HEARING IS POSTPONED. Indianapolis, Dec. 9 .- Hearing on the charges of contempt of court, filed against 84 general and district officials of the United Mine Workers of America was postponed until next Tuesday morning by United States District Judge A. B. Anderson on motion of C. B. Ames, for the Gov-ernment, when the case was called here today.

The miners' officials, including Acting President John L. Lewis and Secretary-Treasurer Wm. Green of the international organization, charged in information filed by the United States district atturney with violating the temporary injunction granted by Judge Anderson, re-straining them from encouraging or furthering the strike of 400,000 bitu-minous coal miners of the country minous coal miners of the country.

The Dead of the Wovement.

Land' Wovement.

Hamilton, Dec. S.—Hon. F. C. Biggs, minister of public works, addressed the Wen's Club of Knox Church here this afternoon. His subject was, "The Outlook in Ontario." He referred to the high cost of living, and said the question could be solved only by increased production. There were many vacant farms in the county of Wentworth, and farms in the county of Wentworth, and it would be necessary to have these and other farms occupied if the cost of living was to be reduced, he said.

Not Out of Woods Yet, But No Rigorous Restrictions Are Anticipated.

Toronto, Dec. 8.—Co-operation saved the day for Ontario so far as the coal situation is concerned, declares Fuel Commissioner H. A. Harrington. Not that Ontario is out of the woods yet, but the fuel commissioner does not anticipate any rigorous fuel restric-tion edicts.

The commissioner believes that the present situation does not herald any "fuelless Mondays." He stated tonight that he was contemplating the necessity of consumption restrictions, but the rift in the strike storm clouds on the other side of the border had halted. for the moment, the consideration who has been honored with a Belgian knighthood by King Albert, being "As a result of the strike," Mr. Har-rington commented, "coal production

FROM INSTITUTION

Toronto, Dec. 9.—By an order made by Mr. Justice Lennox this morning, John Brunner, aged 12, will return to his father's home in Windsor. The little boy was suddenly removed by the Children's Aid on short notice to his mother, who had scarcely time to get down to the station to say good-bye, and was taken to Oshawa. A projected raid on a neighboring orchard and other boyish escapades led to his being given an indeterminate sentence in the Victoria Industrial School, His father obtained a writ of habeas corpus, and on its return before Mr. Justice Lennox this morning, J. E. Farewell, K.C., for the school, raised no objection to the boy going home, H. L. Barnes appeared for the boy's father.

Frank Belosy fired the snot, and the bandit he hit was Jimmy Murphy, flower of the malodorous flock, who lies dead in a morgue.

Simpson was out for a little walk, swinging a husky cane, when the bandit car bore down upon him. The occupants had just held up a woman, stripping her of her money, jewelry and fur coat, and Simpson looked easy, Murphy sprang out of the car pistol in hand and ordered Simpson to put up his hands. Instead Simpson gave him what the soldiers call "cut one," swift stroke on the wrist, which paralyzes the arm. Murphy dropped his pistol and yelled with pain. What would you do if you knew a child was hungry? What would you do to save it from cold and crime?

THE Ontario Commercial Travellers' Association appeals to the BIG HEARTS of London for sorely-needed funds for the Children's Aid Society, that mother of the friendless child, which finds itself unable to keep up with the demands made upon it. Twenty thousand dollars is the aim of the campaign.

The travellers rise to champion the battle of the homeless and neglected children for existence. The Knights of the Grip, keen observers, men of heart and love for the downtrodden and helpless, know as few people know the seamy side of life and the demands that are worthy upon charity's purse.

These men put their seal upon the Children's Aid Society because it has stood the test of time in salvaging juvenile lives from amongst the driftwood of society. Many a man and woman getting along in the world today, happy and contented, proving good citizens in every respect, were once wards of the society.

Many a child that was headed straight down the stream of life for the whirlpool of crime has been thrown a line by the Children's Aid and brought back to the world of better things. And it's happening every day.

This is Christmas time. The spirit of goodwill and charity grows daily. The picture rises before us of that little child wrapped in swaddling clothes and laid in a manger in a stable in Bethlehem nearly twenty centuries ago.

Since that time the appeal of the child has never fallen on deaf ears. The travelers are making their appeal to you now for the homeless and neglected children.

Saturday they will leave in every home in London an envelope, in which the BIG HEARTS may place their donations for the kiddies. Sunday they will call and collect them.

"Stretch It a Little"

Trudging along the slippery street, Two childish figures, with aching feet And hands benumbed by the biting cold, Were rudely jostled by young and old, Hurrying homeward at close of day, Over the city's broad highway.

"Come under my coat," said little Nell. As tears ran down Joe's cheeks, and fell On her own thin fingers, stiff and cold. "Tain't very big, but I think 'twill hold Both you and me, if I only try To stretch it a little. So now don't cry!'

The garment was small, and tattered and thin But Joe was lovingly folded in, Close to the heart of Nell, who knew That stretching the coat for the needs of two Would double the warmth, and halve the pain

LLOYD GEORGE SAYS GOVERNMENT WILL REDEEM PROMISES

Keeping Its Pledges With in Russia.

LONDON, Dec. 8 -The trade union ongress, originally called to deal with the question of the nationalization of mines, will meet in London, and will discuss labor questions generally. In view of this conference, a deputation of the Parliamentary committee of the congress had an interview with Premiier Lloyd George today to ascertain the Government's attitude on various mat-ters likely to come up, especially con-scription, intervention in Russia, and the cessation of the unemployment dole.
The premier made a reassuring reply, according to the unofficial report. He asserted that the Government was redeeming its pledges regarding Russia, and declared that he was an anxious as anyone to see the last of warlike methods employed against any nation, but unfortunately other people outside this country held opinions and directed

DEADLOCK IN U.S. SENATE OVER TREATY HAS BECOME TIGHTER

Action Will Probably Be Delayed Until After the Christmas Recess.

WASHINGTON, D. C. Dec. 8.—
Action by the Senate, both on the Versailles peace treaty and the resolution of Senator Lodge (Republican, Massachusetts), proposing to declare the war with Germany at an end, tonight appeared improbable until after the Christmas recess, scheduled to run from December 20 to January 5. The deadlock over procedure as to the Versailles treaty apparently has tightened and Republican leaders agreed today to defer action temporarily on the Lodge resolution, although a meeting of the foreign relations committee for Wednesday was arranged. Senator Lodge said his resolution probably would await disposition by the House of a similar proposal.

Is to dissolve it. This destroys it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most, if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single solve and entirely destroy every s of a similar proposal.

Senator Lodge and Senator Hitchcock, Nebraska, administration leader, today indicated complete disagreement regarding future steps as to the treaty. The former declared the next move must come from President Wilson, while Senator Hitchcock, with equal emphasis, said the Senate must act first.

Authorized times better.

You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive, and four ounces is all you will need. This simple remedy has never been known to fail.—

Rumor Is Persistent in Polical Not Anticipated That Any of Vacancies Will Be Filled For Some Time.

The senate as present constituted comprises 58 government appointees, 36 Liberals and three vacancies making a total of 98. Of the Government supporters four were appointed by the MacDonald Government, one by the Abbot Government, 43 by the Borden Conservative Government, and 10 by the Union Government. Four of the last named are Liberal Unionists.

Of the 36 Liberals one was appointed by the Mackenzie Government, namely, Senator Larry Power, and the rest by Sir Wilfrid Laurier. In the event of a Farmers' Government coming to power at the present time speculation as to how it would carry on without a single appointee of its own in the Upper Chamber would be in order.

CARRANZA CLIMBS DOWN.

William O. Jenkins, the American Government's consular agent at Puebla, Mexico, whose imprisonment by Carranza came close to bringing the United States and Mexico into an armed clash, has been liberated, and as a result an exceedingly tense situation has been relieved. Mexico climbs down in the face of the most direct intimation of "serious consequences" that has yet been-sent to Mexico City from Washington. The patience of the United States Government, with the exasperating behavior towards American citizens and interests by the Mexican Government and individual Mexicans, reached its limit in the refusal to release Jenkins. Carranza dared not go to war with the American Republic, and has had to submit to such humiliation as his submission contains. As a matter of fact, "humiliation" means little to Carranza and his aides. They have "suffered" that way before at the hands of Uncle Sam. It has not prevented their resorting to new outrages whenever they have felt so inclined. Carranza has become skillful in backing down at. just the right moment to prevent active intervention by the United States. No doubt, the present incident will work out, as have many others of a similar nature. There will be an exchange of notes assuring restored friendship between the two nations, and Mexico will be at liberty to think up some new way to goad its big neighbor, and get away with it. Meantime. Carranza has been able, through the jailing of Jenkins and a display of defiance towards Washington, to strengthen his popularity amongst his own, as a patriotic and courageous president, and to spread the impression that Mexico's internal troubles are due to interfering

SET RIGHT.

The Christian Guardian accuses the Statesman of Toronto of favoring the separation of Canada from the Empire, and the dissolution of the Empire, and says that the Statesman considers itself the official mouthpiece of Liberalism in Canada. Whether or not the Guardian's charges are correct, here is a resolution passed at the greatest Liberal convention ever held in Canada, which makes clear what Canadian Liberalism thinks about the subjec Here it is:

"This convention desires to place on record its devotion to the person and office of His Sovereign Majesty King George the Flfth, and its appreciation of his untiring efforts during the war in promoting harmony throughout his dominions, and also ITS UNALTER ABLE ATTACHMENT TO THE BRITISH EMPIRE and to our own beloved Canada.

JELLICOE'S MISSION.

The London Daily Post says that Lord Jellicoe's trip to Canada and the other dominions is to plan the formation of an imperial fleet. This is altogether wrong. Lord Jellicoe is in Canada to give the Canadian Government expert advice as to the future naval policy of this country, an entirely different matter. He has made it clear that he is not here in any capacity other than adviser and helper, not as an imperially appointed organizer. Canada is at the commencement of a tremendous overseas trade expansion. Already we have started the building of a great mercantile marine. To keep this inviolate on the Seven Seas, a strong fighting fleet will be required, but this country is big enough to construct, man and operate its own ships, independent of any imperial control. About sea power, however, Canada has a lot to learn, and it is in this way the visit of the great British admiral will prove helpful. Lord Jellicoe in his addresses has made it crystalclear that he is not here with any plan for the centralization of the Empire's navies. In view of Canada's stand at the war conference in London two years ago there could be no Canadian naval policy which in any way surrendered Canadian control of its fleets.

CANADA'S RAILWAY BILL.

The Montreal Gazette publishes figures relating to the operation of Canada's railways which should prove of unusual interest, in view of Parliament's decision to take over the Grand Trunk. According to the Government's official report, during the fiscal year 1918-1919, 3,556 miles were operated, 1,553 in the Intercolonial, and 2,008 in the Transcontinental. The capital cost of the two systems at the beginning of the period was $306,000,000. The volume of the public accounts for the year ending with March 31 last gives the earnings and working expenses on the whole, as follows: Working expenses, $43,696,936; revenue, $37,905,797; deficit, $5,-791,138. When the Grand Trunk Pacific failed to live up to its contract, the Government was compelled to take over the two thousand odd miles of the National Transcontinental. The statements issued, the Gazette points out, do not show the proportion of earnings and expenses on the two sections. It is probable that the loss was incurred almost entirely on the National Transcontinental section. For some years the Intercolonial system has been in the relatively satisfactory position of earning enough from the traffic carried to pay operating and maintenance charges. Only the interest on the growing capital invested fell as a charge upon the national treasury, and had to be met out of the proceeds of taxes. Unsatisfactory as such a situation is, it is likely to be favorably compared with the record presented when the for them by a violation of Belgium.

current year closes. To the deficit on the line operated in 1918-1919 will be added that due to the taking over and operation of the Canadian Northern and Grand Trunk Pacific systems, the former now owned by and the latter operated by the Government of Canada. Neither of these systems is in a position to meet its operating and capital charges out of revenue. The outlook is not pleasant for a country of eight and a half millions or so, with a debt of $2,000,000,000 to carry. Thoughtful men who understand the railway situation have reason for feeling that the relief of the country from such a burden will be the task for a statesman at an early day.

HALDANE VS. SAZONOFF. [New York Tribune.]

Sazonoff's contention that if only Sir Edward Grey, in July, 1914, had warned Germany emphatically that an attacked France would find Great Britain on her side as an ally, the Berlin Government would never have risked war, is shaken by the testimony of Viscount Haldane, minister of war in the cabinet of Sir Hendy Campbell-Bannermanman whose testimony is all the more convincing as he has been reproached in his own country for cherishing sentimental sympathies for Germany. In the course of his recollections, extending over the years 1906-14, recently published, Lord Haldane tells of his much-discussed visit to Berlin early in 1912. It is interesting to learn that as early as February, 1912, a member of the British Govern-ment told Bethmann-Hollweg, then imperial chancellor, that "if France were attacked and an attempt made to occupy her territory. British neutrality must not be reckoned on by Germany." It may be that—as Herr Bethmann-Hollweg took good care the other day to emphasize before the committee on war responsibility-the German Government was aware of the unofficial character of Lord Haldane's 'conversations." and discounted the authority of his utterances, but it is certain that Bethmann-Hollweg, both then and subsequently, gave then weight. Bethmann-Hollweg tried in 1912 to induce Great Britain to sign a neutrality agreement, and on July 29, 1914, just before the declaration of war against Russia, he offered to pledge no annexations at the expense of France if Great Britain would be neutral; but he refused to make a similar pledge with respect to French colonies, and Sir Edward Grey naturally declined the proposal. The German chancellor plainly had the Haldane statement in mind. As to Belgium, the question was brought up by Lord Haldane in his first conversation with the chancellor, who was reminded that the English were "under treaty obligation to come to the aid of Belgium in case of invasion." It is all very well for the apologists of Germany to retort that these utterances were considered as lacking official authority. The warning was sounded, and the rulers of Germany ignored it. They may not have been absolutely sure of British intervention, but as they plotted for war they anticipated it, and henc argued that matters would not be made worse

From Here and There

THE HOUSE OF MEMORIES. [A. St. John Adcock.]
There's a little house in a little street, A little way from the sea, And, oh, when I'm weary of all the world
It's there that I fain would be.

For the world is full of sorrow and care, And the darkness lies before; And the little house is full of the dreams That were ours, but are ours no more.

In the little house by the sea, We dreamed of the days that here had no dawn Of the years that shall never be,

But you were young, and I was young, And we dreamed, and had no care; And dearer and better than life has been Were the dreams that came to us there

And so, when I'm weary of all the world,

Of its sordid hopes and its pain,
I think of the little house that was ours

'Twere Heaven enough if we found our dreams, And dreamed them again, maybe, In the little house in the little street, A little way from the sea.

BIRTHDAYS FORBID MARRIAGE.

[Kingston British Whig.]
A curious idea among the Burmese is that people born on the same day of the week must not marry, and that if they defy the fates their union will be marked by much ill-luck. To prevent these disasrous marriages, every girl carries a record of her birthday in her name, each day of the week having a letter belonging to it, and all children are called by a name that begins with that letter.

[Quebec Telegraph.] Several explanations have been given of the neaning of the word "foolscap" as applied to a ertain class of paper. One of the explanations is short he granted certain privileges, amounting to monopolies, and among these was the manufacture of paper, the exclusive right of which was sold to certain persons, who grew rich and enriched the government at the expense of those who were obliged to use the paper. At this time all English paper bore, in watermarks, the royal arms. The parliament, under Cromwell, made a jest of this law, and, among other indignities to the memory of Charles, it was ordered that the royal arms b removed from the paper and a fool's cap and bells be substituted. These were in their turn removed when the Rump Parliament was dismissed, but the paper for the size of the parliamentary journal still

R. H. Coates, Dominion statistician, has an article on the wealth of nations in the Canadian Bankers' Journal. He places the capital wealth of Canada at $14,658,160,736. In this amount the greatest item is the value of farm lands, buildings, implements and live stock, placed at $5,078,208,763. The next is urban real estate, placed at $3,500,000,000 Mines and forests are valued at $1,200,000,000; steam and electric railways at $11,500,000,000. The capital invested in the fisheries is over $47,000,000, but no value is placed on the fish in the sea. Making provision for current production, Mr. Coates brings the total up to sixteen billions. The wealth of the United States is placed at 42,500 million pound 424 pounds per head of population. The United Kingdom is placed at 14,500 million pounds, or 318 pounds per head; France is placed at 12,000 million pounds, on 303 per head; Canada is placed at 2,285 millions, or 300 per head; Argentina at 2,400 millions or 340 per head; Japan at 2,400 millions, or 44 per head; Germany at 16,550 millions, or 85 per head Australia at 1,530 millions, or 318 per head; Switzer land at 800 millions, or 205 per head.

[Syracuse Post-Standard.]

There has never been a day when so many people had so much money. Men in business, whether it is manufacture or merchandizing, are making money. Men on wages are making money. Men who are on salary or men whose investments are in public, service corporations are not doing so well. But in the aggregate there has never been so much earned, and in spite of the high costs of all the necessaries of life, more than ever is spent upon the luxuries, little and big. Automobile sales tell the eagerness of the people, when they have money, to enjoy the recreation which the automobile affords. The hotel and the theatre businesses have grown in volume with prosperity. In all those lines which are just beyond the simple needs of life, from furniture to furs, the increase in profits and in rages has been reflected in unprecedented sales.

What of books? A collection of books in the home, to suit the tastes of the owner, is company and comfort for all It is companion for idle hours. It is continuous itellectual stimulus. Its constant enlargement by the addition of books you discover to your liking is one of the pleasantest of avocations. Its value is multiple as the number of your friends for the opportunity it gives to serve the pleasure of friends, The professional man and the man of affairs a generation ago had pride in his library. He devoted to it in proportion to his means far more than men devote today. The free public library may have had its part in the decline of the home library. The pursuit of pleasure along lines other than the printed page has been more noticeable. There are some symptoms of a revival of book buying by the echanic and the clerk and the farmer, to get helpful books into the home, not as parlor orna-ments, but as ready helps in the education of the children and the elders as well, as an investment in culture which pays dividends just as fast as the owner cares to collect, as a constant source of refreshment and enjoyment. The man of small means or large will never regret his investment in books, if they are careselected to meet his own needs and tastes, not for their transitory popularity or their ornamental bindings. There is no cost of upkeep. There is little, if any, loss in value in succeeding years. They are always at hand for use, for the whole family. Therefore, buy books.

It was such a small hall bedroomway up near the top of the houseso high above the ground it seemed suspended midway between heaven and earth, somewhat after the fashion of those hanging gardens which are said to have required neither under nor to have required neither under nor upper support. But though the room by its elevated location strove for a place in the sun, that orbit reflected none of its rays at no time of the day, for the one window flopped, in unceremonious fashion, against the bleak and bland stone wall of the building opposite. Now, if one were as dexterous as Betsy Bond, a very good glimpse, albeit limited, could be obtained not only of the sun casting a man faintly singing: seemingly forgotten beam of light down the murky courtway, but also of the window in the other bullding one floor below. It is true the bit of light was only enjoyed on Sundays, when Bet-NEVER AGAIN.

Mrs. Slattery appeared in answer to of daily necessities. And it is also true the window of the room across the court afforded little distraction, for up to the writing of this—Betsy's story—it had remained untenanted.

For Betsy's heart, starving for affection and dying because there was none on whom to lavish the love pent up within, hungered for romance; she looked for it everywhere, and found its substitute only on the "Fiction Page" of the evening paper. Page" of the evening paper. It was a very unsatisfactory substitute.

The days of August had made a blistering advance, and it seemed to Betsy this dusk that summer was exerting every effort to leave a sear and scorching memory of its torrid presence. A hot, musty humidity pasted the ringlets about her perspiring forehead into fantastic forms as she entered the room breathless from the interminable climb of stairs. Up went the window, the courtyard sending forth its nightly quota of onion and other stench from the quarters below. Betsy had no taste for the articles of food on her table and listlessly adjusted herself in the oblique and uncomfortable position necessary to see the window in the building opposite. She leaned forward, Glaringly it stood forth, and not even the dirty panes concealed the yellow jet of gaslight which illuminated the room and its solitary occupant. Betsy laughed aloud.

"A neighbor," she mused and reached for the pillow from the bed to make her cramped position more durable, "Romance!" her thought continued, and a smile exposed two pretty rows of even white teeth. In a manner Mrs. Slattery afterward dubbed "fre-h." Betsy brushed her aside and deliterately walked up the steps, intuition directing her to the proper room. There lay the man as she had seen him from above, head flat on the table, arms hanging limply at his side. With unconscious command she turned to Mrs. Slattery, who had followed in her wake.

"Help me lift him over to the bed," and hypnotically Mrs. Slattery obeyed, awkwardly assisting as they loosened Betsy was considered attractive; for the worn serge skirt loudly acclaimed its age by a lustrous sheen and the white lawn waist no longer admitted further mending.

But there was little in the man's occupation to excite undue curiosity or romantic conjectures; laboriously he wrote, stopping to press his temples with his finger tips or pass a hand-kerchief over his forehead. Betsy slipped from the sill to the floor and protruded her head through the window into the court until she could not be sufficient that was not unbeautiful girl standing on a chair holding a tiny got above the gas jet. She smiled down at him a genuine, comforting smile. "Hot milk in a minute. Toasted crackers and a mite of cheese. How does that sound?" Her voice sounded merrily in the room and the man answered the smile with a wan effort. "It smells better," came the whisper from the bed.

And it tasted equally good as Betsy held his head and fed him the milk. The man slept and Betsy tiptoed from the room. Mrs. Slattery mounted guard in the hall with a dame Grundy vigilance.

"His room rent be behind." Evidently in Mrs. Slattery's make-up there was no trace of that impelling force, which had governed Betsy's spontaneous act of loving kindness. She looked into her meagre purse, wearing out at the corners.

"Will a dollar on account be satisfactory?" she asked. The bill was tend-ered and accepted in silence and Betsy returned to her room, supperless and shappy. As she crept into bed she shifted the alarm clock. It registered awakening at half after the four.

The hour thus gained next morning was devoted to assisting her newly acquired ward. With a promise to the man who lay weak and inert to stop man who lay weak and mert to stop in on her way home from work in the evening, she turned to go. "Why are you so good to me?" the question detained her. "Why doubt the motive?" by interrogation she answered.

Preoccupied with her thoughts Betsy failed to be annoyed as she was jostled about on the street and car by throngs hastening to work. Morning duties

The figures represent grams of oxalic acid per thousand grams of food. It is doubtful whether any oxalic acid is present in the following foods: Rice, peas, turnips, asparagus, lettuce, cauliflower or white cabbage, cucumbers, mushrooms, unions, pears, apricots, peaches, grapes, melons.
Calcium oxalate in excessive amount sometimes causes irritation of the urinary tract, and owing to the low solubility of calcium oxalate, the formation of stone in the kidney or in the bladder (this does not refer to gallstones). Some physicians maintain that there is also an occasional case of hypochondria associated with dyspepsia due to too much calcium oxalate in the blood.

In any such case the foods containing oxalate should be omitted from the diet. Then certain other foods should be taken for their large content of twenty minutes before using the voice Good Old Gargle.

AREFUL investigation shows that one child in every three is under weight as the result of The chances are one in three that your child is in this class. The tables presented here will enable you to find out. In the Students' Army Training Corps one in five was unfit because of being under weight, while in the adult army the proportion was about the same. This condition could have been prevented by proper attention during school life, so that these young men would have developed normal, healthy bodies. By neglect in childhood they have been sentenced to see their healthy comrades pass them in the race for success. It is not necessarily the children of poverty that suffer from malnutrition. Your boy or your girl may look well and still be under weight. The regular use of the scales is the only sure test.

Other indications of malnutrition you may note are—easily tired—nervous—restless—finicky appetite-irritability-difficult to manage-talk in sleep -lack of happiness and spirits of a normal child.

These symptoms tell of the exhausted condition of the nervous system. They tell you that the blood is thin and watery and wholly unsuited to nourish the starved body.

It will take a little time to restore the wasted tissues, but the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food will very materially aid.

Digestion is weak, appetite is fickle, but in the meantime Dr. Chase's Nerve Food supplies in condensed and easily assimilated form the elements which go to make up rich, red blood.

Careful attention should be given to the eating habits of the child. Good, wholesome, nourishing food must have the preference. Exercise should be limited and daily rest is required in cases of extreme exhaustion.

By sharpening the appetite and strengthening the nerves of the digestive system, Dr. Chase's Nerve Food soon removes the chief causes of malnutrition and builds up the system generally. Improvement will soon be noticed, not only in the way of increased weight, but the eyes will be brighter, the cheeks a better color and the spirits and happiness of healthful youth will again express themselves.

For your protection the portrait and signature of A. W. Chase, M.D., the famous Receipt Book author, are on every box of the genuine Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. 50c a box, 6 for $2.75, all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Ltd., Toronto.

A FRIEND TO THE AGED

When men and women get past middle life their energy and activity, in many instances, begin to decline, and their general vitality is on the wane.

The heart action is weak and uncertain, and the nerves become more or less unsteady. Little sicknesses and ailments seem harder to shake off than formerly, and here and there evidences of a breakdown begin to appear.

Those who wish to maintain their health and vigor, and retain their energy unimpaired, should use

FAR AHEAD OF OTHERS

Makes Many Recommendations For Betterment in Annual Report.

Washington, Dec. 7.—Incomparably stronger and more efficient than ever before, the American navy emerged from the world war second only to that of Great Britain, and fur in advance of any other foreign navy in ships, in men, and every element of strength," Secre-tary Daniels declared today in his an-

With eighteen capital ships—twelve superdreadnoughts and six giant battle cruisers—under construction, all representing the last word in naval construction, and several superior to any fight-ing vessels now in commission, the navy is "pressing forward to greater things," Mr. Daniels said. Recommendations by the secretary for the betterment of the service included; Extension of the course at the Naval Academy to five years, so the midship-men may spend one year afloat as en-Itsted men.

Immediate enlargement of the naval establishment on the Pacific coast to take care of the new Pacific fleet.

Expansion of the naval air service and continuation of the present policy of a separate air service for the navy. Construction of new buildings, includ-ing a new memorial chapel at the Naval Change of the names of the Bureau of Navigation and Steam Engineering to Personnel and Engineering Bureau, respectively.

Mr. Daniels made no recommendations as to an annual building program, ex-plaining that the recommendations of the navy general board were under con-sideration and that estimates would be prepared soon for presentation to Congress.

The actual cost of the navy to the nation during the war was placed by the secretary at $2,982,000,000. During the next fiscal year, he said, the navy's needs will be approximately $573,131,254, or approximately $40,000,000 less than the sum asked for during the present the sum asked for during the present

TO GROW HAIR ON BALD HEADS

Specialist Gives Simple Recipe That Works Fine.

Thousands of people suffer from baid.
ness and failing hair who, having tried nearly every advertised hair-tonic and hair-grower without results, have resigned themselves to baldness and its attendant discomfort. Yet their case is not horeless; the following simple home prescription has made hair grow after years of baldness, and is also unequalled for restoring grey hair to its original color, stooping hair from failing out and destroying the dandruff germ. It will not make the hair greasy, and can be put up by any druggist: Bay Rum, 6 ounces; Lavona de Composee, 2 ounces; Menthol Crystals, one-half drachm. If you wish it perfumed, add 1 drachm of your favorif perfume. This preparation is highly recommended by physicians and specialists and is absolutely harmless, as it contains none of the poisonous wood alcohol so frequently found in hair tonics. Ladies using this prescription should be careful not to get it on the face or where hair is not desired.—Advt.

AN OLD RECIPE

Sage Tea and Sulphur Turns Grey, Faded Hair Dark and Glossy.

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked lustre to the hair when laded, streaked or grey. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is mussy and troublesome. Discussing the proposed radical departure in the training of officers for the navy, Mr. Daniels declared that "no MADE IN BRITAIN TO officer can command so well as the man of ability and knowledge who knows every character or service from polisning brass to the highest strategy and tactics." He added that a year's training as an enlisted man would prove invaluable to every officer and that here-tofore commissioned officers had no actual sea-going training in the duties of enlisted men except an incidental knowledge acquired during short summer cruises.

Mr. Daniels devoted much of his report to a review of the work of the navy during the war, and in foreign waters since the signing of the armis-tice. He declared that the remarkable performance of the navy in transport-ing troops, particularly in bringing the army back to the United States, was the

The report paid high tribute to the services of naval reserve officers and men during and after the war "without whom" it said, "we could not have manned the ships and carried on the war." Clear-Cut Definition.

A clear-cut definition of the term
"profiteering" has been a point which has given local tribunals much difficulty in the prosecution of their tasks. So far, the definition laid down by Sir Auckland Geddes president of the board of trade has been accepted as a basis for prosecution. It follows: "The main-

Critics of the government's anti-profiteering machinery point to official figures just published in the Board of Trade's Labor Gazette, showing that despite efforts to beat down living costs, the general level of retail prices on October 1 was 120 per cent above pre-war figures, or an increase of five per war figures, or an increase of five per cent, as compared with the level of September 1 last when the local tribunals were just getting under way. But it is not contended, even by these fault-finders, that the increase would not have been larger had the government made no effort to bring the profiteers to book.

Northern Seed Potatoes.

The results of the decision reached two years ago by the Ontario Potato Commission to bring down from Northern Ontario potato seed for use in the southern part of the province, and to recommend the growing of two varieties, Irish Cobbler and Green Mountain, are to be seen at this year's show, there being no less than 20 entries in two special classes for northern grown potatoes, which are on for the first time. These potatoes are right at the foot of the stage in the seed room. A. W. Mason, potato judge, was particularly pleased with the fine specimens brought down from the north.

The union school picnic committee recently purchased the diamond-shaped piece of property from Geo. Barclay. situated in the heart of the township, situated in the heart of the township, in the village of Poplar Hill, and supported and aided by the township council, the Women's Institute and the citizens generally, they will convert it into a beautiful park.

The village school is situated on this property, and according to plans, which will require a few years to bring to fruition, the promoters hope to have eventually a commodious community hall erected in the park, and a memorial arch built at the entrance to the grounds. At present the grounds would seem that the continuance of this test, if it is to meet the full support of dairymen, will rest upon the effort made by the authorities to provide accommodation more in keeping with the number and quality of animals entered.

Harry Mills, minister of lands and Mills, minister of lands and ministers and lands and lands for the data of lands and lands attended by the largest audience of the trip. In his address of welcome from the municipality the mayor told the ministers about the lack of roads, and said he believed more of the mining ores of the north should be refined in the north, and to this end he advocated a government refinery. He also touched upon the undeveloped waterpowers of New Ontario.

J. H. Marceau, Liberal M.L.A. for Nipsissing, said there were "hundreds of bright, intelligent children in this riding growing up without an education." Proper schooling should be given throughout Northern Ontario especially. Mr. Marceau followed the example set by his fellow Liberal, MacLang, for Charlton and a continuation school for the district.

The school children of the town were assembled at the station when the municipality the mayor told the ministers about the lack of the ministers about the lack of the service on the beard, and for the district of the service on the beard the service on the post. Mayor Clark said he had seen a petition favoring James T. Nidd, conductor on the railway for the district.

The school children of the town were assembled at the station when the ministers arrived and they greeted the mayor clark also asked for a road in to Skead Township, a trunk road west of Charlton and a continuation school for the district.

No Doubt of Verdict.

Prohibition was mentioned by the premier for the second time on the four. He said there was no doubt in als mind regarding the verdict the people gave on this question, and no doubt as to the Government's duty in enforcing the law fairly, and no doubt out that they were going to do it. There were a few other things, the premier said, which the Government would try to do "if they were left alone long enough."

"In considering the common schools at no reverence for a system stand in the way of doing something for the way of doing something for the courting must be done, not for the educational system, but for the children."

Hon. Harry Mills urged medical inspection of the schools, and Hon. Beniah Bowman spoke briefly.

A 10-Day Tube of Pepsodent, to show you how to end film. See below.

On Your Teeth Now

There is now on your teeth a slimy film. You can feel it with your tongue. It clings to teeth, gets between the teeth and stays.

The tooth brush alone doesn't end it. The ordinary tooth paste does not dissolve it. So month after month it stays there and may do a ceaseless damage.

That film is what discolors - not the teeth. It is the basis of tartar. It holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay.

Millions of germs breed in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea. Most tooth troubles are now traced directly to that film.

Dental scientists have for years sought a way to end film. They have known that brushing could not save teeth if it left that film upon them. Now that film combatant has been found. Convincing tests, under able authorities, have proved it beyond question. The method is now embodied in a dentifrice called Pepsodent. And we supply it free for testing to anyone who asks.

The Way to End It

Pepsodent is based on pepsin, the digestant of albumin. The film is albuminous matter. The object of Pepsodent is to dissolve it, then to constantly combat it.

Pepsin long seemed impossible. It must be activated, and the usual agent is an acid harmful to the teeth. But science has discovered a harmless activating method. Now activated pepsin can be applied, night and morning, to combat that film.

Leading dentists everywhere are now advising Pepsodent. Countless people have already adopted it. And trial tubes are offered everywhere to show others what it does.

Send the coupon for a 10-Day Tube. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the slimy film. See how the teeth whiten as the fixed film disappears.

Let your own mirror show you what Pepsodent means to your teeth. Then decide for yourself about it. Cut out the coupon now.

In conclusion, the Manchester In conclusion, the Manchester In Caurdian declines to be terrified by Lloyd George's assertions regarding the possibility of a labor government, and declares that true Liberalism will be no party to a Liberal-Conservative coalition against labor. Such a prospect, it says, only shows how essential it is to maintain a wholly unpledged body of Liberal opinion which will find in labor aspirations and efforts far more to support than oppose.

The Westminster Gazette regards the speech as the premier's most pronounced attempt thus far to soften outside Liberal opinion, and says the weakest point is the premier's assertion that coalition makes possible some solution of the Irish problem in the direction of home rule. The state of treiand, says the Gazette, during the three years of coalition government in the Commons reaches only to measures upon which agreement can be reached in the cabinet.

Viola Dana the Star.

Viola Dana won her way into the hearts of those who saw her in "Please Get Married," in which she stars. It is a clever picture and is as funny as it is clever. The unexpected happens so often that the picture is one surprise after another, and every situation is full of comedy.

It has to do with a pair of adoring and extremely youthful lovers who embark on a heneymoon in blissful content, while their parents have learned that perhaps they may not be married at all. The shocked and horrified parents set out to overtake them, but they ents set out to overtake them, but they reach a mountain hotel ahead of their elders and prepare for the spooning they have waited so long for, when they are the victims of a series of interruptions that are as disconcerting to them as they are night proveding.

Moore photoplay, and many of its situations are "Frenchy" in flavor.

The story of "The Gay Lord Quex" is one of the most clever and diverting that has been flashed on the screen. The hero, Lord Quex, is an amusing figure, a typical product of the idle rich and a notorious philanderer. He meets a young girl and falls desperately in love with her, but finds that his ignoble past is a bar to an honorable love.

Under promise of reformation, the girl consents to marry him. His suit, however, is not approved by Sophy, a protege of the girl's family, who, knowing that the girl is in love with a young officer, does everything in her power to block her marriage to the nobleman. Events take a portentous turn at a house party at which Lord Quex meets a duchess, a vain, sentimental woman with whom he has had a liaison some time before.

The duchess begs for a private interview in her apartment at midnight to which the lord assents. Sophy gets wind of the intrigue, and in trying to get evidence of Lord Quex's peridy, finds her own reputation compromised by a clever trick on the part of the nobleman. From this point on, complications ensue in rapid succession, culminating in a high-powered climax, as unexpected as it is absorbing.

A Chester Outing Picture and a Snuth Pollard comedy, "Giving the Bride Away," completes the picture program.

Miss Patton (soprano) delights the large audience with her many songs. This performance will be continued today and Wednesday.
