French Prepare Reply to British Note On Reparations

REPUBLICAN FORCES PLAN ACTIVE FIGHT

POINCARÉ TO SUBMIT NOTE TO CABINET

French Premier Gives Careful Reading to British Documents.

Views Exchanged

Easier Feeling is Apparent in the Foreign Office at Paris.

(Canadian Press.)
Paris, July 23.—Premier Poincaré, who gave the British reparations documents received from London last week a careful reading on Saturday, began a serious study today of the proposed reply to Germany. He went over the document with Count De Peretti de La Rocca, director of political affairs of the foreign office and Jacques Seydoux, economic adviser of the foreign office, with a view to presenting the whole situation to the French cabinet when it meets at the Quai D'Orsay tomorrow.

Exchanges of views between Paris and Brussels are going on actively meanwhile. The reply to London will probably be made before the week-end and possibly soon after the French cabinet has passed on the question.

Premier Poincaré, who is very anxious to comply with the desire of the British cabinet to obtain a prompt reply, cancelled an engagement to go to Rheims today and put off all his other work so as to concentrate upon the reparations question. It is thought in official circles that in keeping with his customary rapidity of action he will have the reply, roughly drafted, ready to submit to the cabinet at tomorrow's meeting, unless the negotiations with Brussels cause some delay.

The premier has succeeded in constructing an airtight compartment around the documents received from London and it seems unlikely that anything regarding them will leak out until Premier Baldwin has received the French and Belgian replies.

The only indication of the trend of the negotiations is the easier feeling in evidence around the foreign office. The optimism shown in official circles generally is offset by the speaker's speech at Villers-Cotterêts yesterday in which he was considered to have made plain France's unwillingness to accept a revision of the reparations commission's estimate of Germany's capacity for payment.

Rector Brands Views Of Anglo-Catholic Conference Traitorous

Toronto, July 23.—Preaching yesterday morning at Christchurch, Toronto, Rev. Canon Woodcock, the rector, entered his protest against the doctrines laid down at the Anglo-Catholic conference which was held last week. This conference, the canon said, professed to be composed of members of the Church of England. But the views it promulgated were contrary to those of that church and might be regarded as traitorous. Those entertaining these views were in the wrong church. The Church of England could enter into no arrangements with the church of Rome, the principles of the two churches being altogether different.

MAKE IT BETTER AT UNION AND P. EDWARD COR.

Question Comes Up at City Hall Meeting Over Gasoline Tank Application.

At a meeting of the city commissioners this morning Commissioner Bullock reported that the brick building in Water street, occupied by the Memorial Workshops, must either be repaired or torn down. The C. N. B. had practically said they would not submit to the suggested extension of the tracks there unless the city gave them the street, their offering if the city would tear down the buildings the railway would pay $300 a year. He, for one, would see them further.

The building was insured for $4,000, the premium being $88. It was estimated the repairs would cost about $3,000, and this would enable the city to get a fair revenue from the property. It was recommended that the city should report on the cost of repairs.

Lemieux Says Entire Whole Jury System is in Danger

COST IS $60,000

Court is Adjourned Until 2.30 O'clock This Afternoon.

(Canadian Press.)
Montreal, July 23.—When court opened today the jury in the case of Rev. Father Delorme, charged with the murder of his half brother, Raoul, on Jan. 6, 1922, reported that no agreement had yet been reached.

Sir Francis Lemieux, the judge sent the jury back and adjourned the court till 2 p.m. His Lordship before asking the jury to make another attempt to reach an agreement, reminded them that if no definite verdict was reached the case would have to be heard again at the next session of the court of king's bench. This will mean great additional expense. His Lordship said the case had already cost the people $60,000.

The announcement of the jury in the trial of Rev. Father Delorme, after a short deliberation on Saturday evening that they had not agreed on a verdict and "unable to reach a decision" will be able to agree, was met by a stern rebuke on the part of Chief Justice Lemieux who pointed out that their attitude was impeding the whole jury system.

WAR THREATS CAUSE

Sinn Fein Tactics Are Planned if Election is Won

(Canadian Press.)
Dublin, July 23.—Eamon De Valera, in a message to the American Association for the Recognition of the Irish Republic appealing for election funds, says the people of Ireland still are overwhelmingly Republican in sentiment and that the Anglo-Irish treaty was “forced on them by threats of war from Great Britain.”

Mr. De Valera says that about one hundred thousand dollars would be needed.

It is expected that the Dail will be dissolved at the end of the week and that election will be held the first week in September.

It is stated that De Valera's forces, although containing a number of seats, will generally adopt a policy of abstention, but according to the statement issued by De Valera, seems to be a policy of active fight. He says that if the elections are unfettered and the Republicans are again in the country on Sinn Fein lines, as in 1918, refusing to co-operate with Great Britain until Great Britain is ready to make an arrangement consistent with the independence and unity of Ireland as a single state.

Chance For Trade With West Indies

H. P. Griffith in Canada to Develop Opportunities in That Direction — Direct Steamer Communication Needed.

"There is a fine opportunity for trade between Canada and the colonies of the West Coast of Africa, both French and British, because many articles which Canada purchases originate in these colonies, while on the other hand, much of the material which these colonies require is produced in the Dominion." Mr. H. P. Griffith, recently arrived in Montreal after journeying from French Guinea, spoke very freely yesterday on the subject of trade with Africa when seen at the Canadian Pacific offices.

Mr. Griffith, who, by the way, is a Welshman, came to Canada for the purpose of investigating trade possibilities, and has already made arrangements by which certain Canadian products will find their way into French Guinea and serve as barter for native produce.

This trader is located at Kinbe, which is at a considerable distance from the coast. After using rail for 400 miles, the traveler has a distance of 200 miles, which may be traversed afoot, on horseback, or in a hammock; the latter method being apparently quite arduous.

"Four natives, each with a pole carried on his head, can make five miles an hour with a hammock wherever there is a path," said Mr. Griffith.

As an example of the physique of the natives of that particular district, the traveler said they carry loads of 80 kilos on the head and cover 40 miles a day.

"The natives of that area are more intelligent, cleaner, more athletic and industrious than their neighbors," said Mr. Griffith.

These people are known as Fulani. They do not possess the flat nose or the high cheekbones of the other negro types, and are reputed to be descendants of the Romans who settled in North Africa intermarried and were driven farther and farther away. Their country is Missouri Says Other Man Wrote to Wife, So He Killed Her and Kin.

Lexington, Mo., July 23.—A letter, couched in endearing terms, from a married man of Waverly, Mo., to Mrs. William Plunkett precipitated the fatal shooting there of Mrs. Plunkett, her mother and sister. Plunkett is held in the county jail here. Plunkett is reported to have told the authorities the letter suggested that Mrs. Plunkett hasten divorce proceedings, and promised that the writer also would seek a speedy divorce.

Plunkett declared his wife's family had stirred up trouble between him and his wife almost from the time of their marriage, when she was only thirteen years old.

Feeling ran high while Plunkett was held in the Mayor's office at Waverly and there was said to have been talk of hanging. Officers took Plunkett through the crowd and brought him to Lexington.

SATURDAY A HOT ONE.

Saturday was the hottest day in St. John in thirty-six years. The mercury attained a height of 84.5 degrees. Yesterday it rose to 78 degrees. Records show that in July, 1881, the thermometer registered 88.9 and in August, 1887, it reached the same point. Visitors from the United States were heard to comment on how nice it was to get away from the heat. Bay Shore, Seaside Park and McLaren's Beach were favorite resorts for city-folk on Saturday.

The most productive half of the earth's surface lies within parallels where contagion is most rampant.

A rose pearl lustre on shapely nails framed in soft, smooth cuticle. With Cutex there are just two things to do for this perfect manicure. Everyone is trying this simple way of caring for the nails in just a few minutes each week.

First and most important, is the care of the cuticle. Wrap the end of the orange stick in cotton, dip it in the bottle of Cutex Cuticle Remover and work carefully around the base of each nail. To make this lovely rim last, just smooth a little cream into the cuticle of each nail every night.

Then for the pink lustrous polish that fashion decrees for well-groomed nails Cutex recently has developed a marvelous new polish. The new Liquid Polish goes on quickly, and evenly and dries instantly, leaving a brilliant rose pink polish that lasts and lasts. "INVISIBLE CALLING" RULE OF SOCIAL LIFE IN BURMA

Callers Visit Only Those Homes Whose Occupants are Known to be Out.

Yesterday I called successfully on twenty-seven people and never saw one of them, writes a woman correspondent to "The London News" from Rangoon. In the course they will inevitably call on me. Thereafter my husband and I will be invited to dinner with one of them and we shall see and know them all.

This simple and brazen ceremonial of introduction to the local Anglo-Indian society has filled me, a newcomer, with laughing surprise. The wearisome reality which is supposed to underlie the ceremony of calling is here dispensed with. It is recognized as a mere formality.

At the outer portals of every house is a delightful little box signifying that the lady occupant is out. I drop cards into this receptacle. The call is paid; a trick is scored by both parties; and have, as it were, met without fatigue and exchanged formal greetings in the box. I pass on to the next house, avoiding carefully, according to custom, all places where the little box does not clearly signify that the occupant is not at home.

In certain parts of India the ceremony is reduced to a still finer simplicity. You will find in the club at Simla a goodly list of people who have no objection to being called on by post.

Of course, this does not imply that the English of India and Burma are less socially than they are in England. Quite the contrary. As soon as the swift ceremonial of introduction is performed one is immersed in a round of social engagements as varied as the most intense that of the host and hostess of London's season.

Arriving here in pleasant weather and observing the many social amenities, a friend of mine exclaimed with conviction, "My dear, this is a woman's paradise."

It might be, perhaps, if one could eliminate the monsoon, the cockroaches, frogs, mosquitoes and, above all, the devastating effect of the climate on a woman's complexion and mental and physical vigor.

There is no servant problem as the women in England know it. My modest household contains fourteen native ser-wants, who, in theory, feed themselves out of their modest pay and live in a sort of camp at the back of the grounds.

Men, young and old, eligible and ineligible, abound, and women are few. The social value of an unmarried girl is accordingly immense. Every white woman is, in fact, a person of great consequence and importance in the eyes of mankind.

The prudent man who would dance finds it necessary to secure and book his partners weeks and even months in advance. In that respect this Burma is a fair and pleasant land. But the heat is often miserable.

The hosts started in the afternoon from Millidgeville and reached Brown's Flats for the evening. On Sunday they made Gagetown. Reports from the hosts were to the effect that everybody was enjoying himself.

WHAT DID YOU DO ON SUNDAY?

In the first place remember that you cannot be compelled to answer. In the second place this is a question now being asked by newspapers in many parts of Canada, and it is to be noted that there is no great volume of replies from solid citizens or from Tom, Dick and Harry, possibly because the topic doesn't interest them, but more likely because they think it is their own business and that they are not called upon to discuss it publicly. What is proper to print on Sunday is no easy question anyway. The ordinary jury would disagree. There are many things which appeal to some people as innocent and proper but which others regard as quite out of the question, week day or Sunday.

Let us take wicked old Halifax. The Acadian Recorder tells us: "Sunday golfing and motoring is growing to an alarming extent in Halifax. People a few years ago would not have thought of desecrating the Sabbath as they do today. Prominent citizens are in many cases the principal offenders."

It sounds bad. The prominent citizen driving a motor car on Sunday is no more worthy of criticism than any other citizen who lives in a world which different from the world of today, and even then there were warnings that unless they reformed religion would be their portion. Probably the percentage who justified the warning then was about the same as at present. Likely we have gained considerably. We do not want the Continental Sunday, but neither do we want a class Sunday. We must not deprive one man of his rights simply because his Sunday habits are different from another man's, but no more offensive from the standpoint of morality, or respect for the Sabbath, or good taste.

The Recorder has been led to discuss the Sunday conduct of the people because a clergyman in Toronto, a member of the Lord's Day Alliance, preached against the Toronto City Council permitting Sunday play on the municipal golf course. He said it was nothing for an individual to play golf on Sunday and an entirely different thing for a city to set its seal upon the practice. "How shall we distinguish between going for a motor ride, or for a 'fou, or taking a walk on Sunday?" continued the preacher. "I should not think to attempt to draw the line, but I would draw your attention to this: 'Outside of refreshment stations for people, roadside vegetable markets and gasoline stations. There is really no more need for gasoline on Sunday than for articles with which the president of the automobile club is concerned. On Saturday if cars run—and they will—they must have gas. Also, people must have gas for the roadside vegetable markets, they threaten no one's soul in any part of the country at least."

"Even he is not ready to attempt to draw the line between motoring, road and taking a walk, and he did not present the problem in its most puzzling form, which he could have done by adding many more innocent Sunday occupations or recreations which involve no worse thing than enjoying the sun, the air and the water. He complains that just as soon as people want one thing and get it, they begin to want something else. So they do, but likewise they no longer get something they want than someone tries to take it away from them. There are good people who are constantly in fear that Canada will adopt the European Sabbath or the American one, and having such convictions they do right to speak out and to advise, but they will only defeat their purpose if they are extreme or if they attempt to set up one rule for one part of the population and quite a different one for other parts. That the Sabbath was made for man, not man for the Sabbath, contains a very great truth, and its meaning should not be twisted or overworked in discussing the propriety or impropriety of Sunday activities. An older generation carried Sabbath observance to unhealthful extremes. A newer one might be disposed to go to other extremes. But the Sabbath is a day of rest, physical and mental, and the growth up to at least must be permitted some liberty of action in choosing their way of resting. If they break the existing law they can be dealt with. If the restraining laws are multiplied they will be disregarded unless there is a great weight of public opinion behind them. Reasonable discussion, education, the promotion of a sense of personal responsibility and the force of example will do much to prevent the Maritime Province Sunday from degenerating. It is now about the best to be found in Canada. The right sort of Sunday must be guarded, but in guarding it we must not too often or too fiercely judge the man next door or seek to impose too many regulations. Remember the boy who ran away from home because everybody who spoke to him began with the same word. He said he had come to the conclusion that his best name was "Don't." After all, it

AT FERNHILL

The change in public sentiment with regard to monuments impresses the visitor to Fernhill. There is a very striking contrast between the tall shafts or broad recumbent slabs with long inscriptions, of years ago, and the low and massive granite blocks of today, in some cases bearing merely a surname, and in others the simple record of the name and date of birth and death. In some cases only the family name on a small granite block by the side of the lot indicates the resting place of those who sleep under the low mounds.

That which more impresses the visitor, however, at this season, is the number of bouquets of beautiful flowers placed in water-filled receptacles above the graves in loving remembrance. On some lots pansies, bloom, or peonies, but the little bouquets are most in evidence. One day last week a visitor from a distant city covered with flowers the grave of a sister who passed away twenty years ago.

The number of lots placed under perpetual care increases, but in all the older portions of the city. It is seen some graves utterly neglected, perhaps because there are none living to claim the relationship with those who were laid to rest many years ago. A part of one section near the Soldiers' Memorial is under perpetual care, and another part is not. The difference is painfully obvious to the observer.

The natural beauty of Fernhill, with its changing surface, quiet paths and beautiful trees, the great abundance of wild flowers, the smooth green of the spaces where the grass is regularly cut, the artistic monuments and the quietude have an effect upon the mind strangely unlike that of the noisy and dusty streets of the city. H. I. Spencer, who sleeps in a quiet corner chosen by himself years ago, wrote more than one short poem about Fernhill. The following was one of them.

"To those who in this silent city
Who wait for fate, the budding rose,
Summer's soft sunshine, the refreshing
Dew of the dawn, the birds who sing
And the flowers that bloom,
The birds whose songs make glad
This hill and dell;
The purple crocuses, eyes like golden
grain,
Awake no throbs within the breasts
Of those who rest, eyes like golden
grain,
Who have their dwelling here; nor joy nor pain
Come. For on flowers come, nor when fall the snows.
The vain ambitions, idle jealousies,
That make the soul in torture and perplex,
The misadventures that confound the
The, far recedence of Ambition's goal—
They lie here, for here all troubles cease—
City of Silence and Eternal Peace."

LEST WE FORGET.
The story told by Alexander Douglas, late of the 13th Battalion, at recent sitting into war claims excels in horror most of the tales of the Allan Poe. For refusing to make war material, after being captured in the gas attack in April, 1918, Douglas was sentenced to death, but instead of being shot, was sentenced to a novel and horrible form of execution. He was placed in front of the open doors of a great furnace which generated 800 degrees of heat. The writer of the story says that, after twenty minutes of that infernal heat, Douglas was taken from the furnace, literally cooking, for two hours; but after twenty minutes of that infernal heat, Douglas was taken from the furnace, literally cooking, for two hours; but after twenty minutes of that infernal heat, Douglas was taken from the furnace, literally cooking, for two hours.

AT THEIR OLD GAMES.
A reader who has resided south of the border since Armistice—he served for four years with the C. E. F.—has written to the editor of the distance is being received in the United States from Germany. The same thing is being done in the United States. Recently a Berlin banker stated that every month cheques for thousands of dollars were being received from charitable persons in the countries mentioned. An American college president received recently a letter from a "poor school girl" in Saxony begging for assistance. The writer of the letter said two of her sisters had passed away as a result of hunger. The college president sent the appeal to the New York City headquarters of European Student Relief and requested an investigation. The inquiry disclosed that the letter was not written by a school girl, but by the father of a girl who was employed in a factory in Saxony. The story of his two daughters having passed away of hunger was proved a myth.

DENTISTS AND SAINTS

The installation quite recently of Saint Apollonia, as the patron saint of dentistry, took place at the Medical Society of London—and the unveiling was a great ceremonial affair. Which reminds us that once upon a time other than the present, there were people who came a day when our careful parents took us in a family party to a most forbidding looking house in a drab district of a replant town for the usual quarterly visit to the dentist. That is at least what it looked like in those far-left-behind days.

Forbidding Thoroughfare.
And how well do we recall that forbidding waiting room in which we sat feverishly fingering back numbers of illustrated papers; and how easy do we remember the moment when Mr. Payne—common name—pulsed his head round the door, grinned dreadfully, and said: "Your turn now, my little man!" But we are young and well looked after in fact we imagine, as we look backwards, that we were born a generation too soon. The dentists no longer wear the middle, awe-inspiring slaves of a latter day antiquity; and indeed nowadays they may be regarded as the gentle pain-assuaging servants of Saint Apollonia. Why of Saint Apollonia? Who was she and why are dentists devoted geni—? you ask. Shame on your ignorance—read, mark, listen, and instantly digest—enlightenment.

Know ye that in the year 250 A. D. in the city of Alexandria there dwelt a man of great wealth and dignity—governor of a district. He had a wife, who doubtless maintained the dignity of his position in a fitting style. But regrettable blot in their otherwise blameless lives, these dignified persons were, alas, heathens. Now it came to pass that three pious Christian pilgrims came to the house of the magistrate and begged for alms in the name of the Lord and His Virgin Mother. The wife, unused to this form of supplication, ask for an explanation, and the leading pilgrim told her the wonderful story of Jesus Christ and the Virgin. The woman, converted to Christianity, gave them food, and her husband, who had been a heathen, became a mother. Her prayer was answered; a daughter was born unto her and was named Apollonia.

The maiden, a marvel of grace and beauty, grew a fervent Christian. She preached a true gospel, for which she was accused of breaking the law. Her father, better magistrate than father, gave her over to the devil. He in his turn ordered Apollonia to worship an idol set up in the market place. Apollonia before the judge made the sign of the cross and commanded the demon within it to depart. The demon with a demonic shriek broke from the idol and fled, crying: "The virgin Apollonia drives me forth." Thereupon the civil governor had the maiden bound to a column and had her teeth extracted one by one with a pair of pliers. A fire was kindled and she was hurled into the flames and perished a martyr to her faith.

A beautiful story.
A beautiful and moving story, but strangely irreconcilable with one of the tenets of the old-fashioned school of dentists. It is all very well for these beneficent, good men—to remember Apollonia as their patron. But surely it is the suffering cohort of patients who should have been first in the field and not the sufferer. It is as if all the dragons of time, mythological and modern, were to declare themselves as appealing against the style of the shrine of Saint Apollonia, the virgin martyr. Most decidedly we were sent to this earth at least a generation too soon!

SALESMANSHIP.
A young man called at the house of a celebrated diagnostician and asked to see the doctor.
"Have you an appointment?" the office nurse asked.
"No, I haven't." She consulted the appointment list.
"I think I can work you in after the next patient leaves. Please go inside that room and take your clothes off."
"Please, miss," said the little fellow, "but I don't want to take my clothes off."
"Then I'm sorry, but you can't see the doctor."
"Well, if that's the case, I'm game." A few moments later the doctor entered the room and found the young man awaiting him stark naked.
"Well, what seems to be the trouble?"
"Doctor, I called to see if you would renew your wife's subscription to the Ladies Home Journal."—Highway Builder.

WHY ALEXANDER WEPT.
The teacher was telling about the conquest of Alexander the Great, and related how after he had conquered India, instead of giving a great feast to celebrate the triumph, he sat down and wept.
"Now, children," she asked, "why do you think Alexander wept?"
Up went a little hand. "Well, Bobby, you may tell," she said.
"Please, miss," said the little fellow, "perhaps he didn't know the way back."—Exchange.

"I may demand a million for the next fight," says Jack Kearns, Dempsey's manager, and why not? So long as the great fool public stands for it, why shouldn't the pugilistic genius grab all that he can?
JOHN BULL'S WAY.
(Toronto Star).
"France," declares a French orator, "must strike the first blow in the next war." What a curious ambition. John Bull's aim in regard to war always is to avoid striking the first blow, but insists on striking the last one.

Here is an extract from one of Lamb's essays, which might be applied in large measure to the present day by certain people, except for the expression, "delightful thought it is in memory, 'sweet security of streets'": "I am in love with this green earth; the face of town and country; the unspeakable rural solitudes and the sweet security of streets. I would set up my tabernacle here. I am content to stand still at the age to which I am arrived; I, and my friends; to be no younger, no richer, no handsomer. I do not want to be waned by age, or into the grave. Any alteration on this earth, like mellow fruit, as they say, drop of mine, in diet or in lodging, puzzles and discomposes me. My household gods plant a terrible fixed rod, and are not rooted up without blood. They do not willingly seek Levantine shores. A new state being staggers me.

Collecting of Birds Is Held to Be Wise

Records Show About 15,000 Birds Annually Are Used for Study, Says Dr. Fisher.

Dr. A. K. Fisher, United States Bureau of Biological Survey, in a recent bulletin of the American Game Protective Association writes—

With the rapid passing of game from overhunting and with the enactment of more restrictive game laws, some pseudo-sportsmen and other selfish followers of the gun saw in scientific collecting an opportunity to extend their slaughter. As one of the consequences of this nefarious practice, there has been a growing feeling of resentment among local sportsmen toward ornithologists and reliable collectors, and thus innocent investigators have been made to suffer for the misdeeds of others.

It is believed that in killing his daily limit of twenty-five birds, even a good shot will mortally wound or cripple at least five more than he is able to secure. If in the course of the season twenty-five per cent. of the 4,000,000 sportsmen should secure the limit on one day only, according to the above estimate 5,000,000 birds would be wasted and these would be concentrated in a comparatively few species.

It is firmly believed that any one who will go to the trouble of preparing specimens or making reports on investigations should be honored with a scientific permit. If, subsequently, he or she should tire of the investigation, the material already obtained would be valuable for reference. A few game commissioners who have had little or no scientific training have taken the position that a sufficient number of birds has been collected and no more specimens are necessary.

Now Is the Time To Put Business On Its Feet Again

(Shoe and Leather Journal.)

The war has proven a calamity in more ways than in the great sacrifice of men and treasure involved. The aftermath has been even worse than the war itself and the results, social and commercial, have been nothing short of disastrous.

Spiritual leaders everywhere bemoan the revulsion from the fear of uncertainty and shock of war time to the loss of unbridled pleasure and passion. Business men have been puzzled and almost paralyzed by the conditions that prevailed before and during the war. Times have indeed changed, and business is today no more like what it was in 1914 or 1919 than chalk is like cheese.

Some men are travelling or endeavoring to travel in the same tracks or at the same pace that they did five or ten years ago, but there is a far greater proportion than ever who are just hobnobbing along waiting for things "to come around." This can't be done with any hope of success.

There are retailers in the period of 1916 to 1920 made money so fast and so easily that it seemed like picking up gold nuggets on the street. People did not ask the price of footwear, for the figures were constantly up and the body took it for granted. The spirit of recklessness which followed the war made buyers indifferent as to expense. The very relief that came with victory over the Hun caused staid people to cast caution to the winds. Women took a pride, and men a pleasure, in saying that their shoes cost them eighteen and twenty dollars. We were so used to talking in big figures that it is difficult to get back to the mark-up did not mean anything.

Business came so easy that our moral as well as social and commercial muscles relaxed and presently became almost atrophied. Men who had become accustomed to long hours and hard work "slipped." Shoemen began to think they were bankers instead of retailers.

Goods sold themselves, therefore less attention was given not only to advertising, but store surroundings and methods, with the result that everybody from the clerk to the proprietor became a "slacker." Wages and profits went up, and service and work came down. Is it any wonder that establishments lost their "punch" and even their ability to stand up before the reversal of conditions that came between 1920 and 1922? Stocks were allowed to gather upon the store and its methods. With the almost general demoralization came the tendency to "leak" up business instead of jacking it up. The style craze became alike the picking up of a manufacturer and the retailer with what results both have since only too sadly realized. It has been a case of "out of the frying pan into the fire."

That some establishments have been able to adjust themselves to changing conditions is to their credit, and proves that the same policy of buying and selling is the real remedy for business neurosis. All the medicine and codding in the world will not avail for a man whose nerves collapse. What he needs is fresh air and outdoor occupation to build up his wasted vitality. You might as well try to doctor an engine whose batteries have given out, with gasoline or lubricating oil, as try to put a dead business on its feet by moaning and hoping for better things.

If the three thousand retail shoe dealers of Canada would make up their minds to roll up their sleeves and sell goods, business would be on its feet in a month. They would need more shoes, and that would start things with the shoe manufacturer and tanner.

Turn up your books for last year, and make up your mind that you will increase your sales twenty-five per cent by August first. If you reach but half-way to this goal you will have accomplished something and only a thousand dealers increase their sales to this extent it will make quite a handsome addition to the shoe production of the country.

There are too many people waiting for a change in the tide to carry them back to prosperity. The thing is to head the craft in the direction of success and then with oars, sail or any other else available, work like Trojan.

A circular saw that cuts 75 piles a hour when submerged has been invented.

IRREGULAR IN WALL STREET

Trend Not Definite at Opening—Attack on the Oil Stocks.

New York, July 23.—(opening)—Prices moved irregularly without definite trend at the opening of today's stock market. A number of railroad shares recovered fractionally, while steel shares sold slightly lower.

Concentrating their attack on the oil stocks, professional traders forced prices in these issues down from large fractions to 1 1/2 points during the first half hour, losses of a point or more being recorded. Pan-American and "B" stock, Marland Oil and General Asphalt, being the ones affected. Dupont sold 1 1/2 lower and Baldwin dropped 1 1/4. Lorillard moved up 1/2-3/4 points. Foreign exchange rates opened relatively steady.

Montreal Exchange.

Montreal, July 23.—(10.30)—Trading in listed securities on the local stock market today was slow with only two issues registering a price gain. Steamships preferred acquired one point over the week-end and sold at 40. Canada preferred rose 1-4 to 78 in the paper group both Laurentide and Brompton lost ground, the former dropping 1-4 to 94-1/2 and the latter 1-4 to 39-3/4. Spanish River preferred at 98-1/2 was unchanged. In the tractors Brazilian stock at its closing price of Saturday at 47-3/4.

Exchange Today.

New York, July 23.—Sterling exchange irregular; Great Britain 4.29%; France 5.98; Italy 4.38%; Germany 90.02%; Canadian dollars 2 5/8 per cent. discount.

SAILOR'S ANTICS END IN DEATH

Accidentally Pushed to the Tracks and Comes Into Contact With Third Rail.

New York, July 21.—Playful antics on the platform of the Sand Street elevated station at the Brooklyn terminal of the Brooklyn Bridge on part of two sailors of the United States destroyer Bainbridge ended in the death of one when he accidentally was pushed to the tracks and came in contact with the third rail.

Officials of the Brooklyn Navy Yard, where the Bainbridge is tied up, said they believed the victim to be Urban Thompson, 29 years old, of Indianapolis, who was on leave. The second sailor told the police his companion's name was Thompson and that he was Base. No street was made.

A crowd of 100 or more persons waiting for a train were amused for a time by the two volunteer comedians, but several became nervous when they noticed that the sailors frequently came perilously close to the edge of the platform. One or two men reminded them of the dangerous third rail. The sailors merely laughed good-naturedly.

A minute later one of them fell on the tracks. His chin struck the outer rail and his body rolled against the third rail. Instantly a tongue of flame spat from the power conduit.

A patrolman called an ambulance from the Cumberland Street Hospital and the surgeon pronounced the man dead. The body was removed to the Kings County Hospital.

MORNING STOCK LETTER.

Humor Unappreciated.

A clergyman tells a tale of a very successful charity bazaar he once promoted. A kind friend lent him an emu, which he placed in a marquee, putting a notice outside which read: "This way to the emu—5d. Opposite to this marquee another was erected, in front of which was a board bearing the inscription: "This way to the emu—6d."

"And you'd hardly believe," added the holy man, "how many people, after paying sixpence to see the female bird, paid another shilling to come back and tell me exactly what they thought of me!"—Yorkshire Post.

The only inflated thing that is always accepted at its face value is a compliment.

RATHER HAVE THE LAW OBEYED THAN FINES PAID

Police Court Proceedings Bring Out Some Statements Relative to Auto Parking.

Arthur Tong and Frank McKinney were charged this morning with improperly parking their automobiles on the north side of King Square on July 20. Sergeant Spincey, who made the report, said that the disposition of the laws rather than to exact penalties from them. King Square was a very congested parking place in the evenings and if drivers would park according to law there would be room for many more cars. With reference to King Square, north and south sides, Canterbury street between Princess and Duke and along the southerly side of the fountain at Market Square between Prince William and Water streets cars must stand in single line at an angle of forty-five degrees with the roadway with the rear right wheel to the curb. Both drivers reported that they did not know that they had been violating the law. One had parked with the front wheels of his car to the curb in King Square.

Magistrate Henderson, after explaining the law to them and giving them copies of the revised traffic laws, allowed fines of $10 to stand.

FINED $50 BUT REFUSES TO PAY; CAR IS SEIZED

Magistrate Allingham in Fairville Court Deals with Case of Swift Driving in Rothesay Avenue.

A fine of $50 and costs, one of the largest ever imposed for an infraction of the Motor Vehicle Act in this part of the province, was the penalty handed out this morning by Magistrate Allingham, in Fairville court, in the case of Harold C. Robertson, a city grocer, who pleaded guilty to a charge of furious driving in Rothesay Avenue last evening. The accused admitted that he owned the car, pleaded guilty to the charge and said that he had between $200 and $300 in his pocket, not refused positively to pay the fine. Magistrate Allingham ordered his car seized and it is now held for the amount of the fine and costs by Policeman Stinson.

Provincial Constable Robert Crawford, who made the report, said this morning that the accused was traveling at not less than fifty miles an hour at the time and that he very narrowly missed striking four old people near Fernhill, where he was reported.

UNUSUAL CASE FOR THE POLICE

Boy Caught Again Tampering With Switch in C. N. R. Yard.

The police today are confronted with a rather unusual case. This morning about 11.30 C. N. R. Policeman Pierce arrested a colored lad eight years of age and charged him with throwing a switch in the C. N. R. yards on the evening of July 20. The boy is a deaf mute.

For some time past, it is said, the boy has been a source of considerable trouble to the C. N. R. He is said to have made a habit of tampering with the switches on the tracks and were it not for the watchfulness of the C. N. R. police and yardmen serious results might have ensued. Last Friday evening Policeman Pierce reports having caught him in the act of opening a switch and, thinking to give him a scare, began to put the handcuffs on him. Policeman Pierce thought he had him cured but this morning one of the yardmen chanced to look out a window and caught the lad at it again. Policeman Pierce appeared on the scene and placed him under arrest.

His home as entered on the books as Nova Scotia. It is said that he lives here with an aunt. His case was scheduled to come before Magistrate Henderson this afternoon.

Engineers Will Present Reports

Commissioners Speak on Need of Work at Sydney Slip and Indian Town.

Commissioner Frink this morning called the attention of the Common Council to the need for repairs to the bulkhead at the head of Sydney Slip, Brittain street, in order to protect the street and the slip. The bottom of the structure was fairly good but he estimated that about ten feet of the top would have to be reconstructed, either with timber or concrete. The city engineer and read engineer will prepare a report.

Commissioner Bullock brought up the matter of the bulkhead at the foot of Indian town, at the head of the public slip. The report should be extended further into the harbor and a small sidewalk needed repairs.

Mayor Fisher said he had received a communication from George Dick recommending the filling in of the Sydney Slip. Commissioner Bullock expressed the opinion that this would not be advisable. There will be reports from the engineers on both propositions.

BISHOP SPEAKS OF PILGRIMAGE

Refers to Blessings at Ste. Anne de Beaupre—Layman Reports Cures.

In the Cathedral of the Immaculate Conception at 9.15 o'clock mass yesterday His Lordship Bishop LeBlanc spoke of the recent pilgrimage to the shrine of Ste. Anne de Beaupre, at which he had been present. He was joined by many people from the city. He said the pilgrimage was a marked success. They had been blessed with fine weather and many graces had been granted those who attended the shrine.

The pilgrimage was a success, from still another aspect, he said, because it afforded many former residents of the city an opportunity to renew friendships with present residents, with the result that there were many joyous reunions of former friends at the shrine. As to cures at the shrine, great care always is exercised and announcement are not made until proven beyond doubt. His Lordship said that while there might not have been any outstanding cures there were many partial ones.

A St. John layman who was in the pilgrimage told a reporter for The Times that two cures from paralysis had been announced as a direct result of the pilgrimage to the shrine. One was that of a friend of a gentleman who, a sufferer from this disease for many years, had, after repeated visits to the shrine, been cured, and who for some years past had taken to the shrine a number of men similarly afflicted. One of these had been cured this year.

ASSESSMENT NEAR MILLION AND THREE QUARTERS

City Valuation for Taxation Purposes Close to $53,000,000—Greatest Sum From Real Estate.

The assessment for 1935 was filed today by the chairman of the Board of Assessors, E. Murray Olive, with the Common Clerk. The total amount of the levy is $1,709,486.86, made up as follows: County apportionment, $423,796.40; city, $1,165,440.10. The total assessment value is $52,974,550. The rate is 43 per $100.

The report to the council brings out forcibly the amount of real estate in the city which is exempt from taxation. The total valuation is $43,197,750; the amount exempt is $15,337,050; leaving $27,860,700 as the amount on which taxes are collected, or about two-thirds of the entire valuation.

The valuation on personal property is $15,443,000. As only fifty per cent of the valuation is assessed, this brings the net amount down to $7,721,500.

On income the amount of valuation is $18,424,100.

The amounts realized from each division are as follows:

Real Estate	$894,621.00
Personal	201,951.00
Income	492,864.50
Corporations and companies	78,873.92
Bank	23,120.84
Super tax	18,755.20

The amounts from personal are less than last year, but the returns from special and banks show a good increase, the figures for the latter being: Corporations and companies, 1922, $69,291.68, and banks, 1922, $22,057.76.

The number of ratepayers for 1935 is 17,906, which is 245 fewer than for 1922.

ST. JOHN DIOCESE PRIESTS ON RETREAT

The annual retreat of the priests of the diocese of St. John will be held in St. Joseph's College, Moncton, during the present week. The priests from the city and surrounding parishes left this afternoon on the Halifax train. During their absence Rev. Robert Nugent and Rev. E. Reynolds will be stationed at the Palace, and Very Rev. Charles Collins in West St. John. The daily masses in the Cathedral, it was announced, will be at seven and eight o'clock. Rev. Joseph B. Ward will be stationed in Fredericton, and Rev. J. Brown at St. Bernard's church, Moncton, and Rev. James Cloran, C. S. R., at the Assumption church, Moncton, during the retreat.

Speaking of the retreat, His Lordship Bishop LeBlanc asked the prayers of the congregation that the retreat might prove a benefit to the priests. He said that the priests prayed daily for the people and that in return they should pray for their priests, who, although many did not think so, were more greatly in need of prayer and graces than the people themselves.

The retreat will be preached by Rev. Father Lebrun of Bathurst, Provincial of the Eolite Fathers.
