GRAND FALLS POWER DEVELOPMENT

International Paper Co. May Establish Mills Upriver.

The following dispatch from Fredericton, under date of March 17, will interest Observer readers:

At the department of lands and mines this morning the transfer of crown lands held by the estate of the late Sir William Van Horne to the Dalhousie Lumber Company, a subsidiary of the International Paper Company, New York, was officially announced.

The lands which have been transferred consist of 122 1-2 square miles and are located in Northumberland County, on the serpentine stream, which runs into the Tobique River. The Dalhousie Lumber Company have no mill in that section of New Brunswick, but the lands are located approximately 90 miles south east of the Grand Falls and their acquisition is believed to be the commencement of a development proposition at Grand Falls in which the International Paper Company are evidently acquiring the Van Horne estate interests.

The mouth of the Tobique River, it is pointed out, is only twenty miles below Grand Falls and the carrying of power that distance is declared quite feasible. There is also a well defined report that the International Paper Company's recent acquisition, through another subsidiary, of the Ancochee Pulp and Paper Company's plant at Keegan, Me., is really merely aimed up with another phase of the Grand Falls development. It is said that the suggestion has already been made, and is being considered, that the international interests would like assurance that they will be permitted to use the required power from Grand Falls for this plant, which is located in the State of Maine. It is unlikely, however, that permission will be given for the development of industries in the United States with power from New Brunswick.

United Baptist Evangelistic Services

The evangelistic services that are being held in the United Baptist on Sunday evening will continue throughout this and next week. Rev. H. R. Bell, pastor-evangelist, who has come for special work in the 2nd District, is conducting Pastor Trites, and on Sunday services will be as follows, with Mr. Bell the preacher:

Morning service at 11: Subject, "The Half and Half Christian." Evening service at 7:30: Subject, "What Would Take Place if Christ Should Come to Hartland?" "Come and hear" is the invitation of the preachers.

On Sunday afternoon there will be a service for men only. Subject, "Has Man Been a Failure?"

Customs Officer Shoots Near Houlton

United States Customs collector Felsky, of Houlton, reports that he fired four shots at a team which was carrying liquor from Richmond into Maine. The officer called upon the driver of a sleigh to stop, but as the latter kept on he opened fire. The horse was struck by several bullets and collapsed in the snow.

The smuggler, whose name is not known, jumped from the sleigh and fled to the woods. He was apparently unharmed. The officer seized the sleigh and found in it twenty-four quarts of Canadian whiskey. The horse was left where it fell.

TOBIQUE NARROWS PAPER INDUSTRY

Fraser Seeking Charter to Erect Mills There.

An authoritative announcement is made following the publication on Saturday of notice on behalf of Archibald Fraser, of Edmundston, Donald Fraser, of Plaster Rock and three of their managers, that they will apply at this session of the Provincial Legislature for an act of incorporation with "power to erect, construct, maintain and operate a dam at or near the Tobique Narrows in the Parish of Perth, in the County of Victoria, for the purpose of generating, developing, selling, distributing, using and disposing of hydro-electric power, and with power to erect, construct, maintain and operate pulp and paper mills and other manufacturing" and other rights.

It is said that the primary intention is to have extensive paper mills at the Tobique Narrows, as well as a ground work pulp mill in connection therewith, and that the pulp now manufactured at Edmundston at the Fraser Companies plant there will be brought to the proposed new paper mill for manufacture into paper, while pulp supplies will also come from the new plant for which it is said the company have ample sources for securing wood.

The authorization of the capital at the outset will be $1,000,000, with authority to increase to $5,000,000.

Did in Vermont—Funeral Here Tomorrow

News came yesterday of the death at Bellows Falls, Vt., of Miss Edith Belyon, after an illness of influenza and pneumonia. Miss Belyon, who was about 18 years of age, left here last September to enter the hospital at Bellows Falls for training as a nurse. Her sister, Ethel, left here this week to be with her and arrived only the day before her death. Miss Belyon was a bright and lovable young girl and the news of her death is a shock to her many friends here. She is survived by her mother, Mrs. Charles Ebbett, five sisters and two brothers, Mrs. Albert Smith of Alberta, and Mrs. H. A. Sippell of Hartland, are sisters.

The remains are expected to arrive here tomorrow and the funeral will be held from the United Baptist church.

Pythian Smoker.

After their regular session of Bright-on Lodge No. 35, K. of P. on Monday evening, the gentlemen enjoyed a "pleasant smoker" when a pleasant hour or two was spent in social conversation that stimulated wit and wisdom. The Knights are endeavoring to create a greater interest in the work of their fraternity and they are also looking forward to the building of a hall of their own, possibly in conjunction with the Memorial Hall proposed by the G. W. V. A.

THE MIRACLE MAN COMING NEXT WEEK

Hartland and Centreville in Pleasurable Anticipation of Great Picture.

Those whose knowledge of moving pictures is confined to grotesque comedy or cheap burlesque of the ordinary country village show house can form no idea of what the "Miracle Man" has in store for them. This great drama is not devoid of wit and mirthful episodes but its outstanding feature is its showing that purity of living and limitless faith in the Infinite can by its influence melt the heart of stone.

Those who are responsible for bringing this picture to Hartland first heard of its great power and beauty in January and at once began arrangements for its production here. The only dates available were Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of next week. These dates were booked six weeks ago. As by custom Wednesday night of every week is reserved for prayer meetings of the various denominations in Hartland, this date was passed up to the local showing and arrangements were made for this picture to be produced at Centreville.

Some may object that a "show" is to be given on Good Friday. This objection may be readily condoned in that the "show" may be considered a very unusual sermon.

The "Miracle Man" was first shown at Sing Sing prison before 400 convicts. This was to test its power upon the criminal classes. One of the long-term prisoners, a journalist, writes of the picture as follows:

"The magnificent beauty of 'The Manxman,' the romantic appeal of 'The Prisoner of Zenda,' the pathos and deep spiritual insight that made 'Mother' the picture it was, all these are in 'The Miracle Man,' and besides these there is a new note, a tender definiteness of touch, a largeness of conception and a sureness of execution here accentuated, and supplies the one element needed to make the picture perfect."

"Never before have we seen a picture which we considered worthy of being compared to a great symphony, by a great composer, performed by a large and capable orchestra. In 'The Miracle Man,' as in the symphony, each tone and each accent have a definite meaning, all contributing to the final perfection of the masterpiece and all blended into one harmonious whole, no part of which would be complete without the other parts, though each part in itself may be a thing of beauty and a joy forever."

"One cannot imagine a man or a woman who could not find a personal message, a personal appeal, help, comfort, and above all, hope, in this story of four very human lives, evil, broken, seemingly beyond all hope of salvage, mended and reconstructed, even in their own despite, through the powerful but unconscious influence exerted by a life correctly and unselfishly lived. It is more powerful than book or sermon, lecture or admonition, because one sees the redemption worked out in real, living personalities by the amazing illusion of life and reality with which the Creator has endowed his creation."

DARTMOUTH MAN GAINS 15 POUNDS

Five Years Trouble Ended And He Works Every Day Since Taking Tanlac.

"I have gained fifteen pounds in weight since I began taking Tanlac, and if I had known about this medicine three years ago I would have saved many a dollar, to say nothing of the suffering I went through," said Joseph E. Clattenburg, Brenton street, Dartmouth, Canada, recently Continuing, Mr. Clattenburg said: "My trouble started five years ago with occasional attacks of indigestion, which kept getting worse until I could hardly eat anything at all. For the past three years now I had no appetite and the little I did manage to eat would bloat me up and keep me feeling miserable for hours. I had sharp, cramping pains all through my stomach, which would nearly draw me double and I was constipated all the time, my liver was sluggish and I had no energy. My tongue was badly coated and my skin had a yellow, sallow appearance. I could get but little sleep and always felt so bad in the mornings it was all I could do to get up. I was so badly run down that some days I just had to quit work and go home, and I have often had to lay off from work seven or eight days at a time. Added to my other troubles, I had an attack of jaundice and was unable to work for two weeks. I lost considerable weight and my strength was just about all gone.

"I tried many different treatments and medicines without being benefited, but when I heard so many people praising Tanlac I decided to try it. At the time I started taking it I had been off from work for over a week, but before I had finished the first bottle I was back on the job and haven't lost a day since. I have taken six bottles in all and my appetite has improved until I eat as much as one meal now as I did all day before and am never troubled with pains, gas sour or upset stomach, or any other bad feeling. I am not constipated and my liver is in fine shape again. My tongue is never coated and my skin has cleared up to a good healthy color. I sleep well at night tired, sluggish feeling is all gone. In fact, I haven't felt better in years than I do now, but I don't believe I would be able to work today if it hadn't been for Tanlac and it is a pleasure for me to make this statement."

Tanlac is sold in Hartland by Estey & Curtis Co., and by the leading druggist in every town.

parents were young, they treated their colds and coughs, etc. with what was considered the reliable cough medicine—

SHARP'S BALSAM

Since then it has been the family remedy for coughs, colds, croup, sore throat, asthma, etc. It was good for your grandparents and their children—it will do you and your children good.

IN MARCH 1883

Mr. M. Smith of Stedholm, N.B., writes—
"For sixteen years I suffered from asthma, often being obliged to sit in bed to prevent suffocating. I tried all the usual medicines, but without effect, until I obtained some Sharp's Balsam (which was recommended to me), and after using two bottles
I found the relief long sought."

this famous old remedy, call at drug and

Kidney Disease Overcome

Mr. James Prouse, cattle dealer, Sheho, Sask., writes:—"For about ten years I suffered from Kidney disease, at times I was bad with backache, and derangements of the digestive organs.
During that time I was treated by four different doctors. One day I read in Dr. Chase's Almanac about the Kidney-Liver Pills and began to use them. Altogether I used six boxes. All I need say is that I feel well now and attribute this condition to the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

SPRING-BASE

Riding Comfort on Overland Short Wheel Base Car

Willis-Overland engineers who in Overland 4, have contributed a spring suspension that has almost revolutionized the problem of securing riding comfort in light cars of short wheel-base have earned the additional distinction of contributing two new words to the English language.

One of these words is "Spring-base" a word coined in automobile engineering by the Willys-Overland to fully describe the total effect of the three-point Triplex spring suspension on Overland 4, and the other "Triplex" itself, as applied to this particular type of spring suspension.

Wheelbase in the ordinary car has been the same as the distance between the centres of thrust or load suspended on the springs. But that is not true of the Overland 4. The springs meet the chassis 15 inches beyond the axles, which gives rise to the coining of the word "spring-base."

In other words the wheel base of the Overland 4 is 100 inches, but the body is suspended on springs that meet the chassis 15 inches beyond the axles, both front and rear, adding 30 inches to the 100 inch wheel-base and giving a spring base or riding cushion of 130 inches.

Spring-base, as applied to Overland 4, gives the effect of large car wheel base. And, in securing that, Overland 4 engineers have maintained and actually improved upon not only the riding qualities of the big car, but have increased the economy advantages of the short 100 inch wheel-base.

"Triplex" coined as the name of the new spring, means the three point suspension. The springs are mounted in three point diagonal design. The spring arms sweep in a diagonal from a point on the chassis frame 15 inches beyond the axle at front and rear. The springs introduce the greatest improvement in motor car comfort since pneumatic tires.

Geo. E. Armstrong, proprietor of the Armstrong Garage, Perth, is dealer in this new car, and he claims that during his 12 years in the automobile business he has never seen a light car that can equal its economy advantages, and few large cars that can match it for easy riding qualities. From knowledge gained in his experience with automobiles, it is the best constructed light car he has ever seen, and a ride in the car will convince you that you never saw its equal in a light car. Mr. Armstrong will be pleased to demonstrate the car at any time you may call at his Garage.

Perth Locals

Mrs. Jessie Pelton was a week-end visitor at the home of her aunt, Mrs. D. Curry, of Forest Glen.

Mr. Wetmore, of Sussex, is the guest of his brother, Roy Wetmore.

Edgar Ebbett, of Florenceville, spent Wednesday with his nephew, S. E. Waugh, returning home the following day.

Mrs. Fannie Craig and two children, Florence and Walter, of Aroostook Junction, were guests of Mrs. C. F. Grant on Saturday.

Benjamin Reed, of Reed's Island, was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Allan Sisson at the home of their son, Percy, on Saturday. Although past 80 years of age, Mr. Reed is still very active and takes a keen interest in all things.

Arthur Tompkins, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Tompkins, recently went to St. John to take an automobile course.

Mrs. Waugh and two children accompanied Miss Beulah Ebbett to Simonds for a few days visit.

Mrs. E. W. Larlee was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. G. S. Larlee, of Bath, over Sunday.

Many Perth friends of Mrs. Hubert Holmes will hear with deep regret of her death last week in Worcester, Mass. The deceased, for a number of years, was a resident of this place where her husband carried on a successful shoe-making business until his death about ten years ago. Two daughters, Daisy and Florence, survive. The only son, Wendall, was killed in the war.

Several teams passed through here on their way from the woods during the week. The road about two miles below the village has been rendered impassable by the depth of water. A road was made through the field as a means of aiding travel, but even this has been unsuccessful, as in two or three instances, horses have narrowly escaped being drowned.

The Primary Department of our school enjoyed a coasting party early on Saturday on the high hills back of the village. The pleasure of the party was somewhat spoiled by an accident which might have proved very serious. Another sled collided with Miss Cassie Bishop, injuring one of her legs.

The Woodstock Basket Ball team played the Perth and Andover team on Friday night. The score was 27-4 in favor of the visiting team.

The Cadets were unable to go on march or drill on Saturday on account of the illness of Mr. Price, the instructor.

Silas Jenkins, one of the pioneer settlers of Beach Glen, passed away recently at the home of his brother, at Moose Mountain, following a few days illness of influenza. He was unmarried. A brother is the only survivor.

Cause of Early Old Age

The celebrated Dr. Michelson, an authority on early old age, says that it is "caused by poisons generated in the intestine." When your stomach digests food properly it is absorbed without forming poisonous matter. Poisons bring on early old age and premature death. 15 to 30 drops of "Seigel's Syrup" after meals makes your digestion sound.

The whole community was shocked Friday afternoon at the sudden passing away of Bedford W. Moore, district superintendent for the N. B. Telephone Co. Mr. Moore had been very ill for over a week, and his friends were very anxious concerning him, but Friday morning he was reported as much improved and out of danger. About three o'clock he began to sink rapidly. The doctor was at once called and did everything possible, but in vain. In a few minutes the end came. Mr. Moore was only 34 years of age and has a host of friends who sincerely regret his demise. He leaves a young wife and two children Harold and Marion, besides a large circle of relatives. His brother was with him at the time of his death. All extend heartfelt sympathy to the mourning family. The body was taken Monday to Florenceville, his old home, for interment.

Friends will be glad to hear that Fred G. Baird is expected home about the first of May. Mr. Baird has been in California the past year and a half. All will be glad that his health has so far improved that he is able to come back to his old home again.

Mrs. Ida Spike will entertain the ladies of the Auction Bridge Club Tuesday afternoon.

Claude Murphy, who has a fine position with the T. T. T. Co. at Moncton, is spending a day or two at his home at Aroostook Junction.

CALDWELL, M. P., AND RETURNED MEN

Favors Aiding Soldiers Who Desire Farms—Aid Also to Others.

On Thursday T. W. Caldwell, M. P., for Carleton-Victoria, took an able part in the discussion on the Re-establishment of soldiers.

He cited specific cases of soldiers in his constituency who had suffered hardships since coming home, and then launched into a survey of the land settlement scheme. He explained that up until the time he was nominated for parliament he was chairman of the agricultural qualification committee for New Brunswick. With his knowledge of the scheme he believed the soldiers' settlement act was a good one. While it was designed for good purposes he did not think it would increase production in the eastern provinces, although he believed that the provisions of the act might prove successful in the western provinces where there was much virgin land to be taken up. In the west inexperienced soldiers could probably make a success of farming. It was different in New Brunswick where the only land available was that which had been tilled for many years and men who had proved successful on it were those who were familiar with the local conditions. While under the act soldiers taking up land had twenty-five years in which to repay the loan which was advanced for the purchase of land, he felt they should have longer in which to pay for the stock and implements. He knew the objection would be that the implements would wear out in probably six years, but if the time for repayment were extended, the farmers would be able to replace implements as they became useless. It was impossible for much of a farm to be bought in his province for $5,000, the amount now allowed under the act. Investigation had shown that all the land in New Brunswick would do was to pay a net profit of approximately ten per cent, whereas thirteen per cent would be required for the soldier to keep up his payments.

Mr. Caldwell said he did not favor making an out and out gift to student soldiers, but he believed they should be helped by way of a gratuity and a loan to cover the remaining cost of their education.

Flood Conditions of Eighteen Years May Recur.

Eighteen years ago on March 23 was the day of the great ice jam at Hartland which gave the then new bridge such a severe test. Many will recall the event and the night of fearful apprehension. A large three-story building owned by Keith & Plummer was moved from its foundation and all the merchants on the river side of the street suffered damage to goods stored in the basement.

Spring is late in its arrival this year. The river ice is very heavy and has begun to weaken. A heavy rain might create havoc along the river.

Shadow Social

Owing to much sickness the social given by the G. W. V. A. was not such a success as was anticipated, but the committee had no reason to complain as the net receipts of the evening amounted to $60. This amount already has been placed to the credit of the Memorial Hall Fund at the bank.

Baseball Season Now on Hand.

The time has arrived again when baseball fans begin to talk over old times. Word comes from East Florenceville that the local players and other interested parties will meet there tonight to arrange for the season's play and the re-organization of their team. It is hoped that Hartland, Centreville, Bristol and Bath in Carleton county and Perth, Andover, Plaster Rock and Grand Falls in Victoria will all re-organize their teams and get an early start in the popular and manly sport.

The driver frowned. "You—you ain't goin'?" he began, but the situation was too novel for him, and he subsided into astonished silence as the bride turned her veiled face toward him and suggested that her husband wanted him to drive on. He cracked his whip, and the stage started.

Progress was slow, and the stage was so late in getting to Alkali City that the entire population was lined up in front of the Palace hotel in anticipation of something out of the ordinary. Their expectations were more than realized when the stage drew up before the door.

The bridegroom glanced over the upturned faces. "Is Mr. Green in the crowd?" he asked.

A round faced, excited little man stepped out of the crowd. "Give him the case, dearie," called the groom without taking his eyes off the robbers. "Your cash is all O. K., Mr. Green."

"Is the sheriff in the crowd?" "That's me, stranger," answered a young giant.

"Come around and get Black John and Billy Rice, sheriff. They haven't any guns, but they have got legs, so I'll keep 'em covered till you're ready. All right?"

"Yep!" replied the sheriff. The bridegroom swung himself to the ground. "Come, dearie," he said gently, holding up his hands.

The bride climbed down from her seat and turned with him to face the crowd.

"Gentlemen," said the groom, removing his hat, "my name's Archie Dunning, and this is my wife. We're on our wedding tour, but I had to let in a little business to please the company. Is there any outfit in this town where we can put up? My wife's tired. She held up Black John."

He laughed heartily, and, taking a huge revolver which the bride held, he tossed it in the air and caught it. "Here, sheriff," he cried; "catch. She did it with that."

The sheriff caught the revolver, pointed it over the heads of the crowd and pulled the trigger. The hammer snapped.

The crowd roared hilariously and rushed into the bar to drink the bride's health, but the sheriff shook his head and laid a detaining hand on the bridegroom's shoulder.

"Archie," he said impressively, "for the best messenger in the state you did er blame fool trick. Spoun' Black John hadn't er got caught jist so, it'd been all day with you an' the gal."

"I know it, sheriff, but she made me promise. She's got plenty of sand about some things, but she's skittish about handling a gun unless it's empty." Then he dropped his voice to a whisper. "But that's nothing compared to the chances we took of going crazy acting like jackasses so's those four numskulls of passengers would think we were tenderfeet."

Temple Inns Have Been Among the Most Popular Living Places in London

THE case of a tenant of the Middle Temple who was refused entrance at a gate of the Inner Temple is a reminder of the domestic life which goes on in these old London Inns of Court.

Some persons are under the impression that only members of the Middle or Inner Temple can obtain chambers there, but this is not the case. The Temple has always been a favorite resort of many who are not in any way connected with the legal profession, and to-day there are numerous families living in the seclusion of this exceedingly pleasant retreat in the heart of London.

The chambers with windows facing the river have been specially sought after by residential tenants. Dr. Johnson, Oliver Goldsmith, and Charles Lamb were among the great writers who lived in the Temple, though none of them was ever a member of any Inn of Court.

Charles Lamb, who was born in Crown Office Row, lived for many years with his sister Mary in Mitre Court buildings. Before the war there was never much difficulty in obtaining residential chambers in the Temple, but the house famine has changed all this and to-day it is practically impossible to get rooms there. The Temple is full up, and members of the two Inns of Court are having great difficulty in finding chambers for business purposes. There is a long waiting list of members, and vacant rooms directly they are "screened" in the respective Hall and Treasury offices, are snapped up.

The Benchers have first call on any vacancies, and then follow other members of the Inn in seniority, with this exception, that a member wanting the rooms for business purposes has priority over one desiring merely to reside there.

The old methods which "outsiders" had to adopt to get within the gates are now in abeyance. A very common way was for a barrister to rent the chambers and sublet them to the "outside" friend for whom he had really taken them. To-day a tenant cannot sublet without the consent of the Inn, and there is no possibility at present of a non-member being accepted as a sub-tenant. Some of the Temple gates are closed at 9 p.m., and all are closed at 10 p.m., but at certain entrances there are night porters, and it is possible for tenants to go in and come out at any hour. No woman who is not living in the Temple is admitted after 10 o'clock unless she gives the name of the tenant she proposes to visit; and there are many good stories of how many women have been turned away from the famous barrister whose objection to the opposite sex was notorious.

Many excellent dinner parties are given in the residential quarters, and some of the tenants are very popular by reason of the skill of their cooks. There is one tenant who gives "jazz" parties on Saturdays, and boasts that his cellar of liquors is better than any other in London.

J. Bull, Second-Hand Man.

What'll you have? Some 10-penny nails, a few tons of sulphur, or maybe a steam shovel or a nice spiral staircase? Whatever it is, John Bull, who has opened a second-hand store just across the way from Newfoundland, can supply our wants. John already is doing a flourishing business. Since November 10, 1918, when his cut-throat competitor, Heinie, went out of business, his sales have totaled something over $635,000,000.

England is disposing of many of that great variety of articles which proved necessary to the maintenance of its armies in France. There are handcars, sewing machines, prismatic compasses, barometers, wooden wheels, barrels, kegs, home and office furniture, brooms, brushes, bedding, crowbars, pickaxes, ropes, scrapers, shovels, tools, wheelbarrows, wire netting and thousands of other things for which the Government at peace has no need.

Kings Albert of the Belgians was among the customers. He bought more than $5,000 worth of office furniture in which swivel chair heroes fought the battles of the S. O. S. at home. Charitable institutions and hotels have been among the heavy purchasers of furniture, and one-time German Innkeepers, now under British registry, are being furnished with desks, tables and chairs from British detention camps.

Precious Attar of Roses.

Attar of roses, the precious perfume that makes so many other fragrant scents alluring, is again being imported in small quantities, says Spare Moments. As yet the eastern supplies from enemy countries are not forthcoming, and the price is high. Perfume manufacturers are paying $18 to $17 an ounce, and to purchase such a quantity in the ordinary way to-day costs $7.50, compared with $5 to $7.50 in pre-war times. One drop will perfume a handkerchief for weeks. Though most people would find the pure attar too powerful, "When you see attar of roses for sale," said a member of the firm of Rimmel, the well-known perfumers, "it is necessary to be on the alert and not to be deceived by the label and not in the bottle." The supplies at present are imported from the valley of the Euphrates in Southern France. Attar is obtained by distillation, and about 300 pounds of rose petals will make an ounce.

Some Speed.

A projectile weighing 1,400 pounds which is fired in 14-inch guns, leaves the gun at a speed of almost half a mile a second. At three miles the speed has but slightly slackened.

Safeguard Your Roof

THE roof is an important item—it "makes" or "mars" the whole structure. In shingle-roofed houses it is even more necessary to see that it is in good regular repair, because once a roof commences to decay a general deterioration of house value is the immediate result.

To ensure a permanent durability, as well as an added appearance, use either as a mixture in which shingles are dipped or as a stain to apply to the completed roof.

It comes in all colors, and gives a tough, durable "seasoning," besides contributing largely to the artistic effect of your home.

Like every other B-H product, the B-H Shingle Stain is first choice among people who know good paint.

English People Dislike

Frame Houses Like Those

Used in Canadian Cities

THE prejudice being exhibited in England toward frame houses seems curious to the Canadian mind. Not many frame houses are built now in the larger cities, because fire regulations and the high cost of lumber stand in the way. The severity of the winters makes brick or stone more substantial. But England has a climate that resembles the British Columbia coast, and in Vancouver, Victoria and other coast cities the frame residence is the regular thing. And in the hands of British Columbia builders, who are so familiar with timber and woodwork, they become things of beauty. The attempt to introduce frame dwellings in England does not arise from an excess of lumber, or cheapness of it, but simply because the materials for a sufficient number of brick or stone houses cannot be obtained. Army huts, tents, river boats and shacks are occupied by hundreds of thousands of people waiting for more houses. The Government housing plan contemplates the erection of at least 500,000 more dwellings, but like most Government plans, the scheme gets great advertising with little result.

Dr. Addison, Minister of Health, recently stated that in England 500,000 houses were required. Housing schemes provided for 40,000, and of these about 8,000 were being erected. It may be mentioned that in 1919 Toronto alone is building 2,500 new houses. Such slowness creates a demand for a substitute. The editor of the Spectator, J. St. Leo Strachey, advocates cottages known as "pile on terms." Others are booming hollow concrete blocks. But the wooden house is most favored, and the newspapers have been conducting an education campaign. Wooden houses are rare, but not unknown. In Kent and Essex "wealthy" houses have stood the test of a hundred years. The economic argument for them seems unanswerable. A "mill-cut" cottage can be erected at a cost of about $1,400, against $2,400 required for a small brick or stone house. In larger houses the cost would be from two-thirds to one-half that of brick houses. Dr. Addison objects to the scheme, however, because, he says, the "mill-cut" houses are only "four" walls with a roof clapped on. He figures they are, in the end, only 6 per cent cheaper than substantial brick houses, and claims that the damp climate is against them. But British Columbia has a damp climate, and so has Norway, where frame houses abound. The fire risk is met there by having detached dwellings, located in the small towns and villages in such a way that risk is kept to a minimum.

A very substantial difficulty in the way is the obstinacy offered by the local ordinances or "by-laws" in most districts. The requirements imposed by these by-laws are often absolutely prohibitive of the erection of any wooden houses. But the Ministry of Health has the power to supersede them by general regulations of its own, and it was announced a few days ago that steps are to be taken in this direction. The Ministry declares itself eager to investigate the whole question, and to that end it has accepted the offer of the Agent-General for British Columbia to send over a sample house, which is to be placed on public view, so that its advantages and disadvantages may be impartially weighed. In contrast with this is the offer of William F. Regan, once well known in the mining world, who undertakes to deliver in various English ports 50,000 American wooden houses within one year, at the rate of 5,000 every three weeks, from a given date, at prices ranging from $250 to $750 each. These, he says, will not be disputable, cast-off, work-out army huts, but artistic residences, furniture saving, labor saving, warm in winter, cool in summer, and fit for any man to occupy, be he a workman or a capitalist.

As the situation is to-day, the question of the comparative merits of the wooden and the brick house is rapidly becoming irrelevant. The wooden house may be cheaper or dearer than the brick house; it may be less durable or more; it may run greater risks of being burned down, or it may not. It may or may not be as comfortable as the house in which the Englishman has hitherto been accustomed to live. The great thing is that the wooden house is a house. Every other consideration is nowadays beside the point. It is no longer a question of the ideal place to live in. There are tens of thousands of people in England just now who would jump at the chance of getting a house of any kind or pattern. At the Manchester City Council recently it was declared that if the building of municipal houses proceeded only at the present rate it would be twenty years before the local building scheme was completed. The shortage arises from the middle and working classes alike, and it extends all over the country.

"Wrong in His Field."

A North countryman, charged with having set fire to a large hayrick, was defended on the ground that he was not altogether responsible for his actions, relates the Edinburgh Scotsman. One of the witnesses testified to the belief that the prisoner was "wrong in his field." "Can you mention any occasion on which the prisoner behaved in a manner to warrant your statement?" he was asked by the learned counsel. "Yes," answered the witness. "Once he went to the top of a crown tree much for his wages." "Well," said the counsel, as the witness hesitated, "He took it back to the manager," concluded the witness.

WHY IS IT

that chronic skin diseases which have defied all other treatments yield to Zam-Buk?

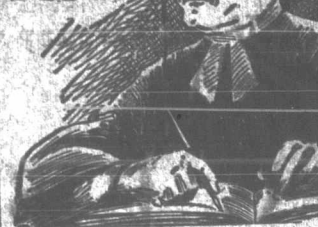

It is because Zam-Buk is germicidal, and also has such power of penetration that it reaches disease in the underlying tissues and cures from the "root" up. That is the only way a permanent cure can be effected.

Mr. H. C. Buckley of 461 E. Broadway, Portland, Oregon, says: "For chronic skin diseases there is nothing like Zam-Buk. For fifteen years I had eczema, and I tried an endless number of so-called 'eczema cures,' but nothing was capable of curing me permanently until I used Zam-Buk. Ten months' use of Zam-Buk has effected a complete cure."

For ulcers, abscesses, boils, ringworm, blood-poisoning, piles, burns, scalds and cuts, Zam-Buk is equally good. All dealers or Zam-Buk Co., Toronto. 50¢ box, 3 for $1.75.

A BRIDAL TRIP

—By Henry Lyle

Copyright, 1920, by T. C. McChesney
GOSWORTHY BOOK CO. TORONTO

The Neph stage carried no outside passengers. Inside it accommodated four comfortably and six uncomfortably. Consequently every one interested in any particular trip of the Neph stage hoped that the number of passengers would be limited to four.

At Milltown, the half way station, the grinning face of the hostler was thrust through the stage window, and the four passengers already inside groaned. They knew the sign.

"Two passengers, gents. Kindly get together," the hostler announced.

The stage door was swung open. A woman was a rarity along the Neph stage line and a bride unheard of, yet the first passenger to be ceremoniously thrust into their midst was very evidently a bride. Had all other signs failed, which they did not, there were several kernels of rice sticking to the back of her veil. The tall, thin, spindly shanked young man who followed her was just as evidently a bridegroom. Their clothing and manners proclaimed them of the east and brand new.

The bridegroom carried a suit case, which he pushed to one side after settling his bride as comfortably as the middle seat permitted. Then he fitted his knees between the passengers in front of him and looked solicitously at his veiled bride. "Tired, dearie?" he asked.

"Just a little, darling," she answered, touching his shoulder lightly with hers. "Wasn't it just lovely the way we got away from them?" she continued. "I thought once they would really find out where we were going. Wouldn't it have been terrible? But you were such a darling, you."

There was a suppressed snicker behind them. One of the passengers facing them gulped and crammed his mouth full of tobacco. "Chaw, pardner?" he asked, extending the package to his seat companion, the fat storekeeper of Alkali City.

The man shook his head. "Hear 'bout th' holdup las' week?" he asked, winking hard.

"Naw. Yeou don't mean t' say there's been er holdup in these here days, do yeou?"

"Turrible! One man kilt an' thirty thousand dollars took!" the storekeeper answered, covertly watching the bride couple.

"Oh, darling!" exclaimed the bride. "Why did we come to this awful place? Take me back—can't you, darling?"

The bridegroom shook his head. "Don't be afraid, dearie. I'm with you." His voice sounded weak and tremulous.

One of the men behind him laughed, and the bridegroom flushed deeply and made a reply which was unintelligibly jumbled by the rapid lurching of the stage, which at that moment entered the rougher sections of the road.

The sharp report of a pistol startled the jostled passengers and brought the stage to a stop with a suddenness which jerked the bride into the arms of the storekeeper.

"The smoking muzzle of a revolver was thrust through the window, and a voice exclaimed: 'Hands up. Step outside, gents!'"

No one hesitated. One after the other, with hands well up, the passengers alighted and stood in line along the roadside. The bride came last, and the storekeeper, astonished, as she stepped down.

"Excuse me, miss," he exclaimed, lifting his hat before he felt about the men's clothes for weapons. "Sorry t' disturb yeou, but business is business."

"Now, Tom," he continued, addressing the driver, "my pardner," motioning to a second robber who stood holding the horses' heads, "will keep yeou covered while I look inter things."

The driver laughed. "I'm afeared yeou're goin' t' be disappointed this trip, Black John. 'S far as I know, there ain't no treasure in this load."

The bride gave a faint cry, staggered and toppled over into the arms of the bridegroom, which, regardless of orders, came down to receive her.

The robber swore. "Keep yeou hands up!" he cried, swinging around and covering the line with his revolver. "Let th' tenderfoot look after th' gal. She's only faintin'."

He had pulled several pieces out of the stage when an unusual movement behind him caused him to turn his head. He looked directly into the muzzle of a forty-four, held by the bride.

"I've got yeu dead to rights, Black John," a low voice whispered. "No noise or I'll let loose."

The bridegroom held a similar weapon at the other robber, who, unconscious of the slight change in affairs, was twitting the driver. "Now, Billy, drop yer gun!" the bridegroom called.

The man made an offensive movement. There was a flash, a sharp report, and the shattered revolver dropped from the robber's hand.

"Hands way up, Billy, or I'll be yeu next time!" the bridegroom commanded as he walked over and relieved the robber of his other gun. "Now, ye fellows, Black John and Billy, get up on the leaders blame quick. No parlayin'!"

Black John glanced at the bride. "Come," she said. "Get along. My husband says yeu've got to ride a leader."

The bridegroom swung himself on one of the pole horses while the bride stood in the roadway and held his gun. After he had mounted she lifted the suit case out of the stage, handed it to the driver and then climbed up on the box beside him.

Making Himself Felt in Business.

"What's that boy of yours doing now, Uncle Gabe?" asked the returned villager.

"He's takin' drawin' lessons up to the city."

"Didn't know he had any artistic tendencies."

"He ain't. He's a learnin' to be a dentist, by heck."

History Repeated.

"The old Greeks and Romans were doing exactly what modern capitalists are accused of doing now."

"What is that?"

"Trying to invest the capital of others so as to get hold of it themselves."

LOCAL AND PERSONAL ITEMS

The United Baptist Missionary Society held a most delightful, interesting and instructive convention at the home of Mrs. Bessie Campbell on Thursday evening. The first part of the evening was spent in work relative to and for the betterment of the good interests of the Society. Following this came a most entertaining program of readings and musical numbers by several of the members. The party then became very informal and all were treated to a participation in a goodly array of most delicious refreshments. A collection taken, netted a good sum for the advancement of the cause.

Rev. S. Johnson, of the local circuit of Baptist churches, and Rev. W. J. Harlow, pastor of the Baptist church at Tracy Mills and its tributary flocks have both been invited to remain in charge of these several bodies at increased salaries.

Rev. J. B. Champion, pastor of the Methodist group of churches for the past four years, has accepted a call to the pastorate at Newcastle.

"The Miracle Man" is coming on March 31. Just how great a man, has to be to become so disfigured remains to be seen, and in consequence we will ardently await the coming of this photograph to find out. This picture comes with very interesting representations, and is contemplated as being one of the real master pieces of the year in film.

The school children were a most grateful and appreciative bunch on Friday morning when they were granted half holiday by the school board to indulge in childhood's favorite pastime, coasting.

Real estate shows a little inclination to move. Last week Bert Forsythe sold his residence on Mill street to his sister, Mrs. Jessie Blackwell, also offers her cozy home in the village for sale.

Mr. and Mrs. Jas. DeLong, of Kookville, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Norma DeLong on Friday.

The funeral of the late William Bradford was held from his late home in Tracy Mills and from the Church on the adjacent hill on Tuesday afternoon. Deceased was 83 years of age and although in failing health for some time the end came peacefully on Sunday morning. Mr. Bradford had spent all his useful years in this vicinity and with his own hands and energy carved his many fertile acres out of the virgin forest. Besides his widow, two sons survive, Basil, at Carleton, and Elmer at home, and a large circle of relatives and friends. Rev. W. J. Harlow conducted the funeral services and interment was made in the family lot in the cemetery near the church.

Mrs. W. E. Marshall spent last week in Hardland, the guest of Mrs. Henry Bradley.

Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Wilson and son, Donald, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Wilson on Saturday.

Doubtless the one feature causing most happy faces in town this month is the removal of our electric lighting system, which had previously to close down during the last two months or more, on account of a dearth of water. The old phase has been sort of "Vanished" this last week and we only hope that it will be some little time before vacation arises to dispense with them again.

Miss Ruthie Reid spent the week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Reid.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Thomas left on Thursday for Woodstock where they will make their home in the future, where the former has accepted a lucrative position as Chevrolet service man for J. Clark & Son.

J. Leslie, clerk in the Bank of Nova Scotia here since July of last year, has been transferred to Miramichi and left on the Valley train on Friday to assume his new duties in the branch there. His place here is being filled by Mr. J. L. Smith, of the Miramichi branch, who arrived here on Thursday.

Mrs. Casey, of East Blaine, spent last week with her daughter, Mrs. Dora White.

Miss Winnie Golden, of Greenfield, was the guest last week of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Long.

Mrs. G. E. Wilkinson spent last week in Hardland the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Reid.

Wilbert Brown, of Four Falls, visited Mr. and Mrs. E. L. West at their home last week.

Mrs. E. L. West left on Thursday for a visit with her sister in Four Falls.

The branch of the G. W. V. A. recently organized here is assuming thriving proportions. They now have a membership of about 30 with new applicants each night of meeting. A delegate was sent to the recent general meeting in St. John. The next meeting will be held on the first Wednesday in April and the executive would gladly welcome any new worthy applicants.

Mr. and Mrs. Gibson Montreuil, of Bridgewater, moved their goods and chattels this week and are now occupying the property recently acquired by them.
