself
Like bottled olives on the pantry shelf.
The joys you need and sigh for day by day?
Do you expect the painted walls to play?
If with delight you'd set this home aglow,
You who abide herein must make it so.
Welcome the friends who gladly come to call,
Cherish the children racing through the hall.
Here let their laughter ring that none may say
That he is happier when he's away.
If from this home contentment you would win,
Fling wide the door and let contentment in.

THE FOLDED UP MOUTH.

At a certain restaurant where we sometimes take our dinner by way of a spree, the Authorman always sits at the table near the window. When I asked him why, he said he didn't like the waitress. "But she is very capable," I objected, "I have been here at noon when they have a frightful crowd and I think she handles her work better than any girl in the place. And she's not had-looking either."

Bad For The Digestion.

"That may be," admitted the Authorman, "I didn't say she wasn't a smart waitress. I just said I didn't like her, and I don't. I don't like the way she folds her mouth up. I don't like faces with folded up mouths in them any time and especially when I'm eating and want to feel cheerful." The next time the waitress came in I looked at her more carefully and I once, but it isn't always true. Men get and forget all right, but women don't always give and forgive. They give in and give up (the most common and most difficult forms of giving) and then resent the fact that they have to.

And sometimes a woman's resentment gets so bitter and prepossesses so much of her thoughts that it becomes a dominant factor in her life and stiches for her a mouth that is always tightly folded up.

Too Bad For Them.

Well, why shouldn't it, you ask. It isn't strange is it, when you think of some women's lives?

No not at all strange. Only unfortunate for them. For the folded up mouth drives away love. And love seems to be something we all crave next to food and drink—sometimes more.

Mouths begin to fold themselves up ever so gradually. A slight thinning out of the line of the lips, a slight tightening of the corners are the first signs. They are good signs to watch for and to avoid.

NO ENTERPRISE.

I'm often joshed and chidden by caustic passers-by, for I have never ridden in a straphole to the sky. I've never gone a-searing in vessels I could fly roaring up there where stars are pouring their light on things that fly. In this resolve I'm bolstered when I survey the air; the earth is not upholstered, no smudges do I wear; and if an airship stranded on the earth I landed my works would be disbanding, and I'd be prone to swear. I blush with shame when people inquire if

WANT MATCH.

I have flown up higher than the steeple, up where the clouds are blown; for all the rest have tried it; they find a plane and ride it, up to the moon they glide it; I walk, and I alone. I much admire the garing, the dauntless and the bold; who in their planes so faring through dangers manifold; I sing them, as they teter, in sonnets sweet and sweeter; in short and common metre, but my own feet are cold. Men say there are in flying sensations grand and new, and none should think of dying before he's soared a few; but I won't leave my knitting; I'd be afraid of hitting a pasture field and splitting this blessed old globe in two. Oh, let the airplanes wander in ether lanes

HENRY BLAIR

Robbed of $21,800

Hoboken, N.J., Nov. 22—New York's
big-up epidemic spread to Hoboken
yesterday when two armed men held Miss Mary Orange, employee of the Button Machine Company, and
robbed her of the company's payroll
in the hallway of the factory. The robbers escaped in a car.

The girl had been taken to the Hudson Trust Company bank in an automobile by Clarence Sraassenet, treasurer of the machine company. He returned with her to the factory and drove away as she entered the building.

She said she was met in the hall by
two armed men, who told her to drop
the money, which she did.

He uses both his arms to steer
and drives without a quiver.

Fair Prices of Hard Coal Fixed

NEW YORK, Nov. 22—Anthracite coal in domestic sizes was "fairly
priced" yesterday by the Fair Price
Coal Commission at $14.25 to $15.75
a ton for the boroughs of the metropolitan area, depending on distance
from tide-water.

Extra commission, which does not know exactly what its powers are,
asks citizens to report dealers who
charge more than the prices set.

Next week prices for 100 pound sacks
of coal will be established.

FLYING!

there were three.
Three little motorists—how the dust
flew.
One hit a chuck hole and then there
were two.
Two little motorists facing the sun.

there was one.
One little motorist dashed with a bun.
Ran into a freight train, then there
was none.

TO-DAY'S MESSAGES

ST. LAWRENCE SHIPPING SEASON CLOSES TO-MORROW.
MONTREAL, Dec. 1.
Montreal may be cleared of ocean-
going ships by to-morrow evening, the
last four such vessels being scheduled to sail Saturday. Several small coasting and lake vessels have still to pass through Montreal. Last year
the last ocean going vessel to leave port was the Lagar, County, which sailed Dec. 2nd and the last coasting
boat was the Mapledawn which left for St. John's Dec. 5.

LLOYD GEORGE EMPHASIZES THE DANGER OF A PARTY RETURN-ED ON A MINORITY NOTE.
LONDON, Dec. 1.
Lloyd George spent Friday in Wales
among his own people, appealing to
the constituents whom he had represented for thirty-four years, to elect
him again. He addressed the people in familiar tones laying aside the
customary gestures and rhetoric,
making a personal rather than a political appeal. He dilated upon the dangers of a Government re-elected
on a minority vote of the electorate
as happened a year ago. "You might have millions of votes for Free Trade
but a Protectionist majority in Parliament," he said, "that raises the greatest constitutional issue with which this country had been faced
since the days of ship money, that is,
taxing the people against their consent." Mr. Lloyd George also emphasized that during the Great War
other countries came to Free Trade Britain asking for financial assistance, and Great Britain was the rich
beggars, he said, unarmed, unprotected by tariffs, and at the mercy of all
slings and arrows of the world, yet
they wanted our help.

THE PRODIGAL SON AGAIN IN THE LIMELIGHT.
LONDON, Dec. 1.
Oliver Baldwin and A. G. Mac-Donald, sons of Premier Baldwin and
James Ramsay MacDonald, Labor
Leader in Parliament, respectively,
appeared on the same platform in an election meeting held in London tonight to support the Labor candidate
in Islington District. The chairman addressed Mr. Baldwin as a comrade and Mr. MacDonald as a son of the future Prime Minister. Mr. Baldwin
resumed his attacks upon the Government's father heads, particularly with regards to what he terms its inaction. He said he was not opposing his father, but principles which would lead nowhere.

PARTICIPATION BY U.S.A. IN RE-PARATIONS PROBLEM HOPED FOR.
PARIS, Dec. 1.
Allied circles to-day believe the Reparations Commission by its action
to-day, paved the way for the United States to participate in an expert examination of Germany's position. The Commission decided to appoint two expert committees, one to examine the means of balancing Germany's budget and stabilizing Germany's finances and the other to look into the capital exported from Germany and to devise means of getting it back.

ITALY WILL RECOGNIZE SOVIET GOVERNMENT.
ROME, Dec. 1.
Speaking in the Chamber of Deputies
to-night, Premier Mussolini said the Italian Government would raise no
difficulty with regard to giving
recognition to the Soviet Government of Russia.

FLOODS IN ITALY.
UDINE, Italy, Dec. 1.
Heavy rain storms have affected
the whole Friuli Country in this province causing rivers to overflow their banks flooding the surrounding country and obliging inhabitants of some towns to take refuge in the hills.

Large bodies of soldiers, firemen and Fascist militia in the surrounding territory have been rushed to the scene to assist the homeless and reinforce the river and canal banks
against food.

TO TALK ACROSS THE ATLANTIC.
NEW YORK, Dec. 1.
An international dialogue with the United States and British speakers
talking back and forth across the Atlantic will be attempted to-night as a final demonstration of a series of tests to establish the practicability of trans-oceanic conversation. Speakers
in half a dozen United States cities
will speak simultaneously for five minutes starting at ten o'clock eastern standard time. Atlantic to the United States. Two sets of speakers
will alternate for five minute periods
until ten-thirty.

THE QUEEN MOTHER'S BIRTHDAY
LONDON, Dec. 1.
Queen Mother Alexandra is celebrating her 79th birthday to-day. King George will pay her a visit at Sandringham Palace. She is receiving numerous congratulatory telegrams
and letters and is in excellent health.

A LIVING HEIR INSTEAD OF DEATH SENTENCE.
MOSCOW, Dec. 1.
The Russian Government has shown
clemency towards eighteen persons who were sentenced to death on November 1st after first being tried on charges of bribery and corruption.

The sentence of each prisoner has been commuted to ten years solitary confinement.

ALL PARTIES OPTIMISTIC.
LONDON, Dec. 1.
This is the last week-end before the general election and so canvassers
and speakers of the leading parties
will be very busy. Each party says
it has been making great progress
and each is confident of victory.

INVITATION SENT TO U.S.A. TO PARTICIPATE.
PARIS, Dec. 1.
An invitation to the United States Government to appoint members to each of the two committees which are to investigate German finances, has been forwarded to Washington by Col. James A. Logan on behalf of the Reparations Commission.

Women Must Stir up Their Lagging Sisters

MONTREAL. (Canadian Press)—
The Crown Prosecutor, E. L. Calder,
K.C. speaking to one of the numerous Women's Clubs of the city, said the suffrage movement in the Province
would not be successful until "a very large, if not overwhelming majority of the women who do not want the vote" were aroused enough to ask for
it, and realized that it meant for them
a duty and a privilege. The majority of the Legislature was not won over
because the women of their constituencies were not won over. He referred with great diffidence, he said, to
"the problem of the child-wife, asking
the women to contemplate the possibility of the unfortunate girl who has fallen perhaps through ignorance,
loneliness and the natural desire for companionship, and is thrown out of her home. The social stigma which attached to such girls was one which
the women had put upon her, and one which they were prolonged. "You must socially and legislatively deal with that problem. As voters and social workers you must find a way. In doing that one thing you will more than justify your demand for suffrage and your organization."

Violent Storm Broke Over Rome

NUMEROUS HOUSES STRUCK BY LIGHTNING AND ALL ELECTRIC LIGHTS OUT.

Rome, Nov. 22.—A violent thunder-
storm accompanied by torrential rain,
which began last night and continued
this morning, caused the electric lights to go out during the gala reception at the Quirinal Palace last evening. It was necessary to continue the presentations to the Spanish sovereigns under candle light.

Numerous houses and schools were flooded during the storm. A bolt of lightning struck a large barn in the outskirts of the city, splitting it wide
open and setting fire to its contents.

Canada's Acquisition
of Northwest

TERRITORIES AND RUPERT'S
LAND, 1869.

(Copyright by Canadian Press.)
December 1, 1869.—This date marks
the beginning of the transformation
of the Northwest Territories and Rupert's Land into the Prairie Provinces
as component parts of the Dominion.

It was on the first of December,
forty-four years ago that the deal was consummated whereby Canada paid the Hudson's Bay Company £300,000
through the Imperial Government and
thus acquired this valuable area.

Although Rupert's Land in 1870
ceased to exist as a political name it is still used as the title of the episcopal diocese which, in the main, it coincides
with the Province of Manitoba.

Forty people who saw a man rob
Los Angeles bank didn't interfere.
They thought it was the landlord collecting the rent.

Never Too Soon to Learn

TORONTO. (Canadian Press)—
When the Father of the Nation,
Sir John A. Macdonald, was in the Court of Solomon,
and the sublime confidence of the seasoned jockey, little Miss Marjorie Bateman, the youngest figure in the Horse Show here rode into the ring at the Coliseum the other day and after
ten or fifteen minutes of galloping,
trotting and walking, proved the truth of the old adage that his never too soon to learn. Her four and a half years rested lightly on the shoulders
of this charming little maid, who, in spite of black corduroy breeches,
leggings, white shirt and stock and a tight little jockey cap, retains all the native mannerisms and modesty of a small girl. "Joy Bells," her very own Shetland pony, is more than twice the age of his clever rider, but showed neither fear nor dissatisfaction with
the wisdom of those absurdly small
hands that guided it.

"I got a nice pink ribbon," said the triumphant Marjorie, dismounting and
flicking her whip. "That's fifth prize,
isn't it?" somebody near volunteered.
"Oh, no. It's just a pink bow," she answered serenely.

Jail Turned Into a Home

LONDON.—(C.P.) Worcester Gaol,
which was closed about a year ago,
has now been re-opened for housing
purposes, and re-christened Worcester Castle. Twelve families, comprising
nearly 100 people, have been comfortably installed. Parents with eight children, formerly living in one room,
are amongst those who now have four or five bedrooms. In addition, each family has a living room in the off-

A Tribute to the Late
Andrew Bonar Law
London.—(By Canadian Press)—The Sunday Observer pays the following tribute in its editorial columns, to the late Andrew Bonar Law, former Prime Minister, who died on October 30th last, and whose body was interred
in Westminster Abbey, not far from that of the unknown Warrior:—
"To-morrow the quiet man born in Canada is to be laid in the Abbey
where Pitt and Fox and Gladstone are buried, but where Nelson was not to sleep, despite his dream: it is a wonderful sequel to a relatively short
career in the forefront of politics.
What is the reason of it? The chief reason we think is pathos. In the whole history of English politics
there is nothing more poignant, more penetrated by the mysteriousness of mortal fate than the career of Bonar Law. A man both reserved and affectionate, he had known the sweet mercif-
less lacerations of personal experience. His wife died a little before he became leader of the Unionist Party.
Two of his sons were killed in the war.
For his temperament there was no human compensation. The shadows deepened. He loathed the glittering agility and impudent insatiation of what is called Society. He had family devotion, rare friendship, and beyond that,
a universal liking which meant nothing to him. His instinct was too true training. He did his duty and more; he played, his utmost part without personal hope. In the autumn of 1922 he became Prime Minister leaving his name for ever on the golden roll. He became Prime Minister at the risk of his life. A few months later he was doomed and he knew it. In little more than six months he had to retire. In little more than twelve months he was dead. He never failed in patient gentleness and sad serenity. He knew his comfort ministered to him. He false.
He endured. There was heroic fibre
in his public effort and achievement
despite all the memories and thoughts
that make a mockery of what is called success.

It is not for nothing that he lies nearest the Unknown Warrior. He did not pretend to be a superman. Harshly visited by human suffering, he felt it in every nerve. In his way he had the fortitude of the trenches, and his burial in the Abbey is just. Neither Pitt nor Fox nor Gladstone was called upon to bear the pangs of personal sorrow in the public cause that were visited upon him. His amiability and utter freedom from all the pretence
of position attracted the sympathy and respect of men of all parties. There never was more flawless patriotic straightness than he showed as leader of Opposition in the supreme national emergency. His subordination of himself made possible the brilliant success of the late Coalition in its fortunate years, and after he left
it, it had no luck. With all this, he was one of the quickest, keenest masters
of debate that any Parliament ever knew. But the bond of human amenity was the strongest. No statesman ever went to the grave leaving a wider,
sharper sense of mortal pathos, and
personal regret.

This country is never too poor to buy more automobiles than it did the year before.

A man may not know what is good
for him but he doesn't want anybody
else to tell him what's good for him.

Be cheerful at breakfast. The rest of the day will take care of itself.

Lots of girls intend to marry just
as soon as they can make up their sweet-
heart's mind.

A married man in Milwaukee found
a ten dollar bill the other morning in a place where he never expected to find it—his pocket.

George Street Church
CELEBRATES ITS GOLDEN JUBILEE.

In striking similarity to those grey, unobtrusive churches that one comes upon suddenly in the very centre of the city of London, and concealed from view by the grim looking warehouses and offices that surround them on all sides, stands in the West End of our city George Street Methodist Church. All day long the street traffic rumbles by; hour by hour, hurrying steps intent on business pass its door. For fifty years it has watched the tide of prosperity ebb and flow. Always it has been by its very situation in the heart of business activities an eloquent reminder that religious tenets cannot be divorced from business principles.

Fifty-one years ago occurred what has been graphically described as the first Methodist "Swarming" in St. John's. Forming in a procession and with banners flying, the people started from the Mother Church on George Street, marched to the site of the edifice to be erected, and there well and truly was laid the foundation stone of George Street Methodist Church by the late Honourable Stephen Rendell, M.H.A.

Not a few of that zealous gathering have passed away, but their work lives after them. One of those who have been spared to see the fulfillment of their hopes is the Rev. Dr. G. J. Bond, and it is indeed fitting that he has been chosen to officiate at the service in the church on Sunday morning which will mark the beginning of the Golden Jubilee celebrations.

Over the door of the church is an inscription which reads: "A. D. 1873. Wesleyan Church." This is a link which connects the past history of Methodism in Newfoundland with its growth and development in recent years. Formerly it was connected with the Eastern British American Conference, but in that year several of the Methodist bodies in the neighbouring Dominion united and formed the Methodist Church of Canada. Now, fifty years later, the consummation of a union on a far wider scale, embracing the Presbyterian and Congregational Churches, awaits only the official sanction of the Legislatures of Canada and Newfoundland.

With to-morrow's services will begin a week of Celebration to mark the Golden Jubilee of the Church. That the Four Centres of Methodism in the city will make common cause on this occasion is certain; and the Institutional Building which it is intended to erect as a Jubilee Memorial will be a lasting testimony of their oneness of purpose.

The Monroe Doctrine
HAS REACHED ITS CENTENARY.

On December 2nd, 1823, President Monroe of the United States of America issued in his seventh Annual Message a declaration which in effect summed up the growing sentiment of his people that America was for the Americans. It is known as the Monroe Doctrine, and during the years that have elapsed it has become the foundation upon which the foreign policy of the Republic rests.

The circumstances which led to this proclamation are closely interwoven with the results that were taking place in Europe at that time. George Canning, who had become Foreign Secretary following the suicide of Lord Castlereagh, gave his support to those countries that were desirous of establishing constitutional government. With the help of France, King Ferdinand VII. was restored to power in Spain, and he then began to make plans to reconquer the revolted Latin countries in America. Russia promised to aid Spain in this enterprise. Canning had acquiesced in the restoration to power of Ferdinand, but he saw in this alliance a menace to the future peace of Europe. In order to defeat the object, he recognized the independence of the new Republics and joined President Monroe in forbidding further European interference in America.

Thus did England play an important part in establishing this Doctrine, and it is questionable whether it would have been respected but for her endorsement. It is interesting, however, to note that it brought England and America to the verge of war in 1895 when a dispute arose over the boundary between Venezuela and British Guiana.

Elsewhere in this issue will be found abstracts from a speech made by Secretary of State Hughes on August 30th last on the Monroe Doctrine, and indicating its effect on the policy followed by the United States today.

Queen Alexandra's Birthday

To-day, December 1st, is the birthday of Queen Alexandra, the Queen mother, and flags are flying over the House of Assembly, the various Government Departments, and many private buildings in honour of the event. In spite of the fact that her age is but one year short of the four score milestone, she is still active, and in the latest English pictorial is seen taking part in the marriage ceremony of Princess Maud and Lord Carriette.

St. Andrew's Day

AT THE PRESBYTERIAN SCHOOL. St. Andrew's Day was fittingly observed by the pupils of the Presbyterian School. At the close of the morning session, the whole school assembled in the Hall, where a short address on the chief characteristics of St. Andrew's life was given by the Headmaster. The school was then dismissed for the remainder of the day. In the afternoon, the first of a series of paper chases was run by the senior boys. The hares (Martin and Little-John) left the school at 2.30 p.m. proceeding in the direction of Long Pond. A goodly field of keen hounds took up the scent at 2.45. The course chosen showed much cunning by the hares, who laid several false tracks, and returned to the school at 3.50 p.m. Lumsden Max, closely followed by Hood, was the first home, thus giving the honours of the chase to the Intermediate Class. Such healthy and exhilarating forms of exercise go a very long way towards instilling into our youth such ideals which stand for clean and sporting manliness, and this should be congratulated on taking up the example set by other of the schools of our city. Some of the boys spent the evening with the Headmaster, and so concluded one of the memorable days of their school life.

Victim of Accident Shows Signs of Improvement

Miss Hickey, the victim of the runaway accident yesterday evening, shows some slight improvement in her condition to-day. Up to a late hour last night she had not regained consciousness. Besides receiving a fracture of the leg she was badly cut about the head. Miss Hickey is somewhat over 60 years.

Poultry Stolen

A few nights ago some person made entrance to the Poultry house of Mayor J. M. Bowler, LeMarchant Road and stole all his hens. He expected that the thief would come back for the house but so far the hen coop has not been removed.

Reported Trouble at Upper Island Cove

Reports on the street of bread riots at Upper Island Cove appear to be greatly exaggerated. It was stated that a large number of men threatened to break in the stores and help themselves. A visit paid to the place by Inspector General Hutchings lent color to the story. It is learned, however, there was some trouble as about 150 men of the place, who found employment at Bell Island, but had been out of work since August, found themselves without any means of sustenance. On Tuesday last, Inspector General Hutchings, who was on station visit to points in Conception Bay went to Upper Island Cove, but as there had been no breach of the peace, no arrests were made. It is understood that provision has been made to give the men relief.

Prisoners Sentenced

Two prisoners named Parry and Barrett who have been on remand charged with larceny were brought for trial in the Magistrate's Court this forenoon. Barrett, who was accused of breaking into the store at Milltown, owned by a man named Bonlas and stealing a number watches, suits of clothes and mackinaw coats, pleaded guilty. Parry also accused of stealing from the store of R. Williams, Woody Island the sum of $314.25 pleaded guilty. Summers, K.C., appeared for the Crown. He stated that all the goods stolen from Bonlas had been recovered except a pair of boots and a suit of clothes these Parry had on. All the money stolen from Williams except one dollar had also been recovered. Parry was an old offender and was sentenced to 12 months hard labor. In the case of Barrett who is a man of 31 years it was pointed out that he had been led into the trouble by Parry. It was his first offence and a sentence of 6 months with hard labor was inflicted. At the end of the period, Barrett must give bonds for his future good behaviour or serve a further term of three months.

Poultry Show Lottery

SECOND PRIZE CLAIMED.
The second prize in connection with the Poultry Show lottery has been won by Mrs. (Dr.) Argh Tait, the lucky number being 2187 and the prize a pen of Rhode Island Reds. In the report of the prize distribution appearing in another column it was stated in error that Mrs. Tait was awarded a prize for exhibiting in the Rovers Legion class. There has not yet been a claimant for the first prize, a model poultry house. The winning number is 3956 and as all the tickets were disposed of some person is fortunate to hold it.

A Matter of Colour.

Toronto.—(C.P.) "You must know that when a woman says blue, she does not mean black," said Judge Morson as he gave judgment against a cleaner for $70.00. "It is evident that you don't know women, if you say the plaintiff did not care whether her coat was dyed blue or black," he added. Mrs. Alice Garvie was suing for $100, the value of a Bolivia coat she alleged he had spoiled while dyeing it. The defendant said that when she brought it to him her coat was a greenish-blue. He thought it would be better to color it black.

MARRIED.

On November 23rd, at St. Raphaela Chapel, W. 23rd St., New York, by the Rev. R. Spohr, Miss Katherine Kelly, of this city to Mr. Joseph Hock of Buffalo, New York.

ADDRESS ON MONRO...
The Monroe Doctrine...

The Monroe Doctrine...

Secretary Hughes'
DOCTRINE OF MONROE DOCTRINE.
 The Monroe Doctrine was defined in his famous address at Minneapolis on August 22, 1823. It was a vital interest in the United States to no just interest in the Americas or elsewhere, and in fact an essential barrier to wider international co-operation in the promotion of peace and understanding.
 Speaking before the American Bar Association the Secretary declared that the Monroe Doctrine in no way established a "protectorate" over other American republics. American rights and obligations not specifically outlined by Monroe in his famous message but sometimes "taken" interpretation are also sometimes stated as absolute. He recalled that the Monroe Doctrine in the 19th century was a matter of course in the treaty of 1904, although he added that the United States would rather, if possible, continue in its present role of "friendly neighbor."

Under the Doctrine as it has been defined it is believed to remain," said Secretary Hughes. "I desire to comment upon certain points, which, as I believe, have special emphasis as this year."
 First. The Monroe doctrine is not a policy of aggression; it is a policy of self-defense. It was asserted at a time when the danger of foreign intervention in this hemisphere was a real one, when the new American republics had not yet established a firm basis of independent national life, and were menaced by threats of Old World powers directed against their institutions. But the achievement of the century has been the change in the status of the continent. It still remains an area of the principle of national sovereignty. As such, it is obviously not a threat to the United States.

As the policy embodied in the Monroe doctrine is distinctive to the policy of the United States, it is to itself its own definition, interpretation and application. This government has welcomed the recognition by other governments of the fact of the existence of this policy and of the appropriateness of its application at all times to the United States had not been shown to enter into engagements which would have the effect of substituting any other power or to any extent of powers the determination of which upon which the principles of the Monroe doctrine shall be invoked of the measures that shall be taken to bring it effect. As President Wilson observed: "The Monroe doctrine is proclaimed by the United States as her own authority. It always has been maintained and always will be maintained upon her own responsibility."

"The implications thereof are not self-evident. It simply means that the United States is asserting a separate right of self-defense, and that in the exercise of this right it will have an unhampered discretion. Third. The policy of the Monroe doctrine does not infringe upon the independence and sovereignty of other American states. Misconception of this point is the only disturbing element in our relations with Latin American states. The declaration of purpose to exclude "European" influence is not a "policy" but a "fact" which our safety does not imply an "admission" to establish a precedent any more than a similar assertion by any one of the great southern republics."

of opposition to conduct on the part of any of the others, and since the security would aim at the establishment of a protectorate.
 "I utterly disclaim, as unwarranted, the observations which occasionally have been made implying a claim on our part to superintend the affairs of our sister republics, to assert an overlordship, to consider the spread of our authority beyond our own domain as the aim of our policy, and to make our power the test of right in this hemisphere. I oppose all such misconceived and unsound assertions or intimations. They do not express our national purpose; they belie our sincere friendship; they are false to the fundamental principles of our institutions and of our foreign policy which has sought to reflect, with rare exceptions, the ideals of liberty, which menace us by stimulating a distrust which has no real foundation. They find no sanction whatever in the Monroe doctrine. There is room in this hemisphere, without danger of collision, for the complete recognition of that doctrine and the independent sovereignty of the Latin American republics."
 "Fourth. There are indeed, modern conditions and recent events which can not fail to engage our attention. We have grown rich and powerful, but we have not outgrown the necessity, in justice to ourselves and without injustice to others, of safeguarding our future peace and security. By building the Panama Canal we have not only established a new and convenient highway of commerce but we have created exigencies and new conditions of strategy and defense. It is for us to protect that highway. It may also be necessary for us at some time to build another canal between the Atlantic and the Pacific Oceans, and to protect that. I believe that the sentiment of the American people is practically unanimous that in the interest of our national safety we could not yield to any foreign power the control of the Panama Canal, or the approaches to it, or the obtaining of any position which would interfere with our right of protection or would menace the freedom of our communications."

"So far as the region of the Caribbean Sea is concerned, it may be said that if we had no Monroe doctrine we should have to create one. And this is not to imply any limitation on the scope of the doctrine, as originally proclaimed and as still maintained but simply to indicate that new occasions require new applications of an old principle which remains completely effective. What has taken place of late years in the region of the Caribbean has given rise to much confusion of thought and misapprehension of purpose. As I have said, the Monroe doctrine as a particular declaration is no way exhausts American rights and obligations which that doctrine does not define. And in the unsettled condition of certain countries in the region of the Caribbean it has been necessary to assert these rights and obligations as well as the limited principles of the Monroe doctrine."

"In 1898, the United States intervened in Cuba in the cause of humanitarianity and because of a condition of affairs at our very door so injurious to our interests that it had become intolerable. In view of the distress, miseries, and barbarities that existed at that time, as John Bassett Moore has said, "was analogous to what is known in private law as the abatement of a nuisance." In the settlement that followed the establishment of Cuban independence Cuba agreed that the United States may exercise the right to intervene for the preservation of Cuban independence, the maintenance of a government adequate for the protection of life, property, and individual liberty, and for discharging the obligations with respect to Cuba imposed by the treaty of Paris on the United States, now to be assumed and undertaken by the government of Cuba." Cuba also agreed not to enter into any treaty with any foreign power which would tend to impair her independence, nor in any manner authorize or permit any foreign power or powers to obtain by colonization or for military or naval purposes or otherwise judgment in or control of any portion of said island." There were also restrictive provisions as to the contracting of debts. The United States thus holds a special position in relation to Cuba, but it should be pointed out, and clearly understood that, while in view of this position we have acted as the friendly adviser of the Cuban government, our action has been solely for the purpose of aiding in maintaining the independence and stability of Cuba and thus not to create but to precede the necessity of intervention under the treaty by encouraging the Cuban people to eliminate waste and corruption, to reduce public expenses to the normal requirements of government, and to secure the just and efficient administration which will safeguard the desired independence of Cuba and promote the prosperity which, with their abundant natural resources, the Cuban people are entitled to enjoy.
 "It is impossible for me to review in any detail the events which led to the occupation of Santo Domingo and Haiti. In Santo Domingo, during the 46 years prior to 1907, there had been 16 revolutionary movements, and complete political and economic demoralization had resulted. A military government was established in 1908 and until recent months was continued in the interest of public order. This occupation was due to the demonstration, to use the phrase of President Roosevelt, of an impotence resulting in the lessening of the ties of civilized society and thus requiring intervention. But the point that I desire to make is that instead of using this opportunity, as has falsely been charged, to establish a permanent control of Santo Domingo, the government of the United States has been solicitous to arrange for the restoration of the occupation and the withdrawal of its forces and has devoted its endeavors, earnestly and effectively, to the assistance of the Dominican people in establishing a sound basis for an independent government. It is expected that elections in which the authorities of the United States will not intervene will be held about the middle of September and in due course the permanent government will be established.

 "In order to understand conditions in Haiti it should be recalled that since the Republic of Haiti gained its independence it has been the scene of almost continuous revolution. This is its history, as well as of the earlier years. The government of the United States is seeking to make its relation to Haiti beneficial to the Haitian people; it has no other aim but to establish peace and stability. It does not seek to acquire or to control the territory of Haiti, and it will welcome the day when it can leave Haiti with the reasonable assurance that the Haitians will be able to maintain an independent government competent to keep order and discharge its international obligations.
 "The disturbed conditions and revolutionary tendencies in some of the Central American republics have given great solicitude to the government of the United States, and its efforts have been directed to the promotion of tranquillity and stability. This is in the interest of the maintenance of the unimpaired integrity and sovereignty of these republics.
 "Fifth. It is apparent that the Monroe doctrine does not stand in the way of Pan American co-operation; rather it affords the necessary foundation for that co-operation in the independence and security of American states. With the aim of furthering this Pan American co-operation there have been five Pan American conferences, the last of which was recently held in Santiago. The best results of these conferences are not to be found in any formal acts or statements but in the generation of helpful and friendly influences which draw peoples together through a better mutual understanding.
 "The essential condition of co-operation is peace, and this government is constant in its endeavors to promote peace in this hemisphere by using its good offices, whenever they are welcome, in eliminating the causes of strike, and in making provision for the settlement of disputes that can not be adjusted by diplomacy, and those that remain are in process of adjustment."
 "Finally, it should be observed that the Monroe doctrine is not an obstacle to a wider international co-operation, beyond the limits of Pan American aims and interests, whenever that co-operation is congenial to American institutions. From the foundation of the government we have sought to promote the peaceful settlement of international controversies. Establishment of a permanent court of international justice, which might

THE CATHOLIC AND PROTESTANT SCHOOL TAXES.

The taxable property in the Catholic school amount to $208,487,290. The tax on it is 70 cents per $100 and this brings a return of $2,159,411 which is the neutral panel share, the total Catholic receipts to about $4,322,822 for the year. Taxable property in the Protestant panel amounts to $167,832,227. The tax rate is $1 per $100, and this brings a return of $1,678,322, which is the neutral panel share, the total Protestant receipts to about $3,356,644 for the year. The total of the two panels amounts to $3,356,644, which is the total of the two panels. The total of the two panels amounts to $3,356,644, which is the total of the two panels. THE EASTERN DISTRICT SCHOOLS CROWDED.

J. M. Manning, Director, Secretary of the Catholic School Commission of the Eastern District reports that there are 1215 more pupils on the last October this year than on the same date last year. Forty-two new schools have been opened.

DETECTIVES FIND STOLEN GOODS IN ROOM.

Charged with theft as a servant, a young man who was employed on the Canada Steamship lines Ltd. boats during the past two seasons, was arrested at his home. The detectives on information went to the man's room and found a quantity of goods, including table covers, napkins, silverware and blankets to the value of $150. The goods bore the name of the Company.

THE FARMERS' PARTY DEAD IN ONTARIO.

According to Premier Ferguson who visited Montreal recently, the Farmers' Party will soon be a thing of the past. He said:—"The Farmers' Party in Ontario is pretty well annihilated. It is as dead as Julius Caesar. We have had two sections of farmers in the Province, the political farmer and the industrial and commercial farmer. The latter united and went into the co-operative movement to improve his business. Then the political element sought to capture and eventually did capture this movement. But they were not long in discovering that the injection of the political side destroyed entirely their commercial organization so that co-operation which is very desirable to the farmer received a general set back. But the political farmer movement in Ontario today is dead. I think many of the seats they now hold in the Province would go back to party lines to-morrow if there were bye-elections.

"The politicians at the head of the farming movement were idealists with personal ambitions. They possessed no practical idea as to the business side of every day life or development. This is what undoubtedly led to the financial debacle in the province, and aroused the average citizen, particularly among the farming sections, to the necessity of getting back some business methods along conservative lines—not Conservative in the political sense, but it happens that the Conservative party is conservative in name and action. I think the people of Ontario feel that the first organization to be considered is the Conservative party from its tenets its judgment, history and record—that account for the great majority in their recent election."

IN FAVOR OF SABBATH OBSERVANCE.

At the last meeting of the City Council the following resolution was adopted:—"That in order to ensure the proper observation of the Lord's Day, the Dominion authorities be requested to strictly enforce, except in emergency cases where public safety, health or welfare are at stake, the provisions of Article 5 of the Revised Statutes of Canada, chapter 153 (which enact that it shall be unlawful for any person to do, on the Lord's Day, any work, business or labor), especially as regards the contractors who do, or who cause to be done, any work on that day, as well as the owners of industrial or manufacturing establishments or workshops who compel their employees to work on the Lord's Day."

WHY HE LOST THE INSURANCE.

The following may serve as a good lesson to auto owners, who don't put their cars in a garage at night: Because he left his car unprotected in front of his house and not in a private garage, as required by his insurance policy, Noel Gui lost a claim for $1,000 against the Railway Passengers' Insurance Company by Judgment of Mr. Justice Ducloux in Superior Court.

He alleged that he had insured a Gray-Dert car for this amount in Oct. 1921, and that it was stolen a few days later. He asked to be reimbursed the amount of his policy, which covered theft.

THOUGHT PUNISHMENT TOO LIGHT.

Disatisfied with the sentence of six months in jail and a fine of $200 imposed on Bruno Buccel by Chief Justice Decarie in Court of Sessions, Leonce Plante, counsel for the prosecution announced his intention of applying for permission to appeal with a view to having the sentence increased.

Buccel was arraigned on two charges of having drugs in his possession and two charges of importing narcotics. He pleaded guilty to all four charges. James Crankshaw, counsel for the accused, pleaded for clemency on the ground that his client was the father of a family which required his constant support.

PLAYING UP SENSATIONALISM.

The Canadian Freeman of Kingston, Ont., in following letter to the Toronto Globe, from Frank I. Sharpe, General Secretary, Big Brother Movement, is so much to the point that it calls for no comment from us:

Since the escape from Kingston Penitentiary a few days ago of "Red" Ryan and his gang, some of our newspapers have been publishing lurid descriptions of their spectacular flight and their narrow escape from capture at the hands of the police.

Only a few months ago the same papers featured the desperate deeds of a subnormal youth in the North Country, even publishing pictures of his tomb with the motto "Our Hero" inscribed thereon.

It is a fact that the newspapers of today are largely responsible for moulding public opinion, and this is very true in the case of juveniles, who drink in such reading eagerly and in the spirit of imitation react in their play the deeds so featured.

In 1922 Kingston Penitentiary held 38 inmates twenty years of age and under, 81 of them being sixteen and seventeen years of age. During the ten years ending December 31st, 1922, a total of 5,230 youthful offenders were received in the six penitentiaries of Canada.

Criminals are made, not born, and the publishing of the deeds for our notorious crooks is to an extent responsible for this. Boys are imitators and so imitate the deeds of those whom they read about, especially when featured in such a dramatic way. Our organization has dealt with lads from the Juvenile Court who have confessed to thus receiving their ideas.

If it is necessary to publish such accounts, then cut out the coloring and give just plain facts, the less publicly given the better. I am sure our police will endorse this with an amen. Their efforts would not be handicapped by a flood of advance information which oftentimes enables these criminals to better elude the officer, and gives courage to the would-be hero delinquent, who may give expression to his surplus energy in some way.

If greater success is to crown the efforts put forth to make our youth good, law-abiding citizens, then the newspapers must help in giving emphasis to noble deeds and thoughts as the things worthy of public approval and as the aim of life, rather than the dare-devil deeds of those whom we as Canadians are ashamed of.

GUY STREET LINE TO BE CHANGED.

The Montreal Tramways Company will change the Guy Street route. Owing to the long waits at the Guy St. Railway Crossing, caused by the shunting of Canadian National cars, the departure and arrival of the regular trains, and the narrowness of Guy Street, the Railway Commission has decided to run the cars from Pt. St. Charles up Atwater Avenue. The Guy Street line often takes one's patience to the limit, owing to the cars being held up at the Railway Crossing or at the Seigneurs Street bridge, when boats were passing up or down the Lachine Canal. The Guy Street cars were of the old type, very small, that were in vogue more than forty years ago, when they had the horse cars. Probably not more than six cars are operated on the line of twists and turns, switches and bumps, and delays and dissatisfaction. It is one of the shortest lines of the Tramways Company, and adds very little, if any, revenue to the Company's earnings.

CHILD CHOKED TO DEATH.

Mothers should be careful not to leave any small objects around near small children. A child of two years, while playing around the floor picked up a small screw, put it in his mouth, and swallowed it, choking to death as a consequence. A doctor was called but he could not extract the screw, which was tightly wedged in the windpipe.

ADVICE ON FIRE PREVENTION.

The stopping of promiscuous smoking in offices and the teaching of elementary fire drill by fire brigade officers in schools, together with a Dominion wide propaganda in support of such steps, are amongst the suggestions advanced by Commissioner R. Lalupipe for the prevention of fire.

A number of fire calamities, he said, are due to carelessness and much could be done to eliminate carelessness. The best way, however, in his opinion, is to insist on the remodeling of old buildings which, in case of fire, would prove a death trap. Electric wiring in such buildings should be carefully inspected at intervals. Smoking should not be allowed in factories except in defined safe places at stated times.

The main work of fire prevention, he said, lies in constant attention to such details as these. In factories, and workshops, there should be compulsory fire drills, so that the workers may learn how to leave the buildings in an orderly fashion at the sound of an alarm. A further recommendation is that officers of the fire brigades should periodically inspect schools, libraries and hospitals, as well as cottages.

In conclusion he said that where fires were found due to negligence a fine should be imposed.

WHAT THE TRAMWAYS PAY THE CITY.

The Montreal Tramways Company has paid $303,745, representing rental for the quarterly period, July-October, 1923, to the city. By contract the company has to pay $300,000 annually, but since February, 1918, arrears have piled up, and it was not until 1921 that the company paid any part of its rental.

This the arrears grew to $2,817,494, of which $2,084,108 has been paid, leaving a balance due of $733,387.

So far this year the city has received $276,000 from the company, while last year $255,000 was received by the city on account. In 1921, $220,000 was paid.

This sum does not include amount paid to the city for taxes, amounting to $229,829, and snow removal which cost the company $190,800, and were paid to the city last year.

Brothers' Collection

OUR OBLIGATION.

Greater love hath no man than this, that he lay down his life for his friend.

No more beautiful and appropriate epitaph can be written to mark the resting place or to inscribe on the raised monument to perpetuate the memory of one who has given his life in an unsuccessful effort at rescue, or who has gone down in the death struggle in a just cause. We write their glory and we seek emulation. They struggle once, and it is all over, and their names are written on the halls of fame.

What epitaph must be written of the man or body of men who give up life when it is most dear with the lure of the world attached, and immolate themselves on the altar of sacrifice for the christian training of the young? They hope for nothing worldly and after a successful struggle of life saving, they ask one epitaph above their resting place. Requiescent in pace.

I refer to the noble and grand order of teachers, the Irish Christian Brothers. These men of culture, refinement and education, leave home and kindred with the one object, the educating of the youth, and now that materialism is the goal of worship their presence in any community is more needed than ever.

Among the Irish Christian Brothers are men of arts and science, men who would grace the chairs of the world's universities, men who would rank high in the political and commercial activities of the world, "but greater love hath they"—they forsook all to rescue those who need rescue. In return for their sacrifice they desire not even the plaudits of the crowd. They expect not. They hope for nothing more than the bare necessities of life, nor will the order to which they belong permit them more. But those of us who have sat in front of them, and the parents who were released of responsibilities once the child entered under their care, owe them a debt of gratitude. We owe more. We are bound by solemn obligation to give, not to contribute to their annual collection, and there should be no need for appeal from pulpit or press.

From time to time the success of the Catholic Newfoundlanders is recorded in the press, but rarely is mentioned the foundation on which he built success—the training of the Christian Brothers.

Let it also not be forgotten that the passing from school to the passing from the care of these great men of sacrifice, the Irish Christian Brother never separates himself from the boy of his care. With fatherly love he follows his career from day to day having in view his moral and material welfare, and how many of the stray ones have been brought through their kind advice and paternal care.

To-morrow every pupil, ex-pupul, are under obligation to give according to means—but not beyond, and remember

Greater love hath no man than this, that he lay down his life for his friend.

Anglo Nfld. Dev. Co., Ltd.

TO HAVE RECORD CUT OF PULP WOOD.

From parties who have recently arrived from our country we learn that the A.N.D. Co., Ltd. will this year have a very large if not a record cut of timber. At Millertown, Badger and Bishop's Falls about twenty-five hundred men are now engaged, and all the labor offering is being employed. A large number of the men now engaged have been logging since May last and very large quantities of timber have been yarded and assembled in the woods ready to be moved to the river bank when sufficient frost and snow offer. For this purpose heavy ten and fifteen ton caterpillar tractors have been imported such as are now used extensively in the States of Maine and Western Canada for moving large quantities of timber during the winter logging operations. It is a good thing to see this company affording such opportunities of employment which is so badly needed at the present time.

International Golden Rule SUNDAY, DEC. 2nd, 1923.

Certainly if, through no fault of yours, it had been your lot to die in the late war, and if your children had been left not only without parents or responsible relatives but also without a country, you would hope that some so-religious, or other philanthropist would provide for your children at least the necessities of life and opportunity for attaining self-support. "Whatever ye would that others should do unto you (or your children) thus leave desolate, do ye so unto them." The children in the Near East Relief Orphanages are without father, without mother, without country. In saving and training these

The Picture the World Has Been Waiting to See

At last the most famous love story of history comes to the screen in a blaze of power and glory. All the world has been thrilled by the story of the man who forsook the call of religion for the lure of a fascinating stage beauty. Millions of people in every corner of the globe have called the love drama of John Storm and Glory Quayle the most gripping and absorbing narrative of man's enslavement to woman's charms that humanity has ever known. And now it has been brought to the screen in a mammoth production staged in England and America. The great scenes on England's glorious Isle of Man, the tremendous spectacle at the famous Epsom Downs Races, the colossal mob riots in historic Trafalgar Square, the thrilling fights in London's darkest slums are only a few of the big dramatic moments that set this stupendous film apart from all others as the Year's Biggest Photoplay Sensation. Here at last is the picture that the world has been waiting to see.

Captured the "King" of Rum Smugglers

HE WAS ABOARD THE BRITISH SCHOONER TOMAKO SEIZED OFF AMERICAN COAST AFTER SHARP ENGAGEMENT.

(Halifax Chronicle, Nov. 27th) New York, Nov. 25.—The British auxiliary schooner Tomako was set by coastguards early to-day after a sharp engagement, six miles off Seabright, N.J., and in her hold was found William "Rummy Bill" McCoy, characterized by Government agents as the "rum smugglers' king."

The coastguard cutters Seneca and Lexington, operating on information furnished by Treasury Department special agents that the Tomako was off Seabright, lying-in close to dispose of the 200 cases of whiskey, all that remained of a 4,200 case cargo shipped recently in the Bahamas, proceeded to Sandy Hook long before day-break.

As dawn broke the Lexington sighted over the top of a early morning haze, and sent a radio message to the Seneca to proceed. When the cutters were a short distance away a lookout announced their approach. Immediately the little vessel's sea anchor was aweigh, her auxiliary engine began throbbing and she was scampering to sea.

Schooner Was Taken Into Custody at Request of U. S. Department of Justice.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25.—The British steamer Tomako was taken into custody by the Coastguard off the Jersey coast yesterday at the request of the Department of Justice, it was said officially to-night at the Treasury, and upon representations that the vessel had been positively identified with the illegal landing of liquor on the American coast.

In an earlier statement, officials of the Treasury had declared authority for the seizure was derived from the pending treaty with Great Britain extending the limit for search and seizure, although that agreement had not been consummated. That view was withdrawn, however, after Treasury officials had been in communication with the State Department.

Opposed to Church Union

Two Hundred Presbyterians of Lanark and Renfrew Form Association.

CARLETON PLACE, Ont.—A meeting attended by approximately two hundred Presbyterians from all over the Presbytery of Lanark and Renfrew opposed to Church Union, met here to-day and formed an organization known as a branch of the Presbyterian Church Association for the Lanark and Renfrew Presbytery with headquarters at Carleton Place.

The meeting was arranged by Rev. J. H. Borland, organizer of the Presbyterian Church Association, with headquarters at Montreal, and many representative Presbyterians throughout the district have already allied themselves on the side of the anti-union.

"Get Rich Quick Wallingford."

To-night the same bill as last night
will be repeated at the Majestic, and
at the matinee this afternoon also,
when the dancer and bellie will appear at 4 o'clock. Next week the well-known story "Get Rich Quick Wallingford" will be shown. This great production is based upon the famous Wallingford stories and the play by George M. Cohan, and the cast includes Sam Hardy, Doris Kenyon, Diana Allen and Norman Kerry. It is a tale of a couple of happy crooks, who were startled one
day, to find themselves honest men.
While they were "hogging" Battles-
burg, you'll see more fun in the foot of him than ever socked from another screen comedy.

A story known the world around—
and all of it "just folks!" Overflowing with village kindness and ribtickling kinks of dern-fool human nature. Every scene a gasp of surprising drama, bursting with roars of merriment.

The story of "Get-Rich-Quick Wallingford" concerns itself with the doings of J. Rufus Wallingford and his partner in crookedness, G. Horace Daw, familiarly known as "Blackie."
They find in Battlesburg, a small Middle Western town, much satisfied with its own lethargy, a rich field for garnering unto themselves the dollars
hoarded by the rich. The two sharpers succeed in interesting Battlesburg's
conservative old citizens in their fanciful schemes and separate them from a large part of their money. But Wallingford and Daw, who had expected
to decamp after acquiring the money,
find themselves in the meshes of love
for two of the town's pretty girls and remain. To their surprise, their manufacturing and transit projects prove to be great big money-makers; they become wealthy as do their erstwhile dupes and they marry and settle down. Battlesburg is transformed
from a sleepy little farm into a thriving modern small city. See this great volcano of laughs next week
and you'll never regret it.

November 30th, 1917

THE ROYAL N.F.L.D. REGIMENT AT MARCOING.

Yesterday was the sixth anniversary of a day that will ever be remembered as a red-letter day in the history of the Royal Newfoundland Regiment although I fear very few people here gave it a single thought.
On November 30th, 1917 the N.F.L.D. Battalion was resting in the village of Marcoing in company with the 1st
Essex, 2nd Hunts and 4th Worcestershire Battalions. On our right a British Division had suffered a serious
setback, and had it not been for the heroism of the Guards and 28th Division the situation would have been far more serious.

When the 88th Brigade became aware of the situation the Germans were already in Marcoing Cope. In the engagement that followed the Newfoundland Battalion played its part well. They were called upon to pay their price in the defence of the village, the honour of the Regiment
and the reputation of the Immortal 28th.

They paid that price with the lives
of such men as Rupert Bartlett, Geo.
Gear, Arthur Herder, Geo. Langmead
and many others. Have we forgotten them? There are certain days which stand out prominently in the history
of our Regiment, and we should make an effort to have these days remembered as they come round each year.
November 30th is one of those days. I think if a description of the engagements was read in the schools on the different anniversaries it would go a long way towards keeping forever
green the memory of those men who gave their lives for those who stayed at home. It would also be a lesson on patriotism.—COM.

The Doll Lady Says:

I want little girls all over
the Province of Nova Scotia
to have this "Wonder Mama Doll."

She is 26 inches tall, more than one-half taller, than
this picture—as large as a real live baby. Her skin is pink and white, just like a baby's, and she shows her little pink tongue and two white teeth. Her hair is long and curly, real hair
tied with a jaunty bow of ribbon.

She has clothes, too, just like any baby's clothes, that can be taken off when you want to put her to bed—a pretty organdie dress trim-
med with lace and ribbon,
dainty underclothes, knitted
socks and patent leather
slippers.

She has learned to go to sleep when you put her to bed, and when she wakes up
she says "Mama". If you hold her by the hand she
will walk along beside you
just as a real live baby
would.

You needn't be afraid of breaking her. She is strong enough to stand a tumble
now and then, as all babies
must be.

You will want to keep her
"always."

Write to me to-day, and I'll tell you how this little girl can come into your

GEORGE DUNN TO PLAY HOCKEY HERE.

Former Dartmouth Star to Locate in Old Colony—Captained Champions Last Year.

(Halifax Herald, Nov. 27th)

SYDNEY, Nov. 25.—George Dunn, Sydney hockey star, last year a member of the Dartmouth Club, Champions of Halifax, is now located in St. John's, Newfoundland, and will return to Nova Scotia this winter. Dartmouth had expected Dunn to play with them again.

Dunn, a product of Sydney Academy, played with Dalhousie, Technical College and Sydney teams, before joining Dartmouth. He played such a sterling game in 1922 that Dartmouth made him captain of the 1923 team. Great efforts were made by Dartmouth to have Dunn return, but shortly after his graduation from Nova Scotia Technical College, he received an offer of a splendid position in Newfoundland, which he accepted.

BASEBALLERS MEETING.

An enthusiastic meeting of the baseballers was held last night in the office of the Imperial Tobacco Company. Mr. T. V. Hartnett occupied the chair, with about forty-two players and fans in attendance. A lengthy discussion was held on matters in connection with re-introducing the game, and it was decided to call a general meeting in two weeks time, when representatives from the various Societies and Clubs throughout the city will be asked to be present; with a view to forming a new league. The reports of the Field and Finance Committees will be presented at that meeting. The Baseballers' Dances, which takes place at the Grenfell Hall on Monday night next, gives promise of being an attraction worth while. All arrangements for the conducting of this event have been finalized by the committee in charge, and an enjoyable evening is assured.

LADY KNOCKED DOWN AND SUFFERING BROKEN LEG.

A team of horses owned by C. F. Lester took fright on Theatre Hill yesterday afternoon, and in making a mad dash down the hill they got beyond control of the driver and, veering to the sidewalk, knocked down a Miss Hickey, who was proceeding west, the fall breaking her leg. The injured lady was taken to Dr. Carnell's surgery where the limb was placed in splints, after which she was removed to the Hospital in the ambulance for treatment. Miss Hickey recently arrived from the States, and is a guest of her brother, Bond Street. The runaway team was stopped further down the hill.

Rt. Hon. Thomas McNamara, former Minister of Labor and former Financial Secretary to the Admiralty, is a native of Montreal, and has been prominent in public affairs in England for many years. He was returned from Northwest Camberwell in 1922 as a National Liberal, and is now the Liberal candidate for the riding. As far back as 1876 he was a school teacher in England, and in 1896 he was President of the National Union of Teachers. He has been a voluminous writer on social questions and he has published many books on educational methods. In 1910 he published a book on "Tariff Reform and the Working Man."

A. W. Haycock, the Labor Candidate in Winchester, is a son of Joseph Haycock, of Adolphustown, Ont., leader of the Patrons of Industry when that organization was fighting to make itself felt politically in Ontario. The son, like his one-time noted father, seems not to be at all timid in attempting a big thing in the way of politics. He is standing for Labor in a Conservative and Cathedral City, Winchester, where his chances of success at the polls are regarded as almost hopeless.

Major John Molson, M.D., Coalition National member of the House of Commons for Gainsborough since 1913, where he is offering himself for reelection with Conservative interest, is a son of the late Samuel Eledale Molson, Montreal. Major Molson's first entrance into a British election was in 1910, when he contested North-east Bethnal Green. He served with distinction as a medical officer in the war.

Captain John Henry Thorpe, Coalition member of the House of Commons for Gainsborough since 1913, is a native of Cork, Ireland, but is known to many Canadians. A barrister by profession, he obtained a commission in the Territorials in the early months of the war, and after being severely wounded was seconded to the Canadian Corps as Court Martial Officer, serving until after the Armistice. He married a daughter of "Empire Jack," Major Sir John Norton-Griffiths.

Canadian Candidates

THE BRITISH GENERAL ELECTIONS.

LONDON, Nov. 28.—(By Canadian Mail)—To the many Canadians who are watching the present political struggle in the United Kingdom with an ordinary interest, both because of the realignment of political parties and of the tariff issue, which has become the focus of the new Government's promise of the reversion to the tariff system, there is added interest in the fact that the candidates for parliament are not only British but also Canadian. These include those whose names are known through the Dominion owing to their position in the Dominion, and also those who are comparatively new to the British public life for some time and others are comparative new-comers to the area of party strife.

Mr. Hamar Greenwood is perhaps the most prominent Canadian in the contest. He was Liberal member of the House of Commons for York and South-down from 1910 to 1919, and for South-down and West Ham from 1919 to 1922. He was defeated in the last general election, but he again the Liberal candidate for that constituency. Sir Hamar, whom a baronetcy was conferred in 1916, is an English Privy Counsellor and also an Irish Privy Counsellor. He was Chief Secretary for Ireland in the last phase of the United Kingdom's political situation prior to the attainment of the Irish Free State.

He has been Under-Secretary of State for Home Affairs and Secretary of the Overseas Trade Department. He is a barrister and bencher of Gray's Inn and a barrister of New Brunswick. An ex-newspaper man, and of a very charming personality, he has a host of friends throughout Canada.

Mr. Walter Grant Morden is another Canadian of prominence in the election. A Conservative in politics, he has represented the Bradford and Chiswick division of Middlesex since 1918 and is again a candidate for that constituency. As in the general election of 1922, he is opposed by Mr. Oliver Strachey, an independent candidate. Mr. Morden is noted as a promoter of big enterprises and a financier. He is the founder of the Canada Steamship Lines, Ltd., and the British Empire Steel Corporation, Ltd. He founded the British Commonwealth Union.

Capt. P. Drummond MacDonald, barrister of the Inner Temple, London, a relative of the late Sir John A. Macdonald, is a Canadian contestant in the Isle of Wight in the Conservative interest against Major-Gen. J. E. B. Seely. Liberal, who commanded the Canadian Cavalry Brigade during the early years of the war. He was in succession, Under-Secretary for Air and President of the Air Council, Under-Secretary to the Minister of Munitions and Deputy Minister of Munitions. General Seely for a time represented the Isle of Wight and then Il-chester division of Derbyshire, but was defeated last election.

Mr. M. P. Maurice Alexander, C.M.G., M.P., formerly of Montreal, a barrister of the Middle Temple with a distinguished war record, is seeking reelection as a Liberal in South-east Southwark. Col. Alexander a member of the law firm of Davison, Wainwright, Alexander and Elder, Montreal, served in the war from 1914 to 1917 with the Canadian Expeditionary Force. He was a member of the Pensioners Board in 1915 and was Judge Advocate-General in 1917. During the war he was mentioned in despatches. He was in the Overseas Department of the Foreign Office in 1918 and was acting Commercial Secretary of the British Embassy at Washington, 1919-1920.

Mr. Andrew Hamilton Gault, formerly of Montreal, who organized, equipped and commanded the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, and won distinction in the war, during which he was severely wounded and was mentioned in despatches, is standing as the Conservative candidate in the Taunton Division of Somersetshire in opposition to the Liberal member, J. Hope Simpson, who won the seat last year from Sir Arthur Griffith-Boscawen, then Minister of Agriculture. Hamilton Gault, as President of Gault Bros. Company, Montreal, and a Director in several Canadian industries was widely known in a business way before the war. Col. Gault was born in England.

CORNS lift right off

Doesn't hurt a bit! Drop a little "Freezone" on an aching corn, instantly that corn stops hurting, then shortly you lift it right off with fingers. Truly!

Your druggist sells a tiny bottle of "Freezone" for a few cents, sufficient to remove every hard corn, soft corn, or corn between the toes, and the calluses, without soreness or irritation.

Perlican Victim in Cruel Drama

OTTAWA, Nov. 23—(Montreal Star)—Down by the roaring sea, an interesting little drama is being enacted with the lively Atlantic ocean as the stage and the desolate craft, the Pelican, as the downtrodden heroine. The most tragic feature of the affair is the woe of reputation sustained by that vessel, for it is a sad degradation from the position of a "scrappy" little unit of His Majesty's Navy (a composite tugboat to be exact) to a derelict barge, whose last resting place barely escaped being the inhospitable shore of Sable Island.

More than that, this craft, now harmless and unable to utter a protest, has just been dragged through the waves to North Sydney, C.B., in an enlightening race for salvage rights. Into what new and resplendent form she may be transformed after salvage remains to be seen.

This vessel, bought from the British Admiralty by F. Bannin, head of the North American Fur, Hide and Metal company of St. John's, Newfoundland, was being towed down the coast of Nova Scotia when she parted company with her tug and was abandoned. She finally ran ashore off Sable Island.

Officials of the Marine and Fisheries Department rescued her, brought her into safety and anchored her. A tug owned by the St. John Drydock company, arrived at the island and entered into negotiations for her salvage by towing her to Halifax or some other convenient port.

No agreement was reached but two nights ago she disappeared in tow of that tug. Officials of the Marine Department received word from agents of the St. John Drydock company, looking to an even division of the salvage money.

The Government has advised them that when the Pelican is delivered to the Government it will be ready "to talk business" about salvage. The Canada shipping act provides that any vessel or goods wrecked on Sable Island comes into the possession of the Government and is then to be disposed of to the best advantage of its real owner.

The Pelican, according to the records, or absence of records in the National Defence Department, is a real veteran of the British Navy for the only "Pelican" on record was in the British Navy in 1798. It is not suggested that this wood and iron vessel is that old one, but it still remains to be shown when and how she got into the British Navy for it was from the Admiralty that Mr. Bannin bought her and transformed her into a barge.

Meeting his aged sister, Mrs. Susan McRae of Emerson, Man., for the first time in his life was the extraordinary experience of Frederick Day of 1 Lafayette avenue, Chelsea, recently.

Mr. Day, who is 61, returned this week from Manitoba, where he passed three weeks with relatives, making the long trip especially to greet his sister, Susan, 80 years his senior. The greeting of brother and sister, a touching one, was a source of great happiness to the long-separated pair.

Distance prevented, Commenting on the remarkable fact that he had never before seen his sister, although she is 81, Mr. Day said: "You see, it was like this: Susan left our old home in Burlington, N.H., for Prince Edward Island when she married Kenneth McRae in November, 1880. That was two months before I was born. Staying there about a year, she then went to Manitoba, where she has lived for 60 years. I came to Massachusetts, and that's the reason we never met. Distance prevented, that's all.

"Before starting on my long journey a month ago, I telegraphed Susan I was coming to visit her. Later I learned her daughter-in-law got the message, but was afraid to show it to the aged woman, for fear it would cause a shock. Since the death of a relative, whose passing was heralded

There is Much Anxiety Over Children's Colds

WE do not mind so much having colds ourselves, for we imagine we can tell when they are getting serious and apply the remedy.

But when the children cough it is different. Especially does the sharp, metallic cough of croup send a thrill through the mother's nervous system.

The trouble is the child does not realize the danger, cannot describe the trouble, and all depends on the prompt action of his elders.

Why not be on the safe side by always keeping Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine on hand for use in case of emergency?

Croup and bad colds usually develop in the night, when it is not convenient to send for treatment, even if you are within reach of a drug store.

Being pleasant to the taste, gentle and soothing in action, and composed of simple ingredients of well-known medicinal value, this medicine is especially suited for children, as a relief from coughs, colds, croup, bronchitis, sore throat, whooping cough, etc.

In very many thousands of homes it is the old favorite treatment which has proven its exceptional value so many times that it is depended upon absolutely.

Next to knowing what to use, the most important point is to apply the treatment promptly, and this is why we emphasize the necessity of keeping Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine on hand at all times. For this reason it is well to get in the way of buying the large, family-size bottle. This ensures an adequate supply.

At the Casino.

"FUN AT THE RACES"

In the two act comedy, "Fun at the Races," presented last night at the Casino Theatre, the Broadway Folies, appear to have captured the popular fancy. Playing before a crowded house, continuous applause greeted the performers and many turns were encored. Like "Miss Manhattan," "Fun at the Races" has no plot. Nevertheless, it was interesting and created no end of laughter. The scene is set at Saratoga. Two Tourists, Izzy Cohen from Klondyke and Hicks Hickey from California seek accommodation at an hotel. The landlady, Mrs. Dorchester, (Miss Edna Richards) being deaf, is obliged to frequently use an ear trumpet to carry on the conversation. The misunderstandings that ensue bring forth no end of laughter. The real fun begins when Izzy and Hicks, back a horse which "scratches." During act one there are some exceptionally good choruses. "Sweetly Went Away," by Miss Mack, and the "Tobasco Octette" was encored as was also "Walk Jeanie Walk," by Miss Travis and the Octette. Miss Edna Richards was also heard to advantage in "A Kiss in the Dark." Following a ten minutes intermission, the second act proved, if anything, more entertaining than the first. The two comedians, Messrs. Goldman and West, in their encounter with suffragettes at a meeting was a specialty well worth seeing. In this turn Miss Harriet Bandle and Miss Bonnie Mack were very good. The climax of the show was the sale of a mechanical doll to a corporation. Miss Pauline Travis appeared in a male impersonation, and as on her appearance in "Miss Manhattan," she proved a favorite. The stage settings, music by the orchestra, and general make up of the Company was up to a high standard. Fun at the races will be repeated to-night, and for the first half of next week "Follies of the Orient" will be presented. Before the finale last night it was announced that the Company intends introducing a mother's show. A special room under the care of a nurse will be provided, where the mothers can leave their children whilst they attend the performance.

The New Columbia has a Better, Quieter Motor. The inside of a Grafonola (the "works" you can't see) is its most vital part. It must be smooth-running, long-wearing and free from noise.

The New Columbia motor runs with absolute regularity and accuracy. It is made of finest steel. Its bearings are entirely bronze and brass; its gears are bevelled and machined so that gear meets gear without a whisper, and when its finely-tempered Steel springs expand, the action is as regular as the swinging of a pendulum, and as quiet as the ticking of a finely jewelled watch.

The New Motor is provided with an oiling system easy to reach and unfailingly effective. Each motor is run for hours, thoroughly tested and inspected before it goes into its cabinet.

The New Columbia has an automatic start and stop. A brand new patent feature for your convenience. The motor starts when the tone-arm is moved over to place the needle on the record. The record stops revolving automatically when the music stops, no matter what the length of the record! You can put on a record and go upstairs or into the next room, finish the dance, or keep your comfortable seat, knowing that when the music stops the record will no longer revolve. In 10,000 times, by actual test, it has never failed to operate.

The New Columbia Grafonola differs from all other machines because it has a more refined, mellow, resonant quality of tone. The things you didn't like about talking machines have been eliminated. There is no nasal noisiness nor strident screechiness in the tone of the New Columbia. It is absolutely true to international pitch.

The New Columbia Reproducer faithfully reproduces all ranges of vocal and instrumental tones. It plays all records better. Records played upon it do not have that occasional blare of excessive vibration or rattle known to talking machine experts as "blast." A patented, exclusively Columbia, spring "Shock-absorber" on the new Reproducer, takes up all excessive vibration, and eliminates that defect of yesterday's machine.

The New Columbia has a patented Tone-control. Each model (including the beautiful consoles) has the "Organ-pipe" tone control leaves, which throw the tone freely and fully instead of straining it through interrupting fabric or lattice-work.

Hear a New Columbia to-day in our Store. It will be a revelation to you to hear how beautifully and truthfully the New Columbia reproduces the music you love. Let us play for you the music you love best, vocal, orchestral or dance selections. Observe the glorious purity of tone. Notice the entire absence of annoying "shrilling." Compare the rendition with that of any other instrument. Your most critical tests will convince you that the New Columbia has actually eclipsed all previous talking machine achievements. YOU WILL WANT ONE FOR YOUR HOME.

A Record to be Proud of

INSURANCE ONE OF THE BUILDERS OF CIVILIZATION.

Then came the disastrous Chicago fire of 1871. On the night of October 8th of that fateful year, a restless cow kicked a lantern, set fire to the stable which was located on the West Side of Chicago, and the now historic flames, urged by a strong gale, rapidly invaded the North Side of the city, and began devouring that wooden, combustible section.

So intense was the heat that in some instances stone was observed to disintegrate and crumble even more rapidly than wood was consumed. About nine-tenths of the buildings of the North Side were destroyed, the fire raging fiercely for twenty-eight hours and destroying property covering a total of 1,244 acres. The fire marshal estimated the total loss at $190,536,500. Fully 17,450 buildings were destroyed.

On the morning of October 10th, while the fire was still raging, a crowd of white-faced Chicago men gathered on the lawn in front of a residence in Lake Forest, a North Shore suburb of Chicago. It was the residence of William Warren, The Liverpool and London and Globe's general agent at Chicago at the time of the fire. The men assembled on his lawn were holders of policies in his company. The properties of many of them had been completely swept away, and their faces were drawn with anxiety. One question was emboded heavily in their minds, and they hardly dared ask that question. They had come to find out what proportion of the losses The Liverpool and London and Globe would be able to pay. When William Warren opened the door, an elderly man, whose possessions had been literally wiped out by the fire, was the first to accost him.

"I've got only one thing left in the world," he declared pitifully, "and that's The Liverpool and London and Globe."
"Then you're just as safe as if you had every dollar of the amount of your policies in your pocket right now," answered the general agent quietly. "The Liverpool and London and Globe Insurance Co. will meet all of its obligations to the last dollar."
The calm reply had elements of magic in it, and its effect was instantaneous. Then and there was initiated the spirit with which Chicago, to the amazement of the whole world, was to rebuild in record time and with invincible ardor.

Harbor Grace Notes.

The funeral of the late Mr. Clarence Taylor took place on Sunday afternoon, to the Methodist Church, where service was held. It was very largely attended and in the procession, they walked a representative of the C.B.S. Society, of which deceased was a member. Rev. Mr. Harris performed the last sad rites, and interment was made in the Methodist cemetery. The sympathy of the whole community goes out to the bereaved family.

The friends here of Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Crossman, St. John's, regret to learn of the passing of their beloved daughter, Vera Morel, at the early age of 22 years, which occurred on Sunday last, and extend to the family deepest sympathy in their hour of sorrow.

Miss Lizzie Downing spent last week-end in the city and returned home by Monday night's train.

Miss Ida McRae, who has been visiting Canada for the last few weeks returned to town again on Monday. Her many friends are pleased to see her looking so well after the trip, and trust that it has been most enjoyable.

Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Butt, of Bay Roberts, spent the week-end here.

Entertainment is being held on Friday evening in aid of the above.

Mr. Ed Quinn, who has been on the West Coast attending to his Agency business, returned to town last week on a visit to his home.

Dame Rmour says we are to have a "Movie" here shortly, and from what we can gather same is to commence next week, at the British Hall. As there is so very little offering in the amusement line during the winter months, no doubt a "nickel" would be welcomed, especially by the young folks.

The Ladies Aid of the Methodist Church are holding their annual sale of work this week in Coughlan Hall. Last night (Wednesday) the affair was very well attended, and the net sum of $240.00 realized as the proceeds for the evening. And we trust that the ladies will be fortunate in securing another large sum to-night (Thursday). Plain and fancy work, as well as candy and ice cream were for sale, while excellent meat teas were served, and all who were present put in a very pleasant evening. The different tables were very tastefully and artistically decorated, and indeed worthy of special mention.

Mr. H. Hinton, Supt. of the Imperial Cable Co. here, who went to the city on Thursday last, came in by Saturday night's train. He was accompanied by his son, Eric, who was a passenger by the S.S. Sackem on her last trip to St. John's. The latter was en route to Newfoundland from England by the schr. Jean Dunsdon, and was taken off with the crew when she had to be abandoned. Mr. Hinton has had a thrilling experience, having been rescued just in the nick of time. We welcome him to our town.

Mrs. T. Jones, accompanied by her five children, went out by Tuesday's express en route to New York, where they will make their home in the future, and to which place the good wishes of their friends follow them.

Mr. Warren Goodwin went to St. John's on Monday and returned the following day.—COR.
