To all students of Old McGill, greeting. The Young Men's Christian Association of McGill University takes pleasure in extending a hearty welcome to the new students and a cordial invitation to all—new and old—to avail themselves of the privileges of the Association Building, No. 844 Sherbrooke St. If those who are coming to the city as strangers, will kindly send their names, together with the time and train by which they expect to arrive, to the General Secretary, members of the Association will be pleased to meet them at the station and be of any service possible.

MY DEAR FRIEND :- TIST and live powbee

Are you a Freshman or new Student, not having as yet given any anxious or careful thought to your spiritual state, and your relations to the salvation offered by our Divine Redeemer? If so, Christ's great invitation-" Seek first the Kingdom of God, and His righteousness,"-that is, His pardoning and justifying grace, and the holiness of character which comes of the working of His spirit in the renewed heart, - this should have your first thought in your present new position, where you will have new surroundings, new companions, new temptations, and where every day of delay may remove you further from the great change which trust in Christ will effect. Every hour's delay here is dangerous. There are, it is true, many means of grace open to you, the preaching of the Gospel in the different Churches, and by evangelists; the reading of the scriptures; meditation and prayer; but I may truly say that none of these claim earlier attention than the Y.M.C.A., one function of which is to attract your attention to all other means of spiritual enlightenment and growth.

But perhaps you are already a Christian, and desirous of growing in the Christian life. If so, the call is still quite as urgent, for you have not only the will of your Saviour to consult, but probably also the kind wishes and prayers of loving Christian friends at home; and you are in a position at once to make a new advance in your Christian life by becoming an active member of the Association, and thus making your influence for good felt, as well as further promoting your own spiritual life by all the various means provided by the Association. You will also enjoy the comfort and strength which proceed from the Society of kindred minds aiding each other in love and in good works. They can introduce you to the best friends among your fellow-students; and you will find very helpful their meetingsfor prayer and praise, and mutual encouragement, their Bible-classes, their library and reading-room, their connection with student missionary bands in Canada and elsewhere. You will also have increased opportunities for personal influence among your fellow-students, and to those members and friends of the University other than students, who take an

But Christ in His invitation to seek first the Kingdom of God, recognizes the fact that there are other things to be sought, things necessary or desirable in our life here; and He goes on to say "all these things shall be added unto you." You have come to the University for education in literature and science, or for training, in the knowledge and skill required for a useful profession. Now we have the sure promise that if we seek first the spiritual life, God will so bless our earnest endeavors after the things really good in this life that we may seek after, or need. You may therefore reckon that, with God's may therefore reckon that, with blessing, any time you may devote to the Y. M. C.A., will be more than made up to you, and that now as in time past, the godly student will be the most successful in his College career. I would here say, that as your progress in education is your chief duty as a student, you may confidently ask God for His blessing on your conscientious efforts; and also on the air and exercise necessary to keep up your

To sum up the whole matter, I earnestly advise every student at once to join the Y.M.C.A. for his own sake, for the sake of his fellow-students, and for Christ's sake; as well as for the sake of the University, and for the satisfaction and happiness of all your Christian friends and relations everywhere.

Acoill University.

McGill University was founded in 1821, under bequest of the Hon. James McGill, who left his estate on the slopes of Mount Royal and the sum of £10,000 for this purpose.

In 1829 the college was formally opened in "Burnside House" under the Principalship of Rev. Dr. Mountain and three professors. The present arts building was opened in 1843 but at that time consisted only of the central building and east wing, without connecting corridor.

Here the classes in Arts and Medicine met until the re-organization of the University, under its new charter, in 1852.

During all this time and for some years succeeding, the University labored under difficulties which at times seemed insurmountable. The erection of buildings caused a serious drain on the funds of the University, the charter of 1821 was cumbrous and defective. Government support was most meagre, and that private munificence, which of late has been the source of her prosperity, was then undeveloped. In 1835, Dr. Mountain resigned the Principalship, and was succeeded by Rev. Dr. Bethune, who after eleven years of office, gave place to E. A. Meredith, afterwards Deputy Minister of the Interior. Principal Meredith was succeeded in 1853 by the Hon. Justice C. D. Day, LL. D., then President of the Board of Royal Institution, who acted as Honorary Principal for two years until the appointment of Dr. Dawson, whose firm hand and wise council guided the University in a path of prosperity and renown for thirtycight years, whost with but beathand and wheat

In 1852, an amended charter was secured, all but absolutely essential expenses were cut down, and portions of the estate were sold in order to obtain an income. The classes in Arts were then re-commenced with new vigor, and with increased staff, in the new building known as Burnside Hall, which was situated on the site of the present Fraser Institute. At that time the College classes occupied the upper part of the building, and the High School, then connected with the University, occupied the lower portion.

The revenue from the land disposed of, together with a government grant of £1300, relieved the pressure temporarily, but a few years later it was found necessary to make an appeal to the citizens of Montreal, which was liberally met by the subscription of an endowment fund of £15,000. The amended charter, the appointment of Dr. Dawson as Principal in 1855, and the creation of a permanent endowment fund was the dawn of better days for McGill.

In 1861, Wm. Molson, Esq., announced his intention of erecting a new wing to the College, and the next year the Molson Hall and the corridors connecting it and the East Wing with the main building were completed, and classes in Arts were finally transferred to the original College buildings where they still continue to meet. Since then advancement both in extension of buildings and equipment has been uninterrupted and rapid.

The Library was founded in the same year by the purchase of a small collection of historical works. This has gradually increased, until the library at present occupies the magnificent building, the gift of the late Peter Redpath, Esq. It is capable of containing nearly one hundred and fifty thousand volumes, and has a spacious reading room where every accommodation both for the comfort and convenience of the students has been provided.

In 1863 the Observatory was erected on the west side of Molson Hall. It has recently been enlarged and improved.

The main part of the building of the Faculty of Medicine was erected in 1866. This, however, became too small for the number of students. The gift of Sir Donald Smith, and the Campbell Memorial Fund, made possible the extension of the buildings in 1885. But these again became too small to meet the growing needs, and through the timely generosity of the late John H. R. Molson, Esq., they were enlarged to nearly double their former capacity, and the whole interior of the buildings, both old and new, was re-arranged. Last year Lady Strathcona and the Honorable. Mrs. Howard each donated the sum of $50,000 for the further extension of the Medical Buildings. One nam

In 1878 the department of Applied Science was created a Faculty, it having been up to this time merely a department of the Faculty of Arts. In 1890, Thomas Workman, Esq., died, leaving a bequest of $110,000 for the construction of workshops for the use of students in this Faculty. This gift was shortly afterwards followed by a still more generous one from W. C. McDonald, Esq. latter, two immense buildings have been erected, one the Engineering Building adjoining the Workman shops and containing lecture and drawing rooms, laboratories, testing apparatus, museum, library, etc.; the other is devoted to the Department of Physics and has a perfect equipment.

During the session of 1896-97, Mr. Mac-Donald (now Sir Wm. C. Macdonald) still further shewed his princely generosity toward McGill by making a donation of $650,000 for the erection of a Mining and Chemistry Building. This is now completed and is considered to be one of the finest of its kind in the world,

In 1884 the Donalda Special course for women was endowed by Sir Donald Smith, who has since erected and liberally endowed the beautiful Royal Victoria College on Sherbrooke Street, which will be occupied this session.

In addition to these three Faculties, the University comprises a Faculty of Law, recently placed on a sound financial basis by the munificence of W. C. McDonald, Esq., a Faculty of Comparative Medicine, ably presided over by Dr. D. McEachran; a Normal School for the training of public school teachers; and, united to her by terms of affiliation, are several rural Colleges, and four Theological Colleges in Montreal.

To-day when prosperity smiles upon McGill, when she is recognized as one of the leading Universities of America, one name will always stand out in bold relief, the one who stood by her during her adversity and laid the foundation of her present greatness, the name of our revered Honorary President, Sir William Dawson.

In the session of 1895-96, Prof. William Peterson, M.A., LL.D., of Dundee, Scotland, was appointed principal. Dr. Peterson has proved himself an able and competent leader and has constantly grown in popularity and in the esteem of the students.

Rugby Football Club.

This is at once one of the most popular and most prosperous of the various athletic organizations in the college. It embraces three teams, known as the senior, intermediate, and junior, respectively, besides the various faculty and year teams. Practice begins on the college campus about Sept. 15th, but it is hoped and expected that all who intend to play will endeavor to get into condition prior to that date.

It is necessary to obtain a certificate from the Physical Director at the College Gym. before beginning practice.

Personal Mygiene.

R. TAIT MCKENZIE, B.A., M.D.

Every man on coming to McGill should undertake a regular course of exercise. likely to take part in Athletics- or Football, get your measurements and certificate from the director as soon as possible after entering college and thus save trouble and delay later on. (See regulations in Calendar.) To many, Football and Hockey have certain disadvantages which prevent them from being followed systematically enough to do any good. such men we would specially recommend regular work in the gymnasium (19 University street). The class meets three times a week at 5 p.m., and the work is so arranged that three-quarters of an hour at least of vigorous all-round work can be had without the risk of over-exertion.

The best way to get a new gymnasium on the College grounds is to show that the old one is appreciated.

Make the gymnasium hour fill a place on your time-table like any lecture and you will find it an hour gained.

Don't be afraid to make the Director your confidante in all matters pertaining to your physical life. He can help you in many difficulties and will always be found glad to do so.

Be regular in your attendance that you may graduate a better man physically, as well as morally and intellectually, than when you entered college life.

A few Places of Interest.

The Young Men's Christian Association of the City of Montreal, Dominion Square, presents one of the sights of the city and will repay every student to make an early call. Every courtesy will be shown in conduction through its various departments. All members of the University Association are invited to make regular use of the well equipped Reading Room.

The Abattoirs:—These are situated near the Grand Trunk Railway Station at Cote St. Paul, and at Hochelaga; they will be of interest especially to medical students.

The "Star" and "Witness" Printing Offices.

The best time to visit is about 4 p.m., when the last edition is being printed off.

The Art Gallery, Phillips Square.—Admission 25 cents. Saturday afternoon, free, except during special exhibitions.

Royal Victoria Hospital.—The buildings of this institution are situated on the Mountain side, at the head of University Street.

The Natural History Society Museum, corner University and Cathcart Streets.—
Students may obtain tickets, free of charge, admitting them to the Museum, from the Professor of Botany.

The Montreal Water Works, at Point St-Charles, are well worth a visit.

The University Botanical Gardens, at the top of Cote des Neiges Hill.
