Public Meeting of Kings County Board of Trade

We gave a reference in last issue to the important meetings of the Kings County Board of Trade, held a week ago, and give herewith a more detailed report from the Academic Orchardist.

President Woodworth was in the chair, and Professor Cummins was the first speaker. He spoke of the Brown Tail Moth and the ravages which it would make if allowed to exist, and spoke of the efforts to fight it in the province. During the last year not one nest had been found in Kings County. He spoke of many other pests which were disastrous to fruit growers and then spoke on fruit growing on the farm at Truro, and the establishing of a fruit experimenting station in Kings County. He thought the people should memorialize both federal and local government to have this fruit station established at once. The failure in apples last year had taught us that we must get rid of blights and defects. Where a good system of outlaws prevails people could do as well here as in any country.

A discussion then followed introduced by Mr. P. Innes, on the location of the station and Mr. Albert Elderkin, of Wolfville, stated that he had a letter from Sir Frederick Borden stating that the Elderskin farm would be granted by the government but did not state when.

Mr. Howard Bligh was the next speaker and gave a valuable fund of information in reference to the fruit trade, and his observations while in London. He read most of the letter he sent us and published in the Orchardist a fortnight ago, and supplemented this valuable information by answering many questions. He spoke of the great loss to growers by not having a satisfactory system of packing fruit. Nonpareils, he said, had seen their best day as Australian and Tasmanian apples competed strongly with them. He advocated cool storage, not cold storage, and said we must make every effort to obtain new markets, and pack to suit these markets. He said we had to cater to the buyer, and the Ben Davis would not sell now, the English say they "won't cook, boil or fry." We have made most serious mistakes by packing Gravenstein and other fruit before they are ripe. This year apples opened so green that they demoralized the market and it never recovered. He said he was satisfied that the auctioneers did their best to get prices but the buyers were combined.

Evening Session.
Meeting opened at 7.30 with a large attendance.

Letter was read from the Secretary of the Maritime Board in reference to the annual meeting in Halifax. A. E. McMahon, Howard Bligh and P. Innes were appointed a committee to prepare subjects to bring before the above Board.

A resolution was presented in reference to tax of $1.63 a barrel on our apples going to Germany and after a heated discussion by many present, was carried.

A nominating committee was named consisting of H. Bligh, C. O. Allen and P. Innes to select delegates to go to Ottawa. The following were named: J. E. Shanfer and E. J. Elliott for Annapolis County; W. O'Brien and Matthew Saxton for Hants County; W. W. Pines, Capt. C. O. Allen and Howard Bligh for Kings County.

M. G. DeWolfe moved the following committee to arrange for the annual Board Excursion in June to the Provincial Farm, Truro: The President, Warden McMahon, C. O. Allen, A. B. North, J. A. Kinsman, with power to add to their number.

P. Innes reported for the committee in the interview with S. S. Cummins re rotates, report received.

A. S. Barnstead, Secretary of Immigration and Industries, then addressed the Board on farm and domestic help. It was of most interesting address and listened to with close attention. Mr. Barnstead is a fluent speaker and has his work well in hand.

The Call of the Sea

NOVA SCOTIA MARINER, AFTER YEARS' ASHORE, PREPARES TO EMBARK AGAIN.

Hunt high or low among men in every walk of life and you can find a more interesting character being found than a real old salt, whose life from boyhood has been spent "fore the mast." He never gives up the sea, and, though he may rest on land for years, give him an opportunity and he will sail again, to finish his life career with old Neptune.

Such is the character of Captain David M. Chute, a ship-builder well known all over the country, he has written a Lynn, Mass., correspondent, and about to embark on fruit growing on the farm at Truro, and the establishing of a fruit experimenting station in Kings County.

Today, although well along the allotted span of man's earthly career, he shows but little the marks of "Pathos: Time, and yields the hammer and saw with a strength that many younger men would be envious of, while engaged in finishing as trim a 30-foot schooner rigged craft as has ever been put out from this city.

His first experience as a seafarer was when he shipped before the mast with "Old Captain Holden Farnsworth" of Bridgetown, a merchantman in West Indian service, and for about 12 years followed that line. It was on his maiden trip that he got his introduction to old Neptune, a story he delightfully tells. Father Neptune came aboard and of course as a novice, "Chute had to be initiated. He was down for a shave, but before they got through the boy was on the other leg, and Old Neptune was glad to let the stocky little lad go across the line a free man. While in that service he touched at Rio de Janeiro, St. John's, Barbados, Martinique, Antigua and other Indian ports, bringing home rich cargoes.

When the Civil War broke out, Chute enlisted in the Union service, and was assigned to transport duty. His was the famous transport White sails, from New York, and carrying stores to the Southern States. Later, after leaving the merchants trade he went to the banks fishing. It was here, in 1853, that he was made of a fishing schooner, one of an entire fleet that outride the great storm of that year. For three days no lights were seen and the vessel in the fleet "numbered" in all about 100, went down to the bottom. His ship was expected to go to its fate with the rest, but was miraculously saved, although it turned completely over on its beam ends during the storm.

During the famous blockade at Charleston harbor, he was in the thick of the fight, and at Fort Boyal he received injuries to his head from the noise that have resulted in a permanent deafness. Retiring from the sea, Chute has worked as a boss ship carpenter in this city for some little time past. But the call of the sea has been in his ears all the while however, and the spirit of unrest has been with him so that each board and nail in the new craft, which he is now building, brings a contented smile, that seems to denote one step nearer his heart's desire.

The new boat of which he will be captain is 30 x 9 feet, constructed of spruce planking, and oak frame. The cabin will be sheathed in hard pine, and will have accommodations for a crew of eight. There will be two double bunks, and two single bunks, with a stowaway for six besides.

So strange a man of very few words, but let him see that you are interested in his work and his tongue loosens rapidly.

One time, while on a voyage, Captain Chute saved the lives of his crew and his vessel. They were entering port over the shoals of a high anchor, but he stood over the men, holding a rope in his hand, and threatened to kill the first who dared touch the anchor. Had they accomplished this, the vessel would have drifted on the rocks and all been lost. His escape from death began in early boyhood when, in a dory, being towed across the Bay of Fundy, he was captured, and was in the water for half an hour before being rescued.

Why the Apple Trade Collapsed

Wrong Methods of Buying and Packing Caused Disastrous Failure in the Apple Trade.

(Toronto Globe.)

The apple report which a Liverpool firm cabled on April 11th was as follows: Dominion, very fair condition, market depressed; greenings, 7s. to 8s.; seconds, 7s. to 8s.; Sides, 12s. 6d. to 18s.; seconds, 10s. to 12s.; 12s. to 18s.; 11s. to 18s.; seconds, 8s. to 12s.

The first part of the report is satisfactory enough. The former Dominion firm, from Portland to Liverpool, landed its apples in fairly good condition. Sometimes "bad condition," "damaged," "bad condition," "rotted," "badly frosted."

The remainder of the report, however, is very discouraging. There was apparently little demand for the apples when they were offered at auction in the Liverpool Fruit Exchange. The prices obtained indicated a loss to the shippers of not less than $1.50 a barrel.

Why our apples sometimes arrive in the old country in a damaged condition, and why, even when good and sound, they sometimes sell at unprofitable prices, and why year after year low grade apples are shipped at all, are questions of wide interest. They concern the farmers who grow the apples, the dealers who buy and ship them, the railways and steamships that carry them, and the agents and retailers who sell them.

Apples are with an important commodity of export. Our climate seems particularly well adapted to their growth and development. At their best, apples grown in Ontario are not excelled in flavor, quality or appearance by any other. It is obvious that the whole country is interested in the prosperity of the apple trade.

But the season of 1907-08, now at its close, was the most disappointing and disastrous in the history of the trade. Never were prospects so bright, and never were the apples so good, as they were at the beginning of the season's business, and never did a season close with more depressed markets and more disappointing returns.

Not was this unfortunate state of affairs brought about by any over-production on our part, or by any over-comply in our principal markets. The number of barrels shipped last season from American and Canadian ports fell short of 2,500,000, and this number does not exceed the average number of barrels shipped in any year ascribed to anything that occurred beyond our own borders.

The season began early, far too early for prudent business. Towards the end of June dealers became aware of a short crop in many of the States, and only a medium crop in the apple-growing Provinces. Some of the Western States reported almost a total failure. The situation greatly resembled that of two years before, when apple buyers all made money. Times were good, money was plentiful. Apples would be good property to get hold of; why not start in early and buy?

So it came about that by the middle of July, apple-growers throughout the country had all been canvassed by importunate buyers, eager by competing against one another. The growers were by no means unprepared. They had been reading the same stories of a shortage in the States, and the high prices that prevailed there. They were in a position to dictate equally high prices here, and they took full advantage of their position.

The manner of buying apples has greatly changed within the last few years. There was a time, not so very long ago, when the local apple buyer who was almost as distinct a person as in the section as the schoolmaster, would call on the farmers some time in September, take down their names in his book, mention the price of the apples would be, warn them to have the apples all picked and the barrels ready in good

How the Ill Deeds of a Carter Grew.

(Montreal Witness.)

The other day we told the story of one of our filthy lanes, today we give the three years' story of a field, or a large vacant site for building. This site is open, and it is surrounded by houses, principally of the respectable class. Three years ago, in the spring time, the grass used to show beautifully green then it was studded thickly with golden dandelions, then in their season there followed other beautiful denizens of the waste, such as the docks, the thistles, some butter-chickory, white or yellow, milk-thistle, and the golden-rods, the aster, and other "common" flowers—a refreshing procession throughout the open months of the year. The more that anyone would think of desecrating it, the more the boys and girls used to do it as a playground, but no one thought of desecrating it, any more than anyone would think of desecrating an English village green. One day, however, in the winter time a carter surreptitiously dumped a load of snow and road-scraps upon it. He was seen and threatened with prosecution by a householder, who was on his balcony, which overlooked the scene. Making a demure gesture, the carter whipped up his horse and galloped away, little knowing how the evil he had done would live after him and increase, to the detriment of beauty and the spread of pollution.

That initial heap of scrapings turned out to be an invitation to all wanderers, who had anything they wanted to dump, and they took full advantage of it. At first, they did it timidly, as if not quite sure of their rights, but by and by their boldness increased, until, finally, everybody accepted it as a matter of course, so matter where the carters chose to deposit or where. There were old building materials, ashes, mud, worst of all, worn-out roofing felt, loads of tomato and other garden refuse, and other accumulations in the sour vegetable line, and other even less attractive leavings were dumped all over the field as the spring, summer and autumn wore away. And all this did not take place without doing injury to the neighborhood. Even the resident who warned the first offender, was not immune. He began by throwing packages of vegetable peelings over the field, followed this up with the offal of poultry, and the trimmings of steaks and joints, and finally, he frankly dumped all his ashes and other "good riddances" within a step of the outside of the yard fence.

Other neighbors all around were not slow to do the same. At first they did it in the darkness of the evening, least that it was something not to boast about or parade too showily; but, as one after another took the same course, it soon, of course, became a matter of course. This spring and this is a bold assertion indeed, that in the city can be more vile than in this plot from end to end and from side to side. It is a real nuisance to health, besides being unsightly, disagreeable, but no one seems to care about it any more. The neighborhood's sense of decency is in a state of coma. Once or twice a day, stolid policemen encircle it, and their best—but what business is it of it is there!

It is hard to believe that our individuality has been born and reborn through the line of ancestry back to slow to do the same. At first they did it in the darkness of the evening, least that it was something not to boast about or parade too showily; but, as one after another took the same course, it soon, of course, became a matter of course. This spring and this is a bold assertion indeed, that in the city can be more vile than in this plot from end to end and from side to side. It is a real nuisance to health, besides being unsightly, disagreeable, but no one seems to care about it any more. The neighborhood's sense of decency is in a state of coma. Once or twice a day, stolid policemen encircle it, and their best—but what business is it of it is there!

The local buyer as a rule is an intermediary between the grower and the real purchaser. He is perhaps paid by the barrel for his work, and yields to the tendency to increase his pack, or, if he is on salary, and "lump" a few orchards. He wishes in order to justify his estimate, and vindicate his god-damned. As long as apples are bought in this way the proportion of inferior fruit to the pack will be altogether too great. There is no doubt that the inferior quality of the apples put on the market last year was the principal cause of the season's unsatisfactory business.

A Good Prize List

THAT FOR THE ST. JOHN EXHIBITION IS BETTER THAN EVERY OTHER CASH AND MORE CLASSES, SOME INFORMATION FOR EXHIBITORS.

The Prize List of the St. John Exhibition Association is now ready for its varied contents and the total value of the premium list—$15,000—the citizens of the Metropolitan City of New Brunswick propose to attract and hold the attention of exhibitors. It is quite evident that they know this is necessary to make the St. John Exhibition what it should be—the largest and best in the history of the province. Preparations with that end in view—to make the big show worth the attention and attendance of every one—are now in active progress. Each day sees some advancement toward that successful end. Looking over the Prize List, it is noted that there are some additional classes in the horses, which will enable many of the good animals hitherto barred to be placed on exhibition. There will be inducement to those who take a pride in the appearance of their turn-out—whether intended for business or pleasure—to enter into competition. For the first time in St. John Exhibitions, there will be a class for dry cows, which the farmer will appreciate, as it is not always possible to have the best animals freshen just at Exhibition time. All the dairy pure breeds, Ayrshire, Holstein, Jersey, Guernsey, etc., have been placed upon an equal basis. There will be special prizes given to the Ayrshire and Holstein and Short Horn Associations, and negotiations are now in progress to get a special judge for each class. A great importance has been given to dairy grades, by increasing the sections in that class. In sheep, also, the classes have been equalized, and the prizes for certain breeds of swine have been increased. To make the poultry show even more popular and attractive than it usually is, premiums will be offered for an increased number of varieties of birds such as the breeders have found profitable. There are additional prizes offered for different varieties of white cats, and the grain exhibit will be more attractive from the fact that inducements will be made for the farmers to show some grain in sheaf. The Exhibition buildings are being placed in the best of condition and every effort will be made to give accommodation to the big crowd of exhibitors expected. Amusement will not be forgotten. The best that can be had for this event will not be too good, and the management expect to make announcements from time to time of the attractive features secured for the St. John Exhibition, September 12th to 19th.

Fresh Air Treatment for Pneumonia

An authority on pulmonary diseases says—

"What has been said as to the avoidance of tuberculosis is equally applicable to pneumonia. In the home let the housecleaning be done so as to stir up as little dust as possible. Let the house wife use damp cloths instead of feather dusters, and in this way you will avoid dust, always from the street, and which is one of the most powerful agents for the spreading of pneumonia germs.

"And last, but by no means least, get just as much fresh air into your lungs as possible. The germ will die in an hour if exposed to fresh air and sunlight. If it were possible to get sunlight into the lungs, there would never be another case of pneumonia.

"The dark, stifling rooms and the foul and dusty streets of the city are the breeding places of the germ, and that accounts for its rarity in the country.

"The most advanced treatment of the disease is by the fresh air method, the same as in cases of consumption, and it is accomplishing wonders and completely shattering old theories.

"Formerly, when a patient had pneumonia, the room was tightly closed and the temperature kept up. We have been treating patients, and they have been treated in many hospitals, in tents and in the open air, with the thermometers sometimes at zero.

"The work of the commission, which is covering thoroughly all forms of diseases of the lungs, is continuing, and making great headway, and ultimately will be able absolutely to control all these fatal diseases."

Bridgetown Boy Called to Pastorale at Halifax.

(Halifax Herald.)

The Rev. Abner Newcombe, of Boston, who was recently called to the pastorate of the North Baptist church, preached therein to large congregations Sunday, abundantly fulfilling expectations. Mr. Newcombe is the possessor of a voice of once penetrating and sympathetic, and is fluent and forcible. His personality is attractive and the hope is generally expressed that he may see his way clear to accept the call of the congregation.

FINE HOTEL BURNED

AT PARROBORO.

Parroboro, May 13.—Broderick's Hotel, Parroboro, the widely known summer resort, was totally destroyed by fire today. The house was being prepared for the reception of tourists, and was had been kindled to dry some of the rooms. The fire is supposed to have originated in a defective flue that had not hitherto been discovered. It broke out when the workmen were at dinner, and had gained such headway before it was discovered that nothing could be done to save the building. The firemen saved the furniture on the first and second floors, but all the furniture on the third floor was destroyed. Mr. Broderick places his loss at ten thousand dollars. He had four thousand insurance on the house and one thousand dollars on the furniture. The loss will be severely felt by the town, as well as by the proprietor, as it brought a large number of visitors here every summer.

Good Advice

The following is from the Hantsport, N. S. Advance— People are coming home from the United States in numbers, and many are writing from there to friends here asking if there is anything to do here, for the times are so hard in the United States that they are, or shortly will be, out of work. Yes, we would say, there is lots to do here, come back to the land. Take the hands of the old people's hands and work them manfully. Farming will be better here in ten years than it is now. There is a market for all that can be raised, and sufficient help to raise it, and prices in the north. Come back to the land and be happy. You may not grow very rich in a very short time, but you will have you done so in the United States? We will guarantee that you will be better off here in ten years than you would be in the United States in the same time, and live in comfort and contented. Come back to the land.

DAIRYING VS. GRAIN RAISING

When you sell butter fat you are selling sunshine. When you sell grain you are selling the fertility of your soil. You harvest wheat and corn once a year. You harvest milk twice a day. The dairy farmer raises more grain and better grain and gets a higher price than anybody. The dairyman leaves his family a better farm than he got. The grain raiser does not.

A Gruesome Mystery

BODIES OF FIVE MURDERED PERSONS ARE UNIDENTIFIED. WOMAN IMPLICATED IN CRIME.

One of the most gruesome murder mysteries ever unthought came to light last week in Indiana, last week when the bodies of five persons, all of them having been murdered, were found in the yard of the home of Mrs. Tella Guinness, who with three of her children, was burned to death on the night of April 28.

So far only two of the bodies have been identified. These are Andrew Helgerson, who came to Laporte from his home in the United States, and a Chicago girl, who had been accepted by Mrs. Guinness. She was burned to death in the fire. It was stated had gone to Los Angeles to attend school. The other bodies were those of a man and of two children, apparently 12 years of age. The body of Helgerson was dismembered and the arms, legs, trunk and head were buried in different parts of the yard. It is believed by the authorities that Gut Lamphere, who has been under arrest since the fire of the Guinness home, on a charge of murdering Mrs. Guinness and her family, committed the Helgerson crime. Lamphere is a carpenter and the manner in which the body of Helgerson was dismembered leads to the belief that it was done by some body familiar with the use of a saw.

In some quarters it is believed that Mrs. Guinness may have known something of the murders of the five people, as it is not considered likely that so many could have been buried in her yard, without her, at some time, becoming familiar with the fact. It is known that Helgerson had loaned $1500 to Mrs. Guinness, and that he had another $1500 in his possession just prior to his death. It is considered probable that he was killed by Mrs. Guinness or by Lamphere, or by both of them, in order to procure the cash to pay and to avoid the necessity of repaying the loan he had made.

Lamphere, against whom a strong case of circumstantial evidence exists in connection with the burning of the Guinness home and the death of Mrs. Guinness and her three children, denies all knowledge of the bodies found recently. He said, however, on other occasions, that Mrs. Guinness was anxious to send him to an insane asylum because of his knowledge of her career.

It was current gossip, however, that Lamphere was insanely jealous of Mrs. Guinness and of Helgerson, and it is well known that the woman stood greatly in fear of him and had asked the police for protection. The search by which the bodies were found yesterday was instigated by John Helgerson, the brother of Andrew, who has always believed that his brother was murdered and that he had never gone to Norway as claimed by Mrs. Guinness and Lamphere. He had some reason to believe that earth in the yard and suggested to Sheriff Smutzer that an excavation be made to see if his brother's body could be found. It was dug up after a brief search. No identification of the other bodies found in the yard is expected for some time. It is considered probable, however, that they are those of people murdered with the knowledge of Mrs. Guinness for the purpose of securing money.

Jenny G. Guinness was a Chicago girl who was reared by Mrs. Guinness. When the girl disappeared in September, 1906, it was Mrs. Guinness who reported that she had come to the Los Angeles school. The theory is advanced that the girl area too much in connection with the death of Mrs. Guinness' husband, who she noticed some recently up-accumbed to wounds in the head four years ago. Mrs. Guinness stated that her husband's injuries were caused by a meat grinder falling on his head.

Lamphere, before the fire in the Guinness home, said that Mrs. Guinness was trying to get rid of him and she had sent to an insane asylum because he knew too much about her. The home of Mrs. Guinness, near Laporte, was destroyed by fire during the night one week ago. The bodies of the woman and her three children were found in the ruins. The children were Myrtle, aged 11, Lucy, aged 7, and Philip, aged 5 years. Joseph Maxwell, an employe, barely escaped from the burning house. The head of Mrs. Guinness was missing from the charred trunk. It has not been found.

Soon after the fire Roy Lamphere was arrested. He acknowledged that he knew of the fire, but said that he had only seen it as he passed the house at 9 o'clock in the morning on his way to work. He is alleged to have named Mrs. Guinness with his attention. When put through a "sweating" process his stories were so conflicting that he was held with one ball.

A Laporte, Ind., despatch states a complete solution of the mystery of the Guinness murder farm is expected within 48 hours. Officials who have been conducting the searches for victims, admit this fact today. The mystery, surrounding four of fourteen deaths which are known to have occurred at the place, is caused by the allegation that Ray Lamphere, farmer, set fire to the home of Mrs. Bell Guinness on April 28, and thereby caused the death of the woman and her three children. As to the ten murdered persons, whose bodies have been found, it is said they were poisoned at places, where the poison was purchased during the last eight years, have been found. Two knives and daggers, and surgeon's knife, which have been found in the ruins, show the victims were dismembered in the Guinness home.

WE'LL KEEP THE LITTLE FARM.

Well, Jane, I guess we'll keep the place, we've lived here, you and I upon this little farm so long, let's stay here till we die. You know I thought I'd sell it once, to Jones or Lesson Brown, and take the money we have saved and buy a house in town. But when the boys begin to swell and grass begins to grow, somehow it doesn't seem to me I ought to let it go. I love the crimson clover and the blue of waving corn. The quiet, balmy evening, and the noisy babble of the brook and laughter of the new mowers. The pink and snowy blossoms hanging on the apple trees. The chirping of the crickets and the humming of the bees. I love the summer's honey breath, the blushing buds of May, the teeming autumn rich with fruit, the scent of new mown hay, the noisy babble of the brook and laughter of the new mowers. The loving birds upon the heath and flocks upon the hill. And when I think of leaving all, it fills me with alarm. So, after all, I guess it's best to keep the little farm.

The Digby municipal council recently decided upon the erection of a new court house, and will probably begin work in the course of a few weeks. The building will be constructed of wood, and cost is estimated at $17,000. L. R. Fairn has been engaged as architect. The hall will be a separate building, with steel cells, and the latest devices in the way of sanitation. The building will be erected on the site of the present one, which is admirably located.

FLOWERS FOR THE LIVING

Some time ago, in conversation with a lady whose husband had passed from earth, we made the remark that he was very much beloved by his brethren. She answered: "Oh, I wish he could have known it, as it now appears, for he often thought of his wife, misunderstood by his brethren." "Thinking of this incident, and frequently seeing the process floral tributes which are presented to the memory of the dead, at their funerals, we have thought that whilst a full measure of such expression may be all right, and, like the precious sentiment poured out by Mary, may not be wasted, yet we might well afford to have less flowers for the dead and more for the living.

We have seen "darling mother" and "mother at rest" on such tributes, and we have wondered whether mother was often called during while she was living, or whether genuine and unselfish efforts were made to give the self-sacrificing mother opportunities for her life. The May Homiletic Review has the following:—"Two sisters, actresses, committed suicide in London some time since, because of abject poverty. At the funeral, there were some wreaths, any one of which cost enough to have relieved their wants several days, according to the rabid report of their obsequies. There are no more bitter tears shed over graves than those for words left unspoken and deeds left undone. We have no fault to find with the loving expressions made to the memory of the departed nor do we question their sincerity. We are only putting in a plea for more flowers for the living; a free expression of the affection we feel for them in our hearts. We are prone to allow our friends to take it, for granted that we appreciate and love them, when from our unobtrusive attitude they may wonder whether we appreciate them or not. Then let us bring to the living the roses. And the lilies we bind for the dead. And crown them with blessings and praise. Before the brave spirit has fled, as springs in the desert, as shade from the heat, to the soul of the toiler the words will be sweet."

Consented. Therefore, about an hour and a half later, when all was dark, the younger brother seemingly left the prison, and meeting the jailer told him that his brother preferred him to come back on the following day.

On the following morning the prisoner was unwell and kept his bed complaining of severe pain. By and by a letter was received from the younger brother, which the jailer according to order, opened, and found it was a note stating that the boy was unable to come until evening, as he also was unwell.

Preacher's Opinions

Rev. P. K. McRae, Forks Baddeck, C. B.: "I always count it a pleasure to recommend the Dr. Shoop Remedies to my parishioners. I believe there is nothing better for throat and lung troubles or weakness or run-down system. For speaker's sore throat I have found Psychology very beneficial."

Rev. W. H. Stevens, Paisley, Ont.: "Psychine seemed just the stimulant my system needed. I shall add my testimony as to its efficacy at every opportunity."

Rev. R. M. Browne, Amherst Head, N.S.: "I have often recommended Psychology since taking it myself, for it is a cure for the troubles you specify."

Rev. Chas. Stirling, Bath, N.B.: "I have used Psychology in my family; the results were marvellous. I have visited people who state that they never used it equal. I strongly recommend it."

Rev. J. S. I. Wilson, Maripolis, Ont.: "I have taken two bottles of Psychology and am pleased to say that I am greatly improved in health. I was troubled with my throat, but now I find it about restored to its normal condition. I find my work very much less tiring. I believe Psychology is all claimed for it."

The Mind's Power in the Cure of Bodily Ills.

Sermon on the Emmanuel Movement by Rev. Robert MacDonald of New York, which will be read with interest by his Many Friends in Annapolis County.

O, the power of the mind to control the life! I had a friend once who played false deliberately and desperately with this magnificent trust of life the wise Creator has entrusted to us all, and, wearied with the strife, he plunged himself into a suicide's grave. Was the world the disagreeable place he thought it? No, was public opinion against him as he imagined? No, were his employers disappointed and plotting to take from him his occupation and his bread? No, his employers loved him as a son. His townsmen were his friends. Everybody spoke well of him, and as for the world, that never was a sinner day than that on which the fool died was done. It was the mind that controlled the life. The day was dark to him for he saw it to be dark. His employers were against him because he thought them so. Public opinion pointed at him in scorn, because the mind, where sweet contentment should have reigned, and love of wife and child, and the respect of the community and the fair light of God's face, was morbid and diseased. Strange hallucinations held the mind in check, and at these heels stalked the demons of despair and wild the citadel. Friends talked with him and tried to explain away his wrong ideas, but it is as futile, the historian said: "When a man is possessed of a strong idea and a wrong idea he will not be reasoned with." The post-Sley's despairing man comes to our thought: "Come near and help me, I weave a chain I can't break. I am possessed with thoughts too evil and strong for one low human breast."

Oh, the mind must be fortified against despondency. High thoughts, rich thoughts must be "fed" till the mind is filled to the full and with so many that all lower thoughts be crowded out, else kept in the minority, the hopeless minority, as far as influencing the life is concerned.

The apostle James radical ground his teaching. "Let this mind be in you which was also in Christ Jesus." A mind thoroughly identified with the world's sorrows, but never made independent by them. A mind that is not the world's chief and bitterness, but its weariness of life entered at their heels. Be sure if you think of your life shall be but how the world shall look. A material mind, which is that of the majority of men, leaves material things above all else, and if he fails to gain these he becomes of all men most miserable. An intellectual man, that of a Darwin, a Spencer, a Huxley, a Carlyle, loves intellectual acquisition above all, and nothing can he think, compensate for the loss of that. A spiritual mind, that of a Ladd, a Sylvanara, a Wesley, a Moody, a Phillips Brooks cares little whether business is good or bad, whether stocks are up or down, whether the banks are paying three per cent. or ten.

Oh, the uplift to the mind of Christ for it fills us with the consciousness of God's presence. There is the preventive and curative power for disease. Man's greatest cure is self-consciousness when it is allowed to be a barrier to God. All sin springs from that limitation. Sensitiveness, enviousness, hatred, nervousness, worry, melancholy, hysteria, all have their rootage there. It is self-consciousness that makes what Dr. Weir Mitchell calls the whole man ill.

Our best have owned the rare gift of sympathy its lifting power. To trust that wise consultant called the heart. There are among us those who happily please. To think our business is to get disease. And all unknowing, lack this lesson still. "Tis not the body, but the man that's ill. Self-consciousness makes the whole man ill. God-consciousness makes the whole man well. The one is being tied up to the world with its friction, its worry, its stultification, its disease and death. The other opens us up to the universal, the eternal, lifting us with a sense of its largeness and buoyancy, wherein is all good cheer and health. The one shuts us up in the cellar of our discontent, where the outlook is dark, the air foul, the surroundings depressing. The other allows us to inhabit the highest, sunniest chamber of the soul, into which the inspirations of God flash vitality that can be carried down through every

ANNAPO LIS VALLEY FRUIT AND PRODUCE COMPANY.

Several of the prominent farmers of South Westminister and vicinity have formed themselves into a co-operative society and have been incorporated under the name of the Annapolis Valley Fruit and Produce Company, Limited, with head office at Lawrencetown, the capital of the Company is five thousand dollars ($5,000), divided into fifty shares of one hundred dollars each. It is the intention of the Company to erect large apple warehouses at Lawrencetown the coming season, and have their apples all packed under the supervision of an efficient manager every barrel (No. 1 and No. 2, only) to be branded with the name of the Company, quality guaranteed. Already a large part of the capital has been subscribed, and the men behind this movement are some of the largest and best fruit growers in the Valley.

GOOD CROP PROSPECTS.

Henry Clews & Co., bankers, New York, in their weekly review of trade conditions, say: "Perhaps the most encouraging feature at present is the crop outlook. The season is fully two weeks earlier than last year, and weather conditions have been particularly favorable for cultivation and planting. No damage has been reported from the late cool spell except to fruits. Reports as to winter wheat are exceedingly flattering, condition appearing to be considerably better than at this time last year. Cotton is also doing well, and advice that far received indicate no decrease in acreage. Good crops this year will accomplish more than anything else toward restoring business to normal value and prosperity. Prices of all agricultural products are high and yield a good profit to the grower. With chances, therefore, that there will be a good demand during the coming year for everything which our farmers can grow there is every prospect for a very profitable year for the agricultural classes."

Y. M. C. A. BOYS' CAMP.

The sixteenth Annual Maritime Boys' Camp (section two) of the Young Men's Christian Association will be held this year, July 28th to Aug. 12th at Big Cove, Sutherland's River, Pictou County, N. S. The Camp will be led by Mr. C. W. Archibald, Secretary, Y. M. C. A., Charlottetown, P. E. I., assisted by a competent corps of leaders. These camps are open to all boys of good moral character, between the ages of 13 and 17 years. Cost for two weeks, $7.50. For further information apply to L. W. Archibald, Charlottetown, P. E. I., Camp Leader; F. G. Marshall, New Glasgow, N. S., Maritime Secretary, Y. M. C. A., or Rev. B. W. Forbes, Canoe, N. S., Chairman Maritime Boys' Work Committee, Y. M. C. A. Miss Elizabeth E. Cook, of Ithaca, N. Y., is a young woman who will be watching by the public eye. She was a member of the Cornell team which debated against Columbia, in spite of the Columbia protest—and did exceedingly well. Now she has been unanimously awarded the one hundred dollar prize in oratory endowed by General Stewart L. Woodford and which is considered the highest public speaking honor within the reach of Cornell students. Her oration was entitled "Men, women and human beings," and consisted of a plea for the breaking down of the barriers between men and women and their developing together of the wide range of common human interests. Her interest in her subject may be understood to be more than merely academic.

REGULATIONS RESPECTING ANGLERS' PERMITS IN THE INLAND WATERS OF THE DOMINION OF CANADA.

- 1. No person, other than a British subject, shall angle, or take any sporting fish in Canada without having first obtained therefor an angler's permit, issued by the local fishery officer in each district, under the authority of the Minister of Marine and Fisheries, except in the Province of Ontario and Quebec, where such permits are issued under the authority of the Provincial Governments. 2. Each person, not a British subject, shall pay for such angler's permit a fee of $2.00. 3. One angler's permit only shall be issued to each applicant. Such permit shall not be transferable, and can be legally used only by the person whose name appears thereon. Each holder of an angler's permit shall be required to produce and exhibit his permit when called upon to do so by any fishery officer. 4. No person shall use, under an angler's permit, more than one fishing line, provided with not more than three hooks. 5. No trout shall be retained or kept out of the water under six inches in length, and no salmon or grilse of less weight than three pounds; but every person who takes or catches any of the fish mentioned at a less size or weight than the minimum named, shall immediately return such undersized fish to the water from which they were taken, and shall, if possible, liberate such fish alive. 6. No person holding an angler's permit shall sell or offer for sale any fish caught with hook and line. 7. Any person or persons violating any of the above regulations shall be liable to the fines and penalties provided by the "Fisheries Act," chap. 45 of the Revised Statutes of Canada. 8. Nothing in these regulations shall affect the rights of any person or persons holding leases of fishing rights from either Federal or Provincial authorities. 9. Foreigners, when temporarily domiciled in Canada, and remaining thirty consecutive days or more, and employing Canadian boats and boatsmen, shall be exempt from the regulation requiring permits. Permits can be obtained from W. A. Warren, Telephone 44. By order of the Department of Marine and Fisheries, C. O'DELL, Special Fishery Officer.

POTATOES FOR EXPORT.

Howard Bligh and Sons advise Monitor readers as follows:—Now that the planting season is commencing we would strongly advise those who intend raising potatoes not to plant any Red Dekotas Blush or other red varieties with the exception of the Genuine Early Rose. The Early Rose and the white varieties such as Carmen, American Giants and Burbanks are the only kinds that are wanted in Cuba. There is no call for other varieties. The Early Rose is a potato that has gone out considerably in Nova Scotia, but Cuba requires a lot of this variety at the beginning of the season, and we would advise growers planting as many of this variety as possible. Cuba has been getting most of its stock from New Brunswick but we Nova Scotians should try and control this trade as much as possible, and we can only do so by growing the kinds of potatoes that they want.

ANGLERS' NARROW ESCAPE.

Postmaster McLean and W. W. Walker, of Dartmouth, had an experience the other day, which should serve as a warning to others—it might easily have resulted fatally. The two proposed to go fishing and engaged a boat for the trip. When a little distance from the shore, the bottom of the boat dropped out, and the prospective fishermen had to wade back—happily they were not out beyond their depth. It is asserted that many of the boats on hire are rotten old tubs, and should be put "out of commission." Certainly people hiring boats should use caution.—Halifax Herald.

THE ROYAL THEATRE

Opening of Royal Theatre, Y. M. C. A. Hall, Thursday evening, May 21st. A New Moving Picture. Subject—L. Samojana at Hagen, 2. Scenes in North Wales; 3. The Living Arm-chair; 4. Heroes of St. Bernard; also the latest popular songs with dissolving illustrations. An evening to be remembered for 10 cents only. All parts of the house. Drive in.

Note for Farmers for May

- 1. Do not be in a hurry to let the animals on the pastures. 2. Get carrots, mangels, sugar mangels, sugar beets, and vegetables sown early this month. Sow plenty of seed. It is easier to thin out than to transplant. 3. Corn land: If it was not prepared last autumn, plough shallow just before planting, especially if there be couch or quack grass in the land. Work the surface thoroughly before planting. 4. Sowing corn: Watch for a warm condition of soil. Quick germination is desirable. Sow fairly thick, thin this out in June. 5. Harrow the corn land lightly and thoroughly just before the corn comes up; also after it is well up, and then save hoeing, and hasten its growth. Use a slanting tooth harrow. 6. Plant some pumpkins in the corn, or roots after they are up. 7. If clover has not been sown yet, wheat, oats, barley or peas, harrow all with a slanting tooth harrow, when the crops are 3 to 8 inches high. 8. If any part of the meadow has not been winter-killed, plough up and re-sow with spring rye or barley. 9. Bees. Examine all colonies. See that they have a good laying queen and plenty of stores. 10. Between fruit and clover bloom mow one side of a frame of honey each alternate evening, keep up brood bearing. Strong colonies in May gives best results. 11. Open all windows of the cellar and root house. If in use, put on screens. 12. A coating of whitewash will do the cellar good.

In a deep sense, as a man thinks so he is. The universe of cells within each man calls him master. Yet his gods; kings upon thrones; your slightest wish is heard, your earnest persistent desires compel obedience. Answer to prayer is a growth, a building up or down to what you wish. A BRIGHT VALLEY PAPER.

The following tribute of appreciation which the Monitor acknowledges with thanks is from the Lunenburg Province Enterprise, one of our most successful contemporaries, now under the management of Editor V. W. Messenger. The Bridgetown Monitor entered upon the 36th year of its existence. Recently the Monitor combined with the Bear River Telephone and has a sphere of influence covering the greater part of the Valley. For some months the Monitor published semi-weekly but went back to the largest circulation and is the brightest and most popular paper in the Valley.

NEW AUTOMOBILE BY-LAW FOR YARMOUTH COUNTY.

Yarmouth, May 18.—The municipal council in session on Saturday, passed a by-law prohibiting automobiles from running on the country roads between 12 o'clock Friday night to 12 o'clock Saturday night. The penalty provided is twenty dollars for a first offence, thirty for a second and fifty for a third.

NOTICE.

Advertisers and subscribers if it appears to the Bear River Telephone are requested to settle their accounts directly with the publisher at this office, or with our agent at Bear River, W. W. Wade, who will forward any remittances that may be handed to him.

CARD OF THANKS.

BIG SCENIC PLAY.

"A ROYAL SLAVE."

Novelists are just beginning to awaken to the possibilities in the last days of monarchial Mexico, before Emperor Maximilian, deserted by France and left to die alone, was taken out and shot, dying like a hero. Lew Wallace wrote much of the romance of the time into "The Fair God." Clarence Bennett founded his play, "A Royal Slave," which will be seen at the Court House, Wednesday, May 27, upon General Wallace's famous novel, but was not content to let matters stop there. He has not attempted to paint the play, but he has made romance more romantic. His play fairly tingles with exciting heart interest.

THE ROYAL THEATRE TO OPEN IN BRIDGETOWN.

We are pleased to inform our patrons that The American Amusement Co. have decided to open a Moving Picture and Illustrated Song Theatre in Bridgetown. It will be called the Royal and will be located in the Y. M. C. A. building. We understand there will be a continuous performance from 7 o'clock until 10 o'clock, each evening in the week and Bridgetown will get the same service pictures and entertainments as given in any of the large cities. Nothing will be allowed at these concerts that could offend the most refined or the most sensitive. Mothers need not be afraid to take their children. Clergymen will be most welcome. Everything will be interesting, entertaining and instructive. For only a nickel one can practically go to the world. Continually passing before the eyes will be stirring scenes taken in European capitals. Drama, tragedy, comedy, follow in rapid succession. You laugh and you cry and then to bring you back to mother earth, the management have secured Mr. Weston, the great Boston Baritone, who is now singing in Vanderbilt, to sing each evening the latest songs illustrated by colored dissolving views. Circulars will be sent all over the County each week, and the subjects exhibited with the program for each week will appear in this paper each issue. Watch our next issue. They plan to open May 21st.

SEALED TENDERS

Sealed tenders addressed to the Engineer in Charge and marked "Tender for Power House and Chimney" will be received up to the Superintendent's Office, Charlottetown, P. E. I., and at the Chief Engineer's Office, Moncton, N. B., on THURSDAY, JUNE 4TH, 1908, for the construction and erection of a Brick Power House and Chimney at Charlottetown, P. E. I. Plans and specification may be seen at the Superintendent's Office, Charlottetown, P. E. I., and at the Chief Engineer's Office, Moncton, N. B. Every form of tender may be obtained. All the conditions of the specification must be complied with. L. POTTINGER, General Manager, Railway Office, Moncton, N. B., May 14, 1908.

TENDERS

Tenders will be received by the undersigned up to June 20th, 1908 from parties who will enter into a contract to operate a Steam Ferry Service between the Annapolis Ferry and Annapolis Royal for a period of from one to five years, from January 1909, in conformity with the regulations contained in the By-Laws of Municipality of Annapolis County. E. H. PORTER, FREEMAN FITCH, W. C. HEALY, Committee.

RAILWAY SCHEME.

The Amherst News says that McKinnis & Mann Company will have a number of engineers placed on the survey of a railway line from Paissee Junction to Pugwash, thence on to Country Harbor during this summer. There is no doubt but that the Canadian Northern is looking for a Nova Scotia terminus and the building of this line is only a question of the proposed line some years ago, but owing to the rapid development of the West, and need of new lines in that section of the Dominion, the Eastern portion of the line was allowed to rest in abeyance. The first steps towards making a survey will likely be made this summer.

MARRIED

CLARKE—TAYLOR.—At the residence of Mr. John Lyttle, on the 11th inst., by Rev. Prof. Carruthers, John Ward Clarke, of Bridgetown, and Lena Beatrice, daughter of William H. Taylor, Victoria Beach.

The older members insured in the Order of Foresters will now have to pay a considerable increased insurance to have their present policies carried under the new rates. The Foresters have learned that they have been carrying certain policies at rates that are not paying. These are the older members, that were insured under cheap rates in the years gone by. The increase is quite material, too.

HOW THE EDITOR SAVED A DOLLAR. Entering the office of the local weekly, the minister said to the editor: "I am soliciting aid for a gentleman of refinement and intelligence who is in dire need of a little ready money, but who is far too proud a man to make his sufferings known." "Why?" exclaimed the editor, pushing up his eyeglasses, "I'm the only chap in the village who answers that description. What's the gentleman's name?" "I regret," said the minister, "that I am not at liberty to disclose it." "Why, it must be me," said the editor. "It is me. It's me, sure. Heaven prosper you, parson, in your good work." The minister was obliged to move along without any further argument.

"Sunshine" Furnace

Where Shaking is Respectable

A Draft of furnace dome, with no other draft, is sufficient to overcome the draft in the chimney. Only surplus heat goes to the flue. Great heat is retained in the furnace, and is not lost in the chimney.

In "Sunshine" Furnace the legitimate draft outlet is provided. It's a great big dust-pipe running straight from ash-pit to dome, thence to chimney. When big pipe damper is opened, all dust in ash-pit ascends to dome; then, when direct drafts are opened, all dust passes up chimney.

Always the clean and quick dust route in "Sunshine" Furnace—via grate, to pan, to dust-pipe, to dome, to chimney, to open air.

KATE OF ABERDEEN

(Published by request.)

Now lightsome o'er the level mead,
Where midnight fairies rove,
Like them the jocund dance we'll lead,
On time the reed to love;
For see, the rosy May draws nigh,
She claims a virgin queen,
And hark the happy shepherd's cry
"The Kate of Aberdeen!"

The romance of Kate of Aberdeen is one of the most pathetic of those which are associated with the bygone days of the "Granite City." John Cunningham, the poet, has immortalized her beauty and attractiveness, but not a word is said of the tragedy whereby she lost her life.

Kate MacDonald was the daughter of one of the younger sons of the family of the Clanranalds, Macdonalds who had shown such ardor in the cause of Prince Charles. Her father, Ian Macdonald, the cousin of the head of the family, had, however, shown a lukewarm spirit towards the Jacobite movement as a whole, being unwilling to imperil the position which he held as a Government servant in Aberdeen.

Kate was his only child, and she felt that the family honor was entrusted to her parent's vocation. Among the Jacobites of Aberdeen Ian Macdonald, prior to the landing of Charles Stuart at Boscawen in Inverness-shire, had talked big about the duty of ancient alliance taking precedence of latter-day usurpation. When, however, the unexpected happened and Charles Stuart actually arrived, contrary to all expectation, Macdonald took refuge in the excuse that because the Prince had brought neither men nor money with him, it was madness to begin operations.

To this excuse, Kate offered an indignant contradiction.

"You ought to go out, father," she said earnestly. "Everyone expects you to do so."

"Then everyone will be disappointed. I am not a madman, and it would be madness to take such a step just now."

Kate said no more. From experience she knew that her father was not of the stuff whereof heroes are made. She merely shrugged her shoulders and left the room, leaving Ian Macdonald considerably lowered in his own self-esteem. "Humph! these girls always look at the romantic side of a question, never at what is expedient," he muttered.

Just at that time the stirring news of the Prince's success in driving the Government troops out of early Hamilton's and Gardiner's regiments of dragoons, before him from the Ford of Frew down to Edinburgh, his capture of Edinburgh, his defeat of Sir John Cope at Prestonpans, and his invasion of England, had been reported all over the North with the result that the Jacobites were proportionately encouraged and the Whites in equal measure disheartened. In Aberdeen, feeling ran high. It was a Jacobite town, and the sympathies of the residents were largely with "Bonnie Prince Charlie."

Kate Macdonald, to her father's intense disgust, for he desired to run with the hare and hunt with the hounds, was always haunting "the White Cockade" and singing "Charlie is My Darling," who the newly composed ballad of "Johnnie Cope" and "Welcome Royal Charlie." Poor Ian Macdonald had a difficult part to play. He wanted to let the people think him a staunch Jacobite at heart, while he desired to conform to account him one of themselves, so that when rewards were going he might not be forgotten in the event of either side's success. But how could he play the role of Mr. Facing-both-Ways, with a pretty pipsy of a daughter who turned the heads of everybody, and who was as strong a Jacobite as any in Aberdeen.

She was beyond question the beauty of the town. "Kate of Aberdeen" well merited all the eulogiums contained in Cunningham's dainty lyric and in consequence half the young men of the town who were of good

THROW AWAY LINIMENTS

Here's the Prescription to Cure Rheumatism.

Liniments only reach the skin and the muscles directly under the skin. Now, liniments can't cure Rheumatism. They simply deaden the nerves for a time. When the effect wears away, the pain returns worse than ever.

If the cowles do not move regularly—if the kidneys are strained or weak—if the skin is dry or harsh—the blood is sure to be filled with impurities or urea. This urea is changed into uric acid which is the poison that causes Rheumatism.

Now, the only possible way to cure Rheumatism is to prevent uric acid from being formed. Locally, the only way to do this is to keep kidneys, bowels and skin in good working order, and prevent the stomach from being too acid, and the only way to do this is to take "Fruit-a-tive."

These marvelous tablets of fruit juices and tonics act directly on the three great eliminating organs—bowels, kidneys and skin—and put them in perfect condition. That is the only secret of the great success in curing Rheumatism, sciatica and lumbago. See a box—6 for $2.50. "Fruit-a-tive," Limited, Ottawa.

me you will find me waiting, glad and proud to be loved by such a man.

After some of love's sweet, unrecorded and unrecordable talk he also took his leave, and said that when next they met he hoped that he would have come back to her as the full Colonel of his regiment in the victorious forces of James VIII.

"I am proud of you, my hero and my darling," she whispered, as he strode off.

Though he was watched for, and though, a year afterwards stated, the emissaries of the Government actually dogged another man in mistake for him, Hector got clear away with the £100 he was carrying to the army. But it came too late to be of use to the starving troops. When he arrived Culloden was fought and lost.

Two days after the battle the news reached Aberdeen of the overthrow of Prince Charles and the outlawry that had been pronounced against all who had been engaged in the Rebellion. The moment Ian Macdonald received this intelligence he became the most bigoted Hanoverian in Aberdeen, would hear of nothing but the arrest and execution of all who had been engaged in the Rebellion. In vain his daughter reminded him that he was a son of the Macdonalds of Clanranald. He declared that the whole affair had been an enterprise of a madman; that if Prince Charles had brought 5000 men with him and thirty or forty guns, he would have secured the adhesion of every Highlander from Aberfoyle to Cape Wrath, and concluded his exordium by terrifying Kate to have anything further to do with Hector Macdonald, whom he now spoke of as "this rebel."

"I shall as readily decline to do anything of the kind,"

"Yes, I repeat what I said. I am now of age, and I decline to give up Hector because he is under a cloud. On the contrary, I would marry him to-morrow if he asked me."

"Then you would cease to be my daughter?"

"That may be, but to give up Hector is absolutely refuse."

Mr. Macdonald was non-plussed. He did not know what to do in the circumstances. For a time he was in hope; he might induce her to give up her uncompromising attitude. But to no purpose.

A few nights later, when Kate was preparing to go to bed, she started and listened intently. What was that? A low whistle sounded below her window. It was the signal which Hector and she had agreed upon. Throwing a heavy cloak over her, she stole down and noiselessly opened the back door. Sure enough, a tall dark figure was standing in the depth of the shadows cast by the trees at the rear of the house. When she emerged from the house the form glided into the Park, and she saw that it was her lover.

"In that you, Kate?" in tones which she recognized as her lover's.

On her replying in the affirmative Hector kissed her fondly and exclaimed, "I have not had a moment to say good-bye, that he was going to France for a time, till the news had been blown over. Kate implored him to take her with him, but Hector said he dared not, for he would have to lead a very rough and ready life. But he pledged his honor to her to return in three years, if his pardon could be secured, and, if not, to send for her."

They had come in close, sweet converse regarding their trust in each other, and then Hector whispering, "True till death, darling!" received the response, "Yes, beloved, true till death and in death." A kiss, an embrace, and then they parted. Hector was slipping round to the front of the house, so as to reach the street, when suddenly Kate heard another low whistle, then she saw four or five men swiftly converge from different points of the compass upon her lover.

Almost before she could realize what had taken place, he was thrown down, gagged, and notwithstanding his struggles, bound hand and foot. He was then hoisted on the shoulders of some of them, the confederate being reinforced by fresh arrivals, and carried quickly away. Then Kate, whose activities had been paralyzed by the suddenness of the act, tacked, regained her presence of mind, and darted forward to where two men stood talking.

"What is the meaning of this?" she cried indignantly, as the posse of men that had captured Hector passed quickly out of sight. The two men turned towards her, and disclosed the features of her own father and Walter Mure.

"Father," she cried, "has this been done by your connivance, and also by your treachery, Walter Mure?"

"Come, come, Kate, enough of this fuss," said her father harshly, "get indoors and to bed."

But she turned on him like a tigress robbed of its cub.

"Ian Macdonald, you may be my father according to the flesh, but

Plant Larger Root Crops

A correspondent writes to the Maritime Farmer:

It is one of the hopeful signs of the times that there is a strong feeling among the farmers of the Maritime Provinces that we should improve our methods that we should have better dairy cows and more of them, that we should do more toward supplying our own markets with farm and dairy products, that we should raise more feed on our own farms and stop this terrible drain that is going out of this country for grain and mill feed.

In my opinion the first requisite with nearly all parts of the Maritime Provinces is to produce them. I do not believe that the production of butter, beef, pork or mutton can be made profitable if we have to rely on imported stock.

It has been well demonstrated that turnips grow exceedingly well in nearly all parts of the Maritime Provinces and yet the acreage devoted to this crop is very small.

The Ontario farmer raises his cattle largely on turnips and sends his set down here cheaper than we can produce it on hay and grain, he also sends his oats and other grain down here for us to feed.

My experience has taught me that land will produce larger crops and with much less expense for labor by following a short rotation. I believe I first got the idea from Mr. Robertson of the Experimental Farms, and he will pay any farmer to visit the farm and get ideas from the superintendent and from the farm itself.

Now I would suggest this plan:—Take a piece of land that is to be seeded to grass this spring and sow on it ten pounds, per acre, of common red clover seed and ten pounds timothy. Next year cut that clover early, when the first heads are turning brown, and then allow the aftermath to grow as big as it will and don't pasture it; then in October follow with a broad, shallow furrow that will lie flat and cover the clover well.

The next spring (that is the third year in the rotation) work that inverted clover sod up into a good seed bed and sow to mixed grain, 2 bushels oats, 1 bushel barley, 1 bushel of peas, use a small variety of peas, (Golden Vine is good). We can nearly always get more feed per acre by sowing this mixture than by any one grain alone.

Flow as soon as this crop is off in the fall and the next spring manure well with good, unrotted barnyard manure and a little commercial fertilizer and plant good Scotch-Swede turnip seed, (this is the fourth and last year of the rotation). The next year again, sow grass, preferably wheat, with the clover and timothy as at first, and I am not afraid to guarantee that before you have got around that rotation twice, you will want to work more of your land into it.

This rotation gives us turnips and straw, grain and hay of the very best quality and if wheat is sown it supplies us with our own flour. The plowing under of the clover and the raising of peas keeps up or improves the fertility of the soil. It helps to stop the drain of money that now goes from our farms for the three P's—seed, food and fertilizer.

still nothing seems quite so smart for tailored summer suits. The variety of coloring in which it is to be found this season is bewilderingly pretty.

Shades of pearl gray silk mill made over rusty yellow silk make charming combinations for semimodesty toilets. This combination will be frequently seen in all the sheer materials of the spring.

Gold and silver tinsel threads will be much in evidence, even as a trimming upon frocks of white or colored linen.

It is sometimes difficult to get a pattern of an apron that protects the dress and at the same time is easily made of material. The one shown here is gored in the front. The circular portions of the skirt are slightly full. The waist portion is joined in the back, and the apron slips on over the head and buttons at the waist. Gimples are perhaps the goods most used for these aprons because they are inexpensive and launder well. Black is a desirable color; it sheds the dirt and seldom requires laundering.

Rheumatism causes more pain and suffering than any other disease, for the reason that it is the most common of all ills, and it is certainly gratifying to discover that Chamberlain's Pain Balm will afford relief, and make rest and sleep possible. His Coffee Not Hot.

There are all sorts of tastes in New York, and, of course, everything is a matter of taste. As the old woman said when she kissed the cow. But one can find many strange ideas of how things should be done by simply listening while in a restaurant.

The most unusual was heard in a quick lunch resort downtown the other day. "Give me a cup of strong black coffee, not hot," was the order, and the waiter never said a word, just went along to fill the order, which, of course, later proved to be a cup of steaming coffee with a piece of ice in the saucer to be used at the discretion of the diner.

Lost in the Bay of Fundy

(Digby Courier.)

About 12:30 Thursday afternoon 7th inst., Mr. William Melanson and his fifteen-year-old son, Rodney, left French Beach, East Ferry, in a small flat bottom boat, to get a suitable mooring stone for their large fishing boat. They did not return during the afternoon, as expected, and Mrs. Melanson and family feared an accident had happened. Neighbors, nearly all of whom are experienced boatmen, immediately commenced to search for them with the result that Mr. Melanson's boat was found bottom up near the shore on the east side of Petite Passage in the vicinity of Blackford's landing.

Search was commenced at once for the bodies, but it is feared they have drifted in the Bay of Fundy by the flood tide and will never be found.

Mr. Melanson was known personally by more people than probably anyone else on Digby Neck. He had been one of the drivers of the Digby Neck mail for years during the winter months and often the entire season. Everybody knew "Will" from Brier Island to Digby and he was always ready to oblige the public. He carried all kinds of parcels for them, did dozens of errands daily and cashed thousands of dollars worth of cheques in the Digby banks, returning the amounts carefully to the different owners. He was also a good fisherman and had in the past sailed with Capt. Ansel Snow and other successful "skippers" out of this port. His friends everywhere, and he had lots of them, will hear of the sad news with much regret.

Mr. Melanson was about 47 years of age. He had resided at East Ferry for a long time where he leaves a widow and two children. He is also survived by an aged father and one sister, the latter being Mrs. Esther White, of Weymouth.

Pay what you will, and go where you like, you cannot get a better, purer, or more delicious tea than "Salada."

Instead of using camps this year the construction gang of the Valley Telephone Company will use a portable wagon. A covered wagon 22 x 9 feet has been hired by the Company's works by Messrs. Wright & Pinner. The roof is of boards and the sides of canvas. The wagon will be moved from place to place as required, the men, sleeping, cooking and eating in the wagon.—Outlook.

Campbell's Neco Soap is equally as effective when mixed with Bordeaux as with water.

The marriage of Burpee R. Bishop, of Kentville, and Winifred Caroline Sterling, eldest daughter of George Sterling, of the D. A. R. finance department, took place at the Baptist church, Kentville, on Thursday afternoon. The marriage service was read by Rev. B. N. Nobles, M. A., pastor of the Digby Baptist church. Mr. and Mrs. Bishop took the Prince Rupert train for Montreal, Ottawa and Niagara. Upon their return Mr. and Mrs. Bishop will reside in Kentville from which place Mr. Bishop oversees the work of his fruit farm.

"Health Coffee" is really the closest Coffee imitations ever yet produced. This clever Coffee Substitute was recently produced by Dr. Shoop of Racine, Wis. Not a grain of real Coffee is in either Dr. Shoop's Health Coffee is made from pure toasted grains, with malt, yeast, etc. Really it would fool an expert—we might drink it for coffee. No 20 or 30 minutes tedious "made in a minute" says the doctor. Sold by J. E. LLOYD.

N. B. OFFICIAL SUICIDED.

Fredericton, May 4.—W. R. Flewelling, deputy surveyor-general of New Brunswick, killed himself this afternoon in the basement of the departmental building here. A bullet from a 22 calibre revolver fired into his mouth and penetrating his brain, laid him a corpse on the floor above which for years he had worked as an honorable and popular official of the province.

Put it to the test, let your tea-pot prove to you that for purity, flavor, quality and reliability "Salada" is supreme.

There is health for the plant in sun-rays; the plant in the cave had need of light and its cells heard the cry and built toward the light. That capacity for light and that groping of the cells proved the existence of the sun. The conscious feeling after God among people everywhere proves the existence of God and of the spiritual world.

Cure for Weak Lungs

"I have used your Psychico for about six months, and have found it an excellent remedy for pneumonia and weak lungs."—Small Johnson, Parryville, Ont., April 15, 1907.

"Psychico is one of the best medicines on the market, and for all throat and lung troubles is unequalled."—A word from a man who has tested it. "Pneumonia, Bronchitis, Coughs, Colds and all throat, lung, and stomach troubles yield to Psychico. At all drug-gists, 50c, and $1.00, or Dr. T. A. Loomis, Limited, Toronto.

GREAT BRITAIN says NO ALUM IN FOOD and strictly prohibits the sale of alum baking powder. So does France So does Germany The U. S. Congress has made the sale of alum foods illegal in Washington (District of Columbia), and alum baking powders are everywhere recognized as injurious. To protect yourself against alum, when ordering baking powder, Say plainly—ROYAL BAKING POWDER and be very sure you get Royal. Royal is the only Baking Powder made from Royal Grape Cream of Tartar. It adds to the digestibility and wholesomeness of the food.

WOMAN WITH THREE EYES.

Shown and scientists are offering a woman, who has just been discovered in Buffalo, N. Y., big money. The woman was seen by a curious study for experimenting, for this woman has three eyes. The third eye is in the back of her head, just above the neck, and she can see perfectly any object placed before this eye, even when her other two perfect and natural eyes are closed. Another strange and remarkable feature is that she can close her two front eyes and keep her back eye opened, or she can close or open them all at once. When on the street she covers her third eye with a bow of ribbon tied to her hair. She is very sensitive about her odd blessing.

Lawrencetown.

The last few days of warm weather have encouraged farmers to think that spring is really here.

The dry house at the No. 1 shaft burned on Saturday night, and another fire started at the top of the shaft house Monday afternoon.

Teamsters will be hauling lumber to the branch railroad at the mines for a month or more. From the road it will be shipped on the main line to various points.

On Sunday a moose came from the pasture of the Allen property, now occupied by Murdoch Dunn, and passed to Frank Woodbury's buildings. It crossed the road and went into Edward Martin's pasture and continued into Bloomington. It did not seem to be pursued and was bold enough to put its fore feet on the steps of Mr. Morse's house in Bloomington.

The farm, and the hints given to our farmers if carried out, should add much wealth to this county. The Professor is always a welcome guest and is in full sympathy with the work of the County Board.

President Woodworth then gave a most interesting and instructive address on spraying, showing the proper way to mix and apply. The large audience kept him busy answering questions, as this is a vital matter to orchardists.

A vote of thanks was passed to Professor Cumming, Mr. Barnstead the Press of the Valley for free notice, and D. A. R. for one fare ticket. A special vote of thanks was tendered Miss Chase for her kindness in reporting the full proceedings of both meetings.

Mrs. Marie Yulisse Harrison has just signed a contract to appear as prima donna with Flory's celebrated Brussels Operatic Company. She will appear with the company in California, Texas and Mexico for a season of fifteen weeks. Before going south she will appear at the head of the company in Boston, Philadelphia, Buffalo and other large cities. She will appear in such parts as Violetta and Traviata and Marguerite in Faust.
