The St. Catharines Star (Tory) now charges Mr. Rykert with breaking his pledge to a private meeting of the party.
Perhaps there was money in it.

One year ago to-day the thermometer stood 22° below zero. Where is the iceman who would not rejoice to see "history repeat itself" before sundown? They are making plenty of ice in the far Northwest.
At Prince Albert the thermometer registered 50° below zero this week, and at Edmonton 46° below.

BRANTFORD EXPOSITOR: At the first place one would be likely to reject the idea that the duties the tariff took out of the pockets of the people for sugar alone exceeded considerably the whole expenditure of the Province of Ontario. But so it is, and the figures bear it out. Give the people free sugar, and more money will be saved annually by the consumers than is spent altogether by the Government at Toronto.

ACCORDING TO REV. J. S. Ross, of the Centenary Church, Hamilton, formerly of this city, Hamilton is the wickedest place in Ontario. As the statistics on which Mr. Ross bases his calculation are published by the Dominion Government, we will be charitable enough to give the Ambitious City the benefit of the doubt, and concede that recent revelations in the Dominion Parliament point to St.
Catharines as a probable competitor for the unenviable notoriety of first place in moral depravity.

The United States has paid over $2,000,000 of the debt since the close of the civil war, and now has little more than $1,000,000,000 to wipe out. This is a wonderful record. But for the war the greater portion of the debt would never have been contracted, and but for the pensions paid to old soldiers and widows the debt remaining could be wiped out in a year or two and the taxes very much reduced. It is a fact worthy of comment that the $98,000,000 payable this year in pensions to participants in or sufferers by the late war is more than double what is now paid out in a year for interest on the national debt.

It was thought that the grippe was severe in Canada, and no doubt it hastened the deaths of many old men and women and people with weak lungs, but the ravages of the malady in the Dominion was nothing to what they have been in Mexico, which is now in its throes. According to a reliable correspondent in the city of Mexico, the situation is alarming. He says:

"The progress of the influenza and its results have been truly terrible. The disease reached its height in the middle of January and has steadily worsened, until it is now at its height.
The number of cases of acute pneumonia is absolutely wonderful. It has been the rule rather than the exception, and no precautions have been able to prevail against it.
The poor classes, who live generally in houses which afford no protection against the elements. They have died absolutely like sheep, sometimes 125 a day. Just now the supply of coffins has been exhausted, and many bodies have been buried without.

Could cholera be more fatal to life than this?

There is a marked agricultural revival in Great Britain. Owners of land are reported by the collectors for the Board of Agriculture to be experiencing less difficulty in obtaining tenants, and a more hopeful tone prevails generally among farmers. It is also satisfactory to note that the area of land under cultivation in the United Kingdom increased last year to the extent of about 54,000 acres, even Ireland showing an addition to the cultivated area.
Tracts of land have been brought into cultivation in different parts of the United Kingdom. The area of arable land still continues to decrease and that under grass to increase. The satisfactory results of recent experiments to meet the growing demands of large neighboring towns, are leading to an extension of fruit culture, and no doubt more will be done in this way from year to year. With respect to live stock, there is an increase under every head, and sheep number 500,000 more.

It has been said that there is no fool like the old fool, and there is much truth in the adage, especially when he belongs to the genus lover. This has been fittingly illustrated in a singular occurrence reported from Watauga county, North Carolina. An old bachelor of 72 winters, by the name of Neil, wanted to marry Miss Myra McCullick, a pretty young girl 17 years old. Neil loved the girl better than his own life, and when he proposed to her she refused to marry him. He begged and pleaded with her, and finally she told him she never intended to speak to him again.
Neil immediately went away, and securing an axe, he laid his right hand across a log, and with one stroke cut it off at the wrist, saying it would be a mark of affliction upon him for learning to love a young girl, whom he ought to have known would never marry him. This is a sort of Spartan self-punishment which cannot be generally recommended for adoption by foolish old men with romantic ideas of matrimony.

Rather should it show the necessity for men of that stamp cultivating a little foresight, instead of trusting to their hindsight for a justification of their absurdities.

HALDIMAND.

The Haldimand election has resulted in the return of the Tory candidate, not a few votes polled for him being obtained by most discreditable and illegal means, according to reliable information from the county.
Dr. Montague has once more been successful, and it is possible that he may remain in undisputed possession of the seat. Up to the time of this man's advent in the constituency, there was never any irregularities among the voters, but since Montague issued the forged letter from the Queen to the Indians, since legerdemain and bulldozing at the polls became common occurrences, and all kinds of tricks were played to gain the vote of the Indian wards of the Government for the Conservative nominee, the constituency appears to have become thoroughly demoralized. There have been five elections in the constituency in as many years. In the first, Messrs.
Colter and Merritt were the candidates, and Mr. Colter was successful. In was an interim election to fill a vacancy, and Mr.
Colter was prevented from taking the seat to which he had been elected. At the general election Mr. Colter was again successful, but by a shuffle of a most indefensible character he was "concocted out," Dr. Montague being given the seat by a majority of one. Montague was unseated, and in the election which followed he had an apparent majority of 18; but it was again found that the labor troubles were the cause of his unseated. In the next contest Colter was elected by a substantial majority, but owing to the indiscreet action of an elector he was unseated. Then came the contest of yesterday. No doubt if a protest were entered Montague would be knocked out once more, but it is probable that the Liberals, having so far a record of three successes out of five, and recognizing the fact that a general election will take place in the near future, will allow the election to stand and keep their powder dry for the next contest.

We know whereof we write when we say that the Haldimand people have reached the conclusion that they have had a surfeit of political contests.

WORKING WITH A SOLDIER ON HIS BACK.

The German elections, held on Thursday last, seem to have resulted in decided gains for the Socialist element in the body politic.
At this writing it is hard to say whether Bismarck's bill, aimed at the suppression of the Socialist movement, or Emperor William's declaration that it is necessary for the State to pay special attention to strikes and labor troubles have contributed most to the result. Bismarck's drastic remedy for labor troubles was unceremoniously rejected by the German Parliament, which in times gone by was wont to do the bidding of the Chancellor with marked servility, but no one expected that the humiliation of the Chancellor would be added to by the Emperor, whose declaration that it was highly advisable to summon an international conference to consider labor matters has caused a sensation on both sides of the Atlantic.
It may have been that the Emperor wishes to pose as a bit of a politician himself, and that he intended his call for a labor conference to be a bid for the vote of workers for Government candidates. If that was William's object, it has failed, for the strength of the Socialists has increased two-fold, and many Government supporters were defeated. Such a result of the Emperor's confession is quite natural, for the Socialist deputy—who wishes the State to forcibly ameliorate the condition of the wage-earner—could point to the fact that the higher imperial authority was on their side, inasmuch as his calling of a conference was a confession that the existing state of affairs was unsatisfactory, an admission which Bismarck and his associates have hitherto strenuously resisted, as the recent anti-Socialist legislation clearly proved.

There is an old cartoon—whether it is German or French, it is immaterial to our argument, as both countries are similarly circumstanced—which represents the laborer as going to his daily toil with a soldier strapped on his back. It seems point to us that, if instead of calling to us that if, instead of calling conference to talk about strikes, the German Emperor had sat himself down and donned his thinking cap he would have discovered that the only real relief which can be afforded to the German people and to their armed-to-the-teeth neighbors lies in the taking of the soldier off the back of the worker. An international conference looking to the reduction of the immense standing armies and the abolishment of the huge navies that are kept on the seas would be of some real value to labor. There cannot be a doubt that the existence of these enormous forces not only result in the grinding down of the peace of the world. While they exist, and the taxation incident to their support and to the sustenance of so many drones in the body politic is collected, it cannot be expected that the sorrows of the masses will be much assuaged. As has been well remarked, the plan suggested by the German Emperor for the improvement of the condition of the workers is about as sensible as would be the plan of driving a nail out of a nail, but the bad blood that caused the nail becomes more poisonous than before, and surges through the channels and gates of the body ready to break forth in angry pustules at a thousand points. It is evident that many of the people of Germany entertain this idea. That the recent proposals of the Emperor will but confirm them in their impressions goes without saying.

The highest meteorological station in Europe is on the top of the Soudbrück, in Austria, 10,168 feet above the level of the sea. The operator is Peter Lechner, who lives there with no human companion, and with no communication with the outer world except by telephone and telegraph.

MINOR JOTTINGS.

Since the Legislative Union of Great Britain and Ireland, Jan. 1, 1801, when the Irish Parliament ceased to exist, 29 Administrations have been in existence—thirteen before the accession of Queen Victoria, and sixteen since that date. The only surviving statesmen who have held the position of Prime Minister during the present reign are Mr. Gladstone and Lord Salisbury.
The present Parliament is the 24th of United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland.

In the British metropolis, flowers are fading as trimmings for evening dresses, and the fashion is setting in towards birds and insects. Flights of jet swallows are seen fleeing across the skirt of an evening dress. Perhaps the bodies will be ornamented with a swallow, too. Huge butterflies made of jet, gold tinsel, or of pearls and iridescent beads, are made large enough to come right across the front of the bodice of an evening dress. The wings are outspread, and the butterflies are said to be modeled from natural specimens. Smaller butterflies hover about the shoulders and on the skirt.

They have a sort of telephone in Africa that answers pretty well, and for considerable distances it carries news at least as fast as Uncle Sam's mail travels. Last week Mr. Hodister, while exploring the Mongolia branch of the Congo, met a chief who promised to accompany him up an affluent of the Mongalla when the explorer made another journey up the river. In November last Mr. Hodister returned to the Mongalla, and was greatly surprised when he reached the chief's town to find that ruler with his baggage packed and his attendants around him, all ready to start.
The chief said he had been notified two days before by the sound of drums that a white man was coming up the river on a steamer. From village to village the news had been sent swiftly up the stream far in advance of the little steamer. The drum telephone in the Congo basin is not, however, so highly developed as near Cameroun, where the natives have an elaborate code of drum beats and can send a large variety of information traveling through the air.

SOME curious facts and figures with regard to the cost of running Atlantic liners were given at a social gathering of the employees of the Allan Lines at Glasgow the other evening. It was stated that a great deal more than $1,000,000 had been spent in building the fleet of the Allan Line, but reference was more particularly made to the cost of keeping the boats running.
The first cost of building vessels was a trifle less than the cost of running them. Enormous was the expenditure in wages, port duties and repairs of wear and tear, and other outlays incidental to voyages. In the Allan line the expenditure amounted to $1,000,000 in a year, and all that had to be paid out of the earnings before the owners could get any dividend. The amount paid in expenses would be enough to give $20 to every family in Glasgow, taking the population at 600,000, with six persons in each family. If the pay-crew had to pay the sum in single sixpences at his own pace, people passed in procession at the rate of 50 every minute, getting 6d each, and that was going on nine hours a working day, in four years and a half every man, woman and child in Glasgow would have passed the pay-box, and the pay-crew would still have about $50,000 to distribute.

Hot Springs Fail

Bruse on leg leads to great suffering, and remedies fail. Tries Cuticura and succeeds. Not a sore about him now.

Having been a sufferer for two years and a half from a hot leg, and having tried every remedy when all other methods and remedies failed, I am now able to recommenthem. I visited Hot Springs to no avail, and tried every remedy when all other methods and remedies failed. I tried Cuticura, and at last my principal sufferer, Mr. John P. Finlay, do whom I shall never feel grateful, spoke to me about Cuticura, and I consented to give them a trial, with the result that I am perfectly cured. There is no more about it. I think I can show the largest surface where my sufferings sprang from of any one in the state. The CUTICURA REMEDIES are the best

CAPITAL, $500,000
In 5,000 Shares of $100 Each.

The Prospectus of this Company has just been issued, and can be had on application to the Manager, at the Company's office, 38 Toronto street, Toronto.

The promoters secured their land and effected their arrangements for the establishment of factories before the recent rise in prices. In fact, that rise has been caused chiefly by the knowledge that this land had been secured with the object of establishing a model manufacturing town.
To secure speedy development and interest the general public in the enterprise, it has been decided to offer 1,000 shares of the capital stock for subscription at par, on reasonable terms of payment.
The stock book will be opened on the 6th of March, 1890, and applications entered in the order of their receipt.
The Company itself assumes no responsibility with reference to the success of factories. It is strictly a Real Estate Company.
This opportunity is by all odds the best that the real estate market now offers to investors.

ing alone and in a new world, and having to shift for yourself, makes you "grown up" pretty early, and I fancied myself a young man, though I supposed everybody looked upon me only as a boy.

You may be sure when Belle told me that there was something about Hewitt that she didn't like, I wasn't going to tell her she was a goose. I was too glad to have her that way of thinking, but I didn't share her prejudice. Hewitt and I "got-toned to each other," as the saying is, from the first, and in a month or two we became constant companions in our leisure time. Hewitt told me his story and I told him mine, and, of course, I told him about you and the girls.

When I got a letter from home I used to read it to him, and he got to know you all through him. He soon found out that I was in love with Belle, and he promised me he wouldn't breathe a word to anybody about it. That was my secret, and I think I rather liked it being a secret, fancying it was more romantic. Hewitt was as frank with me as I had been with him, and he told me all about himself. His father and mother were dead. They were gentle-folk, but had been poor, and he had been taken by his uncle, who had promised to give him a start in life.

"And a nice start he's given me," said Hewitt, "leading me out to this place, and telling me it's my only chance, and that it's all he can do for me, as he is a married man with a large family himself. It's a nice look out for me. Oh, how I wish I had been born rich—I shall never make a farmer."

He was quite right there—he never would, for he didn't take to it at all, and if he hadn't been told the premium and the yearly money paid for his keep I expect Mr. Sandys would have got rid of him pretty quick.

He was always talking about what a jolly life he'd have when he grew up if he only had money, and once he said he didn't think there was much he'd stick at to make it.

I thought he was only bragging—talking wild, like young fellows do sometimes—was so grateful to him for not falling in love with my sweetheart that I didn't like to tell him he was a very bad-hearted fellow.

Besides, he was very useful to me and helped me with Belle. He used to invite me to come over sometimes of an evening, and that gave me an excuse for being at Sprigg's Farm. And when he and I and Belle went out for a walk about the place together he'd go off and leave us alone, which I thought very nice and gentlemanly of him.

After he'd been at Sprigg's Farm about three years he wrote home and got some money from his uncle. I suppose he told him he could do some good with it, and he wouldn't ask him for any more, and then he went away and I didn't see anything of him for some time.

He wrote me once or twice from the town he'd gone to and said he was doing "minding," but I gathered from his letters that he'd got in with a bad set and was rather down on his luck.

All this time I was working away and keeping in Farmer Wilson's good books, and though I got a bit more money it wasn't much, but I'd made myself master of the business, and I believed that when I was a bit older I should be able to get into some thing better, and in due time, perhaps, launch out on my own account and be independent.

I had wonderful dreams, I can tell you, dad, of what I was going to do, and I told Belle, and she was as enthusiastic as I was. It was settled that we were sweethearts, though we didn't tell anybody else. I was to make a lucky hit, and we were to be married and have a beautiful place of our own, and then we were going to send for you and the girls to come out to us.

That's how things went on till about a year ago. At that time I'd done several good strokes of business for the farmer, and one day he told me that he was thinking of taking another farm, and that he'd put me to manage it and give me a share.

It was just after the farmer had told me this that Hewitt turned up again. He came back looking rather seedy and out of the elbow, and got taken on as clerk at a store in a little town a few miles from us, just near enough for me to see something of him, as I often had to go over to town on business.

He didn't say much about what he'd been doing, only that he'd had rather bad luck.

I was glad to have him back again, for I wanted somebody I could make a confidant of, and of course I told him what my expectations were, and how Belle and I had made up our minds to get married as soon as I'd got a position that would let me go to her people and ask them to let me be their son-in-law.

A Dinner Pill.—Many persons suffer excruciating agony after partaking of a hearty dinner. The food partaken of is like a ball of lead upon the stomach, and instead of being a healthy nutriment it becomes a poison to the system. Dr. Parmenter's Vegetable Pills are wonderful correctives of such troubles. They correct acidity, open the secretions and convert the food partaken of into healthy nutriment. They are just the medicine to take if troubled with Indigestion or Dyspepsia.

FUN, FACTS AND FICTION.

A Judicious Compound of Wit and Wisdom.

It is not always so much the presence as the presents of the invited guests that a bride enjoys.

Carter's Little Liver Pills must not be confused with common Cathartic or Purgative pills, as they are entirely unlike them in every respect. One trial will prove their superiority.

A Delicate Insinuation.—"No," remarked Jonebly, enthusiastically, "there's nothing like the hot water cure." It will brace a man up when all other remedies fail—er—Mrs. Slimdirt just let me have a cup of tea, if you please.

A man's wife should always be the same especially to her husband, but if she is weak and nervous and uses Carter's Iron Pills, she cannot be, for they will make her "feel like a different person," at least so they all say, and their husbands say so, too.

The unmarried women of Massachusetts not only have $20,000,000 in the savings bank, but every single one of them, from oldest to youngest, sighs to lean her head on one of these pills and hear him ask if she will be his'n. Don't go west looking for gold mines.

Peculiarities of the Hair.—There are times when all persons require to pay some particular attention to the hair. To rekindle the life and energy of the roots is a simple matter if taken in time. Dr. Caspary's Great German Hair Magic will do the work. It works in accordance with nature, supplies fresh nourishment to the glands, keeping the hair luxuriant and natural in shade. Be sure to get the correct amount to mix it. Every drugstore sells it. It is money well spent. See Dr. Caspary's advertisement in another column.

A cold is a good deal like a horse-car. A man can always catch one when he doesn't want it.

Castoria is recommended by physicians for children teething. It is a purely vegetable preparation; its ingredients are published around each bottle. It is pleasant to the taste and absolutely harmless. It relieves constipation, regulates the bowels, quiets pain, cures diarrhea, whooping cough, feverishness, destroys worms and prevents convulsions, soothes the child and gives it refreshing and natural sleep. Castoria is the children's panacea—the mother's friend. 25 doses, 35 cents.

Equal to It.—Miss Clara—Won't you try some of this salad, Mr. Portleigh? Mr. Portleigh—Thanks, awfully, but see what a lot I have on my plate already. Miss Clara—Yes, but only think what a place you have to put it in.

Jas. Shannon, Leaskdale, writes: "For many years my wife was troubled with chilblains, and could get no relief until about two years ago; she was then not able to walk, and the pain was so excruciating that she could not sleep at night. Your agent was then on his regular trip, and she asked him if he could cure her. He told her Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil was a sure cure. She tried it, and judge of her astonishment when, in a few days, the pain was all away and the foot restored to its natural condition. It is also the best remedy for burns and bruises I ever used."

"At what age should a young lady marry?" asks a correspondent. "Oh, any time after she is won."

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria. It is a risky business to engage a chess player in a war of words, as he is always ready with a retort.

C. A. Livingstone, Plattville, Ont., says: "I have much pleasure in recommending Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil, one having used it myself, and having sold it for some time. In my own case I will say for it that it is the best preparation I have ever tried for rheumatism."

The gentlemen's interest in the railroads they represent seems to be flagging.

Keep It Up, Gentlemen. It Does Us Good. Figures Won't Lie!

Notwithstanding the combined efforts of jealous rivals to put us under, we are out on top as usual. Look at the record for 1889. Policies issued for nearly $3,000,000. Not had for a young company, you will say. True, it took some of the old fogies 10 years to write up the same amount. What we declined more applications last year than some of the other companies wrote up altogether. How do we account for it, you say. Well, we have plans to suit everybody. Our premium rates are as low as any other company. Our policy is the most liberal, being nearly unconditional; almost a simple promise to pay at death or maturity, as the case may be. The policy-holders are entirely free from all liability; but are nevertheless, allowed to participate in the control of the Company's affairs and to monopolize nine-tenths (9-10) of the profits of the business. Each policy-holder has one vote for every $1,000 of insurance held by him in this Company. These privileges are secured by the act of incorporation. If you are not insured, or want more insurance, take a policy in the MANUFACTURERS.
