VOL. 8.

ST. JOHN, N. B., WEDNESDAY, JUNE 23, 1886.

NO. 32.

(FOR THE SUN.) THE STREAMLET.

MORNING. The streamlet glides with a ripple of joy on its way...

Evening. From the peaceful homes of the village rise columns of pale, blue smoke...

Evening. The breeze gently whistles As the sun sinks down to rest...

Evening. And the night comes treading slowly In the path of the setting day...

Evening. A phantom there is which men call Death, And he follows where we go...

Evening. He sits at the King in his chair of state, And he walks by the plowman's side...

Evening. In the glades of peace, or in scenes of strife, In the hush of the calm or storm...

Evening. He sits at an orb of gold, and sits at our heart, And he follows where we go...

Evening. Wherever a thing of life is seen, On the land, or in sea, or air...

Evening. I sat in my window, high overhead, And heard them say, below in the street...

Evening. But I sat and pondered what it might mean To those who while the world went by...

Evening. Or down there under the growing grass Did he hear the feet of the daylight pass?

Evening. Where day time and night time as one to him flow, And grieving and hoping a tale that is told...

Evening. Does he brood in the long night under the sod On the joys and sorrows he used to know?

Evening. Is he dead, and a cloud there down below Or dead and wiser than any alive?

Evening. Each of them loving, each of them loved, Gazing down with the river, Nature smiled, and the sun above...

Evening. Years had passed, and a woman wept, Wept for the love that was lost for aye...

Evening. A professional beggar died recently in Rio Janeiro and left a fortune of $200,000...

A TENNIS CLUB STORY.

'Well, I must say I never was so tried and perplexed about anything in all my life; whatever shall we do about it, Sam?'

'Do!' said Sam, who was tilted back on his garden chair, with a straw hat resting on his nose...

'Well, my venerable sage, said Sam to him, "the first and most important thing we want your help and counsel in, is—'

'An affair of the heart.' 'Mr. Colthurst looked at them in consternation...

'How's he to do it, Nellie's sister—you know the kid—came home, and was proposed for the club last week...

'That's a capital suggestion,' said Sam. 'A brilliant one indeed. You're blossoming into a regular Oracle of Delphi, you are. Would you mind mentioning his?'

'This hadn't occurred to George. He meditated for a while, and at last said, diffidently, "Patent."

'They didn't welcome the idea with absolute enthusiasm. After a while Colthurst said, doubtfully, "Have you got them, Sam?'

'Sam produced them with some pride, as if it was an instance of forethought not to be expected from him...

'There were the ballot papers. Not much information to be had from them. Only oblong slips of paper, fifteen of them, each bearing the young lady's name, and ruled in two columns "Yes" and "No."

'They passed this last of each set or so, and was somewhat uncertain in its equilibrium, as if unaccustomed to biped progression...

'"Hallo, Toddlie, how are you?" said Colthurst, "come here."

'But the young lady wouldn't go to him. "Now, young person," said Sam, holding it above her head, and speaking in a tone of dignified reproach, "what do you mean?"

'"You've got to be a little more attentive," said Sam, drawing her to him and looking over her shoulder. One corner of the paper was adorned with a faint pencil sketch, nearly illegible now, representing the head of a ferociously moustached warrior...

sooty ground. On a dry, hard cross they fell at home and ran up fine scores. Fifteen thousand people witnessed the match, interest having been excited by the special composition of the English team as to fielding and bowling. But for one at least the Englishmen started on a false basis. Their first innings was grand; but when it comes to placing a ball to stop run getting they are as infatigable as the Australians. To illustrate: With Grace at the bat the Australians played a deep field. With Lock batting they put four men in the slips and three at squareleg. In fact they squandered around his bat like a flock of English sparrows. Lock by the way, is one of the rising players. He is a cool, steady bat and as a bowler takes high rank. In the first innings he captured five wickets with 11 runs, the best bowling record on the English side.

But to detail. The match commenced under anything but favorable circumstances. There was a rain (for a wonder) but the light was bad and the wicket very slow. Under these conditions the Australians very wisely sent their opponents to the bat. Fifteen minutes after the match opened Grace was clean bowled by Spofforth, the result of one of the best pieces of head work ever seen in the cricket field. For three hours the Australian batsmen bowled to Grace on the last stump with an out-batter, causing Grace to be bowled by Spofforth, the result of one of the best pieces of head work ever seen in the cricket field.

'What are they puzzled now?' Mrs. Ellison wanted to know, again assailing her unoffending brother, who, to do him justice, generally knew as little about anything as was possible for one man unassisted.

'Oh, blow them, I don't know. Carrying on some moonshiny game of their own, I suppose. You know people who are always always do. I remember when myself and Ned were out for a half for a run every 10 minutes, and you have some idea of the strength of the Australian bowling. Every man who tried to take liberties with the bowling, fell a victim to his rash tactics. Even with the demon Spofforth away the batsmen were not to be taken in. It was the batsmen's fault, for they were not to be taken in. It was the batsmen's fault, for they were not to be taken in.

Vancouver, B. C., was Laid in Ashes

By Those Destructive Brush Fires.

SOME SAD STORIES OF THE CONFLAGRATION.

The Number of Lives Lost Uncertain.

(Special to the Globe.)

TORONTO, June 15.—The city of Vancouver was obliterated by fire yesterday (Sunday). Only four houses are now standing. Hastings and Royal City saw mills are saved. The loss is half a million dollars; insurance, one hundred and fifty thousand dollars. Fifty lives are known to be lost; fourteen bodies have been recovered. The identified are John Caswell, Mrs. Nash, George Bailey Fawcett. The others are not identified.

Mayor McLean telegraphed for aid for three thousand homeless people without provisions. The mayor is forwarding relief and the government is aiding in one junction. The Victoria Ladies' Association has sent a party of five to-day, who are to be housed in the Victoria Hotel. The Victoria Hotel is now a hospital for the homeless. The Victoria Hotel is now a hospital for the homeless.

The property saved is insignificant. A clean sweep defines the situation. A thousand men are to go to work clearing up tomorrow for the C.P.R. Railway. Twenty contracts for building are already let. Only three out of the ten bodies have been identified. Many men are injured, but are determined to start again on their own. We are confident that the count as the direct result widows and orphans among the sufferers.

Hundreds of people are camped out. New Westminister people—rival sister city—are especially open-hearted and liberal. Fronted from the Canadian Pacific railway is expected. Heroism and hardships characterized the whole dreadful state, and many were compelled to abandon their homes without a moment's warning and flee for their lives. Those in search of relatives were compelled to walk through the flames and smoke or peril. The whole city was ablaze and the panic-stricken population sought refuge from the horrible holocaust.

Very few people have more than the clothes they stand in. All frames broken. The city is rapidly being rebuilt mostly by brick. Contracts for a large hotel and other extensive buildings representing half a million dollars, were let just before the fire.

PARTICULARS OF THE FIRE. (Special to the Sun.) VICTORIA, B. C., June 15.—All day Sunday there was a steady wind from the northwest, and brush clearing fires on the Canadian Pacific railway. Lots were fanned to such an extent as to free the terminal town of Vancouver with smoke. Shortly after 1 p.m. the smoke was so dense that the people found it impossible to direct their steps to the exact location of their homes. Soon a stable near the terminal Hotel was seen to be on fire. An alarm was given, but to no avail. The people that they paid no attention to it for some time. The wind by this time had increased to a gale, and fanned the flames into a mass of raging fire, and one of the first buildings to be destroyed was the Victoria Hotel. The flames shot across Abbott street with astonishing rapidity, and almost before the people could realize the extent of the conflagration the city was in a blaze. The excitement was now intense. Water street was...

FILLED WITH A DENSE SMOKE and flying cinders, and the people were hurrying with what effects they could gather their belongings to a place of safety. The general direction of the fire was eastward, and many ran to the elevated ground owned by the C. P. R. Company. Others again made for the main street.

Those who endeavored to save their goods were so engrossed in their object as to appear heedless of the danger of the flames which were fanned especially necessary to compel many women to relinquish their efforts in order to save their lives. In some cases they were just time to place them on the improved stairs which were pushed out from the stores beyond the flames, which literally seemed to fill the air.

In less than time it takes to describe it, the fire had reached the terminal street. Some merchants in the vicinity of the city, and who were their goods to a place of safety, but so rapid was the conflagration that before their horses were ready the teamster themselves were obliged to fly for their lives.

All hope of saving any considerable amount of property was now abandoned, and each contented himself with hastily putting together what he could carry in his hands without seriously impeding his speed and hurried to the spot. But even after leaving the house the danger was not over, for every road had been an avenue of fire, falling embers and stumps on each side of the road, and the fugitives as the burning houses of the doomed city.

During the confusion which prevailed, when the rowlies and ruggs saw that everyone was leaving, they went to the saloons which had been left entirely unprotected and commenced drinking. Many a one was seen staggering along the streets with a keg of beer on his shoulder, or carrying as many bottles of liquor as he could appropriate. He was sitting...

By the fire and apparently oblivious of their surroundings, drinking liquor. They were, of course, partially intoxicated. A large number of fugitives collected at the Hastings Mill Company's wharf, but the large majority collected at a place of great height. Nothing was to be seen from either of these points but a lurid rolling bank of smoke, hanging over the whole of the city, from which stragglers could be seen occasionally flying. The steamer Dunsmuir came to the dock to receive people and with several others conveyed a large number over to Woodville.

The dropping of the flames was as sudden as their rise, and by six p.m. some adventurous spirits had already made their way along the roads of the destroyed city, and were at work the work of searching for the bodies of those overtaken by the fiery element had begun. It...

THE AUSTRALIAN TEAM EASILY DEFEAT THE GENTLEMEN OF ENGLAND. (Special Correspondence of the Sun.) LONDON, June 5.—There was a general exodus of colonists from the exhibition to Lord's grounds for the last two days to witness the match between the Australian cricketers and strongest team ever put in the field by the gentlemen of England. To the joy of the colonists the Australians were seen, though only playing ten men against the English eleven.

'Had the good fortune to attend under the protection of an old-time cricketer and it is his account of the match, rather than my own, which follows. Thirty years ago my friend was one of the best bats in England. Today he weighs nearly seventeen stone. He now leads cricket only.

The English team was headed by the renowned Dr. W. G. Grace, with Lord Harris as captain, and completed G. W. Rook of Cambridge, W. W. Read of Surrey, W. E. Rolfe of Derby, G. F. Vernon of Middlesex, G. B. Studd of Middlesex, G. C. Kemp and S. Christian of Kent, and G. G. Walker of Derbyshire. It was made up with special regard to bowling and fielding, in which lines the Australians are most expert, though in batting Grace, Rook, Vernon and Studd tower Sant-like above their brethren.

The Australians were captained by H. J. Scott of Victoria, a grand all-round player, but easily in the game they lost their demon bowler Spofforth, who had been seen at the match, and was tempted to stop a high ball very hot return from Lord Harris's bat. From that time out Spofforth was the best bowler in the match. Grace fielded in Spofforth's place and did good work for a heavy man.

The first innings since their arrival the Australians played without a rain fall, and though at the opening the ground was very wet, it dried rapidly that on the second day they had a lively cricket. And a lively cricket just suits them. Every match they have lost in their five annual visits have been lost on...

States Government with the approval of these international lawyers is preventing another nation from fishing within twelve miles of the United States coast, the distance being measured from headland to headland.

The New England senators fan the rage of the fishermen by telling them that Canada is illegally harassing them because the United States has placed a duty on Canadian fish.

It requires much charity to lead one to suppose that a cultured man, of mature years and wide knowledge, can honestly believe the same principle wrong in one country as in another.

LOCAL MATTERS.

A correspondent, in relation to the above, writes: Mrs. Grogan had a belief that the body of her husband would rise to the surface, and every afternoon at four o'clock she would take a walk to the river bank and watch the river in the direction of where her husband was drowned.

DEER ISLAND.—It seems now clearly understood that a cable is to be laid to Deer Island. The government deserves our thanks for this.

A NEW INCURSION.—On Tuesday morning of last week, an elderly lady of this place put a hen's egg on the back part of her kitchen stove and about an hour afterward she was greatly surprised in seeing a chick break through the shell and chirp.

BOAT FOUND.—The body of Joseph Grogan, drowned by the upsetting of his mill, was gaged with a raft of logs on the 17th May, opposite Campbellton, has been found.

W. O. STERLING has severed his connection with the Herald and accepted the position of business manager of the St. John Sun.

CANADIAN FOOD PRODUCTS.

Published in the Canadian Section of the Colonial and Indian Exhibition, by E. B. Biggar.

During the past two weeks several meetings have been held in the Canadian court by those interested in the question of exporting Canadian fruits and food products to the English market.

On motion of S. C. Stevenson, seconded by C. R. H. Starr, Messrs. Cornwall, Hunt, Maguire, and Biggar were appointed a committee to consider the subject.

class people of the north and southeast, to all of whom, burdened as they are with heavy rents and taxes and struggling to make both ends meet, any saving in the price of food, however slight, would be a boon.

If New Brunswick displayed anything like the same energy in placing their products on the markets of the old world as our cousins over the line, it would no doubt induce the young men of the province to settle down to farming and develop their own country instead of drifting off into the States.

In conclusion, I may say that it is only the fact of my London agents not having the time to devote to the matter, without which success is impossible, and my not being in possession of Aladdin's wonderful lamp by which I might, as it were, on both sides of the Atlantic at once that prevents me from going into a business which would, as an accident, be mutually advantageous to both countries.

ANNIVERSARY SERVICE OF ST. JOHN'S CHURCH AND ST. MARY'S CHURCH SUNDAY SCHOOL.

The pews in the centre of St. John's (Steele) church were filled Sunday evening by the pupils in the Sunday schools of the parish of St. Mark, who joined in the hymns arranged for the occasion and added no little to the interest of the exercises.

Prior to the collection, Rev. Mr. Raymond announced that this was the only appeal made directly to the congregation during the year in behalf of the Sabbath schools of the parish.

There is still a debt due on St. Mark's church Sunday school building, and the necessary steps are being taken to have it repaid. He hoped, as an amount collected would be divided equally between the schools of St. John's and St. Mark's, the amount contributed would be liberal.

BAPTIST UNION SEMINARY.

Annual Meeting Yesterday—Reports of the Year's Work.

THE LOCATION OF THE NEW SEMINARY LEFT WITH THE DIRECTORS.

The annual meeting of the directors and friends of the Baptist Union Seminary, which was held in the Mechanics' Institute, yesterday morning, was largely attended. In the absence of the president the chair was taken by Dr. McFarlane of Fairville, and after prayer by Rev. G. A. Hartley, the minutes of the last annual general meeting of the society, were read by the secretary and approved.

The treasurer's report was then presented by C. A. Everett, M. P. The amount received by him during the year was $6,749.17 and disbursements $6,748.59, leaving a balance in the Maritime bank of 88 cents. The report was referred to the audit committee.

THE DIRECTORS REPORT.

In the absence of the chairman, was read by the secretary. The internal interests of the school have been most satisfactory during the year, but that there was not a larger attendance is regretted. Miss young men have been, during the year, preparing for the ministry in the work of which they are now engaged. The directors had settled with Mr. Cushing for the purchase of the property in Lancaster. Mr. Cushing demanded $5,000 for a release, but finally had consented to accept $3,000. The directors recommended that a site for a seminary edifice should be selected at once by the society. The report was considered section by section.

In their report the directors said that there was the sum of $511.27 due the teachers at the institution on their salaries, for the payment of which it was important that provision should be made. On rent $202.50; for fuel $60; for printing about $45, and some small bills amounting to $8. There was also a balance of $23.50 due Mr. Cannon $219.41 due for painting school rooms in institute about $37; total $1,245.67, on unpaid salaries, leaving a deficit of about $225.45 which should be provided for at once. Propositions had been made for the location of the seminary at St. Martins and Sussex, and the directors recommended that the proposition be considered. Mr. Gordon, chairman of the committee appointed to confer with the friends of the institution in Sussex, reported that subscriptions for the building were on hand to the amount of $5,300, and he thought a considerable larger sum might be secured. The subscriptions were based on condition that the institution should be located at Sussex, and that a sufficient amount be secured to warrant its success.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

In the afternoon Wm. Vaughan, of St. Martins, said that the people of that place were ready to give as much as was originally proposed, about $6,000, without any restrictions to have the seminary transferred to that place. He said also that a fine lot of land in the parish could be obtained for school purposes for a very small amount of money. Mr. Peters thought that without a larger attendance the location of the seminary had better be postponed until a future meeting. The consideration of the removal of the seminary to Sussex, St. Martins or elsewhere was referred to the incoming board of directors.

A vote of thanks from the society was tendered to Mr. Wilson for his gratuitous services during the last four months.

The election of directors for the ensuing year was then proceeded with.

Rev. Dr. Hopper, Rev. Dr. McLeod, Rev. C. Goodspeed, Rev. Mr. Noble were appointed examining committees by the chairman.

The following gentlemen were nominated by the committee—C. P. Barker, Foster McFarlane, M. D., Dr. Steeves, Mont McDonald, J. S. May, John March, E. C. Ekin, Wm. Vaughan, Wm. Peters, G. E. Foster, M.
