A FEARFUL ADVENTURE

I was a medical student in Paris at the time the strange and startling adventure happened which I am about to record. Tired with long lectures and hard study, I was out one evening for a walk in the fresh are. It was a pleasant night in mid-winter, and the cold, bracing air, as it touched my feverish brow, caused a grateful sensation.

Passing through a rather lonely street near the river, I was surprised at meeting a voung girl—at least, she so appeared in the dim light of a rather distant street lamp—who carried in her hand some three or four boquets, which she offered for sale.

"Will mousieur have a boquet" she saked in a sweet, musical tone, holding out to use a well-arranged collection of heautiful flowers.

"They are very pretty," said I, taking twas a medical student in Paris at the see has strange and starting adventure inpensed which I am about to record, each with long lectures and hard study, was an tione eventing for a walk in the walk in a walk in the walk in a walk in the walk in a walk in light of a rather die in street lamp—who carried in her walk in street lamp—who carried in her walk in street lamp—who carried in her walk in a walk in the walk in the walk in walk in the walk in walk in the walk in

"Why else should I be here at this hour of the night monsieur?"

"And why here at all?" quickly returned I. "This street is little frequented, and is about the last in the world I should have selected for disposing of a luxury most suited to wealth and fashion."

"What is your price?" said I.
"Five france."
"A large sum."
"Monsieur will remember it is winter, and flowers are not plentiful."
"To aid you I will purchase," returned I, handing her the requisite silver coin; "for though I love flowers, I would otherwise hardly indulge in the luxury to night at such an expense."

when we met.

river Seine, in the direction I was walking when we met.

In less than five minutes we had entered a wretched quarter, among narrow streets, old, tottering buildings, and squalid-looking inhabitants, some of whom seemed to glare at us as we passed along.

"Is it much farther?" inquired I, beginning to feel uneasy.

"Only a step, monsieur. It is just here."

Almost immediately she turned into a covered passage, which led in back among habitations that I should never have voluntarily visited in the broad light of day. A distant lamp just served to make the gloom visible, till she suddenly stopped, and opened a door into total derkness.

"Your hand, Monsieur le Docteur," she said, at the same time taking it, and leading me forward.

I was tempted to draw back and refuse to go any farther, though I mechanically fellowed her.

We now went through a long, narrow passage, in total darkness, and, after two or three short turns, began to descend a flight of creaking, rotten stairs.

"Is it possible you live in a place like this?" said I, secretly wishing myself safely out of it.

this? said I, secretly wishing myself safely out of it.

"In Paris beggars cannot be choosers," replied the girl.

"But even in Paris it is not necessary for the living to take up their abode in sepulchres." I rejoined with some asperity, being vexed at myself for suffering my good nature to lead me into a den from which I might never come out alive. To this my fair guide deigned no reply. On reaching the foot of the stairs, she pushed open a door into a small, dhuly-lighted room, and I followed her into it with some secret misgivings. There was a bed in one corner, and on the appeared to be a human form, lying

"Monsieur shall not be detained long by me," rejoined the girl, passing out of the room by another door.

I did not sit down, but walked over. to the bed, where the patient was lying very still—so still, indeed, that I could not detect any breathing. A woman's cap was on the head, and the end of a sheet concealed the face. I ventured to that this down carefully, and beheld the eyeless sockets and grinning teeth of a human skull!

I started back in horror, and at the same moment, the door by which the girl had left was thrown open, and in marched, one after the other, four tall human flures in black cowns and auman figures, in black gowns and masks. I knew at once, then, that I was to be robbed, and probably murdered. I wore a heavy diamond pin and ring, carried a valuable gold watch, and ring, carried a valuable gold watch, and had in money about my person some eve hundred francs, but not a single weapon of any kind. Resistance being therefore out of the question, I felt that my only chance—if, indeed, there were a chance—was to conciliate the ruffians, and buy myself off. With a presence of mind for which I still take to myself considerable credit, I said at once:

The Most Astonishing Medical Discovery of the Last One Hundred Years. It is Pleasant to the Taste as the Sweetest Nectar. It is Safe and Harmless as the Purest Milk. This wonderful Nervine Tonic has only recently been introduced into this country by the proprietors and manufacturers of the Great South American Nervine Tonic, and yet its great value as a curative agent has long been known by a few of the most learned physicians, who have not brought its merits and value to the knowledge of the

This medicine has completely solved the problem of the cure of indigestion dyspepsia, and diseases of the general nervous system. It is also of the greatest value in the cure of all forms of failing health from whatever cause. It performs this by the great nervine tonic qualities which it possesses, and by its great curative powers upon the digestive organs, the stomach, the liver and the bowels. No remedy compares with this wonderfully valuable Nervine Tonic as a builder and strengthener of the life forces of the human body, and as a great renewer of a business down continuous. broken-down constitution. It is also of more real permanent value in the treatment and cure of diseases of the lungs than any consumption remedy ever used on this continent. It is a marvelous cure for nervousness of females of all ages. Ladies who are approaching the critical period known as change in life, should not fail to use this great Nervine Tonic, almost constantly, for the space of two or three years. It will carry them safely over the danger. This great strengthener and curative is of inestimable value to the aged and infirm, because its great energizing properties will give them a new hold on life. It will add ten

NERVOUS DISEASES. As a cure for every class of Nervous Diseases, no remedy has been able to compare with the Nervine Tonic, which is very pleasant and harmless in all its effects upon the youngest child or the oldest and most delicate individual. Nine-tenths of all the ailments to which the human family is heir are dependent on nervous exhaustion and impaired diges-When there is an insufficient supply of nerve food in the blood, a general state of debility of the brain, spinal marrow, and nerves is the result. Starved nerves, like starved muscles, become strong when the right kind of food is supplied; and a thousand weaknesses and ailments. disappear as the nerves recover. As the nervous system must supply all the power by which the vital forces of the body are carried on, it is the first to suffer for want of perfect nutrition. Ordinary food does not contain a sufficient quantity of the kind of nutriment necessary to repairthe wear our present mode of living and labor imposes upon the nerves. For this reason it becomes necessary that a nerve food be supplied. This South American Nervine has been found by analysis to contain the essential elements out of which nerve tissue is formed. This accounts for its universal adaptability to the cure of all forms of nervous derangement.

To the Great South American Medicine Co.:

DEAR GENTS:—I desire to say to you that I have suffered for many years with a very serious disease of the s. omach and nerves. I tried every medicine I could hear of, but nothing done me any appreciable good until I was advised to try your Great South American Norvine Tonic and Stomach and Liver Cure, and since using several bottles of it I must say that I am surprised at its wonderful powers to cure the stomach and general nervois system. If everyone knew the value of this remedy as I do you would not be able to supply the demand.
