WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 18TH, 1903

—From the Chicago Daily News we copy the following brief editorial article on trade relations between the U. S. and Canada. It is interesting as an exposition of the subject as now regarded by a large section of the people of the republic:

"The action taken by the Illinois Manufacturers' Association Tuesday evening in adopting resolutions calling for reciprocity with Canada as well as with Cuba presents another significant warning which the devices of high protection would do well to consider.
The Illinois Manufacturers' Association will hardly be accused of partisanship or of being lacking in regard for business interests."

"Therefore in its commercial relations with Canada this country has followed the narrow and shortsighted theory that the American producer need not particularly mind the restrictions of trade between the two countries as long as a protective tariff will eliminate Canadian goods from the field of competition. Neither the welfare of the American consumer nor the ultimate self-interest of the producer has been considered as weighing against the opportunity to make immediate gains under protective tariffs.
It is unquestionably true that the effect of the tariff has been to keep Canadian goods out of the Canadian market while Canada still remains a liberal buyer of our exports. But as Mr.
Carlson, a member of the Canadian parliament, pointed out in his speech before the Manufacturers' Association, these conditions will not be allowed to continue indefinitely. "Either the tariff wall of the United States will be materially lowered or the Canadian wall will be much higher." The Canadians will retaliate and the reasons impelling them to undertake retaliation are growing more cogent every day."

"Canada finds itself deprived, as a free trader, of the opportunity to enter into fair trading relations with the nation with which naturally and logically, it should deal most freely.
If these conditions are maintained, it will close the door to this country and turn to Great Britain for its trade and its markets, availing itself of the scheme of preferential and retaliatory tariffs which the British government now proposes to adopt."

—Reports of men being killed or wounded by being mistaken for deer or other game may be found in nearly every newspaper at this season. These fatalities occur largely in Maine, but frequently crop out in New Brunswick and sometimes in our own province, where a woman was lately wounded by a partridge hunter. Recent reports tell of a hunter, or an idiot, that shot at a guide because his yellow moccasins were the color of a deer; another who shot his own son because the white spot on his arm looked through the bush like the white tail of a deer. In most of these instances the acts are those of criminal carelessness and should be followed by severe punishment. For men to go into woods known to be full of people as well as game, and make a practice of shooting at every bush that shakes, or every glimpse that tells there is something living concealed so as to be unrecognizable to the hunter as to be unrecognizable to life that is dangerous under any circumstances.
Stringent laws should be enacted and enforced to the letter to prevent what in many instances might be a well laid plan of murder rather than an accident."

—The ambition to navigate the air seems to be strong in France and there is the great contest and there also, there seems to be the greatest possibility of success being attained.
On Friday last Pierre Lebaudy made an aerial voyage from Moisson to Paris, a distance in a direct line of thirty miles. A strong wind caused the airship to tack to make up the leeway, so that the whole distance sailed was equal to sixty miles.
The ship was propelled by a 40 h.
p. motor and carried two men. After reaching Paris it circled the Eiffel Tower and settled on one of the great squares of the city. While this performance had its limitations it was nevertheless in the direction of advance and holds out the hope to the present generation that it may yet sail the blue above as well as the blue below.

—The Annapolis Royal Board of Trade is making laudable efforts to ward promoting some system or compact for the protection and propagation of our forests.
With this end in view they have invited a number of prominent lumbermen and others interested to meet at Annapolis on the 3rd of Dec., to discuss the situation and arrive if possible at a solution. A banquet will be given the delegates at the Queen Hotel. The question that will be up before the A. R. B. of T. and their guests on this occasion is one of grave importance to the province, and we trust will be fraught with results.

—The Colombian government is said to be rushing troops to the Isthmus of Panama to quell the revolt there.
The people of the Isthmus, feeling secure in the protection offered them by the United States, consider this attempt as a good joke, or possibly a scheme on the part of the government to quiet the clamor and discontent of the people and to intimidate the leaders of the threatened revolt at the capital. It is also possible that they are ignorant of the attitude assumed by the United States, and are confident of subduing the revolutionists in Panama.

—A well authenticated story comes to us from just outside the limits of Annapolis County of another unfortunate man gone to his death from drinking wood alcohol.
The tragedy of the case is intensified by the fact that the spirit drunk was taken from a quantity from which a party was preparing a patent medicine. The bare facts point a double moral.

—An Ottawa despatch Monday night announces that Sir Wilfrid Laurier has returned from Quebec and it is believed in consequence that there will be an immediate dissolution and elections. There have been several Cabinet conferences and it is expected the decision will be for an election.

Local and Special News.

—Fresh oysters at Mrs. A. J. Weir's.
—J. W. Beckwith is headquarters for kid gloves.
—The old schoolhouse is being removed this week and it will be a satisfaction to get an unobstructed view of the fine brick structure now doing duty in its stead.

—Berry sets and chamber sets for sale.
—A large and brilliant meeting was seen in St. John's Bay Friday evening, its reflection being so bright as to frighten the timid. It was also visible in New Brunswick.

—A large assortment of new corsets opened this week at J. W. Beckwith's.
—About twenty-five of the Italians who have been working on the M. & Y. B. Ry. have been removed to points farther east. Over three miles from the station east is ready for the ties.

—A fine lot of cleaned currants, raisins and citron, received.

—The whistles in the factories of Hicks & Stone and Beeler and Peters have not been sounded for some days owing to the severe illness from brain trouble of Miss Alice Cunningham, the daughter of J. P. Cunningham, the baker.

—Dr. Armstrong's garden, which has been a source of great pleasure not only to himself, but many of his friends this season, is still yielding blossoms of the beautiful Shirley poppy, whose cheerful hues are especially appreciated at this dull season.

—A few dozen self sealing jars left at Shipley's.

—Now is the time to purchase that new carpet at J. W. Beckwith's, while the special discounts are on.

—Adj. and Mrs. Knight, of the S. A., will conduct special meetings in the Foster Hall, Queen St., Saturday evening and Sunday p. m., and night, the 21st and 22nd. The Adj., who is a wonderful trombone player, will play several solos at the meetings.
The S. A. officers promise a treat, especially to the lovers of music.

—See J. W. Beckwith's overcoat for men and boys.

Trade has arranged for a dinner, at the Queen Hotel, on Thursday, December the third, to meet the delegates of the timber owners of western Nova Scotia. Cards for this dinner are for sale by the secretary of the Board of Trade, at Allen's Drug Store, Spectator.

—The Ladies of St. James congregation will hold a sale of aprons in the Sunday-school room on Wednesday afternoon next. Light refreshments will also be on sale. Doors will be open at four o'clock, and no admission fee will be charged. The proceeds of the social will be devoted to the furnace fund.

—The Clarence Shafter arrived at Annapolis on the 12th from New York. She will be loaded by Fickel & Mills with lumber for the West Indian. Coming from the West Indies to New York, she experienced heavy weather, lost both topmast and her main boom. She will go on the rocks for repairs.

—The apple crop of the Annapolis Valley has received no small attention this season, but apples are not the only products of the valley. There are about 1200 bushels of turneps, 400 bushels of mangolds, 500 bushels of potatoes and 500 bushels of oats, in addition to his apples.

—Edward Nicholson, seventy years of age, of Liverpool, N. S., one day last week attempted to thaw out a stake of dynamite by holding it over the stove. It accidentally dropped from his hand and exploded, tearing his left hand off at the wrist and blowing his stove into fragments. The windows of the room were blown out and two of the other three occupants of the room were seriously injured.

—The amount of cider up to date pressed out at the Graves vinegar factory is placed by the manager at 75,000 gallons. The mill is running night and day and has sufficient quantity of apples on hand to run as long as the weather will permit. At the Annapolis Valley vinegar factory the output is placed at 70,000 gallons, with apples on hand to bring the season's output to 100,000 gallons of vinegar.

—Services have been regularly held in the Presbyterian church since the departure of the late pastor, Rev. H.
S. Davison for Germany, the pulpit being filled by visiting clergymen. Rev.
Mr. Melvor, of Halifax, who conducted the services several weeks, has returned to the city. Rev. Mr. Ramsey, of Middleton, conducted service last Sunday and Rev. J. Stewart, of Shelburne, is to occupy the pulpit for the next two Sundays.

—Among this year's prodigies in the line of fruit bearing may be noted a young tree planted by Mr. Rupert Bank on his farm in Clarence, in April last. The top was cut back to a couple of twigs. A month later a bunch of blossoms appeared on one of these and five little apples followed.
All of these fell off one, which continued to grow until past the couple of weeks ago. The apple is of the Wagner variety and is a fairly good specimen.

—Moses S. Hall, one of the oldest and best citizens of Fredericton, N. B., died in that city on the 11th inst.
The deceased was a native of Granville, N. S., and thirty-five years ago went to Fredericton and engaged in the stationary business, which he conducted until two years ago, when failing health compelled him to retire. He was a deacon on the Gibson Baptist church, a strong liberal and an earnest temperance advocate. He was in his sixty-ninth year and is survived by his widow.

THE REST CURE AT HOME. (From the Family Doctor.)

We hear a good deal of the "rest cure" as practiced at various institutions, such, for example, as nursing homes and private hospitals, and many impracticable people have asked, "Why not try the cure at home?"

COLD WATER FOSTERS VITALITY. "Habitual colds are due to an ill-kept skin on the outside and dyspeptic mucous membranes on the inside, coupled with catarrhs," said a well-known physician.

TO REMOVE ODOR OF MUTTON. This recipe is an original and tested one from an old cook, who made use of it for her own personal benefit.

FEARED A SEPARATION. Her father had read her the parable of the sheep and the goats at the day of judgment. She made no comment, but that night a sound of weeping came from her room.

THE KITTEN'S FATE. Lady Visitor (to little girl) - "What became of the little kitten you had here once?"

PROMPT RELIEF. A medical man tells the following story of an old negro woman who called him in to treat a little child.

NOT LOOKING FOR APPLAUSE. "Don't let my caring this chicken disturb your conversation," said the young husband, red and perspiring, to the company at table.

Jokers' Corner

RAN WHOLE FARM, BUT THAT WASN'T ALL.

(New York Mail and Express.) I stopped to get a glass of milk the other day at a Jersey farmhouse head of the establishment, who had six children playing round.

"I run this whole farm," she remarked, in a tone which indicated her willingness to resign.

"How many acres have you?" I enquired. "A hundred and forty."

"Got any stock?" "Ten head of cattle, two cows, six hogs and work horses for the place."

"And you run the whole business?" I asked. "Indeed I do; every hide and hair of it," she sighed.

"Don't you hire some help?" "Of course, but I ain't hired help that takes the load off one's body."

"There was some philosophy in that, and I paused a minute. "Haven't you got a husband?"

"I think so, sympathetically. "Yes," she said, "that you see, I have to run him, too."

THE NEW MOTIVE POWER. A coter stopped outside a chemist's shop with a rather recalcitrant mule.

"Mister," said the peary one, "can you give that 'ere animal summat to malk 'im go-whee?"

"The man of poisons smiled, went inside and brought out a large bottle of liquid ammonia. He withdrew the stopper, and placed the neck of the vessel underneath the first one's nasal organ.

"Long, deep sniff, and one gasp of twenty as-power, then off galloped Noddy as though his Satanian majesty was after him with a thick stick.

"The coter, in stipulation, gazed at the rapidly retreating form of his assistant friend, then anxiously inquired of the chemist.

"Say, cookey, is that 'ere stuff expensive?" "No," responded the gentleman designated by that facetious title.

"Then give it a move on yer 'an give us two sniffs. I've got to catch that 'ere mule!"

SPURGEON REBUKED. Mr. Spurgeon was once travelling in a railway carriage, the only other occupant of which was a maiden lady of somewhat severe aspect.

"The next night the same performance was repeated, and again the maiden inquired of the gentleman who was seated next to her.

"It's the goats. I'm afraid about the goats." "Didn't I tell you, dear that you were a little lamb?"

"Oh," she sobbed, "I'm not crying about myself, but I'm afraid you may be a goat!" - Brookly'n Life.

THE LADY VISITOR (to little girl) - "What became of the little kitten you had here once?"

"The kitten died," she replied. "A poor little thing. I'm not crying about myself, but I'm afraid you may be a goat!" - Brookly'n Life.

"No, was it drowned?" "No!" "Lost?" "No!" "Poisoned?" "No!"

"Then whatever became of it?" "It grew up into a cat."

PROMPT RELIEF. A medical man tells the following story of an old negro woman who called him in to treat a little child.

"Doctah," she said, "de chill hab swalkered a pint or ink." "Have you done anything to relieve him?" asked the doctor. "Yes," replied the mother. "I made 'im eat five sheets ob blitlin' paper, doctah. Was dat right?"

NOT LOOKING FOR APPLAUSE. "Don't let my caring this chicken disturb your conversation," said the young husband, red and perspiring, to the company at table.

even better if you lay on talking and pay no attention to me."
