The Rt. Rev. Michael Francis Fallon, B.A., D.D., O.M.I., is presumably of Irish ancestry, but unmistakably Canadian by birth, education, environment and sphere of present influence. He is a younger man than one would suppose, judging by his present appointment as Bishop of London in December, 1909. Details of his life are less easy to secure than in the case of smaller men, for he has never granted an interview for any purpose bordering on self-advertisement, nor is he likely to begin. Even the telephone is remote from the bishop's house, that commodious residence at 90 Central avenue.

"That is because you haven't looked the ground over," replied Paddy. "A dam any higher up the Laughing Brook wouldn't make a big enough pond for the water to get near enough to those trees for us to work there in safety, or be able to get our logs to our food note."

"That is because you haven't looked done before that dam could be finished made her sigh. "I suppose you are right, my dear," said she. "You usually are right. "But how nice it would be if we didn't have to build a dam at all, it does seem as if just cutting the trees for winter food was enough work for any honest Reavers."

"But if we build a dam here we wi!! Paddy grinned. "I am afraid thes "But if we build a dam here we will ave a great big pond, three times as children of ours would be spoiled in ave a great big pond we now have," declared we had things as easy as you seem to we had things as easy as you seem to want them." said he. "They never have want them." said he. "They never have have a great big pond, three times as hig as the pond we now have," declared Mrs. Paddy.

"True enough. True enough," replied Paddy. But that doesn't matter in the least. It must be a big pond or we won't get the trees, and those trees mean food all winter. Now, my dear, over there toward the edge of this alder swanp where the ground begins to rise is a great old log. It will be just the thing to anchor one end of the dam against. It couldn't be better placed. And way over on the other side is another old log almost as big. Against this we'll anchor the other end of the dam. Now, if you will follow me, I'll show you how Old Mother Nature has placed things just as if she had known that some day we would here they should begin. It will do them no end of good. It will do them no end of good. Some day they will be starling out in the Great World for themselves, and it would be sad indeed to think of a dam. When we really get to work on this it will be fun. You'll forget it is work. There is no fun like honest work that one enjoys doing. Now I think we'll go back home and talk it all over."

So Paddy and his family returned to their home in the pond Paddy had made long ago, and there they talked it all over. At last, even the young Beavers of the things to deal the province of the dam against. It couldn't so be sad indeed to think of a dam. When we really get to work on this it will be fun. Canadian Press Despatch.

Toronto, Nov. 27.-The O. H. A. sub-committee, at a meeting held today, announced the grouping of the senior O. H. A. clubs for the coming season as follows: Group No. 1.—Peterboro, Toronto Canoe Club, Parkdale Canoe Osgoode Hall and Kitchener. Convener, W. A. Hewitt, who will arrange Group No. 2.—Niagara Falls, London, Stratford, Preston, Galt and mdsor. Convener, Frank Hyde, Woodstock. Meet at Woodstock.

If Hamilton Rowing Club has a senior team, it will be placed in group 1.

Local hockey officials said last night that the above solution has appeared to be the logical one for weeks past. They were not surprised when told of the grouping decision by the O. H. A., and believe that the new Windsor team will prove much more popular than did the Green Shirts last year. It makes a long jump from Windsor to Niagara Falls, but these two frontier clubs have the biggest kick, if there is any to be made.

The first curtain was heralded by page, who, in a short recitation, gave a brief synopsis of the play. Then, through song and dancing, the pageant was presented. Too much credit cannot be given the juvenile actors, who so ably played their parts. Even the tiniest little tots were not lacking in stage manners, and, when now and again a line was forgotten, they picked up their parts and carried them to a splendid finale.

No one character could be chosen as the best. But mention should be made of the King and Queen, the winsome little princess, who was awakened from her spell by the Canadian Prince; the clever little solo dancers, the soloists, the princes from far lands and the

DODGE BROTHERS

If Dodge Brothers had deliberately built the Special Sedan for women, they could not more perfectly have met feminine requirements.

That women recognize this fact is plentifully evidenced on every hand. The car's striking beauty, its ease of handling and world-famous dependability are features which every motorist values-but which women value the most.

Ball and roller bearings throughout are much larger than ordinary. As a result, thousands of 10-year-old Dodge Brothers Motor Cars are still in service every day.

sphere hitting the bar and bounding down behind Cross. Shortly afterwards. Duncan, the speedy visiting forward, following a rush all the way down the field, placed a beauty in the far corner of the goal, on which Cross had no chance to save. The pair of counters stirred the Simcoe eleven into action, and they staged several rushes into Walkerville territory. Finally Captain Jull, secured near the opposing goal, wormed his way beautifully through the defence and drove the ball viclously past Crouchman.

The second period was a succession of disappointments for Simcoe. Time after time they carried the ball to the goal mouth, but invariably they fizzled the kick or else one of the Walkerville backs stepped into the ball carrier. The locals, with Jull, Mahon and Watt setting the pace, outfooted the visitors with ease, but they simply could not score. Walkerville added its third counter when Davidson failed to clear, and Stockton easily beat Cross.

Simcoe will play the return game in Walkerville near week, and are not a bit dismayed at the prospect. Walkerville next week, and a bit dismayed at the prospect.

Meet St. Thomas Girl Cagers in Main Game of Double

The exhibition fray between the Westervelt Grads and the T. O. B. girls of St. Thomas at the Western Oxford street gym tonight is arousing a great deal of interest for several reasons. The main one is that both teams will in all likelihood be playing against each other as soon as the L. O. B. A. gets under way this winter. If the Flower City girls enter the series they will in all probability be grouped with and some other city within short travelling distance.

The Westervelt officials have arranged a preliminary attraction in which the Westervelt junior O. A. B. A. squad will lock horns with the St. Thomas church league juniors. The penmen's five is a smart aggregation and the fans don't get a chance to sit back and yawn while they are in ac-

France In a Tangle, Declares Lloyd George

No system of group government can straighten out the muddle. No single group can afford to quarrel with the powerful electoral interests that would be affected by heavy increased taxation."

"What is wanted in France is another Waldeck Rousseau; a patriotic man, universally respected, who has no political ambitions and who therefore cares nothing about the effect of his action on his own popularity. He would come in just to put French finance right, with no ulterior personal aims."

"Is there another such a man available? If there is, then France will, for the time requisite to enable him to do his job, hail him as a savior—and then crucify him. It is the destiny of all saviors."

Expenditure and revenue are two diverging lines which grow further and further apart, and French politicians, with simple faith in a kind of Einstein theory in finance, think that they will in the end, meet.

At the end of the war, the accumulative deficits of France amounted to 130,000,000,000 frances. Additional deficits, piled up since the war reached the colossal fixure of 160,000,000,000 and planes. Additional deficits, piled up since the war reached the colossal fixure of 160,000,000,000, and the properties of the colossal fixure of 160,000,000,000 and planes which are pople who, individually, are the most frugal and saving in the world should, in the aggregate, be such an improvident nation. Every French household aspires to a margin for the stocking or the funds at the end of its time, in an increased deficiency—and yet France is a pure democracy. Its parliaments, and therefore indirectly its ministers, are chosen by the most frugal peasantry and hourgeoisie—and working class—to be found in any country. What is the explanation of this inconsistency?

"L'Allemagne would some day become great women in Canada's public affairs. He said he had always been interested in developing the art of self-expression and war greatly delighted at the results obtained in Middleson. He thanked the payera," was his read answer to every perplexing financial conundrum al-though his successors in the ministry tained in Middlesex. He thanked the university for letting them use their buildings and ventured the opinion finance did not repeat his formula, buildings and ventured the opinion that the youth of Western Ontario were fortunate in having such a fine univerhey all acted on his assumption.

But here came the difficulty; as Ger any was not actually paying, what as to be done with the deficit? The answer was very simple. He has a wonderful tongue, the little one's throat.

Baby's Own Tablets have no drug taste, may be crushed to a powder if Briand do? He has a wonderful tongue, but his eloquence will not reach the pocket of the French peasant, let alone his hidden stocking. The French peasantry constitute half the population of France, but they only contribute a one-hundredth part of its taxation. If recent figures are to be credited, the contribution of the French agriculturists to the yield of revenue of income tax was only 95,000,000 francs in 1923—that would be less than 4,000,000 dollars. They pay desired, and babies like them. They are perfectly safe for they contain no opiate or narcotic. They sweeten the stomach and remove the cause of fretfulness. They pay less in indirect taxation than other citizens because they are mainly self-supporting as far as necessaries are concerned, and they have very few luxuries. Nevertheless, there is a method by which they are paying—by the depreciation of the value of their savings. "That night I dreamed some pretty tough have said. "Let's buy them three bolts of silk dreams, I can tell you."

What is to blame for the accidents? If the people of Canada paid out millions in taxes for gates at all crossings, as they are in England,

"The vast majority of our accidents and our scares," says Engineer Alexander Bond, who for thirty years has driven on the Toronto-Sarnia run and now is one of the crack drivers of the International, "occur not at night but in the daytime. Our great electric headlight seems to be sufficient warning at night. In the daytime nothing but caution will do. For it is the opinion of engineers generally that seventy-five per cent. of the people hit are fully aware of the approach of the train and are struck as the result of misjudgment or carelessness or recklessness in the face of danger. Perhaps not law is due. even twenty-five per cent. were struck not knowing the train was upon them.

Foolish "Jokes" of Motorists

This repudiation led Mah Chong to reserve his cel RECALL one day an open car coming at a fair speed towards the crossing. I had blown my whistle, but because it appeared to be a carload of girls I blew it again, for safety. Instead of slowing, the car put on speed. It was already too late for me to brake. We were hitting our top speed. All this happens, you must remember, in a flashing second or two. I was sick with the shock of it. I could scarcely look for fear. But as we rushed past my frozen below me and waving, having pulled their car up suddenly, as they had intended from the start, not fifteen feet from the train. "We get the shock, whether we hit or not." It is safe to say there is not an engineer of really long standing who has not hit something on a level crossing. He has excellent reason to

One engineer told of his worst accident. A car came to a stop at the crossing, the engineer watching, relieved of heart. The train bored on. Suddenly, to the horror of the engineer, he saw the car jerk into motion and start to cross after all, in low gear, apparently. Whether it was misjudgment of speed or whether the driver, flustered, had put his engine into gear; at any rate, the engineer and his mate felt the little bump which means that the 300-ton engine has struck the one-ton car. When they got stopped they found, on the pilot, a little boy of about five years, dead. The father and mother were in fields to right and left.

"There was only one man who could possibly under heaven, have averted that accident," said the engineer, a pathetic look on his face, in remembrance of that horror. "And it was not 1."

Thundering through, the great engine cannot dodge. Either it must travel at its modern speed railways must give up. And no matter whether the speed is sixty or twenty, the relative danger is still there.

What is the answer? In Untario alone, in 1924, 63 persons were killed and 132 non-fatally injured in level crossing collisions. Ontario alone. The figures for the present year, to date, are 43 killed and 132 injured, in Ontario alone. The National Railways supplies the Safety League with statistics as to all cars that crash through gates after they have been lowered. This year the number has been 70. So gates, in ense, are an actual menace, since a car that crashes gates stalls on the tracks, naturally. Several of the United States have adopted the "stop law" at all level crossings. That is, motor cars and other vehicles must come to an absolute stop at level crossings at all times, whether there is a train coming or not. This necessitates the car changing gear and crossing in low or second. It permits warning signals to be seen or heard.

What inconvenience, what injustice would the stop law do the motoring public? Ir a hundred miles of travel a man would have to stop at level crossings an average of half a dozen times. In the course of a day a motorist does stop and change gears half a dozen times merely from the ordinary hazards and chances of the road, either a hole in the pavement, a detour obstruction, a Would the stop-law be so great an inconvenience?

Over a hundred dead in the past two years seem to testify in Ontario alone that the stop-

"I mean what I say. Put 'em up or I'll shoot to kill," snapped the intruder.
Running through the manager's office, which was unoccupied at the time, into the counting-room, the other bandit held up eight girls who were counting the day's cash. He appeared nervous and used both hands to scoop the money into a bag he carried.

In the meantime, a company driver had slipped out the back door and raised an alarm. Just as the gunman was picking up the $7,000 payroll from another table, he heard the police scurrying in the rear door.

THEATRE ATTRACTIONS for the COMING WEEK

MANY GOOD SHOWS COMING TO GRAND

No. No Nanette, Rosie Marie and Student Prince Among Attractions.

Under the caption, "Mr. Hornblow Goes to the Play," the dramatic critic of the Theatre Magazine deals with various New York productions each month in a most entertaining manner and at the same time with perfect frankness. If he likes a play he doesn't hesitate to say so; if, on the other hand, he disapproves, the remarks are to the point. Each month he carries a list of worth-while productions under the title "Plays You Ought to See." Included in this list for the past year are a number of plays shortly to appear at the Grand opera house, and for that reason his comments are of interest locally. He says:

Is Zat So?-Genuinely funny comedy which no one who enjoys a laugh should Rose Marle—That rara avis, an intelligent musical play! Tuneful, beautiful and decent. The Student Prince-Delightful mu-The Student Prince—Defigitud musical version of the old Heidelburg play. Tuneful music, excellent singing and an unusually fine chorus.

Word was received here that No. No, Nanette would appear at the Grand

No, Nanette would appear at the Grand March 1, 2, 3. Rose Marie's engagement will be for a week, as will the engagement of The Student Prince.

The amazing popularity of Rose Marie happens to be extremely well jeserved. In fact a musical comedy has to possess extraordinary merits in comparison with similar productions of five years ago in order to meet the competition of radio, which in the larger cities has practically driven competition of radio, which in the larger cities has practically driven musical entertainments of the pleasant mediocre order out of business. To meet this competition producing managers must risk fortunes on spectacles of unique beauty and confine their activities to works that are of unusual musical appeal or they are doomed to musical appeal or they are doomed to musical appeal or they are doomed to failure. It is a case of spending money to get money. But when the lucky adventurer in theatrical enterprises happens to strike something worth while, neither radio nor anything else can diminish its success.

MIKADO AT BEST IN BRANDON SHOW

Gilbert and Sullivan Light Opera and the Bohemian Girl Are Coming.

The sparkle and smartness of the nperishable lyrics and music of the delightful old Gilbert and Sullivan operetta, The Mikado, has lost none of their original appeal as presented by Brandon Brothe's at the Grand opera house Monday and Tuesday next at 8:15, with Wednesday matinee, 2:15. The Bonemian Girl will be presented Wednesday night.

The audiences of music lover may anticipate genuine appreciation of the vocal ability of the artists, as well as the huge delight in the piquant satire and ingratiating melody that combine to make The Mikado one of the most enjoyable of the Gilbert and Sullivan peras.

Every one of the famous Gilbert characters is faithfully represented by an artist of ability, while the costuming and settings are rich and true to the and settings are rich and true to the period of the story. The singing, of course, is the outstanding merit of the performance. Principals and chorus have all voices of exceptional richness and power, and every one of the old gems are made to live again and are usually encored insistently. There will be romance as long a there are any Irish left.

Aside from Latins, the Irish are looked upon as the most romanti people of the earth, and, strange to say. Irish blood always clings to things romantic even after migration to alien soil and mixture with alien blood.

As the Irish colleen in Lights of Old Broadway, a Cosmopolitan production for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer directed by Monta Bell, playing at Loew's theatre on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, Marion Davies has the most romantic Miss Davies has read Irish history by the volume and she finds that from the early Irish manuscripts to present day history, Ireland has fairly reveled in romance. Mr. Brown said that a pupil in Grade VI had rated 8.4 in intelligence and 7.4 in education, and it was, therefore, a question whether he should go to Grade VIII or Grade VII. # FRUIT FIRM ENJOYS

Great Growth in 32 Years.

SMALL BEGINNING

Firm Started in London 1892—Imports From Many Countries.

Thirty-two years ago Cosimo Cataano, an immigrant from Sicily, sold fruit as a small dealer in London. Today the firm of Catalano & Sons wholesale fruit dealers, buy in carload each month. lots and send their fruit to city retailers in large amounts, transporting it in motor trucks.

Progress is especially in evidence when one can look at a prosperous firm doing a large business, and trace its origin to a humble beginning. It is also an intensely interesting human document when one can see the original founder of the business, learn how he got his start, the obstacles he had to MISS CHARLOTTE WHITTON, M.A. overcome, see the courage and ability secretary of the Child Welfare Council of Canada and leader of feminine with which they were overcome and as a possible member of the child then compare the present business with welfare committee of the League of the infant of past years.

This is the case with the wholesal fruit business of Catalano & Sons, which now stands in the new quarters at the corner of Bathurst and Richmond streets. The story of the growth of a slim seedling of the business world into a large, healthy, vigorous tree, nder the guidance of the man who rst conceived the dream and for 32 years worked to make it a reality, is the story of every hard working pioneer in any country and any realm.

Note:—Bonds of the Merchants Realty Corporation to the extent of $2.817,000.00 secured on premises leased to the Bank, are in the hands of the public. These bonds do not appear in the above Statement as the Eank is not directly liable therefor.

FREDERICK WILLIAMS-TAYLOR, VINCENT MEREDITH,

To the Shareholders of the Bank of Montreal.

We have compared the above Statement with the Books and Accounts of the Bank of Montreal at the Head Office, and with the certified Branch Returns. We have closelsed the cash am verified the investments and securities at the Head Office, and at several of the principal Branches of the Bank at the end of the financial year. We have likewise, at various dates throughout the year checked the cash and verified the securities at several important Branches.

We have to report that; (a) we have obtained all the information and explanations we have required; (b) in our opinion the transactions of the Bank, which have come under our notice, have

WORK OF FURNISHING HOME IS SIMPLIFIED

Chas. M. Quick Can Give Reliable Advice in Selection of Chairs, Chesterfields.

Too often the complete furnishing of he home is a matter that remains in he sphere of ambition—a big event that vill be brought about some time in he future when John is promoted to he general managership — while too often the surplus from the pay envelopes from day to day and from week o week passes out of the home for It is a

For 25 years Charles M. Quick of 523 Richmond street has been making chairs nd chesterfields, and doing upholstery epair work for the people of London. Because of his experience in this parcular field, Mr. Quick can give rene requirements of individual rooms, and in many other ways aid the house-He can show the advisability of add-He can show the advisability of adding single pieces here and there—an easy chair, perhaps, or an attractive chesterfield, or any one of many other necessary units. He can explain how a new piece of furniture tones up the entire atmosphere of the home and elevates a room from the commonplace to the attractive. Variety adds a spice of life here as elsewhere.

Labor Deputation Asks Education Board For Fair-Wage Clause in Contracts.

Much ado about nothing characterized sterday afternoon's meeting of the oard of education, called to deal with the petition of the trades and labor ouncil that a fair wage clause be inserted in all board of education contracts. Members of the board misundertood the representatives of the labor body, R. Foxeroft, J. F. Thomson, R. H. Hessel and W. Tite, while the trades ommittee seemed equally at a loss as to the arguments advanced by W. J. Murray and Chairman S. F. Lawrason for the board. R. H. Hessel asked the board for fair wage clause, and Mr. Murray replied that the wage matter for the east collegiate was up to John Putherbough, who employed his own help. Then Mr. Hessel complained that on the Empress avenue school job Mr. Putherbough had hired what he termed "cheap labor" in hiring 50-cent labor to build forms for pouring cement, when he should have used carpenters at a higher rate.

"You would do the same thing your self on a contract job. Neither Mr Putherbough or any contractor would be

"How do you sleep?"

"Not very well. Lots of nights I lie awake for hours, restless and fidgetty, thinking about everything, but not resting or sleeping."

"Have you consulted a doctor?"

"Yes. The doctor says I am anaemic; the blood is thin and watery, and the nervous system run down for want of proper nutrition."

"Are you taking any medicine?"

"No, not now; he gave me some tablets to make me sleep, but I had to keep on taking them, and I could not see that they were of any lasting benefit. I don't like drugging myself that way."

"Why don't you try Dr. Chase's Nerve Food?

"I don't know just why, unless it is be-ause I thought it was only for the nerves, whereas what I need is something to enrich the blood.'

"Well, that is exactly what Dr. Chase's Nerve Food does. It is only by enriching the blood that you can restore exhausted

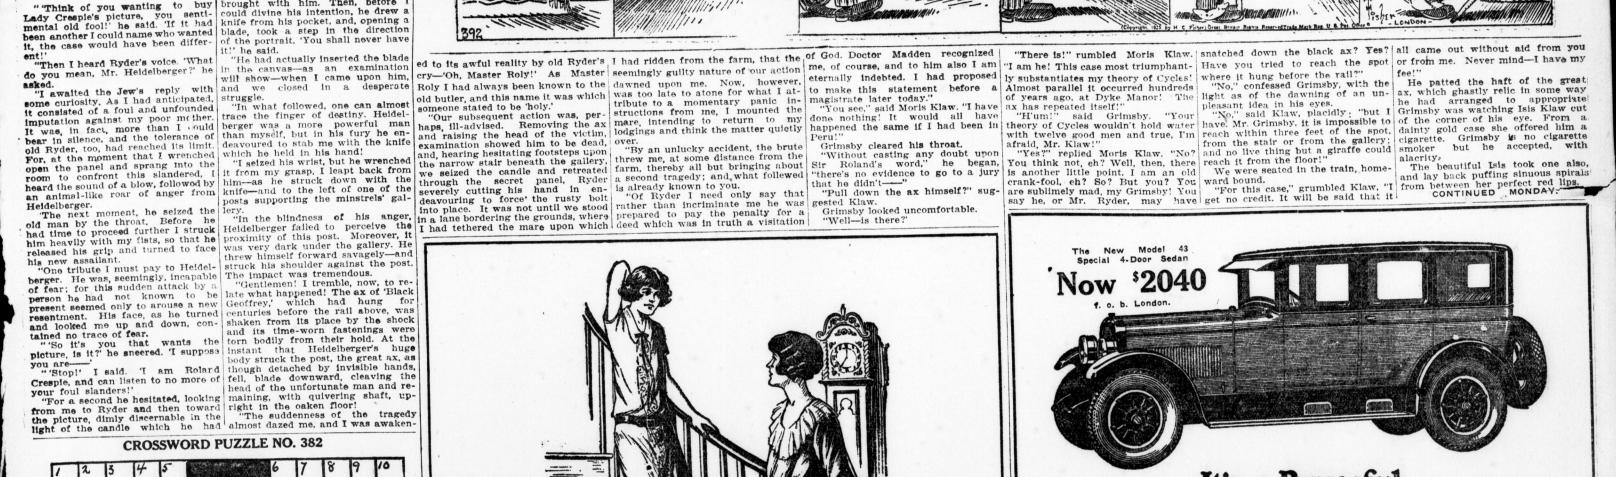

"Perhaps I should try it.

"I certainly would if I were you, for I know it is wonderful the way it helps some people who are anaemic and generally run down in health."

"I have no appetite, you know, and what I do eat does not seem to go to the improvement of the blood. When one gets in that condition it is most discouraging. This is why I have such blue days sometimes, and I do hope the Nerve Food will help me."

"I am sure you will not be disappointed, and if I were you I would not lose a day before getting started with this treat-

AN OPEN LETTER

To the Electors of the City of London:

London, Ontario, Nov. 28th, 1925.

MAYOR GEO. A. WENIGE

Dear Fellow Electors:

Once again I ask for your mandate in connection with the mayoralty of London. Let it be your purpose, before voting, to judge me on my record.

When I first went to the city hall as chief executive I found that friction existed, and that the civic employees were not working in harmony. Today there is a social service club in the city hall. The heads of the different departments get together at frequent intervals, and a newer, better efficiency has been born, with the result that the people of London are receiving a civic service economical to the last detail. What has taken place at the city hall has been duplicated in the police department, for there, too, harmony exists. A social service club is now in active operation, and the force is working day and night in the best interests

It is not necessary for me to tell you that the doors of the city hall are now wide open to every citizen, no matter whether he comes in overalls or a plug hat. A deaf ear is never turned to any message and clean, courteous consideration is accorded every request and inquiry.

First, last and all the time I have been a mayor for all the citizens in general and for no one in particular. When your mayor made four trips to Toron to to secure Provincial Government money for unemployment relief work there were those who laughed his trip to scorn, but money was secured and unemployment relieved. What I did once I shall do again and, in addition, I have the promise from Federal Government members for still further money for relief work. The question of unemployment is one of the vital, throbbing problems of the moment. Upon it I shall continue to concentrate every human effort.

Building always means employment. We are going to have a new hotel. Behind this project you found me from the time the first effort was put forth, and don't forget this-I was the first man to sign on the dotted line of the subscription list. More employment!

The completion of the river clean-up is the first big step toward the beautification of the Thames. We must not cease from our labors in connection with this impressive project. In 1926, as in 1925, you will find me for it all the time. More employment!

Carling Creek, a menace for years, is being cleaned up, tiled and covered. Your mayor was the prime mover in this plan for civic betterment, and the work will be carried on. More employment.

In the University of Western Ontario we have an educational institution that should be placed upon the most solid financial basis. When the question of annual grants was being discussed every atom of my energy and enthusiasm was for this system of making the University a strong force in the life of London and Western Ontario.

The Western Fair must be improved year by year. Starting with a campaign for five tickets for a dollar and continuing my work for this greatenterprise year after year, I find myself still doing things for the broadening of the scope of this marvelous exhibition. More employment!

You know the work that has been done in connection with the storm sewer system in South London. Many tiles have been put in the ground already, and, remember this, that tiles that are now on top of the ground will be put in the ground this winter. More employment!

The Centennial celebration in 1926 is an event upon which every last ounce of civic pride, business acumen and powerful publicity should be brought to bear. The reputation of the Forest City will be at stake all over the North American continent. Already a committee is at work carrying out preliminary plans. In a personal way your mayor has secured the names and addresses of over 30,000 men and women who have affectionate associations with London. Interest has been aroused in Rotary, Kiwanis and Lions' Clubs and in Chambers of commerce all over Canada and the United States, with the result that local papers are carrying stories that will echo and re-echo, the news of the Centennial from one end of this continent to the other. You know my record in connection with the last Old Boys' celebration. A twenty-four-hour-a-day service to the visitors within our gates. Figure out what it means to you to have thousands upon thousands of visitors come to London every day for a solid week and then make up your mind as to whether I am the man to take on this job again and put it over in a way that will excite the warmest admiration in and out of London and permit us, as hosts, to shine in the reflected glory of a particularly successful Centennial.

There is much unfinished business requiring attention in 1926 and from day to day I shall have more to say about the work to be done. Now, as heretofore, I give my word that it will be attended to with that careful, precise and generous measure of co-operation with which you are so familiar.

Very truly yours,

S.a. Menige.
