Manures.

Anything, which, being added to the soil, directly or indirectly promotes the growth of plants, is a manure. Manures directly assist vegetable growth, either by destroying vermin or weeds, by decomposing in the soil, by protecting plants from sudden changes of temperature, or by improving the texture of the soil. The manure from cows and all animals that chew the cud, is considered cold, and suited to a light soil; that of horses, hogs and poultry is hot, and best suited to a cold, heavy soil. All new and fresh manure engenders heat during fermentation, and has a tendency to lighten the soil, while old, rotten manure is thought to render it more compact and firm. The manure of birds is richer than that of any other animals. Three or four hundred weight of the manure of fowls, turkeys, etc., is equal in value to from fourteen to eighteen loads of animal manure. Guano is a manure of this class. It is well to apply about two hundred weight per acre, with one-fifth of the usual quantity of other manure. Guano should never, in a fresh state, come in contact with seeds or the roots of plants, as it is sure to destroy their vitality. A thick coat of log-pen or barn yard manure, spread on the garden and turned in every spring, will enrich, warm and lighten the ground better than any application of other manures. The principal animal manures are those of the horse, the dog, the cow and the sheep. Of these, the horse manure is the most valuable in its fresh state, but it should be exposed as little as possible, as it begins to heat and lose its nitrogen immediately, as may be perceived by the smell; mix it with other manures, and cover it with absorbents as soon as possible. That of the hog comes next in value, while the cow is at the bottom of the list. The richer the food given the animals, the more powerful is the manure. If animal manures are employed in a fresh state, they should be well mixed with the soil, and given to coarse feeding crops, such as corn and the garden peas; but nearly all plants do better if the manure is composted and fully fermented before use. Bone dust, mixed with ashes or pulverised charcoal, and sown broadcast over the ground at the rate of three bushels per acre, is very beneficial, and the most valuable fertilizer. Cabbages, etc., and the quantity needed for an acre is so small that the expense is less than almost any other application. Common salt, at the rate of six bushels per acre, sown in the spring, on lands distant from the sea shore, not only promotes fertility, but is very useful in destroying worms and slugs. It may be applied with advantage, especially to sandy soils. Salt is excellent to drive off insects and vermin. Very little of it can be obtained, but it should be carefully preserved, and applied in small quantities to cabbages, turnips, cucumbers, melons, squashes, and all plants infected with insects. Charcoal renders the soil light and friable, and gives it a dark color and additional warmth for early crops. When composted with night soil, it becomes poudrette, and is second only to guano as a fertilizer. Leaves, straw and rubbish, thrown together, and moistened with a mixture of lime and salt, kept in a heap until decomposed, forms the best known manure for trees and shrubs. Swamp muck, mixed with salt, lime or leached ashes, is of value where it can be obtained, but of still more value is the leaf mould, or black surface soil of the woods. For the vegetable garden, it is best composted with fresh animal manure, but can be applied directly to most plants in the flower garden, many of which will not flourish unless this material is present in the soil. Tanbark, decayed chips, sawdust and shavings, covered with soil, are of great advantage to potatoes. Wood ashes, leached or unleached, may be used with decided benefit, as a top-dressing, to most growing vegetables, especially onions and turnips. Plaster sown upon the growing crop, is good for turnips, cabbages, beans, cucumbers, squashes, melons, and all broad leaved plants.

Working Mares when in Heat.

That graceful and intelligent writer upon the horse, "S. T. H." in an article published several months since, in a New York paper, has the following upon the effect of working mares when in heat:—"The writer's experience in working brood mares while in foal has been exceedingly valuable. Three road mares, all of which could trot faster than 2.40, were driven on the road within three months of their time of foaling, and in every instance, they produced colts not only gifted with remarkable trotting action, but with great ambition to trot in the field after they became a few weeks old. The same mares, since they have been devoted exclusively to breeding, have not dropped foals equally gifted or desirous to trot, either in the field or when broken to harness. The first great colt trotter—the celebrated Cora, who was sired by Neave's Clay, master of Straddle's Clay, as published by "Hark Comstock"—was the daughter of the celebrated road mare Queen, that, both before and after proving with foal, was used as a road mare. Cora, like a bright school girl, was talented from birth. After her dam was used exclusively for breeding and never a live colt had five foals in a row, they could trot in three minutes. Mark the history of the breeding of the gem of the Fearnought family! Galatea, with a record of 2.25 1-2 as a four year old, was out of Grand Duchess, who was trotted continuously in the races through the grand circuit at Buffalo, Utica, Springfield, and at Taunton, winning her record of 2.26 1-2 after she had borne the weight of the future Galatea five months in her womb. Harry W. Genet and many other historical trotters, will trace the secret of their speed to the same cause. It stands the test of reason. If the trotting brain and trotting muscles are constantly stimulated while the mare is carrying the foal, the formation and development and ambition must be impressed upon the growing fetus. I believe in the colt receiving its action and ambition from the dam, if her action and ambition are stimulated during the period of gestation by judicious driving. Trot the mare during pregnancy, and the colt will inevitably trot."

Shoeing Horses.

The Rev. W. H. Murray, whose advice is worth heeding, says about shoeing: "The nails should be quite small and driven in more gently than the custom. There is no reason why the smith should strike a blow at the little nail head as strong as he would deliver at the head of a spike in an oak beam. The hoof of the horse is not an oak stick, and the delicately pointed and slender headed nail is not a wrought iron spike, and yet you will see the nailer whack manure at them as if it was a matter of life and death to get them entirely set in at two blows of his hammer. Insist that the nailer shall drive his nails slowly and steadily, instead of using violence. In this case, if his nail is badly pointed and gets out of proper line of direction, no great injury is done. It can be withdrawn, a new one substituted, without harm having been done the foot. But the swift, blind, and violent way prevents all such care, and exposes the horse to temporary, if not permanent injury. Gentleness should be exercised in clinching the nails. Never allow a smith to touch a rasp to the outer surface of the hoof. Nature has covered it with a thin filament of enamel, the object of which is to protect the inner membrane and fiber from exposure to water and atmosphere. The enamel is exactly where it is put on the surface of your finger nail, reader. Under no circumstance should it ever be touched. If it is removed nature will immediately replace it, and the covering, and cruelly left exposed to the elements."

The Farmer's Position.

The farmer occupies the most useful, the most important station in society. It is to his exertions that the support, the food, the employment of every other rank is owing. To the surplus produce of the farm, or we owe the institutions and preservation of distinct employment, the origin of commerce and manufactures, and the existence of government. It is the surplus produce of the farmer that sets the wheel of manufacture in motion; that bids the sails of commerce whiten every sea; that gives to religion her ministers, to education her students; that supports the busy population of the crowded city, and that tends to government its resources, its energy and its very being. Let the farmer but raise only enough for his own support, and the mighty wheel, which, by its beatings, communicates life to every extremity, would be chilled and every member of the great body politic be palsied in a moment—Mason.

Rose Bugs.

Peter Henderson furnishes Gardener's Monthly some interesting statements on the habits of the rose bug. John May, of Madison, N. J., after years of perseverance, has cleared his rose plants, and his roses are now models of health and vigor. He finds that no substance will destroy the insect in the larva state without injury to the plant. They feed at the roots, and when symptoms of their presence are observed, the only certain course is to dig up the plants by the roots. The symptoms are weak growth, pale shoots and few or no flowers. But the remedy is to destroy the perfect insect under the leaves, always fewer in number than the grubs; their presence is not observed by those who view the leaves from their upper surface. They crawl down and deposit their eggs at the roots, says John J. Thomas, in the Country Gentleman.

Recipes.

OATMEAL CAKES.—Into a quart of cold water stir oatmeal enough to make it about half as thick as heavy pudding. Be sure that the meal is sprinkled in slowly and that the stirring is so active that the mush will have no lump in it. Now put it on the buttered pan, where it can be spread out to half the thickness of a common cracker, and smooth it down with a case knife. Run a sharp knife across it so as to divide it into the sized pieces you wish, and then place it in a warm oven, and bake slowly, being careful not to brown it.

FRIED POTATOES AND EGGS.—Slice cold boiled potatoes and fry in good butter until brown; beat up one or two eggs and stir into them just as you wish them for table. Do not leave them a moment on the fire after the eggs are in, as if they harden they are not half so nice. One egg is enough for three or four persons, unless they are very fond of potatoes; if they are, have plenty and put in two.

To KEEP THE HANDS SOFT.—Mix honey, almond meal and olive oil in a paste; use after washing with soap. Castile soap is best for use; it will cure a scratch or cut, and prevent any spot.

A RED NOSE OR FACE.—Refined chalk made into a thick plaster with one-third as much glycerine as water and spread on the parts will cool inflammation and reduce redness of the nose or face.

WARTS.—To destroy any kind of wart, paint occasionally with butter of antimony.

ONTARIO.

The local elections in Ontario have resulted in the return of the Mowat Government with an increased majority, there having been returned 57 Reformers, 28 Conservatives, three Independents. We must confess that we are surprised to find the Grit press in this Province and elsewhere pointing to the result of this election as a proof of the reaction setting in against the Dominion Govt and the National Policy. There are good and sufficient reasons why such a course is unjustifiable, but which does not prevent its being adopted by Grit writers, in the attempt to deceive those who may not be well grounded in their opinions. The Ministerial party took special care to impress upon the people their desire to avoid anything like a mixing up of Dominion and Provincial politics—they certainly did not throw down the gauntlet on the question of the National Policy, knowing that to do so would be to invite sure and certain defeat. It may be safe now to indulge in the cry, but before the elections it was carefully and studiously avoided. In proof of this, when a supporter of Sir John placed his name on the nomination list of Mr. Mowat, the premier of the Ontario Local Government, the Globe could see no reason why those who had supported the national policy should not also support Mr. Mowat's administration. In doing this, the Grit organ made a good and successful hit—the position of neutrality between Dominion and Provincial politics was advocated—and as the elections show, with good results. With all these facts made clear as they are, it is the shallowest sophistry to attempt to argue that the election shows a change of feeling in that province with reference to the National Policy. The people of Ontario have had no reason to go back on their record of the 17th of September. In return for their support to the Macdonald party they demanded certain tariff changes for the protection of manufacturers, and it is needless to say that the pledges given by the party have been faithfully and fully redeemed. There is therefore no reason why the people should revoke their action of the 17th September last—and they have not done so.

We must therefore look in some other direction for the causes which have led to the defeat of the Conservative in that Province. One of the causes, according to the Mail, was the incomplete organization of the party, the Opposition having been placed at a disadvantage by the retirement of two of its leaders when their services were of the utmost importance. Mr. Mowat also had possession of the public press, which he seemed to use to advantage. We also incline to the belief that the Conservatives were too confident of success, and that in underestimating the strength of their opponents, as well as failing to make arrangements for the most complete organization of their party, they committed a blunder which has been attended with the customary results. In many of the constituencies won by the Ministerialists the majorities were very small. In sixteen ridings the majorities were as follows:—Elgin, 20; North Lambton, 30; Lennox, 10; Lincoln, 20; Northumberland, 14; North Perth, 28; Prince Edward, 40; Russell, 28; North Victoria, 8; West York, 28; South Bruce, 68; Hamilton, 61; Halton, 24; East Huron, 26; Halifax, 65—a total of only 506 votes. "So that (says the Mail) if 258 voters had voted the other way, and opposing them were the 258 votes of the Conservatives, the result would have been a tie." It is not difficult to distribute their votes properly in these sixteen ridings, the Opposition would have carried the day by at least four seats. Or, if 506 Conservatives had gone to the polls instead of staying away, Mr. Mowat's fate would have been sealed. There is not much comfort for the beaten party in reflections such as these, but they are useful in reaching the value of a little extra effort in all our undertakings."

Agricultural.

Seldom, if ever, have our farmers had a finer spring for getting their seed sown and planted in good order. The dry weather enabled them to keep continuously at work, the land worked well, and at this time of writing the greater part of spring planting is about over. The dry weather that prevailed up to the first part of last week kept everything looking backward, but the heavy rains of last week have started vegetation into rapid growth, and at this time the crops have a promising appearance. Grass is in a fine state, and judging from present appearances the hay crop will be fully as heavy as last year, as reports reach us from all directions as to the satisfactory appearance of this important crop. Occasional rains for the next two weeks, with warm weather, will ensure a crop above the average. Grain has now fairly started and warm weather will bring it along rapidly. The cold weather has kept potatoes from making much growth above ground, perhaps a fortunate circumstance, or the heavy frosts of last Friday, Saturday and Sunday might have done them considerable damage. In some exposed situations early potatoes have been frost bitten.

We are glad to learn that our farmers are paying more attention to the growing of root crops, and the sugar beet, mangel wurzel are being more extensively planted than formerly.

Important Sale of Property at Bathurst.

In our advertising columns to-day will be found the announcement of one of the most important sales of property which has ever taken place in this Province.

The sale is to take place at Bathurst, on Thursday, the 26th inst., at 10 o'clock, of the property of the late Mr. J. H. Mowat, as previously announced—and will in all probability be largely attended by capitalists, farmers and others.

The Model Farm is, we believe, unrivalled in this Province, and never falls attract the attention and excite the admiration of the many persons who visit it from time to time. It occupies a beautiful location, is under the very best cultivation, is furnished with well arranged buildings, and equipped with the finest implements of the very best makes. It is also well stocked with cattle, etc., of excellent breeds. Will be sold with or without the crop, and the land, and "Deacon Farm" adjoining will be put up at the same time.

There will also be offered the steam saw mill, situated in Bathurst Village, lately occupied by Messrs. Ferguson, Rankin & Co. This mill has two gangs, and is well adapted for the manufacture of deal, dimensioned lumber, laths, palings, &c. The mill property includes stores and outbuildings, wharves, large and extensive booms, and a large privilege. The property is a fine one, and affords a fine opening for some enterprising capitalist.

The residence property is very desirable. The well built residence overlooking Bathurst Basin, and from it can be seen the Nepequin River, making for its fine situation, the fine flower and kitchen gardens, and convenient outbuildings are attached. As a summer residence for a gentleman of means, or as a hotel for the accommodation of tourists, the property is well adapted and is most conveniently situated, being but a short distance from the railway station. The residences of John Ferguson, Jr., and A. R. Ferguson, Esquires, situated in the Village will also be sold.

Also, a number of dwellinghouses and tenements, with gardens attached, situated near the hill, usually occupied by mill workmen.

There will also be sold a number of farm lots, situated in various parts of the County, of various sizes, from 300 acres to 10 acres, which should attract the attention of those who are interested in agriculture. Some of these lots occupy beautiful locations. On one there is a tannery, on another a lobster factory, and another it is believed contains valuable and extensive deposits of copper, &c.

Millers will also be interested in the sale of valuable and convenient grist mills, situated in a fine farming district on the Nepequin River.

It will be seen by reference to an advertisement in another column, that there is to be a Festival and Picnic at Nelson, on the grounds of St. Patrick's Church, on Thursday, 19th inst. On that day the venerable Pastor, the Rev. Michael Egan, will have reached the 50th, or golden year of his Priesthood, in commemoration of which the Festival is given. For particulars see advertisement.

The Firemen of Newcastle intend to have an Excursion in the steamer Andrea on Monday day, for the purpose of raising funds to obtain hats and belts for the members of the Company. We hope the affair will be generously patronized, the object being one worthy the warm support of the people generally. The reader is referred to the advertisement for the outline of what is to take place. Another advertisement will appear next week, when fuller particulars will be given.

We understand that a musical and literary concert is to be given, under the auspices of the ladies in charge of the Roman Catholic Schools in Newcastle. The concert will be given on "An Evening with Tom Moore." A part of the programme will be an oration upon Ireland's famous poet, which will be delivered by R. F. Quigley, Esq., a gentleman who has many friends and admirers in this quarter.

Personal.

R. F. QUIGLEY, Esq., Barrister, St. John, is in town.

WM. M. SMITH, Esq., Government Inspector, was in town last week, when he inspected the following boats.

At Derby—Steamers Derby, Grip and Lorne.

At Newcastle—Steamers Andrea, New Era and Lady Dufferin.

At Chatham—Steamers Sultan, Zulu, Reliance and Trazer.

After inspecting these steamers, Mr. S. proceeded north, and inspected the two steamers in Restigouche and Gloucester owned by the Messrs. Moffat and delivered by R. F. Quigley, Esq., a gentleman who has many friends and admirers in this quarter.

The Manager in his reply to our remarks last week, is silent with reference to the charges made against him, thereby admitting their truthfulness and his inability to refute them. He tries to shift the issue by making a charge with reference to the misappropriation of one hundred dollars of by road money. We must confess that we do not understand him. The person referred to never had anything to do with that service—that is a matter which rests with the local representatives, who are responsible for the distribution of the money. In making the charge he has not only deflected upon the honesty of gentlemen who have represented this County in the Local Legislature, and who may demand an explanation, should they deem it necessary to pay attention to a charge coming from such a source. Farm and Household.

Farm Notes.

To cure cracked heels in horses, wash well with Castile soap; take common land plaster, and rub the cracks full; keep the horse out of the mud; let him out in a clean lot; use plenty of the plaster, applying it every day for a few days.

The present is a most favorable time to go over the apple-trees and clear them of the egg-belts of the caterpillars. They may be found encircling the small twigs, and if destroyed now, the foliage and fruit may be kept in a clean and healthy condition hereafter.

The sleeping hours of a plant were changed recently by a French chemist, by exposing it to a bright light at night, and placing it in a dark room in the day-time. At first the leaves opened regularly and closed irregularly, but at length submitted to the change, unfolding at night and closing in the morning.

Many a fine horse is ruined by driving him too fast after a hearty meal. If the journey must be resumed without delay, the horse should be driven very slowly for half an hour or more, when the meal may safely be increased. A good horse is too valuable an animal to ruin by injudicious haste.

The first step in breaking colts is to accustom them to the bit. Check them with a bit and turn them loose. When they yield to the bit they should be driven in harness without a load. Colts should be broken in harness before they get so strong as to control the driver. It never pays to treat a young horse harshly, as it invariably causes bad habits and a vicious disposition.

Cultivate in your children, especially in your boys, a love for flowers. Nothing refines or elevates character more. A boy can scarcely love to watch the unfolding of leaf and bud, and be rough and coarse. Purity goes with the violets and the roses. If you have only little room in lawn or yard for anything else, give your boys a place to plant flowers. Then teach them to carry them to the poor and the sick, and you will find the work pays a hundred fold.—Montreal Star.

The Pasture.

In an article on pastures Alex. Hyde says there is no question but that most farmers have undervalued their grazing lands, have made them no return for the constant drafts upon them for milk, meat and wool, in short, have skimmed them until they are as destitute of the fertilizing elements of grass as skimmed milk is of cream. Few farms can pay interest on the capital invested in them unless they furnish good grazing. The remedy for the slow consumption of our pastures grazed by cows is to top-dress them occasionally with compost, or if they are too remote from the barn for this, to sprinkle them with wood-ashes or bone dust. In case wood-ashes can be obtained at a reasonable rate there is no fertilizer for pastures so cheap and at the same time so useful. A good manure contains phosphate of lime, potash, soda, in short all the inorganic elements which plants require for food. Sheep are good stock for a pasture. They not only eat every plant that grows but their excrements are all left on the land, and what they carry off in their wool and meat is small in comparison with milk cows. In case a pasture is fairly over-run with hardheads or other bushes, nothing but thorough surgical operation will cure the soil. The sythe, the grub-hoe, and the plow must do the work and the cost is tenfold what it would have been to keep the pastures in good, healthy condition by a timely allowance of plant food.—Exchange.

Making Flower Beds.

In making new, or renovating old beds, it is imperative that the soil should be dug down and moved to the depth of at least eighteen inches, and a thorough heavy dressing of well rotted manure should be thoroughly mixed and incorporated with the soil to the bottom of the beds. When beds are thus prepared, they will, with the assistance of the necessary waterings, have every requisite to carry the plants through successfully until fall in a satisfactory condition. When flower-beds are located in proximity to trees, they will require an extra annual dressing of manure, as well as water, from the fact of the roots of the trees penetrating the soil of the beds, and by absorbing the moisture from the soil, starving the plants in the bed. To make an immediate and effective display, the plants of almost any variety require to be planted quite close together, so as to soon cover the bed and form a prominent object of attraction in the distance. It will be apparent to the most casual observer, that when such a mass of foliage has to be sustained from so small a space, it is absolutely necessary that the soil should be made deep and rich.

Salt Poisoning in Poultry.

I have experimented with salt in feeding poultry, and have come to the conclusion that the notion that salted food is poisonous to them, is mere nonsense. I have fed it in every form—salt soup from boiled ham, or salt beef, in which I mixed corn meal and other food, and allowed the poultry to eat all they pleased. I have mixed salt many times (always once a week) with corn meal, middlings, &c., for old and young alike, which they all seem to crave, and which they eat voraciously, and instead of any of them being sick or dying, they are much the better for it, and I am convinced from experience that they need such food, just as do nearly all other animals. I make the food fully as strong of salt as we do our own food generally.—Country Gentleman.

Roots are the most valuable product we can grow. One acre of mangels or beets may be made to feed two or three cows for a whole year. This is more than can be done from any other farm product. To grow mangels successfully, they should be sown this month, before the 20th if possible. After mangels come sugar beets and blood beets, which may be sown early in June, but are better sown in May. There are several varieties of yellow-fleshed mangels, which are thought more valuable than the red varieties. Webb's yellow globe, the yellow-fleshed tankard, the long yellow, and some other varieties of this color, are already introduced here, and are found to succeed well. They are more solid than the large red varieties.

Clover fields will be benefited by the application of a bushel or two of plaster, as early this month as possible. There is no better place on the farm to put wood ashes than in the clover. Circumstances already referred to are tending to make clover a more important crop than we have regarded it, as a preparation for wheat and for green feeding. For this use some of the annual varieties may be sown.

Bijah's Method.

THE OLD COURT HOUSE JANITOR SUBDUES A SMALL BOY—THE SHINGLE ARGUMENT.

It was a middle-aged mother, who came in with her son, a boy of twelve. She had entreated him there by telling him that the place was a bazaar of fashion, and that she would buy him a shot-gun with the barrel full of gum-drops. He realized the deception as soon as he saw the shingle called out—"I want that 'ere shot-gun or somebody'll become a cadaver!"

Bijah's mouth watered for joy, and the mother asked—"I am a widow, and I can do nothing with him. He runs out nights, and gives me unlimited trouble and anxiety, and will pay no heed to anything I say. I have brought him here to have you talk to him as a father would."

"I don't want any wind-mill nonsense from him," growled the boy as he looked the old man over.

"Madam, go home—leave it all to me, and fear not," said the old man as he waved her out. When she had departed he turned to the boy and smiled at him like a June sun coming out from behind a bone-boiling establishment.

"Open the door or I'll make it sick in here!" growled the boy in answer to the old man's smile.

"Boy, don't you want to be as good as you are purty?" sweetly inquired Bijah.

"No, sir!"

"Can't I induce you to be good?"

"No, sir!"

"Won't you promise me to pause in your mad career?"

"No, I won't!"

"Come into the back parlor, my son—come in where I keep those gum-drops mentioned in chapter one!" The old man declared he wouldn't but three minutes later he had him in there, and in that position of expectation assumed by all boys who have been drawn over the paternal knee. Reaching out for a shingle, Bijah said—"It almost breaks my heart, but love for my country forces me on. The trouble with you is that you haven't got out of dressin'. I am about to give you one of the neatest and most effective shingles ever performed on this stage, and I'm ready to bet ten to one that it will make a lumberer and nobler thought into your sassy soul."

"If you don't let up on me I'll bite the boy, but when he tried his teeth encountered a sole-leather pad expressly provided for such occasions. Lovingly, but firmly he was bent over until his feet lost their grip on the floor, and then one of the new pine shingles had a tale to unfold. In two minutes he had lost his third toe, and in thirty seconds more he had got over wanting to bite; in three minutes he had come to the conclusion that his mother ought to run the house, and then Bijah let up on him and inquired:—

"This is your boy, ready to go home. He has promised to be good. I shall keep an eye on him for a while and shall expect frequent reports from you. If he continues to be good he shall have half the melon crop off my farm. If he is bad I shall have him brought here again."

"Great heavens! but how did you do it?" whispered the mother as the boy passed out.

"Easy as hitting a barn with a club," he replied. "Shingles, woman, shingles! There's more goodness and higher influence in one pine shingle after you get the boy in the right position, than all the coaxing and wheedling with tongue and caress. I've enjoyed it hugely—just feel as if I'd eaten dinner! If he doesn't tread up bring him again!"

She followed the boy out, and the old man sat down to his peaches and muscadines.

"I believe in moral suasion first, and I believe in coaxing and reasoning, but nothing seems to soften a bad boy all the way up to the eyes like a Michigan pine shingle laid on in one steady spot."—Detroit Free Press.

The beneficial effect of Cod Liver Oil in all Lung troubles and Scrofula affections are too widely known to need any comment from us; and Dr. Dobell, of London, Eng., has proved by a series of experiments that Pancreatic Emulsion is even of greater benefit in Consumption than Cod Liver Oil, as it is much more readily retained by the Stomach.

In Mattison's Emulsion you have both of these great remedies combined, the Pancreatic Emulsion rendering the Oil much easier of digestion.

It is pleasant in appearance, agreeable in taste, and easily taken by children and invalids.

At Net Wholesale Prices, direct to purchasers. In this way buyers of Pianofortes and Organs will save from twenty to forty per cent, by dealing directly with us, and moreover, far better satisfaction can be guaranteed.

We claim to sell the best Instruments to be had, and at the lowest prices consistent with first class articles.

The cash system enables us to sell at a low price, and to our cost of manufacture is altogether honest and reliable parties we do not object to allow a reasonable time for payment.

Parties ordering by mail can rely upon getting as fine an instrument as if personally selected by themselves. Any Organ or Piano not found exactly as represented can be returned at our expense. We refer with pleasure to over Fifteen Hundred Pianofortes and Organs sold by us the last ten years, according to the very liberal patronage which has hitherto, we can only say that we will continue our endeavors to thoroughly satisfy our customers in all their dealings with us.
