A GREAT ARTIST EXPRESSES HIS OPINION OF THE NEW MODEL "BELL" PIANO

Very Excellent Pianos—Most Elegant Instruments Seen Anywhere—Singing Qualities all that an Artist Could Desire—Broad, Rich, Massive Tone—Nothing to Fear from Foreign Competition.

THE BELL PIANO COMPANY (LIMITED), GUELPH, ONT.

Tecumseh House, London, April 28, 1896.

Dear Sirs,—It gives me pleasure before leaving Canada to testify to the very excellent Pianos of your manufacture which I have met with and used in connection with my song recitals in this country. The Upright Concert Grand which was placed at my disposal by your manager in London I unhesitatingly pronounce as one of the most elegant instruments that I have seen anywhere, and whilst its singing qualities were all that an artist could desire, it possessed in addition that broad, rich, massive tone which is absolutely indispensable for solo purposes. I heartily congratulate you on your latest achievements in piano construction, and believe that so long as the present high standard of your instruments is maintained your company can have nothing possible to fear from foreign competition.

I am faithfully yours, R. WATKIN-MILLS.

Passed Away.

Quiet Close of a Busy and Useful Career.

Death of Miss Stowe the Famous Author of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" and Other Works.

Hartford, Conn., July 2.—Harriet Beecher Stowe, the famous authoress, is dead. She had been suffering from congestion of the brain and paralysis, and had been unconscious since yesterday. She passed peacefully away at noon yesterday, surrounded by the members of her family.

Harriet Beecher Stowe was the third daughter and sixth child of Rev. Lyman and Rosanna Foote Beecher, of Litchfield, Conn. She was about 4 years old when her mother died. That she was was evident enough at an early age. Fancy a girl of 8, unable to spell correctly, or to do more than print her sentences, handing in to her teacher a composition with such a title as "The difference between the natural and the moral sublime," and of arguing (at the age of 19) at a school exhibition the negative (or any other) side of the amazing question, "Can the immortality of the soul be proved by the light of nature?" Shortly after her 13th birthday she was sent to Hartford, where she remained for some years, first as pupil and afterwards as associate teacher in the school which had been established in that city by her elder sister, Catherine Beecher.

LITERARY CAREER BEGUN.

In 1832 Mr. Beecher removed from Litchfield to Cincinnati, and a little later on Catherine and Harriet followed and established their school in that city. Mrs. Stowe's literary career may be said to have had its beginning in the Semiotic Club, some of her best papers which she read before it (notably her "Uncle Tom's Cabin") appearing later on in the Western Monthly Magazine and in the Mayflower. Afterward she became an occasional contributor to the National Era and Goddard's Magazine, and was frequently tributed, with more or less regularity, to the Atlantic and other periodicals of prominence.

In 1836 she married Prof. Calvin E. Stowe, of Lane Theological Seminary.

"UNCLE TOM'S CABIN."

"Uncle Tom's Cabin" was printed in the National Era, the publication beginning in the summer of 1851 and concluding in March, 1852. It is said that when Mrs. Stowe proposed the publication of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" in book form, the firm receiving the offer "declined with thanks." The proposal was subsequently accepted by another publisher, who, within a few months after putting it upon the market, was able to place at Mrs. Stowe's disposal, as the first installment of her share of the proceeds, the sum of $10,000. "More money," said Prof. Stowe, "than I had ever seen in my life," and a sum immeasurably beyond Mrs. Stowe's wildest hopes.

OTHER WORKS.

"Dred," "The Minister's Wooing," "Agnes of Sorrento," "The Pearl of Orr's Island," "Old Town Folks," and other works followed "Uncle Tom's Cabin" in its leisurely succession, and her literary reputation was fully and firmly established both at home and abroad.

In 1852 Mrs. Stowe, accompanied by her husband, made her first visit to the old world, and this delightful experience was supplemented by two subsequent visits. Each time she was welcomed with unbounded enthusiasm, and received such private hospitality and public demonstrations of respect and admiration as are rarely accorded to royalty itself. During these foreign visits she made many warm personal friends, among whom were George Eliot, Mrs. Gaskell, Lady Byron, the Duchess of Sutherland, Lord Palmerston, and others whose names and fame are equally well known.

HOME OF HER OLD AGE.

In 1864 Prof. and Mrs. Stowe removed from Andover, Mass., where Prof. Stowe had for several years occupied the chair of sacred literature in the famous theological seminary, and made for themselves a home in Hartford, Conn. There lived many of Mrs. Stowe's kindred and friends, and there, too, clustered many dear associations of her early youth. And so there was no sense of newness or strangeness in this home-coming to Hartford. Old friends welcomed her, hearts and homes were eagerly thrown open to this woman of genius, and there, for 24 years, in joy and in sorrow, in sickness and in health, and in the loneliness of her widowhood, she received in full measure the love and affectionate regard and the sincere admiration of her fellow-townsmen.

Mrs. Stowe's Hair Renewer contains the natural food and color-matter for the hair, and medicinal herbs for the scalp, curing grayness, baldness, dandruff and scalp sores.

Yesterday's Excursions.

Springbank Caught the Largest Crowd Again.

Port Stanley Came Next—How the Other Out-of-Town Excursions Were Patronized.

Springbank caught the largest holiday crowd again yesterday, and, like the corpse at the celebrated Scotch burying, there was no complaint. Everybody was satisfied. Early in the day it was seen that the riverside resort was going to be well patronized, and, as the day wore on, the crowd even exceeded the most sanguine expectations of the street railway people. The delays of May 25 were not repeated, and the 6,000 or 7,000 people were handled without a delay or blockade of any kind. The increased switching accommodation and double-tracking proved to be of immense advantage, and enabled the eight trains to maintain an eight-minute service and pass one another at the switches without more than a moment's delay at any time.

Manager Carr, Superintendent De Hart, and Assistant Superintendent Robinson were busy men, but as the day wore on and not a hitch of any kind occurred they occasionally found time to smile.

Every attraction that was advertised was put on. The band of the London Musical Society furnished excellent music afternoon and evening. A display of fireworks was also given from the north side of the river, while a number of time-light views were shown on the canvas placed on the face of the hill. A series of tub and swimming races, and exhibitions of diving were also given in front of the cafe, and they furnished unlimited amusement. The beacon light enabled the pleasure boats to pick their way in the dark, and the last of the night, so strong a light did it shed all over the grounds, while the colored lights in the apple trees made a rapidly changing scene. The last of the night, so strong a light did it shed all over the grounds, while the colored lights in the apple trees made a rapidly changing scene.

Port Stanley secured the next largest crowd, and no less than six regular trains were required to transport it. The one leaving at 10:05 a.m. was made up of ten cars; 10:30, eleven cars; 1:30, twelve cars; 2:45, eleven cars; 5:25, ten cars; and 7:15, fourteen cars. Half of St. Thomas was also at the lake side. The day was an ideal one, the water was just warm enough to make bathing a pleasure, and the fish were just hungry enough to make fishing good. The big crowd was handled without accident.

The excursion of Court Order, C. O. F., to Detroit, over the Grand Trunk, was patronized by about 400 Court Magnolia, A. O. F., took 300 people over the same line to Niagara Falls. The Young People's Union of the Talbot Street Baptist Church ran an excursion to Stag Island, which was taken advantage of by nearly 400 people. Nearly 200 people patronized Court Forest Queen's excursion to Detroit over the M. C. R.

Six Months

In the Central Prison, the Penalty Imposed on George Gates.

He is an Individual of the "Weary Walker" Type—Other Cases Disposed Of.

The police magistrate this morning had before him a half-dozen cases in the person of George Gates, who claims to be from Owen Sound. He had three charges opposite his name—vagrancy and assaulting Constable Hobbs and an Italian man named Lo Costelano. He was arrested on Richmond street last night for assaulting Mr. Costelano, of whom Gates inquired the time, but as Costelano did not speak English very well, he merely replied: "I don't." This repeated expression raised the ire of the belligerent who struck him on the mouth cutting his lip badly. Gates is well known to the police. He has been hanging around the northeastern part of the city for the past ten days, begging and living as best he could. Last year he paid London a visit and induced a little boy in the East End to go away with him. He made the youngster beg, and frightened him into submission. He would not let the boy go too far away from him, so that the little fellow could not escape. One day, however, he told Gates he had lost his hat, and when sent back to look for it, he was without money and was obliged to occur in front of Benet's fruit store. Costelano, after being frisked, ran to G. T. R. Constable Logan, who arrested Gates, and handed him over to the city authorities. Since his return Gates again tried to induce the boy to go away with him, but six weeks last year to again go away with him.

Mr. McKillop, who appeared as prosecutor, did not press the charges of vagrancy, but wanted the man punished for his actions. The prisoner was without money and was obliged to occur in front of Benet's fruit store. Costelano, after being frisked, ran to G. T. R. Constable Logan, who arrested Gates, and handed him over to the city authorities. Since his return Gates again tried to induce the boy to go away with him, but six weeks last year to again go away with him.

John Munn, an old man arrested for being drunk on Tuesday night, was allowed to go next morning, and was again arrested at night for a similar offense. He got sick, and tried the efficacy of a little liquor, which led to his being locked up again. He was given another chance.

FIRED THE SALUTE.

The London Field Battery Parade Under Their New Commander.

The London Field Battery, now known officially as No. 6 Field Battery, paraded at the gun shed at 10:30 yesterday morning under command of Major B. Shaw-Wood, with Sergt. Major Alf. Taylor in charge of the right section, and Quartermaster-Sergt. Irvine in charge of the left, and proceeded by way of Waterloo, Richmond, Dundas and Adelaide streets to Carling's Heights, where at 12 o'clock they fired a salute of 21 guns in honor of Dominion Day. Surgeon-Major Hanavan, of No. 1 Company, R. C. I. was on the field in case of any casualties. The battery was in the line and the horses, harness and guns presented a fine appearance, and as the battery are fortunate in possessing some first-class non-coms, as well as one of the smartest officers in Canada, London may expect to see their battery in their old place at the head of the list before many seasons pass.

Among the spectators on the hill was Mr. Isaac Sargent, who thought he had an old soldier in his horse, for when the battery came into action he left the horse standing untied while he watched the battery; but when the first gun was fired the horse thought that it was safer to be at a greater distance, and started at a run, followed by Mr. Sargent and others, and everybody soon became more interested in the horse vs. man race than in the salute, until a young man on a bicycle started in, and soon made the horse a prisoner. Nothing was broken. The horse is 22 years of age, and should have known better.

After the salute the battery returned to the gun shed, and before being dismissed, the major supplied the men with a cordial to wash the dust and grime from out their throats.

A Winnipeg Tragedy.

A Middlesex County Man Found Drowned in the Red River.

Sad End of Mr. James Ross, a Well-Known Barrister.

Winnipeg, July 2.—Yesterday afternoon, floating in Red River, was found the body of James Ross, barrister. Mr. Ross, while ill and despondent, jumped off Broadway bridge Sunday night, having previously arranged his affairs and left letters to relatives saying that he was weary of life and would never be seen again. The body had floated a mile from the bridge. Mr. Ross was a brother of A. W. Ross, ex-M. P. for Lisgar. He was born at Nairn, Middlesex county, his father being the late Donald Ross. He was one of the pioneer citizens of Winnipeg, who made considerable money during the real estate boom of 1882. Since that time, however, he met with financial reverses and also became greatly shattered in health. Everybody knew Jim Ross, and everybody liked him, and Winnipeg deeply mourns his sad end. His wife lives in Ontario.

Treatment of Sunstroke.

What is known as sunstroke or heat-stroke occurs in two forms; first, those with cold, clammy hands, face, sunken, dimmed eyes, cold and clammy skin, bathed in perspiration, breathing interrupted and sighing, and the general appearance indicating weakness and faintness. These are in a state of collapse, and need perfect quiet and stimulants.

If this weakness and faintness is extreme, under no consideration must they be raised with the head high, or jolted in moving, or brought any distance to the station or hospital, until they have been examined by a physician. The patient with the head low in some shady place and administer, in a little water only, one-half teaspoonful doses of a brandy and ammonia mixture, which may be obtained at any druggist's—every five or ten minutes, until the doctor arrives or they show some signs of revival. Lifting them in the wagon and shaking them up for a mile or two will often bring them dying at the hospital door.

The other class of sunstrokes will present an entirely different appearance. The face will be bluish, or red, or purple, where the face is exposed to the sun, and the head and neck distended; they will, unless too far gone, have the head burning with heat, the eyes will be closed, and the face and neck will indicate full-bloodedness of the head and face, and the breathing will probably be very harsh and coarse. In these cases, raise the head moderately, and apply ice freely to the head and back of the neck, and give no stimulant, unless ordered by a physician.

An Unexpected Deliverance.

Cows, which are commonly inoffensive creatures, become dangerous sometimes when the safety of their calves is menaced. An incident occurred in Montana recently where a man came near losing his life from this cause, but was relieved from his perilous situation in a peculiar manner.

He had been on a hunt and was on his way home, when an enraged cow, which had been standing in some brush with her calf, rushed out upon him.

The man took to his heels, but the cow outran him, and before he had gone a dozen yards her sharp horns caught in his clothing and he was hurled violently to the ground. Luckily his coat had given way as the cow tossed him, or he might have been severely gored.

Suddenly from the woods an angry snort was heard, and a big elk appeared on the scene. The cow perceived a new antagonist in the elk, and turned upon him. The next moment the two animals rushed together, and their heads struck with a resounding thump.

The hunter paused but an instant to watch the fray, and then made the best possible time homeward.

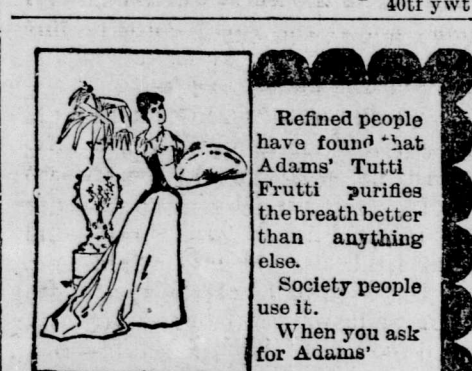

THERE is not a more dangerous class of disorders than those which affect the breathing organs. Nullify the danger with Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil—a pulmonary of acknowledged efficacy. It cures soreness and lameness when applied externally, as well as swollen neck and crick in the back; and, as an inward specific, possesses most substantial claims to public confidence.

A Long-Delayed Letter.

A letter posted in Calcutta on July 4, 1888, and bearing the London postmark of Sept. 8, 1888, was sent at Marischal College, Aberdeen, the other morning. It was addressed, "Dr. Cruickshank, Professor of Mathematics, Marischal College, Aberdeen," but as that gentleman has been dead for nearly twenty years, the long-lost missive was handed to Dr. Alexander Cruickshank, Kose street, son of Prof. Cruickshank. The letter, says the Scotsman, appears to have been received at Aberdeen on Sept. 9, 1888, a day after its arrival in London, and the last local postmark was June 1896. The letter has thus taken about 40 years to reach its destination, and the delay in transmission is probably unequaled in postal annals. The postoffice officials, however, incline to the belief that the letter had been re-posted on Monday morning, the hour at which it passed through the hands of the sorters being 3 a.m.

BASEBALL.

LONDON WINS AND LOSES.
That London is a good baseball city was demonstrated by the two splendid audiences at Tecumseh Park yesterday. Revived confidence in the Alerts may have had something to do with the gratifying patronage. That confidence was somewhat shattered in the morning, when the Alerts let victory slip through their fingers, but the afternoon game helped to re-establish it. Hamilton has now a stronger nine than she has sent here for a long while, and she will be in the pennant race from this time on.

MORNING GAME.

The morning game was, without a doubt, Hamilton's from the commencement, although the Alerts had the advantage in runs up to the eighth inning. It was clear to the mind of even the smallest juvenile on the ground that the home team was never near the least chance of scoring a solitary run but for the wild pitching of McDermott. Up to the fourth inning McDermott managed the plate was away off toward the home team's bench. He certainly had his eye in that direction, as his out curves were wide and wicked in these four innings he placed nine of the Alerts team on first by erratic pitching and also hit Hynd. Added to this, the delivery was of the two chromo-colored errors of Dean, which were responsible for at least four of the runs in the third and fourth. Commencing with the fifth inning, the light weight pitcher of the Alerts steadied down to his work, and in the last five innings but one men faced him in the box and only one hit, and that by Dr. Wood, was made off his delivery. The Alerts were clearly at his mercy in the entire game. He is a good man for Hamilton. Although the score shows but three strike-outs on the home team, they were unable to place any safe hits outside of the diamond. They had but four safe hits, one in the first, a two-bagger by Mertsch in the third, and singles by Dr. Wood in the fourth and ninth. The heavy end of the London club were as far away from a safe hit as they are from a pennant. And yet the game was uncertain up to the ninth inning. With a tie, the Hamiltons succeeded in placing the figure 3 in the column by the most wretched wild throw of Strouger and Hutchinson. It is almost certain that one run would have tallied, as doubles were made by McDermott and Morrison. The home team received lots of encouragement up to this time, but this quenched the enthusiasm. Many a quick pick-up was made by the team. Sippi and Strouger fielded beautifully, while Powers, throwing a second cut off several attempts at stealing. It is to be regretted that not a pitch of the afternoon batting was not transplanted into the morning game.

For the Hamiltons, while Wood was batted for thirteen safe hits, they were well scattered, except in the second inning, when four singles, a Wood hit and an error of Strouger scored the four runs after two men were out. The Alerts then supported Wood finely. Only twelve men went to bat in four innings. Strouger had five assists in these innings. Hoffman's scratch single and Morrison's triple sent in the run in the seventh. A single by Baker, on which he took third on a wild pitch and scored on Penningner's drive at Snyder, who juggled it, added the run in the eighth. The three runs in the ninth have already been described. Hamilton played a magnificent game. Their coaching was a wonderful aid to their team play. Dean was the only player to make errors. They were costly, and caused the audience to give him good-naturedly. The score:

THE AFTERNOON GAME.
In the afternoon the Alerts atoned for their poor stick work in the morning, and fattened their batting averages considerably at the expense of young Mr. Morrison. The game was not one of dazzling brilliancy, but plenty of hitting made it lively. Hamilton's clever coaches put as much ginger into it as anyone could expect from the losing side. Plummer pitched for the Alerts, and except in the fifth and sixth, the Hams did no violent execution with his bat. On the other hand, was pounded from first to last. His support was not very encouraging, indeed making slightly costly errors. Dean had a habit of falling all over balls that came his way. The base hit column on both sides was swelled by the bright sun, which robbed the outfielders of several catches. Mertsch, however, gathered in three beauties and made himself some of the cranks. In the fifth the Hams overtook and passed the Alerts through a combination of errors and hits. Pfeiffer got first on Sippi's error and came home on Morrison's triple. Dean knocked a fly to center, which Hynd could not reach by Dr. Wood. The O'Brien and singles by Malott and Ripley scored five runs. The Alerts tied the score in the fifth on hits by Sippi, Wood and Hutchinson, and in the sixth on a single by Hynd and Hutchinson, a triple by Powers, a base on balls and errors by Pfeiffer and Moore. This took the heart out of the Hams and the Alerts had it pretty much as they pleased the rest of the game.

Among individual plays may be noted Strouger's brilliant work at short, which redeemed his weakness at the bat, and the error of the catcher, Hynd, which enabled him to make a double play unassisted. The doctor also did some great fielding at timely junctures. The score:

Get Out!

How foolish it is for the Tupper press to raise an outcry for a Liberal Government programme at this stage. While Sir Charles Tupper hangs on to office, Mr. Laurier cannot form his Government. He cannot make arrangements to meet Parliament. Let it be understood that the sooner Sir Charles Tupper accepts the verdict of the people, so clearly expressed, the sooner will the new era be inaugurated. It is not the fault of the Liberal chief and his colleagues that the government of the country has been brought almost to a standstill. Every one knows that dissolution was held back till the last hour possible, and that the election campaign was unnecessarily prolonged. Now we have Tupper and his associates, discredited and defeated, determined to continue giving out contracts, filling offices, and performing other work that of right should be undertaken by the men who are the choice of the people. The seemingly thing for high tax journals to do would be to first call upon their leader to cease this usurpation, and permit the Premier-elect to take hold. Not till he is able to do so, have they the slightest warrant for berating the Liberal chief for inaction.

The reaction has set in. Algoma answers the hysterical appeals of the high tax organs to turn against a Liberal Government because it has a majority of supporters in Quebec by turning a Conservative majority into a Liberal majority of over 1,500. And there are others to come.

New Industries.

Another two new enterprises are announced. In Ingersoll, a company has been formed to take over the old and for years unused Russell foundry. They will prepare lumber for bicycle rims for manufacturers in Canada and Boston, Mass. The material used will be rock elm, and it is expected that a profitable business will be built up. Another industry is that contemplated by Mr. L. Mennig, St. Marys, who proposes establishing a new industry for evaporating by steam fruits and vegetables of every description. He will also make potato flour, pickles (vinegar and sweet), and vinegar itself. Mr. Mennig has not yet chosen his location. Why should not the London City Council induce him to locate in this city? He would be in touch with the wholesale trade and have unrivalled shipping facilities.

It was an ideal first of July. But farmers would not have lamented if it had been marred by a good shower of rain. In many parts of the country the drought has been severe, and the grasshopper pest has been doing much damage. And all this while Tupper cleaves to office!

The English Oil Deal.

There has been talk for a considerable time past of the formation of a great English syndicate to take over all the refineries, oil wells and fixings generally throughout Western Ontario. The transaction was one involving many millions of dollars. Things were pretty well fixed up until a few months ago, when a hitch occurred, and the transaction is now said to be off. Whether the project will be renewed remains to be seen. Meantime, pending the resurrection of the big scheme, it is reported that several minor operators are proposing to cross the briny and exploit the British investors on their own account.

Liverpool has a city ordinance forbidding the use of the streets to vehicles displaying advertisements. A man who undertook to show an advertisement on a bicycle was recently fined under this law. The Liverpool authorities are live and wide awake. They know that the newspapers are the proper agencies through which to communicate information to an intelligent people.

West Lambton's Choice.

The official count in Lambton gives Mr. James Lister a majority of 1,158 over Mr. Hanna, his Conservative opponent. This is the largest majority ever polled for any candidate in a Dominion election in this constituency. Mr. Lister well deserves reelection. He has proved an able and painstaking representative in Parliament, and a power in bringing to condemnation the wrong-doers in public life. In the performance of his Parliamentary duties Mr. Lister has earned the esteem not only of his constituents, but of the people generally. He is a "coming man," and any promotion which in due course may be his will give satisfaction to his hosts of admirers in the West.

With what interest will the London public school promotion lists, printed in the "Advertiser," be scanned by both old and young! Early in life does the rivalry of the race begin.

At Port Stanley.

While Springbank did a big holiday business on Dominion Day, it was not done at the expense of London's lake port. The L. E. and D. R. carried more people to Port Stanley yesterday than were carried on any previous Dominion Day. The L. E. and D. R. authorities are looking well after business and after the comfort of passengers. There is a rumor of an intention to adopt G. T. R. Manager Hays' fast train tactics, and run through at least one train per day in very sharp time. The train service is good at present, but if the management decide to go "still one better," they may depend upon it the public will not be slow in manifesting appreciation.

Port Stanley itself is just now looking its best. Trees and lawns are revealing in verdancy. The lake's expanse spreads out in eternal blue, and there is seldom an hour in the day that cannot furnish a refreshing breeze. Better bathing facilities cannot be found. The cottages are occupied, and all the hostellers have their quota of visitors. The Fraser House never looked more charming, and it is said that this year the hotel is particularly well managed. London has now four parks: (1) Victoria Park, in the heart of the city; (2) Queen's Park, in the East End; (3) Springbank to the west; and (4) the picnic grounds at Port Stanley, which are the property of the city, though at present under lease with the rest of the L. and P. S. R. property to the L. E. and D. R.

As soon as a new Government is seated at Ottawa, the "Independent" papers which turned Conservative at election day approached will become wonderfully "independent" once more—with a squint towards Liberalism. It is a way they have.

Deserved Praise.

The Winnipeg Free Press, which has in recent years opposed the Liberal party, has a strong meed of praise for Hon. David Mills. Says our contemporary:

"Whether to the right or the left of the Speaker, the Liberal party in the Commons will not be complete without Mr. David Mills, who has just suffered his first defeat in a long Parliamentary career, to the great regret of moderate men of both parties all over the Dominion. Mr. Mills is one of the ablest and best of his party, and we can hardly conceive that Mr. Laurier will complete his Cabinet without inviting him to become a member of it."

With Algoma as a precedent, the new Liberal Administration may expect success in every bye-election.

Butter in a Minute.

A new process of butter-making, whereby butter can be produced in a minute, has been invented, and some dairymen of experience, who have given the matter some study, assert that it will revolutionize the industry on this continent. The inventor is Herr Salenius, a Swedish engineer, and it is now in successful operation in Sweden, Finland and England. The butter is made from sterilized milk, the milk being heated to a temperature of 160 degrees, and then suddenly cooled to a temperature of 50 degrees, by means of small cooling frames through which ice water is constantly run. The cream which rises is taken by a skimmer, and raised to the churning chamber of the machine. The cream is then forced into a tube, which is perforated with tiny holes, and emerges with great force onto each fresh layer of cream as it rises, converting it into butter by concussion. The butter is then in the form of granules, and is drawn into a tub, where it is mixed with buttermilk. After a thorough mixing, it is put under pressure in a butter worker and almost all the buttermilk is squeezed out. The butter is then placed on ice, where it is kept for two hours. It is then worked over again and made up. The actual time consumed in making the butter, from the time it is put into the cream-skimming chamber of the machine until it is taken out in the form of butter, is a fraction over a minute. In addition to the saving of time, it is also claimed that the process is so rapid that there is little or no chance of any germs which may be in the dairy, getting into the butter, as the extreme rapidity with which the machinery inside the chamber moves, forces most of the air out. When the butter is once made up, there is little or no danger of any germs getting into it, and the sterilizing of the milk before it is put into the machine, kills any germs which may be in it.

We have seen no statement as to the cost of this wonderful machine. If it can be put into dairies and creameries at a reasonable rate, and is shown to be the good thing set forth in the prospectus, it will no doubt soon get a trial in this country. If there is one thing that Canadian farmers require more than another today it is ability to produce good marketable butter in all seasons.

Mr. Blake in Ireland.

Hon. Edward Blake, M. P. for North Longford, had an Irish welcome from the people of Mallow, when he visited Cork county the week before last. He made an eloquent and instructive speech, in the course of which he spoke hopefully of the probable results from the coming convention of delegates of the Irish race, to be held in Dublin next September. Irish affairs, he said, had recently been treated with studied neglect by the Imperial Parliament. The reason was not to be found in the majority at the back of Lord Salisbury so much as from lack of unity among the Irish themselves. The Prime Minister of England, with brutal frankness, said Mr. Blake, recently told his party not to despair of managing the Irish cause. Lord Salisbury said that from the time of Strongbow down the Irish had never been able to long agree among themselves. An explanation of this kind, Mr. Blake argued, proved to the Irish members of Parliament, as well as to their followers in the country, the necessity for forgetting the past and joining heart and hand to secure the best possible results for Ireland for the future. Mr. William O'Brien, who is a great favorite in Cork, lauded our fellow-countryman for his wisdom, loyal friendship and personal and intellectual character, which he did not hesitate to say would reflect a lustre upon any assembly or any cause throughout the world. The great audience cheered these sentiments, and warmly indorsed the remarks of Mr. Blake on the necessity for conciliation and unity if good work is to be done.

THE SHUT-DOWN SCARE

A man around town last night was saying that there had been a lot of talk about factories closing down since Laurier was elected, but it was not all talk, for he had been assured that the Gurney night shift would be shut down Tuesday night, for the plant to be opened up again on Thursday morning.

AN EPIGRAPH.

Westminster Gazette.
A correspondent assures us that he has seen the following on a tombstone: IN MEMORY OF M. LAURIER. Erected by Her Grieving Children. What is Home Without a Mother?

"PEACE, PERFECT PEACE."

The scorcher scorched with all his might. His head o'er the handle bars was bent; The brewery wagon hove in sight—Go ask the winds where the scorcher went.

Constant improvement marks the monthly numbers of the Canadian Magazine, and the best and the latest issue of Canada's national periodical is that for June. Among the more important articles is a vigorous reply to Sir Charles Tupper's recent article on the colonies and the British navy. The reply is written by A. H. Loring, honorary secretary of the Imperial Federation (Defense) League, of London, Eng., who insists that Canada should have the navy of her own. The Canadian Historical Exhibition of 1897, in the promotion of which Mr. Oliver A. Howland, M. P., is taking a very active interest, is the subject of an article explanatory of its scope and of its probable benefits to the country. There is an entertaining installment of Ian MacLaren's Scotch tale, "Kate Carnegie," and a number of short stories and tales of travel by well-known Canadian writers.

The leading feature of Frank Leslie's Popular Monthly for July, is a description of Gen. Robert E. Lee's part in the battles of Fredericksburg and Chancellorsville, written by Col. John J. Garnett, of the United States Artillery, and forming the sixth paper in the magazine's great "Lee Series." The article is profusely illustrated with portraits and battle scenes. In "A Glimpse of Dungeness," Frederick "Light-Horse Harry" is the subject of an article of a "Colonial Homes of Virginia," by Virginia Cousins Mayo, accompanied by more than a dozen pictures. It is a very attractive number. (New York: Frank Leslie's Publishing House.)

Itching

If there is one thing more than another which gratifies us, it is the great volume of hearty thanks which come from grateful parents for the cures Hood's Sarsaparilla has effected upon their children. The agony of despair turns to unspeakable joy as mothers and fathers see dreadful sores and eruptions gradually yield to the potent purifying power of this great medicine, and bright boys and girls given perfect health. Read this:

"When my baby was four weeks old, scrofulous eczema broke out on his body. He became literally covered with

Sores

When six months old the breaking out healed on his body, but his head, face and arms were a terrible sight. I passed many sleepless nights holding his little hands to keep him from scratching his face. I cannot tell what he suffered with the sores. One doctor attended him a year without avail. No one thought he would ever get well. He was almost a year old when I commenced to give him Hood's Sarsaparilla. He soon grew so much better that

I was able to rest at night. Gradually the sores on his head and arms healed, the burning and itching ceased, and he slept better. In two months he looked like another child, gained strength, was cured. I recommend all persons afflicted with eczema or any skin disease to take Hood's Sarsaparilla. I feel assured that it will do wonders for others. I cannot praise it too highly for what it has done for my poor little sufferer. It is hard to believe he is the same child, he is now such a big, hearty, fat boy, a very picture of health. If more people would give Hood's Sarsaparilla to their children, there would not be so many poor, delicate little ones."

700 FEET AWAY.

The Imprisoned Miners at Pittston—Little Hope of Rescue.

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., July 2.—There is practically nothing new to be added to the condition of affairs at the twin shaft in Pittston this morning. The work of removing the debris is progressing very slowly, owing to the immense amount of rock that has fallen. Much of last night was spent by the rescuers in straightening the stone wall that conducts the ventilation in the shaft. The bodies are about 700 feet from where the rescuers are at work. It is almost an assured fact that the men will never be found alive, and it may be a week or more before they can be reached. Some of the best known miners in this region say it is more than probable that not half of the bodies will ever be recovered.

LIFE SAVED.—Mr. James Bryson Cameron states: "I am confined to my bed with inflammation of the lungs, and was given up by physicians. A neighbor advised me to try Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil, stating that his wife had used it for a throat trouble with the best results. Acting on this advice, I procured the medicine, and less than a half bottle cured me; I certainly believed it saved my life. It was with reluctance that I consented to a trial, as I was reduced to such a state that I doubted the power of any remedy to do me any good."

A. J. Harvie, of Roseau, Ont., died suddenly Wednesday, supposed by poisoned liquor. An inquest is being held.

Blood purifiers, though gradual, are radical in their effects. Ayer's Sarsaparilla is intended as a medicine only, and not as a stimulant, excitant or beverage. Immediate results may be expected, and its use, but after a reasonable time, permanent benefit is certain to be realized.

A WINDSOR SCANDAL.

13-Year Old Girl Abducted—Serious Charges Against Several People.

Windsor, July 1.—Last Friday Lillie Bisset, aged 13 years, disappeared from her parents' residence on Albert street, Windsor. Detective Wheeler was put on her track, and brought her home to Detroit last Sunday day. She confessed to him who was responsible for her disappearance, and he laid an information against Mrs. Payne, of Windsor.

Green, her son-in-law, who is a hypnotist, The Detroit officers located Mrs. Payne was arrested and locked him up yesterday. Green was brought to this city yesterday, as was also a man named Knapp, who gave a brief report of a hearing from Magistrate Bartlett yesterday on a charge of abduction, and he remained there for a week to give the officers a chance to collect all the evidence in the case.

Mrs. Minnie Payne, the woman in the case, has been in police court before on different charges. Her daughter Maud is married to Green, and it was her that the Bisset girl came to visit last Friday.

At 5 o'clock yesterday the police arrested Adolph Parent, a milk peddler living in Sandwich West, and Charles Girard, a liquor dealer of Sandwich West, on charges of having assaulted the Bisset girl, at the residence of Mrs. Payne house. The police declare that they were both identified by the girl last night. The punishment for conviction for such crimes is imprisonment and the whipping post, and for keeping a house where such crimes are committed is a fine or the knowledge of the tenant, ten years imprisonment.

The police believe that Green and Knapp were the tools of Mrs. Payne, and say they are only being held as witnesses against her and the two men, Girard and Parent.

The Sting Within.
It is said there is a rankling thorn in every heart, and yet that none would exchange the thorn for another. Be that as it may, the sting arising from the heart of a coin is real enough, and in this land of tight boots and a very common complaint among men's Painless Corn Extractor is a never-failing remedy for this kind of affliction. Chances are, you have tried the genuine and use no more.

Town and Country

The vast throng of people that assembled on the rectory grounds on Friday evening, June 28, enjoyed themselves to the utmost at the open air concert and lawn social, given under the auspices of the guild and congregation of St. Matthew's Church, Florence. The grounds were tastefully decorated and illuminated, and all present highly appreciated the excellent programme; of vocal and instrumental music, in which the following took part: Mr. McIntyre, Chatham; Misses Haugh and Hawhaw, and Mr. Kimerly, Dresden; Misses Rheintgen, Bothwell; Miss Husworth, Rev. Mr. Diehl, and his stringed Florence. The music supplied by the Dresden orchestra was highly satisfactory. Rev. Mr. Diehl occupied the chair. Though the admission was only 10 and 15 cents, the proceeds amounted to $87; expenses, $31, leaving a balance of $56, which is to be applied on the church fund.

FOREST AND LAKE SHORE.

July 1.—Rev. Dean Hamilton, B.A., preached at Warwick village on the evening of June 28 in the Congregational Church, Lake Shore, to a large and appreciative audience, taking for his text, Peter. He spoke very feelingly of those in and out of the pale of the Congregational Church who have by their prayers, counsel and support in every way helped on the Congregational cause, which was very weak when he, the days of Sunday things he began to labor among them as student pastor. Since then there have been added between the two appointments over 44 members by profession mostly, and there have been no bravis or choir rackets, but peace and prevailed among the crowd.

We were pleased to notice Mr. Wm. Nimmo, who has not been able to come so far, on account of his illness, for nearly a year, also his son Archie Nimmo and his bride, from Toronto. The former was a school-mate of Mr. Hamilton at the University of Toronto. Hamilton fared well in Warwick on June 21.

The Congregationalist of Warwick banqueted their pastor on the 17th inst., and gave him an address and purse. They are sorry to part with him, as he has been very highly appreciated there—the same as here.

On Monday evening the members of the Congregational Church of Lake Shore, Rosanquet, met at Lake Valley Grove, and had their photos taken, to be framed and presented to Rev. D. Hamilton, together with an album and a fancy purse, well filled with the needed. The presentation was made by D. McIntyre, Thers, a good programme, and Mr. Richard Mackin very ably presided. The speeches were excellent.

Mr. Thompson, the minister among the brethren, is around here visiting and preaching.

The Methodists are to hold a tea-meeting at Lake Valley Grove on July 8.

Bishop Baldwin held confirmation services in Warwick village on Friday, June 26. The class numbered 13. He confirmed another class in the evening, and a large number of new members, and on the following Sunday held similar services in Strathroy. On July 23 he is to confirm a class at Forest.

STRATHROY.

"Advertiser" Agent, J. D. Meekison. Strathroy, July 1.—Mr. Calvert, M.P., and Dr. Roome, ex-M.P., were in town yesterday.

Mr. Homer Smith, of Chatham, is the guest of Mr. Will Meekison, Front street, at about 10 o'clock.

Elizabeth Duncan, relict of the late Andrew Blair, died at the residence of her son-in-law, Mr. George La Motte, Monday evening, June 28. The funeral took place yesterday afternoon for the Mount Carmel cemetery.

The garden party held at Mount Carmel Church, which was well attended. Refreshments were served during the evening, and an excellent programme presented.

Rev. J. A. Wilson, B.A., will preach a pre-Communion sermon on Friday evening in St. Andrew's Church.

A large number of townspeople took in the cheap excursion, to Sarina today.

BELMONT.
Belmont, July 1.—Belmont celebrated Dominion Day in right regal style by a lawn social on the manse grounds and then adjourned to Knox Church for a grand musical entertainment and addresses of instruction and humor by Messrs. Thompson, Jackson, Ross and Dove. The various lights of ro- mance between the reverend gentlemen and the genial and esteemed pastor, Rev. J. A. Wilson, were highly enjoyed by the large audience that filled the church. The musical portion of the entertainment was furnished by Mr. J. T. Dalton of London, who has been visiting his son, Dr. Burrows, of that place. The many friends of the young doctor will be glad to hear that he is building up a large and lucrative practice in that pushing northern town.

Mr. J. Wilson has left for Peterborough, where he will spend a few weeks. Mr. and Mrs. Poole have returned from Arkona, where they have been spending a few days with their daughter, Mrs. Hooper.

Mr. J. W. Cornell is improving, and no anxiety is now felt about his recovery.

Mr. F. W. Heath, general manager, Confederation Life Insurance Company, was in the village Tuesday, working in the interests of his company. He proposes making a general canvass of these parts, and will be pleased to call upon anyone interested in insurance and explain the special inducements which his company can offer. He claims some strong features along the line of investment insurance.

Dominion Day passed off quietly. A large number went to Springfield for the day. Two garden parties, one at North Street and another at Delaware, attracted many others. The village had decidedly a deserted appearance.

The only lively thing of the day was a rather serious runaway, which occurred about six o'clock in the afternoon. Mr. Hamlyn, miller, and his daughter, Miss Minnie, were setting out for an evening ride. Just as Mr. Hamlyn was about to step into the carriage, the horse, a spirited beast, bolted. Mr. Hamlyn pluckily retained the lines, and was dragged for a considerable distance. The animal becoming free, overturned the rig, and the unfortunate young lady inside was thrown forcibly to the ground. The infuriated beast continuing its mad chase, the rig was soon detached and considerably damaged. The animal was cleverly captured by Roy Mathers. Both occupants of the carriage fortunately escaped without serious injury. Both, however, received painful cuts and bruises, but will soon be around again.

Mr. Frank Hamlyn has completed his commercial course at the F.C.B.C. He distinguished himself at the final examination, securing the coveted "A" standing. Mr. Hamlyn deserves the congratulations of his friends.

LUCAN.
"Advertiser" Agent, Willard Hodgins. July 1.—A very successful tea meeting was held in the shed on the church grounds of the Methodist church here on Dominion Day. A goodly crowd of both great and small sat down to a bountiful repast prepared by the ladies of the congregation, where which they repaired to the church where appropriate addresses were delivered by the Rev. Harris, of London, and Rev. Garbutt, of Birr. The proceeds amounted to about $25, which will be applied to the shed fund.

Mr. Frank Smith, bank clerk, of St. Thomas, paid his home here a visit on Wednesday.

A Brother's Error.

"I can't see why two Virginia lawyers should come out to this country and join a gang that is notoriously lawless," said Henry Kyle, meditatively.

"They keep their own secrets, Hank," chuckled Bouton.

"So they do, but I can't see why they should be so eager to get this Dr. Blanchard and his son out of the way."

"In order that they may marry the daughters, I suppose. But are the girls so beautiful?"

"Beautiful as pictures, Bouton—too beautiful to be thought of in connection with such a brace of ugly curs as these two brothers," said Henry Kyle, the words coming as it from between his set teeth.

By this time the two men had reached the campfire, and a score of men, bearded and bronzed, greeted Henry Kyle with a cheer that indicated his popularity. If, indeed, it did not imply his leadership. Henry Kyle unsaddled and staked his horse—the first care of a true hunter—and then went to the fire, on which meat was broiling and savory messes steaming in iron pots.

"You met up with them, Mr. Pont Robb says you met up with them," said a man, laying his hand on Henry's arm.

"Oh, you—Mr. Tom Bliss! How are you? Yes, I met them. I told you I would if they were on the plains."

"So you did, so you did, and I believed you implicitly." And as Tom Bliss spoke, he drew Henry Kyle out of hearing of the others.

Just here it may be necessary to explain the appearance of Jonas Bliss's two sons in these wilds. Dr. Blanchard had not been gone from his old home a week when the collateral heirs—the kinsmen of old John Weldon, this patriarch—began to make inquiries about the immense estate that had been unclaimed for so many years in the old lawyer's hands that he very naturally began to look upon it as his own.

Lawyer Bliss refused to give them any satisfaction, and the consequence was that the remaining Weldons appealed to the courts and demanded an investigation. The courts granted the order, and the old lawyer found the calm current of his prosperity vexed by opposing rocks.

He said one day to his sons:

"I am left sole executor of John Weldon's estate. It was left to his grandsons, Valentine and Frederick. The latter is dead, and if the former is not we can safely count on never seeing him again. He is a murderer and will risk his life to gain any wealth. The will can still be set aside, but only by Dr. Blanchard's children. They are the rightful heirs."

"But they have left it all behind them and fled," said Tom Bliss, who was very much like his father.

"That is no bar. The courts will hunt them up, though the courts can't force them to press their claims."

"It wouldn't be a bad thing for us," interposed Jim Bliss, who was thought to be very shrewd because he spoke but little, "if the whole party was gobled up by the Indians."

There was so much more in this than the mere words would ordinarily convey that the old lawyer and his son Tom fairly gasped for breath. It was Tom who first recovered and said:

"They could be stopped."

"They could be no fix as never to be heard of again," joined in Jim.

"The girls should be watched over and cared for. Ah, if you boys had only succeeded in winning them," sighed the old lawyer, "the whole estate would be in our hands and we might snap our fingers at the whole Weldon clan."

"It is not too late yet," said Tom, and thereupon he whispered a plan that met the approval of his father and brother.

The result of this plan was that within a week Tom and Jim Bliss with plenty of money in their pockets, were speeding out for the Black Hills. They had learned of the course taken by Dr. Blanchard and his family, and steam and stage enabled them to get to the mountains while the train under Captain Brandon was drawing its slow length across the scorching plains. They met with Henry Kyle and Pont Robb at Deadwood and by them were introduced to Bouton's gang, as these outlaws were called.

The brothers congratulated themselves on their good luck. They found the tools they needed already to their hand. The half formed plans took definite shape when they met with the outlaws. The crimes from which cowardice might make them shrink in the east, here became the easiest possibilities. They sent Henry Kyle and Pont Robb to spy out the train, and the result has already been given.

"We can have them in our power," said Tom Bliss when he had Henry Kyle out of hearing.

"Yes, but the job will not be easy."

"The doctor has lots of money."

"So I understand. But I say, Bliss, you can have all the money; for me, I am going to have the eldest daughter."

"Allies!" exclaimed Tom Bliss.

"Yes, allies, or I'll die trying," replied Henry Kyle.

"Well, Mr. Kyle," said Tom, trying to smile, but making a wretched failure of the effort, "you and I can't differ about a small matter when we are agreed about many great ones. I hope we shall always be friends. If we are not, it shall not be for the want of a strong desire on my part."

"That is all right, Mr. Bliss. I am as anxious for harmony as any man in this outfit, but I want to see through your motive if I can," said Henry Kyle.

"I am willing to explain anything you do not understand," responded Tom Bliss, and he smiled again, and stroked his rusty mustache. "But, Mr. Kyle, you should have made your inquiries before you took my money and began this job."

"I have so far done my work."

"True. Now the point is, are you willing to continue the work under the same conditions? If you are not, I shall be glad to make your reward commensurate with your efforts. If you are not, no harm has been done."

"Tom Bliss stopped, for Pont Robb came up, and not knowing that he was intruding on a private conversation or perhaps not caring for it—all Bouton's men did pretty much as they pleased and claimed to have no secrets, and so there could be no privacy—he called out: "If you chaps want anything to eat, you'd better come over. There ain't too much cooked, and the boys is just a-wadin' in."

Font Robb, to make sure of getting his own share, had carried a large piece of broiled venison in his hand, which he began devouring the moment he ceased speaking.

"Have any of the scouts come in?" asked Henry Kyle as he turned to walk back to the fire with Tom Bliss.

"Black Eagle, the Shoshone, is back. He says that Capt. Brandon's party is in camp on the Blue Water."

"Then he'll rest there for some days before going on."

"Of course, Hank. As there's no good grass for 180 miles to the west, that's what he'll do; but if he was only a prophet, or the son of a prophet, he'd push ahead," said Robb.

"I do not think he is prophetic in that way, but it won't do to underestimate him on that account. I'd rather have any man in the mountains opposed to me than this same Capt. Brandon," said Henry Kyle as they reached the circle of the outlaws about the blazing campfire.

CHAPTER IV.

Capt. Brandon and Alice Blanchard were admiring the scenery from the top of a hill overlooking their camp when Howard came up and informed them that a young man had come into the camp who wished to see the captain. They descended the hill and made their way to the place where the pillars of smoke marked the site of the camp. As they neared the tents and huts a young man of graceful form and strong, handsome face came out to meet them. He extended his hand to the captain; the other hand held his hat—and asked:

"Are you Capt. Brandon?"

"I am," was the reply.

"I have ridden fast to see you, sir," said the young man. "My name is Louis Kyle."

Louis Kyle released Capt. Brandon's hand, and a blush of modest confusion covered his handsome face as he felt the eyes of Alice Blanchard were on him.

"Kyle! Did you say your name was Kyle?" asked the captain, his hand to his ear and his head bent forward.

"Yes, sir."

THE ONLY HELP.

A Victim of Bright's Disease for Many Years—Cured by Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Neepawa, June 29—(Special).—Mrs. F. H. McKee, formerly of Lisleford, came here as a last resort. Had suffered ten years with Bright's disease. Reported to be past help and dying, her reappearance on the street in apparently good health, was a pleasant surprise. The explanation given was that her little boy had insisted that she should use Dodd's Kidney Pills and prophesied that they would cure her. She says: "From the first few doses I began to feel better, and after taking four and a half boxes, I say it with heartfelt gratitude, I am perfectly cured." Dodd's Kidney Pills is the only medicine in the world that has ever cured a case of Bright's disease at such a stage.

Major W. H. Cooper, 16 Gloucester St., Toronto, says:

"I can now eat, sleep, and think better, and feel altogether a different man. Before taking it I had suffered for a long time from severe pains in my back and a feeling of exhaustion upon the slightest exertion. I slept badly, and was subject to fits of the 'blues.' This has all disappeared and I feel like a new man, all of which I attribute to Manley's Celery-Nerve Compound."

An Awful Visitation

Details of the Terrible Disaster in Japan.

Thousands Killed by the Tidal Wave and Earthquake.

The Destruction of Property Enormous—Far-Reaching Sweep of the Turbulent Sea.

Vancouver, B. C., July 2.—The steamer Empress of China brings Yokohama advices to June 13, three days later than the Japanese earthquake, which was accompanied by a great tidal wave, brief accounts of which have been received by cable. Disconnected reports of the terrible visitation are published in the Japanese press. These would indicate that the cable advices were not in the least exaggerated.

The loss of life is in the thousands, and the destruction of property enormous. The center of disturbance was the island of Kinkawa Zan. Between Kinkawa Zan, on the south, and Kinkawa, on the north, a distance of about 170 miles, practically the whole coast was swept by the wave, and over half of the town of Kwaival-shi swept away. Many persons were drowned or killed.

Four hundred deaths are reported at Hasekawa, a city of 300 buildings destroyed; 1,450 deaths at Koidzumi and 600 at Utatsu Mura. At Shizu-kawa 80 houses were swept away; 72 corpses were recovered up to 1 p.m. June 16. At Hachinohe Minato eleven persons were killed. At Okachihama buildings were destroyed, and the deaths numbered 21. Among those who lost their lives were eight sailors and several prisoners.

In the three districts of Motoyoshi, Ojika and Momo, in Miyaga prefecture, the most disastrous damage was done. The tide ran eight feet high. According to the report of the authorities in the district of Motoyoshi alone, the deaths were 1,030, and the buildings washed away numbered 569. At Moreoka, during the night of June 15, there were repeated earthquakes.

The eastern coast of Japan was washed by the tidal wave, and the damage done was beyond description. The worst was experienced in the three towns of Kanagawa, Miyako and Sakari. All the employees of the telegraph office at Kohirohama were drowned by the tidal wave. The office of the Yamada also was swept away.

A telegram from the governor of Iwate prefecture dated June 17, says the number of persons who either lost their lives or were injured is 2,000 in the Sakurama-Chi-Kesen district. Excluding the bluff of Kanagawa, the whole town was completely swept away. The wave was experienced along the coast of Sapporo. Along the road from Sapporo to Furumura eight deaths occurred and eight buildings were destroyed, while four sampans are missing and three were wrecked.

The whole eastern coast of Miyagi Ken prefecture was washed away by the tidal wave at 8 p.m. on June 15. A number of houses were swept away and a heavy death toll is anticipated. In the Motoyoshi district more than 70 houses were carried away, involving the death of over 70 people. The Kawanuma coast suffered more than sank the Hozu Maru, off Horishima, during the storm, and 172 lives were lost.

THE RAILWAYS.

Friendly Conference of Leading Officials—The C. P. R. and G. T. R. Represented.

New York, July 2.—Sir Wm. C. Van Horne, president, and T. G. G. Shaughnessy, vice-president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, enjoyed a friendly conference with the members of the Joint Traffic Association in this city yesterday. The question under consideration was whether the Canadian Pacific was ready to join the association in its effort to maintain rates on a stable and uniform basis. He intimated that the Canadian Pacific would be willing to join the association providing that such action would not interfere with or injure the Northwest eastbound traffic, which originates in this line. Messrs. Ingalls, Thomas and Sir Charles Rivers-Wilson, members of the committee, endeavored to point out that in loyal co-operation the only hope of putting a stop to the mischievous practice of rate-cutting. Each road concerned, it was argued, should be willing to make some small sacrifice in order to secure a much better benefit. The matter of details was not entered upon. The Canadian Pacific officers did not offer any suggestions as to what concessions their road might demand, but the committee avoided touching upon these points. In a general way both parties to the conference seemed to agree, and another meeting will be held to discuss details. Commissioner Blanchard and General Manager Hays, of the Grand Trunk, were present at the conference.

About the Liver.

A lazy, slow or torpid liver influences the whole system, causing biliousness, sick headache, sallow complexion, languor and dullness. Burdock Blood Bitters regulates the liver, purifies the secretions and cures all forms of liver troubles. We say so and here is the proof:

I hereby wish to thank you for the great benefit derived by me from your Burdock Blood Bitters. For three years I was troubled with liver complaint and tried everything to no purpose. I had almost given up hope, until one day I determined to try Burdock Blood Bitters. I can say now that marked improvement resulted from the use of the first bottle, and at the end of the sixth bottle I discontinued its use, being completely cured.

I can certify to the above in every particular.

These pills do not cause pain or griping, and should be used when a gathering is required.

A Bare Possibility

Of Rescuing the Imprisoned Miners in the Pittston Shaft.

Another Cave-In Drives the Daring Rescuers Back.

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., July 2.—When the 11 o'clock shift came out of the Twin Shaft at Pittston Tuesday night, some 65 men reported having heard what they thought were rustling in that part of the mine where the victims are supposed to be. This immediately revived the hope that the men might be alive, although the officials place little reliance in this story. Five men, headed by Daniel Lohr, volunteered to crawl over the walls and see what could be learned. They were told that they might journey at their own risk. They are Daniel Lohr, Dave Connell, James Mahon, James O'Brien and James Linnott, all single men.

Another cave-in took place yesterday. The rescuers were in a spot near where the original fall took place when the crash came. The cave is said to be an immense one, composed mostly of rock. The rescuers have been driven back nearly 200 feet, and the outlook for reaching the men is very discouraging. The roof continues to show signs of cracking, and more falls are looked for.

The 58 men now imprisoned are not expected to last more than a few days, and still there is no way of reaching them. The six men who attempted to crawl over the two falls and had retreat before a threatened fall, promise to renew the attempt.

Superintendent Law says that the report of a second cave-in was greatly exaggerated. From other sources it is learned that the cave-in was an extensive one, and will interfere with the work of rescue.

Mine Inspector McDonald, who had been on duty since Sunday morning, has had to retire, completely exhausted. His place was taken by Mine Inspector Roderick. The latter, in an interview said, "I have just returned from where the rescuers are at work, and I am satisfied with the progress they are making. But at present heavy rock is being encountered, and the men are not making good headway."

"Do you think there is any possibility of any of the men being alive?" was asked.

"There is a bare possibility, but that is all. The low hole from the adjoining mine has not yet been driven through the 84-foot partition separating the two mines, but it is expected that the work will be completed some time in the afternoon."

HARDY'S HARDIHOOD.

James E. Hardy, of Toronto, the young fellow who performed on a high wire at Springbank a week or two since, crossed Niagara yesterday on the wire used by Calverley, being a seven-eighths inch cable stretched across the gorge between the cantilever and railway suspension bridges. He started from the Canadian side, and when he had crossed once he turned completely around on the wire, standing on one foot, kicking the other over his head several times, and running backward. Turning around, he sprinted the 100 feet, his side footed to the American side of the cable. He then returned to the Canadian side across the railway bridge, and walked out about 100 feet on the cable blindfolded with a bag over his head. Then he returned and placed baskets on his feet, walking on the same distance. Returning, he walked backwards with the baskets still on his feet. Dismissing the baskets he stood on his head with legs erect to the air. The performance was witnessed by some 4,000 people. Hardy is 19 years of age, of slight build, weighing about 134

HARDY'S HARDIHOOD.

James E. Hardy, of Toronto, the young fellow who performed on a high wire at Springbank a week or two since, crossed Niagara yesterday on the wire used by Calverley, being a seven-eighths inch cable stretched across the gorge between the cantilever and railway suspension bridges. He started from the Canadian side, and when he had crossed once he turned completely around on the wire, standing on one foot, kicking the other over his head several times, and running backward. Turning around, he sprinted the 100 feet, his side footed to the American side of the cable. He then returned to the Canadian side across the railway bridge, and walked out about 100 feet on the cable blindfolded with a bag over his head. Then he returned and placed baskets on his feet, walking on the same distance. Returning, he walked backwards with the baskets still on his feet. Dismissing the baskets he stood on his head with legs erect to the air. The performance was witnessed by some 4,000 people. Hardy is 19 years of age, of slight build, weighing about 134

THE TOBACCO HABIT CURED.

In the interest of the masses, for whom these reports are compiled, the United States Health Reports have examined and investigated many preparations having for their object the cure of the tobacco habit. Among them all we have no hesitancy in giving the official official endorsement of these reports to the remedy known as "Dr. J. C. Smith's Tobacco Cure," manufactured by the Keystone Remedial Company, at 218 La Salle street, Chicago. They are distributing literature this week all through the city, and in the light of our examinations and tests of "Dr. J. C. Smith's Tobacco Cure," we are but performing a duty we owe the public when we indorse the same, and stamp it as the crowning achievement of the nineteenth century, in the way of destroying a habit as disgusting as it is consuming.

London and Environs

—Mr. Fred Pyper, of the Toronto News, spent the holiday visiting his London friends.

—Mr. Macpherson, head of the Macpherson Fruit Company, has arrived from London, Ont.—Winnipeg Free Press.

—Mr. George C. Gibbons, Q.C., and Mrs. Gibbons, of this city, sailed from New York on the Spree for Bremen, Germany, on Tuesday.

—Miss Mildred Taylor, third daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Taylor, 560 Adelaide street, was married in Detroit, Mich., yesterday to Mr. George Lamkin, city. The young couple will reside at 311 Queen's avenue.

—A very successful garden party was held at the residence of Mr. R. B. Walker, north London, under the direction and management of Miss M. Lee and her class of girls of the High Street Mission. After a short programme had been rendered, refreshments were served. The grounds were beautifully decorated with Chinese lanterns. The girls are greatly indebted to Mr. Walker, who loaned his grounds for the purpose. The proceeds are to be used in securing a new library for the Sabbath school.

—Mr. James Craig, a well-known Westminster township farmer, passed away on Tuesday after a short illness. Deceased was for many years the tax collector, which position he relinquished about six years ago. Since then he has lived a retired life, at his farm, on the Base Line, east of Wellington road. He is survived by a son, Mr. Robert Craig, horse dealer, Mr. Craig affiliated with St. John's Lodge, No. 2096, A. F. and A. M., and was a member of the retained membership therein until his death.

—Rev. Dr. J. G. Scott, for two years the zealous pastor of Trinity Methodist Church, Berlin, formerly of Queen's Avenue Church, city, bade farewell to his congregation and the Methodist ministers in Canada on Sunday night last. Today he leaves Berlin. A strikingly interesting coincidence is that the reverend doctor began his work as a minister at St. Catharines, where he first Sunday in July, 1858, thus filling out last night exactly 28 years in the work. He is no longer a minister in Canada, but leaves with his family for Japan shortly to take charge of the Methodist College for young men in Tokyo.

Mrs. K. K. Atkinson, Chatham, had a narrow escape from death by poison, and her experience should prove a warning to all growers of small fruits. She had partaken of some berries, which, it was subsequently learned, had been sprinkled with hellebore, and was taken dangerously ill. Medical aid was at once summoned, and fatal consequences were happily averted.

At the last regular meeting of Great Western Lodge, No. 47, A. F. and A. M., Windsor, the brethren presented Rt. Wor. Bro. E. S. Wigle, past district deputy grand master of Erie district, No. 1, with a D.D.G.M. apron and case, the address of the worshipful brother being given by V. Wor. Bro. Prowse, and the investment by Wor. Bro. Craig.

A young man named Marchand, residing about a mile west of Tilbury, and Miss Bully, of Tilbury East, fixed on their wedding day some weeks ago. The couple had been called in the Roman Catholic Church, and the wedding was to have taken place Tuesday. The bridegroom had all been purchased, Marchand furnishing the necessary cash. The prospective bride, however, had a change of mind, and has not yet returned or sent any excuse to her lover. Marchand went down to the father's house and told him of the wedding dresses he had purchased.
